

Rangers Will Try to Corral Wild Broncos Bulldogs Dumped 24-14 by Coleman 'Cats'

ROAMING THRU RANGER WITH RON... By Ronald Waters

SLANG is here to stay. And Ranger certainly has its share of "slang-slingers". Now, some of these English profs may not give it—but slang is a cool way to dig a dialogue.

At the Teen Town shindigs when the jumping really gets hot—you gotta stay on the ball, man, or else bury your head in the sand. Because to stay up with this lingo, you really got to be hep, sharp and all that jazz. No?

FIRST we played the Bearcats and then we played the Bluecats. And both games were tough for the "Dogs". (Queens and cats seem to be "the most" in the news.)

CHANGES on the scene—include the purchase of C. E. May Insurance and Real Estate recently by W. J. Sipes. Glad to have Sipes amongst us, because he holds promise of being a real civic leader.

RANGER is getting a black eye by area newsmen. Perhaps you missed the following comment made by Jimmy Browder of the Abilene Reporter-News:

OLDEN—While interest still centers around football in most Eastland County schools Olden's Hornets, always a power on the basketball court, have already opened play.

Both the boys and the girls got off to a slow start, however. The boys, who lost all but one man off last year's team, suffered setbacks at the hands of Eula, Lingville, Santo and Abilene Christian High. They broke into the win streak in their last outing, however, downing a good Huckabay team.

Ranger Faced With '13' Jinx

Ranger Bulldogs could not overcome a "13" jinx which was hexed by the Coleman Bluecat's Quarterback, Jerry Harris, Friday night in Coleman as the Bluecats upset the local team 24-14.

Harris, who was No. 13, trounced all over the field picking up 122 yards in 20 plays, or an average of six yards per play. He accounted for two of Coleman's touchdowns and appeared to be the most outstanding quarterback the Bulldogs have seen this season.

Following an 8-8 deadlock in the first half, the "Cats" roared back to drop the "Dogs" in a District 7-AA contest. The Bulldogs attempted a comeback late in the fourth quarter, but failed to make the score read more than 24-14.

A fumble hurt the Bulldogs in the first half and time halted one of their charging drives. Again, fumbles plagued the team in the second half—with Coleman recovering on their 22 and 35. But Coleman's covering its own punt was too much, and gave the Bluecats their final score.

In other district contests, Cisco blasted Winters 30-6 to reach the play-offs, and Ballinger blanked Eastland 33-0. The game marked Ranger's third consecutive loss in district play.

Ranger's first touchdown was made by End Charles Wolford, who intercepted a pass and romped 65 yards for the tally. Lee King, quarterback, passed to Jerry Anderson, halfback to tie the score at 8-8.

The second touchdown was made when Anderson connected with a 45-yard pass from King, but the extra point try failed.

Coleman received the ball on the kick-off and marched down field, with three first downs and four runs by Harris. A pass fell incomplete to set the Ranger team up on their own 38.

The Bulldogs made their way down to the Coleman 20, picking up three first downs, and tried a "long-shot" with a field goal, which was unsuccessful.

Harris and Coleman came back, starting a drive that materialized into a touchdown in the next quarter. Harris ran with the ball four times in succession at one point.

Second Quarter It was the second verse of the same tune in the second quarter, as Harris made his way down from the 30 to the 3 running seven successive plays and across the goal line.

His pass to Pat DeBusk, fullback, was good to make it 8-0. Ranger briefly took the ball and then punted. The Bluecats took the ball and then passed. Terry Lee, Terry Melton, Johnny Vasquez, Benny Harris, Alvin Chestnut, Billy Young, Alfred Hutchins, and a host of other good players who saw action throughout the game.

Young Downs Cisco 32-12

The Young School Small Dogs, clad in flashy red and white uniforms, played a return engagement with a group of future Cisco Lobos at Bulldog Field Thursday afternoon. Six or seven hundred highly-partisan Ranger fans attended the game that was dubbed as a Young School homecoming.

The hapless Cisco 11 absorbed a 32-12 bombardment at the hands of hard-charging, precision blocking, gang-tackling Young School Small Dogs with all of the enthusiasm that a farmer is said to welcome a dust storm.

The entire Young School team moved with such precision a 40 effective timing to make their five touchdowns seem almost effortless. Young School's first tally came on a right-end sweep by L. H. Pounds from the Cisco 35. This scoring was followed in rapid succession by payoff runs by Lee Ausburne and Ray Newham.

Numerals 33 and 44 (Butch Seymour and Melton Kennedy) became very familiar figures in front of every ball-carrying effort along with the fine blocking of Gilbert Nail, Bob Townsen, Billy Lee, Terry Melton, Johnny Vasquez, Benny Harris, Alvin Chestnut, Billy Young, Alfred Hutchins, and a host of other good players who saw action throughout the game.

First Part of '59 'Ranger' Sent To Publishers

Editors and business managers of the "Ranger", yearbook of Ranger College, have completed and sent to the publisher the first quote of layouts for the 1959 book. Meeting their first deadline four weeks early, they hope, by meeting all other deadlines, for early delivery of the 1959 "Ranger", possibly by the last of April.

The book will carry out a western theme with art work done by Charles Honney. Layouts completed include the first 37 pages of the book, comprising the buildings and the faculty and class sections.

Tough Game Faces Injured R C Team

When the "rough-riding" Rangers try to take the "wild" bunch of "bucking" Broncos of New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell, N. M., tonight—fans will know they're seeing a football game at least as exciting as a rodeo.

Ranger will enter the game with a 4-3 season record, coming up against a tough team that has downed seven opponents. For the second successive week the Rangers are matched against one of the top junior college teams in the nation, and they are being careful to avoid injuries.

Head Coach David Slaughter said, "We're badly crippled with injuries," and then he added, "We can beat this game—as we can win any game—if we really want to."

Both Slaughter and Coach Jim Luryan stated that injuries would be prevented as much as possible in this game. The Rangers are heavily crippled, with more players on the injured list than they've had at any time this season.

Out of the game is Doug Roark, right guard for the first unit, with a knee injury; Quarterback Jack Waggoner, on the second unit, with an injured arm; and Tackles Wiley Wyman and Don Gosenfelder, both with injured knees. Bill Phillips, halfback on the second unit, is on the limited action list.

Before leaving Friday morning, the Rangers demonstrated plenty of determination to win. They are expected to return to Ranger late Sunday, after the battle.

Next week, the Rangers will face a team from Blinn Junior College in a game that may determine whether they will take first or second place in the Texas Conference.

The Rangers will be somewhat limited by Federated Rules, in New Mexico, which give only one point after touchdown. The rules also allow for free substitution, and state that a fumble is a free ball. The ball can be killed any where on the field, following a punt.

The Broncos boast of the leading ground gainer in the nation—Dick Angel, halfback, who has averaged 196 yards per game this season.

Pecans now being harvested in the area should be saved for the sixth annual Pecan Show to be staged in Ranger next month. They may be taken in one-quarter containers to the Chamber of Commerce office.

Remodeling of the Paramount Hotel, now in progress, will give the finished building a Western look, according to an announcement from George Burke, new manager and owner.

Burke, who took formal charge of the hotel on Oct. 26, expects to hold the formal opening in about 60 days. He said the whole hotel will reflect the Western motif. On display in the Coffee shop, to be renamed the Brand Room, will be copies of brands from this area and region with pictures of livestock.

Burke indicated that he would shorten the name to the Par Hotel, with the slogan, "Park your car at the Par and eat in the Brand Room."

He is planning to have a meeting place for the petroleum club, to be organized, on the third floor of the hotel. Burke has invited anyone connected with the oil or gas industries in the area to contact him if interested in forming the club.

Burke came to Ranger from West Texas, where he has been connected with the oil and cattle industries. He has owned ranches around Seminole County. His wife owns a kennel in Spokane, Washington.

Transaction was completed Sept. 26 with Miss E. C. Schwabe of Rotan, former owner. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones, former managers, have moved from Ranger.

About 55 over-night rooms and 10 apartments are being refurnished, Burke said. Storage room has been reclaimed, walls are being repainted and new furniture is being placed in the hotel.

Another type business will move in, at a later date, where the Ranger Jewelry Co. is now located.

Burke is a member of the Lions Club, a former member of the board of directors of the Seminole Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the Methodist Church.

Soup's Surprise Ingredient for Stuffing Recipe

Soup in any of several varieties is a fine first course for the holiday meal. Surprise for the family is a new taste treat supplied by use of soup in stuffing for the turkey.

For your holiday turkeys and poultry, try stuffings that use condensed soups as a major ingredient. They're surprisingly delicious and certainly new.

Mushroom Stuffing
One-half cup chopped onion, 1 cup chopped celery, 1/4 cup butter or margarine, 1 cup sliced, ripe olives, 8 cups dry bread cubes, 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup, 1/4 cup milk.

In skillet, cook onion and celery in butter until tender. Combine with olives, bread cubes, and poultry seasoning. Stir 1/2 can soup with milk until smooth; pour over bread cube mixture; mix lightly.

This makes about 8 cups stuffing, or enough for an 8-pound turkey. Use remaining 1/2 can soup to make gravy by blending soup with 2 tablespoons drippings; heat.

If you prefer the flavor and texture of corn bread crumbs, try this stuffing made with canned condensed cream of chicken soup and packaged corn muffin, or corn bread mix.

Corn Bread Stuffing
This makes about 8 cups stuffing or enough for an 8-pound turkey.

One-half cup chopped onion, 2 cups chopped celery, 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, 5 cups corn bread crumbs (one 12-ounce package corn muffin mix baked as directed), 3 cups dry bread cubes, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup, 1/4 cup milk.

In skillet, cook onion and celery in butter until tender. Combine with corn bread crumbs, bread cubes, and poultry seasoning. Blend soup and milk; pour over bread mixture and mix lightly.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

At the State Capitol in Nashville there is a bronze statue of Edward Ward Carmack, one of the most brilliant men of the South in his day. He was a member of the United States Senate from 1901 to 1907. I did not move to Tennessee until 1910, which was two years after Carmack's assassination.

He had made a race for governor, a bitter contest which he lost. The Memphis Commercial Appeal, which he had formerly edited, opposed him in that campaign, and I recall that a schoolmate in Central High quoted the headline which "The C. A." had carried next morning after Carmack and his opponent had debated in Memphis. Carmack, who had red hair, was an eloquent and vigorous speaker—sometimes scathing, and had been given the nickname of "Red Wolf."

One day when Sterling Wolf and I were in the Cozitt Library, we looked in the old newspaper files and, sure enough, clear across the top of the front page, were the words just as he had quoted them, "Red Wolf goes to bed."

When I was a reporter on the Commercial Appeal in 1916, as we set around at 1:45 a.m. waiting for the first copies of the final edition, an oldtimer related that when Carmack was the editor, he was for Bryan and silver and the owner was for McKinley and gold. Rather than write editorials which did not represent his own convictions, Carmack resigned.

Plowin' Under the "Sorry Land"

This is the "sorry land." As rancher Dolph Briscoe says, "We'll either turn this country into a desert or we can make it the most productive grass land in the world."

This is the giant root plow. Specially designed and mounted on Allis-Chalmers tractors it cuts deep into the earth to uproot the brush.

Today rich, new grass has replaced the brush that covered the 100,000-acre Briscoe Ranch.

All in one operation the tractor's dozers knock down the brush, root plows sever the brush roots and new grass seed is planted.

Tall, cattle-producing grass is growing again in South Texas.

The reason? A pioneering soil conservation and reclamation project called root plowing and rangeland seeding is plowing under and seeding hundreds of thousands of acres of South Texas.

It could mean that an area in Texas as large as the State of Tennessee will be plowed and seeded. An area, much of which has never before been broken by a plow.

But today in areas where ambitious cattlemen and construction machinery contractors have gone to work with new ideas to lick the long-standing problem of the brush, they have succeeded. The brush is gone and cattle stand thigh-high in a sea of tall, rich grass.

Experiments began several years ago when cattlemen realized the drought and resulting brush infestation had nearly eliminated the growth of native grasses and turned the soil into a baked, eroded rangeland that would support only one steer for every fifty acres.

Many remedies were tried. Heavy cable chains were attached to teams of crawler tractors to chain the brush down in huge swaths. Big rotating steel-bladed implements six-feet in height were drawn by tractors to chop the brush down. Deep discing was tried. So was burning. They all failed. Then, after a number of modifications, construction machinery contractors and an Allis-Chalmers dealer, working with cattlemen and conservationists, developed a wide-angling root plow.

They proved this plow, pulled by powerful tractors, could bite through the baked earth to the depth necessary to completely uproot and kill the mesquite and cactus.

On the Briscoe and Gates ranches near Catarina, Texas in the heart of the "sorry land" this plow, together with a new combination of grass seeds, has brought about a dramatic transformation in the landscape of South Texas.

Almost a year ago on these two sprawling ranches, big Allis-Chalmers crawler tractors equipped with dozers, 12-foot wide root plows and unique grass seeders went to work on the first large scale job of this immense soil conservation project.

On the 100,000-acre Briscoe Ranch, 70,000 acres have now been root-plowed and seeded. To do this giant plowing job Southwestern Construction company used six crawler tractors and two crews of tractor operators working around the clock, six days a week over a period of several months. Likewise on the adjoining 83,000-acre Gates Ranch, four crawler tractors and eight operators plowed under and seeded a 15,000-acre test plot.

In the same operation a specially attached seeder utilized draft from the tractor's fan to blow seed over the plowed earth. This unusual seeding operation spread a combination of blue panicum and buffel grass seed at the rate of four pounds per acre. The seed combination was also the result of much experimentation. Neither grasses were native to the area. Blue panicum owes its origin to Australia, buffel to South Africa. Within a few months the grass proved its virtues of quick germination, its ability to develop deep root-systems.

Today, both quality and quantity range grass that will hold the soil and the moisture, reproduce itself and prohibit the recurrence of the "sorry land" covers the root-plowed rangelands of the Briscoe and Gates ranches.

The transformation has meant that instead of grazing one steer for every 50 acres under brushland conditions, the South Texas cattlemen will be able to graze one steer for every eight to ten acres.

When it is considered that 25 to 30-million acres of South Texas could be subjected to this conservation treatment—plus great areas across the Rio Grande in Mexico and others spread across Southwestern United States—it proves the statement of H. H. Cook of the Soil Conservation Service at Laredo, Texas, "This is the biggest soil conservation program ever undertaken in this country."

Bulldogs—

The ball changed hands three times with Ranger starting a drive late in the quarter, only to be stopped by the clock.

Third Quarter

Following impressive half-time shows by both bands during which the Ranger Bulldog Band gave a "TV Western" skit, the game continued. So did the Bluecats.

Ranger took the ball and rolled down the field, promising to develop a threat, but a pass was intercepted and returned 11 yards. This set the Bluecats up on the Coleman 42, and they made their way down to the Ranger 35.

From there it was Fullback Pat DeBusk, another powerhouse of the district, who broke loose to run all the way for another TD. Harris ran for the extra points to make it 16-8.

Ranger made their way up from the Coleman 46 to the 22 before being stopped by a fumble.

Fourth Quarter

Coleman's drive was soon halted, however, and their punt fell dead on the Ranger 30.

In an attempted comeback the Bulldogs took to the air, completing three passes out of five, but lost their chance when Coleman recovered a fumble on their own 35.

Coleman's drive was launched all the way, as the team rambled down three first downs and completed their only pass of the night. When their attack bogged down, the Coleman team punted and quickly recovered their own punt, setting up Harris on the Bulldog 3.

From there he plunged over and then ran for the extra point, making it 24-8.

Ranger returned the kickoff 12-yards and then roared into action from their own 42. Taking to the air, they made their way down to the Coleman 45.

Anderson caught a 45-yard pass from King, in the end zone, good for the final tally. The pass attempt was no good, and the Bluecats held a firm lead.

Assisting in the press box, in alternating halves, were J. B. O'Shields, Tim Covington and Gene White.

Lions Club Hears Music

Ranger's Lions Club heard members of the music department at Ranger College performed Thursday noon.

Al Lotspeich, who introduced the program, announced that the college Christmas program would be held Friday, Dec. 12, in the auditorium.

Forrest Hall played "Trumpet's Lullaby" as the first part of the program. He was followed by Ronald Jumper, who performed "Stars in the Velvet Sky" on the trombone.

Members of the Girl's Trio—consisting of Glenda Givens, Paula Angus and Jimmie May Miller—sang "Blue Moon" and "Sleep". Mrs. Lotspeich accompanied the groups on the piano.

President Charles Milliken announced that the local club should send a needy child to the Crippled Childrens Home in Kerrville, sponsored by the state Lions Club.

A brief directors meeting was held, later, in the hospital room of Lion Joe Dennis.

Young School—

This was the final game in a very successful season by the Small Dogs, and the look-like-Oklahoma Small Dogs are the uncrowned champions of an area roughly outlined by Wiles Canyon and the Callahan Divide.

The Ranger Junior High School Band appeared at the game under the direction of Dan Whitaker. The Young School cheering section, no less colorful than their counterparts on the field, presented a half-time routine, and sang their school song.

who have priority over a visiting sports writer—such as the newspapermen from the two competing cities, the public address announcer, scoreboard operator and school cameramen. Don't know who those other 14 characters were.

Also see that the Cisco Press was shut out of the press box. I talked with Jimmy at half-time to offer him a seat up there, but he seemed too indignant to accept.

This situation seemingly arose from the fact that scouts and spotters are given precedent over area newsmen. And, generally, you have to arrive early to get a spot in the press box.

Only solution I see is to place someone in charge of the box, giving newsmen precedence over scouts.

VIRGIL MOORE—(that's a bad word around here) is sharpening his pen already, getting ready for an exchange of "word-battles". Fortunately for AWE Moore, the pen is mightier than the sword!

Twice as Many Pecan Entries Are Hoped For

R. V. "Rip" Galloway, manager of the Chamber of Commerce hopes to have twice as many local area pecan entries in this year's pecan show to be held in December.

Ranger totaled 65 entries, out of 250, in last year's show held at Cisco.

Pecan growers with just a few trees can enter their best pecans, Galloway indicated. An entry, consisting of one-quart of choice pecans, can be made for each variety.

Pecan harvesting is now under way, in the area, Galloway said.
