

As I Meet Ranger

By Gene Townsend

There is a sign at the Lakeside Country Club at Eastland that states that anyone making a hole in one shot on the 175 yard number three hole will receive a pair of golf shoes from a local merchant. Wallace Johnson of Ranger almost collected a pair of shoes Saturday. In fact he came so close that we decided that he should get one shoe anyway. The ball was less than an inch from the hole. Then the next day, Sunday, another Ranger golfer hit one to within four inches of the hole. But I don't think that there is any need for the merchant to get those shoes out ready to give them away. There hasn't been a hole in one on that hole in over five years.

There was a fellow in a few days ago talking about football and said that there was too much publicity given to the backfield men and not enough given to the linemen. I am inclined to agree with him. In all the papers there is always good publicity on the backs scoring touchdowns, and very seldom does it mention the boys that cleared the way for those backs to run. I am guilty of the same thing. It is hard to watch the play in the line and the backs carrying the ball too. Naturally anyone is going to watch the ball, and want to see what is going on at other places on the field. But I believe that all will agree that more credit should be given to the linemen in helping make those touchdowns.

Wayne White of the Staff community was in the office a few days ago and predicted rain. He said that the basis that he was making his prediction on was the beginning of peanut harvest. He began to harvest his peanuts Monday. That is likely one of the first peanut crops in the county to be harvested.

The College has got a new assistant coach. It is seldom that anyone will see the combination of Art Major and Football Coach combined. I understand that the new coach is a fine artist and has had showings of his work on exhibit. Also some of you will remember the name Gene Babb as a champion gold-gloves boxer. I am sure that he will make Ranger College a (Continued On Page Three)

Getting Married Will Be Harder Job After Oct. 15

Getting married in Eastland County won't be quite as easy for juveniles after Oct. 15.

County Clerk Johnson Smith says he plans to carry out "to the letter of the law" House Bill 48 passed by the 56th Legislature. The new law goes into effect on that date.

Under the new law both parties must appear at the clerk's office to obtain their marriage license. Both must present documentary evidence proving their name and age (such as their birth certificate, driving license, etc.) as well as proof of blood tests.

The clerk then has to make a written statement showing the age and name of the parties who he issues the license to, and stating that he has seen their true name and age on some documentary piece of evidence.

If the boy is under 21, or the girl is under 18 they must be accompanied by their parents or guardian. In case of illness, a doctor's certificate can be given the clerk, showing that the parent or guardian is sick. The license must then be on file for three days before a juvenile can legally marry.

Allman had an out of town judge to help with the judging of the girls that tried out for majorettes, also the attitude and scholastic records were considered as well as performance with the baton, in the selection of the majorettes. ## Twenty-One Farm Ponds Built In County In July

(Editor's Note: The following article was prepared by members of the Eastland Soil Conservation staff.)

Livestock farmers and ranchers of this area continue to construct good farm ponds for two fold purpose. First, ponds are generally the most practical source of livestock water, and second, well located ponds are essential in order to get control of livestock and grazing.

Twenty-one ponds have been completed since July 1 and five ponds are now nearing completion. Landowners of the Cisco area who have built ponds are E. M. Beaton, T. C. Cozart, Albert Hansen, J. R. Mitchum, J. H. Perry, J. G. High, Roy Adams and A. V. Cagle.

Ponds in the Eastland area include J. D. Vance, Tip Arthur, Waverly Blussengale, J. C. Hartack, Paul Triplet and H. H. Durham. Carbon landowners completing ponds are G. O. Warren, L. N. Koen, Rufus Been and M. A. Olson. E. F. Perch of Ranger has also constructed a farm pond.

Farm ponds are one of the most popular and useful conservation practices; yet they are like gurus, they must be treated with due precautions. For example, the second largest accidental death loss on farms and ranches in our nation is caused by drowning. Two out of the loss of life are those of children. More than 300,000 ponds have been constructed on the farms and ranches of the nation. Approximately 64,000 new ponds were completed last year.

The local SCS work unit at Eastland checked out 104 completed ponds last year and have

County Budget Hearing Is Set For Sept. 15

Eastland County Commissioners Monday set Sept. 15 as the date for the annual budget hearing. The hearing will be held in the commissioners courtroom beginning at 10 a.m.

Commissioners also hear a delegation from the Gorman area asking the Court to do what they could to get a farm-market road built from Funkin Center into Gorman. George Bennett was spokesman for the group and he said he believed that roads should serve the people and not idle land.

averaged nearly 100 completed ponds each year since 1951. Each landowner is encouraged to make his farm pond safe and prevent drownings. Some safety precautions might well include the following rules:

Final determination of the support price for 1959 crop peanuts at a national average level of $193.50 per ton average grade was announced recently by the United States Department of Agriculture.

This national average support, which is 75 percent of the August 1959 parity price of $258.00 per ton, is the same as the "minimum pre-planting" support price announced on March 4, 1959 and also the same as the interim support price announced July 1, 1959 pending issuance of the crop production report on August 11.

The announcement of the final level of support was made following a recalculation of the supply percentage as provided by the Agriculture Act of 1949 and a relating of that supply percentage to the effective parity price for peanuts for August 1959. The effective parity price for peanuts is the same for August as it was for March, when the "minimum pre-planting" support price was announced, and the apparent supply of peanuts for the marketing year is now somewhat larger than was anticipated at that time. Consequently, the "minimum pre-planting" support price of $193.50 per ton becomes a national average support price for 1959 peanuts.

Final support prices by type for 1959 crop quota peanuts are the same as those announced on July 1, 1959. These are as follows:

Virginia type — $205.50
Runner type — 180.64
Southeast Spanish type — 197.90
Southwest Spanish type — 189.83
Valencia type suitable for cleaning & roasting — 200.94

Merchants Plan Fall Campaign

Ranger merchants launched the annual Fall Campaign Monday night at a meeting of the Trade Extension Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The meeting was of the committee and the merchants of Ranger.

A general discussion of ideas was held, then definitely set by the committee were three Fall shopping days. September 25 and 26 will be the first which will be called Fall Shopping Days. Next will be October 23 and 24 which will be called Harvest Shopping Days. November 20 and 21 will be set for Thanksgiving Shopping Days.

The Christmas lights are to go on Thanksgiving night, November 26th. And Santa Claus will be in Ranger November 27. Plans are being made for Santa to be carried up Main Street in a fire truck, with the High School and College Bands leading it. The Rangemans will proceed the parade.

The group also decided to decorate the vacant windows again this year. Merchandise will be displayed by merchants off Main St. R. V. "Rip" Galloway, manager of the chamber of commerce, said. Last year, this did more to improve the looks of Main Street than anything else.

A committee was named to contact all Ranger merchants to ask for cooperation in the campaign, that this may be the most successful fall season that Ranger has ever had.

Commercial State's First President Still On Job At Age of 74

O. D. Dillingham, first president of the Commercial State Bank of Ranger, is still on the job at 74. Mention retirement to him and you will get a tolerant smile in reply. He will tell you he's thought about it — and then he'll go right back to work.

His work is the management of his interest in eight banks, two farms, three radio stations, a lumber company, two gas producing companies, a refrigeration manufacturing firm, a major dairy foods corporation and real estate throughout West Texas.

Dillingham organized the Commercial State Bank with a group of Ranger citizens to give the ailing West Texas city what he considered a solid financial institution. "I told them that the banks were run by local people with local capital, they'd be solid," Dillingham recalls. "I had to go out of town for a few days, and when I got back, I found out I was president of the bank."

Dillingham came to Ranger in 1922 after building up a successful coal, ice, automobile and petroleum business in Winters. He operated the Texas Company dealership in Winters. He expanded his coal and ice business through purchases of existing plants and construction of new facilities throughout West Texas, adding a dairy products line when he moved to Abilene in 1926. Dairy products became his principal business as gas and electric refrigerators replaced iceboxes in homes and stores. Dillingham built a chain of dairies through West Texas, incorporating them as Banner Dairies in 1936. He then merged Banner Dairies with Foremost Dairies in 1955.

Born in Columbus, Ky., in 1885, Dillingham came to Texas with his family in 1906. He took his first job at an ice plant in 1906, and was plant manager within a year.

Family life and civic work have come in for their share of Dillingham's time. A Rotarian for 27 years, Dillingham serves on the board of Hardin - Simmons University and Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene. He is a deacon and president of a Sunday school in Dallas Park Cities Baptist Church.

Dog Catcher Starts Today

A city dog catcher will start work today picking up dogs that don't have a license. All dogs that are picked up will be taken to the City Pound and kept for three days. Anyone wishing to reclaim their dog must pay one dollar before they can get their dog out of the pound.

There is a city ordinance that states that all dogs within the city limits must be vaccinated and licensed. If anyone has failed to have this done and miss their dog, they can probably find him at the City Pound.

Child Killed In Cisco Monday

A two-year-old girl was killed instantly in Cisco Monday 11 a.m. Monday, when she fell from a pickup truck, and was crushed beneath the wheels of a trailer house which came up from behind.

The child was killed at the intersection of Ave. D and U. S. Highway 80.

The victim was Debra Ann Biley, daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. Henry M. Biley. They were enroute to White Sands, New Mexico where Sgt. Biley had recently been transferred from Alabama.

Investigators said Biley was stopping for a red light at the intersection when the pickup deer jarred open and the little girl fell out.

The body will be sent to Richmond, Va., former home of the family, Tuesday by Hammer Funeral Home.

Funeral services are pending, but will be held in St. Benedict Catholic Church in Richmond, under the direction of Biley Funeral Home.

Debra Ann was born Jan. 8, 1957, in Augsburg, Germany.

Uncovered Sugar

By GENE TOWNSEND

Mrs. Cuban Perry has been writing a column each Tuesday which all of you know is called Covered Sugar. She usually has something good to say about Ranger and its citizens. Mrs. Perry is on vacation this week and I am going to write a column in place of Covered Sugar, which will be called Uncovered Sugar, because it points out something that is not good about Ranger.

Ranger is trying to be a progressive city, in fact right at this time, plans are being made for promoting fall shopping and plans for the coming holiday season are being made. All the store windows will be dressed up with the latest fall fashions, and decorations will be made inside the stores to make them look their best for getting customers to come in and shop.

Every year in the spring the city has a spring clean up campaign. This is for the purpose of cleaning up the trash and accumulated waste that has been discarded throughout the year. After this campaign the city looks real good for a few months, but soon the grass and weeds start growing and lots that are not taken care of become grown up in grass and weeds and become an eyesore to the city.

While all these plans are being made to dress up the store windows and interiors, some plans should be made to do something about the vacant lots right in the shopping district, that have become grown up with weeds and grass, and paper and trash have accumulated to make these vacant lots a sorry looking mess.

What should be done about this? Who should handle the cleaning up of these lots? I don't know, but if everyone will just look around the next time they are driving around town I believe the people of this town will see that something needs to be done about it.

It doesn't only look bad for the town to have these spots right in the business district, but it also creates a fire hazard to the whole town. People coming in on a bus has to get out right by a lot grown up higher than a man's head. There are lots all over the business district that need attention.

Some of the property owners are out of town people and are unaware of the situation. But some of them are right here in Ranger and should look around and notice the condition that they have let their property get in.

I ask again, what should be done? It is not for me to say, I can only make suggestions which may or may not be worth while. The situation should be brought before the city commission, and I am sure that they could work out a plan whereas the situation could be cleared up satisfactorily to all concerned.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

Resting in the little town of Cotulla in the Winter of 1920-21, with nothing to do, I began to observe my fellow guests in the hotel and probably that was the beginning of a life-long practice of studying other people. Mainly the guests were traveling salesmen. I can still clearly recall some of them.

One was broad-shouldered, with long arms, and he walked in a loose-jointed way—his name was Wellman.

Three were named Magee—two of them brothers and the other a son (and nephew, of course). The brothers had differed in the recent governor's race and the one who had supported Neff had a story he told to discomfort the Bailey supporter. The young man had been briefly, an actor and he had recently seen the New York stage sensation, "The Bat," the first—and one of the best—of the many mystery dramas.

Then there was a short, heavy-set man named Hackenjos, whose home—as I recall—was in Uvalde.

Then one whom I remember most vividly was there only once—for a stay of three days. He was handsome, widely read, had an excellent voice and was a delightful conversationalist. The fact that he hailed from Tennessee and that I had lived in Memphis gave us something in common. His name was F. W. Williams and his old home town was Povo, Tenn.

He spoke of the vast store of information that Mike Connolly possessed. Colonel Connolly for years was editor of the Memphis News-Scimitar and he had crossed swords with Brann the Iconoclast.

"I wanted to know who wrote a poem and I had written to the Boston Transcript and the New York Sun, but without success," the traveling man said. "One day, I met Mike Connolly and asked him; he instantly told me who wrote it."

"What was the name of the poem?" I inquired, casually.

"It starts off, 'I'd rather live in Bohemia—'" he replied.

"Didn't John Boyle O'Reilly write that?"

At my remark, his mouth popped open and his eyes bulged. All the others in the room turned and looked at me, and I was sorry I had spoken.

"Yes," he said finally.

It just happened that I had read the poem not long before and the author's name stuck in my mind—but my reputation as an authority on literature was there after firmly established in the Cotulla hotel lobby.

While Williams was there, one young "drummer" irritated everyone by claiming to have seen something more remarkable than the mountain, waterfall or whatever which had been the subject of the incident just told; and he had—by his own account—been the friend and advisor of any celebrity whose name was mentioned.

Williams was wearing an elk's tooth as a watch-chain and his young man commented that he had shot elks in the Canadian wilds with teeth twice as large.

Williams began, in an idle manner, "We all know of course about the California gold rush in 1849; and about the Great Salt Lake where you can not sink; and also that the travelers on the treeless

"We crossed the plains in other days; We bathed in Salt Lake's brine; We hurried that stuff You're peddling now— In 1849."

The brash young man was quiet thereafter.

The latest bit of humor... The home town boy, who had made good in a big way with the Atomic Energy Commission and was famous as a great scientist, returned to his home town. He was greeted with banners, a band, and conducted to the village hall, where the village president, with much fanfare, introduced him. During his short talk about science, in making a point, he stopped to observe:

"Now all of you probably know what a molecule is?"

The village president, anxious to show that he had kept abreast of the times and the latest developments, said: "I believe most of us do, but maybe you'd better explain them for the benefit of those who haven't been up in one."

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

TAKING THE FIFTH AMENDMENT
You have read of someone's "taking the Fifth". Why does our constitution let people—some involved in crimes—keep or refusing to answer questions put to them in our courts, investigating committees, and government agencies?

Because no man can be called on to accuse himself or give evidence against himself. Where did this rule come from? From the church canons.

Long ago under common law, witnesses or parties took an oath and talked a lot or a little as their consciences bade.

Later an English law put witnesses under an oath somewhat like the Church's oath; but the judge could subject them to sharp questioning, even torture. The King, for example, punished "heresy and sedition" this way.

England at last changed the law: Before any one had to take an "immunitational" oath, some one had to accuse him of a crime or show that he was "notoriously suspicious". No more "fishing expeditions". No man had to accuse himself.

By 1700 no man had to testify if to do so could bring on his own punishment. The American colonies adopted this rule, and as the Fifth Amendment wrote it into our constitution as the Bill of Rights.

The fifth applies in two ways: 1. The accused need not testify at all in his own trial; or he can speak in his own behalf, but only when he or his own lawyer, (not the district attorney) wants him. Once he testifies though, the prosecution can cross-examine him—and then he may have to answer. 2. Witnesses called on to testify who are not the accused must testify, but not if their answers would tend to incriminate them. Sometimes, a witness will refuse to answer seemingly harmless questions. To answer them may open up the way to force him to give more incriminating answers.

Who decides if a question would tend to incriminate? The Judge. If he finds a question would not tend to incriminate, he may order the witness to answer or be punished for contempt of court.

In Texas the accused or trial need not testify in his own behalf. And if he doesn't the prosecuting attorney may not comment to the jury about his failure to explain the facts against him. (This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Farm ponds should not be built near farmsteads if suitable sites can be found elsewhere. This greatly lessens the danger of small children going to such areas alone.

The Soil Conservation Service has an excellent bulletin on farm pond safety available to interested pond owners.

Remember, the new Soil Conservation stamp goes on sale at local post offices Aug. 27. It is a very attractive stamp in three colors, yellow, green and blue. It portrays a modern farm showing that conservation farming brings beauty as well as bounty to rural living.
