

As I See Ranger

By Gene Townsend

As the old saying goes, the groundhog saw his shadow Tuesday, and will go back into his den for six more weeks, or we will have six more weeks of bad weather this year. But it is hard to believe that the old proverb will come true this year. There is something about the way the weather is acting that causes one to believe that spring is just around the corner.

As Spring draws near, there is another sport beginning to take on the fancy of people throughout the country. That is track. For a school to have a full athletic program, they need a sport to participate in the Spring. Track gives more boys a chance to participate in a sport. It also helps the boys that are participating in another sport. Ranger is unfortunate that they do not have track for their boys. They don't have a chance to participate in the district track meets. Track is a sport that the individual can go all the way to a state championship. And also there is team competition in track. The high school and college needs track for their students. In fact Ranger College missed getting a student simply because they couldn't offer him a chance to participate in track.

This is another instance where the people of Ranger are letting their town down. The high school and college are not financially able to build a track for their students. But if Ranger had a Booster Club they could help the schools in many situations such as this. There is one town in this area that has a track that was built by the booster club. It wouldn't take much money to build a track. Just a little organized work would turn the trick. They wouldn't need anything fancy, just something where they could practice.

Ranger has many clubs and organizations all working for the improvement of the town. So why not a booster club to work toward the improvement of our most important assets? Our schools. This is not the first time that this has been mentioned in this column and it won't be the last time.

Don't forget the 1920 Club's Game Tournament Friday night. All members of the club have tickets for sale and the proceeds go for the scholarship fund for sending a Ranger High School graduate to Ranger College.

It has been called to our attention the good job that Ranger news stands have been doing in cleaning up their news stands. Following a survey of the news stands we find that there is no obscene or lewd literature for sale on any of the stands. This clean-up campaign was conducted voluntarily by the news dealers.

Pups Lose To Dogies In Two Games Tue. Night

The Eastland Junior High basketball team defeated the Ranger Junior High team 49 to 30 in Ranger Tuesday night. The fast breaking, accurate shooting of the Dogies was more than the Pups could keep up with. Jimmy Moyland led the Dogie squad with 15 points. Arthur Mendoza was high in the game for Ranger with 20 points. Other scores for the Pups were Douglas Browning with four, Ronnie Hinds three, Johnny Comacho two and Ray Newsham one.

Eastland also won the B team game, but only after the second extra period. The score was tied 22-22 at the end of the regular game. An extra two minute period was played with each team scoring one point. The second extra period was a sudden death affair with the first team scoring winning the game. Eastland was the first to score winning 25 to 23. Jesse Bentz was high in the game with 12 points for Ranger. Also scoring for Ranger were Kyle Ledbetter one, L. H. Pounds two, Lee Asburn two, Bill Perkins two and Billy Matthews three.

Don Kincaid Is Candidate for Representative

Don Kincaid, Cisco school teacher and rancher, today announced that he will be a candidate for state representative from the 76th District in the May 7 Democratic primary. Kincaid, 27, is a native Texan and has lived in Eastland County for the past 10 years. He is a graduate of Cisco High School, Cisco Junior College and Abilene Christian College. He graduated with honors from ACC. He is married and the father of two children, Denise, 6, and Delaine, 4. Mr. Kincaid is the former Pat Agnew, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Mart Agnew of Cisco.

A civics and history teacher at Cisco Junior High School, Kincaid also owns a turkey ranch between Eastland and Cisco. Until recently he was active as a partner with Kincaid Feed and Turkey Hatchery in Eastland. The Kincaids have since leased the business. Active in farm and ranch circles, Kincaid is a director of the Eastland County Farm Bureau and served that organization as vice president last year. He also has served as secretary of the West Texas Ranchers Association and is past president of the Central Texas Turkey Growers Association.

Kincaid is a member of the Cisco Church of Christ. He is a former member of the Cisco School Board and is presently president of the Cisco Junior College Ex-Students Association. In announcing his candidacy, Kincaid said, "We all realize that in the next regular session of the Legislature there will be many vital issues concerning all of us. I realize that in asking the citizens of this district to elect me their legislator, that I am asking you to place a heavy responsibility in my hands. I consider this an important post, and I think I can fairly represent this area's interests."

When Hog Creek Flowed With Oil

Article Submitted By Harvey Henry

"Desdemona" and "Hogtown" were words synonymous with gold-mining and jackpot wealth more than 40 years ago. In 1918, there were about 50 inhabitants in Desdemona with a blacksmith shop, three stores and a barber shop. Hog Creek flowed past, the name being derived from the abundant mass along its banks which attracted hogs. When the settlement came into being, it was called Hogtown. With growth of civic pride a more dignified name was needed and a young lawyer from Eastland suggested Desdemona, for the daughter of the community's justice of the peace.

It was a rough country, producing peanuts and other crops in skimpy fashion. Economic discontent was so great there was said to be more Socialists around Desdemona than in any other area of similar size in the state. They held a big picnic every year. A feature was a baseball game between the Socialists and the Democrats with the Socialists winning most of the time. A staunch Democrat objected to the Socialists practicing on his land so they bought the diamond.

An Englishman who had purchased a farm, walked around the countryside, examining rocks. He thought there might be oil. But he was considered a crank and they forgot him when he moved away, except one local merchant. The merchant was determined to have a test made. He gathered subscriptions and a water well outfit drilled on the farm of Walter Canath. A showing of oil and gas was found at less than 1,000 feet but money gave out. Carruth used to take visitors to the abandoned well, lower a bottle on a string and pull up samples of oil. He talked so much about oil possibilities he was called "Hog Creek" Carruth.

A Midlothian lumberman, took a flier in oil, made some money and was induced to visit Hog Creek. He obtained a large block of leases and made plans to drill. Businessmen and farmers went to his office at Midlothian and wanted to invest in the venture. He formed the Hog Creek Oil Company and sold stock at $100 a share.

In the meantime, the McCleskey well came in at Ranger and a boom had started there, 18 miles north of Desdemona. On the night of Sept. 2, 1918, there was a roar, followed by a brilliant column of flame. The Duke well had found oil and caught fire. For two days, the flames raged with an estimated 20,000 barrels of oil going up in smoke.

Shacks and tents arose in Desdemona. Soon the town had 16,000 inhabitants. Derricks sprouted all over the place. The ball diamond the Socialists had bought was leased for a fortune. A one-acre tract had five producers. The wells flowed widely open. Warren Wagner, who was the drilling contractor on the Ranger discovery, was understood to have more than $4,500,000 worth of oil in storage, awaiting more pipeline. When Magnolia's Terrell came in, a hundred teams of horses and a regiment of men swung into action to dig pits. The well produced $491,000 worth of oil in 50 days.

Three hundred wells were drilled at one time with 750 others held up because of a shortage of equipment. A traveler counted 450 wagons hauling supplies on the nine-mile stretch between Gorman and Desdemona. A hundred "service cars" (taxicabs) operated out of Desdemona. Leases sold at fantastic figures. The Hog Creek Oil Company which Tom Dees had formed, sold out and the stockholders received $10,250 for each $100 investment—one of the great payoffs in the history of oil.

Desdemona was the inspiration of many promotional companies and millions of dollars worth of stock was sold all over the United States. The first oil payment on Dr. Friedrich A. Cook, who claimed to have discovered the North Pole, was based on holdings in the Desdemona area.

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

By Omar Burleson

WASHINGTON, D. C.—At exactly one o'clock on Tuesday of last week, January 26, Senator Lyndon Johnson and I were able to announce the selection of Dyess Air Force Base as the center for a complex of ATLAS intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Although Senator Johnson and I had been aware for a considerable period of time that the only missile base in Texas was to be located around Dyess, the information was highly confidential and we could not discuss it.

As the great scientific advances take place, manned bombers will eventually be obsolete in an all-out war. The installation of the ATLAS ICBM assures the continuation of Dyess Air Force Base for years in the future.

Regardless of scientific advances, the manned bomber as an essential part of our defense base of so-called "limited wars." No scientific gadget will ever entirely take the place of the human bomber pilot.

The missile complex for Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene will be composed of nine launching sites, located in a semicircle approximately 20 to 35 miles distance from the base. Each site will occupy approximately three to four acres of land. The exact location of the launching sites depends a great deal on the condition of the soil, since great shafts and underground installation is required to accommodate the huge 82 1/2-foot tall missile. About 700 men will man the nine sites 24 hours a day.

The initial cost is estimated to be just under $50 million and will require two years to construct. It is perhaps, difficult at the moment for us to realize the significance of the ATLAS missile base being located in and around Abilene. It now becomes one of the principal armed areas of the United States. Unlike Cape Canaveral (Continued On Page Four)

Fifty years of service to boyhood through the program of the Boy Scouts of America is to be observed as the golden jubilee during Boy Scout week February 7-13 throughout America.

Scouting for boys had its beginning in America in 1910 resulting from a "good turn" administered to an American business man in England and today more than 21 million boys have been in the citizenship training and charter building program in this country.

"Over 25,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers under the leadership of 854 volunteer leaders in 123 Scouting Units sponsored by 79 Churches, Schools, Veterans Organizations, Civic Clubs and other groups are preparing to participate in Scout week activities," according to Lowell Pouncey of Brownwood who is Chairman of Camping and Activities in the eight-county Comanche Trail Council, E. R. Weatherford of Breckenridge and Norton McCullough of Brownwood are District Chairmen of these Committees.

The members are engaged in a five point plan which includes attending church services as a Unit on Scout Sunday, Feb. 7, displaying an up-town window with handicrafts and camping equipment, conducting an open house with parents and friends and presenting awards, adopting a project of service to their sponsors or community to carry out the slogan "good will and good turn", and going on an outing or hike with advancement as the objective. Each Unit that completes four of the five points will receive a golden jubilee certificate. Boys who have uniforms are urged to wear them.

One of the highlights of the year is the National Jamboree to be held near Colorado Springs Colorado July 22-28. It is expected that two full Troops, of seventy four Scouts and Explorers, with their leaders to attend from this area. Reservations are being accepted through the Boy Scout Office in Brownwood for the Jamboree trip.

A report to the Governor program will be held in Austin Feb. 13 with Eagle Explorer John Tompkins of the Lampasas Kiwanis Club Post 9 representing Comanche Trail Council in this special activity. W. H. Taylor, Advisor and Explorers of Post 9 will also attend.

"We encourage each sponsor organization to cooperate with the Scouts in observing the anniversary," stated Cyrus B. Frost, Jr. of Eastland, President of the Council.

SAFARI FOR SOULS

WITH BILLY GRAHAM IN AFRICA
By TOM McMAHAN, Religion Editor, The State, Columbia, S. C.

It was nearly ten o'clock at night. Clusters of window shoppers eyed shirts and lamps in an imposing Accra department store. On the sidewalk nearby sat a woman selling bread. Beside her slept four little children. Unwrapped loaves lay in a tray in the dusty street.

In nearby market areas which would soon bustle with activity scores of men slept in doorways, on porches and on the pavement. They had come to Ghana from neighboring countries hoping to earn a meager living by carrying head loads and guarding buildings with their bodies.

A few hours earlier, fifteen thousand Ghanaians, including the Lord Bishop of Accra, had thronged the brand new seaside sports arena to hear an American evangelist proclaim Christ's love as the answer to mankind's hate, greed and frustration. Dressed in strikingly colorful tribal habits and religious garbs, people had edged on foot and in hundreds of taxis, modern buses and "manny trucks" with plank seats and fascinating motto signs.

Magnificent public and commercial buildings rising all over this bustling capital reflect the inflow of foreign capital and a new sense of values centering on education, trade and prestige. Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah's picture is everywhere, even on the tips of his followers.

A few miles up the winding Kumasi Road, astride a mountain ridge, nestles the magnificent country house of Nkrumah, who is hailed in government-controlled papers as Africa's Messiah, the symbol of a new religion called Africanism, who, the say "may well be the second Christ who cometh when the babes in the womb are suffering from Strotian Ninety."

Evangelist Billy Graham called on Nkrumah at the close of his two day visit here and was cordially received. Graham told the Prime Minister that every nation has cherished religious freedom. Nkrumah said that continued freedom of worship is one of Ghana's goals. Churchmen say there is full freedom to propagate Christianity in Ghana but the government frowns on anything that suggests political interference. In front of the Parliament Building a statue of Nkrumah bears this inscription, "Seek ye first the political kingdom and all other things shall be added unto you."

Christian leaders protested the obvious paraphrase on Christ's words about seeking first the kingdom of God, but they were told in effect to mind their own business and let the politicians handle public affairs. Missionaries and even some national leaders are deeply concerned about the future of Christian work in Ghana, especially where Europeans are concerned. Thinking moderates appear to share the apprehension nearly everyone is cautious about discussing the matter. A student of public opinion said the smiles on Ghanaian faces mask deep worries. An African pastor said, "Christians may have to choose between Christ and the nation," and he added quietly that he himself had seen dictatorship in another country.

On the other hand, some leading churchmen say that the denunciation and deportation act and ex-post-facto laws are only temporary expedients necessitated by the unrest and violence of the free nation's infancy. One cited the West Africa tradition under which the chief and his elders are responsible to the people, but once they have spoken, criticism is treason. Others say that Africans can't take criticism gracefully.

If time is short for Europeans helping the African Church, a strategy of careful enlistment and training of key national leaders seems wise. The major significance of Mr. Graham's tour is the potential impact on educated Africans—practically all of whom are educated in mission schools, but comparatively few of whom are all out soldiers of the cross.

Billy Graham had spoken to twenty thousand Ghanaians and was about to address eight thousand others in Kumasi, the capital of the cocoa region, when a violent rainstorm broke up the meeting. Associate evangelist, Leighton Ford preached to sixteen thousand decisions for Christ were recorded, about half representing first time professions of Faith in Christ.

Many left the Kumasi service quickly when the skies dropped out, but hundreds stood for thirty minutes in the downpour. Others crawled under the platform and bleachers while a doughty band with chairs over their heads marched around singing "God sent the Rain," and "Stand Up for Jesus." The public address system shorted out and the meeting finally dispersed. A man who had trudged over fifty-four miles of hush trails to attend said it was worth it just to see a throng gather for worship.

Copies of TIME magazine were burned here a few days ago in protest of the magazine's critical barbs. In another recent incident, the ruling party burned a casket to symbolize the burial of the opposition party which lost the election in Kumasi the day Graham was there.

Ghana is on the march. Leaders boast that a formidable Navy and Air Force will join Nkrumah's already sizeable Army. Jet runways are being rushed to completion at the airport. Public housing is being pushed. The new twenty-six million dollar university is a showpiece for all Africa. Frightening indeed are the articles, pictures and cartoon in the government press. But most disturbing to Christians is the Prime Minister's open encouragement of the fetish priest and the way he is being glorified, recalling the days when Rome defied her rulers.

Meanwhile Graham continues on his way, preaching to multitudes of a Christ who belongs to Africa as truly as He belongs to America or Europe or Asia and calling men to surrender totally to Him.

Good Taste

By Emily Post

May He Stay On?

Dear Mrs. Post: I would very much like to have your opinion on the following situation: A young man I know is invited to an evening of cards at my house, three other couples are also invited. When they leave, is it wrong for my friend to stay on awhile to help me straighten the house, or must he leave when the others do?

Answer: If you are a young woman and you will be entirely alone with the young man, I'm afraid you will be inviting criticism if you have him stay on after the others leave.

At A Funeral Home

Dear Mrs. Post: It has always struck me as being in very poor taste for members of the deceased family to say "Thank you for coming" to those who call at the funeral home to pay their respects. I feel they do this out of friendship and love and that thanks are out of order on this occasion. Later of course thank you notes are written to all those who sent flowers, mass cards, donations, etc. I would very much like to know what you think about this.

Answer: I am sorry but I cannot agree with you. It is not wrong to express one's thanks to anyone who has taken the trouble to come to the funeral home to pay his (or her) respects to the deceased.

A Wife Goes To A Wedding Alone

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it improper for a woman to accept an invitation to a wedding if her husband cannot go with her? A friend of mine went to a wedding recently in a distant city alone as her husband could not go with her. She is now being severely criticized for this. I would very much like to know if there is just grounds for this criticism.

Answer: If her husband did not object to her going to this other city alone, there can be no reason for anyone else to criticize her.

Correction Before Others

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been in this country only a short time. My husband's family are very well educated and speak perfect English. While I speak the English language, I do not always use correct grammar. Whenever I make a mistake my sister-in-law immediately corrects me whether we are alone or in the presence of others. I find it very embarrassing to have her do this. It is not that I am above correction, but I do mind her drawing attention to my mistakes when others are present. When I complained of this to my husband he said that she was only trying to help me. Don't you think it is very rude of her to do this, and what can I do to correct this situation which I find most annoying.

Answer: You can easily say you appreciate her correction of your English when you and she are alone or with members of the family, but that it embarrasses you very much to have her do this before others.

A Permanent Hotel Guest

Dear Mrs. Post: I live in a hotel as a permanent guest. Would you say that I should tip those who wait on me, such as the doorman, elevator man, the maid who does my room, every month when I pay my bill.

Answer: A permanent guest in a hotel is the same as in an apartment house and no apartment house occupant feels obligated to make the rounds once a month. A tip at Christmas and when you leave for your vacation (if you do) and a tip perhaps for an special service by someone, is sufficient.

Writing Place Cards By Hand

Dear Mrs. Post: My employer is giving a business dinner for twenty-five out-of-town salesmen, at his club. The men will be seated with place cards and I have been asked to make them out. Since the typewriter is used so generally today as a substitute for handwriting, may these cards be typewritten.

Answer: No, they should be written in your best-meaning clearest-handwriting.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-4, entitled, "Wedding Expense," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. (Released by The Bell Syndicate)

*Sure, she's a grand old flag!
That's why we salute her.
That's why we pledge allegiance to her.*

That pledge, in its simplest terms, is another way of saying, "Count me in. You're my country and I love you and need you. Your problems are my problems, and I'm with you all the way."

Your country's biggest single problem is the perpetual responsibility for keeping the peace its people want. You can help with this problem by remembering this:

Peace costs money. Money for military and industrial strength. Money for science and education. And money saved by individuals — by you — to help keep the economy strong.

Bonds provide this money. Every Bond you buy is an important, personal pledge of allegiance to your country. Think it over. Are you buying enough?

Caramel Flavors This Popcorn

Here's a popcorn treat that moves into the Yuletide picture as a crunchy snack the whole family will like! Each kernel is flavored with rich, luscious caramel. The ease of making this confection depends on a well-known packaged brand of caramels which melts readily, with a little water, into a smooth sauce. It's a simple matter to make enough caramel popcorn crunch to serve a crowd. Set it out in a generous-sized container, like a wooden bowl, bucket, or woven basket so everyone can munch on it at will.

Caramel Popcorn Crunch

1/2 lb. packaged caramels (28 caramels) 2 tablespoons water 2 quarts popped corn, salted Place the caramels and water in the top of a double boiler. Heat, stirring frequently, until the caramels are melted and the sauce is smooth. Pour over the popcorn and toss until every kernel is coated. Spread on a lightly greased cookie sheet and let stand until the surface is dry. Break apart and serve.

IT'S FUN-TASTIC

STEP IN IT-

STEP OUT IN IT

Get the quiet proof of Chevrolet's superior performance on the road—No other car in the low-priced three can match the borne-on-the-wind sensation you get from a ride in the 1960 Chevrolet. But that's not surprising when you consider to what lengths Chevy has gone to provide for your comfort at no extra cost to you. As you drive, count the ways Chevrolet has been thoughtful:

Supple Full Coil suspension—Coil springs at all four wheels melt bumps as no other suspension can. Taking the punch out of rough roads is their only function—they don't have to anchor the rear axle.

Butyl rubber body mounts—Thicker, newly designed body mounts further insulate you from the road.

Body by Fisher—Only Chevy in its field offers the polish and craftsmanship of Body by Fisher.

Foam cushioned seats—Chevy offers foam cushioned seats in both front and rear in all series but one.

Safety-Girder frame—X-built and not merely X-braced, the Safety-Girder frame affords greater rigidity to minimize twisting and squeaks.

Hydraulic valve lifters—Oil hushed hydraulic valve lifters reduce engine noise to a whisper.

Cushioned steering shaft—A universal joint and cushioned coupling keep those annoying road tremors from the steering wheel.

Precision balanced wheels and tires—Here again Chevy has shown concern for your comfort by eliminating vibration in this vital area—tire life is longer, too.

Easy steering ratio—Chevy's high ratio Ball Race steering takes the work out of steering for you.

Superior weight distribution—Chevy rides better, handles better and stops better because the car's weight is more equally divided between the front and rear wheels.

Wide choice of power teams—Choose from 24 different power combinations to satisfy the itchiest driving foot—more than any other car.
