As I See Ranger

By Gene Townsend

A fellow was telling me an interesting story Tuesday morning. It seems that this fellow runs a garage and wrecker service, and was commenting on the many different things that he had been called on to bring in with his wrecker. Other than cars and trucks, he said that he had pulled in trailers, bicycles, and even a haybaler. But Monday evening, he got his first call to bring in a boat. The boat I could get from the story as it was told to me, is that a representative from a boat company had brought a fiberglass inboard boat with a rather powerful motor by the L and J Supply Company, and he and Jimmy Smith had taken it out to Lake Leon for a demonstration run. While they were out there, Joe Collins and Tommy Strong took it for a spin. Their story is that the boat threw them out when they hit some rough water, but the fellow that was telling the story to me seemed to think that they got scared and jumped out. He said that they looked pretty scared when they got to the bank. Anyway, they found themselves in the water and the boat crashed into the bank in front of Arterburn's cabin. Joe Collins was the boat to make the committee be heard would really get up and run.

Lost and found department—Here is a tip to anyone who might have lost a parakeet recently. There was a green and yellow parakeet at the Teenage baseball park Tuesday afternoon. The bird seemed fairly tame, although he wouldn't allow himself to be caught. He kept coming back near where the boys were working out.

There are some real friendly people in this town. Morris Campbell offered to give me a free wash and grease job on my car if I would bring it to his station. I really appreciate the offer, but my car is in pretty good condition right now and doesn't need all the special care that Morris would give it. Morris even invited me out to the lake with him. He said that there was something down close to the dam that he wanted to show me. I don't know what it could be, unless it would be the bottom of the lake.

Here's some more good Lion laughs. "I'm anxious to make this shot," said the golfer. "That's my mother-in-law on the clubhouse porch." "Don't be silly," his companion remarked. "It's 200 yards—you can't hit her from here."

Massachusetts High School Is Proof of Dreams Come True

By Staff Writer

"Dreams are fine, but let's see you back up this one with some proven facts." That's the point-1 statement this reporter fired at Dr. James Whittington last week in an interview arranged to be in more about the proposed tri-city high school.

Dr. Whittington didn't back up. He reached quickly into his desk drawer, pulled out a blue-backed booklet and passed it across the desk. It's title is "Profiles of Significant Schools."

"You read this," Dr. Whittington said, "then if you have any more questions call me." As the reporter left his office the medical specialist threw him one more thought.

"Just remember," he said, "that there are 1,151 high school students in Eastland County last year. The booklet contains 28 pages and this reporter started to give it a once over lightly. Flipping to page 21, however, his interest became aroused.

"Wayland Senior High School is designed for 830 students in grades nine, 10, 11 and 12," the booklet informed.

With that in mind the reporter turned back over to page one again and took a long look at the picture of the Wayland, Mass. school plant, which will open classes in coming September. The layout looks more like a small college. In the background is a winding lake, which immediately makes one think of Lake Leon.

The plant is divided into a physical education center, including a large gymnasium, locker rooms and indoor exercise rooms. There are also reference rooms, many conference rooms, a math and sciences department, another for social studies and business, another for languages, another for arts and a fifth for administration. Noticeable throughout the buildings are numerous conference rooms.

The math and sciences building contains six conference rooms, a reference area, two math classrooms, a science shop, and labs for physics, chemistry and biology. In addition there is a large lecture room.

Both the languages and social studies and business buildings have reference rooms, many conference rooms, and staff rooms. The social studies and business buildings have three large classrooms, as does the languages department. The language building also features a reference area, large lecture room and a language laboratory.

The Rev. Ralph Perkins, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated.

Graveside rites were conducted by the Ranger Masonic Lodge. Burial was in the Evergreen Cemetery under direction of Killingsworth Funeral Home.

Mr. Williams died at his home in Odessa Monday, following an illness of three months. He had moved to Odessa in 1956, ten years after his retirement.

Mr. Williams was born Nov. 25, 1866, in Sedalia, Ohio. He married Kathryn E. Heath Oct. 11, 1900, in Sedalia.

He was a member of the Methodist Church, Masonic Lodge No. 738 and the BPOE.

Survivors include three sons, Richard A. of Odessa, Arthur L. of Dallas, Max W. of Garden Grove, Cal.; two daughters, Mrs. George M. Rogers of El Paso, Mrs. W. F. Mether of Odessa; one sister, Mrs. G. W. Sheets of Springfield, Ill.; 10 grandchildren, and 10 great-grandchildren.

Veterans Asked To Check GI Insurance Policy

Nearly 200,000 Texas veterans should give careful study to their GI insurance holdings, Edward P. Onstot, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Dallas, Texas said today.

These veterans still hold GI term insurance, Onstot said, a type of insurance that plays a definite role for a young growing family but may become prohibitively expensive for the veteran near retirement age.

Woman Dies In Crash West of Cisco Tuesday

Eastland County was charged with another fatality this week when a car and truck smashed together five miles west of Cisco on Highway 80.

Dead is Mrs. Dolphia Slayter, 53, of Route 1, Crannell, Calif. Her husband, Oliver P. Slayter, was seriously injured and her daughter, Rosie, 17, suffered cuts and bruises. Driver of the other vehicle, W. V. Gendenshire of Cisco, suffered head injuries and cuts and bruises in the accident.

The accident occurred early Tuesday morning. The Slayter family was driving east in an English made Rover sedan, a small car, and it collided with the truck driven by Gendenshire, who was driving west. The car was demolished.

"Mounting costs can become prohibitive as the years go by," Onstot said. "For instance, a term GI insurance policy that carries an

Boyce House Retells Story of Old Rip

On Page 1 of a metropolitan journal appeared the following without date line or word of explanation: "First Straphanger—They say he was flat as a dollar. Second Straphanger—Well, you would be, too, if you'd had a whole court-house resting on your chest for 31 years." It was said that no achievement by an individual, except Lindbergh's lone fight across the Atlantic, had ever received as much newspaper space. Old Rip, the frog was christened, was declared to be the most famous animal since the serpent in the Garden of Eden.

Some weeks after the cornerstone opening, spring began and the hibernation season ended, vast numbers of horned frogs made their appearance. Thousands were shipped to the North and East, and even to foreign lands, as souvenirs. A representative of the United States Department of Agriculture warned that, because the creatures kept in check insects which were injurious, nature's balance was in danger of being upset; and there was a proposal that the Texas Legislature bar their shipments.

Meanwhile, Old Rip had gone to Ohio but Judge Pritchard, claiming the frog as county property, ordered his return to Eastland; so he was brought back. After some weeks, Old Rip set out on a tour of the nation. In Dallas, he was "arrested" as the theatrical promoter had used, silencing breach of contract. Will Wood—(remember the lad who had originally owned the creature?)—arranged for the frog's freedom on bond and the trip continued. In St. Louis, 40,000 persons filed by in a single day, a record for that city's zoo for an individual attraction. In New York City a news reel with sound (this was in the early days of "talkies") was made, with Will Wood doing the talking; a crew of eighteen men was required and the cost was approximately $5,800.

It was in Washington that the frog achieved his greatest triumph: a call on Calvin Coolidge in the White House. Incidentally, through a misunderstanding, the Eastland frog kept the president of the United States waiting fifteen minutes. Old Rip looked at Coolidge and Coolidge looked at Old Rip. Neither spoke. At last the president broke the stillness. "Silent Cal" had met his match.

The frog returned to Eastland and Wood kept him at home in a bowl. One day a "nother" struck and the layer of sand and rocks in the bowl was inadequate, to shield him from the sudden and intense cold. When Wood went to feed Old Rip, he found the frog lifeless. The date was January 19, 1929. He had lived eleven months and one day after emerging from the cornerstone.

Is the story really true? M. W. McMin, a merchant in nearby Olden, said he saw a live frog placed in the cornerstone in 1897; and Ernest Wood said he saw it placed there. And thirty-one years later, hundreds saw the cornerstone opened and a live frog removed.

A bit of corroboration was the finding in the stone of a faded piece of paper on which Wood had written the names of his sons, Harry and Will—(the paper called the latter Willie, which had been his nickname in 1897). Here is another perhaps significant circumstance. When a horned frog hibernates, he sheds his horns but they grow back. It was still hibernating season and his horns were gone and they never regrow. Could this have influenced the story? It is a theory. The frog was christened, was declared to be the most famous animal since the serpent in the Garden of Eden.

The date was January 19, 1929. He had lived eleven months and one day after emerging from the cornerstone.

What was the scene which the waiting audience beheld? The three stories of the courthouse had been leveled. All that remained, besides the basement, was the floor of the first story—and a jagged section of wall, some eight feet high, immediately above the cornerstone. By this time many persons were standing on the floor of the old structure; others were perched on a mound of debris in the yard but most were on the ground. Heads were thrust from the upper windows of the buildings overlooking the square. Fully 1,500 were present and eyes were directed, from all sides, from above and from below at the cornerstone as the drama began.

A cable was looped about the wall and the end was attached to a truck which began to tug. But there were warning shouts; the wall and the cornerstone were so firmly attached that both threatened to topple. So a worker performed just above the cornerstone, then the truck began to pull again, but, once more, both wall and cornerstone were in danger of falling. A second time, the worker plied the pick and when the line again tightened, the wall fell, leaving the cornerstone in place.

All of this I saw as I stood nervously in the fringe of the crowd. Not wishing to be a target of the jibes and perhaps anger when nothing was found, I walked across the street and, entering the bank building, climbed the steps to the second floor. Just as I entered the office of a friend, there was a roar from outside and a man in the window shouted, "They've found the frog!" I rushed across the room and just then there came a louder roar and the watcher exclaimed, "And the d - - thing's alive!"

When the wall had been torn down, a worker, with a pick, broke a layer of cement—an important bit of circumstantial evidence. With the layer of cement removed, a metal covering was revealed. The lid was lifted. The Rev. F. E. Angleton, pastor of the Methodist Church, who had been standing beside the cornerstones, peered in, then pointed and said, "There's the frog!" Gene Day, an oil man, took out the creature, flat and dust-covered, and handed the apparently lifeless frog to the minister who in turn gave it to Judge Pritchard. Grasping the animal by a hind leg, the official held it high so that all could see and there was a cheer.

Then Pritchard saw the other hind leg twitch and the creature's body began to swell as he obtained his first breath of air in thirty-one years! That was when the greater roar arose. Excitement gripped the crowd and those in the back pressed forward so there was danger that the frog would be knocked to the ground and trampled. County Motorcycle Officer Bob Hammett took the creature, forced his way through the crowd, got on his motorcycle and rode to the edge of town to allow the excitement to subside.

The news flashed around the world. Some scientists scoffed but Dr. William T. Hornaday, former director of the New York Zoological Gardens, who had explored many parts of the world, including the Southwest, declared the feat was quite possible. Many West Texans came forward with incidents in their own knowledge of horned frogs surviving long periods without food or water. Arthur Brisbane commented in his front page column, "Today, with an audience of 15,000,000 or more, Pritchard told about the frog from the pulpit. He inspired poems and editorials."

Mounting costs can become prohibitive as the years go by," Onstot said. "For instance, a term GI insurance policy that carries an

Onstot emphasized that VA is not trying to tell individual veterans how to handle their insurance programs. "The individual program," he said, "depends on the circumstances of each veteran's financial situation, and his total insurance plans and program. We do believe each policyholder should review his GI insurance holdings periodically to be sure they meet his current and long-range needs."

Army PFC Earl J. Smith, son of Austin Smith, Rising Star, recently participated with other personnel from the 8th Division's 26th Infantry in Operation Bayonet Blue in Germany.

The field training exercise, conducted under realistic combat conditions, was designed to determine the effectiveness of units of the 8th Infantry Division, a major element of the NATO shield of Europe.

CHEVROLET

OUT WHERE THE COUNTRY CAN TEAR A TRUCK TO PIECES—

Chevy middleweights get 1/3 more work done in a day!

Where they used to deliver 2,300 gallons of liquefied petroleum gas in other trucks, Petrolane Gas Service of Long Beach, California, can now deliver 3,500 gallons a day! That's 7 days a week usually, over back trails and up into high rock country with maximum GVW loads. And with Chevy's Torsion-Spring Ride paving every foot of the way! "You don't get any more jolting on washboard roads than you do in a passenger car, or any sideways on curves," says driver Bernie Stone. "I used to take some rough roads at from 5 to 8 miles an hour. Now I can go 30 over them." Petrolane has over 200 Chevrolets hauling for them.

If you think we're excited about Chevy's independent front suspension, you ought to talk to the truck owners who are profiting by it. They'll tell you Chevy's torsion-spring design is the hottest thing to hit the industry since trucks began. Drive one—that's the proof, short and sweet.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

CONTINGENCIES
In this unpredictable life of ours, it is the law's business to take a long look into the future and see what would happen if... For in your contracts, leases, insurance policies, escrows, and the like, you had better say what would "happen if" some of your best laid plans go awry.

Such events the law calls "contingencies." Who gets the "earnest money" you put down, if you cannot go through with buying that house? What if you want to pay up that loan and save interest? What happens if a partnership goes sour, or a partner gets sick or dies? What happens if the people you name in your will should die before you do, or you all perish in a common catastrophe like a car smashup?

The law is wise but it cannot do your thinking for you. It settles such questions—but not always to your liking. If you don't make a will, the law says who shall get your property. If you leave certain things out of a contract, the law assures that you meant to put some certain things in. But how much better it would be in the first place to put them in the way you want them, by asking "what if?"

Take your will now: Your first desire, of course, is to take care of your wife and children—those nearest to you. But it won't hurt anything to put "contingent beneficiaries" in your will in case something happens to thwart your first intentions.

Review your will every year or so to see if it meets the new things that come up, or arrange with your lawyer to write in "contingent beneficiaries"—those who will receive your property if your first beneficiaries should die before you do.

You may long have had your son provided for in your will, but what about those lovely grandchildren he and his wife have presented to you since you wrote that will? What would happen to them if things go wrong and your son should die before you?

Or take your widowed sister and her children now. Suppose you and your immediate family should be wiped out: Would you want your property to go equally to her and to your well-heeled bachelor brother? Or would you prefer to leave your brother some token of your affection, and then really take care of your sister?

You may be impatient with the law's long memory. Such things never happen, you think, but the court records are full of plans which failed. And so the law has ways in which you can provide for "what happens—if." One way is the device of contingent beneficiaries in your will and insurance policies.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Rotary Lawn Mower Can Be Lethal Weapon

Did you know a rotary lawn mower blade travels at speeds up to 150 miles per hour and is capable of throwing sticks, stones, or other objects at comparable speeds? Imagine what would happen if you were hit by one of these fast-flying objects.

Power lawn mowers are now in the majority both in town and among farm people. Along with their increased use has been a closely related increase in accidents involving both operators and bystanders. Most accidents have been due to carelessness or lack of knowledge on the part of the individual.

W. L. Ulich, extension agricultural engineer, offers these suggestions on how to operate your rotary power lawn mower safely and efficiently.

Always disconnect spark plug wire before working on the blade.

A clean sharp blade does a better cutting job and requires less power.

Never operate mower with safety shields removed.

Make sure all rocks and debris are removed from the area before close mowing.

Do not refill the gasoline tank when engine is hot or running.

Run mower as slow as possible to do good work.

Keep children and pets away from mowers.

Always be certain of safe footing when mowing on steep slopes.

Never leave engine running when mower is unattended.

Make sure mower is steady and under control before starting engine.

Always be aware of the hazards involved when you use a power mower. Don't get caught napping.

Lou Ann Corbell Is Wed To Danny Ware Donegan

In an impressive, candlelight ceremony read Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the First Methodist Church, Miss Lou Ann Corbell became the bride of Danny Ware Donegan.

Rev. Conrad Hommel, brother-in-law of the groom, of the Fort Worth Central Methodist Church, performed the double ring ceremony amid a nuptial setting of Swedish candelabra containing white burning tapers and arrangements of white asters.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Corbell, 310 North Dixie. Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Donegan of De Leon are the parents of the bridegroom.

Mrs. D. L. Kinnaird, organist, accompanied Dick Spaulding, vocalist, who sang "Treat Me Not to Leave Thee," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Roe Butler of Odessa, the bride was attired in a wedding gown of magnolia silk, bombazine taffeta and re-embroidered Alencon lace by Pandora with empire' lace brief sleeves. The princess lines of the gown flowed into the very bouffant carpet length skirt. Her tripple magnolia illusion veil fell from a Swedish crown of matching Alencon lace. She wore short kid gloves and carried an elongated style bouquet of white roses.

MRS. DANNY WARE DONEGAN . . . former Miss Lou Ann Corbell

The bride carried out the tradition of something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue and a penny in her shoe. As the "something old" the bride wore the wedding ring belonging to the grandmother of the bridegroom.

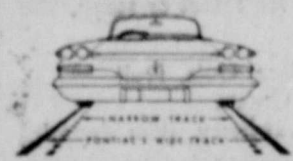

Miss Doris Davis of Dallas was maid of honor and Miss Jan Briggs of Monahans was bridesmaid. The bridal attendants wore identically styled gowns of pink organza over taffeta. Complimenting their dresses were headresses of short net veils attached to floral clips. They carried elongated styles bouquet of pink roses.

Bruce Hughes of Iowa Park, Texas, served as best man. Bill Hamilton of Amarillo was groomsmen. Harris Brinson of Le Leon and Don Smith of Dallas doubled as ushers and candlelighters.

The reception immediately following the wedding ceremony was held in the church parlor. Members of the house party included Mrs. Jim Hansford of Palfurrias, Mrs. Cly Pittman of DeLeon, Mrs.

ONLY CAR WITH WIDE TRACK WHEELS
WideTrack widens the stance, not the car. With the widest track of any car, Pontiac gives you better stability, accurate control, less lean and sway.

Nothing straightens S-curves like a Wide-Track Pontiac. You come out of a curve scarcel aware you've been in one. You wind your way with feather-touch control. You feel a reassuring absence of lean and sway, better balance and stability. Narrow track cars can't compare.
