To the winner will go almost a full term in the U. S. Senate. Blakley is now serving in that position, having been appointed to fill out Vice President Lyndon Johnson's term by Gov. Price Daniel. A total of 46 persons voted absentee in Eastland County, indicating that interest in the election is just lukewarm.

"Who Says You Need Costly Shots To Relieve 'Hot Flashes' And Irritation From Change-Of-Life?"
Mrs. A. M. Watonga, Okla., adds, "Middle age was torture. Had costly shots 3 times a week but got no relief. Then took Pinkham's Tablets. They brought me new happiness, comfort!"
Balance offers women new freedom from much of the misery of change-of-life, thanks to an amazing new tablet developed especially to relieve these functionally-caused discomforts. Doctors reported emotional results using this remarkable home treatment alone... and no costly injections!
Belief for 8 out of 10 Tests!
Tired, irritable, tortured nerves were calmed. Distress relieved. Aerial hot flashes subsided. Here's why. Change aspirin and such "general purpose" remedies, this new tablet is a unique combination of special medicines... acts directly on the cause of these troubles... works through a woman's sympathetic nervous system to relieve tense feelings and physical distress that bring unhappiness to so many. Clinical tests prove this.
Now this amazing formula is at drugstores without prescription. Ask for "Lydia Pinkham's Tablets." Don't let change-of-life rob you of joy! Get handy Pinkham's Tablets. Contain blood-building iron. See how fast you can feel your happy self again—without costly shots! (Also liquid Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.)

Ideas to Aid Hostesses With Bridal Shower

If you're to be hostess for a bridal shower this spring, you'll want to go all out on your table decorations to get your party off to a good start.

DON'T SCRATCH THAT ITCH! IN JUST 15 MINUTES.

If the itch needs scratching, your 48c back at any drug store. Use ITCH-ME-NOT to check eczema, ringworm, insect bites, foot itch, other external itches. You feel it, take hold. Then itch and burning are gone. ITCH-ME-NOT is easy to apply, instant-drying. TODAY at SWANEY'S PHARMACY.

Happily, a festive bridal shower table need not be expensive. In fact, with a little imagination, you can easily do the decorations yourself, using readily available materials.

For example, you can make a clever umbrella centerpiece out of a small toy umbrella and paper napkins. Paste napkins to the inside of the open umbrella first. Then cut large circles out of napkins, pinch them together in the center and paste them to the top of the umbrella. Start at the edge and work toward the center. Decorate with flowers and a ribbon bow, then wrap the handle with napkins. Place the finished umbrella in a styrofoam base, decorated with more napkin circles, flowers and ribbon.

Bride and bridesmaid dolls are easily made, too. You'll need three colored pipe cleaners for each doll. Bend and twist the cleaners into figure forms; no head is necessary. Just twist two cleaners together half way down, leaving the bottom half for legs and feet. Take the third cleaner and twist it around the body at the middle to form arms.

Open two Kleenex napkins (regular or now Casual size) to full size and trim off the corners to make circles. Cut a small hole in the center of each napkin and thread both napkins onto the body. Paste the napkin skirts to the body, placing one skirt over the other. The edge of the skirt should cover the feet of the doll.

Now tie ribbon over the pasted edge of the skirt and make a bow in back. Tape the feet to a circle of cardboard. Bend the ends of the arms around a small flower bouquet and secure with a bow of narrow satin ribbon. Cut two three-inch circles from a napkin for the hat and paste them to the top of the cleaner. Then decorate the hat with a few blossoms.

For each guest, as a final touch, you can make a delicate paper fan. Take one napkin, open flat, then fold it in half. Accordion pleat the napkin, grasp in center, and bend it in half to form the fan. Tie the base with white ribbon and tuck a few flowers in the ribbon. The fans will make decorative place cards for your guests.

Will Ed Hopper Exchanges Vows In Double Ring Ceremony at Hico

Will Ed Hopper of Ranger exchanged wedding vows with Miss Linda Lee McLendon, Thursday, May 11. He is the son of Mrs. Clara Hopper of Ranger and she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. McLendon of Hico.

Rev. Tom Pratt read the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church of Hico.

A background for the ceremony was formed by an archway entwined with greenery and large white gladioli. Branched candelabra bearing white cathedral tapers backed the arrangement and completed the decorations.

Mrs. Jerry Needham, organist, presented a prelude of nuptial selections and played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional. Harry King, Jr. of Fort Worth sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because".

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a waiter-length gown of white organza fashioned with an oval neckline and three quartered length sleeves. Her bouquet was a nosegay of white roses.

Mrs. George Kilgo attended her sister as matron of honor. Her gown of pale blue batiste featured a bateau neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her bouquet was a nosegay of white roses.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Jerry Venable of Gordon. Ushers were Curtis Scott and John Ringo of Gordon.

Miss Kay Kilgo, the bride's niece, was flower girl. She wore a frock of white dotted swiss featuring pale blue ribbon insertions and a ribbon headpiece. She carried a basket of white carnations and pale blue pedalis.

Mike Kilgo, nephew of the bride was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McLendon selected a white silk frock complimented with black and white accessories. Mrs. Hopper, the bridegroom's mother, was attired in a pink frock, complimented with bone accessories. Both wore corsages of pink carnations.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was laid with white linen cutwork cloth over blue and centered with an arrangement of white stock. Crystal and silver appointments completed the setting.

Mrs. Jerry Needham registered the guests and other members of the houseparty included Miss Donna Ripley and Miss Nelda Terry, of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Jerry Laakey of Hico.

The bride is a graduate of Hico High School and Tarleton State College and is presently employed with Texas Electric.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Gordon High School and is employed with a trailer firm.

Mr. and Mrs. Homemaker

Your home is your most priceless possession. Don't risk heartaches and top-heavy costs in keeping it up-to-date. Whenever it needs care, maintenance or modernization, check with us before you sign any contract from a high pressure, quick-talking stranger. Ask yourself these questions when you have been contacted by an itinerant salesman offering you a "bargain price" on a new roof, siding, paint job or other home improvement:

1. Do I know anything about this salesman or his company?
2. Can the salesman or his company give me local, recent references?
3. Will the company be in existence and financially able to fulfill its guarantees (if any) in one, three or five years from now?
4. Have I obtained a price on this job covering the exact same specifications from any local dealer?
5. Does the out-of-town company have liability insurance to protect me or my property in case of accident?
6. Do I know for certain the brand and grade or quality of material I will get?
7. If something goes wrong with the job, will the out-of-town company make it good? And, if so, when?
8. If a local building permit is needed, does the out-of-town firm have one, signed by local authorities for my protection?

If the answers to any of these questions are not satisfactory, be careful. Watch out for tricky contracts and misrepresentations. Before you purchase material or enter into a contract with an unknown firm consult one or more of your local lumber dealers. We are reliable, trustworthy and an authority on the proper materials and what they should cost for your every building requirement. We know what materials will give you the best job per dollar invested. We are members of your community. If anything on any job might need further attention, you are as close to us as your telephone and you can be assured of satisfaction and helpful, friendly service.

LOW PRICE IS ONLY HALF THE STORY

(The other—and even more satisfying—half you'll discover the first time you drive a Corvair!)

And when we say "low price," we mean more than merely the pint-sized figure on the window sticker of a new Corvair. You're going to be saving like sixty on gas. And on the antifreeze you won't buy next winter, and the radiator repairs you'll never have to pay for. About the only things Corvair doesn't skimp on are room, smoothness, style and pure driving joy. But that's the other half of the story. Talk to your Chevrolet dealer about it soon!

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

Besides expecting warm milk or a soft-boiled egg in the mornings, the family cat may be a source of another irritation—a malady labeled "cat scratch disease." Dr. David L. Young, Dallas physician, has written an article in the April issue of the Texas State Journal of Medicine.

"Cat scratch disease," States

Dr. Young, "is associated with either a cat scratch or bite, or cat contact, in from 52 to 92 per cent of the cases. Of the 16 family epidemics reported, all have been associated with a family cat."

The ailment has been found in persons ranging in age from 1 to 70, although it is more common in children and young adults. About one-half of the patients have been less than 20 years old. In patients over 45, the disease is found predominantly in women.

This may be attributed to the fact that women more commonly care for the household cat.

Seasonal variation also is evident. The period of greatest incidence is from September through February—when the family cat is usually inside the house and in closer contact with the family.

First noticed as a primary skin lesion and regional glandular swelling, the disease may begin with a rash and fever.

Incubation period ranges from 3 to 14 days from the time of contact to development of the primary lesion. Glandular disease occurs most commonly from 7 to 28 days following the contact, but has developed up to 62 days afterward.

"The primary lesion may develop at the site of an abrasion, splinter, or thorn injuries, as well as at the site of an actual cat scratch or bite," Dr. Young reports, "A primary lesion is often not demonstrated. The primary skin lesion, when present, may take several forms. Most commonly it is a papule surrounded by a red halo, but it may be represented by a healing scratch or bite."

In addition, the primary lesions may be multiple and at times may resemble acneiform lesions or insect bites. Sometimes a small and previously unnoticed primary lesion may enlarge and become noticeable only with development of glandular abnormality, or it may appear at the time of skin testing.

Lesions occur most frequently in the upper extremities, face and neck, and lower extremities. Occasionally, they develop in unusual places. The nodes may vary from a few centimeters in diameter to the size of large walnuts. They may not hurt at all or they may

Cattle Theft Still Big Problem For Texas Ranchers

Texas have always said there's nothing lower than a cattle thief, and Texas cattle raisers have always led the nation in their fight against these parasitic criminals who brutally steal and butcher from another man's herds.

But cattle theft is still a big problem in Texas and elsewhere. Modern transportation methods, tranquilizer pellets thrust into the victimized animals, and shade tree butchering places have updated rustlers' techniques and often be very tender. Nodes are often more visible than painful and may be first noticed by their size. They usually disappear within 6 weeks but have been known to last up to a year.

In about 75 per cent of persons with the disease, fever with or without shaking chills, headache, abdominal pain, loss of appetite, and a vague feeling of bodily discomfort may occur.

make them more difficult to apprehend.

The Texas and Southwest Cattle Raisers Association, one of the finest industry-sponsored self-policing organizations in the world, works against these modern odds to throw fear into would-be thieves and to catch and convict a high percentage of actual offenders.

The TSCRA has 31 well-trained and coordinated field inspectors located in Texas and Oklahoma who have not only a thorough knowledge of cattle but also a working knowledge of modern crime detecting techniques.

The association offers a high level of protection for the individual cattleman. Not only do they have men to help local law enforcement agencies to catch thieves but also they have a legal department and an attorney who is available at all times to help local prosecutors in working up cattle theft cases.

This makes cattle theft—which might otherwise be appealing to the criminal mind—one of the least defensible crimes in our state. Cattle branding, as always, is crucially important for owner protection against thievery. This offers positive identification of ownership which will stand up in court.

Even with modern detection methods and updated ranching techniques, the age-old menace of pioneer days is still with us, however. And it's good to know that the cattle thief is being watched for, sought after, and, if caught, prosecuted to the fullest for his unsavory crime.

Word has been received by Mrs. Sadie Novakovich that her son, Ivo Novakovich, while in Truth or Consequences, New Mexico, on business was beaten and robbed in his hotel room by youths. He was in the hospital for three days.

A good policy to follow!

Walking to my office the other day I passed by the stores and offices of the people in this community with whom I do business. I could not help but think how fortunate it is to have, so conveniently available, most of the services and help needed in our daily existence and provided by those whom we know and trust as friends and neighbors.

It made me feel good to realize that in my job as an insurance man I too contributed to the convenience and welfare of the members of this community.

I realize that in doing business with people who are close to you and whom you know, there is that personal touch and interest which cannot be obtained from distantly located strangers. For that reason and the fact that it will increase the prosperity of our community and ourselves, I believe in the policy of buying from your neighbors.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Hours of discussion on the fourthcoming meeting between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev are taking place among the "politicians" in Washington.

Newspaper columnists are writing about it in every edition coming off the press. Speculation on the results takes many forms. The European press appears to be skeptical in advance of the meeting although at this time last year they were whooping up the prospects of a summit conference. The European attitude obviously stems from the belief that the reverses which the United States has recently suffered in Cuba, Laos and now South Korea and Iran, puts our President at a disadvantage.

It seems to me there is little need for speculation. It should be borne in mind that our President is not meeting with Khrushchev to "negotiate" an agreement on anything. Neither is he meeting him in the "kitchen" to see who can shout the loudest and shake his finger at the other the most vigorously.

We should bear in mind that this meeting is in no sense one for negotiation and settlement of such issues as nuclear tests, Communist determination as it relates to the cold war, a settlement on the issue of Berlin, or disarmament. If this is remembered we will not be disappointed, but if we expect or believe that agreements will be reached and settlements made, then we will be.

Although in all probability these matters will be the center of discussion, it should not be expected they will be settled.

Incidentally, our President does not bear all the disadvantages in meeting with the Soviet leader at this time. The Russians are themselves admittedly having some difficulties. They are in trouble with their farm program; they do not have solid support among their satellite nations in Eastern Europe, and all is not well between them and their Chinese Communist co-conspirators.

The important thing about the meeting is that the Soviet leader may see at firsthand the leader of the United States of America.

Having known the President of the United States for fifteen years, serving with him in the Congress, observing his determination and ability, it is my belief that he will account for himself well in such a meeting.

There is reason to believe that Premier Khrushchev, by reason of apparent Communist successes in many parts of the world and by reason of the reverses of the free world, and particularly the United States, is taking on the aspects of an overconfident man. It is possible he may be so overconfident that he could succumb to the same malady which afflicted Hitler.

If this should be the case, it is my feeling that our President, by meeting with him face to face, will be able to impress him otherwise.

President Kennedy has plenty of iron in his stomach. He has been pushed to extremes by events not of his own making since taking office, but from all indication he has about reached the point where he will not be pushed further—not by the Communists, by our allies, nor by the so-called neutralist-minded. He has a quiet and calm exterior, but underneath is a determination of purpose which Mr. Khrushchev should be able to understand after this face to face contact.

It is said: Giving someone confidential information (and particularly in Washington) is like a West Texas shower—it falls mostly in one spot but runs off in all directions.

The Texas Highway Department is divided into 25 Highway Districts, each being responsible for about ten counties and about 2,000 miles of highway.

About Chemical Food Poisoning

Ever since the start of public water fluoridation for the sake of dental health and the cranberry contamination scare of recent years, there has been growing concern in Texas and elsewhere that we are being "poisoned" by our own progress in chemistry.

The fact is that there is no evidence to indicate that any material approved for use in agriculture or public health has proven detrimental to man in connection with his diet.

The cause for alarm in practically every instance has been the peddling of misinformation, half-truths, statements out of context and concocted stories by seekers of notoriety. These alarmists are often foodfaddists or well-intentioned but uninformed people who believe that nothing wholesome ever came out of a chemical factory.

Actually, a vitamin is a vitamin whether it's made in a chemical factory or whether it comes from an orange. Oranges, especially Texas oranges, of course, are one of our best sources of natural Vitamin C, and in taste far superior to a vitamin pill.

Fluoridation of water — which must be exacting and carefully controlled — has reduced dental decay in youngsters by 50 to 60 percent in those communities which follow competent scientific advice. Anti-fluoridationists claim there's a difference between natural and artificially fluoridated water. Water with the mineral nutrient fluoride added and food enriched with vitamins have as much purity as ever and certainly more wholesomeness.

To cite an example close to home, in a recent year there was a sudden alarm sent against use of a chemical cotton defoliant containing arsenic acid because some Texas cottonseed oil products were found to have six parts arsenic acid per million. This seemed shocking and dangerous to the uninformed who weren't aware that arsenic acid is also a by-product of sea food and that a small shrimp cocktail contains a harmless 150 parts arsenic acid per million. The alarm was soon quieted.

Insecticides, certainly no aid to food enrichment as such, are nonetheless vital to production of healthy and undamaged foodstuffs. Use of such chemicals is carefully controlled and, despite fears and shoutings of alarmists, there is no record of any cancer or other serious human illness resultant from use of agricultural chemicals on food crops.

Fortifying of food is one of the outstanding advances of public health of all times. Vitamin D added to milk and other foods has helped abolish rickets. Salt with iodine added has practically eliminated simple goiter.

We have the best and finest food in history—also the safest.

Thanks to the many responsible companies that have in mind the welfare of the people as well as profits and the capable professional staff of the Food and Drug Administration, we can be confident and unafraid.

Around The Campus

The RJC journalism class wishes to pay tribute to Roy Crawley, one of the oldest members of the college staff in point of service. Assistant manager of the college cafeteria, Mr. Crawley joined the staff of Ranger College in September, 1948, when the cafeteria was located in what is now the bookstore.

Before coming to Ranger, Mr. Crawley lived in and around Gorman, where he was engaged in buying and selling cattle, butchering cattle for the market, and running a small cafe.

Many students through the years have made a deep impression on him. These he will not soon forget. Also he recalls with pleasure the good times and amusing experiences he has had with various boys. One incident that stands out in his memory occurred on a fishing trip he made with some of the boys to Possum Kingdom Lake. Two boys, who were going to Breckenridge to purchase food to take back to Mr. Crawley, borrowed his 12-gauge shotgun. On the way when they attempted to shoot a rabbit, the gun blew up, apparently because both barrels were stopped up. Another memorable occasion was an all-night fishing trip he made with some former students from Vernon.

Popular with and well-liked by students, Mr. Crawley likes students and gets along well with them. He takes an interest in them and their problems and has many friends among both students and ex-students. It is his opinion that the majority of the students who graduate from Ranger Junior College will make a success in life.

Outstanding Poetry By Ranger High Students

(Editor's note: The following poems were written by Mrs. Lily Robinson's English classes and were selected to be published in the National High School Poetry Association's publication "Young America Sings." Poems marked with an asterisk are listed as outstanding.)

To A Cloud
By Tim R. Covington
Roll on, oh ominous fluff,
Carry thy fleecy mass away,
Return again some other day,
Let the sun shine free and bright,
Deprive us not of its warning light,
Cover not the moon that lights the night.

Return, oh blessed mass of clouds,
Give life to earth with thy rain,
Make moist the flowers in the lane.
Forgive me, cloud, for wishing your flight,
Darken the sky and give us life
Spread your blessed mass to new found height.

Song of Nature
By Sarah Johnson
Let me walk in the life giving path.

Nature is my song.
She lives away from the world's troubled wrath
Where time should not belong.

God's love made her beauty
And here her love is ours.
She teaches that truth is our duty
Love our empires.
She fills our hearts with colors of gold;
Her felicity is free.
Her priceless enchantment can never be told.
She is life as it's meant to be.

Fog
By Gary Bradshaw
Like silent angels the fog ascends,
Slowly it rises, turns, and bends;
It engulfs cities both large and small,
And slides over buildings in summer and fall;
Although it vanishes, it sometimes reappears,
Perhaps not on schedule as the daylight nears.

Love
By Emma Montgomery
Love is the fruit of life.

It hangs on the boughs of a great tree.
It is food for the starving man.
Love is the foundation of all living things
It holds together the great house of mankind.
Love is the mother of that house.
Her skirts are the shelters of the lost,
The wronged, the happy, the sad.
But most of all, Love is God.

The Human Race
(As seen by a Monkey)
By Bert Young
There are many funny people in the human race,
Always trying to move at a faster pace.
Yes, the human race is as funny as can be,
They want everything they happen to see.
They aren't content to live on the earth,
They are never happy with a humble birth.
They wish they were birds so they could fly,
To take their troubles out into the deep, blue sky.
They imitate fish and swim in the ocean,
Or do anything they get a notion.
Yes, the human race is mixed up as can be.

The Sea
By Donna Drennan
Oh, that I were near the sea again
Just to be alone with God,
For I have lost a very dear friend,
And my heart is burdened with care.

Or that I might hear the sea once more
And see the waves rise and fall,
I know it has turmoil within,
As I have in my heart today.

If I could talk to the sea alone
And pour out my burdened heart,
Then I could return to my daily life,
Knowing my friend is at rest with God.

First Love
By Terry Hatfield
First Love is like a melody soft and sweet,
First love is a feeling that will never repeat.
First love makes one feel so warm deep inside,
First love comes only once, it's not like the tide.
When one is old, he may pretend there was never anyone else,
But deep down in his heart, he will always remember,
He will never forget his first love.

The Announcement
By Sue Cantwell
The Sun climbed silently into the sky,
The dew rested like new-born diamonds in the grass;
In the newly dressed trees birds sang,
As many colored flowers nodded slowly
In the lightly blowing breeze.
The world made its long awaited announcement;
Spring is here again!

The Making of Today
By Bill Perkins
The autumn leaves have blown away,
The winter days are not today,
Today is spring... to our delight,
Things to accomplish, I wish I might.
The robin sings his new spring song,
As the days for us start moving along.
Summer will soon be on its way,
Let's pause now and enjoy this day.

A Leaf Alone
By Melba Sue Wright
The tender leaf shyly gazed
Toward the hot and heartless sun.
Each tiny sprout on the tiny plant
Had withered... all but one.
The one remaining leaf,
Though tired and hot like the rest,
Did not know how to give up,
Did not know he was blest
With a never-dying faith
In God and His mercifulness.

Spring Warnings
By Sandra Vinson
The wind whispered low into my ear
Perhaps to warn that a storm was near.
I laughed with delight to feel the breeze
Tossed my curls and gently teased.
Tiny flowers had no strength for his might,
What ominous thing would he do tonight?
The small fluffy clouds danced with glee.
While the wind merrily waltzed with me.
What a wonderful friend the wind was now!
All of nature to him seemed to bow.
But wicked he grew with all his might.
What ominous thing would he do tonight?

Out of the five cents collected on each gallon of gasoline sold in Texas, only 3 1/4 cents goes into the highway program. The remainder is diverted to non-highway purposes.

Texas has a five-cent gasoline tax on each gallon sold, but 40 other States have a higher gasoline tax than Texas.

that we do something about Cuba, and in many is the question, "What about the Monroe Doctrine?"

The Monroe Doctrine was proclaimed on Dec. 2, 1823. It was chiefly directed at Russia as we might do if we were writing it today.

In the early 1800's Russia was looking to establish a colony in what is now the States of Oregon and Washington.

Just prior to this period Napoleon had been defeated and the stronger nations of Europe were looking for places to expand their empires. They were talking of sending fleets to South America to take over new governments which had been established after gaining their independence from Spain.

The idea of the Doctrine originated in the Administration of Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson was getting old. John Quincy Adams was Secretary of State and argued with Jefferson that the Doctrine should be made to apply to all of Europe and not just Russia alone.

This theory was carried forward through the James Madison Administration and finally formalized by James Monroe.

The first part of the Document is aimed directly at Russia and the second part at Emperors of Europe.

The United States had little to back up its declaration that foreign governments should not be permitted to gain a foothold in the Western Hemisphere, but depended on the British Navies to enforce the Doctrine. The Monarchs of Europe were angry and made open threats to ignore the pronouncement. Nothing happened a little more was heard about the matter until around 1845. Polk was President at this time and he found occasion to restate the policy.

Following this period and during the Civil War, France set up a puppet government in Mexico under Maximilian. From 1862 to 1867 the military power of France maintained the Emperor Maximilian on a shaky Mexican throne.

In this year of 1867 the United States had an Army left over from the Civil War. After a period to recoup and recover from the weariness of the conflict and the assassination of Lincoln, the United States gave France her orders to get out of Mexico. Without very much argument and less resistance, the French pulled out but left Maximilian. The emperor managed to hold together a small force of Mexicans who protected him for a short time but he was soon captured by Juarez and shot.

The United States has never permitted a foreign country to secure itself in the Western Hemisphere. In a day when all we had to back up our demand was determination, we were successful. We should be as determined today when we have the strength to enforce this policy.

Of course this is not 1823 nor 1845 nor 1867, an armada and armies are not invading Latin America or the Caribbean. But a different kind of invasion has taken place and it is time we expand the interpretation of the original Doctrine to include the insidious advances of Communism. If the Nations of Latin America will realize their eminent danger of this new invasion they will join the United States for the protection of their very existence as free and independent people.

The Monroe Doctrine is with us afresh. As the French say, "The more things change, the more they remain the same."

The Automobile Manufacturers Association estimates that the completion of the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways on schedule will produce net benefits to motorists from 1961 to 1980 of $98 and 1/2 billion.

Meditations

By Edward Mendez

It is a tradition in high schools that Juniors and Seniors are more or less at sword-points, but as the year draws to a close all thoughts of rivalry or enmity are forgotten. We as a class would like to give everyone, especially the Juniors, a series of meditations based most appropriately, on school. The experienced Seniors find it entirely fitting to begin with a serious matter like study, but let no one be deceived for we have not always been studious or serious. In fact, we firmly believe in the old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy— or Jill a dull girl, whichever you prefer." I imagine that some members of the faculty will be tempted to smile at that remark, feeling that there is little danger of any of our studying too much; however, we have honestly tried to reach a proper balance between work and play.

Another must is caution. Let me assure you that the Senior's dignity and Junior's proverbial envy must be combined in such a way as to please the faculty and other individuals without injuring anyone's feelings or detracting from the occasions that may arise. Realize the task facing you and we hope that you will succeed.

Commencement is a time when work done during the four years of High School is given proper recognition. Gratitude is expressed for kindness shown in the past, for special help given to individuals or entire classes, and for cooperation which has helped make the load lighter for teachers and pupils alike. Honors are bestowed on those who have done especially good work. In a way, the diplomas themselves are honors for without hard work they never would have been won. There are many phases to the subject of Honors, and they do not drop into our lap unannounced, nor do they come without effort on our part. True, occasionally people are honored in public when those who know them best think such Honor undeserved, eventually this will prove empty, indeed.

Closely related Honors are obligations. You should not obligations on every hand, and it behooves each of us to do our part. As a rule, your obligations are commensurate with your abilities and it is only fair that you assume them cheerfully. There is also a matter of opinions, which is interesting in the extremes. The world is composed of many kinds of people. No two are alike, and chances are that each one feels his or her own way is best. On every subject that come up from one day to another they think differently, and sometimes these differences cause friction between individuals or groups, but this is not necessary. For instance, take the Senior and Junior Classes. Many times they have not seen eye to eye, but they are still friends.

Study, Caution, Honors, Obligations, and Opinions have been mentioned but the list is still not complete. All these imply work, and as has been said before, we need more than work. When Study, has been given its proper place; Caution has been used in arranging work; when Honors have been won and Obligations fulfilled and when you have learned how to evaluate opinions, giving to others the privilege of holding for ourselves, we come to the realization that Leisure also deserves a place. How you spend that Leisure has been said is a fair criterion of your true worth. If you haven't thought of it in that light, this is a good time to begin. So follow students when you think of School remember the six words—Study, Caution, Honors, Obligation, Opinions and Leisure. Let them become part of your life as you go about your various duties.

TRACTOR TALK

Watch Gap When Installing Plugs
When installing either new or used spark plugs, always make sure that the gaps on all plugs are adjusted to the proper setting. Correct gap setting is extremely important, since it influences the entire range of engine performance—all the way from starting to top speed.

Gaps always should be adjusted with a feeler gauge made of round wire, since a flat gauge cannot possibly measure the curved or arched contour which the electrodes assume as they gradually erode through use.

Incidentally, when servicing plugs always file both electrodes flat to insure peak sparking performance. Filing the center electrode can be accomplished by bending the ground electrode slightly to allow room for the file.

If gaps are set less than standard, you may encounter misfiring at idle, uneven power and poor performance in general. Too wide a gap setting may cause poor performance at high speed, hard starting and coil strain.

Caution on Battery Hold-Downs
Are you aware of the consequences which may result when battery hold-downs are too loose or too tight?

CELIA JIMENEZ

I will my ability to get up, look up, and brace up to the fact that I can't get tickled in shorthand in this years shorthand class.

According to service engineers at Champion Spark Plug Company, hold-downs which are too loose may result in damage to elements, cracking or wearing of the container and loss of battery acid.

When hold-downs are too tight, the container may be distorted or cracked, sealing compound may be loosened with resultant acid loss from the cells.

In either case, loss of battery acid usually results in corroded terminals and cables, causing high resistance battery connections, which in turn, weaken the battery's power and shorten its life.

Thermostat Condition Important On Automatic Choke Trucks
Proper operation of the cooling system thermostat—important to the performance of any engine—is particularly important on farm trucks equipped with automatic chokes.

According to service engineers at Champion Spark Plug Company, all present automatic chokes are carefully designed to operate during the warmup period within the narrow range of temperature limits provided by the cooling system thermostat.

Should the thermostat be stuck open, or removed, engine temperature will be below normal during the warmup period, and will result in overheating carburetor flooding and resultant spark plug misfiring due to the accumulation of carbon deposits on the spark plug insulators.

The Basics of Spark Plug Heat Range

When replacing tractor and truck spark plugs, always be sure you install plugs of the correct heat range—and incidentally, a hotter heat range does not mean the plug supplies a hotter spark, as many farmers believe.

Heat range refers only to the spark plug's ability to dissipate heat from its firing tip—i.e. plugs having a hot heat range operate at a higher temperature than those having heat range (due to design characteristics).

With respect to heat range, engineers at Champion Spark Plug Company advise that all spark plug firing tips should run between 700 degrees F. and 1750 degrees F., depending upon engine operating conditions.

Below 700 degrees F., carbon and oil deposits are likely to form since the plug will not become hot enough to burn them off. Above the upper temperature limit, preignition may be encountered (shut off engine after a hard pull and it continues to run.)

In practice, temperature above 1500 degrees F., are avoided to eliminate electrode burning.

Spark plug ratings are established as the power level at which preignition occurs in a special test engine. A very hot plug enters preignition at low power while a very cold plug enters preignition at high power.

Highway Week Is Observed In Texas

Apprehension, not elation, is the dominant mood among top highway officials as the State of Texas observed National Highway Week last week.

State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer set the tone for the attitude of those in the Highway field toward Highway Week.

"It is not a week of appreciation, but of challenge," Greer declared. "We are more concerned with future problems than with past accomplishments. Highway Week was not to brag about what we have done, but to focus public attention on the immense highway problems that now confront us."

Highway Week was proclaimed nationally by President John F. Kennedy and in Texas by Governor Price Daniel. Citizens and groups interested in better highways are cooperating in the observance of the week throughout Texas.

One of Texas most critical highway problems, Greer said, is the fact that more than one-third of the total State-maintained highway mileage is obsolete—or about to become obsolete by modern traffic standards. This is the 25,000-mile system of Primary Highways (U. S. and State Highways).

The Primary System is "almost totally antiquated by the enormous increase in traffic," he said. Texas now has passed the five million mark in motor vehicles and is adding them at the rate of about a million every three years.

The Primary or "trunk" system of highways serves more than a thousand Texas cities and towns, but many of these routes were built years ago and are now inadequate to the task of carrying the huge present-day traffic load of 18 billion vehicle miles a year.

"We cannot get by with horse-and-buggy highways today," he warned. "The obsolescence of our trunk highway system will continue and will rapidly increase to the point where we may struggle in our own traffic if we are unable to make desperately needed improvements."

The trunk system is not only obsolete but underfinanced," he added. "In effect it is a highway stepchild. It is caught in a two-way squeeze on the highway dollar between demands for matching funds so that Texas can participate in Federal-aid programs, and demands for funds for year-to-year maintenance of our highway network including Farm to Market Roads."

A highway problem of similar magnitude is the mounting maintenance cost on Farm to Market Roads. "Texans take great pride in the fact that we have built a vast system of rural roads," he said. "Yet too few are aware that we have built a maintenance problem of equal magnitude."

"We cannot simply build roads and forget them. They must be properly maintained and perpetuated if their value and usefulness is to be protected."

He said the Texas Highway Department has already reached "the point of no return" on Farm to Market Roads. "We now find it necessary to spend more money annually on all forms of 'up-keep' on existing FM Roads than on construction of new ones," he explained. The FM System, totaling almost 34,000 miles, comprises more than half of the State-maintained highway mileage in Texas.

Greer said the obligations of participating in the construction of the 3,000-mile Interstate Highway System in Texas and maintaining the vast FM network is stretching the highway dollar too thin to care adequately for the Primary Highway System. "Our trunk system is rapidly being reduced to a state of poverty," he said.

Greer referred to Highway Week as "a time not to seek words of praise for past work, but a time to rededicate our efforts in preparation for the struggle ahead."

"I hope that Highway Week in Texas will bring our State's pressing highway problems fully into the open so that with public support we can meet and solve the demands of the most motorized nation on earth."

Good highways are the lifelines of commerce, industry, and recreation.

Texas has almost 34,000 miles of Farm and Ranch to Market Roads.

Senior Class Poem

Recited by SANDY VINSON POEMS and POEMS

Some poems deal with flowers, Bright blooming everywhere; Some poems deal with bird songs Borne on the summer air; Some poems deal with beauty And some with ugliness; Some speak of kindly neighbors And some—you'll never guess, But some paint fine word pictures Of scenes we dearly love: Some deal with earth's hard trials, And some with heaven above; Some stir the soul to action, Some lull it off to sleep, Some bring forth smiles like sunshine,

And some fair make you weep. This poem, however-ever, Is different from those, It deals with this year's seniors, And everybody knows Their class is sure a dandy— They started out that way, And they have been improving— Yes, every single day.

When they were little shavers, Before they came to school They heard about the teachers And every single rule They'd have to follow later— That bunch was surely wise— They were considered perfect In every teacher's eyes.

They didn't need to study, They were so very smart— No wonder that they gladdened The tired teachers' hearts! No wonder—oh, it's useless To try to make a list Of all those kids accomplished For some one would be missed.

When they came up to High School They still led the parade, They didn't need a helper To give them any aid. As Freshmen they were marvels, And stood right at the top, No one among their numbers Was ever known to flop.

As Sophomores they travelled Still farther on the road, Which leads to graduation, Each carried quite a load. Now, some of them were athletes— The records which they broke Astonished many coaches And surely were no joke. In basketball or football, In baseball or in track They added to the winnings And never did turn back. Dramatics, also music, Brought opportunity To prove that they had talent And real ability. Almost before they knew it They reached another stage Where they were known as Juniors And as they turned the page Of history they gloriéd

In honors newly won, And kept on climbing upward From dawn to set of sun. They still had fame as Juniors And still they forged ahead, Not one of them was troubled By any fear or dread. And then—they all were Seniors! Not one was known to fail— They looked on school as pleasure, Not as a horrid jail. Of course, there may be poets Down through the years of time Who have a higher rating In meter or in rhyme, But never was a poet With subject such as this— To write about these people Has brought me deepest bliss. I hope that as you listened You've felt the honor, too, And realized that seldom Do audiences like you Have chance to see such Seniors— It makes me very sad To have to close this poem— I hope that you're not glad! Yes, as I said, the poems Folks write from time to time Are very, very different In meter and in rhyme, But none were ever greater In subject—this is true, And now, I close the story— My sincere thanks to you!

The average highway improvement will produce more than three dollars in direct savings to motorists for every dollar it costs.

Good luck grads in whatever you attempt or plan.
