This announcement follows the comclear water, as by that time the tanks badly mangled. will have been filled and the pipes flushed and cleaned out. There are three of the new tanks, each with a capacity of nine hundred thousand gallons.

A great deal of other new machinery is being installed at the plant at present and when all of it is in place the plant will be a complete and modern one in every detail. This new machinery arrived recently and is now being put in position by an expert. The new pump will add materially to the efficiency of the plant.

Some patrons of the company have lost heart and predicted that clear water will never come, but there is every reason to believe that this latest promise will be made good and that the patience of the people will be no longer tried. It is promised that the service to follow the completion of all the improvements will more than atone for The muddy water was very disagree-. bad to drink after being thoroughly losses in the recent Gulf storm. boiled and filtered.

GIRL BACKED OUT.

Disappointed Groom-to-Be at the Last Moment.

Huntington, Tenn., July 28.-Jesse Dill, a young farmer of the Leach community, has in his posession an unused marriage license and an aching void in his heart; also a grouch against fickle femininity in general. Young Dill was to have been married to Miss Bertha Kelley of Leach, but his dream of bliss proved of brief duration and his plans were nipped in the bud. The bride-to-be changed her mind and gave him no other explanation.

Mr. Dill and Miss Kelley were to have been married last winter, but the marriage was postponed indefinitely by the young man. The young woman was greatly agrgieved, and it appears that she has been nursing her disappointment and awaiting a chance to get even with Dill, although permitting him to continue his attentions. The wedding day was set, and the couple were to have met at Hickory Flat Springs. Young Dill was to drive there and was to have been met by Miss Kelley, accompanied by a friend.

As Dill drove up to the meeting place the bride-to-be, with her escort, passd Dill in the road, but declined to stop. The angry groom-to-be, with his license secure in the bosom of his Sunday coat pocket, arrived at the springs and demanded an explanation, when the young lady informed him that she had changed her mind, as he had done on the previous occasion. The young man returned dejectedly to his home and refused to be comforted.

And could she play ball? Well! The swift curves came in, but there Stella stood, with neither mask nor chest protector, picking 'em off the bat.

A boy hit safely, but when he tried to steal second Stella was 'there with the Confederate Veterans, the citizens the goods. Her low, swift throw to second was in the baseman's hands when the runner was 10 feet away from the imaginary sack, and he was easily tagged out.

Then, the side being retired, Stella stepped up to the plate, and with an pitcher, waited for the right ball. It of private families where they will be eye that seemed to disconcert the rival came at last, and by the time the fielder had gotten through chasing it Stella had made the circuit of the

It was not until after the game that he slightest trace of the feminine showed itself. The team was being grouped for its photograph; the boys immediately became boisterous, and those of the rival team started to ease the girl. Stella playing ball was all right; nothing wonderful about that to the youthful mind, but Stella getting her picture taken was an entirely different person, and the flow of youthful jibes was fast. The feminine ball player could not stand that. She wept and scurried away to her mother.

Afterward she told how it was she started playing ball.

"About two years ago my brother Chester thought he would like to learn to pitch," said she, "but none of the boys would catch for him. They all wanted to be pitchers, too. I asked chester if he wouldn't let me catch. for him. He took me up on the roof. We kept practicing every day until Chester said I was the best catcher

"One Saturday the team was playng a big game and Chester was pitchng. The catcher couldn't hold him and Chester said, 'Huh, my sister's a better catcher than you are.' I went behind the bat. The boys saw I could play ball and they let me keep on.

"From that time I've been a regular member of the team. Say, we've got a mighty good team this year. Put that in the paper, will you?"

There is a reason for Stella's proficiency. Back in 1876 and 1877, when Hartford was in the National League, Stella's father, Frank Fiske, was a member of that team. He played profesisonal ball for many years. It is largely owing to his coaching that Stella is the ballplayer she is.

"I'd like to play in a big league, the way pop used to do,'' said Stella. 'but I guess I'll have to be satisfied with the bleachers."

Cut Between New York and London. Yew York, July 28.-The Conard liner Lusitania, which sailed from New York today is to be the first of the big mail steamships to call at Fishguard, the new port on the coast of Pembrokeshire, South Wales. Fishguard is 32 miles nearer Quenstown than Holyhead and 102 miles nearer than Liverpool. This means a saving of at least six hours against Liverpool, and will enable the Lusitania's passengers to reach London at a reasonable hour next Tuesday night. This is the shortest schedule ever arranged for regular travel between New York and the British metropolis. The same arrangement will also prevail in regard to the West-bound steamships of the Cunard line.

Many visitors to the reunion put in an appearance today. All arrivals were met at the depot and escorted to the homes entertained during the next two days of the gathering.

The vetrans and their friends will rally at the court house at 9 a. m., tomorrow morning and march in procession to Dellwood Park, where the sessions of the convention are to be held in the auditorium. Gen. K. M. Van Zant will preside over the gathering and the adress of welcome will be made by Mayor J. V. Moore. The business meetings will continue two days and will be liberally interspersed with features of entertainment. Each evening here there will be camp-fire meetings with addresses by prominent vetrans and others.

From the way Joe Ward has been pitching lately there is reason to believe that he will hold his job with the Boston Americans.

Players and Umpires in the New England league seem to be a bit mussy this season. They go to a clinch on the slightest provocation.

Can't See the Point.

No, but we'll bet the chap up the stump can feel it. And while maybe you cannot see the point of our argument when we say that you're likely to get stuck unless you buy lumber just as carefully as you would seed wheat, you're mighty likely to feel the effects of careless buying, when the stuff you get begins to warp and shrink. We can sell you thoroughly dry, well-seasoned lumber and building material just as cheap as you can buy green, or half-dry stuff elsewhere.

Don't take any chances. Let us 'show you.''

Rules For Dealing With the Fly Nuisance

Keep the flies away from the sick, especially those ill with contagious diseases. Kill every fly that strays into the sick room. His body is covered with disease germs.

Do not allow decaying material of any sort to accumulate on or near your premises.

All refuse which tends in any way to fermentation, such as bedding straw, paper waste and vegetable matter, should be disposed of or covered with lime or Kerosene oil.

Screen all food, whether in the house or exposed for sale.

Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered and the cans cleaned or sprinkled with oil or lime. Keep all stable manure in vault or pit, screened or sprinkled with lime, oil or other cheap preparations, such as are sold by a number of reliable manufacturers.

See that your sewerage system is in good order; that it does not leak, is up to date and not exposed to flies.

Pour kerosene into the drains.

Burn or bury all table refuse.

Screen all windows and doors, especially in the kitchen and dining room.

It you see flies, you may be sure that their breeding place is in nearby filth. It may be behind the door. under the table or in the cuspidor.

If there is no dirt and filth there will be no flies.

If there is a nuisance in the neighborhood write at once to the health department.

TO KILL FLIES:

The London "Lancet," the leading medical journal of the world, says that the best and simplest fly-killer is a weak solution formaldehyde in water (two teaspoonfuls to the pint). Place in plates or saucers throughout the house. Ten cents worth of formaldehyde will last an ordinary family all summer. It has no offensive smell, is fatal to disease organisms, and is practically non-poisonous except to insects. Pyrethrum powder, which may be bought at any drug store, burned in the house will also kill the flies.

The negro element plays no part in the convention this year and the gathering promiese to be harmonious throughout. The party is united in desire to select the best man available to head the ticket. Several candidates are in the field and the ultimate choice cannot be foretold with a certainty.

That the question of prohibition will e made the chief issue of the fall campaign seems certain. The Republican convention is expected to adopt a platform advocating State-wide prohibition in opposition to the stand which the Democrats are expected to take in support of local option. Alleged extravagance in the administration of the affairs of the state will be condemned, a demand will be made for the election of public school superintendents by popular vote and other State issues will be dealt with in vigorous fashion. The platform will also include a hearty indorsement of the country. Taft administration.
