INSURRECTIONISTS ARE IN THE SADDLE

SEEM TO HAVE UPPER HAND IN BARCELONA RIOTING, BUT ARE UNDER FIRE.

DYNASTY IS TOTTERING

Such is Bellef That Prevails in Political Centers of Europe at the Present Time.

By Associated Press.
Paris, July 29.—The insurrection in Spain now completely overshadows the war in Africa in the eyes of Europe. Grave fears are entertained for the extension of the insurrection to the danger of the dynasty. The entire Third and Fourth corpse and the Madrid cavalry brigade have been dispatched to Catalonia.

By Associated Press.
Madrid, July 29.—In view of the grave situation at Barcelonia, which is steadily growing worse, the naval infantry has been ordered to that city. Since the declaration of martial law throughout Spain, the censorship of news has been severe.

A complete mobilization of the Sparish army has been ordered, all officers on leave recalled and reserves of all classes summoned to the colors. COMMITTEE TO MEET EARLY No one is allowed to enter Spain without permission of the military authorities, and the censor forbids telegraphic communication with Bilboa. It is reported that Premier Maura has resigned, but that Kink Alfonso declines to accept.

By Associated Press. Amarillo Aspirants Cropping Out Thick and Fast-R. W. Hall for the State Senate.

The political line-up in Northwest Texas and the Panhandle is already being watched closely though the election is a year off yet, and candidates' announcements have been few in this section. Considerable gossip is in circulation about Panhandle politics, and some interesting contests may be expected as soon as the time arrives. State Senator John W, Veale has said that he will not run for re-election and his friends say that he means it. As his successor, R. W. Hall of Vernon and Dick Bowman of Amarillo have been prominently suggested; while Hamilton of Childress is understood to be willing. Mme. Tussaud Had an Exciting and Dramatic Career.

IN THE FRENCH REVOLUTION.

During That Era of Bloodshed She Modeled Some of the Heads That Fell by the Guillotine and Was For a Time In Prison Herself as a Suspect.

This is the story of Mme. Tussaud, who was born in Berne in 1760 and died in London in 1850, and who, during the stormy time of the French revolution, modeled in wax some of the heads that fell by the guillotine.

Marie Gresbolts was the daughter of an aid-de-camp of General Wurmser in the Seven Years' war. She was born after the death of her father.

Her mother was the sister of Dr. John Christopher Curtius of Berne. This Dr. Curtius had made many anatomical and other models in wax and had attracted the attention of the Prince de Conti. This nobleman urged Curtius to come to Paris and establish himself as a modeler in wax.

The Curtius studio became the ren dezvous of the fashionable world, and in connection with this he had a muse um of curiosities. Among his patrons were Voltaire, Jean Jacques, Rous-seau, Mesmer, Mirabeau, Diderot, Benjamin Franklin, Paul Jones and many other notable persons.

In his visits to his sister at Berne Dr. Curtius had taught his niece, Marie, many of the secrets of modeling in wax. She showed such ability in this that her uncle urged her mother to make a home with him in Paris and to allow him to adopt Marie as his daugh-

Marie began earnest study with Dr. Curtius, and she was so skillful in the modeling of wax flowers that this art became a craze. Even the royal personages in the palace took it up, and Marie spent some time giving lessons to Mme. Elizabeth, the young sister of Louis XVI.

When the revolution broke out Dr. Curtius took the side of the people and sent for Marie to come from the palace. It was rather singular that two of his wax models should have played a foremost part in the opening scenes of that awful period. In his collection of models' was a bust of the minister, Necker, father of Mme. de Stael, and one of Philippe, duke of Orleans. Two days before the storming of the Bastille a mob took these two busts from his museum in the Palais Royal, draped them in black crape to show their sympathy and started to parade the streets with these.

As the procession filed across the Place Vendome a troop of dragoons and one of the regiments charged. A sword stroke cut the bust of Necker in halves, and the man who was carrying it was hit by a musket ball in the leg and received the thrust of a sword in his breast.

escaped injury, but in the fight to de fend it several persons were killed. The soldiers made desperate efforts to demolish it.

At the taking of the Bastille Dr. Curtius was active and for his services to France was rewarded by the national assembly. A badge of honor was presented to him, and this was inscribed with the famous date and a memorial of his bravery and patriotism. His house was a favorite place of meeting with the leaders of the revolution, so Marie had an opportunity to see them

There was only one time when Marie was in any danger during this desperate period. She was "suspected" and sent to prison. Here at the same time was Mme. de Beaubarnais, who had barely escaped the guillotine and who was later the Josephine of Napoleon Bonaparte. Her uncle was able to get Marie's release from prison, and she came out in time to see the downfall of Robespierre, Danton and Des-

In the days of their power she had been called to model the heads of many who fell by the guillotine. She was obliged to take them just after the fall of the fatal knife. She did this awful work with the heads of poor Marie Antoinette and of the Princes Lamballe, the queen's friend. When the leaders suffered by the guillotine in their turn she modeled their heads.

After the revolution her uncle died, and in 1795 she married M. Tussaud. She could not overcome the shock of her experiences during the revolution, and she persuaded her husband to take her and the valuable collections of wax models left her by Dr. Curtius over to England.

They established this collection in the Strand. The collection was taken all about the country, and in 1833 it was brought back to London and made a permanent exhibition. Her sons conducted the business, and she took an active share in this till she was eighty years of age.-Boston Globe.

Naming Their Children. It was a musical man who gave his four daughters the following names: Do-re, Mi-fa, So-la, Ti-do. The first escaped with the nickname Dora, the econd answered Miffy, the third owned up to Solly, while the youngest generally got Tiddy.

The case of the musical man is matched by that of the provincial printer who named his children from the type fonts he used—Ruby, Pearl, Dlamond. The first two are no uncommon names for girls, only Ruby hap-poned to be a boy. He followed in his father's footsteps and afterward be-came a printer's manager in London.—

When the New York Ledger was wavering on the brink of failure Robert Bonner, the proprietor, sent to the New York Herald a brief advertise-ment, to be set up in a single line. So Greeleyesque was Mr. Bonner's handwriting that the advertising manager interpreted the directions as ordering that the copy be run in full page, which instructions he obeyed, though marveling greatly. The Herald came out the next morning with one whole page devoted to the crisp adjuration to read the Ledger's new story. The effect upon Mr. Bonner was almost fatal, first from chagrin at the thought of the possible bill, then from amazement as subscriptions began to pour in and finally from satisfaction as they continued to flood the office until the fortune of the publication was made. The novel though accidental device had struck the public's fancy. Mr. Bonner was halled as the ploneer of a new and daring theory of exploitation, and the advertisement gained tenfold currency by being commented upon as a feature of the news.-Collier's.

Trumpeting Ancient German Chorele The most notable ornament of Rothenburg is the rathhaus, which no artist who visits the town fails to sketch. It is of a most imposing beauty, consisting of an older gothic building dating back to the middle of the thirteenth century, with an elaborate renaissance facade. It was from its darkling dungeons that many of the instruments of torture in the museum at Nuremberg came, for Rothenburg was not tender in its treatment of prisoners. The earlier building has a high square tower crowned with a bell cupola, where thrice a week the choir of St. Jakob's, a reverend church lying within its shadow, painfully climbs, armed with trumpets and other musical instruments. The sweet Lutheran chorale is repeated four times as the musicians respectively face the four points of the compass, and the ceremony, so in keeping with the quaint, old time life of the town, is one of the visitor's unforgettable memories of Rothenburg.-Rothenburg (Bavaria) Letter to Vogue.

He Was Superstitious.

He was a big, hearty workingman, and when a spare, thin little man entered the tram car; stumbled and sat upon him he said in reply to the little man's apologies:

"Don't trouble, sir; it's all right. There's no 'arm done.'

When we saw the big man a week later we were shocked at the change in him. He seemed to have shrunk to half his former bulk.

"Why, whatever's the matter?" we exclaimed.

"You remember that little man wot sat on me in the train last week, sir?" "Yes."

"Well, it's all through 'im I'm wastin' away like this!" "Preserve us!" we cried. "How?

The shrunken giant wrung his hands in despair.

"I found out next day," he groaned, me! I'm shuperstishus, an' it's lookin' ahead I am. O Lor'!"-London Mail.

The First Postage Stamp.

The black penny postage stamp of 1840, the first stamp ever issued, was distinctly unpopular and gave place to a red one after a year's existence. Great Britain was the first country in the world to use postage stamps, and the English schoolboy of the period seems to have regarded them as a nuisance rather than a national benefit. "Have you tried the stamps yet?" wrote one of them to his sister in the year 1840. "I think they are very absurd and troublesome. I don't fancy making my mouth a glue pot, although, to be sure, you have the satisfaction of kissing the back of her graclous majesty the queen. This is, however, I should say, the greatest insult the present ministry could have of-fered the queen."—London T. P.'s Weekly.

Fields and Orchards of France.

From Avignon to Lyons the railroad runs through a rich country, the fruit trees covered with blossoms and the forests assuming their robes of green, altogether making a picture beautiful to look upon. From Lyons to Paris the orchards, the vineyards and the growing grain delight the eye of the traveler from oriental deserts and remind him of Macaulay's poem:

Now let there be the merry sound of music and of dance Through thy cornfields green and sunny vines, oh, pleasant land of France! For truly it is a pleasant land.-Paris Letter to Denver Post.

"Tell me frankly, sir, what do you think of my daughter's voice?" "Well, madam, I think she may have a brilliant future in water color painting."-Paris Figaro.

AS TO THE PROPOSED AMEND-

MENTS.

On next Tuesday, August 3rd, the election for the adoption or rejection of the three proposed constitutional amendment will take place. The resolution to amend Section 3, Article 7 Clay will soon be too "dry" for workof the Constitution of Texas, is in regard to the formation and taxing power of schol districts, and anything which tends to improve our present public school facilities is deserving of the ed the channel, he said, "I told you endorsement of all good citizens. In the opinion of this paper, this proposed amendment should be adopted, as well as the one which will be designated on the ticket to be voted as "Article 7, Section 3," validating independent school district bonds, which a decision of the higher court declare to have been illegally issued. These bonds, or a greater part of them, were purchased by the State, and the money realized from their sale has been used for the education of the school chilbe repudiated , which will be done if had written, saying he had killed his dren. It is a just debt and should not the proposed amendment in voted wife.

The other amendment designated as Article 11, Sections 4 and 5, is one which should require careful thought and study. This proposed amendment gives to cities and towns of more than 5,000 population the right to take out charters by special act of the legislature, and levy and collect a tax of not more than two and one-half per cent of the taxable values of such towns or citites. To make this read plainer, it means that such cities operating under such charters granted under the provisions of Section 5, of this proposed amendment will have the right to assess $2.50 on every $100.00 worth of taxable property within the jurisdiction of such cities. Thus, if the man who owns a home valued at $1,000 for taxation purposes, he will be, or can be, required to pay to the city in which such property is located the sum of $30.00 annually as city taxes. In addition to the city tax, the property owners, large and small alike. will be required to pay State and County taxes, and if such citites operating under such charters happen to be located within an independent school district, it also means that an additional school tax of 50c on the $100 valuation will have to be met. In the opinion of this writer this proposed amendment should be defeated for the reason that its provisions are apt to work a hardship on the poor man who, in a majodity of cases, does not own anything but his home.

The original daughter of the Revolution has been discovered in Massachusetts. She was born on a merrygo-round.

It will soon be a bum town that has no amateur aeroplanist.

Massachusetts Man Adopts Brutal Method

New Bedford, Mass., July 29.-Robert E. Fanning of Westport, son of a wealthy manufacturer, killed himself earl ytoday in the Central Police Station here, after delivering a letter he

Soon after, policemen found the body of the dead woman in the spot to which the letter directed them. She had been beaten to death with a tomahawk, dug up from an Indian mound.

Five years ago Fanning, a man in moderate circumstances, met and married Tina Hall, the beautiful daughter of George Hall, the wealthiest man in Westport, enjoying an income of $25,-000 a year.

Last night Fanning went to the Tripp a walk with him, that they might talk over their troubles. Mrs. Fanning did not return.

Fanning went to his home, where he stayed until early morning, when he drove to the police station in his auto-

He was greatly excited when he walked up to Police Lieutenant Comstock's desk, shortly after 1:30 a, m: He steadled himself sufficiently to ask Comstock to read the letter.

Comstock read a part of the contents and then turned to Fanning and said: What do you want me to do about

Fanning answered, ''Just this,' ' and drew a revolver, the muzzle of which he placed in his mouth,

The letter which Fanning attempted to read aloud before he killed himself was addressed to the Chief of Police of New Bedford. It is as follows:

"To Whom It May Concern: I am very, very sorry for what has occurred, and the public can judge for themselves if I was not too hasty and likewise my wife, God bless her. "My baby is still living by this time, God bless her, and I hope she will never know what happened to her good father and mother. I loved my child better than myself.

May God give me His blessing and to my child everlasting good will. I have had a good deal to put up with, and the end is near.

"Trusting my baby will have the best of care, as she is one of the best babies that ever lived. It is hard to leave such a happy child, but, my God,

"'Oh, God, I wish I could live to comfort my child. She has everything to live for. I hope she will benefit by it, as there is enough for her to be wealthy. I would like to have my baby join us, but as cruel as I am, I have no heart for such."

Mystery of the Great Monuments Found In This Country.

RELICS OF A VANISHED RACE.

The Strangely Shaped Structures Are Thousand Years Old-The Enigma of Those Who Reared Them.

Scattered through the middle west and in other parts of the United States are more than 10,000 monstrous, odd shaped "mounds." Some are built like forts, others in queer, sharp geometrical figures, others shaped like huge serpents, crocodiles, buffaloes, turtles, eagles, lizards, dragons with eggs in their mouths, etc. Some of these mounds are a mile long, some much smaller. In Newark, O., stands a continuous mound, constructed in a perfect circle, more than 5,000 feet in circumference. The mounds are often covered with trees that are many cen- was destined to enjoy. turies in age. These strangely shaped structures are thought to be more than 2,000 years old.

Who built them? Certainly not the North American Indians. The Indians have ever beep a lazy, roving race, making their livelihood chiefly by hunting and fishing, 810,000. seldom remaining long in one neighborhood, and using tents or the rudest buts as their dwelling places.

The mysterious people who built the mounds were not a race of rovers. An infinitely long time must have been required for erecting each huge earth shape. Nor were they ignorant savages, for the mounds show deep astronomy and of the principles of States and Canada. building. Carefully laid out military fortifications abound in the mound builders' country, indicating that the aborigines had martial lore and engineering skill and that they under stood many modern principles of attack and defense.

As the bones of Europeans who died twenty centuries ago are often found intact and strong, many authorities believe the mound builders date back at least gists. several centuries before the time of Julius Caesar.

Cleverly made pottery and copper or bronze implements of war and peace. are found all through the mounds. Ancient abandoned copper mines on the banks of Lake Superior show that the mound builders well understood the art of mining. The workmanship of the copper bracelets, bronze knives, etc., prove their skill at the forge.

From all this it seems that in some who flourished apparently during numerous centuries. Yet sc long ago did the mound builders cease to exist that in all Indian folklore there is no mention, no memory, of them.

None know where the Indians themmound builders had vanished. The not shaped in the least like skulls of earlier than the hour above named. Indians nor even of Europeans. Some archaeologists claim to find strong resemblance between the mound builders' skulls and those of the ancient Egyptians. If there were any connection between the two, who can explain how an Egyptian race chanced to flourish in the middle west?

The fate of the mound builders is as mysterious as the strange people themselves. After reaching so high a civilization and thriving for so long a time it seems strange that they should have been completely destroyed. No satisfactory explanation has ever been offered. Perhaps the mound builders moved south and became merged with the Mexican Aztecs or Peruvians, or 56x165 feet. No interest. some savage race from the north may 59-5tp have swept down and utterly destroyed them, or a wholesale pestilence may have wiped out their nation.

The weird looking earthen monuments (the purpose of most of them a puzzle to the best archaeologists) are the sole remaining proof that this great lost American race ever existed. -New York World.

WORLD'S CONGRESS.

M. C. A. Men From World Over Berlin.

Berlin, Germany, July 29 .- The world's congress of the Young Men's Christian Association, which was formally opened at Barmen Elberfeld last evening, began its regular sessions today with an attendance that had been considerably increased by a number of late arrivals. The roll call at the morning session showed the presence Thought to Be More Than Two of delegates from more than twenty nations. The United States and Great Britain are the best represented numerically.

When the late Sir George Williams called together a few of his fellow clerks in a London drapery establishment sixty-five years ago and took steps to organize the ; 'Young Men's Christian Association,' the object of which was stated to be 'to improve the spiritual condition of young men engaged in the drapery and other trades,' he scarcely could have foreseen the marvelous growth and worldwide influence which the organization

District Judge Carrigan is the Victim of Circumstances.

Judge A. H. Carirgan was locked out of his own home recently and was forced to spend the night as best he could on his gallery. He arrived from Abilene at a late hour to find the front door locked and the doorbell out of order. Early next morning Mrs. Carrigan awoke to hear a peculiar rasping noise emanating from the front portico.

FAVORITE GAS STOVE

until you have used one. It is as great an improvement on a coal stove as the latter is on the old fashioned fire place. At the touch of a match it gives an intense heat just when you want it. Instantly controlable. No smoke, no smell, no coal to bring up, no ashes to carry out, no uneven temperature, no fallen cakes or pies, no delayed meal. Not necessary to change your nice dress; everything clean and tidy. We sometimes take in your old stove as part payment.
