Mr. Green is the manager of this large property and will have charge of the hunting party during the president's visit to that portion of Texas. Mr. Tandy has about concluded to accept the invitation and will take two of his favorite dogs with him in the event that he does.

The invitation states that the hunt will consist of jack rabbit chasing, but there is an abundance of deer in that vicinity and it is more than likely that the presidential party will go after larger game.

Texas News Service Special.
Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 1.—W. J. Bryan told a Texas News Service correspondent today that he had just received a lengthy letter from John H. Kirby, of Houston, Texas, which asserted that Bryan's statement that Kirby sought a tariff on lumber is unfounded and grossly unjust.

Bryan said he would answer Kirby's letter, but not today, because it is his twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, and he does not desire political issues to break into the celebration.

Bryan shows no anxiety and still insists that he will not encourage a tariff debate between himself and Senator Bailey, fearing its effect upon the party.

UNMISTAKABLE IRON ORE DEPOSITS IN SOUTHWESTERN PART OF COUNTY

Unmistakable evidences of iron ore deposits have been found on the Ross Ranch, southwest of this city, near the Clay County line, and there is little doubt that there is a substantial quantity of the mineral there. The discovery was made recently by O. O. Ross, owner of the ranch.

The specimens obtained were apparently thrown up out of the earth by some sort of an eruption and the ore has the appearance of being charred. In other places in that part of the county are rocks with iron streaks in them, strengthening the prospects of there being a paying quantity. There are several long ridges of land each ending abruptly in a bluff and upon these bluffs the evidences are strong. The discovery was not made

NEW YORK EXTENDS PEARY AN OVATION

INFORMAL RECEPTION SCARCELY LESS ENTHUSIASTIC THAN COOK'S.

TAKES PART IN PARADE

Peary Greeted at Depot By Small Crowd—Whitney Declines to Talk.

Texas News Service Special.
New York, Oct. 1.—Commander Peary and his wife arrived here early today from Portland, Maine. There were few persons at the station when the commander arrived, on account of the early hour. The Arctic steamer Roosevelt was coming up the Harbor amid the salutes of other ships when the commander arrived.

Peary refused to talk about the north pole controversy until his formal statement is prepared.

With Commander Peary and every member of the crew that accompanied him on his quest for the north pole, aboard the steamer Roosevelt was a salient feature of the naval parade today up the lower Hudson to meet the Half Moon and Clermont at Newburg. A great fleet of excursion boats, steam tugs, yachts, motor boats and other craft fell into line for the fifty mile journey to Newburg.

The Roosevelt's progress to the dock at the foot of West Forty-second street was marked by the continuous blast of whistles and when it came off the river drive where the crowd was gathered and started up the river the salute was taken up by thousands of cheering voices. After the arrival of the fleet at Newburg there was a street parade in which the sailors and marines from warships joined. In all there were twenty-two American warships in today's demonstration.

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—The board of directors of the National Geographic Society at a special meeting today, decided it could not now recognize Dr. Cook in an official way. It urged both Peary and Cook to submit at once the data to a competent scientific commission in the United States before the secretary would accept the conclusions of either explorer.

By Associated Press.
St. Johns, N. B., Oct. 1.—Harry Whitney, while passing through this city today re-affirmed his belief that both Cook and Peary reached the pole.

By Associated Press.
Truro, N. S., Oct. 1.—Harry Whitney, who was with Cook at Etah, arrived here last night from St. Johns, N. F., and took the train for New York to see Cook. Whitney declined to make any statement.

R. A. THOMPSON HERE.

New Northwestern Official Arrives to Assume His Duties.

R. A. Thompson, who has accepted a position with the Wichita Falls Route, arrived this afternoon to assume his duties with that road. Mr. Thompson was formerly chief engineer for the railroad commission, which he resigned to accept a position with the Wichita Falls Route, later going to the interstate commerce commission as engineer.

TROUBLE FOR MAIL MAN.

County Methods Not Satisfactory for City Use.

The failure of many local letter-writers to have their street or box number put on their mail is causing considerable trouble at the postoffice and is the cause of many people getting their mail twelve hours late. The clerks are compelled to stop and look at the address on each letter and this takes a great deal of time. Letters without the street numbers are well enough for small towns where everybody knows everybody else, but in a city this size, it hampers the mail service to a material extent.

OIL TRADE MADE.

Texas Company Buys Heavily in Flat Rock District.

Texas News Service Special.
Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 1.—The Texas Company today purchased the holdings of the Alpine Oil Company in the Flat Rock district, for three hundred thousand dollars. These holdings consist of leases of two hundred acres north of this city, producing fifteen hundred barrels daily. This is the biggest sale ever made in the Flat Rock fields.

FITZPATRICK ASSUMES HIS WORK ON VALLEY

R. G. Fitzpatrick, who succeeds O. E. Maer as superintendent of the Wichita Valley, has arrived in the city and is stopping at the St. James. Today he and Mr. Maer are on an inspection tour down the line. Mr. Maer will leave to assume his duties at Childress within a few days.

Up to noon today nothing further had been received regarding the appointments on the Denver to succeed Mr. Fitzpatrick. There is little doubt remaining, however, that a Wichita Falls man will succeed Mr. Fitzpatrick and that a Denison man will be brought here to fill the vacancy here. This is not official, but is considered practically certain.

5000-MILE WALK.

Texan Hiking from Montana to Canal Zone for $7000.

Texas News Service Special.
El Paso, Tex., Oct. 1.—Advice from Mexico City say that Clarence O'Neill who is walking from Montana to the Panama Canal Zone, reached that city today. The pedestrian says immediately after arriving at Panama he will return to Beville, Texas, and marry his sweetheart. He will also receive seven thousand dollars for walking five thousand miles.

101 RANCH NEGRO, KNOWN HERE, KILLED AT WACO

Pete Marshall, a negro connected with the 101 Ranch Show which was here last week, seems possessed of an unfeeling propensity to get into trouble and largely as a result of this he was killed at Waco last night. It was this same negro who caused such a furor here by firing three blank cartridges at a local negro when the ranch show was in this city a week ago, because the Wichita black made slighting remarks about him. The story of his Waco trouble came over the wire today and is as follows:

Texas News Service Special.
Waco, Tex., Oct. 1.—Bayless Clay, the city dog catcher is under arrest this morning charged with killing Pete Marshall, a member of the negro band of the 101 Ranch show here last night. The killing was after midnight and followed a dispute over the possession of a dog which Clay had taken to the pound. The negro was shot five times.

NOVEL SUIT FILED.

Twenty Thousand Dollars Asked For Sponge Sewed in Wound.

Texas News Service Special.
Dallas, Oct. 1.—A novel suit was instituted today here by A. G. McDowell against Dr. V. P. Armstrong, asking twenty thousand dollars damages. McDowell alleges that Armstrong in operating on Mrs. McDowell for appendicitis, failed to remove a piece of sponge from the wound. The patient did not recover and a second operation six months later, revealed the sponge sewed in the wound.

Elsa Ryan has been engaged as the leading woman with Frank Daniels in "The Belle of Brittany," in which he will star.

BOND ELECTION FOR ROADS IS PLANNED

CAMPAIGN IS TO BEGIN SOMETIME THIS FALL AND MOVE-MENT PUSHED.

ARE BADLY NEEDED NOW

Necessity for Improvement Becoming More and More Evident—Plans Under Way.

At the next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce the question of a good roads campaign will come up for attention and the advisability of asking for a bond issue election will be considered. This matter has been hanging in the balance for some time and it is thought that the time for some definite action has come.

Two plans for good roads betterment are being considered. The first is for a county bond election for $100,000 or $150,000 and let each precinct share in the benefits, the other is for a Precinct No. 1 election, for the improvement of the roads in the immediate vicinity of Wichita Falls only. The first plan is meeting with more favor as it would give other towns in the county good connection with this city by roads as well as by rail. If the precinct method is decided upon, the amount of bonds issued will not exceed fifty thousand.

The question of good roads in this county has been broached from time to time, but was never agitated with any seriousness until this year, when the Chamber of Commerce took the matter up and endorsed the plan for an election. Preceding the election it is proposed to conduct a campaign of education and hold meetings at various points in the county to show the need for better roads and the good results which will follow improvements. The election will probably not be called before sometime next spring.

Notice to Stockholders.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wichita Valley Railroad Company will be held at the principal office of the Company in the State of Texas, on Thursday, November the 4th, 1909, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing a board of directors and transacting such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

At the close of such meeting there will be held a meeting of the board of directors to elect officers and for the transaction of any other business that may come before the meeting.

W. Y. McCUNE,
Secretary.

Three Banks Fail to Report.

Texas News Service Special.
Austin, Oct. 1.—Three state banks failed to report today their adoption of the deposits guaranty plan, and are liable to certification before the attorney general for suit, as they are not complying with the law. The department withholds their names. It is announced that if the reports are received showing a selection of some plan actually made before the end of September, there will be no prosecution. Ten of the twelve reporting today, accepted the guaranty plan.

Freight Derailment Stops Traffic.

The breaking of a truck on a south bound freight train shortly after noon today resulted in tying up traffic here for several hours this afternoon, and the north bound train was unable to leave until nearly four o'clock, the southbound being kept from coming in until about 3:30. The damage to the truck resulted in the derailment of the car and it required several hours to repair the damage, traffic being held up in the meantime.

Law Enforcement Meetings Sunday

Some of the Speakers.

GEORGE R. STUART.

For the past year the Anti-Saloon League has been considering the best plan to bring about the more perfect enforcement of the Temperance Laws of Texas. Word has come from nearly all points that the Temperance Laws of the State are now enforced as well as the laws against burglary, murder, etc., but it is the purpose of the Anti-Saloon League to bring about such thorough enforcement of the prohibitory laws at once that the real commercial and moral value of prohibition may be easily seen by all and thus become popular with the people. This will greatly and permanently cripple the saloon crowd. To this end the Anti-Saloon League has published a brief of the Texas Temperance Laws (to be found elsewhere in this issue), and has planned a series of Law Enforcement rallies to be held in every section of the State, to be addressed by eminent speakers, whose names will be given to the public later; but one announcement that may be made now is that the world's greatest temperance orator, Rev. George R. Stuart, has been engaged to tour the State for five weeks during the fall and winter.

TO PREVENT STUART FROM SPEAKING.

It has been rumored that an attempt will be made to keep Stuart from entering Texas for this purpose, but these attempts will avail nothing. He will be here, and he will be heard by thousands upon thousands of people, and everyone who does not hear him will be disappointed.

WHERE STUART WILL SPEAK.

The location of the points in the State where Mr. Stuart will speak has been difficult, as there have come so many requests from different towns and cities. No partiality has been shown in locating the great Stuart meetings, as it has been the desire of the Anti-Saloon League to reach the most strategic points and the largest number of people. Elsewhere in this issue will be seen the dates and places where these great Law Enforcement meetings are to be held.

STERLING P. STRONG,
Superintendent Anti-Saloon League.
CHARLES W. CROOKE,
Assistant State Superintendent.

"I regard George R. Stuart as the greatest living evangelist."
SAM P. JONES.

"George R. Stuart is the best and most accomplished lecturer preacher of his order in the United States of America. In a side survey on two continents I have never met his equal."
S. PARKS, CADMAN, Pastor,
Central Pres. Church, Buffalo, N. Y.

For years Rev. Geo. Stuart has been with Rev. Sam P. Jones in the evangelistic work, and is a good match for this marvelous reformer and preacher. Mr. Stuart is a remarkable man. His wealth of thought and expression is surprising. His words burst from his soul like a great torrent from its mountain source and sweeps over his crowds, stirring them, moving them, uprooting them. He is wise in the choice of illustrations and master in their use. Sam Jones' genius was never better displayed than in the selection of this gifted and eloquent Tennessean for his associate.
—Atlanta Journal.

"He declares the truth, clothed in humor, pathos, fire. You laugh, you cry, you repent and pray. Few of us have witnessed a wilder scene than we saw on Friday night. So powerful was his energy of speech, so convincing was the argument that the large audience—three thousand strong—yelled like soldiers scoring a victory in a hard fought battle. It was a memorable occasion."
—Midland Methodist, Nashville, Tenn.

"He has the fluency of Talmadge, the pathos of Moody and the humor of Sam Jones."
—Galveston (Tex.) News.

STUART IN PANHANDLE.

It has been definitely decided that the first week of the George R. Stuart Law Enforcement meetings will be held in the Panhandle, as follows:

- Hereford, Sept. 28.
- Plainview, Sept. 28.

BIGGEST GAME IN WORLD FOUND AT LAKE VICTORIA

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 1.—Colonel Roosevelt has only begun to learn of the enormous quantities of big game in British East Africa, Uganda and the lake regions. There's a revelation ahead of him when he treks westward to Lake Victoria.

W. G. Sewall, explorer, hunter, graduate of Harvard, London clubman and owner of 70,000 acres of land in British East Africa, who has come to Spokane to make an investigation of the bonanza wheat fields in eastern Washington and Oregon, north and central Idaho and western Montana preliminary to seeding his vast holdings, made the foregoing remark in the course of a conversation in the rooms of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce. He added:

"The country is literally packed with all kinds of wild animals, including elephants, lions, antelope, buffalo, hippos, topi, waterbucks, hartbeets, leopards and rhinos; in fact, there he will find sufficient big game to fill every room in the Smithsonian Institute and several others."

Sewall is an interesting person. He is a typical Englishman, and is as familiar with the eastern hemisphere as with the western, having a home in Boston, lodgings in London, clubs here and there between Boston and Tokyo in one direction, and Boston and London in another.

He trekked along the shores of Lake Victoria less than a year ago, going also north as far as Lake Rudolph and west to the remote homes of the pigmies. Previously he had hunted in the Jubaland game reserve and throughout the Ukamba district, and there is little of East Africa and Uganda which he does not know very thoroughly. Earlier he shot big game in Maine, New Brunswick, Southern California, Alaska, British Columbia, India, Burmah, Ceylon and in other parts of the world. He has packed his outfits around for 12 years and when he heard of a good shooting ground he went to it.

"I am not putting it on a bit," he said, "when I tell you there is good sport shooting lions within a ride of two hours from the coast."
Actor Mr. William Gillette was in town, who was a fellow townsman and a friend of his father. Sewall is referring to the matter as that when he used his influence to get young Gillette on the stage he thought he was playing a great joke on the management, for he did not think Gillette had the ability to act.

Sewall bagged his first lion in Rumucuti, in the fall of 1906, a few weeks after he had landed at Mombasa, and thence proceeded to Nairobi. In speaking of lion hunting, which few Americans have enjoyed, he said:

"You see, you goad him into a fight. Not that he is a coward or anything of the sort, but he is used to minding his own business. But when you chase him around a bit and make it clear to him that you are after his skin, then he whirrs on you as much as if to say: 'Now, come on, and says you lent him $50.'"
"So I did. But he's not my friend for life. I know that. There is no faster animal in Africa than the lion."

While in the mountains of the Moon, between Entebbe and Ruwenzari, where the Duke of Abruzzi made his reputation as a climber, Sewall reached the conclusion that it was the original home of the elephant. While on the trek he stood on an elevation and counted part of a herd in the underbrush. He stopped at 274, satisfied that this was his opportunity to pick out a prize monster. Before he ended his attack on the herd he had two pairs of the best ivories which Africa could produce.

"Africa is not only the greatest hunting country in the world, but it is also a fine ground-floor proposition. There are vast commercial possibilities in the continent which men of business are just beginning to realize. Of course, just as it takes a little capital to go hunting there, so, too, it takes capital to make investments. But it's a grand country for both hunter and investor—the last frontier of the world."

Sewall said that a great situation has been created by the building of the Uganda railroad, adding:

"Some railroad lines which are now either building or are in plan awaiting the arrival of construction gangs, include a line from Nairobi almost due north to Fort Hall, which is intended as a feeder for the main line. It will run into the wheat country. From the Uganda railway a branch will run south through my other land. A third line, which has already been surveyed will tap the timber belt northeast of Nairobi. The British government builds railroads first and settles the territory afterward."

While the Uganda railroad was under construction, Sewall acquired fifty square miles of grazing ground for the cultivation of castor, the fiber of which is used in making rope. He says the plant thrives with no attention and that little expense attaches to its harvesting.

"The primary purpose of my visit to your wonderful country, to reach which I crossed the Indian, the Pacific and the Atlantic oceans and traveled several thousand miles overland, is to learn something about commercial wheat growing," said Sewall at the close of the interview. "Fifteen thousand acres of land in British East Africa, owned by Lord Delamere and myself, is now under cultivation, crude as it is, being planted in wheat, and I am studying conditions here with the view of putting 55,000 acres more under the plow. I expect to visit the wheat belts and will then go to Montana and Oregon, traveling west and south afterward, thence to New York and sail for Liverpool the latter part of October and after a short stay in England I expect to return to East Africa to begin active work in the development of our plant action."

CIVIC ASPIRATION IN PANHANDLE TOWNS.

Dallas News.
When more than 100 business men representing seventeen towns of Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma, gather, as they did at Quanah last week, to hear a lecture on the possibilities of town development, we should say that the spirit of civic enterprise is pretty active, not to say rampant. As evidence of the existence of what might be called municipal aspiration, that fact is fairly convincing. The fact might be described, with no little of scientific accuracy, as a germinating cause which must bring about a betterment of urban environment, by which is meant a growth of convenience, of health and of beauty. It proves that the towns of that section are imbued with the desire to provide more of the comforts and some of the luxuries of urban life; and any one that has read history with his eyes open knows there is no surer proof of a people's faith in their community than a desire to enlarge the comforts and beauty of their towns. The panhandle has passed through the pioneer stages of its evolution. Its political, social and industrial institutions are no longer founded upon expediency, but upon the certainty that energy and intelligence can prosper on its soil. It is only within the last decade that this fact has been firmly established. For whatever of crudeness in its towns there has been until now there has been, therefore a justifying reason. But the very argument that has excused their civic crudeness until now makes an imperative reason why they can no longer tolerate it without doing damage to themselves, and the fact so much interest is shown in the subject of town building proves that the men of these panhandle towns are sensible of this truth.

The president and secretary of the Abilene Commercial Club, in making an appeal for more funds, call attention to the fact that Wichita Falls' Chamber of Commerce has an annual income of $10,000 to Abilene's $5,000. Yes, it costs us more to boost, but it's worth more.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 30.—As a part of an elaborate plan to increase the consumption of rice in this country today was observed as "rice day" throughout Texas and Louisiana, in which two states the greater part of the rice crop in America is produced. Rice in its varied forms occupy a prominent place on the menu in hotels throughout the two states and in the dining cars on all the principal railroads. Large quantities of literature exploiting rice as a food were sent broadcast throughout the country by the associations of rice growers and other commercial organizations.

Why He Was Deaf.
Scene—Stable of Scottish village inn. Landlord is busy repairing a piece of harness and is carrying on at the same time a conversation with the village blacksmith. Enter farmer.
Farmer—Look here, landlord! Can ye gie me a bottle o' yer best whisky?
Landlord—Weel, ye see, the horses are a' out, an' I dinna ken when any o' them 'll be hame.
Farmer—It's no a horse I want; it's a bottle o' whisky.
Landlord—Aye; but, ye see, they're a guid bit awa', an' it'll be late before the first o' them's back.
Farmer (louder)—I tell ye, it's no a horse, but a bottle o' whisky, I want.
Landlord—Weel, ye see, the beasts 'll be tired, an'—
Farmer—Gang awa' wi' ye an' yer beast!
Exit.

The Order of the Bath.
The last Knights of the Bath made according to the ancient forms were at the coronation of Charles II., when various rites and ceremonies, one of which was bathing, were enforced.
According to Froissart, the court barber prepared a bath, and the candidate for membership in the order, having been undressed by his esquires, was thereupon placed in the bath, his clothes and collars being the perquisites of the barber. He was then removed from the water to the words "May this be an honorable bath to you" and was placed in a plain bed quite wet and naked to dry. As soon as he was quite dry he was removed from the bed, dressed in new and rich apparel and conducted by his sponsors to the chapel, where he offered a taper to the honor of God and a penny piece to the honor of the king. Then he went to the monarch and, kneeling before him, received from the royal sword a tap on the shoulder, the king exclaiming, "Arise, Sir —" and then embraced him, saying, "Be thou a good knight, and true."—London Strand Magazine.

England's Patron Saint.
The story of England's patron saint is surrounded by a mixture of truth and fable which defies definite sifting. He is generally believed to have been born at Lydis, but brought up in Cappadocia, and suffered martyrdom in the reign of Diocletian, A. D. 303. The legend of his conflict with the dragon may have arisen from a symbolical or allegorical representation of his contest with the pagan persecutors. When our crusaders went to the east in 1096 they found St. George elevated to the rank of warrior saint, with the title of the "victorious," and as they believed that they were indebted to him for aid in the siege of Antioch they adopted him as the patron of soldiers. Edward III. was thus led to make him patron of the Order of the Garter, and so gradually St. George became the tutelary saint of England.—London Mail.

Eve and the Apple.
Princess Duteep Singh at a dinner in New York said that she found the American woman a marvel of beauty and the American man a model of good looks and kindness.
"The American man," said the charming princess, "is rightly held up to the world as the pattern husband. In Europe they have a saying about Eve and the apple which shows how wretched a failure the European husband is. This saying is unknown in America, I am sure. It would have no point, no application, here in the land of pattern husbands. The saying is this: 'The evil one didn't give the apple to the man, but to the woman, because the evil one knew well that the man would eat it all himself, but the woman would go halves.'"

Aisle of the Car in a Railroad Wreck.
A veteran railroad man gave a piece of valuable advice not long ago.
"If you ever get into a wreck," he said, "and have time to follow out this suggestion remember this: Always stand in the aisle. Most of the injuries that are suffered occur because the victim is crushed between the seats. If you are in the aisle you may be thrown forward and bruised a little, but there is much less chance of receiving serious hurts. It isn't always possible to get out of your seat before the crash comes, but if it is follow that advice."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Use For Arithmetic.
"My boy," said the head of the firm, "I've noticed that you have a great head for figures, although you don't seem to be able to spell or write at all. How does it happen?"
"I studied 'rithmetic," replied the office boy, "cause I wanted to know how to figure de battin' averages."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Myth Chaser.
"What makes your youngest son so eager for athletics?"
"Paternal admiration," answered the worried looking mother. "He believes all the stories his father tells about the wonderful things he did when he was a boy and is trying to equal the record."—Washington Star.

Perseverance.
Perseverance is more prevailing than violence, and many things which cannot be overcome when they are together yield themselves up when taken little by little.—Pittsburgh.

Late repentance is seldom true, but true repentance is never too late.—Vermont.

BREAKFAST FRUIT.

The Best Said to Be Oranges, Grapes and Fresh Olives.
Of all breakfast fruits the orange is deservedly the most popular. It is a food that is distinctly health giving. Orange juice aids greatly in reducing the amount of putrefaction found in the intestines of nearly all persons who are submitted to clinical laboratory tests.
Grapes are another fruit that should always be eaten freely when obtainable. Apples are preferably eaten before retiring, and two are about twice as good as one. The apple habit, persisted in, often works rather surprising results with persons who are naturally listless. Lemons can hardly be eaten as a fruit, but lemonade is a valuable beverage. When used as a laxative fresh figs should form the dessert. When not obtainable the dried figs form a good substitute.
Of the value of bananas there seems some reasonable doubt. Many persons complain that they find them indigestible. They are quite likely to reach this conclusion if the banana be eaten frequently as the needless complement of an already hearty meal. On the other hand, there can be no doubt that the growing popularity of the fresh olive is fully deserved. It surely ranks with the orange and the grape and is, of course, much ahead of either in cases of sluggish intestines or constitutional thinness.—H. Irving Hancock in Good Housekeeping.

TOO COMPLICATED.

The Reason We Say "You" Instead of Using "Thou."
The reason commonly given for the substitution of the second person plural for the second person singular, "you" instead of "thou"—that it originated as a fad of courtesy—may explain its origin, but its universal adoption is due to a deeper reason—namely, that the second person singular of the verb is a complicated and difficult form, while the second person plural is simple to the last degree.
With every principal verb in the language and with every auxiliary except "must" the pronoun "thou" requires a special change in the form of the verb, which is often the only break in an otherwise uniform series. Thus in the present tense of every verb, with the single exception of the verb "be," the pronoun "you" employs the unchanged root form of the verb, as "you love, have, can do, shall, wilt," etc., while "thou" requires a change of form, as "thou lovest, hast, canst, dost, shalt, wilt," etc.
In every such choice the unchanged root form has always the right of way. Thus "you" has become everywhere current in the busy activities of life, while "thou" is carefully laid up in the museum of antiquity or the shrine of religion.—James C. Fernald in Harper's Magazine.

Making Sure of the Architect.
Norman Al-Ounar, an Arabian king who reigned long, long ago at Bihrah, commanded the architect Sennemur to build him a wondrous palace. This the architect did and when it was done a single stone fastened the whole structure, and the colors of the walls changed frequently during the day. The king was greatly pleased and showered all kinds of rich gifts upon the builder with the lavishness of oriental kings. But monarchs were treacherous in those old days, and it occurred to the king that Sennemur might build a palace equal in beauty or even superior for some rival ruler. The more he thought over it the more jealous he became until one day he ordered the architect to be thrown from the top of the palace to make certain that no duplicate palace would be made. After this the king was satisfied that his palace was the only one, and the Arabians regarded it as one of the wonders of the world.

As Good as He Sent.
At a recent meeting of the directors of an eastern railroad a prominent railroad man repeated a story that he just had from a conductor on one of the limited expresses between New York and the west.

It seems that a dapper chap in the first chair car had managed to become unusually friendly with an attractive young woman in an adjoining seat. When the train pulled into Buffalo the masquer, in taking leave of the lass, remarked:
"Do you know, I must thank you for an awfully, awfully pleasant time, but I'm afraid you would not have been so nice to me had you known that I was a married man."
"Oh, as to that," quickly and pleasantly responded the charming young woman, "you haven't the least advantage of me. I am an escaped lunatic."
—Exchange.

Fast and Slow.
The Father—I learn with sorrow, my son, that you are getting to be what they term quite fast. The Son—You shouldn't believe all you hear, dad. I'll introduce you to a man who will tell you another story. The Father—And who is he? The Son—My tailor. He says I'm the slowest chap he's got on his books.

Childhood's Unfailing Joy.
As long as there are children in the world the golden and objectless occupation of make believe will go on; the pursuit of delight itself, untrammelled by rules or purpose.—Eton College Chronicle.

Actions Speak Louder Than Words.
The Sunday school class was singing "I Want to Be an Angel." "Why don't you sing louder, Bobby?" "I'm singing as loud as I feel," explained Bobby.—Delineator.

The World's Stein-Bloch Wide Styles

THE STEIN-BLOCH Clothes are ready. This is an announcement which every Fall and every Spring has unusual interest for many men. It is the date on the clothes calendar which has a red mark around it.

Since last Fall's announcement Stein-Bloch clothes have had a triumph in England. One of the most fashionable of London merchants began offering them exclusively to his patrons in England last spring, and they have been accepted as correct for English wear.

The present success of Stein-Bloch clothes abroad is a justification of your judgement. We have always told you that these styles and fabrics represent the best that both America and England produce.

Yet these clothes are not expensive. They will make no demands you cannot afford upon your purse.

AMUSEMENTS

Mr. Tim Murphy's rare art is to be in evidence at the Wichita Theatre next Saturday matinee and night, when he will be seen as David Stratton, the delightful miner from Arizona, in his great success by Charles Jeffreys, "Cupid and the Dollar," and Mr. J. Green, in "Old Innocence." Two better comedies are not on the American stage today. Mr. Murphy's humor is ripe and delicious at every point. Dorothy Sherrod will play the role she created so charmingly and in the long cast will be found many other artists in their original roles. Hand-some gowns and scenery distinguish the production.

In speaking of Mr. Murphy's appearance at the Dallas Opera House, the Dallas News says:

"Cupid and the Dollar," a comedy drama in three acts, delineating an American rough diamond in an aristocratic British setting, was offered by Tim Murphy and his company at the Dallas Opera House last night. The audience was median as to size and generous as to applause.

The play is not a new nor a particularly good one, but it serves to well show off Mr. Murphy's whimsical mannerisms. He is a popular actor, deservedly, and never fails to take his audience into intimate association with his dramatic motives. Miss Dorothy Sherrod, who has been his leading lady for several seasons, is again his principal support. She gave a sympathetic rendition of her part last night and drew manifestations of approval from her witnesses. The others of the company were also up to the standards required, and the performance, as a whole, was pleasing and not unprofitable.

At a special ladies and children's matinee, Mr. Murphy will present his famous comedy success, "Old Innocence."

The stage knows no more loveable character than "Old Innocence." It consists of episodes in the life of a fine old gentleman, one of nature's noblemen, and there is not a real dramatic thrill in it, save the thrill that comes with that touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. "Old Innocence," generous, open handed and hospitable, has confidence in all mankind. When he decides to raise his tenants rent, he ends by reducing them, and helping those unable to pay. His friend is in distress and he is willing to lend a fortune without security.

The character of "Old Innocence" requires rare discrimination to portray. Mr. Murphy has shown a perfect conception of the loveable old man in his real and distorted disposition. Whether as to the kindly, generous, confiding husband, father and friend, or the soured old man, viewing every one with suspicion, his work is truly artistic.

Channing Pollock has completed his scenario of the "The Inner Shrine," the dramatization of the popular novel of the same name which Shaw and Erlanger and Joseph Brooks intend to produce this season. The outline of the play is said to read well.

Rain Will Ruin Any Machine.

It's a shame to see that valuable binder standing out there in the rain today and the sun tomorrow, when just a few boards would protect it against the elements and prolong its life enough to pay for half a dozen sheds.

How is it with your idle machinery? Is it standing around just where you last used it, or did you draw it into the barn yard to rust and rot?

Why not stop in next time you're in town and take home a 'jag'—of lumber for those much-needed sheds?

FIFTEEN CENTS IS PREDICTED FIGURE

COTTON ALMOST CERTAIN TO COMMAND THAT PRICE BEFORE LONG.

MANY FARMERS HOLDING

This, It is Believed, Will Force Price Up To Desired Figure.

Galveston, Tex., Oct. 1.—Forced upward by the long-standing drouth, which has caused ravages to the crop, the story of which but half has been told, cotton this year will go to 15 cents. Such is the construction of J. C. Albritton, purchasing agent of the Texas and Oklahoma Farmers' unions, today placed on the cotton situation, which in years has not approached the seriousness which now confronts the farmers of the South.

Although much has been told of the destruction to the crop by the drouth, which now is looming as the greatest bull to the cotton market and prices, only a part has been told, said Mr. Albritton, despite the general reports of damage that daily has been coming from the burning fields. The lack of rain that early threatened the South's greatest crop, has now completed the destruction, and if the crop in Texas amounts to two million bales Mr. Albritton's judgment of the situation will have been a misconception.

Mr. Albritton bases his conclusions on a recent trip into the northern part of the state, during which time he made exhaustive investigations into the cotton fields personally and observed the country generally from the car window. While in the north he interviewed men in cotton producing centers and gleaned much of his information from meetings of the Farmers' unions.

Farmers Will Hold Cotton.
When asked about the farmers holding their cotton, Mr. Albritton stated that there was no doubt of it. Profiting by the experience of 1907 and earlier years, the first bales produced were sold. These bales supplied the farmers with the necessary money for immediate needs, taking from them the necessity of selling the entire crop as it was produced. They can now as it comes in wait for the advance of price which is bound to come, in the opinion of union officials. Mr. Albritton states that the supply of cotton this year will not be equal to the world's demand, which will be an important factor in the advancing of the price to 15 cents.

In addition to this, there is this year a very noticeable increase of the marketable value of the staple.

While in one of the North Texas cities Mr. Albritton talked with a gentleman who is interested largely in the grain business in one of the northern wheat states. This gentleman told Mr. Albritton that in the shipments of grain bagging he had this year seen only two loads of bagging made of grass or of jute, all the balance being of cotton. The education of foreign countries into the use of cotton for clothing has still further increased the demand for the staple.

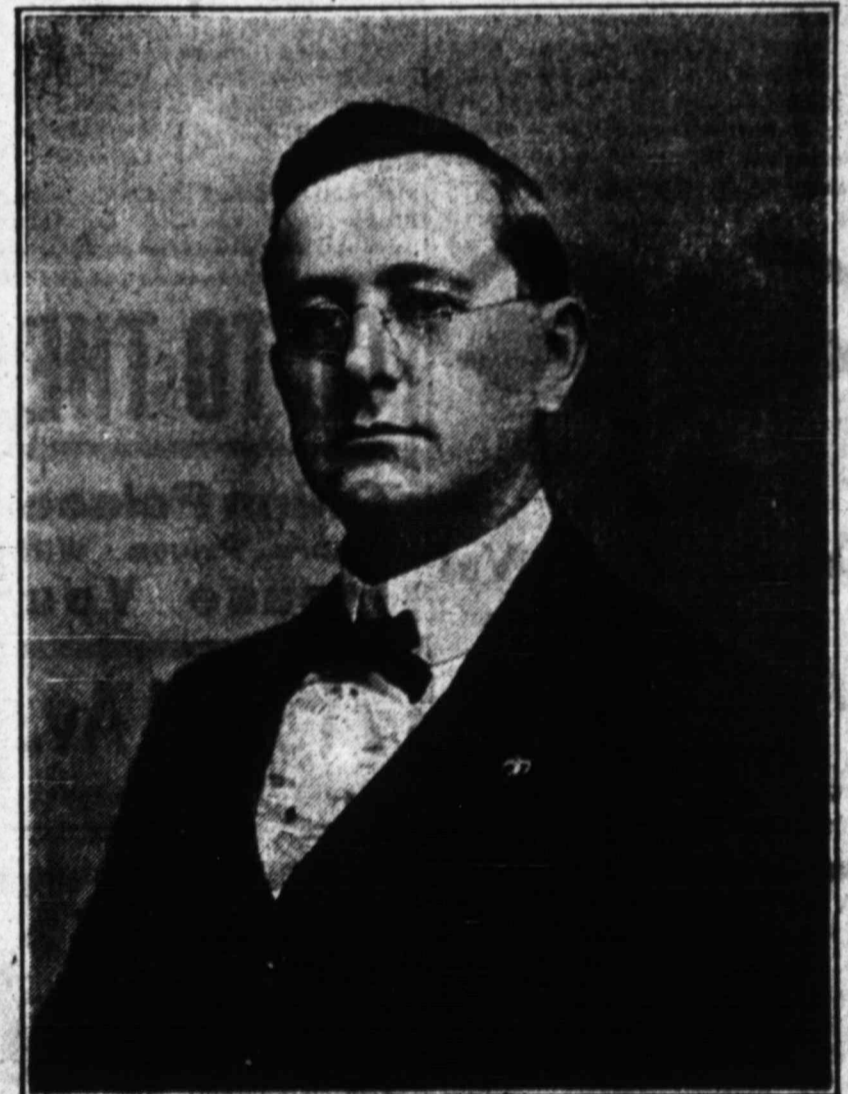

All this, with the decreased supply, has taken from the speculators their opportunity to profit by fluctuations in the market. He cited, 'It has been noticed that in the early part of every season there has been a marked fluctuation, with drops and rises in the market value. Those who watch the markets notice that with each fluctuation in the market the value never reaches a minimum as low as was the last preceding one, while the maximum price goes a little higher. This condition is noticeable this year, and it can have only one meaning, the actual market value of the cotton overcomes the fluctuations made by the dealers.'

The governors of seven states have expressed their belief that cotton positively will go up and they have added their advice that the farmers hold the cotton.

Price of Picking Low.
Mr. Albritton states that cotton picking now brings only 65 cents per hundred, and that in previous years, with cotton only at 10 and 12 cents pickers were getting $1 and at times as high as $1.50 per hundred.

This year, with cotton now at 13 cents, all the hands that are needed can be had to work at the scale of 65 cents. This is the result of short crops and plenty of people to work the fields that are producing. Mr. Albritton further declared that the recent cold weather has been more generally felt on the coast country than it has farther north in the state.
