SOME OBSERVATIONS ON THE BIG PASTURE

Past Few Years Have Wrought Remarkable Changes in That Section of Oklahoma Reached by the Wichita Falls & Northwestern—A Thriving Country at Wichita's Front Door.

Those Wichitans whose good fortunes it has not been to visit the stretch of the Big Pasture reached by the Wichita Falls and Northwestern, are probably altogether unaware of the progress that section is making and of the possibilities of the new country that is being opened up by the extension to Mangum.

The history of that particular section of Oklahoma is doubtless familiar to most of the Times' readers and it is unnecessary to rehearse it here. Almost within the last decade the country began to develop. Previous to twelve or fourteen years ago, it was the 'Big Pasture,' a term now applied by anyone to the whole of Oklahoma. It was a 'big pasture,' in all that the term implies. Rented from a northern syndicate for practically nothing, it was used almost exclusively for grazing purposes and its agricultural possibilities were practically unknown and undeveloped.

But the past few years have seen marvelous changes. Now there is one house, and sometimes two, to every quarter-section. Very little of the land is devoted to ranching, but is made year after year to yield its golden harvest of corn and wheat. Busy little cities have sprung up, not with 'mushroom' growth that bespeaks the brass band boom, but with the steeper and more substantial growth that has its foundation in progressive citizens in a good land.

The Railroad's Share. The Frisco and Rock Island cut across this section from east to west, connecting with the Fort Worth and Denver at Childress, Quanah and Vernon. Lately, the Orient built through from Kansas City to Chillicothe touching at Altus, the present terminus of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern.

The Lay of the Land. There is nothing poetic in the landscape that greet one's eye as he rides up the Northwestern. Broad rolling prairie land planted mostly in corn extends as far as the eye can see in either direction.

The Northwest country is, more than anything else, a corn country. While the corn crop was a painful joke in some part of Texas, this country has corn shellers busy in every town and great piles of corn shucks are visible in every community.

But remarkably successful feature of Southwestern Oklahoma farming. The crop is not so good this year and the average is less than last year. But even now, there are plenty of cotton-growers who are marketing considerably more than half a bale per acre.

LOCAL COTTON PRICES.

Thirteen and an Eighth For Middling Being Paid Today. Local cotton men are paying the record price for cotton in the Wichita market this week, and thirteen and an eighth is being paid today, being slightly lower than yesterday.

BRYAN MAKES REPLY TO KIRBY'S LETTER

DOES NOT SUBMIT PROOF ASKED FOR BUT ANSWERS IN SARCASTIC VEIN.

Nebraskan Rejoices That Millionaire Is Right, Though Texas Democrats are Wrong.

The last issue of The Commoner published the following, in connection with the recent controversy between Bryan and John H. Kirby:

Mr. John H. Kirby, president of the Kirby Lumber company, of Houston, Texas, has written to Mr. Bryan and has caused to be published in the daily press a letter in which Mr. Kirby takes exception to some remarks attributed to Mr. Bryan at El Paso. In this letter Mr. Kirby says:

According to the press reports you stated in your El Paso speech that the Kirby Lumber company, owned by twenty-six mills, that it had 4,500,000 wood chunks with which to begin pressure to bear upon the congress of the United States in the tariff matter; that 'it was not working for a few people on the Canadian border when it worked so hard for a tariff on lumber; and that it went after a tariff and it went hard.' I wish to call your attention to the circumstance that the Kirby Lumber company owns exactly twelve mills, no more and no less. All of these mills are located in the state of Texas. It has no other mills and no interests in any other mills. In selling its products it competes with more than four thousand other saw mills in the United States, and does so on a strictly competitive basis.

It has never been in congress or before congress, directly or indirectly, soliciting any form of legislation, whether about the tariff or otherwise, and neither it nor anyone connected with it has ever been in a financial way in its affairs. No written letters, signed by any person, spoken any word or made any character of communication, directly or indirectly to Senator Bailey or any other senator or representative in congress of the United States concerning the tariff or concerning any other question pending before congress. Your corporation has a capital stock, I believe, of ten millions, half preferred and half common. I do not know how widely scattered this stock is, nor do I know in what proportion the stock is held by different parties, but your statement is so explicit and so sweeping that I must take it for granted that you have consulted with all of the stockholders and know whereof you speak when you deny that anyone connected with it or interested in a financial way in its affairs has spoken or written to any senator or congressman on the tariff question. I am glad to publish your denial that you have taken any part in asking for the tariff, and I shall give to your statement as wide publicity as I can. This is not only due to you, since you have denied the statement made by me, but I am glad to have the democrats of Texas know that the largest lumber company in Texas does not regard the tariff as necessary to the industry or even as a benefit to it. Some of the Texas democrats seem to think that the advocacy of free lumber is an attack upon a Texas industry.

According to your letter your share of the tariff would be about $375,000 a year if the tariff is added to the price of the home product. If, as I understand you to say, that it is not true in the case of Texas lumber, then the removal of this tariff can not injure the lumber interests of Texas, and the solicitude of those democrats who have been lying awake at night for fear injustice would be done to the lumber interests may feel easy. The point that I tried to make was this, that a tax on lumber, if beneficial to the lumber interests, must be paid by the consumer, it is a tax upon them for the benefit of the lumber interests. With the understanding that the lumber interests of Texas did favor a tariff, and knowing that when people favor a protective tariff upon something they produce, it is because they expect to profit by it. I pointed out that the rest of the people of Texas would have to contribute through an increased price on lumber.

It is immaterial to those who think as I do whether a tariff on lumber benefits the lumber interests or not. If it does not, then no arguments can be made in favor of the tariff. If it does benefit the lumber interests, it is at the expense of the consumer. Your letter, while relieving your company of the charge that it favored a tariff or would be benefited by it, relieves the advocates of free lumber of the charge of doing injustice to the lumber interests of your state.

Appreciating your courtesy in bringing this matter to my attention, I am,
Very truly yours,
W. J. BRYAN.

Big Values in New Dress Goods

Everything in our dress goods department is now ready for what we believe is going to be the biggest winter's business we ever did.

We have two reasons for thinking so:

1st. Money is easy and people are already buying very freely.

2nd. We never before had such wonderful values to offer as we have this year.

Our prices are not much, if any, lower than other stores, but the value we give for those prices will surprise you—we couldn't do it if it were not for our exceptional buying facilities.

Our buyer is a wizard at dry goods buying and has gathered together some of the biggest values that ever came to the city.

Our Poplins and Solsettes in all colors, at 50c to 35c per yard, are just two hints of the immense lines we can and want to show you.

COMPLETION OF THE PANAMA CANAL AND ITS BEARING ON COMMERCIAL DESTINIES OF TEXAS

Like a prisoner of Chillon, chained down to the task of consummating the successful construction of the world's most colossal engineering work of all time, Col. George Washington Goethals, United States Army, his hair as white as ever Byron depicted for his fanciful prisoner, in the St. Anthony Hotel a few nights since, told of his great work for the last two and a half years of directing the construction of the Panama Canal and of its bearing on the commercial destinies of Texas and of the country at large. Though he says at times his shoulders scarcely can bear the burden of responsibilities and of criticism heaped upon him, with a gleam of determination in his eyes, Colonel Goethals vows he will complete his task or go down with colors flying.

"The first thing the American people should thoroughly comprehend," said Colonel Goethals, "is that the Panama Canal primarily is a military necessity. Its construction will have the cost to the National Government of maintaining two fleets and the money saved that it would cost to construct another fleet equal to the Atlantic fleet would build the canal. The cost of maintaining the canal after completion will be no more than it now costs to maintain the Atlantic fleet. Now, the people must frankly be willing to admit that the Panama Canal is a military necessity, first of all. When they have admitted this, then it behooves them to ask how they can make this canal a great commercial canal that will bring prosperity to the south tenfold and be the means of floating again our flag on sea-going trade vessels.

"There are two things that must be done if the Panama Canal is to be made a great commercial highway and of profit to the people in tolls or in increased trade. The first thing is to fix the tolls as low as possible. Japan is slightly nearer to London by way of the Panama Canal than it is by way of the Suez Canal. Make the tolls on the Panama Canal less than on the Suez Canal and trade will be drawn through this waterway. Hong Kong is slightly farther away from London by way of the Panama Canal than by way of the Suez Canal, but make the tolls less and if the cost of coal consumption for the few additional miles does not eat up the difference, trade from this city also will be sent by way of the Panama Canal instead of by the Suez Canal.

"When the effect of the canal will be on the commercial prosperity of Texas is something I cannot predict. But if this canal is made a commercial canal by adopting the methods I have suggested, then it will be impossible to predict how great an increase in the wealth of the state will result from its construction. Galveston is full of foreign vessels carrying our grain. The Panama Canal will help foreign commerce more than our own unless we establish on the high seas a fleet of ships carrying the American flag, and to do this we should pass a ship subsidy law at once. Then you will see that Texas will receive great benefit from the canal we are digging. The ship subsidy is but a part of the general plan to develop the commerce of the country and of the South.

Endorses Lock Type.
"When I first took charge of the canal work, when I went down to Panama, I went there with my mind in favor of a sea-level canal, but we have all our plans laid out now for the construction of a lock type, and it is too late to change. Investigation has convinced me that this is the better type. If the American people would stand for the expense of constructing a canal 700 feet wide across the Isthmus of Panama and then for two smaller canals to parallel it, I would say construct a sea-level canal. The cost of this, though would be almost inestimable. It would be necessary to construct such a type to provide for the cars of the flood waters of the Chagres river. This spring, when we opened a section of the canal, the flood waters of the Chagres poured in and deposited about two feet of sand and gravel on the bottom of the canal. It will have to be dredged out. What would this amount to if the canal had been a sea-level waterway, far below the level of the present one, which is but two feet lower than the bed of the Chagres river?"

"No," continued Colonel Goethals, "we must construct a lock type canal, or allow our organization to go to pieces. We are ready now to begin work on laying concrete for the flight these men. We have 54,000 men on of locks at Gatun. To change the plans now would mean to lay off all our payrolls and we must keep them employed.

Labor Problem Greatest.
"And this is the greatest task that confronts me: the problem of caring for our army of laborers. If a supply ship is delayed, then something goes wrong. If our flour contract is not carried out, our men complain. Perhaps it is potatoes or cabbage, but it is always something, and it is looking after 34,000 men that keeps me harder at work than directing the construction of the canal itself.

"I allow myself half a day off once a week and the rest of the time I am at work from 6 in the morning until 11 o'clock at night. Sunday morning I call 'complaint day.' I am in my office at Culebra every Sunday morning and allow any man employed on the canal to come to me and speak of any grievance. It makes no difference who he may be, he has the privilege. Even negroes sometimes come in and tell me their troubles. I find it keeps me in closer touch with actual detail conditions and keeps me in touch with the men themselves."

Discouraged, Not Daunted.
And then the director of these 34,000 men, engaged in a constant warfare with difficulties, daily storming mountains of granite or contending against flood waters or turbulent streams, passed his hand across his brow as if to wipe away his cares, and said: "I got weary of the struggle sometimes. No one knows how harassing it is. I'm down there fighting against everything, doing my best and yet I am hounded by criticism and by suggestions all the time. It is 'graft!' Some men's minds are so narrow they cannot conceive of a human having any noble thoughts or being engaged in any task merely for the sake of doing well his work and of obeying orders. There is no graft on the Panama Canal except the pilfering now and then of a pair of shoes or a box of matches. We are doing our best to give the people their money's worth. Sometimes I feel as if I couldn't stand it any more, but I shall keep on until the task is finished. We want visitors. We are glad to have Congressmen and politicians and others come down and see what we are doing. It is the people's money we are spending, but we want them to feel they can trust us, for we are doing our best."

His Last Life's Work.
Colonel Goethals was asked what other great engineering work he would like to undertake when he completes the Panama Canal.

"Nothing," he said. "If I get through with this task I'll retire for life, for my life's work will be ended. I shall have accomplished all that can be expected of any man and I know no more could be exacted of Colonel Goethals. A man can give only that which is in him and when this job is completed the people will have gotten out of me all there is in me. I shall retire."—San Antonio Express.

DAINGEROUS DANDRUFF.

Will Make America Baldheaded Nation if Not Checked.

M. Pasteur, the great French Physician of Paris, once said: "I believe we shall one day rid the world of all diseases caused by germs."

Dandruff is caused by germs, a fact accepted by all physicians. Dandruff is the root of all hair evils. If it were not for the little destructive germs working with a persistency worthy of a better cause, there would be no baldness.

Parisian Sage will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in two weeks, or money back.

Mater-Walker Drug Company guarantee it. It will stop itching scalp and make the hair grow thick and abundant.

It puts life and lustre into the hair and prevents it from turning gray.

It is the hair dressing par excellence, daintily perfumed and free from grease stickiness. It is the favorite with women of taste and culture who know the social value of fascinating hair.

A large bottle costs only 50 cents at leading druggists everywhere, and in Wichita Falls by Mater-Walker Drug Company. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package.

By the way, has the discoverer of the north pole supplied the hungry people of the earth anything to stay hunger?

PAY YOUR DEBTS OR BE DAMNED.

Rev. Abe Mulkey, the well known Methodist evangelist is holding a revival in the city of Houston, and the Post of that city gives the following report of his Sunday sermon:

Rev. Abe Mulkey, the noted Texas evangelist, who is conducting a revival meeting in Fraternal Hall at Houston Heights, corner of Yale and Twelfth streets, preached to a house overflowing with people from all parts of the city last night, his well-known sermon on "Restitution," or "Pay Your Debts or Be Damned."

In this sermon, Mr. Mulkey takes no special text, but simply relates his personal experience, and fills his talk with humor and pathos, which moves his audience to laughter or to tears. For an hour and a half Mr. Mulkey spoke, holding the closest attention of all present. After giving a record of his early life, the speaker gave an account of his conversion and his restitution of that which he owed. He said, in part:

"Before I engaged in the ministry, I followed the mercantile pursuit and sold goods as if there was no other place in the world to buy them. When I became a preacher, I preached that everybody who does not give God his heart is going to hell. I was a clerk in a store at Corsicana, and often Christians would come in and ask me why I was not a Christian. I told them I had not time to serve the Lord. Then one day I was discharged, and it suddenly came to me that now I had time to serve the Lord.

After giving an account of his conversion and of his wife, he said: "I decided to tell my friends, and the first man I told reminded me that I owed him about $50. Then I realized what restitution meant. There are six commandments relating to the relation between man and man and only four to the relation between God and man. And I have found that the man who regards the relation between man and man justly regards also the relation between God and man. I had prayed to God and thought I had received forgiveness, but there was nothing but the money that would satisfy the creditors.

"But God did not rain down money to pay my debts. I had been looking in the wrong direction while I was spending my time praying and weeping. I had bought property instead of paying my debts. Now, I was 19 years old when I was married and my wife was 17, but I taught her the first thing, the homestead law of Texas. Aren't you all glad you live in Texas? She understood that when she bought jewelry and furniture that they couldn't take our homestead. But after about four days of study she agreed to selling our home and furniture for paying what we owed. When she said she had found out the truth as never before, I said, 'shake.' 'You need never refuse to tell a little woman to shake when she is telling the truth. You will not be kept busy all the time.

"We sold every thing we had for the benefit of our creditors. It only brought one-third what was due, but I gave it all up, promising to pay the remainder when we were able. Some of the men sent the notes back, but I returned them. Don't think that I have lost faith in humanity. There is good in every one of you. We lived in the simplest fashion, sometimes hungry and almost without clothes, while saying to pay the remainder. But I felt so good I had to shout or 'bust,' and I preferred to shout, so I went out in the back yard, put my head in a barrel and said, 'Hallelujah.' Some of the neighbors thought I was crazy and told my wife that I was loose between the ears. They eyed me suspiciously, looking at me as a city dog does a country dog through the crack of the fence.

"Now you are laughing at the Mulkeys, but suppose all the property in this room was paid for. Suppose all the weather-boarding you ladies have on was paid for, wouldn't there be a shrinkage. 'If I were to have all the things unpaid for in this audience to drop off, wouldn't there be a grand shout for 'lights out.' If all the hats and shoes and fine dresses were to be taken away which were not paid for, there would be a different audience back here tomorrow night.

"But as we went along an old-fashioned lady sent us $5, which she said would be ours providing I cut up a pile of wood. That had always been an especially odious task for me, and I had pledged myself once never to bother around another wood pile, but I cut this wood, and it was the best job I ever did. I took the money and got some bacon and flour and the first meal after the restitution was the 'beginning of days' with our family, for we were delivered out of the bondage of sin."

"When I went to preaching, the first money I received went to the foreign missionary work. Some people think the meanest thing they can say of you is to call you a sneak thief. But this is not so. There is something worse. That is the man who walks into your store and says he is a member of your church and would like to have a little credit. You send the goods to his house for several times and then one day you find the house is vacant and you have nothing left of your man but a slip of paper. I say this man is infinitely meaner, because you had to deliver the goods for him while the sneak thief put the ham under his coat and delivered it himself. It is not the drunkard, unfortunate one, who should be turned out of the church, nor the little girl who has all her brains in her heels and wants to dance her fool self to death, but the big merchant who 'falls' and puts his property in his wife's name.

"Get-rich-quick," is the phrase from the devil and is the cause of the fall of many a man. The man brings the money to his wife and soon the firm has 'failed.' And it seems that the more a man steals the bigger title they give him. If a negro steals a piece of bread you say 'thief.' If a man steals a small amount, they call him 'Mr.' if a larger amount, it is 'captain,' and so on until if I should steal $100,000, I should be fitted for the legislature or perhaps, better, the senate, and in the democratic party. (You republicans needn't laugh—stealing four bits puts you in good standing in your party).

The following part of the sermon was taken up in illustrations of how men and women defraud public corporations, and how they live above their incomes, thereby running in debt. "Having a salary of $40 per month and living up $50 is hell," said Mr. Mulkey, "but getting $40 and living on $50 is heaven."

The lady who takes up six seats on a railway train was treated to the opinion of the evangelist, who said he had talked to a conductor who claimed to be able to invariably tell whether a lady was lying about how old her "baby" was, who didn't have a ticket. He also asked for all who had not defrauded the street car company out of a nickel to stand up, but he withdrew the proposition, saying he did not care to embarrass his audience.

The last illustration of Mr. Mulkey's on restitution, or the sin of fraudulent transactions was that of the good church member who had his old cow run over by a Houston and Texas Central train. He got together his brothers in the other churches and all agreed to come to Houston and swear she was a Hereford. When the court was closed, all the witnesses repaired to a tavern and when the bartender said: "Brethren, what will you have," they all said: "straight."

In closing, Mr. Mulkey became serious and said he was in sympathy with every man who was in debt, and exhorted them to take the first dollar and pay as soon as possible.

A Chinese ambassador dabbled a while in spiritualism the other day and claims to have held a conversation with the spirit of the late President McKinley. It is to be hoped he didn't ask his opinion of the Republican party.

Oklahoma is a "zoological garden of cranks," says President Taft. That means that the number of Republican votes in the new state will be cut down from 2271 to 84 at the next election.

We must warn Detroit that there are two Texans on the Pittsburg team and that it will take her very best playing to justify the confidence placed in her by the 771,000 Democratic majority of Texas.

The McKinney Democrat says: Sears, Roebuck & Co., of Chicago, well known to many of our people, have decided to liberally contribute $90,000,000 for the construction of good roads in Collin county.

The story about Cook's having failed to reach the summit of Mount McKinley when he said that he did, will probably cut down the explorer's lecture receipts at least $1.30.

The Duke deChalmes is said to be a most peculiar fellow. He had no creditors pursuing him and did not come to America to look for an American heiress to marry.

Booth Tarkington of Indianapolis has retired from active literary work. This will occasion no sorrow, but there are a great many people who would rather it was George Alde.

Two pieces of bone were found in the heart of a San Francisco man after he was dead. He must have been a hard-hearted sort of fellow.

Ferrer seems to have a large number of friends for a man who is very thoroughly dead.

TEXAS DEMOCRATS AND THE READ TARIFF.

Well, we fell better about it. When Mr. Bryan's speech was published, a good friend—he has often addressed the readers of the Journal under the caption "Fellow Citizens"—came and said that the impression which the reading of the speech produced was that of mental decadence. We stoutly dissented, but still there lingered the suspicion that we had been beguiled by specious argument.

But after perusing carefully Senator Bailey's speech of Saturday we are entirely satisfied. We knew that if there was any weak spot in the armor of Mr. Bryan's argument the junior senator from Texas would not fail to discover it and drye his lance through. The reading leaves not only the "impression," but the profound conviction that all Mr. Bryan's points stand absolutely intact.

In the very beginning Mr. Bailey labors hard to make it appear that Mr. Bryan said what he did not say. He nowhere advocates a compensatory duty. In fact, he especially demands the repeal of such duty on manufactured articles of which the raw material is on the free list.

Mr. Bryan is not engaged in academics. He is too sensible and too practical to undertake the outlining of an ideal tariff scheme for an ideal democracy. The tariff exists; it's about as bad as anything can be. And Mr. Bryan is seriously addressing himself to the task of finding some way of making it less obnoxious and burdensome.

Compensatory duties are here. They are imposed on the manufacturer's article by the same power that places raw material on the duty list. The rich manufacturers collect them by charging it up to the consumer. If it stopped there the case would be bad but not hopeless. The woolen manufacturers pay the government a revenue of $11,000,000 on imported wool, but by this maneuver they rob the American consumer of many times eleven million dollars. Mr. Bailey's assertion that the placing of raw material on the free list will not make the finished product cheaper is mere assertion; it is worse, it is twaddle. If it does emanate from the "tallest statesman on the American continent" to be followed by a proportionate reduction of the rate on the finished product.

Mr. Bailey's hair-splitting distinctions about raw material are neither pertinent nor necessary. There is no confusion as to the practical economic meaning of the words.

Mr. Bailey seems perfectly willing to let the wool grower reap a tariff benefit that the cotton and corn raiser must pay for. Any fairness in that? He makes the bombastic offer to remove the tariff from the raw material as soon as it is off the manufactured article. Well, doesn't Mr. Bryan's tentative platform declare that "articles coming into competition with trust-made articles should be placed on the free list?"

What Mr. Bailey says about free lumber is too absurd to deserve serious notice. He declares it monstrous to vote for free raw material as long as the duty remains on the manufactured article, except when it comes to the oil trust interests—then Mr. Bailey votes to put crude oil on the free list. By the by, he finished his speech Saturday night without touching on that point.

The Journal thinks it unnecessary for Mr. Bryan to return to Texas for the present—not until Mr. Bailey advances a better answer than the one made at Dallas.—Belton (Texas) Journal-Reporter.

Alfred Benjamin & Co. New York

You'd be surprised if we'd tell you the number of men in this city who come to us, quite worried because of the fear that they can not obtain a suit of exceptional attractiveness, and one not having that flippant "air" which characterizes so many makes of clothes. We quiet their fears in a moment and do it very easily, too. In our long experience we have found that freakishness is not style, nor are the clamorous patterns. Acting upon our real knowledge of a gentleman's needs we are always prepared to exhibit rare styles and fascinating patterns; BUT NOT boisterous clothes. The Seabright Sack, made by Alfred Benjamin & Co., in New York, is a remarkable style, which is so "up-to-the-minute" that it fairly sparkles. The fabrics are soft and rich; the tailoring is of the kind which only expert workers can give. It is a clean, good, "Made in New York" style which men of taste desire.

that tells more than anything else that it is a "good" town. This adjective "good" as applied to towns, may mean almost anything, but it is used here to indicate all that the word may imply in a commercial and moral sense.

Evidence of Progress.
It was entirely natural that these communities, built by such substantial citizens, should turn their first attention to educational provisions for their children. The result is either already evident in handsome and modern school buildings, or it soon will be, as quickly as the necessary steps can be taken. Brick buildings, built on the theory that there is nothing quite too good for the children, have already been erected for school purposes and by the end of another year, the schools of this section will compare favorably with those of any other part of Oklahoma, or even Texas.

There are churches, too. Well-constructed, handsome edifices.

"God's been good to this country, mister," said an old man to the writer. And the country has at least provided suitable houses of worship in which to offer thanks to Him.

Paved streets are coming soon. Both Altus and Frederick are getting ready to pave their business sections and the other towns, several of them, are already graded. The cement sidewalks is to be seen in gratifying plenty. Altus and Frederick are well-lighted, with good sewerage and water systems and are making ample provisions for fire protection.

New Buildings.
If the number of new buildings under construction along the Northwestern is to be considered the barometer of commercial conditions, then all that has been said of business growth in that section is short of the truth. In every town they are in evidence, either completed and occupied, or in process of construction.

At Frederick and Altus there are dozens of new business houses under construction at present and most of them are already rented. At Grandfield, which was burned out less than five months ago, over twenty handsome brick structures are fast replacing the frame buildings which the flames destroyed. This evidence of progress is to be noticed in every town. The total that will have been spent by the end of the year for new commercial structures will have gone well past the million mark and there are no indications that it will stop even then. It is good to see that the buildings are constructed along modern lines. If some of those cities were in Texas, they might seriously contest Wichita Falls' claim to being the "Best Built City in Texas."

What It Needs.
On the theory that every knock is a boost, if you only get it going, the writer may be pardoned for some criticisms and some suggestions.

In the first place, most of those communities need "clean-up" campaigns. Waste paper is allowed to accumulate where it should not and there is a decided need of some organized effort for civic cleanliness in most of the towns. We aren't calling any names, but towns to which this applies have doubtless realized it.

Another suggestion is for country road improvement. At several localities plans for bond issues are being formulated and by the end of a year there will doubtless be considerable advancement along that line. And if we may be granted still further license in this paragraph, the Northwestern might erect a depot or so up there that doesn't look so out of place among the handsome business buildings of the communities.

These knocks, be it remembered, are given, "going up," and it is hoped they will be accepted as boosts in the same spirit in which they are given.

At Wichita's Doors.
This is, in general, the country that has been brought to Wichita Falls' front door by the Northwestern, and it is no hyperbole to say that this article has not done full justice to that section.

Just a word about the people—the business men that grip you hard by the hand and tell you what is and what's going to be, the children that wave as the train passes the farmers that are the best ever because most of them are from Texas. If the Almighty never refreshed that country with a drop of rain or never smiled His blessings upon it in sunshine, its people alone would make it an empire.

These people are boosters. They are builders. They are Christians, and they vote the Democratic ticket. The old farmer knew whereof he spoke when he said, "God's been good to this country."

An Up-to-Date Enterprise

The Wichita Shoe Shop, formerly on Ohio Avenue, has leased a large room in the First National Bank annex and equipped the shop with all the latest improved machinery. It can turn out work in fifteen minutes that it would take an average hand three hours to do when finished, the shoes look as if they were new. It is so different from the old cobbler-shop, owing to the fact that it has more life, enterprise and vigor than it has yet been the editor's lot to see, and everything is kept neat and clean, too. The owner, J. W. Curry, who is a skilled workman in his line states that he will enlarge it from time to time just as the town grows, and business demands more machinery and states that it will at all times be his aim to give the people of Wichita Falls and the whole country, as well, better work for less money, and as everything is run by electric power, there will be no delay in delivering the work just as promised. It is pleasing to see Wichita Falls coming to the front day by day with some new enterprises. On with the good work; face to enterprise and growth of Wichita Falls—on, forward, march!

New Abstract Company.
Attention is called to the card of the Guarantee Abstract and Title Company, which appears in this issue. This firm has taken over the business of the Abstract of Title Company, of which T. T. Felder was formerly the manager and proprietor, and is composed of T. T. Felder, our fellow-townsman, who is well known to all; W. F. Turner, an abstractor of a great many years experience, and who comes here from Vernon, Tex., and M. L. Britton, formerly of Cisco, Tex.

Moved.
I now have associated with me W. F. Turner from the Vernon Abstract Co., who is a thorough abstract man; also M. L. Britton, and am in a better position to serve you in the abstract business than ever before. We have moved our office from the court house to the old city hall building, on the corner of 7th and Indiana. We will appreciate your business. 132-1tc T. T. FELDER.

Two Ways of Looking At It.

After buying that bill of lumber you are going to need, and using it, you may be either glad or mad. It depends on whether you buy good, dry lumber from us, or carelessly accept lumber that's only half seasoned, from somebody who's not so particular about the quality of their stock as we are.

There are no two ways about it: You can buy any kind of lumber or building material to better advantage right here than you can anywhere else in this part of the country. Let us make you an estimate on what you want.

Nature's Gift from the Sunny South

"Way Down South in the Land of Cotton"

If you could see cotton growing in the field in all its purity—could see the processes by which the cotton seed oil is extracted and refined—could know the ingenuity involved in rendering the oil odorless and neutral in taste—could be made to realize that from Cottonfield to Kitchen human hands never touch the oil from which Cottolene is made—you would appreciate why Cottolene is so much purer and more healthful than lard ever could be.

Cottolene is a cleanly, wholesome product—just as pure as olive oil—and makes food palatable, digestible and healthful. Lard-cooked food is bound to cause indigestion sooner or later, unless you have the stomach of an ostrich. For all shortening and frying purposes, Cottolene is without an equal.

COTTOLENE is Guaranteed Your grocer is hereby authorized to refund your money in case you are not pleased, after having given Cottolene a fair test.

Never Sold in Bulk Cottolene is packed in pails with an air-tight top to keep it clean, fresh and wholesome, and prevent it from catching dust and absorbing disagreeable odors, such as fish, oil, etc.

Famous Georgia Minstrels.

Tonight will be laughing night at the Wichita Theatre, for at that time those funny fellows, comprising Richards & Pringle's famous minstrels will cut things loose. The big opening number, "The Palace of Revelry," will be a revelation. This beautiful production is a masterpiece of the scene painters' art, and has been months in construction. The costumes and settings comprise several thousand yards of silk, satin and velvet. Twenty of the best singers ever carried by a minstrel organization and twelve of the funniest comedians will hold high revelry for an hour and half of the brightest and snappiest of solos, comprising two big spectacular Southern numbers, introducing songs and dances of the Southland as only the negro can execute them. Seven other big vaudeville acts and a one-act musical comedy that is one long scream of laughter.

The company will arrive in their own special cars and give a big free street parade at 1:30. Another concert will be given by the band in front of the theatre at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

"The Girl From Rector's"

Following its run of an entire season at Weber's Music Hall, New York, "The Girl From Rector's" will be seen in this city at the Wichita Theatre for the limited engagement of Tuesday night, October 19th only.

Paul M. Potter is the author of the work, and despite the fact his past has been identified with plays of a serious nature, he hit upon a vein of humor in "The Girl" which astonished even his most ardent admirers. It is a long step from a play of the nature of "Tribby," of which he was the author, to an offering like that of his latest creation. The New York critics declare that he has made a name for himself in the world of comedy which will survive his former reputation. There isn't a dull line throughout "The Girl From Rector's" and not a situation that cannot be understood and appreciated by any one. The success of the piece may be judged from the fact that its earning capacity at Weber's was many times greater than that of the same house when the Weber and Fields' offerings there were the sole topic of New York's theatre-going public.

A Pleasant Way to Cure Catarrh.

Poor deluded victims! Constantly sprinkling and spraying and stomach dosing.

What are you doing it for?

Trying to kill the catarrh germs?

Might just as well try to kill a cat with fresh milk.

Sticking a piece of chewing gum in the upper left hand corner of the right ear would slaughter just as many germs.

You can't kill the germs that cause catarrh unless you get where they are.

You can get where the germs are by breathing Hyomel, the powerful, yet soothing antiseptic, which is prepared especially to kill catarrh germs.

Just breathe it in, that's all. It gives joyful relief in five minutes. It is guaranteed by Mater-Walker Drug Company to cure catarrh, or money back.

It is sold by leading druggists everywhere. A complete outfit, including inhaler, costs $1.00. Extra bottles, 50c. Cures sore throat, coughs and colds.

"I take especial pride in recommending Hyomel to asthmatic sufferers, as I know by experience that it is a remedy that cures. I have not since using Hyomel had any recurrence of asthma."—Mrs. Wm. Burton, Owosso, Mich., June 22, 1909.

LAUGHS AT PEARY.

Kansas Scientist Ridicules Charges Against Cook.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 15.—Prof. L. L. Dyche, head of the department of natural history of the University of Kansas, who made several trips to the north as a member of the Peary and Cook exploring parties, and who is personally acquainted with the explorers, today made a statement to the Topeka State Journal concerning Commander Peary's statement published recently.

The statement is in part as follows: "Commander Peary's statement published recently, to my mind, is absolutely incredible. It is based upon the testimony of ignorant Eskimos who were incapable of understanding a country to which they had never been before well enough to outline such a map as that published and credited by Mr. Peary to their explanation. Only intelligent white men with instruments could make their way to to such a country and be able to report in detail upon it a year after the trip was made.

"While I believe Commander Peary reached the pole, I have not a shadow of doubt that Dr. Cook reached the pole first and exactly as he detailed it in his own published report.

"The most astounding part of Commander Peary's story, it seems to me, consists of a statement that Dr. Cook got to the northern part of the land bordering upon the great Arctic ocean, the point for which he had striven for a month, enduring the hardships of intense cold and the rigors of arctic climate—with ample supplies, sled and Eskimo all in first class condition, and them simply turned back, apparently for no reason.

How unlikely it is that a man with over twenty years' arctic experience, fired with an ambition of a life time, would give up just at a time and place when one of his greatest trophies the world has to bestow upon a brave and daring explorer, was standing within his reach, beckoning him to come on."

REPORTED THAT FRISCO MAY CONTROL THE KATY

The report below, regarding the possible control of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas by the Frisco System, is of interest locally:

That the Rock Island-Frisco interests may secure control of the Katy created no surprise among Fort Worth railroad men. They all rather expected such a maneuver some day.

The manner in which the Katy has risen to predominance and domination in Texas railroad circles within the past few years is pointed to by local officials as a reason why the Yoakum lines should want it. Of course the paying character of Katy property has never been doubted. It is considered one of the best railroads in the entire Southwest.

The report from New York states that the Rock Island-Frisco men will be elected to the directorate of the Katy, namely: B. F. Yoakum, James Spreyer and Edwin Hawley, to succeed Adrian Joline, now president, and two other directors.

Large acquisition of Katy stock have lately been made by Judge Moore, B. F. Yoakum, D. C. Reid, James Spreyer and other Rock Island-Frisco men.

Adrian Joline, says the New York report, will retire and be succeeded by A. A. Allen, vice president and general manager of the Katy with offices in St. Louis. Mr. Allen is well known in Fort Worth.

SHORT ITEMS OF INTEREST

The recently organized football team will hold its first practice this afternoon at 5 o'clock on the high school grounds.

Constable Pete Randolph this morning arrested a fourteen-year-old boy who is charged with picking the pockets of a drunken man. The boy admits the theft. He secured $1.40.

The ballasting gang of the Fort Worth and Denver has completed its work in the local yards and is now working toward Pease river, fifty-two miles north.

Dr. Amason of this city, was called to Charlie yesterday on account of the illness of Mr. Clarence Meyer, who is afflicted with appendicitis. It is not yet known whether or not Mr. Meyer will have to undergo an operation.

About nine o'clock last evening at the tent meeting, J. Brothers had a fainting spell and had to be carried to the Palace Drug Store, where Dr. Amason was called to relieve him. He got better in about two hours and was carried to his home.

M. T. Thompson, a cripple, who had his leg amputated about one year ago, is now in the hospital at Fort Worth to have the member re-amputated in order that he might wear with comfort an artificial limb. He is a poor man and wrote to friends in the city to send him some money to finish paying for the surgical operation, and the sum of $21.50 was subscribed, and a draft forwarded to him for the amount by G. A. Hannah.
