TO REST IN SOUTH TEXAS

Leaves San Antonio for Brother's Ranch Near Corpus Christi This Afternoon.

By Associated Press. San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 18.—President Taft spent a busy day for seven hours in this city today before leaving for his brother's ranch near the southern end of the state where he will spend four days resting and enjoying himself.

A golf course has been constructed on the ranch and between golf and horseback rides, he expects to enjoy himself.

Early today the president was taken in an automobile to Fort Sam Houston, where with simple ceremony the cornerstone of the Post Chapel was laid. On his way to the fort the president was driven through lines of school children, fourteen thousand in number, who sang "America" as he passed.

The president halted the auto to listen to the song and cheers of the children.

The president reviewed the troops before proceeding to the cornerstone laying.

At ten-thirty o'clock he was taken back to the city, where he made a brief address from the grand stand on Alamo Plaza.

At noon his visit ended with an informal luncheon given by the citizens.

Texas News Service Special. San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 18.—Under a clear sky, the entire city fluttering with bunting, President Taft began today's program refreshed by a good night's rest.

Taft's picture was displayed on all sides. Cannon began booming early this morning. Escorted by a squadron of cavalry and a platoon of police on each side Taft headed an auto parade to Fort Sam Houston, where he reviewed the troops and laid the cornerstone of the chapel given by San Antonio citizens to the government. Following this the president addressed thirty thousand persons at Alamo Plaza.

Twelve thousand school children lined his route carrying small flags. They sang "America" as the president passed.

TEXAS SHIPPERS SUE.

Petitions Against Thirty-Eight Roads Filed at Washington.

By Associated Press. Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—The Southwestern Shippers' Traffic Association, composed mostly of Texas and Oklahoma concerns, today filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission against the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and thirty-seven other interstate carriers.

The petition alleges that the rates on traffic through Texas points are unjust and discriminatory as compared with similar rates from New Orleans and Memphis and relief is prayed for on this ground.

This action is the outcome of considerable agitation over the lack of uniformity of rates between points in Texas and points in other states and it is believed by the officers of the Shippers' association that the commission can remedy matters.

SUBSTANTIAL RAIN TO SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST

While the rainfall in this city and vicinity last night was sufficient only to lay the dust and slightly dampen the ground, it was more general to the south and southwest of this city and did material good in that section. It was not felt at other points on the Ft. Worth and Denver, but is reported from all points on the Wichita Valley including the points on the Stamford and Northwestern. At some of these points rain fell all night, filling the railroad tanks and benefitting the country materially.

Texas News Service Special. Childress, Oct. 18.—The heavy rain today over the lower Panhandle will greatly benefit stockmen and aid in planting winter wheat and alfalfa. The down-pour has been steady since ten o'clock last night, in Childress county, following a severe electrical and wind-storm. Rain is filling creeks and streams. It has been understood for some time that he would make the race for congress, and his definite announcement, which was made last week, was not at all unexpected. ## BANK AFFAIR ENDS IN AMUSING FIASCO

END OF BIG SENSATION

Waggoner Branch Bank Supposed to Have Been Robbed By Lone Bandit Last Summer.

Texas News Service Special. Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 18.—The final chapter in the sensational affairs at the branch bank of the Waggoner Bank and Trust last summer was enacted this morning in the district court, when Walter King, the cashier, was fined one hundred dollars by District Judge Buck.

He pleaded guilty to the charge of voluntarily returning stolen property. He did not admit the embezzlement of the money, which amounted to about seven thousand dollars.

The unusual features of the case attracted a great deal of attention. It will be remembered that King was said to have been held up and robbed of seven thousand dollars by a lone robber who entered the branch bank after working hours. Descriptions of the supposed robber were sent out broadcast until Detective Corwin of Austin, stated that it was no longer necessary, as the money was back in the safe. King's arrest followed.

The state's attorneys announced today that they were unable to introduce their principal witness, Douglas Maddox, King's assistant, as he is now in Oklahoma.

IS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Walter Leonard injured at Frederick Beutlegger is Fined.

Special to The Times. Frederick, Okla., Oct. 18.—While placing a 38-40 Winchester in the wagon at Davidson yesterday Walter Leonard, who lives near town, was accidentally shot through the arm. He had accompanied his father to town and they were preparing to return home when the accident occurred. Medical aid was at once obtained and the man's arm was dressed, and physicians think that if nothing more than is anticipated happens, it will not be necessary to amputate the limb.

George Miller, one of Ham's boys, was arrested and tried yesterday in Judge Campbell's court on a charge of boot-legging and was given the usual $50 fine and thirty days in jail. Several cases of like nature have come up in Judge Campbell's court during the last month, and in each instance the penalty has been dealt out freely, the heaviest being $250 fine and 90 days in jail.

AMERICAN DIPLOMAT IS FOUND DEAD IN LONDON

By Associated Press. London, Oct. 18.—The inquest into the death of William Buchanan, the American diplomat whose body was found in Park Lane Saturday night, will be held Wednesday. There is no evidence of an assault or robbery, and it is supposed that his death was due to heart trouble or a stroke of paralysis. Buchanan, at the time of his death, was under appointment as an agent of the United States for the arbitration at the Hague of the questions pending in Venezuela.

PRESIDENTS OF TWO REPUBLICS AND EL PASO BRIDGE, WHERE THEY MET.

The most auspicious occasion for many years in the history of the friendly relations between Mexico and the United States was the meeting between President Taft and President Porfirio Diaz of Mexico, at El Paso. For years it has been the dream of the people of El Paso to have the rulers of the two great North American republics meet at that point, and when Benjamin Harrison visited El Paso and President William McKinley paid a visit to the city in 1900, efforts were made to have General Diaz as a guest also, but he was unable to get there in time. However, no American president has ever before extended a formal invitation to the president of Mexico to meet him at El Paso until the present, when Mr. Taft sent a personal letter to General Diaz expressing the pleasure that such a meeting would give him. General Diaz promptly accepted the invitation.

AMUSEMENTS

Manager Bean has a rare treat in store for his patrons on Tuesday night when the attraction will be "The Girl from Rector's." This play comes to Wichita Falls from a sensational years run at Weber's Music hall, New York City. No play in recent years has received so many flattering press notices and so widely spoken of as "The Girl from Rector's." The original New York production will be brought here intact headed by Miss Carrie Weber. The San Diego, Cal., Evening Tribune says:

Contrary to general expectations there was no necessity for calling the fire department to the Garrick theatre last night. Neither would the official censor, did San Diego possess such an individual, have been called upon to contribute his services.

"The Girl from Rector's" was the attraction and, because of some of the press notices given the play when it was produced in San Francisco, most of those who attended the Garrick last night, and the play house was filled almost to capacity, expected something decidedly "warm." Though they may have been disappointed, they were not surprised in seeing liveliest and brightest comedies that will visit San Diego this season.

It is quite true that there are several lines in the piece, about three, to be exact, that approach closely the risqué, but they are so cleverly handled by the members of the company as to prevent their being offensive. Possibly one or two of the situations might give room for criticism by those who go to the theatre looking for evil. "The Girl from Rector's" with a clean mind will find little in the play to adversely criticize.

It is an exceptionally strong company which is producing "The Girl from Rector's." Miss Carrie Weber as Louise Sidaine, the principal feminine role, established herself as a warm favorite from the very start. Miss Webber handled her many scenes with great cleverness and her work was in every respect a treat. The gowns she wears are something for the women to rave about; and they are none the less admired by the men.

William Sellery is seen in the part of Prof. Aubrey Maboon and it is safe to say that his work could not be excelled. It is some of the best character acting ever seen in San Diego in sometime. Most of his work comes during the third act and while he is on the stage the audience is kept in an almost continuous roar of laughter.

Another good piece of acting is that done by Harry K. Fowler, as Deacon Wiggford. Bert Wesner is an admirable Col. Andrew Tandy, and almost equally good work is done by Edward Burton, in the character of Judge Caperton.

Beth Tate, as Angelica, the maid, is one of the stars of the company. She is such a winsome maid the judge may well be pardoned for his attempts at flirtation. John J. Clark, as Richard O'Shaughnessy; May Pendleton as Vera Flower, and the other members of the company are first class in their roles.

One of the features of the performance is the dancing of the three Pendleton sisters, which comes near the close of the third act. They are three of the best dancers who have ever been seen on a San Diego stage. With Miss Weber and the four leading male characters of the play they give a finale to the third act that last night aroused the audience to a high state of enthusiasm, no less than eight curtain calls being given.

The "Girl from Rector's" will be given its final San Diego performance tonight and there is no doubt but that the Garrick theatre will be crowded to its capacity, as there is an exceptionally heavy advance sale.

An Early Georgia Monster.

In the fore part of August, 1812, a party of hunters found in a mountainous region now known as Rabun county, Ga., a being nearly eight feet high covered with bluish hair and having a human face adorned with immense ears resembling those of an ass. The creature was stone deaf and on that account seemed wholly unconscious of the approach of the men. This monster seems, from all accounts, to have been seen upon several occasions during the next four years. In 1816 a number of adventurers from Virginia, most of them surveyors working up the unexplored portions of Georgia and the Carolinas, formed themselves into a party for the express purpose of capturing the uncanny being if possible. They scoured the hills and valleys for several days and at last returned unsuccessful to the starting point.

The many tales told of this extraordinary being seem to have created quite a stir all along the Atlantic coast. A printed circular issued by a land company in 1815 says, "The climate of Georgia is exceedingly mild, the soil productive, and the danger of attack from uncouth beasts which are represented as being half beast and half man are fairy tales not worthy of consideration."—Exchange.

Made It Quite Clear.

The engineers of a party in the field were continually annoyed by the curiosity of the farmer folk in the country round. Each and every day their progress was blocked by some inquiring soul who would have liked to spend the forenoon acquiring answers to questions of why and whither and how far and what for, relates the New York Sun. At last a serious faced young man took an interested bucolic graybeard one side and explained matters.

"Now," said he, "I'm telling this to you, and I don't want it to go any further. We have discovered that the earth is a parabolic hexoid, and the ordinates and co-ordinates do not quite tally by a foot or perhaps by fourteen inches. The place where the gap comes has been located in that field just ahead of us. We don't want it mentioned, but we are getting ready to blow up the spot and make an incision before beginning the operation of joining the two."

The engineers finished their labors in peace and solitude.

The Shilling Bequest.

The wealthy auctioneer who reduced the inheritance of a daughter to an annuity of £104 because she had become a Socialist reminds one of the old fashioned "cutting off with a shilling." Why a shilling rather than nothing? Blackstone explains. The Romans used to set aside wills as deficient in natural duty if they disinherited or totally passed by any child of the testator. But the smallest legacy was accepted as evidence that the testator had not lost his reason or his memory, as the law otherwise assumed he had; hence the groundless belief in England that a father could not disinherit his child without a shilling, although the English law knows no presumption of insanity or forgetfulness in such a case. Of Sheridan and his son Tom (and of other fathers and sons) the story is told: "Father—I'll cut you off with a shilling. Son—I'd rather have it now, dad."—St. James' Gazette.

Appealed to His Pride.

It was the most obstinate mule in the lot and refused to enter the car of a train held up at a little wayside station. Threats, cajolery and blows were alike useless. The mule refused to budge, and the slant of his ears told those of the passengers who were familiar with mule car talk that where he was he intended to stay. Then the aged African who was trying to load him in said in honeyed tones:

"Whuffo' yo' behave dis way befo' all dese strange people? Why, yo' fool mule, don't yo' know dat dese people will jes' believe dat yo' neber done trabled befo' in all yo' life?"

The long ears lost their aggressive slant, and the beast went sedately up the inclined plank with the air of a man entering a drawing room car for the first time and determined not to betray the fact.—Exchange.

Bellingbroke's Retort.

When Bellingbroke, who was at Aix-la-Chapelle during the treaty of peace at that place, at which time his attitude was not removed, was asked by an impertinent Frenchman whether he came there in any public character, his lordship answered: "Not at all; I came like a French minister, with no character at all."

The Monkey and the Pie.
An Indian fowler had a monkey that he had brought up from babyhood, says an English writer. The pair were fast friends, the monkey being a faithful attendant on his master and as good as a watchdog. One day the fowler made a pie for dinner and left it to cook on a charcoal fire while he went for a walk. As the cooking proceeded the savory smell was too much for the monkey. It raised the crust and tasted the chicken. Finding the food very tasty, it ate more and more until nothing but the crust remained. Then it remembered its master, who would shortly return hungry and ready to enjoy his meal. What was to be done? The sharp eyes of the monkey detected some crows not far away, so without loss of time it lay down on the ground as if dead. By and by a crow came along and pecked at the monkey, which seized the bird in a twinkling, strangled it, stripped off the feathers, placed it in pieces in the dish, covered it over with the crust and then contentedly awaited the return of the fowler, to whom the whole incident was related by an eyewitness.

Most counties in England have their idiomatic expressions to denote left handedness, and they are often prefixed to the unfortunate left handed child's name. In London the term is kack handed, the word being also equivalent to awkward. In Lancashire it is k-pawed, in Yorkshire galklock or gawk handed, an expression dating back to at least the seventeenth century. In Derbyshire are used the terms keg handed, cork handed and corky handed, while in the Teesdale district cuddy handed is common and in Nottinghamshire wallet handed. In the south of England special terms to denote left handedness are also found. In Dorset it is scrame handed and in Devonshire coo-hy handed. In Scotland we find gawk handed and in the west cawry handed. In Ireland a left handed man is called a kithogue. Tim Healy used this word in a speech at East Wicklow, in which he said that Mr. O'Kelly could fight with his left hand and had already given his opponent some "kithogues" that would spoil his political beauty during the contest.—London Chronicle.

Bursting Balloons.
The greatest danger of a high ascent in a balloon is concerned with the changing density of the atmosphere. On the ground the atmosphere presses on the balloon with a weight of about fifteen pounds for every square inch of its surface. As the balloon rises, however, the air grows thinner and its pressure becomes in consequence less and less. As the pressure of the outside atmosphere decreases the balloon expands, and if the ascension is made too rapidly or without sufficient care the gas inside the silk envelope will expand until the balloon bursts. But the bursting of a balloon in mid-air is by no means necessarily a fatal catastrophe. Every balloon is provided with a "ripping cord" which, when pulled, cuts a long rent in the envelope out of which the gas speedily escapes. The silk bag is then carried by the air into the upper portion of the netting, where in the majority of cases it forms a parachute and brings everything safely to earth.

Doubtful Praise.
Mr. Faxon was the oldest patron of the "select boarding house" in which he lived, and his landlady sometimes referred people to him for a recommendation of her table. His wish was to praise the food highly, as he could conscientiously do, but one day he overstepped his mark. "I'm dyspeptic, sir," said a man who had gone to Mr. Faxon to make inquiries about the boarding house, "and my food has to be simple and well cooked—no high seasoning, no indigestible compounds." Mr. Faxon looked at him with a bland and reassuring smile. "My dear sir," he said in his most impressive manner, "you need have no fears. All I have eaten in the ten years I have been under Mrs. Brown's roof would not interfere with the digestion of the most delicate baby, sir, in the land."

When Lovers Watched the Corpses.
Most curious of the old time superstitions of New England was the custom of requiring lovers to watch the corpse. It associated the hopes of marriage with the silent vigil, was poetic and has only disappeared from the oldest towns within a generation. No obligation of the social conscience was more scrupulously regarded than that a dead body should never be left alone at night. In the earliest days the solemn watchers were old men and women, deacons, selectmen, but as the colonies grew honest lovers with plighted troths were frequently selected for these long vigils.

Sefer.
"Your political antagonist is calling you every name he can think of," said the agitated friend. "Don't interrupt him," answered Senator Sorghum. "It is better to have a man searching the dictionary for epithets than going after your record for facts."—Washington Star.

The Way It Seemed.
"The longest days of the year are in June, pa, but when are the shortest?" "Sometimes in July and sometimes in August, depending upon when your mother takes her vacation."—New York Press.

Foresight is very wise, but foresorrow is very foolish, and castles are at any rate better than dungeons in the air.—Sir John Lubbock.

Lady Passenger's Leg.
It was blowing rather hard, and there was a nasty sea on an hour and a half before the first breakfast bugle. An officer of an ocean liner hurried along the passage between the state-rooms, and a timid voice called to him: "Oh, Mr. Officer, please stop!" He turned and saw a dear old lady with a wrapper thrown around her peeping through her half open door. "Yes, madam," said the officer. "Mr. Officer, please would you call this a gale?" asked the old lady anxiously. "Oh, no, madam! There's not the least danger, I assure you." "Well, is it half a gale?" "Not even half a gale, and this is such an excellent sea boat that you needn't worry a bit," explained the officer. "Well, what would you call it, please?" said the lady, steadying herself as the vessel rolled. "Just a fresh nor'west breeze, madam, with a cross sea running. But, really, there's nothing to fear." "Thank you so much. I just wanted to get it quite right in my diary, you know."—New York Times.

A Chinese Superstition.
Fengshul is the Chinese superstition that determines good site or locality, and if a town on the Yangtze has not a good fengshul trade will not come to it, and it will be ruined. A town named Peishih had its pagoda in the wrong place—not far enough down the river—and the result was that all traffic which should have come to it was swept past, Peishih being left out in the cold. The people pulled down the pagoda and built another one in the supposed right spot, as nothing would convince them that the depression could arise from any other cause than that of a bad fengshul. The city of Wansheln, on the other hand, has a perfect fengshul, two fine pagodas, and is very prosperous. But the fact that Wansheln is situated in a fertile valley, where wheat, barley and the poppy flourish abundantly, while Peishih is barren and miserable, does not concern the inhabitants so much as the fengshul site. This remarkable idea in the Chinese mind is only one of thousands like it.

Mastication.
"The body is a manufactory," said a doctor recently. "It has to manufacture bone and blood and muscle and brain out of bread and butter, eggs, beef and milk, and a wonderful process it is. Now, the first part of the process takes place in the mouth, and, as in most factories, the first is the most important. If a wrong start is made, everything that follows is not wrong. If the food isn't well masticated and mixed with the saliva, the stomach, the liver and the intestines are thrown out of gear; consequently most of the more advanced doctors are paying a great deal of attention to the condition of their patients' teeth. They know, to garble Shakespeare a bit, that "good digestion aids on mastication, and health on both."—New York Tribune.

How Letters Strike Our Eyes.
Roman letters of various sizes are commonly called into request by oculists in testing vision. Recent experiments show great differences in the ease with which the various letters are recognized by the same person. T is especially difficult of recognition and is apt to be mistaken for Y. By a similar optical illusion the angle of L is rounded off, making the letter resemble a reversed J. V is the easiest of all letters to recognize, and O presents little difficulty. K is more easily recognized than H, which resembles it closely, and both N and Z are easily recognized. A is easily guessed at from its general form, but is difficult of positive recognition, including distinct perception of the horizontal line. E and F are among the most difficult of all letters.

Discouraging.
A pompous man went into a drug store early the other morning to buy a cigar. The only person he found there was the soda water dispenser. The boy was sweeping out the store. "Sweeping out, eh?" said the man. "Well, that's how I got my start." The boy looked him over and replied, "Aw, what do you want to discourage me like that for?" When the man left he was frowning.—Denver Post.

Edifying.
Gentleman (looking for rooms)—Did you say a music teacher occupies the next apartment? That cannot be very pleasant. Landlady (eagerly)—Oh, that's nothing. He has eleven children, and they make so much noise you can't hear the piano.—Harper's Bazar.

Utilizing Her.
"My dear, the hired girl has quit." "Well, that's all right. Just drop a line to your mother inviting her to visit us. She'll do the housework until we can get another maid."—New York Journal.

Out of Her Reach.
Elsie—Why is Clara always so short of money? Didn't her father leave her a lot? Madge—Yes; but, you see, she's not to get it till she's thirty, and she'll never own up to that."—Boston Transcript.

Opulence.
"What is your idea of happiness?" "To be able to spend my own money just as if I were going to turn in an expense account when I got home."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Rank has its bores as well as pleasure.—Beaconsfield.

THE TAFT-DIAZ MEETING.

President Taft said:
"I am very glad to welcome you, Mr. Diaz. I am very glad, indeed."

President Diaz answered:
"I am very happy to meet you and to have the honor of being one of the first foreigners to come over to give you a hearty welcome."

President Taft said:
"It gives not only great pleasure to welcome the President of the great Republic of Mexico, but to welcome the present President of the Republic of Mexico who has made it so great."

President Diaz said:
"I am very proud to grasp the hand of the great statesman who has made such a record in this life—in the Philippines, in Cuba and at present at the head of the great Nation, the United States."

President Taft said:
"I wish to express to you my belief that this meeting is looked upon by people of both countries with a great deal of interest, not as making stronger, but as typifying the strength of the bonds between the two countries."

President Diaz—My friendly relations and my personal acquaintance with you will make thousands and thousands of friends of the American and Mexican people, and beneficial developments will have to follow for the good of the countries."

Above is reproduced the conversation between Presidents Taft and Diaz at El Paso Saturday. Extreme formality is its keynote. Of course, it would have been a most serious breach of international etiquette for Taft to slap the diminutive hombre on the back and said "Howdy, Fort!" nor would it have been good manners, exactly to have poked his royal finger into Taft's portly ribs. The occasion was necessarily a formal one, but its good effect toward maintaining friendly relations, will be great.

We fail to see the need, however, of running formality into the ground.

With Dr. Rankin and the statewidens supporting the candidacy of Cone Johnson for the democratic gubernatorial nomination, and the anti-statewidens lined up for O. B. Colquitt, it begins to look like the votes will come under the head of "scattering." It is also very likely that a nomination this time will not necessarily carry with it an election. There is a likelihood of a split in the party, and each side to the controversy in all probability will be in the race until the votes are counted at the November, or general election.

While there is very few of us who like to see a negro the champion pugilist of the world, it's some consolation to think that, at any rate, it's a Texas negro.

The nice little rain of last night will be beneficial to wheat crops, which are now showing some green.

In a speech Pres. Taft is quoted as denouncing the Oklahoma Constitution and those responsible for its adoption as a 'zodiacal garden of cranks.' Let's see, the Oklahoma Constitution provides, among other good things a guarantee bank deposit law, and to show how well it works, the largest bank in the state failed the other day. Result: There was no run made on the other banks; a panic was avoided, and the stockholders received every dollar due them. It will be time enough for President Taft to throw dirt at Oklahoma's Constitution when the National government adopts a plan that will protect bank depositors as well as the guarantee bank deposit law of Oklahoma, whether it is drawn by a lot of cranks or not.

A street preacher was sent to prison for contempt of court at San Angelo the other day, because he made the assertion that there were houses of prostitution in that city, other than in the district reserved for that class of business, or debauchery, and was unable, or refused, to furnish evidence that would warrant making arrests. The Times only makes mention of this item to show the kind of men the people of San Angelo elect to fill their public offices. If she is proud of them, then she is entitled to all the free advertising she can get and the Times is perfectly willing to do its full share of the advertising.

When the time comes, Texas will be found in the democratic column, as usual, and those of her democratic leaders who are denouncing the tariff plank in the National democratic platform and throwing in with the republican party, will do as they have always done before—accept democratic nominations and ride the democratic mule into office only to give the animal a good "cuffing" after he carries them safely to Washington, when they climb up on the elephant and ride undisturbed until the time comes to be elected again. It's a pity the democrats could not afford to lose a few of such leaders.

Brilliance and sophistry have never yet made black white. None of Bailey's arguments yet have convinced us that it is right to tax our people for the benefit of Aldrich & Co.—Quannah Tribune-Chief.

But Mr. Bailey wants to tax you that the wool growers and cattle raisers, the beef trust and the wool merchants profit thereby. If you can't see that is for your interest you ought to be driven into the sea for being so dull.—Bonham News.

The fact that the receipts of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company have decreased does not indicate that the price of oil has been lowered. The people who buy oil have been paying the same fancy prices.

Governor Harmon said everything he was expected to say and nothing that he was not expected to say, which goes a long way toward explaining how he came to be elected Governor of a republican state.

Grand Old Texas spends right at $12,000,000 annually in the interest of education, which is sixty per cent of her total running expenses. Come to Texas, and Wichita is the best county in the state.

"Fort Worth can dam the Trinity," reads a headline. It's an even bet, however, that there are three people in Dallas damning the Trinity for every one there is in Fort Worth.

Only a few hundred people witnessed the bookmakers horseraces at Dallas on Saturday. It is sometimes pretty hard to convince the people what is not good for them.

The explanation of Pittsburgh's victory last week is not hard to find. She had two Texas men in her lineup.

Exaggerated Cruelty.
A well known gentleman took horse exercise daily, accompanied by a magnificent bloodhound, until he conceived an enthusiasm for cycling, when he altered the program by leaving the bloodhound at home and taking as his companion a fine dachshund.

The pair were passing through a village recently when a laboring youth remarked to his "pal":

"Why?" queried the other.

"Cos it owt ter be stopped, if only for th' sake o' that dog as is a-puffin' along behind thoe'r," rejoined the first speaker. "It ain't sport; it's cruelty to hanimals."

His companion disagreed and said he thought the dog benefited by the exercise.

"Exercise," retorted the other scornfully. "D'ye call that exercise? You never saw that dog afore 'is master started bikin', did yer?"

"No, I didn't."

"Well," said the youth, "'e wor one o' th' finest bloodhounds you iver clapped eyes on, an' wot's 'e now? 'Is body's dwindled away to nowt, while 'is legs is worn clean darn to th' stumps. Ol repeat, it's cruelty ter hanimals."—London Bystander.

Got His Money's Worth.
A lady pianist was recently prosecuted, and an amusing incident was noted in connection with the case. One of the witnesses called by the police was an individual who did not appear to be overburdened with intelligence. During a smart cross examination defendant's counsel asked him:

"On first going into the room did you pay a shilling fee to the defendant?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"What did she tell you in return for the money?"

"Oh," said the witness, "she told me lots o' things, some on 'em true, some on 'em half true an' some on 'em less."

"Now," continued the counsel after the laughter had died away, "this is the point I wish to get at: Was there any attempt at imposition? Did you lady impose upon you at all?"

"Oh, dear, no!" was the response. "I knowed it wor all gammon, so there couldn't be no imposition. Besides, it wor a bad shillin' as I giv' her, to start with!"—London Tit-Bits.

Marriage in Picardy.
A Picardy custom, founded on a broad basis of common sense as well as the idea of complete partnership, is that which puts a new bride through a kind of examination in the trade of her husband. It may, of course, have become something of a burlesque, and the bride may purposely show less dexterity than she needs. Still, the consideration of the wife as a helpmate is very clearly shown in the performance. If the young wife's husband be a farmer, she will be asked to harness a horse and cart and to harrow a small piece of land. If her choice has fallen on an ironworker, she must hammer a piece of iron; if on a miller, she must measure out wheat from a basket at the church door; if on a smith, she is supposed to be able to strike the anvil; if on a sailor, she has to clean and mend some netting, and so on with the other occupations. Evidently the keeping of an idle wife is not understood in Picardy.—T. P.'s London Weekly.

Whale and Elephant Meat.
There is something unpleasant about the thought of eating whale meat, but it is said that the reality is very palatable. Japan has quite a trade in canned and salted whale meat, and there is to be a campaign to educate the European peoples to like it. Some whaling companies have distributed from their headquarters samples of canned whale meat, and those who have eaten it describe it as tenderer than beef and much like it in taste.

Whale steak seems no queerer than Frankfort sausage made out of an elephant, which is what some German people have been eating. An enterprising butcher over there, hearing that an unruly elephant in the Ghent zoological gardens was to be killed, engaged the carcass. He made 3,500 pounds of sausage out of it and sold every pound at good prices.

Friends.
"Dear friends," said the philosopher, "are scarce items in this world. They are too few to be counted."

"What d'ye call a friend?" he was asked.

"A friend," he replied, "is one who would lend you money if you wanted it and to whom you would lend money—if you had it."—New York Times.

Mr. Manning's Grudge.
Mrs. Manning—Do you think it is right to let that Greyson fellow keep company with our Martha? Mr. Manning—No, I can't say that it is. Young Greyson is a nice chap, but I've a grudge against his father, and I don't care if the son has to suffer for it.—Exchange.

FISH AT THE FAIR.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 18.—Those who are not familiar with the fish which they have been catching for years in the old mill pond or down at the river, will have an opportunity of learning something of the funny tribe at the International Fair at San Antonio.

The exhibit at San Antonio will be under the auspices of the bureau of fisheries of the department of commerce and labor of the United States government. The fact that the United States government is participating gives more than a passing distinction to the San Antonio Fair, and, in a large measure, is a recognition of the merit and worth of the big exposition, as the government participates only in those fairs that have established worth or are international or world-wide in their importance.

The fish that are to be found in all Texas streams and along the gulf coast will form the essential features of this exhibition, and, therefore, should be of great interest to those who in youth or in later years have sat on the bank and awaited patiently a bobble of the cork or cast the fly into some shady recess of a limpid stream to tempt the bass.

All railroads throughout the Mexican republic and in Texas will offer low excursion rates to the International Fair, which opens November 6 and closes November 17.

And we are not ashamed of it either for it is the kind that we don't have to be ashamed of. # FLORAL HEIGHTS

Wake Up and Buy Some Lots In Floral Heights

Can't you see that delay means a loss to you. Don't you know that lots in Floral heights will soon be higher? Why not? They are certainly the cheapest and best located lots in and about Wichita Falls. They have the highest elevation, the purest atmosphere, the most picturesque view. They have the city water, graded streets, five cent car fare and, in fact, will soon have every modern convenience out to the bend of the car line. Wide concrete sidewalks are now being put down and several nice residences are under construction.

This is the only way the town can grow and the only way we will have street car service for several years. The Floral Heights addition is not a real estate man's proposition, but is an addition backed by over fifty of the leading citizens of Wichita County, who have the interest of Wichita Falls at heart and who are determined to make Floral Heights the swellest residence section of the city. Floral Heights is spending more money to boost Wichita Falls than all the concerns in the city put together, with the exception of the Chamber of Commerce.

Any agent in the city will be glad to give you prices and assist you in selecting your lots. Make your purchase today before the good lots are all sold. Cars leave the corner of 8th St. and Indiana Avenue every ten minutes for Floral Heights. Lots are sold on terms of one-third cash, balance in one and two years, 8 per cent interest.

If you have friends and acquaintances who would like to know more about Wichita Falls, call at our office, 617 8th Street, for nice literature to mail them.

ANNIVERSARY OF ENGLISH DEFEAT

CORNWALLIS' SURRENDER TO WASHINGTON COMMEMORATED AT YORKTOWN.

PLANS ARE ELABORATE

Many Historical Societies will Participate and the Occasion Will Be Brilliant.

By Associated Press.
Yorktown, Va., Oct. 18.—Harking back to the stirring scenes of the revolutionary war the people of Yorktown are now ready for a rousing celebration of the 128th anniversary of the surrender of the British forces under Lord Cornwallis to General George Washington October 19, 1781. Various places of interest in connection with this historic event which took place here have been marked, and the gathering throng is kept busy viewing the scenes made notable during that great national drama.

Many patriotic societies, prominent among which are the Yorktown Historical society of the United States and the Society of the Descendants of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence have joined forces to make this patriotic rally worthy of the victory for the American arms. A strong sentiment has been developed among members of patriotic societies in favor of setting apart these historic places forever as one of the Nation's sacred resorts, as has been done with Yorktown and other localities, associated with American independence. This little town of two hundred people has suffered such slight change after this lapse of time that it is possible to see the field over which the British troops marched to stack their arms and to surrender. The British intrenchments are here and Lafayette's march with his light infantry to storm the works of the enemy can be traced in detail as can the course traversed by Alexander Hamilton in making his famous bayonet attack. The house in which the terms of capitulation were signed is also here with no important change and is the center of attraction on the part of the pilgrims.

In front of the famous home of Thomas Nelson, Jr., a signer of the Declaration of Independence and Governor of Virginia during the Revolutionary period, a stage has been erected from which many of the famous historic spots can be seen. It is here that the extensive program for the celebration of these events will be carried out next Tuesday October 19. On that occasion Henry Morris, president of the Descendants of the Signers will call the assemblage to order and will deliver an address. Colonel Oswald Tilghman, of Maryland, first vice president of the Yorktown Historical Society, will read the correspondence between Lord Cornwallis and General Washington relating to the capitulation of Yorktown and the surrender of the British forces. Representative J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, president of the Atlantic Deeper waterways Association, will deliver an oration. Among the picturesque features of the occasion will be the singing of 'Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean,' by the school children of York County. These children will also strew flowers upon the grave of Thomas Nelson, Jr.

In the great parade which has been planned there will be soldiers and sailors of the United States, members of the Naval Reserve of Maryland, mounted citizens of York and adjoining counties to the number of five hundred, and many decorated vehicles. At night the town will be illuminated with various colored fires.

Remember 'Graustark' the best play of the season appears here on October 29th. We have this, the most popular book ever written for sale for $1.00 per copy. Don't fail to read it. 131-14 THE PALACE DRUG STORE.

Benjamin Clothes
Alfred Benjamin & Co. Tailors

You'd be surprised if we'd tell you the number of men in this city who come to us, quite worried because of the fear that they can not obtain a suit of exceptional attractiveness, and one not having that flippant "air" which characterizes so many makes of clothes. We quiet their fears in a moment and do it very easily, too. In our long experience we have found that freakishness is not style, nor are the clamorous patterns. Acting upon our real knowledge of a gentleman's needs we are always prepared to exhibit rare styles and fascinating patterns; BUT NOT boisterous clothes. The Seabright Sack, made by Alfred Benjamin & Co., in New York, is a remarkable style, which is so "up-to-the-minute" that it fairly sparkles. The fabrics are soft and rich; the tailoring is of the kind which only expert workers can give. It is a clean, good, "Made in New York" style which men of taste desire.

JOSS PAPER.

The Way This Popular Chinese Material is Manufactured.

The principle districts in the Yangtze valley in China in which the manufacture of joss paper is carried on, Soosung, Ningpo, Hangtschau and Futschau, lie to the south of Shanghai. Young bamboo trunks are placed in ditches in layers with a covering of lime between them. The ditches are sometimes as large as thirty feet wide and ninety feet long. Water is poured over the mass and the contents allowed to remain until the trunks have rotted, which sometimes takes as long as three months.

After the lime-water has been drawn off the mass is placed in a ditch provided with stirrers, where it is washed. The reduction to fibers takes place in mills drawn by buffaloes. After a second washing the material is ready for the mold of the papermaker. In China as well as in Japan the mold consists of fine bamboo sticks. For this reason the paper is always ribbed.

The product is squeezed in wedge presses, dried on a board and then covered with tin. The pulverized metal is strewn over the sheets and hammered between the fibers with hammers of soft wood. The chief difficulty lies in this hammering, and in spite of the thinness of the paper the Chinese attain a shining surface of tin. The paper is packed in bales of 3,000 or 3,200 sheets.

QUEER JAPANESE FISH.

One That Uses Its Fin as a Sail—How the Dorado is Caught.

One of the most interesting of fish of Japanese waters is the oriental sail fish (Histiophorus orientalis). The generic name, given by Dr. Guenther, means the sail bearer and refers to the huge dorsal fin possessed by the species.

The fin stands higher than the body above it and is used as a sail before the wind. It is a large fish, ten feet in length and weighing 100 pounds. They swim about usually in pairs in rough and windy weather, with the huge fins above the water.

It is a favorite food fish, and the annual catch is nearly 2,000,000 pounds. The sail fish is caught by means of a harpoon.

Another food fish, known as a dolphin or dorado, is sometimes caught in a curious way. The fishes congregate under a decoy bush and raft made of bamboo and are then caught by hooks baited with squids, or the decoy bush is surrounded by a seine net, and the dolphins are driven by beating the surface of the water with sticks. This fish is eaten both fresh and salt and is as great a favorite in western Japan as the salmon is in the northeast.—Zoologist.

Scotch Sabbath.

For traveling, trading and all the things one must not do on the Sabbath, Scotland, of course, must ever hold the palm. Not in the seventeenth century alone, but through all the ages and even unto the present day the Scotch Sunday has a law unto itself. There is the experience of James Payn, for instance, in the Edinburgh of only the seventies. "In the street where I first resided," he wrote, "it struck me that to judge by the drawn down blinds the people spent a good deal of their time upon the seventh day in bed. On my second Sunday, however, I was undeceived, for my landlady came up and informed me that, though she had not spoken of it last Sunday, she must now draw my attention to the fact that it was not usual in Edinburgh to draw up the window blinds on the Sabbath and that the neighbors had begun to remark upon the 'unlawful appearance' of her establishment, which had heretofore been a God fearing house."

A Justifiable Protest.

"What's that?" cried the convicted incendiary. "Five years? Well, if you people ain't the worst I ever ran up against! Here I goes out in the evening an' sets fire to the tallest bulidin' in town—sets fire to it so that in less'n a minute the thing's a shootin' blaze a hundred feet up into the sky. The whole population is there quicker'n scat, all of you tickled to death at the sight! For four an' five hours you stood there watchin' the fire—hours of solid enjoyment, too—an' it not costin' you a cent! Why, a circus or the theater or a scandal trial wouldn't have given you half as much fun, an' you know it! An' yet you sit there an' bring in a verdict givin' me five years in the penitentiary—me that's shown you all a good time an' ought to be considered as a benefactor if there was any gratitude in the human boomer"—Exchange.

Heat as a Healer.

Heat is one of the most important of stimulants to living cells. The hot bath is the commonest means of applying heat as a therapeutic agent and is useful in a great number of conditions, especially to plethoric individuals and in advanced tuberculosis. The usefulness of local applications of hot water is well known. The general hot douche is a remarkable means to bring blood to the surface of the body, to accelerate the circulation, etc.—Exchange.

Loosening Your Temper.

"Loosin' job temper don't pay," said Uncle Eben. "In a heap o' cases it don't do no mo' dan put you to de expense of hfin' a lawyer to show you whah you's wrong."—Washington Star.

See that all the hours of the day are so full of interesting and healthful occupations that there is no chance for worry to stick its nose in.—Luther H. Gulick.

Household Hints.

Do not throw away old umbrellas. By removing the cloth cover and cutting it up in strips you can make a number of dainty neckties for your husband. The ribs properly twisted and woven together make a very good rat trap, and the stick when carefully polished will do for a cane to present to the clergyman at Christmas.

To keep freckles from showing get a small paint pot, quart size, and fill with a pink paint carefully matching the tone of your complexion and with a camel's hair brush paint each freckle out.

Young wives cannot be too often reminded that they should always greet their husbands with a smile. It is safe to say that there is nothing in the world that will more deeply irritate him than this, and it should therefore not be forgotten.

If your lamp gives out, a very satisfactory substitute can be made of Irish point lace or valenciennes, carefully wound round the wick holder. A knitted necktie will serve the same purpose, but is apt to burn fitfully and give out a pungent odor.—Harper's Weekly.

Judges on Circuit.

It was the genius and foresight of Henry I. that saw the necessity of creating a close connection between the central king's court and the local courts up and down the land. It was Norman and wandering, going where the king went. They were Saxon and stationary; hence to link them together in 1124 a special deputation of judges was for the first time sent on circuit in the country, of whom it is recorded that they "hanged so many thieves as never was before, being in that little while altogether forty-four men."

This vigorous administration of justice by royal authority gained for Henry the title of "the lion of justice" and paved the way for the permanent institution in his grandson's reign. These traveling judges were called justices-in-eye—i. e., in itinere, on journey. Their head, the justiciar, is still seen in our title the lord chief justice.

Henry II. in 1173 fixed these circuits at six—the home, midland, eastern, western, northeastern, and northern, which correspond roughly with those that still exist.—London Standard.

None of That For Them.

They had been married only a month, and it was their first experience in seeking country board. After riding ten long miles in a rattling farm cart they arrived at the door of the farmhouse.

"And now, strangers," said the old farmer after he had asked about a score of questions, "I want to tell you right now that down here with us you're supposed to go to bed with the chickens." The young man whispered to his young wife, and then both climbed back on the farm cart.

"Boy," said the young man, his lips compressed with determination, "drive us back to the station."

"You uns didn't seem to like the place?" he chuckled.

"No," said the young man. "We have often read about crowded farmhouses, but when it comes to shoving us off to the henhouse that is going a little too strong. I guess we'll stay in the city."—Chicago News.

What He Could Do.

During the South African war there was a young officer just from Standhurst who was attached to General French's staff. The young fellow has himself achieved some distinction since then and shall be nameless. At that time he was fresh and fidgety and was always imagining a constant menace of attack by the Boers, whom he invariably pronounced "Bores." This pronunciation General French had in vain tried to correct, and it gradually got on his nerves. One day the young officer came to the general to report that he believed he could make out through his fieldglass quite as many as twenty "Bores" hid in the rocks above his camp. "Bores, you say?" inquired the general. "Yes, sir, Bores. Can I do anything, sir?" "Yes. Don't add to them."

A Serious Question.

"My dear Mr. Fallows," said the doctor, "I will admit that I am not quite decided as to whether or not yours is a constitutional disease."

"Hum! That so?" said the patient, with a heavy sigh. "And have I got to go to the expense of appealing to the United States supreme court to find out?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

She Rather Liked It.

"I don't mind Jack's slang," said one of the girls. "He is so clever in the use of it."

How so?

"Why, he sent me three dozen photos of famous beauties, with a card on which the only words were, 'You're another.'"

A Changed Girl.

"How is it that Julia is so jealous and quarrelsome? She used to have such a sweet disposition?"

"I know, but the past year she has been singing in a church choir."—Baltimore American.

He Filled the Bill.

Mr. Woody—Music is a most fascinating study. Do you know I'd like to sing awfully. Miss Blunt (who had heard him)—Oh, you do!—London Tit-Bits.

Wise Man.

"I made a big hit with that woman, all right." "What did you say to her?" "Nothing. I just kept still and listened."—Chicago News.

Two Ways of Looking At It.

After buying that bill of lumber you are going to need, and using it, you may be either glad or mad. It depends on whether you buy good, dry lumber from us, or carelessly accept lumber that's only half seasoned, from somebody who's not so particular about the quality of their stock as we are.

There are no two ways about it: You can buy any kind of lumber or building material to better advantage right here than you can anywhere else in this part of the country. Let us make you an estimate on what you want.

CONTROL THE EMOTIONS.

One of the Essential Conditions of Nervous Balance.

Now, then, can the nervous sufferer help himself? To begin with, he should ask himself: "What is there in my physical life which may account for my nervous weakness? Is my diet sufficient in quantity and nutritious in quality? Do I get enough sleep? Is my work congenial? Is my environment in any degree suited to my tastes and aptitude?" These are simple questions, and yet upon their answer often depends the possibility of nervous health or nervous disease. If the sufferer discovers that any of the physical causes of a nervous breakdown are in operation it is obvious that it is his first duty to fight against these causes, to lessen them and if possible to remove them altogether. In the next place—and this is especially to be noted by nervous women—one of the essential conditions of nervous balance is the control of the emotions. The tendency on the slightest provocation to give way to a paroxysm of tears is dangerous, because it leads to weakness, bodily and mental. No doubt there are moments of poignant agony when tears are nature's beneficial provision for some relief to an overstrained nervous and mental organism, but these moments come at rare intervals in our lives, and, as a rule, so far from weakening our mental or moral life, they uplift and purify it. What nervous people must be warned against is the tendency to let themselves go because of some petty worry or some slight domestic difference or through some morbid impulse to self pity.—Rev. S. S. McComb in Harper's Bazar.

DUTCH SPORTS.

Holland the Land of Sleighing, Sledging and Skating.

Probably no other boys and girls had better times than the Dutch boys and girls in old and new Netherland. Holland, says W. E. Griffis in his book, "The Story of New Netherland," is the land of skates and sleighs. Children and young people hardly learn to skate; they begin it naturally and keep it up all their lives. Whether for fun or in parties or to go to the market, to church, to weddings or funerals, they move by rapid transit on steel. A pair of skates is a passport to comradeship.

Every habit and each trick known on Holland canals or ponds was reproduced on the Mohawk and Hudson. There was the iceboat or sailboat on runners, sometimes reduced for swiftness to a long plank with crosspieces for seats and with skate irons. Equipped with mast, canvas and some courage, it seemed to race with the wind itself.

As for coasting, wherever flat Holland could show a hill or slope or Friesland furnished a torp or artificial mound there were the boys and girls at fun. On the ice lady or lass sat in a hand sleigh, while husband or swain pushed as he skated.

All this shows the reason why Newburg-on-the-Hudson and Albany and the hills of Dorp are so famous for coasting and the North river for ice yachts and why from the first generation of settlers the Dutch-American towns were noted for sledding, sleighing and skating.

A Fishing Story.

Angling has some very marvelous "incidents" among its many records. Hampshire has its true tale of a duck which became entangled in a trout line and, breaking off the gut, trailed the fly behind her and actually hooked a fair sized fish. The struggle between the two must have been extraordinary as that of the Dumfries gander which became similarly attached to a line and hook baited with dead frog.

In this case a voracious pike was hooked, and a veritable tug of war ensued, in which the astonished bird performed sundry somersaults on the surface of the water until victory at last rewarded the feathered angler, which towed to shore one of the largest fish ever caught in that particular loch. And that the tale is true makes it all the more interesting.—London Black and White.

Girls With Boys' Names.

Girls with boys' names and boys with girls' have received them in many instances no doubt by accident. It was so in the case of George Anne Bellamy, the famous eighteenth century actress, who played Juliet to Garrick's Romeo. Born on St. George day, she was to be called Georgiana, but somebody's blunder at the time of her christening split this into George Anne. The "corn law rhymer," Ebenezer Elliott, had a daughter named Noah, whose passport is said to have given her much trouble abroad. But here, as in the case of other girl Noahs, it was only other people's Biblical ignorance that was at fault, for turn up Numbers xxxvi, 11, and you will find that Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah and Noah were the daughters of Zelophehad.—London Graphic.

The Thirst For Goss.

Unsophisticated Onlooker—I think this is a first rate place. See what a fine view we have of this car coming. Seasoned Spectator—Fine view addlesticks! Nothing ever happens on these straight stretches, not even a broken leg. Come on down to the turn and wait for the fun.—Puck.

Must Love Them.

"Is he a lover of children?"
"I should say he is. He's even glad to have his wife's sister's little ones about his house."—Detroit Free Press.
