CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOT TO BE INACTIVE

The below letter was given out today by the Chamber of Commerce, in refutation of some rumors that have gained circulation.

To Members Chamber of Commerce: Since the resignation of Secretary Gohlke recently several members have misconstrued the announcement of the Directors, to wit: "that for the present no one would be selected to fill Mr. Gohlke's place other than that the work of the office would be continued by the assistant secretary, Mr. J. C. Myttinger," as meaning that the Chamber of Commerce would remain inactive for sometime, and that as a matter of consequence, the full quota of dues would not be as necessary as heretofore.

We wish to advise that while the expenses of maintaining the organization for the present will not be as great as during the aggressive period of the past, it is very much desired that all members continue their membership so that a neat working balance may be available at such time as it becomes advisable to enlarge the scope of the work, which we hope will be within about thirty days, or for some special purpose which would otherwise necessitate an extra subscription in the absence of a working balance.

Respectfully,
ROBERT E. HUFF, Pres.
J. C. MYTTINGER, Acting Secretary.

TO THE INSURING PUBLIC.
A Few Pertinent Facts About Fire Insurance Which It Will Pay You To Know.

Since the year 1880 some 440 stock companies engaged in the business of fire and marine insurance in the United States have either reinsured, retired, or failed—an average of more than 15 retirements and failures a year.

In purchasing securities, clothing, or builders supplies, or provisions, most buyers are careful to select the best that can be had for the money. Why should not the same law of trade govern the purchase of fire insurance? The rates charged by the stock fire insurance companies are the same. Then why not select policies of companies which have large resources, whose business is carefully selected, and which have honorably met the enormous losses occasioned by the great conflagrations at Chicago, Baltimore and San Francisco, to say nothing of those resulting from the smaller catastrophes of the kind?

Any insurance policy is a good enough policy until the unexpected happens—until a fire comes, then it will be found that it paid to select the best.

Companies represented in our office have more than TWO HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS in United States assets, they are the leaders, strong and old-established.

Don't forget that the very best insurance protection can be had for the same money as an inferior article.

STORY OF THE RESCUE.
Thrilling Narrative of Saturday's incident at the Cherry Mine.
Cherry, Ill., Nov. 20.—A graphic description, as the rescuers saw it of the recovery of the men, was told by Father James P. Heany of St. Mary's church, Mendota, Ill., who was down in the mine with the rescue party. He said:
"Just about 2 o'clock, when we were, as near as I can tell, 300 feet our party slackened up because of a pile of debris which was in the way. Suddenly David Powell said:
"Listen boys, I thought I heard something."
"We were all silent. A faint pounding, as if coming through the thickness of a wall, was heard.
"My God!" said Powell, "I believe somebody is alive in there."
"Some of the other men replied: 'No; that is impossible; nobody in the world thinks for a minute the men could live down here for seven days.'
"Well, now," I said, "Let's listen again."
"We all listened for what seemed to be a full minute. Sure enough, there came the same muffled pounding sound we had heard before. Then we were too much affected to speak. Grabbing hold of the picks and axes, our men then began to tear down the loose pile of earth and rock. Frequently we stopped to hear whether the poundings were continued. It took us several minutes to make much headway into the obstruction.
"Finally I, who had been in the rear, came forward and with a shovel relieved one of the men who had become tired out.
Weird Scenes.
"It was a weird scene. The lights of our torches on our caps kept bobbing up and down as we labored and filled the place with moving shadows.
"Now, let's stop and listen again," said Powell.
"Much to our glee, the poundings became louder. A few more digs in shovelfuls brought down the dirt from the top and a little black hole appeared before us.
"Two or three of us climbed over the dirt and yelled: 'Are any of you alive in there, boys?'

"An answer came back: 'Yes.'
"Before another word could be uttered the men began pulling at the dirt again and soon a large gap appeared. We yelled into them: 'Hold one of our torches.'

"How many of you are alive in there, boys? We will save you in a minute."
"In faint husky voices the men called back: 'Yes, we are alive and you bet we are hungry, too. Have you got some lunch out there?'

"I crawled up as near the hole as I could without interfering with the men.
"God bless you, men; we will get you out in a minute and give you all the lunch you can eat. Be patient as you can."

"I could not see anything back there, for the men were in total darkness, so I climbed back and prayed that God would make the number we were about to rescue from the living grave as many as possible.
"By that time the hole was wide open and a dozen pair of glistening eyes shined out from black faces appeared.
"We kept yelling in to the men to keep up their courage, promising them that the cage was down and ready.
"One of the men inside answered: 'Most of us are all right and felling fine, but there is one poor fellow in here, a Frenchman called Frank, who is almost gone, and I'm afraid he will be dead in a few minutes if he does not get some fresh air.'

Give Shout of Joy.
"When the pile of dirt finally tumbled down some of the men were staggered by the inrush of air and the lights, for during seven days they had lived in total darkness.
"With a shout we jumped over and met them, throwing our arms around their necks and almost lifting them from their feet. Their joy was indescribable. They pounded us on our backs and continued to laugh and cry aloud until the whole place reverberated with the cheering.
"We wanted to carry the men to the hoisting shaft in our arms but they insisted they were strong enough to walk out themselves. The only trouble was they were practically blinded by the light. We threw blankets over their heads and started.
"My first concern was to get after the poor little Frenchman, who was reported dying. I found him on his back breathing his last. Holding a torch over his face, which was black with soot, I said: 'Do you give your soul to God?' He answered: 'Yes, I am afraid I will never get up alive.'

Dies On Eve of Rescue.
"That was true. I administered the last sacrament and in a minute he was dead.
"I then joined the others and walked toward the shaft. There occurred then one of the greatest acts of heroism I have ever heard or read of. It can hardly be believed.
"Walker Waite, one of the men rescued, on hearing that there were others alive in the mine threw off the blanket with which he had covered his head and shouted:
"Well, then, by God, I am not going out of this mine until I get the others."
"We remonstrated, saying that for him to remain down there longer would mean his death.

"We will take you up to the fresh air and give you some nice warm food and then maybe we will let you help us do the rest of the work," we said, but he protested and we actually had to use force to get him into the cage. All the way up he shouted: 'Let me go down and help get up the others.' All this time those on the surface had, as during the last three of four days a firm conviction that those in the mine were dead. Nobody conceived of any other possibility. It was a great joy then to cry up the shaft: 'We've got some men alive. Hoist her up quick!'
"Up we went like a shot and raised the men into a Pullman car nearby."

Survivor Tells Story.
William Clelland, one of the survivors, after drinking a bowl of soup, appeared none the worse for his experience.
"We made the most of our situation," he said, sitting in the car and surrounded by nurses. "As soon as we discovered fire last Saturday and that there was no hope of escape, we retreated to a safe place where water could be found. Fortunately, some of the timbers behind us burned out and this let earth and rocks fall down, cutting us off from the heat and gas. How the time went we do not know. We must have been unconscious part of the time.
"I remember soon after we were shut in of drinking great quantities of the seepage that had dripped down into the gutter and eating from my lunch. After that some of us pulled off the bark and began shewing it.
"We did not realize how serious was our position. In fact, some of the men spent the time joking and said they wished they had a pack of cards. It was after we had drunk up all the water, the seepage had run dry, that we began to pound on the wall to cause more to drop.
"Soon after this we heard voices and one of our men said: 'At last they are coming on the other side of the rock and dirt which filled up the passage and soon a little hole was seen at the top and the gleam of the torches came through.
"Our first question was: 'Is it Sunday or Monday? As a matter of fact most of us thought it was Sunday and that we had been in the mine only about twenty-four hours."

"Spend Wichita Falls money in Wichita Falls."
"Money spent away from home helps to build another city instead of your own."
"Why not help build your home city with home money?"

WEATHER FORECAST.

NEW YORK CUSTOM HOUSE AND THE SUGAR TRUST.

It would seem that the transactions whereby the Sugar Trust was compelled to pay into the United States Treasury $2,000,000, which it had stolen by weighing frauds, and to make restitution to the Pennsylvania competitor it had bankrupted, are only installments in an almost unparalleled story of theft and plunder. Charges made by the New York Sun indicate that the sugar freebooters have been robbing the Government for more than twenty years, the total of stealings amounting to upward of $30,000,000.

The estimates now made of the Trust's plunderings will be misnamed discoveries and revelations. In reality they are neither. They are shown on the records of the New York Custom House. For years complaints have been rife that the Sugar Trust was making money by illegitimate methods—methods not only unlawful in the sense that any trust is a conspiracy in restraint of trade, but unlawful as measured by standards of common honesty in dealings between man and man and citizens and the government.

One could wish that a Juvenal would appear to adequately write a satire upon the lameness of our legal resources against this powerful and piratical corporation, for as such of what has happened, satire is the only redress. During the two decades in which the trust has been carrying on its stealings with impunity, guilty parties have died, and the intervention of the statute of limitations to prevent punishment for some of the more recent frauds, shows how little chance there is for even partial justice to be done. But the great question and one which will be unanswerable by the republican party, is why successive republican administrations have remained idle and let the Sugar Trust work its wicked will.—National Monthly.

It is given out that Hon. Cong. Johnson, candidate for governor, is soon to make an address in Wichita Falls. He is one of the ablest speakers in the state, and a political address delivered by him generally gives things up and puts the people to thinking. Wichita Falls would like to hear all the gubernatorial timber, and will give each and every one a patient and careful hearing.

There isn't much objection to killing Americans off at home, but when a foreign country pulls off a stunt of that kind, there is going to be something doing.

After being defeated for district attorney, Francis Heney got his government job back again. What's the use of being in politics when one has a cinch like that?

The fact that a San Antonio man is suing for twenty-five thousand because he was knocked off the water wagon will be interesting to those who have had no reason to believe that there was such a thing as a water wagon in that city.

A Cleveland physician says bald-headed men have more brains than men upon whose locks Time has not wrought such havoc. It is probably no surprise to our readers to learn that every member of the Times force is amply supplied with hair.

Both Gus Barton who has been the Governor's private secretary, and Dick Bowman, who now holds that position, attended the University and led the "Final Balls" of their respective years. Since then, however, they have degenerated into politics.

While we are proud to state that Wichita is becoming prominent at a turkey-shipping center, her turkey-shipping propensities are as nothing compared with her turkey-consuming proclivities.

Suit has been filed in the district court by Mary Plasek and children against the Wichita Mill and Elevator company, for damages aggregating ten thousand dollars. This suit grows out of the death of Frank Plasek at the mill last August, it being alleged that his death was due to the negligence of the defendant company.

A Thanksgiving Poem.
Thanksgiving day is drawing near,
The happiest day of all the year,
When all people have plenty to eat,
And tries to keep everything so neat.

But poor turkeys are all killed dead,
There's seldom a one that saves his head,
They seem to know their time has arrived,
An that they must run, or lose their lives.

And besides there's two days vacation,
Which we school children welcome,
As a salvation,
It saves us from lessons and study too,
For if we don't learn them there's something to rue.

So with books laid aside, and hearts care free,
We welcome Thanksgiving, as a time when we see
That life is worth living, and everything's well,
There's not anything I can think of to tell.

A Far Sighted Man

Never puts off till the last minute things that he knows must be done. How about your farsightedness?
 Can't you see where you will have to do some fixing up around the place before long, some repairs to make that will require some lumber? Then, why put off? Why not come in and let us tell you the cost of the stuff you'll need next time you're in town?
 But, whenever you buy, be sure and see us first, even if you have to drive out of the way to get here. It will pay you in dollars and cents to remember this.

ANTIQUITY OF DICE.
 Origin of These Devices Buried in the Remote Past.
 Scholars have delved in vain for the origin of dice, which, in various shapes, have been used in forms of worship and religious ceremonies since the dawn of history. Their earlier use was for the forecasting of events and obtaining of divine guidance. Their adaptation to a game of chance was comparatively quite recent.
 There is a surprising number of varieties of dice, but they may be divided into two general classes. The most familiar form is the cube. With two exceptions—the Korean and Etruscan—cubic dice have the spots so arranged that the six and one, five and two and three and four are opposite, making the sum of the opposite sides invariably seven. In all ages the number seven has been regarded with particular awe and as having much mystical import.
 The dice just described are not only proper to modern Europe and America, but to classical Greece and Rome, ancient Syria, Persia, India, China, Japan and Siam. The other form is the long, square prism sometimes found amid prehistoric ruins in Europe and existing today in India.
 A most interesting form is the top or spinning dice, with four or six sides, which was twirled with the thumb and second finger, of which a specimen was discovered in the remains of Naucratis, a Greek colony of 600 B. C. Two specimens of dice have been discovered at Babylon.—Barney's Weekly.

MUSICAL MISERY.

When Bagpipes Squeak Out "The Star Spangled Banner."
 "I wish," growled a man who made a tour of the British Isles, "that the British bandmasters would take a course of instruction in what constitutes the American national airs. Band concerts are the rage all over England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. During the summer season, probably as a compliment to the hordes of Americans who are flinging away gold for their benefit, they present daily what is generally dubbed 'American national airs.'
 "The majority of these bandmasters think 'Dixie' is the national air, because they sagely observe—it is the only one which Americans applaud. 'The Star Spangled Banner' is dismal and lugubrious enough under the best of circumstances, but to hear the Scotch bagpipes have a fling at it is indescribable misery. The man who wrote the 'Columbia' hymn would not know his own work as performed in Great Britain, and even the 'Kentucky Home' and other negro ballads get a touch between an Irish jig and a Scotch waltz which robs the American visitor of any pleasure which he might experience in hearing songs from home. It may be that British, Scotch and Irish guests on this side of the water get as much discomfort in hearing 'Annie Laurie.' I hope they do, for it would establish a sort of international musical balance."—New York Press.

SLEEP SUPERSTITIONS.

How to Awaken at Any Hour You May Designate.
 Sleep is the best cure for waking trouble. Hours for sleep:
 Nature gives five.
 Custom seven.
 Weariness takes nine.
 Laziness eleven.
 If you wish to arise at a certain hour, before going to bed make with your right foot as many marks on the floor as the hour on which you wish to wake, then go to bed backward.
 To insure happy dreams burn some hazelnuts and do the ashes up in a package, which you must place beneath your pillow. You will then dream sweetly.
 If you wish ever to marry, never look under the bed.
 If a person talks in his sleep, put his hand in a bowl of water and he will tell you all his secrets.
 The Hindoos say it is bad luck to sleep with your head to the north, but sleeping with your head to the south promotes longevity.
 It is considered by some nations dangerous to sleep while thirsty, for the soul leaves the body in search of water, and if the body awakened too quickly the soul might not have time to return to it, so the body would die.
 In Germany the nightmare is believed to be a spectral being which places itself upon the breast of the sleeper, depriving him of the power of utterance or motion.—Philadelphia Press.

Parks of Australian Cities.
 Australians, with a fine climate, believe in enjoying themselves, and there are plenty of facilities. Thus in Sydney, there are parks and squares and public gardens with a total area of 4,335 acres. Sixteen miles from the city—a shilling excursion train fare—is the picturesque national park, containing 36,810 acres preserved in their natural state. A similar reserve called Kurri-gal Chase, comprising 35,300 acres of land, chiefly of densely wooded hills skirting for many miles around numerous tidal arms of Broken bay, is also held for the enjoyment of the public forever. Melbourne has no fewer than 5,400 acres of recreation grounds in or near the city. Adelaide is surrounded by a belt of park lands and has about 2,300 acres set apart for the public benefit. Nor are Perth and Hobart and Brisbane and some of the fine inland towns less well provided for.—Westminster Gazette.

Malay Race Not Dying Out.
 There is a very common idea that the Malay is a race that is dying out, killed in its own country by the enterprises of Chinese, Tamils, Javanese (who, however, are kinsmen of the Malays) and Europeans. To those who come out east expecting to find a miserable remains of a once powerful race, whose probable fate is that of the Australian aborigines, it comes as a revelation to find a sturdy, independent and courteous race, whose language runs from Suva to Australia and who, so far from dying out, are yearly becoming more numerous.—Java Times.

A Bad Start.
 "Ever try this keep-a-smiling proposition?"
 "Tried it once, but with poor success. Unfortunately I started the experiment on a day that the boss felt grumpy."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
 What Made Him Sick.
 Teacher—Your little brother was all right when he left the house with you, and yet you say he's sick and won't be in school. The Kid—Sure! Didn't I give him the seegar wid me own hands?—Puck.

Stationary Youth.
 Rich Father—My daughter is too young to get married. She is only eighteen. Impetuous Lover—I know, sir, but I have waited patiently for years, and she doesn't seem to get any older.
 Early Intelligence.
 Sunday School Teacher (finishing the narration)—And that is the story of Jonah and the whale. Johnny—Isn't it strange they knew what a Jonah was that long ago?

A Gold Mine to All

The following is an analysis of water taken from a well on my farm two miles southwest of town, on the road to Lake Wichita; was made by G. S. Fraps, Ph. D., State Chemist, at the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, on Oct. 13th, 1909.

This sample of water has the following composition, expressed in grains, per U. S. Gallon:

Carbonate of Lime.....	7.58
Sulphate of Lime.....	23.33
Calcium Chloride.....	15.68
Magnesium Chloride.....	32.19
Sodium Chloride.....	136.41

This water is classed as a muriated saline water. These waters stimulate the secretion of the stomach, increase digestion and favor a more complete absorption of the food. This water should have a laxative action, taken in small doses, and a purgative action taken in larger doses, on account of the magnesium which it contains.
 Yours truly,
 G. S. FRAPS.

This water will be delivered to any part of the city at 10c per gallon.

A Modest Colonial.

A Very Attractive Design, Yet Economical to Build. Architect's Estimate of Cost About $3,000.

Designed by P. T. MacLagan, Newark, N. J.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

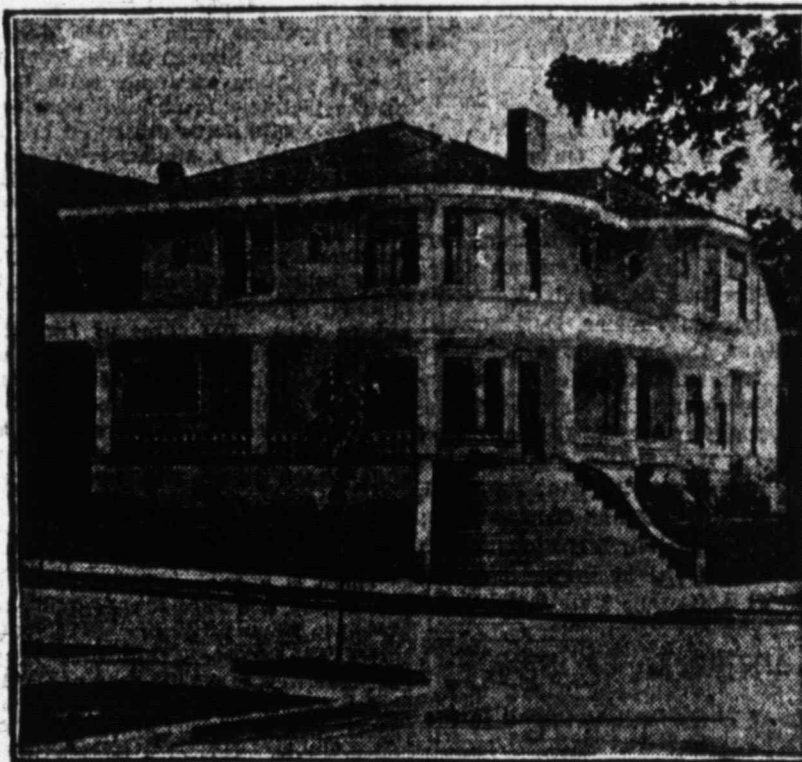

A good type of colonial which can be built at reasonable cost is shown in the above photograph. It is well known to builders that the closer a plan is to square construction the less it will cost to get good results both in interior arrangement and imposing exterior. The lower half of this frame colonial is covered with siding, the upper half shingled, making an attractive combination for this particular design. Size over all, 28 by 28 feet. The hall contains a nook, with fireplace for an open grate. The dining room also contains a nook with a fireplace, a window seat and bookcases on the sides, all constructed to give an arch effect to this corner. Throughout the plan is considered exceptionally good for a moderate price structure. Cellar contains laundry and room for furnace or boiler. The first story rises 9 feet 6 inches, the second story 9 feet in the clear. Attic contains two rooms. Finished throughout in hard wood. Estimated cost when built as described, $3,000.

P. T. MAC LAGAN, Architect.

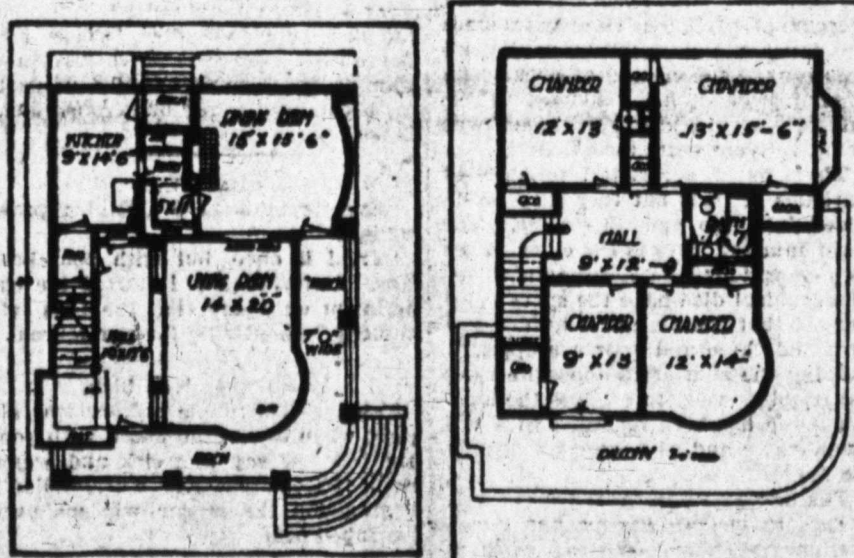

A House Open to the Sun.

Spacious Porches Provide For a Large Balcony Overhead—Can Be Built For About $7,000.

Designed by Thomas L. West, Seattle, Wash.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

The home shown in the above photograph is designed for sunny climates. Note the spacious porches with a large balcony overhead. The windows are wide and so arranged as to flood the rooms with light and air and the warm rays of the sun when warmth is desired. The rooms are large, making solid oak floors and plate glass windows suitable accompaniments. The exterior may be covered with plaster on metal lath, a finish which harmonizes with the general design. Width, 32 feet; depth, 26 feet; height of first story, 9 feet; second story, 8 feet 6 inches; basement depth, 8 feet. With hot water heating, porcelain plumbing, gas and electric fixtures complete the house, can be built for $6,000 to $7,000.

"The Cat and the Fiddle."

The Wichita Theatre announces for Thanksgiving, matinee and night the first production here of "The Cat and the Fiddle," a musical extravaganza of such magnitude, and one that has been a pronounced success wherever it has been shown. There are 40 or more people, a beauty chorus, 15 song hits, and in all an attraction that should be a big "go" at this popular theatre. In speaking of the play the Denver Times says:

Whatever native Denverites failed to do Hallowe'en eve the company presenting "The Cat and the Fiddle" at the Tabor Grand this week did last night. There were ghosts galore and by the score, ghosts in sheets, red devils, demons, witches, strange disappearances of bits of clothing. Tin palls took on strange activity and were thrown off one side of the stage to appear at the other side after a loud journey around behind the scene. Tables and food, bottles and glasses appeared suddenly on the stage and disappeared again as if by magic. And as if these hallucinations and tricks were not enough, the story, such as it is, deals in magic, genii, a sorceress and other weird topics. All the tricks of the stage seemed to be collected for "The Cat and the Fiddle."

FLORENCE WILLIS.

Of "The Cat and the Fiddle" at the Wichita.

It is, in fact a very appropriate Hallowe'en week celebration and the company presenting the musical comedy is the same that appeared last year. "The Cat and the Fiddle" is musical comedy in its most burlesque form. The Tabor audience received it very warmly, as much so as when it appeared last year.

The bright particular stars of the production are the Elmore sisters, two tiny tots who present an exceedingly amusing and witty travesty on grand opera.

Charles Sellon, as "Happy," the tramp, keeps the audience in an uproar by imparting philosophy and ubiquity of the tramp of the comic Sunday papers.

There are just three acts and 19 scenes in "The Cat and the Fiddle." Credit should be given it for having the most realistic wave scene that has been seen in Denver for a long time. This is formed by a bevy of chorus girls under a white sheet upon which a green light is thrown. As they toss the sheet about it seems like actual waves.

A Big Stump in Natural Gas.

Owing to the Natural Gas that my competitors have been using in the way of printer's ink the last few days, all the people who are depending on this commodity for household use have had to almost do without fuel.

If they continue to give the public the same amount right along, we will have to get a pipe line run from the new fields at Electra.

There are no strange things in their statements with regard to the value of an insurance policy, as everybody knows that the value of a policy is what it is worth after you have a fire.

The State of Texas recognized the fact that the public had been swindled in times gone by and made a very stringent law with regard to insurance companies of all kinds, and make each company, before they can do business in the state, put up so much money, and then put up a certain amount of premium in reserve so that the public will be protected and won't have to depend on the good graces of such people as my competitors in putting them 'next' by advertising in their behalf and paying for the advertisement.

When a fellow wants to give you some free advice like that, you can put it down that there is a string on it.

As to my companies, will say that I can give to you a policy that has no superior with regard to STRENGTH, PROMPT, JUST and CERTAIN settlements, and also in companies that are but few years older than they; some that have not only stood the test of the last fifty years in America, but have stood the test of the old countries for nearly TWO HUNDRED YEARS.

I do not, for a minute, insinuate that I am the only pebble on the beach; all the agents in Wichita Falls have first-class companies, but I do want to say that I certainly appreciate your business, and promise you as much for your money as any one else can give.

I appreciate your business—let me convince you. W. W. JACKSON, 164-6tc Next door to Postoffice.

A. H. S. Reception.

Friday night witnessed a charming little function given by the A. H. S. girls at the Academy Mary Immaculate.

The broad hall and one of the cozy parlors were thrown open in honor of the occasion, and were tastefully decorated with club pennants. The society's colors, the historic blue and gray prevailed throughout.

Shortly after seven-thirty the guests began to arrive, and were composed of the following young ladies: Misses Huggins, Bonnie Lucile Crenshaw, Isabel Dillon and Eula B. Clement.

The guests then repaired to the first parlor where a novel guessing contest was given by Miss Huggins, the prize, a box of dainty stationery, was won by Miss Mary Hankins.

Delicious refreshments were served, after which several delightful instrumental selections were rendered by Miss Glen Massie and Genevieve Carver, while Misses Eddie Carver and Mary Hankins entertained with song music interspersed with animated conversation was the order of the evening's program.

The entertainment was given in honor of Miss Bonnie Lpelle Crenshaw, one of the Academy's old and beloved pupils, who is soon to leave for her new home in Fort Worth.

A harmonious chorus of happy voices rendered one of the vocal class memory of a pleasant evening, which retired with courteous greetings and merry farewells, each cherishing the memory of a pleasant evening, which will linger in their minds.

On a Cash Basis.

To the General Public:
After December 1st my business will be strictly cash.

I wish to thank all who have given me their patronage in the past, and hope they will continue to do so in the future.

Everyone who is indebted to me will please call and settle by December 1st, 1909. R. C. HARDY, 147-26c

At Actual Cost.

We will rent the front of our store December 1st, and will only occupy one-half of the building, which is entirely too small for the stock we have on hand at present. Beginning at once, we will offer to the public our entire stock of millinery and ladies dress suits at actual cost until December 1st.

Benjamin Clothes

Copyrighted 1909 By SCLOSS BROS & CO. Fine Clothes Makers Salforders and New York

After all, it's really the tailor who makes a suit a success or a failure. The most fascinating style would be a fizzle if there were not careful needle work underneath.

The most phenomenal designer on earth could not make a garment a success without the co-operation of the tailor. It is he who, by the dilligent plying of his needle, gives shape and style and ensures service.

The world's most excellent tailors are congregated in New York on account of its being the greatest clothes manufacturing center in the world. They have more work and are better paid there.

Could there be a better explanation of why 'Benjamin Clothes,' Made in New York, are the most stylish and the most perfectly made of any on earth. Won't you make it your particular business to see these wonderful 'Benjamin Clothes.'

HIS STURDY WATCH.

He Keeps It in Repair Himself With the Aid of a Knife.

"Some men, don't you know," said Mr. Grillkillton, "will step off a curb, step down about a foot and break a leg, and then another man will fall off the top of a seventeen-story house and not even muss his clothes. And it's about the same way with watches."

"I dropped my watch the other day about six inches on to a thick plush carpet, and it cost me $16 for repairs. When I was out walking with my friend Bwillkwillby this morning he dropped his watch on the sidewalk, and it didn't so much as stop it."

"It sounded when it came down like a safe falling out of a high window, and it was only a two-dollar watch, and I expected, of course, to see Bwillkwillby just kick the fragments off the sidewalk and pass on, but it seems Bwillkwillby knew the watch better. He picked up the crystal, not even cracked, from where it had fallen, seven feet away, and put that in his pocket, and then he looked at the watch."

"It was going all right, but somehow in the fall the long hand had got bent. He straightened out that bent hand with his pocketknife so that the two pointers wouldn't catch, and then he pried off the crystal rim of the watch and put the crystal back in place, and then he snapped the rim back on the front of the watch, again and dropped the watch in his pocket and started on, and 'As I was saying,' he said, just as if nothing had happened."—Washington Post.

BESTING THE BOASTER.

A Little Problem That Floored the Lightning Calculator.

"Now, gentlemen," concluded the lightning calculator, "I've demonstrated to you upon this 'ere blackboard the marvelous speed and accuracy insured by my great system of addition, subtraction, division and multiplication, and I trust that you are all satisfied with the results. Now, gentlemen, I've 'ere a little shillin' booklet explainin' my marvelous system in full and by a careful perusal of which I will guarantee you to become as expert a lightning calculator as myself within the period of one week, by which time I shall be out of the town. Ahem! Now, gentlemen, when you recall that I was straight away able to multiply 1,111,111,111,987 by 987,111,111,111, perhaps you will—"

"One moment, sir!" called out a shrill voice from the back of the crowd. "But will you answer me a question? I'm no scholar myself, but I was wondering the other night how old a child born in September, nineteen nought nine, would be in September, nineteen nought ten?"

The lightning calculator threw his interrogator a look of contempt.

"One year, of course, my little man," he replied sarcastically.

"Well," retorted the shrill voice, "I think if you were to go home and improve your own arithmetic you would find that child would be 17,101 years old."—London Answers.

A Matter of Smokestacks.

The smokestacks on ocean vessels of recent years have been made to slope backward more particularly to give the steamer a rakish air, the masts also being given the same slope. As to the effect on the draft, there is a slight one, as the wind pressure on the front of the stack sloping up and over the top of the stack is more apt to draw the smoke out than to cut it off, but from all we are aware of this seems to have been held of secondary consideration. The shape of the smokestacks also is changing from round to oval so as to present less surface at the front. If you compare the steamers with the sloping and straight smokestacks, in one case the former, while motionless, still appears to have life, while the rigidity of the other gives it an appearance of stiffness even while under considerable speed.—St. Nicholas.

The Hunter and the Wind.

In hunting against the wind in open forests more game is passed than many hunters would suppose. The animals see the man, note that he will pass them and hide by getting as near to the ground as possible. If they scent him after he has passed they evidently realize that the danger is over, though some, mostly the younger, inexperienced animals, then sneak off. Where game is very wild it is often in such localities as I have mentioned only possible to approach them with the wind by outdistancing the latter, because a big game animal at rest depends on its nose to save it from danger in the direction from which the wind comes and on its eyes to watch the side from which it can get no other warning.—"Track and Tracking," by Josef Brunner.

Welsh National Costume.

When the French made a half-hearted attempt to invade Great Britain in 1797 a landing was made at Fishguard, Wales, but the soldiers of Napoleon were frightened off by the sight of a great number of Welsh girls and women, whom they mistook at a distance for soldiers on account of their red dresses and tall black hats. That is still the national costume of the Welsh women.

Crushed.

Reveries and earth fight in vain against a dunce.—Schiller.

THEY TOOK HIM IN.

A Surprise That Ruffled an Absent-minded Scientist.

A certain foreign scientist who lectured in this country was, to say the least, careless about dress. Once he was asked to lecture in a city not far from Philadelphia. He went, taking with him his dress suit and no other suit. Having given his lecture, he spent the night at the house of a fellow professor, woke up the next morning, cheerfully donned the dress suit and sallied forth to give another lecture at the local college.

He didn't know just where the college was, but, spying an imposing looking building not far from his host's residence, decided that that was it. While walking toward the door he suddenly saw an ant hill. Bugs were his specialty. He dropped at once to his knees, dress suit and all, and started to scoop out ants.

The next thing he knew he was surrounded by a body of men who had rushed out from the imposing looking building. They seized him roughly and proceeded to drag him indoors. He gesticulated. He protested in many languages. It was of no avail. At last, however, explanations were forthcoming.

The imposing looking building was none other than the lunatic asylum. Seeing a man attired in a dress suit digging up ants at 10 o'clock in the morning, the attendants had thought that an inmate had escaped; hence the snail and attack.—Philadelphia Record.

VARNISH TROUBLES.

The Complaint That Is Made by a Piano Manufacturer.

The piano manufacturer was talking. "A fortune of a million dollars, at least," he said, "awaits the man who can invent a varnish which will respond to changes of temperature in exactly the same rate at which wood responds."

"Everybody who ever has made or owned a highly polished article of furniture knows that the surface is liable to break into small cracks—become finely cracked—and thus its beauty is lost. This crackling is caused by the fact that sudden changes of temperature affect varnish—especially fine piano varnish—almost instantly, while the wood beneath contracts or expands at a different rate. This splinters the varnish, and thus far no manufacturer has been able to get the best of the situation."

"We are waiting for this entirely possible elastic varnish, which, when it shall come, will be more welcome to the manufacturers of fine furniture than the flying machine is to the world at large. A piano, delicate as it is, could be stored in an icehouse without detriment to its polished surface, provided the temperature was kept even, but changes, especially if sudden, are fatal to the beauty of the case."—New York Press.

Her Patriotic Protest.

The force of natural and instinctive pride in one's country has been endlessly expressed in literatures of all times and climes, but rarely more dramatically than in the following little incident:

Grieg, as every one knows, is the musical idol of all Norwegians, although it has been the fashion of less talented outsiders to underrate him. One of the most indefatigable of those detractors was the German composer Borgei, a man of an instinctively jealous nature.

One day one of his pupils, a Norwegian girl, brought for her lesson a concerto of Grieg's. Borgei took it from her with a smile of most superior disdain.

"But I told you to bring your music, and Grieg is no music!" he said scornfully.

"What—Grieg no music!" was the indignant reply. "Adieu, Herr Professor!" And she swept out of the studio, never to return.

To Save Confusion When Moving.

If you are planning to move prevent confusion in placing furniture in the new house in the following manner: In leisure moments prepare a large card for each room to be tacked to the outside of the door frame on moving day. Assign a number and mark a card for each bedroom. Letter the other cards with the names of the other rooms. Then prepare a number of smaller tags, attaching a string to each, or use baggage tags. Mark enough to put on all furniture, trunks or boxes with the name of the room into which each is to be put. Show your movers the arrangement and there will be little or no error in placing, while no valuable time and strength will be lost in directing.—Woman's Home Companion.

Men Who Write Badly.

"Practice makes perfect" in all the arts and handicrafts, it would seem, barring that of penmanship. In that apparently the more one practices the more imperfect becomes the result produced, and your real man of the pen writes in seven cases out of ten a hand that would reflect discredit on his own housemaid.—Bookman.

He Got It.

Small Harold—Papa, won't you please give me 5 cents? Papa—Not now. Run along. I'm very busy. Small Harold (holding his hands joined together)—Well, papa, just drop a nickel in the slot and see me go.—Chicago News.

Pretty Small.

The Agent—I don't see how you find room for complaint in this apartment. The Tenant—Nor I. There ain't even mice to take a deep breath.—Cleveland Leader.
