

Is There 5c Worth of Difference

If you are a user of a 20c coffee you no doubt often wonder if there is really 5c worth of difference in value between the coffee you are now using and a 25c coffee. To begin with you must know that a 20c coffee is a blend of two or more different varieties. There is in the 20c coffee just as much of the high grade, rich flavored coffee as the price will permit while in the 25c coffee there is naturally a larger percentage of the better grades. There is also more time given to the aging of the 25c coffee than the 20c blend and the age before roasting mellows the flavor wonderfully. Its taste that tells and one lb. of our Concord 25c coffee will prove to you it is worth at least 5c more per lb than the 20c blend you are now using.

SPECULATION IN FARM PRODUCTS

BOTH PRODUCERS AND DEALERS SUFFER AS RESULT OF GAMBLING, SAYS REPORT.

DEALINGS IN FUTURES

Commissioner Herbert Knox Smith is Very Condemnatory of the Market System.

By Associated Press. Washington Dec. 6.—Both the producers of cotton and the dealers in that commodity are the victims of the system at trading in vogue on the cotton exchanges of the country.

This is the burden of Parts 4 and 5 of the report of Commissioner of Corporations Herbert Knox Smith on the conduct of such exchanges. The practice of dealing in futures, as it is carried on at present, is condemned, although the report does not condemn the existence of the exchange.

"The brief discussion of general speculation in this report," says Mr. Smith, "recognizes the possibilities for good inherent in a great central market line a cotton exchange, and the need that this good be developed and evils eliminated by regulations in line with economic law."

The report is especially condemnatory of the dealings in futures, branding this form of speculation as pure gambling and highly injurious to legitimate trade. In quotations for "future" deliveries of cotton, the market is so uncertain and so many elements of chance enter into the transaction that all bids are made at a much lower figure than those offered for cotton actually in existence.

The effect of these fictitious quotations, the report points out, tends to mislead the cotton planter as to the true value of his crop, honestly grown. In addition, it leads brokers to "play" both sides of the market to protect themselves against loss in such trades, with the result that the producer is forced to pay in the end, while the farmer loses likewise.

The report while recognizing that the exchanges in New Orleans and New York Exchange, after declaring that the New Orleans methods of conducting the transactions in cotton followed natural lines, the report draws attention to the fact that it has been proved that the abnormal depressions in the future price in New York were almost wholly due to improper artificial conditions now maintained by the New York Cotton Exchange. By maintaining them the New York exchange is responsible for a very real injury to the producer and merchant.

In closing the letter to President Taft which accompanied his report, Commission Smith again takes occasion to reprove the New York Exchange. He says:

"After the publication of the earlier parts of this report the New Orleans and New York exchanges established special committees instructed to consider the systems of their exchanges and to cooperate therein with the Commissioner of Corporations. Conferences have been held by the Commissioner with both committees. On the part of the New Orleans this cooperation was very complete, resulting in certain important improvements in the rules of that exchange. After more than a year's investigation, the committee of the New York exchange has not yet made any final report or taken any substantial action."

The Commission touches on the activities of the various organizations of cotton growers all formed with a view of controlling both price and production. He believes, however, that so numerous are the factors of supply and demand in determining the price of cotton that it is impossible to arrive at any satisfactory conclusion as to the extent of influence exerted by such organizations.

SOME CHAMPION EXHIBITS AT CHICAGO LIVE STOCK EXPOSITION AND SCENE OF THE BIG SHOW.

In arranging for the International Live Stock exposition and the horse show Chicago planned to care for the biggest crowd of visitors since the world's fair in 1893. The prize list hung up by the management of the Live Stock exposition and horse show was sufficient to attract exhibitors from all parts of the country, and advance entries came in in such numbers as to guarantee that the combined events would eclipse anything of the kind ever held in the United States. Breeders of pedigreed stock everywhere announced that they would be represented at the show.

NATIONAL GINNERS REPORT.

Total Number Bales for Year 1909 Less Than Million Bales. Memphis, Tenn, Dec. 5, 1909.

To the GINNERS:

Your reports show there has been ginned up to Dec. 1st 8,884,000 bales and that the total crop will be 9,950,000, Census figures not including Linters. The Linters will be about 225,000 and the Repacks about 75,000 making a commercial crop of about 10,250,000. As there was practically no cotton or Linters carried over from the last crop the Census report and the Commercial crop will be very close together this year. The weights are aggregating about 24 pounds light which reduces this crop to about 8,700,000 bales of last years weight. The consumption last year was 1,095,000 bales per month with Manchester Mills closed for ten weeks on account of the strike. Spinners taking indicate at least as heavy consumption as last year which will use up this years crop by the 20th of May. The mills had on hand about one months supply at the end of August and the visible supply would run them another month and still leave a very small supply to protect the Future markets. The supply of cotton available will be all used up by July 20th and the mills will have to close until new cotton can reach them which will mean until September for the American mills and October for the European mills unless the prices go so high as to reduce consumption. In August of 1907 Print cloth sold at 5 1/2 cents and other lines of cotton goods were equally high and it did not seem to have any effect on consumption. The Mills that season paid about 11 cents for cotton and made from 30 to 50 per cent on their capital stock.

Report by States.

Amt. ginned to Dec. 1, 1909	Total Crop
Alabama	901,000 982,000
Arkansas	614,000 684,000
Florida	55,000 59,000
Florida	1,487,000 1,864,000
Louisiana	241,000 258,000
Mississippi	878,000 1,014,000
Missouri, Va. & Ky.	50,000 60,000
North Carolina	533,000 657,000
Oklahoma	509,000 586,000
South Carolina	999,000 1,129,000
Tennessee	208,000 234,000
Texas	2,214,000 2,420,000

Totals 8,884,000 9,950,000

The spinners have been out of the market for some time as they believed the crop was 11,000,000 to 11,500,000 but with the ginning falling off so fast and the movement getting so small, crop ideas will have to be reduced and prices go much higher accordingly. If cotton goods go as high as in 1907 the mills can pay 17 cents and still make money. As soon as the world realizes the crop is short there will be a scramble for cotton goods and the mills will buy your cotton at much higher prices. File this report away and compare it by states with the final Census report issued in next March to see how correct we are by states, will prove that we have the best system in the world for estimating the crop.

AD BRINGS TROUBLE

Man Advertises For Wife But Does'nt Want One Now

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 5.—'There's no fool like an old one,' and I am the victim of my own folly. I'm sick and tired of it all and I want to quit, but they won't let me. I never want to see another woman as long as I live; they're pestering the life out of me. What I want now is peace, not a wife.'

William B. Niedermeyer, a wealthy widower, 59 years of age, with offices at 528 Rookery building, Spokane, who publicly announced 10 days ago that he would share his fortune of $250,000 with a woman under 35 years of age, if she came up to his ideal as a life partner, made this confession before fleeing the city to escape a throng of women responding to his proposal.

'Before I placed that little advertisement in a California paper, saying that if the right party answered—Well, the wedding bells might ring. I could not find a woman to take the place at my lonely fireside,' Niedermeyer said, 'but now they're trooping in from all sides. I never realized there were so many women in the world. Most of them got right down to brass tacks, too.'

'I have received letters from every state, territory and province on this continent, except Texas, and every moment of my time has been taken up in answering letters and telephone calls and receiving applicants, mostly young women, who seemed to be under the impression this is a free-for-all. Such is not the case, however, and I am going to be gone until quiet is restored.'

With this Niedermeyer pulled down the roll top of his big desk, hiding several hundred unopened letters from curious eyes; drew the blinds, disconnected the telephone instruments, and, after slipping a generous 'tip into the colored hall boy's hand, he hiked for the tall timber along the St. Joe river in northern Idaho, where he hopes to get the kinks out of his tangled nerves.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and vicinity.
Tonight and Tuesday, unsettled weather. Local rain tonight or Tuesday. Warmer, tonight, colder Tuesday.

Reports from the county surrounding Wichita Falls indicate that the acreage planted in wheat this fall is larger by far than for any year during the last five or six, and as the rains have come, putting an excellent season in the ground, the prospects for a bumper wheat crop next year are most promising. The fields are green, furnishing splendid grazing for stock. For several years farmers in this section have been cutting down the acreage to small grain crops and putting in more of other kinds of crops, such as corn and cotton, and the result has been good. The acreage to small grain crops in this section will hardly ever be what it used to be when practically nothing but small grain was raised, and as a result of that kind of farming, when a drouth struck the country the failure of crops was most complete. Now, that diversified farming is the rule, the farmers are growing prosperous, land is advancing in price and the country is settling very rapidly, until now Wichita county is, without a question of a doubt, one among the very best of farming counties in Texas.

The Times is independent in all things and neutral in nothing. It has opinions and it believes its patrons are entitled to and should know what they are before it solicits or accepts their patronage. It is broad enough to grant to others the same rights which it reserves for itself, and if it cannot succeed along these lines, the sooner its failure is recorded the better. It does not believe in "toting water on both shoulders," and the man or newspaper which pursues such a policy is, to use a slang phrase, "skating on tolerably thin ice," and sooner or later will strike a hole which it will be rather difficult to extricate itself from.

Archer county holds her local option election on next Saturday, the 11th, and the campaign is getting quite warm. The anti's are well organized and counting on victory, but that the result will be close is admitted by both sides. At present the county is dry and in the event it goes "wet," the result will have its influence on the proposed local option election to be held in this county at an early date.

The Dallas News warns us against starting another scrap with Editor Edwards of Denton, but we cannot forbear calling his attention to the fact that, with a smaller population, Wichita Falls has nearly half a million more bank deposits.

ASTROLOGY FOR DECEMBER

Zadkil, the London astrologer, forecasts for December, 1909 as follows: Jupiter, Saturn, Mars, Uranus and Neptune are all now in cardinal signs, and Mars opposes Jupiter, while the three other great planets are in mutual antagonism. This powerful combination of evil planetary aspects is ominous of trouble for the nations ruled by those signs. As Jupiter is in Libra Australia may, probably, suffer the least of the furnace of affliction. Epidemic sickness will attack several parts of Europe as well as India. In England the public health will suffer from the stationary position of Saturn in Aries 16 degrees 23 minutes, of the 20th day, coinciding with the opposition of Mars and Jupiter. Our government must be prepared for rough weather, and should keep a sharp lookout in the East for a sudden fanatical outbreak. Ireland will not escape trouble and discord, for Saturn is close to the meridian at the moment or new moon at Dublin. As Christmas approaches it is to be hoped that good and peace, at least among the Christian nations, will be secured.

Birthday influences are favorable to those persons whose anniversary falls on the 1st, 2d, 11th, 18th, 22d, 30th or 31st. On the other hand the 21st threatens troubles, losses or sickness, and the financial worry. Saturn troubles those who were born on or about April 6. Jupiter benefits those whose birthdays fell on the 4th to 6th of October. Raphael, in his Prophetic Messenger, has the following:

The new moon, on December 12, occurs at 7:59 p. m., and falls on the fifth house in conjunction with Mercury. Mars and Saturn are nearly conjoined close to the meridian in opposition to Jupiter, while Saturn is in square to both Uranus and Neptune. The position of the luminaries is favorable for the younger generation, and theaters and places of amusement will benefit. It seems as though some system of religious education for children will be discussed. The revenue will benefit trade and commerce being more satisfactory, and railways and the postoffice will also prosper. Uranus in the sixth points to many suicides, much sickness in the land and accidents in the navy. Venus on the cusp of the seventh will tend to preserve the peace, and there will be many marriages of note at this time.

The position of Saturn and Mars so close to the midheaven and opposed to Jupiter, warns the government that heavy troubles are before them, and an awkward question will crop up which will require great care and consideration on the part of our leading statesmen in order to steer the country free from the dangers which will present themselves. The king and royalty will suffer, and death will strike those of high position. Neptune in the 12th is evil for hospitals and institutions, a recurrence of fraud and evil practices therein being detected. Crimes against women will also be brought to light.

The position of the superior planets in Aries and Libra, and the approaching conjunction of Mars and Saturn in the ruling sign of England, is ominous of grave dangers in the near future. Austria, India and Africa will be the scenes of startling events ere long, and the dawn of the New Year will be a period long to be remembered.

The every-day counsel gives the following:

1. Sign writings and travel in the a. m.
2. Ask favors until 3 p. m.
3. Doubtful.
4. Avoid writings, traveling and superiors.
5. Sunday—A doubtful day.

SHOPPING IN MEXICO

Women Get Plenty of Excitement In Making a Purchase.

BARGAINING AS A FINE ART.

The Descent From the Asking Price to the Last Price and From That to the Final Selling Price Works Out Something Like a Farce Comedy.

When a woman goes shopping in the City of Mexico, especially if she speaks Spanish, she gets far more excitement for her money in the course of an afternoon than she could hope to compass in a year's time in America.

In the Spanish and French dry goods houses, where the trade is almost exclusively feminine, the goods are marked with the "asking price," which is a mere mathematical figure of speech, and the first question that the experienced shopper always asks of the salesman is, "What is your last price?"

This "ultimo precio" is generally about 25 per cent less than the selling price with which the goods are tagged. It forms, however, a certain basis from which to start the bargaining, which thereafter is carried on with all the skill and fury that characterize such transactions everywhere throughout Latin America. The woman customer may wish to purchase a few yards of silk, for example. The marked price is, say, $2 a yard, and the "last price" is given as $1.50. The woman will look at the piece she desires with the same unconcerned scorn with which she regards everything else that is shown her. She will disparage it from every point of view and finally ask for something that is not likely to be in stock. At last she will sigh and look about in despair.

"Caramba, but I'm weary with this vain task of endeavoring to find something that I wish in this second class establishment! The prices are far higher than anywhere else, but I try to patronize this place because the proprietors are friends of my husband. Now, that rose silk is not the shade I wish, but I might be able to use it some time if I could buy it at a reasonable price."

The salesman, who has been listening with an assumed air of sympathy, responds with all the flowery eloquence that he can command and with a constant play of rapid gestures, his lighted cigarette in one hand describing a little arc of fire somewhat dimmer than the diamonds he wears on his fingers.

"Senorita, we place at your feet this establishment and all that it contains. It is your house, and you may do with it as you will. But the very last price at which I can offer you this silk is $1.25 a yard. I do this with a fear of losing my position, but with the hope that the proprietors will pardon my audacity when they learn that your husband is one of their personal friends."

"I thank you, senior," responds the shopper. "I appreciate your consideration, but I could not possibly accept the silk as a gift. Nevertheless I would be willing under the circumstances, so that you might make a reasonable profit, to give you 50 cents a yard for two yards."

At this the salesman drops on the floor the stub of the cigarette he has been smoking. This leaves both hands free, and if he is a master of the selling art as known in that country tears come to his eyes and he wrings his hands apparently in the depths of despair and chagrin. The Mexicans dearly love acting and dissimulation of all sorts, and this byplay of the clerk is but a part of the price of the goods. After frenzied ejaculations he puts the price down to $1 a yard, saying that that figure is the "last of the last prices." The lady has been gazing about indifferently and gathers up her pocketbook and other impediments as she rises to depart. As an afterthought and with condescension that amounts almost to pity she remarks:

"Sixty cents—no more. It is my last word. Adios, senior."

"One little moment, seniorita. Do not depart in anger. Rather than let you go thus you may have the silk at 90 cents a yard, and I will make up the difference from my own pocket."

The lady hesitates, turns back as if indifferent, yet undecided. Then she again starts toward the door, speaking the phrase of pious farewell which is the Spanish equivalent of a final goodbye.

"May you go with God, senior."

She almost has reached the portal when the salesman catches up with her. He has had time to light another cigarette to fortify himself for the final struggle, and, waving this in one hand, he begs her, almost on bended knees, to return and take the silk at 80 cents a yard. She looks languidly upon him. She has concluded that 80 cents would be about the right price and probably the best she can do. Yet she returns undaunted and in the softest of voices breathes the Spanish words which are the equivalent in that tongue for 70 cents. After ten minutes more of firmness on the shopper's part and every aspect of poignant grief by the salesman two yards of silk finally change hands at 75 cents.

The same furious bargaining is the rule in the grocery stores and in the sidewalk markets.—New York Press.

SHORT ITEMS OF INTEREST

TheTimes is requested to announce a meeting of the Civic League tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, at the home of Mrs. Frank Kell, 900 Bluff street.

The grand jury convened at the court house this afternoon at 1:30 and the judge's charge is now being read. It is expected that the jurors will be in session fully ten days at this term.

It has been in evidence for the past two mornings and the predicted colder weather was on hand, although the forecasted snow did not put in an appearance. Warmer tonight, but colder tomorrow is today's prediction.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Walsh were called to Fort-Worth yesterday on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Walsh's father, Mr. N. P. Russell, who is suffering from a severe case of blood poisoning. Mr. Walsh returned last night, leaving Mrs. Walsh with her father. The attending physicians are hopeful of his recovery.

News has been received here that "Wingo" Anderson, the young Texan whose pitching was one of the features of the local season, has been signed by the Chicago White Sox for the coming season. Anderson played against Wichita Falls with the Bonham team and is by far the best pitcher who ever performed on the local diamond.

The work of clearing away the debris following last Thursday's wreck is progressing steadily. Two derricks are on the scene and the big Denver engine, which half buried itself in the mud by its plunge, is being slowly hauled back on the track. As yet no attempt has been made to remove the wreck of the Northwestern engine.

S. M. Kennedy, the new jeweler, received a message this morning announcing the death of his venerable father, which occurred at Greenville yesterday, and left on the south bound Denver today to attend the funeral. Owing to this sad event Mr. Kennedy wishes to announce that the opening of his establishment on 8th street will be postponed for a few days.

CENTRAL SCHOOL MEETING.

Parents and Teachers Have Meeting at Grammar School.

The Parents-Teachers' Club of the Central Grammar School met on Friday afternoon, Dec. 3rd, with the officers all present.

The committee on program reported and suggested that for the present the programs be simply an open discussion of any matter presented by teachers or parents concerning the welfare of the schools.

The committee on constitution and by-laws reported and the well formed constitution presented was taken up section by section and voted upon.

The question of dividing the pupils in the more crowded rooms into a morning and afternoon division was freely discussed and a committee appointed to bring the matter before the board.

It was decided to meet every Friday and the presence of mothers and teachers is most cordially requested.

NEW GROCERY STORE.

W. C. Lowry Will Succeed T. M. Smyre On Indiana Avenue.

The T. M. Smyre grocery and bakery at 8th and Indiana today passed into the hands of the W. C. Lowry Grocery Company, of which W. C. Lowry of this city is manager. Mr. Lowry has been connected with the Wichita Produce Company as traveling salesman for some time and the best wishes of his friends here and elsewhere will accompany him in his new venture.

The Villain's Teeth.

The two sets of false teeth looked just alike, but one set cost $10 more than the other. "There is a lot of extra work on those expensive teeth," said the dentist. "They are made for an actor who always plays the part of heavy villain in melodrama, and he has to have teeth that he can hiss with. I experimented on three different sets of teeth before I got the combination. Somehow the nice, even teeth that I usually turn out wouldn't permit the sibilant 's'-sees' that he deals in to escape with sufficient venom. You wouldn't believe how much tinkering it takes to lick teeth into shape for the 's'denths' and 'od's bloods' to sound just right. Of all the people I ever made teeth for the heavy stage villain is hardest to fit."--New York Press.

The Only Way to Know.

Catherine had asked so many questions, and father was growing impatient. Finally he said, "Oh, Catherine, I can't answer half your questions." "I know you can't, father, but then I do not know which half you can't answer."--Delineator.

When Fall Plowing is Done

Don't do the same as you did last fall and let that expensive plow stand at the end of the last furrow turned. And don't drag it into the barn yard and let it stand there in the winter's storms. Get it under cover. A good shed will cost less than the damage done to the machinery, tools and vehicles left exposed to the elements. Rust and rot will put any machine out of business faster than legitimate use will. We have just the material needed for sheds, and it is very inexpensive, too. Don't put it off. See us about quality and cost the next time you're in town.

Wichita Falls, Texas Nov. 18, 1928.

Owing to ill health, I will sell at public auction, township 31, range 22, block nine in Gee Haw survey, One crush raspberry cow, aged six years. She is a good milker and not afraid of the cars, or anything else. She is a cow of undaunted courage, and gives milk frequently. To a man who does not fear death in any form, she would be a great boon. She is very much attached to her home by the means of trace chain, but she will be sold to any one who will agree to treat her right. She is one fourth short horn and three fourths Hyena; purchaser need not be identified. I will also throw in a Lefever double-barrel shot gun purchased at the Wilson Hardware Company, which goes with her.

In May she generally goes away for a week or two and returns with a long wabbly-legged calf. Her name is Rose and would prefer to sell her to a non-resident.

We will also exchange anything in the Wilson Hardware line consisting of the Celebrated Vette Buggies and carriages for mules and horses. A big reduction for cash.

NORMAN PEASANTS.

Their Bread is Made in the Stables by the Man.

A farmer's wife in the north of France may do a good part of the heavy work about the farm, but she never thinks of making the bread. That is man's work, and it is carried on not in the kitchen, but in the stable.

The Norman peasant eats an astonishing quantity of bread. He has little else—except cider—for his breakfast and supper, and it is a very important part of his noonday meal as well.

And such queer looking bread as it is! The "loaves" are as round and as pale yellow as the full moon. They are often three feet in circumference and eight or ten inches thick. Seeing one of them for the first time, you would be likely to take it for a huge cheese.

Breadmaking being only a monthly occurrence in a Norman household, the operations must be on a scale of considerable magnitude if the family supply is to be sufficient to last for four weeks. The dough is always mixed in a certain inclosed space upon the floor of the barn.

At other times cats, dogs and poultry enjoy the freedom of this space, but when breadmaking time comes these are evicted and the floor is swept—let us hope very thoroughly.

There is no dough pan or trough. The flour and water are poured together upon the floor, and the farmer and his sons or hired laborers beat the mass into the proper consistency with heavy clubs widely flattened at the ends until they look something like roughly shaped snow shovels. Then a lump of leaven is added, and the mass is given ten or twelve hours to "rise."

Next it must be kneaded, a process which is accomplished with the feet. Shod in heavy sabots, or wooden shoes—not the everyday shoes, which are painted black, but made of unstained whitewood—the men leap into the midst of the dough. They jump about with agility; they stamp and kick the spongy stuff; they dance clumsy jig in it, the stiffening dough clinging tenaciously to their shoes. It is the hardest of hard work, requiring endurance as well as strength, and before it is time to stop more than one of the men will be staggering and drooping in the pesty mass, thoroughly exhausted.

The dough is allowed to rise a second time, is again soundly beaten with the flattened clubs, is then put into great round pans and baked in the massive brick oven which stands in almost every Norman stable.

The bread which results is firm, close in texture and rather dingy in color, sweet, but dry, and decidedly palatable even to those who have seen it made.

As the month draws to a close the outer crust becomes so thick and hard that it can only be penetrated by a saw kept for that purpose. But this horny shell has its use, for it keeps the interior of the loaf fairly soft and fresh, sometimes for several months.—Youth's Companion.

A Use For the Jail.

Winkleborough is a flourishing little seaside resort, and during the season almost every available room is let at good prices.

A visitor to that delightful spot last season was interested to observe a policeman soundly cuff a lanky youth for some misdemeanor, and, curious to know the reason of the chastisement, he went over to the guardian of the peace.

"What's he done, constable?" inquired the visitor.

"Pickin' pockets, sir. Let me catch 'im at it ag'in an' I'll give 'im a rare good hidin'."

"But why didn't you run him in?"

"Run 'im in?" retorted the policeman. "Why, bless yer, we sin't runnin' anybody in this week. The p'lice station's let for lodgin'!"—London Answers.

Wallack on the Ballet.

The late Lester Wallack once told a story of his still more famous father, James W., that as either an actor or a manager he could never tolerate the ballet, even where it was seemingly necessary according to custom as part of an entertainment or in the opera.

One day there came to him a friend, a man about town, who said, "My dear Wallack, it is very curious that you do not see the beauties of imagination shown by the poses of the ballet." Going on in this strain, the visitor at last wore out the patience of the actor-manager, who replied:

"Look here, it is bad enough to stand these absurdities in an opera; but, though I can comprehend people singing their joys, I am hanged if I can their dancing their griefs."

The Judge's Advice.

In sentencing a forger of banknotes to death an English judge said, "I can hold out no hope to you for mercy here, and I must urge you to make preparation for another world, where I hope you may obtain that mercy which a due regard to the credit of our paper currency forbids you to hope for here."

Family Connection is a Mode.

"Well, yes; we are related in a way."
"By marriage?"
"Yes. My first wife's third husband is married to his wife's second husband's fourth partner in matrimony."
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Jealousy.

"May's new hat is perfectly hideous."
"It isn't a bit more hideous than mine. You're always saying nice things about May."
—Philadelphia Ledger.

Clever men are good, but they are not the best.—Carylle.

PUZZLE OF THE AIR.

Changing Currents Shown by the Action of Birds in Flight.

The average person regards air much as he regards water—as much lighter, of course, but like it otherwise. Calm air is precisely to him as calm water in a pool. If there is a wind he pictures the air as a flowing river. And just so long as all men looked at it so, just so long the birds kept their monopoly, for the only state in which water approaches the condition of air is when water forms a mesolstrom. Even then water in its wildest turbulence falls far short of the unstable, incessant agitation of the atmosphere. Air is never still. It is filled with warm waves ascending, cold waves descending, and through it race cross shoots and diagonal shoots, with cork-screw whirlwinds wandering hither and yon as they list. The warm air off a cornfield creates one kind of a disturbance; off plowed land it creates another. A layer of cold air may hold down a layer of warmer air. Consider what happens when the warm air breaks through its envelope as a millpond bursts its dam. A flowing stream churned to and fro and round and round and up and down would give a feeble idea of the air's inconstancy.

Now, a bird, circling with fixed wings, floats on a rising column of air. It maintains its altitude as to the earth, but it is constantly coasting down through the air's ascending volume. Once the bird loses the air column it has to flap its wings, and it flaps till it finds another column, when it goes on wheeling again with fixed wings. Moreover, when it flies the wind comes toward it in waves, rising and falling like the billows of the sea. It meets them, and then it does precisely what a boat does—goes over them or goes through them. The Wrights learned all this, and when they'd learned they were about as near to flying as you and I would be to writing Chinese philosophy when we'd just learned the English alphabet. Furthermore, there were no teachers, living or dead, that could help them more than a few steps along the way.—Everybody's Magazine.

FOUGHT WITH HIS BOYS.

An Amusing Passage Between Willich and Rosecrans.

There are times when the so called "red tape" of the army gives way under the stress of circumstances. At the battle of Chickamauga, General Willich, who was commanding a brigade, incurred the displeasure of General Rosecrans, the commanding general, by some very slight omission. General Willich was sent for and informed by the general commanding that he must consider himself under arrest for the present.

"General," said Rosecrans sternly, "consider yourself under arrest and leave your sword here until your case is tried."

"Yes, general, I will consider myself under arrest," was the reply, "and shut so soon as dia fight's over I'll come and fix him up."

"But, sir," said the astounded Rosecrans, "I want you to consider yourself under arrest now."

"Of course I do," responded Willich promptly, "and so soon as I get off dia fight I'll be up and settle him."

"But, sir," expostulated the commanding general, "I can't let you go into this fight. You are under arrest. I will send an officer to your brigade."

"You send an officer to fight my boys," cried Willich indignantly. "He can't do it. They don't know him. Me they know. I teach them. I fight them, and none of the boys would know how to fight or what to do only when I go with them. My boys belong to me; yes, me, General Willich. I command the brigade, and I must fight the brigade."

General Rosecrans gave it up. General Willich was requested to return and "fight his boys," which he did most successfully. And that was the end of the matter.—Youth's Companion.

They Don't Like Rain.
The tortoise shows a greater dislike to and fear of rain than any other animal. Twenty-four hours or more before rain falls the Galapagos tortoise makes for shelter. On a bright, clear morning, when not a cloud can be seen, all the shellbacks on a tortoise farm may sometimes be seen headed for the nearest overhanging rocks. When that happens the people know that rain will come down during the day, and, as a rule, it comes down in torrents. The sign never fails.

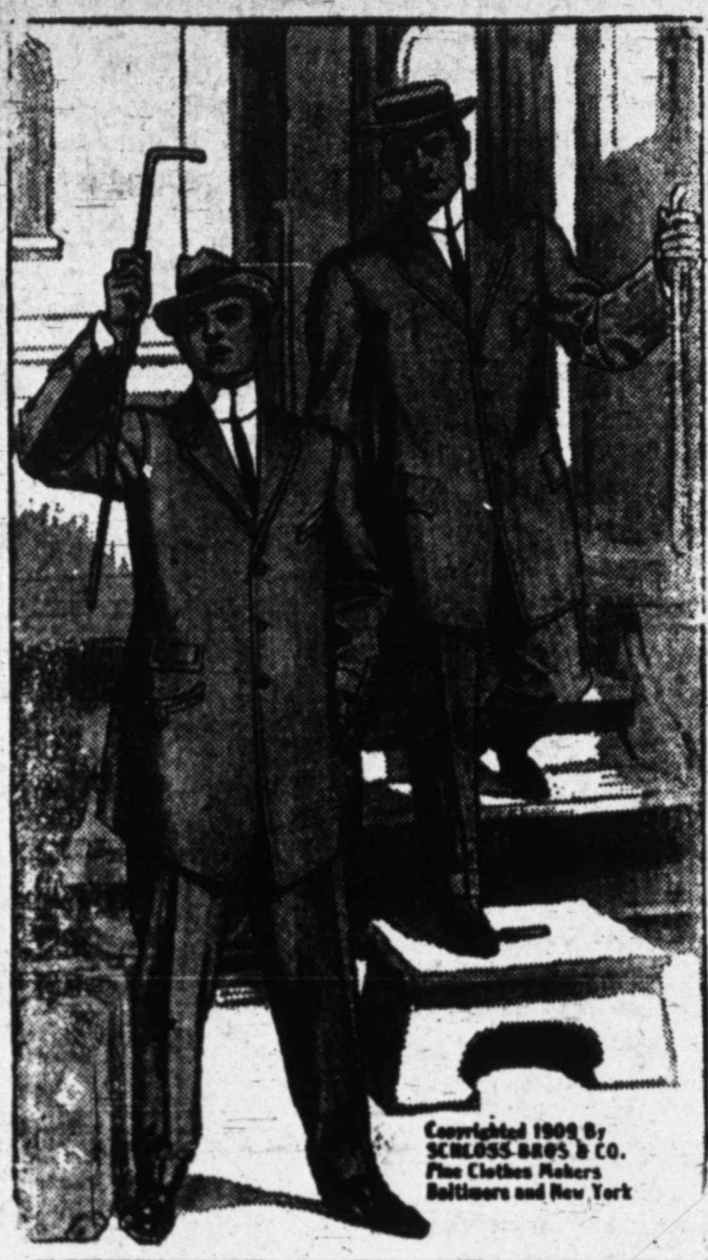

Told the Truth.

"Well, yes, it has. I long ago abandoned all idea of it."—Life.

Benjamin Clothes

After all, it's really the tailor who makes a suit a success or a failure. The most fascinating style would be a fizzle if there were not careful needle work underneath.

The most phenomenal design on earth could not make a garment a success without the co-operation of the tailor. It is he who, by the diligent plying of his needle, gives shape and style and ensures service.

The world's most excellent tailors are congregated in New York on account of its being the greatest clothes manufacturing center in the world. They have more work and are better paid there.

Could there be a better explanation of why "Benjamin Clothes," Made in New York, are the most stylish and the most perfectly made of any on earth. Won't you make it your particular business to see these wonderful "Benjamin Clothes."

"THE WOLF."

The next attraction at the Wichita Theatre will be Eugene Walter's famous drama, "The Wolf." The Fort Worth Star-Telegram says:

"Good, strong and clean melodrama is 'The Wolf,' by Eugene Walter, the kind that tightens with a strange grip on the hearts of strong men, and causes women to be proud of the manhood that stamps nature's noblemen.

It is a small cast of but five men and one woman, but it forms a very strong and adequate company, in fact, one of the best that has played in Mr. Greenwall's theatre this season. The house was well filled and expressions of satisfaction were audible all over the theatre, both for the actors on the stage and the telegraphic communications from the election returns.

The first scene opens upon a resplendent view of the Canadian woods, during Indian Summer, in the glory of autumnal foliage, and the audience is introduced to Ben Lamar, who, as Andrew MacTavish is a capable actor with a genuinely fine conception of his part as a crabbed old woman hater, the madman of the North.

Also to B'Artiste, played by Conrad Cantzen, a picturesque figure in his muskrat cap and noble in his simple faith that God assists a man to right his wrongs. He scores high in artistic fry when he makes his prayer and signs the cross of his Catholic faith.

Andrew Robson, the hero, as Jules Beaubien, is most excellently done.

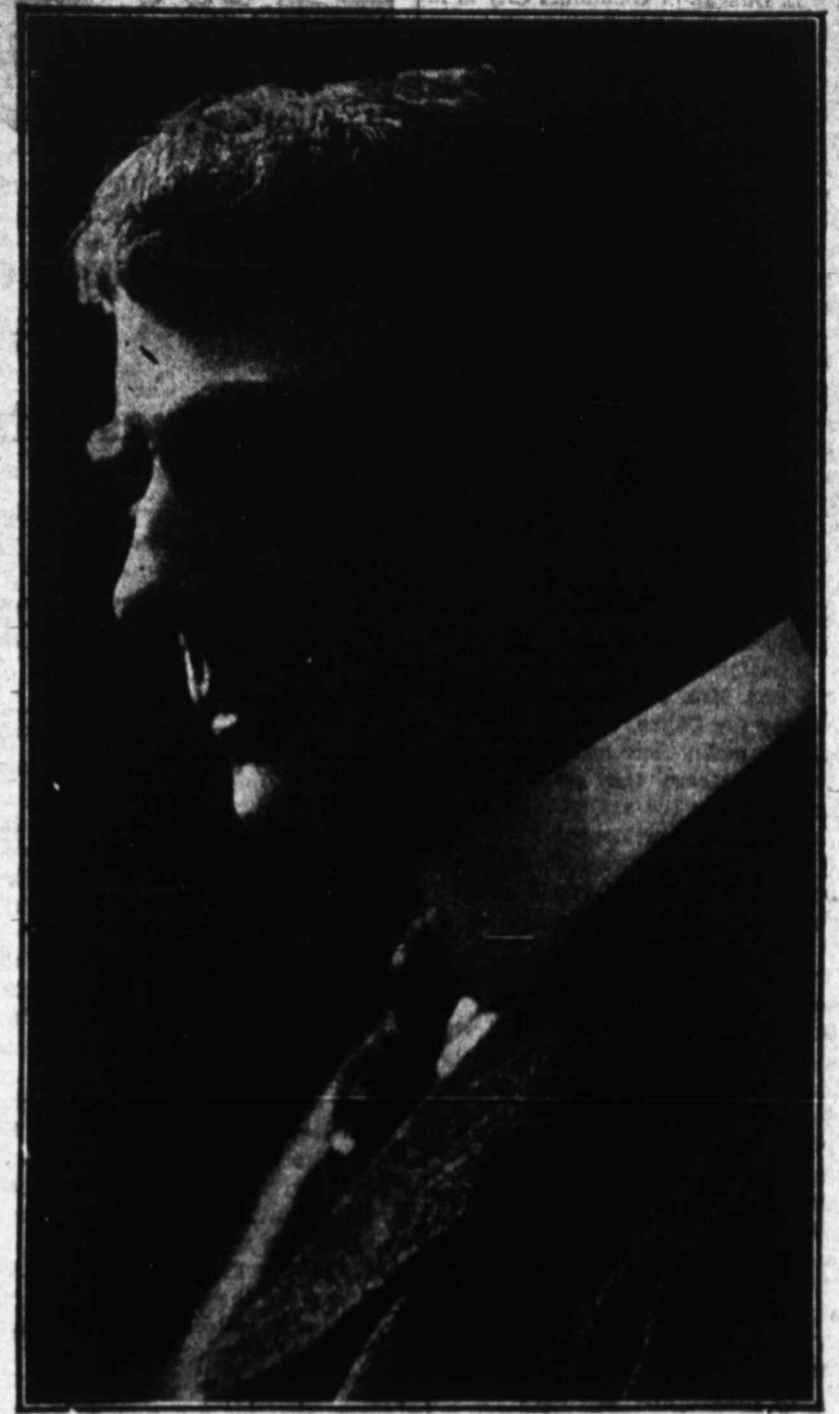

Of fine physique, good to look upon, he is a second Sothorn in the part. His words and pauses were delivered to a nicety. "Sacre!" his oath, and he is the foe of all evil-minded men. Says the young Huntley of Jules, as delineated quite delightfully by Louis Haines, "He is a good man, Jules is. And take it from me, there ain't many."

To Hilda, as played by Lorie Palmer, young Huntley thus addresses himself. Huntley, the clean, white variety of man; Hilda, the young daughter of MacTavish, the child of the northern woods, of whom the accomplished villain of the play, Alfred Swenson as MacDonald says:

"When a woman ceases to be innocent she ceases to be interesting."

The MacDonald of the play, as conceived by Alfred Swenson, is the correctly polished man of the world, who seeks but to devour, blase and debonaire, handsome and lithe of figure. Between this man and Jules there is rivalry; Jules, the simple man of the woods, unpolished, uncut, but in whom the divine conception of his Creator is strong.

There various parts are well wrought out. The stage craft has been carefully studied, as have all the lines. Terse and crisp are those spoken by Jules; laconic and slangy those by Huntley; as if in a dream those by Hilda; with his meaning deeply veiled, those of MacDonald; of MacTavish, the labored speech of the Scotchman; of B'Artiste, the patois, adequately spoken as if by the Canadian Frenchman.

ROBERT MANTELL

expressions of the most enthusiastic approval, not only upon the part of the public, but on the part of three critics as well. With one accord the trained judges of dramatic merit place Mr. Mantell upon a pedestal; they proclaim him the leading actor of the day; they analyze him and his acting and that of his company, and they tell in an interesting way why Mantell excels. As an example, we have this from the Dallas News of Friday, Dec. 3rd.

"Depicting tragedy that was imperial, rising to heights where loneliness sat enthroned and sounding depths dark and profound, Robert Mantell closed his engagement at the Dallas opera house last night with that somber conception called 'Macbeth.' To see it as it was given by this most thoroughly accoutered tragedian was as gratifying to the visual and auditory senses as it was educational to the mind, and if there was one spectator who looked with indifference upon the player's efforts his tastes have been hopelessly vitiated or his wits pitifully dulled by a surfeit of comedies and ragtime operettas.

"The audience was the largest of the Mantell series, excepting at the matinee performance, and the pleasure of the patrons was repeatedly demonstrated. Beginning with 'Lear,' the presentation here of five of Shakespeare's most popular and actable dramas has been an artistic visitation unusual in cities the size of Dallas. It speaks well for the liberality and dramatic culture of the citizens that one company with a classic repertoire could hold attention profitably to itself so long. And also it speaks in high terms for the artistic quality of the performers that they drew nightly larger and larger audiences. Truly has this city cause for congratulations that it has sustained the judgment of those arbiters of our theatrical opportunities who had faith in our willingness to pay for the best they had to offer.

THE TIME, THE PLACE AND THE GIRL

Mr. H. H. Frazee will send his banner musical attraction to Wichita Falls for an engagement of one night only, Thursday, December 9th. Mr. Frazee was disappointed that the Wichita people did not turn out to witness his production of "A Knight for a Day" and was going to cancel "The Time, the Place and the Girl," but Manager Bean persuaded him to send this attraction to Wichita Falls, feeling sure that they would be greeted with a big house.

"The Time, the Place and the Girl" has for the past three years, been recognized as the best musical comedy produced in recent years. Mr. Frazee is the owner of something like a dozen of the best musical comedies on the road, and the mere announcement that this attraction is under his management is sufficient guarantee that Wichita Falls playgoers will witness a first class production of this famous comedy.

"The Time, the Place and the Girl" is a musical comedy of heart interest, with a plot of strong dramatic scenes yet full of fun, laugh provoking dialogues and numerous complications all set to music and with its life-like characterizations.

There are Ten delightful songs among them being "Thursday Is My Jonah Day," "Dixie, I Love You," "Don't You Tell," and "The Wandering Honeymoon" and fifty wonderfully attractive chorus girls.

The sale of seats opens Tuesday morning at Bean & Huey's office.

Don't you want to see the richest agricultural and horticultural land that exists on this American continent. We will show you latent opportunities now being developed by American brains and energy, the results of which will startle the civilized world. We will show you possibilities for getting rich—for securing a home in one of the most beautiful locations known, opportunities of whose existence you have never dreamed. We will show you a country that for health and contentment is unsurpassed. A land of abundant rainfall, where irrigation is unknown and entirely unnecessary. Where the farmer raises two crops of corn per year with little or no cultivation. Where grasses grow luxuriantly and are green the entire year. Where cattle, horses and hogs are constantly feeding on green pastures, where no preparation whatever is made for winter, every month of the year being such as to make this a land of continual spring-time, where flowers are ever blooming, where orchards of oranges, lemons, limes, grapefruit, where forests of coffee and rubber, where fields of sugar cane, bananas and pineapples greet the eye every month in the year. We want you to join us and see this wonderful country.

Prescription Value

The value of a prescription is not what you pay for its compounding; it is in the good it does the patient. Have your prescriptions put up where pure ingredients and expert compounding will insure just the results anticipated by your physician. You cannot get better prescription service than we provide. No purer drugs and chemicals than ours are obtainable and we employ only registered pharmacists. We guarantee purity, accuracy and reasonable prices when your prescriptions are compounded here.
