Polly of the Circus.

In speaking of the play 'Polly of the Circus' when it was being presented at the Byers Opera House in Fort Worth, the Fort Worth Record said in part:

"If you've a shred of sentiment within you you'll simply love Polly in 'Polly of the Circus' which opened at the Byers last night. She's the very embodiment of girlish light-heartedness and innocence with a heart stout as oak in her diminutive little body and when love comes it's such a big wonderful love that dear little Polly herself can scarce comprehend the beauty and strength of it. It was a blase, case hardened old theatre-goer who didn't snuffe up a bit and have use for a handkerchief about the eyes while Polly was on last night.

That is the story of 'Polly of the Circus' and it suffers in the mere telling. It is the most beautiful, most wholesome play that has been staged in years. So far as the production is concerned it is a marvel. The last act introduces a circus ring with the clowns, the acrobats, the ponies, the big horses—a genuine circus is put on. But apart from the mere mechanical achievements of it, it is a wonderful play. There's an uplift and there's beauty and truth in every line and situation of 'Polly of the Circus.' Polly's reading in the second act where she repeats the text of the Sunday school lesson, is a particular brilliant bit of work, and when she brokenheartedly goes away with big Jim she leaves no heart in the audience untouched by the genuineness of her sorrow."

Frederick Thompson's 'Polly of the circus' with Fay Wallace in the title role, will be the attraction at Wichita Theatre Friday, January 21st. All the life of Polly, a young circus rider, has been spent under the round top and in the circus car. She knows no world not covered by canvas, nor did her mother. When the play begins the circus tents are pitched on the commons adjoining the church and parsonage in a small town. This causes scandal in the burg and the pillars of the church gather at the parsonage to protest to the minister against the sacrilege. Polly is injured by a fall from her horse and during the circus is carried into the minister's house. A motley crew of clowns, riders, acrobats and canvasmen flock to the parsonage where they are well received by the young minister, much to the disgust of the deacons of the church. The minister agrees to care for the girl until she is well enough to return to the circus and he does care for her. He soon learns that the little circus rider is ignorant. He begins instructing her. He weeds out her wonderful growth of circus slang and teaches her to read and write and makes her so well contented with her new home that when she recovers she does not return to her former sawdust world.

Eleven months pass by and the minister and Polly come to love each other. But the tongue of scandal is wagging in the village and the deacons call upon the parson and demand that he send the girl away. He refuses but Polly decides to go away. She does and rejoins the circus. A month later the circus again comes to town and when Polly attempts to mount her horse she swoons and is caught in the sheltering arms of the minister. The final curtain falls as the circus winds its way out of the village, leaving Polly and the minister gazing at the departing caravan. The circus scenes are true to life and a novelty such as Mr. Thompson is noted for.

'THE OLD SHIP IS LEAKING NOW.'

[From the Commoner.]
The republican insurgents have received notice from the Taft administration that if they are to obtain any office for their constituents they must abandon their principles. The story is told in Associated Press dispatches as follows:

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—War without quarter will be waged between the Taft administration and such republican insurgents in congress as are now opposing and who oppose in the future the Taft legislative program. The battle is not with those tariff insurgents who quietly sheathed their blades after defeat, but with those who have nursed disappointment and are whetting their knives publicly in anticipation of continued conflict.

The battle broke suddenly today. At first it was a single shot; then a scattered firing; swiftly the thing spread until tonight it has taken on the aspect of a general engagement, the consequences of which cannot be foretold. The substance of it is that the senators and congressmen who have taken a stand against the present administration, and who continue to align themselves with the opposition to the president's policies, are to receive no consideration in matters of patronage.

Utterances, such as that made by Senator Cumming at a recent dinner in Des Moines, by Senator Bristow in previous speeches, and anti-Taft articles in Senator LaFollette's magazine, and a recent interview by Senator Clapp on the price of foodstuffs, are said to have stirred the president to action. It has been reported further that some of the republican insurgents in the house have tried to secure appointment under the administration of men more or less openly out of harmony with the Taft regime. Mr. Taft's closest friends advised him that it would be impolite for him to afford sinews of war to those who, they warned, might even co-operate with the democrats in congress against the Taft legislative program, and in the country at large by creating anti-Taft sentiment in advance of the 1912 convention.

It is stated without reserve tonight that the president has listened to such advice and has decided to follow it.

In support of the position taken by certain leaders of the administration that the battle is not with the tariff insurgents, it was pointed out tonight that Senators Nelson, Brown, Burne-Payne-Aldrich tariff, appear to be persona grata at the White House, post-office department, land office and internal revenue bureau, where federal "pie" is served.

No politician who would discuss the situation at all tonight, dared hazard the opinion as to the political outcome of the contest. Some insisted that it would arouse bitter opposition to President Taft, while others declared that the effect would be to make all republicans line up for or against the president and "smoke out" those who have carefully kept a neutral position.

Representative Miller, of the Eighth Minnesota District, was the man chiefly instrumental in "blowing the lid off" of the situation today. He did it by a statement to the effect that Postmaster General Hitchcock informed him yesterday that his (Miller's) recommendations for presidential postmasterhips were being held up because of his insurgent activities in the house. He quoted the postmaster general as saying:

"A great deal of pressure is being brought to bear upon me to withhold from the insurgent republican congressmen the patronage in their districts. I am very loath to do this, and the matter is still under consideration."

Mr. Miller said he told the postmaster general he intended to carry the thing to the open floor of the house, but that Mr. Hitchcock urged him to defer any such action until the subject could be further considered, whereupon Mr. Miller agreed to await full developments before precipitating an open fight.

As soon as the congressman's statements became known, the postmaster general called him on the telephone and took him to task for not having regarded the conversation as confidential, to which Mr. Miller replied that he had not so understood it and felt that he had violated no confidence.

Representative Miller said tonight that a month or more ago he complied with a request from the postoffice department to forward his recommendations upon several presidential postmasterhips in Minnesota. After a wait of several weeks he called at the department, he says, but could get no satisfactory information and was for a long time unable to see the postmaster general. He succeeded in gaining an audience yesterday afternoon, and it was during that conversation, according to Mr. Miller, that Mr. Hitchcock informed him of the existence of a situation which he made it impossible for him to act as yet upon his recommendations.

Mr. Miller insists that he had no idea that the interview was to be considered private, as there were three other callers in Mr. Hitchcock's office at the time who might have heard the conversation.

Representative Humphrey of Washington, was one of the three present and one or both of the others were congressmen. Before making the matter public he had conferred with Senator Clapp, from his own state, also an insurgent. He did not desire, he said, to precipitate any final break, but he had merely repeated the remarks which he considered were official and authoritative.

Postmaster General Hitchcock was silent on the whole subject tonight, nor would any other officials representing the administration say a word about it.

Another feature of the attitude of the party leaders toward the insurgent members of the house was hinted at in disclosures today. It was currently reported that the "rebellious" republican members of congress were soon to feel the hand of the national party organization against them in their home districts. The plan, according to the statement of one of the insurgents, who also is to be marked as a victim, was for the organization at Washington to stimulate opposition to re-nomination of these congressmen by diverse local activities.

Local republican aspirants for their places were to be encouraged and if the opposition was unsuccessful at the primaries, the fight was to be carried even to the polls.

It was pointed out that Congressman Cooper's district in Wisconsin already a rival republican candidate was in the field, although the primaries there do not occur until September. Large sums of money are available for the purpose, it is claimed by those who tell this story and considerable has already been expended. In the district represented by Representative Norris of Nebraska, early republican opposition has developed. Representative Norris has said he well knew the fight was against him at home.

On the other hand, inquiries among congressmen, generally classed as insurgents, failed to disclose any apparent active antagonism to them on the part of any one connected with the administration. Representatives Murdock and Madison of Kansas, have not suffered from "suspended animation" in their patronage recommendations.

When Mr. Madison was informed that the fight apparently had started, he said: "Good; I am glad of it. Nothing suits me better than to have a good square fight."

Congressman Hayes, of California, who presided over the only meeting the house insurgents held this year, declared that he was "in the fight to stay." "If no one will call a meeting of the insurgents to mark out the plan of battle, I will do it," he said; "and if there are others who are backwards in this battle, I will go it alone. I am insurgent until it is over."

Speaker Cannon tonight remarked that if he were to express his own views on the situation they would sound "chestnutty." He denied any knowledge of any specific determination to crush the insurgents. But he turned to a copy of a speech which he delivered in Kansas City on December 7th and quoted from it the following paragraph as expressive of his opinion of the course that ought to be pursued against the insurgents. The paragraph read:

"When Lincoln found an army marching on the national capitol from the south and a body of sympathizers in the north encouraging that army he said it was difficult to determine which was the most threatening to the welfare of the nation. History repeats itself, and when Senators Cummings, LaFollette, Bristow and their so-called 'progressive' following join hands with Mr. Bryan in waging war upon the republican members of congress who passed the tariff bill and upon President Taft, who signed it, in that contest I know of but one way to treat them, and that is to fight them just as we fight Mr. Bryan and his followers."

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and vicinity—Tonight, unsettled weather; colder, Tuesday, generally cloudy and colder.

Denton citizens got together and went after the Normal College... 'and they got it. Later on they got together and went after the industrial—and they got it. Only recently we got together and went after the black land experiment station—and we got that. 'Getting together' was, in each instance, the preliminary to 'getting' what the town wanted and needed. And therein is as strong a sermon on the necessity of harmony and union in Denton as could have been spoken.

That's what it takes. Wichita Falls has already gotten together and landed a boys' school, with 1910 barely two weeks' old. She has gotten together and pledged a thousand dollars a month to support her Chamber of Commerce, and later on she will have to get together again for a packery or a cotton factory—perhaps both.

The 29th senatorial district in Texas is the largest district in the United States represented by one state senator and will have next year the largest population according to the national census of any district that has ever been created. This district has forty-nine counties, and extends from the north line of the Panhandle entirely across the same and on south and east to and including Jack and Young counties and thence west to the New Mexico line.

W. A. Johnson, of Memphis, Hall county writes the Times that he is in the race for the State Senatorship from this, the 29th Senatorial district, saying that he has consented to make the race primarily as a newspaper man, having been solicited to become a candidate by the press of the district.

Manufacturers of glass say said to be organizing a trust. Here is where the ultimate consumer gets stuck, sure enough.

If some of those East Texas towns that refer to this section as 'high, dry and windy' could have gotten the twenty inches of rainfall we had here last year, there would be fewer of their residents moving out to a good country.

If that fire rating board thought that Wichita Falls was going to sit idly by and see herself soaked three or four times over for insurance rate, it had a very wrong idea of the caliber of the people up here.

David Lloyd George said that England would put a quick finish on the German fleet if it should ever attack her. Perhaps so, but England would let's rather not have the job.

1910 is a little over two weeks old and Wichita Falls has already clinched a boy's school and made paved streets a certainty. Pretty good for a starter.

You have just about two weeks left to decide whether you will be a real citizen or just an imitation of one. Pay your poll tax today.

Dispatches from Washington state that Secretary Ballinger is once more able to relish his meals.

Gen. F. W. James.

General Fleming W. James of Abilene, Texas, is here on a visit to his brother John G. James and will probably spend several weeks in Dewey hoping the change of air may benefit his health and will be at the hotel Bartles during his stay. Like his two older brothers, he saw service in the Confederate army and while but a youth was an officer in a regiment under Gen. Joseph E. Johnston and was paroled at Greensboro, N. C., when Johnston's army surrendered at the close of the war.

The people of Wichita Falls will be interested in knowing that Colonel Jno. G. James referred to above, was one of our pioneer citizens. Resigning the presidency of the A. and M. College at Bryan, he shortly afterward moved to Wichita Falls in 1883, where he organized the Panhandle National Bank (now the First National) and was actively engaged in the banking business for a number of years.

He afterward organized the City National Bank here, and was one of the most active, progressive and best known citizen in this section of the State. We presume that no one man in the state of Texas has organized as many National Banks as has Colonel James. All up and down the Denver road, there are successful banks doing business today, that were organized by him.

We are glad to know that Col. James is doing quite well in his new home at Dewey, Okla., having erected several blocks of buildings in that progressive city. The Colonel still has a warm feeling for Wichita, and owns some lots on Ohio avenue that cannot be bought at any price.

STRENUOUS COURTSHIP.

Washington Man Has Exciting Time Getting Married.

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 17.—Strenuous and out of the ordinary was the courtship of Andrew Frombers, a lime burner, living near Republic, Wash., and his wife, Mabel Frombers, known as 'Six Shooter Kate' throughout the northern part of Washington, according to a petition for legal separation filed by the husband in the Spokane county superior court on a change of venue from Ferry county. Frombers says he met the woman wandering in the dense timber near his home one night and took her to his house to rest and dry her clothes. She refused to leave, so he quit his home. She then followed him to the lime kilns, where he was at work, and proposed marriage, and after several refusals a lawyer was procured who threatened suit. Frombers then compromised by promising to wed and they were married. Then, according to the complaint the woman drove Frombers from his home and forced him to sleep in a hut, finally deserting him. He passed the winter in the shack, freezing both feet and suffering other injuries which make it necessary to take treatment in a hospital. Mrs. Frombers is reported to be in the woods, either in Washington or Idaho.

'HALLELUJAH, I'M A BUM.'

'Industrial Poet' Lands in Jail At Spokane.

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 17.—Louis Brazier, a British subject and 'official poet' of the Industrial Workers of the World, author of such gems as 'Meet Be in the Jungle, Louis,' and 'Hallelujah, I'm a Bum,' and five members of the organization were sentenced by Justice George W. Stocker to serve from 15 days to five months for alleged conspiracy. Brazier drew the long sentence having admitted that he came to Spokane from California to take part in the fight for free speech. James Wilson, organizer of the I. W. W. and editor of the Industrial Worker and E. J. Foote, associate editor, who were sentenced to six months in the county jail for conspiracy on December 3, 1909, advise Justice Stocker that they have dismissed their counsel and will not appeal from his decision to the Spokane county court, but will serve their term. Mayor Pratt looks upon this as a surrender on the part of the ringleaders, and says that the end of the trouble is in sight. Governor Hay praises the city and county officials for their stand in breaking up the anarchistic society, 'the members of which,' he says, 'do not seem to be able to understand the idea of our form of government.'

VICTIMS OF NEGLECT.

If You Ignore the Warnings Sent up by Ailing Kidneys You are on the Straight Road to Bright's Disease.

When anything is wrong in the kidneys the symptoms are manifest from the top of your head to the sole of your feet.

The following are some of them: Headache, dizzy spells, sluggish brain, drowsiness, dark rings and floating specks before the eyes, sallow skin, bad breath, heartburn, palpitation of the heart, sour stomach, disorder in the urine, backache, weak pulse; constipated, irregular bowels, aching at the knees, 'verishness in the feet.

Prickly Ash Bitters is the right medicine for such symptoms; pre-eminently a kidney tonic, system cleanser and regulator. It contains all the necessary properties of a successful kidney medicine in addition to its admirable influence in strengthening and regulating the stomach, liver and bowels.

Prickly Ash Bitters begins right by cleansing the bladder and bowels—thereby driving out the impurities which started all the trouble. After this has been accomplished the healing and restorative element in the medicine will continue the good work, building up anew the weakened kidneys, stimulating the liver to greater activity, purifying the blood, and extending its restorative influence to every part of the body. As a result the appetite and digestion improve, the eyes are brighter, the strength returns, the hollow cheeks fill out, the complexion loses that sallow muddy cast, giving place to a clear skin and the ruddy glow of health.

Much depends on the promptness with which the treatment is commenced. Prickly Ash Bitters has cured many advanced cases that would not yield to other remedies, but it must be remembered that there is a stage in kidney disease beyond which no power on earth can save the patient. Take Warning! If you suspect anything wrong with your kidneys, begin treatment at once. It is your best hope of a cure.

J. G. Zachery, Lodi, Tex., says: 'I never tried anything like Prickly Ash Bitters before in my life. It does its work almost in a night. I am now telling all my friends about your great remedy and all who try it speak of the splendid results. It has done me so much good that I will never again be without it in my house.'

NO FIGHT IN UTAH.

Gov. Spry Will Not Permit Jeffries-Johnson Bout There. Chicago, Ill., Jan. 17.—"There will be no fight in Salt Lake City or any other place in Utah. The authorities will take whatever steps are necessary to prevent it." Gov. Spry of Utah, who arrived in Chicago last night, made this statement.

"I have made this assertion before," he continued, "but I repeat it now with renewed emphasis. There is no use of overthrowing the law in Utah. It would be absurd if a couple of fight promoters could nullify the laws at their convenience."

"The law is against the fight and we simply won't permit it. I don't think it would be necessary to call out the militia to prevent the fight, but we would take whatever drastic action that would be necessary."

"It is generally understood that the fight is to take place in California, and we don't think there is any danger of our state being entered. As to the supposed guarantee having been put up by a Salt Lake man, it had no official sanction."

FARMING ADVICE
BY U. S. EXPERT

DR SOUMAN A. KNAPP OF DEPART-MENT OF AGRICULTURE TALKS TO FLORIDA MEETING.

WHERE AND WHAT TO DO

Recommends Adoption of Trust Methods in Marketing of Farm Products.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 15.—Beware of the plausible real estate agent who promises you a fortune from a five-acre tract of land in Southern Georgia or northern Florida, when the land is used for the production of fruit and vegetables for the northern market. This warning was voiced Saturday by Dr. Seaman A. Knapp of the department of agriculture, who delivered an address on the agricultural problems of this section of the United States. In his opinion results could be obtained from any tract under twenty acres, and forty would insure better returns on the investment.

Incidentally, Dr. Knapp advised the truck farmers to adopt trust methods in the marketing of their produce. He pointed out the beauties of co-operation in fighting the competition offered by the fruits and vegetables of the West Indies, which reached the northern markets earlier than those of Florida and Georgia.

"In the present condition of things," he said, "it is absolutely necessary to have quite a large body of men; that is, it is just as important that a good many truck men be in one locality as it is to have a number of stores to make a city. The single trucker is at the mercy of commission men and every other class. He can neither buy fertilizer to advantage or sell his products. By a complete organization and stationing a man in the great cities to receive and deliver the shipments, the business can be carried on with reasonable safety."

The government expert also advocated the erection at the point of shipment of cold storage plants by the agricultural trust. This, he pointed out, would save a heavy toll now levied on them by the cold storage houses in the cities.

"Another feature where large business is done is the ownership of your own cars," he continued. "I note that nearly all the large manufacturers, the beef men, the manufacturers of furniture and of wagons, own their own cars. This might be to the advantage of the truck men, provided there are enough of them combined to own cars that are better adapted to shipments than they have at the present time."

The principal fault with the soil of this section, in Dr. Knapp's opinion, was that it has not been properly fertilized. The farmers and gardeners of northern Florida and their neighbors over the Georgia line, he believed, were not awake to the advantages that would follow a scientific enriching of the sandy loam that covers this section.

"The great value of sandy loam soils," he said, "when they are properly improved by the removal of stumps and the plowing under of green crops or use of sufficient stable manure, is that they are easily worked. They are warm, they force vegetation along rapidly and they seldom suffer from excessive rains. For gardening purposes it is better to make a soil about fifteen inches deep, possibly twenty inches would be better."

As for fertilizers, Dr. Knapp expressed his astonishment that the farmer had not awakened to the fact that they had in the muck of the swamps and the fallen leaves of their forests a far better article than the commercial fertilizer. A composition of these, with the addition of some acid phosphates and, in ordinary years, with some cotton seed or cotton seed oil added, would enrich the land amazingly.

The expert sounded a note of warning to those who listened to the siren song of the real estate speculator that fortune awaited the farmer who properly worked a five acre patch of land in this vicinity.

"I advise that no one should buy less than twenty acres, and I believe forty acres is better," he said, "because it is not wise to depend upon a single crop. A single crop plan is just as much a failure in trucking as in anything else, and some orcharding is necessary. It may be oranges, it may be peaches or pears, or whatever it is, with the pasture and meadow and the rotation of crops on land it is seldom advisable to buy less than twenty acres."

Dr. Knapp, who is delivering a series of addresses in the South on agricultural subjects is scheduled to speak at Greenville, Miss., on Monday.

REV. NOLAN'S ADDRESS AT DIAMOND JUBILEE

The following sermon was delivered by Rev. Father Nolan on the occasion of the diamond jubilee of St. Mary's:

Rt. Rev. Abbott, Very Reverend Fathers, Venerable Sisters and Dear Brethren of the Laity:

I am happy to say that it is an honor conferred upon me by addressing you on this memorable event—the event of the Diamond Jubilee of the St. Mary.

Ninety years ago the Rev. Mensart, O. S. B., seeing the ravages the revolutions of Europe had made upon the church chose a few young girls to assist him in planting the Faith, this number grew as time went on till 75 years ago, the Holy See recognized the community of good women, who bore the title of the Sisters of St. Mary. After spreading in Belgium, some of the members volunteered to come to America which they did in 1862, and from New York they were invited by bishops to other states, coming to Texas in 1872.

Their first school in the southwest being in Waco where at the close of the first term the registry was 16, but is now several hundred.

Schools all over the state are now under the direction of the Sisters of St. Mary and Wichita Falls should indeed count herself lucky in having so worthy an institution and show their appreciation by patronizing it.

Think of the countless multitude of individuals benefited by this order in these past 75 years, the great numbers of little minds opened up under their genial influence and the darkness in their intellect, dispelled by the light of life; the numbers who have attained the knowledge of right living!

Those who are today—it is true, have not the difficulties of the first members, but the obstacles with which they meet are countless in number and varied in shape, they must have as great a degree of heroism, of virtue, to surmount these obstacles.

When Rev. Goessene spoke of having a community of Sisters at Wichita Falls, he was derided, laughed at. Wichita Falls where there were no Catholics—where would they derive their support? But five years ago I predicted that in a short time the capacity of the Academy of St. Mary Immaculate would be too small. Those who know the facts will they not say, I am right! Now how comes it then so wonderful an institution should have made such rapid progress? What is the underlying principle of their great success?

In this, that they are loyal to duty and are devoted to the needs of their fellowmen. Behind the walls of their cloister, unknown to the world, practicing rigidly their vows of Poverty, Chastity and Obedience, they have ever before their minds their fealty to Almighty God, around whose feet they are chained by these sacred vows.

The world beckons to them also in their youth sought to lure them by its vain charms, its frivolities, but faithful to the call they cling to the Bridegroom whom they serve with the most perfect homage that poor frail nature can.

And as some of the first laborers of the great organization of education have already received the reward of their noble sacrifices—so may those yet toiling when they are summoned to the marriage-supper of the Lord, may they receive the full measure of their reward from the hands of the Divine Bridegroom.

Mrs. G. L. Talley.

Mrs. G. L. Talley died yesterday morning at 10:20 at her home in this city after a lingering illness, aged about fifty-seven years. Mrs. Talley has been a resident of this city for many years and was the widow of Capt. G. L. Talley who died about two years ago. She is survived by one son, Spencer Talley.

The funeral will take place this afternoon from the family residence, 1616 11th street and the services will be conducted by Rev. Colby Hall. Interment will be in the Riverside Cemetery.

Get It Under Cover

It's a good deal cheaper to build good, weatherproof sheds than it is to buy new machinery. The elements will injure an expensive machine in one season more than the wear it gets from legitimate use.

Of course you know that as well as we do. If you have a costly machine that's standing out in the field or the barn yard, get it under cover. We are this week selling good common boards at prices that will make it very much to your advantage to settle the shed question at once.

Let us name you a price on what material you need.

"THE MISSOURI GIRL"

Rural Comedy Pleasing to Audience Here.
 A large audience witnessed the "Missouri Girl" at the Wichita Theatre Saturday night and the production proved very pleasing. It is better than other shows of that description and is replete with comedy of a spontaneous and refreshing sort, with a plot of unusual interest.

A Few Words That Mean Many Dollars To You

You can easily understand that in a business like ours its quite impossible to tell beforehand exactly how many suits and overcoats we shall sell. If we could do it we would buy more than enough. A clothing Store without any clothes in it, sold out clean would be a funny store.

We always have a surplus, must have, and we always try to dispose of this unsold surplus by quoting special low prices on it; it's bad policy in such a business as this to carry winter goods over till next fall—we don't do it.

We're selling what we have left of fine, high class clothes at prices that are very seriously less than real value. Among them are all sizes, many splendid patterns, correct models. They're now at special low prices.
