WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JANUARY 20, 1910

NUMBER 215

SENATOR DEFENDS KENTUCKY'S NAME

BRADLEY TAKES FLOOR OF SENATE TO RESENT RECENT SLANDERS.

ON TRUSTS, NOT RIDERS

Blame For Conditions Is On Monopolies, Not Upon the Nightriders, He Says.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—Replying from the floor of the senate to a recently published newspaper article on nightriding in Kentucky, its causes and results, Senator Bradley of that state today uttered vigorous protests against what he declared was the injustice and falsity of the story. He took exception to the assertion in the article that conditions in Kentucky today are lamatable, as he himself acknowledges in his speech they were in 1907 and during a portion of 1908. During that period, he said, he had denounced the disgraceful conditions "and there is no Kentuckian who loves his state," he added, "who has condoned them."

The inspiration of the article, he declared, is easily discovered. "But a short time ago the so-called independent tobacco buyers met in this city, their purpose being to relieve themselves of legislation passed at the last session of congress and the whole object of the attack is to prejudice the mind of congress, of the president and of the department of justice against the tobacco societies of Kentucky in order that the so-called independents and their allies may cause, whether justly or not, proceedings to be inaugurated by the government against these societies under the Sherman anti-trust law.

After glancing some of the history of the events leading up to the passage by the Kentucky legislature of the statute allowing the farmers to pool their crops, Mr. Bradley asserted that "the trusts and not the nightriders are responsible for all the crimes committed within the borders of the state in connection with the tobacco troubles."

INSURANCE SECRETARY MAKES INQUIRY HERE

The correspondence below relates to the recent insurance rate increase here and is self-explanatory.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 13, 1910.
Mr. G. D. Anderson,
Wichita Falls, Texas.

Dear sir:—Having received the specific rates of your city, based upon the new rates adopted on the first of the new year, I would be glad if you would favor me with an expression as to how they affect your city. There will, no doubt, be a change in the rate of every risk in town, and I would ask that you be kind enough to advise me of a few cases showing great increase and reductions, also as to the general average of same. Kindly state if there has been any demoralization in rates lately, and who was getting the benefit of same.

Your reply will be greatly appreciated.
Yours truly,
ROBT. M. HAMBY,
Secretary.

Wichita Falls, Tex., Jan. 13, 1910.
Mr. Robert M. Hamby, Sec.,
Austin, Texas.

Dear sir:—I am in receipt of your letter of the 13th. In reply, beg to advise that our city is very much worked up over the unreasonable increased rates on the business property in this city. It was my impression that the business people in our city had always paid fair premiums for their insurance protection.
There has never been a demoralization in the rates in this city and at present, I am unable to account for the exorbitant rates in the principal part of our business section. Our Chamber of Commerce yesterday appointed a committee, of which I was made a member, to be present at your first meeting, which, we understand, to be the 27th of this month, at which time I hope to be able to further explain the situation more fully to your honorable body.

Yours, very truly,
G. D. ANDERSON.

YOUNG MEN VOTERS TO TAKE OUT EXEMPTIONS

Wichita Falls, Tex., Jan. 20th, 1910.
Editor Daily Times:

Please call attention to all young men who have become twenty-one since Jan. 1st, 1909, that before they are authorized to vote must secure a certificate of exemption, as prescribed in Section 23, Acts of 1905. (Page 527).

In the local option case which went up from Potter county the San Antonio Court of Appeals expressly held that this law applies to every young man becoming of age after January first of any year, and this certificate must be secured before February first. (118 Southwestern Reporter, 893).

I do not really think it would be necessary under this law for them to procure a certificate except from the county collector, but as I have not examined it carefully, think all who live in the city should also get a similar certificate of exemption from the city tax collector to be safe.
Yours truly,
R. E. HUFF.

Texas News Service Special. Austin, Tex., Jan. 20.—E. B. CAN REDUCE RATES IN SEVERAL WAYS

COMPANIES HAVE SENT MAN HERE TO SHOW OWNERS HOW TO LOWER CHARGES.

CAN TAKE PRECAUTIONS

Rates Can Be Lowered in Practically Every Instance at Little or No Cost.

G. E. Russel of Dallas, representing the insurance actuary of that city, is in Wichita Falls today to explain to the property owners regarding the insurance rates which were recently raised. He is staying at the St. James and all who feel that their rates are unjust can hear from him why the increase was made and what steps can be taken to reduce the rate.

It is surprising how easily the rates can be reduced in many instances. The merchant who keeps wooden boxes piled up back of his store can reduce his rate twenty-five per cent per $100 valuation by removing them. The man who failed to put a zinc under his stove thereby increased his rate five cents. Putting in a door or window at some dangerous point will materially reduce the rate in many instances and the rate can also be cut down by discontinuing the storage of gasoline and similar combustibles on one's premises. In several of the cases which were considered this morning it was shown that the rate could be reduced even lower than it was before the increase. In many instances a substantial reduction can be secured at a very small expense and in other cases by no outlay at all.
Mr. Russell will be here for some time and will be able to attend to the needs of all property owners along this line. He is representing all the leading companies and was sent here by the order to bring about some relief from the present situation.

The Times is authorized to announce M. F. Yeager as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Judge of Wichita county. Judge Yeager was appointed to this office by the Commissioners' Court after the death of Judge W. P. Skeen, serving out the unexpired term and has been re-elected to two full terms, this being his record. Ruring his economical administration the financial affairs of the county have been well looked after and much of the credit of this is due Judge Yeager. He is a democrat and now submits his claims as such to the action of the democratic primaries to be held in July.

In this, as in nearly everything, there is a woman in the case, and notwithstanding she is a college graduate and now moves in respectable society circles, has served three terms for offenses against the law.
Some arrests that will likely prove sensational, are likely to follow within the next few days.

NEW GAS COMPANY BEING ORGANIZED

CAPITAL STOCK TO BE TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND AND LIST IS GOING.

WILL SINK TEST WELLS

Large Portion of Capital Stock is Already Subscribed—To Start Work Soon.

Work is now under way on the organization of the stock company which it is hoped will bring cheaper manufacturing gas to Wichita Falls and the subscription list has been started. The capital stock of the company is to be twenty-five thousand dollars, divided into shares of twenty-five dollars each. About one-tenth of the stock is already subscribed and it is believed that the entire amount will be taken when an active canvass is made.

It is proposed to sink test wells in the vicinity of this city and leases will be taken of desirable property where gas is believed to abound. With gas wells at Electra on the West and at Petrolia on the east, it is thought that this section of Wichita County is in the belt and an effort will be made to establish this fact.

It is stated that the company is being organized, not with any idea of fighting any concern already here, but with the sole purpose of securing gas for this city at a cheap enough rate to be an inducement to manufacturing concerns. As soon as the stock is subscribed, the company will be chartered and it is hoped to begin work on the wells by the first of March. The adaptability of gas to manufacturing businesses of all descriptions has already been demonstrated here.

HEALTH MILITIA IS PLAN OF ROSENAW

HARVARD PROFESSOR SUGGESTS NOVEL IDEA TO LIFE INSURANCE PRESIDENT.

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE

Not Real Soldiers, But Militant Organization of All Good Citizens To Promote Health.

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—“There is more typhoid fever in this country than in any other civilized land,” said Dr. H. J. Rosenau of the Harvard Medical School, Boston, Mass., in an address delivered in this city today before the third annual meeting of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

“The annual total is 35,000 deaths and over 350,000 cases. This is a national disgrace and is due entirely to lack of education on the subject. We probably know more about typhoid and its methods of spread and the means for its control than we do of any other disease. Yet right here in our capital city there is an excessive amount of typhoid and this sad story finds repetition in all our large cities. If the public were taught to fear typhoid as it does a case of cholera, there would soon be an end of it.”

“In advocating a public health militia in the cause of preventive medicine, I do not mean a marching column of men in uniforms armed with microscopes and disinfectants. The public health militia that I have in mind calls for the enrollment of all good citizens. Preventive medicine is the watchword of the hour and enlistment in the cause can come through education.”

“There are two important factors in public health work. One is the gaining of new knowledge through scientific research; the other is the diffusion of this knowledge through education. With prophetic foresight and characteristic energy, Harvard University has established a chair of preventive medicine as an integral part of its educational system. Not only the medical profession, but the public at large should be enlightened. The scientific and professional corps may be the regular army, but the public must be the reserve militia in any effective warfare against disease.”

“When the people understand that typhoid fever is as preventable as are railroad accidents, we shall have a case-bell, and the courage needed for a victorious campaign. The government now protects us from cholera, leprosy, yellow fever and other epidemics or exotic plagues; why should it not also guard us against the dangers that are present, as well as those that are but remotely imminent? Present dangers, such as tuberculosis, pneumonia, typhoid fever and infantile diarrhoea are infections which reap the highest tolls of death among us and are foemen worthy of our best efforts.”

“When this matter is better understood, the states will be required to protect their citizens against such preventable diseases and the officials appointed to safeguard us will be held responsible just as the law now holds employers liable for preventable accidents. Organizations like life insurance companies, with their legions of doctors, armies of agents and hosts of patrons could lend an effective and useful hand in this worthy warfare against disease. The life insurance officials, not only as organizations, but as individual citizens, could, and should, help in this campaign of education, and ought to foster fruitful and useful legislation of a public health character.”

“It is the plain duty of the public health militia to see that our governing bodies, whether the federal government, the state legislatures or the municipal assemblies enact public health measures of an obvious, useful and tried nature and also provide for their enforcement.”

A BIT OF VERSE

A Winter Idyll.
Pull down the blinds; shut out the day,
For not a single sunset ray
Hath pierced the weeping sky's dead
white,
And through the evening's waning
light
Slant the long ribands of the rain.

The sparrows, back from copse and lane,
Amidst the pattering Ivy brawl
For lodging next the warm housewall,
And where the sodden laurel leans
To leeward, master blackbird preens
His dragged feathers.

Coughing sheep,
Their wool all mired and matted, keep
Cold company within the net
Where, turnip-strews and wringing wet
The fallow lies—a piteous nook.

Down by the Elms the hedger's hark
Takes one last gleam, as he goes by,
From the fast darkening Winter's sky:—

Let's to the fireside, you and I,
For, looking there, we may descry
Midst burning crater, red ravine,
Lands and adventures we have seen;
Or, tired of that, tell o'er again
(Heedless of shrewish wind and rain)
The pleasant ways I went with you
When woods grew green, when skies flashed blue,
When hills-of-the-valley shared
With hyacinths the glades now bared;
Squirrel-like, taking, of our thrift,
The mind's good vicinal, to uplift
Our hearts from all the garnered store;
What else did God give memory for?
—New York American.

Echoes from Petrolia Oil and Gas Field
“Henrietta's” oil and gas field,
“Oh My,”

It isn't hard to them to —
But if the facts were only known,
Petrolia is the oil and gas field's home.

Oil is at our very door,
For gas we could not wish for more
And if it had not been for our field,
Henrietta would not have lived to make this spiel.

Henrietta's oil and gas field, oh so fine,

We are laying a big 16 inch pipe line,
To furnish gas without the least of malice,
To the two great cities, Ft. Worth and Dallas.

We are so sorry, Oh so sorry,
That they will not ask, from us to borrow.

A part of our oil and gas field,
For we have such an abundant yield.

We would lend it in a minute
And never ask them to return it,
We already have, 250 wells or more
And plenty others, within a stone's throw of our door.

Petrolia is the place of now,
It makes Miss “Henrietta Meow”
To see our oil field developed so
And leave them out in the cold, cold snow.

COLLIER & HENDRICKS

LATENT POWERS OF LIFE INSURERS

THEY CAN DO MUCH TO PROMOTE PUBLIC HEALTH, SAYS LEADING PHYSICIAN.

CAN ACCOMPLISH MUCH

Insurance Companies Have Situation In Hand Whenever They Start In For Public Good.

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—The life insurance companies of the United States have a vast line of original information that could be utilized to promote public health, and they have also an army of 100,000 trained men to make effective and widespread use of this information, according to Dr. Edwin W. Dwight of Boston, Mass., who today delivered an address before the third annual meeting of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, now in session in this city.

"For more than sixty years the life insurance companies of this country have been storing up ammunition and developing an organization which, if properly used, would be almost sufficient in itself to turn the tide in the battle for public health in favor of the forces of scientific effort," he said.

After stating that the forty companies doing business in the United States who are represented in the association of life insurance medical directors, have 80,000 medical examiners and 200,000 agents situated in every nook and corner of the country, Dr. Dwight continued:

"The only line of medical endeavor with which I am familiar, where errors may be correctly checked up; where mistakes of diagnosis are proved without the assistance of the rarely permitted autopsy; where treatment in the future may be definitely based upon the results of the past, is that found in the medical department of life insurance companies. For over a year a committee of the medical directors association has been developing plans for a collective investigation of the experience of all American life insurance companies. Last fall we were joined by a committee of the Actuarial Society, and in October we were so fortunate as to be able to report that all of the companies connected with our two associations had agreed to join in an investigation, which, in extent and importance, has, I believe, never been equalled in the past, and which, I believe, will never cease in the future.

"If this material is so arranged and tabulated as to answer only those questions, which are of immediate importance to life insurance, the companies will gain much; a value greatly beyond the cost, but not nearly all that they should, while the public will gain nothing. If, however, a broader policy is pursued, a policy which will add nothing, or little, to the expense, but greatly to its possibilities, a mass of material will become available, which, if properly handled, will serve to settle once—and perhaps for all time—many of the most vexatious problems which are now disturbing the minds of those most interested in public health and preventive medicine. I believe that the investigation will be handled in this broader and more comprehensive way. It is proposed in this work to cover the ground from 1870 to 1910, and include the experience of all American life insurance companies. A conservative estimate of the number of lives which will be investigated is fifteen million.

"It is perfectly possible to make all of this material available and to furnish a properly controlled vehicle for its transmission to your forces in the field, and through them to the people in every portion of the country without an expenditure of one dollar of a policyholder's money."

What Every Woman Wants.
One of the fondest desires of millions of women is to have beautiful hair.

This desire can be gratified without the slightest risk, for druggists everywhere, and MATER-WALKER DRUG Co., sell a hair tonic called Parisian Sage for 50 cents, that will turn dull, lifeless, unattractive hair into lustrous and attractive hair in two weeks, or money back.

Put the name on your shopping list right now, and be sure and get the genuine. Every package has the girl with the Auburn hair upon it.

Since its introduction in America, Parisian Sage has won unstinted praise from women of refinement who have learned what a delightful and refreshing hair tonic and dressing Parisian Sage is.

Just because the makers are absolutely certain that Parisian Sage is the only preparation that kills the pernicious dandruff microbes, they are willing to guarantee it to banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp, or money back.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and vicinity—
—Tonight, fair and colder. Friday, fair.

Chas. H. Storts of Fort Worth, representing J. D. Kitchen & Company, general insurance agents, New Orleans, was here yesterday looking after the interests of his company. Mr. Storts formerly resided here, and is one of the best insurance men in Texas. When asked about the excessive and prohibitive fire insurance rate as fixed by the rating board for Wichita Falls, he is of the opinion that owners and occupants of the buildings and stocks upon which the insurance rates have been placed by the board out of all reason, can have same reduced or restored to the old rate, and in some instances, even below that, by complying with the rulings of the insurance companies. In most cases, this can be done, Mr. Storts thinks, at small expense to either the owners or occupants. He cited one instance where an occupant had piled goods boxes in his back yard, and for this piece of negligence the enterprising rating man who always makes his appearance when least expected, added thirty cents on the one hundred dollars valation for that item alone. For not more than one dollar the boxes can be removed. This, of course, is the fire insurance man's view of the present situation, but there is another view which is to the effect that even if all obstacles complained of are removed, the insurance companies will still insist on putting up rates out of reason.

It is very consoling to Wichita Falls, no doubt, to learn that while her penalty insurance rate is sixty-four cents, Amarillo's is twenty-five cents higher and Grand Prairie, Handley and San Saba higher still.

It seems a shame to send Bankers Morse and Walsh to the penitentiary when a United States Senator or two would have been much more satisfactory to the people.

The United States Senator who protested against the observance of Lee's birthday in the south yesterday could turn a double handspring inside a thimble.

Subterranean Animal Life.

The underlife of the caves has a world of its own. Animals are born in subterranean caverns hollowed out by streams, develop, reproduce and die while, forever deprived of the sunlight. There is no cave mammal except a rat, nor is there a cavebird. There are no animals that require much nourishment.

Grottoes with underground rivers have the most life. Usually the subterranean life resembles the general types of the country. It has entered the cave and become acclimated there, undergoing divers adaptive modifications. So we generally find, in modified forms, the life of our time. But in some caverns there seems to be the remains of an ancient animal life that has everywhere else disappeared from terrestrial rivers and lives only in certain caverns.

The caverns of modern species that have adapted themselves to underground conditions are sharply separated from the light dwellers. Their skin is whitish or transparent. The eye atrophies or disappears altogether. The optic nerve and the optic lobe disappear, leaving the brain profoundly modified. Other organs develop in proportion. Those of hearing, smell, touch, become larger. Sensitive hairs, long and coarse, appear all over the body.

These changes are produced gradually. In animals kept in darkness it has been possible to see the regression of the eye and the hypertrophy of the other sense organs. With fishes observed since 1900 the absence of light determined a remarkable arrest of growth. Their length was about two inches and their weight less than an ounce, whereas similar fish kept in daylight, reached five inches and two and seven-tenths ounces. — Chicago Tribune.

FORT WORTH'S ATTITUDE IN INSURANCE MATTER

Insurance key rates for Arlington, Grand Prairie, Handley, Amarillo, Wichita Falls and San Saba have been completed and filed with local insurance men giving all these places more than double the Fort Worth key rate. The Dallas rate is not yet announced.

Arlington has the highest rate with $1.07; Grand Prairie has $1.04; Handley, $1.00; Amarillo, 89 cents; San Saba, 82 cents, and Wichita Falls, 64 cents. The Fort Worth rate is 31 cents. Probably the highest individual rate quoted on any property is that listed for one piece of property in Amarillo. The insurance, if carried on that building, would cost a premium of $36 for each $100 of insurance. It is declared this is due to the condition of the buildings, uses and surroundings and in justification of the amount of the rate it is pointed out that at present none of the companies carries the property at all.

Fort Worth is not satisfied with the 31-cent rate. Tuesday afternoon the business men's committee, headed by W. G. Burton, W. J. Bailey and William Monning held a conference with Mayor Davis and members of the city commission and got them to agree to donate $1000 of the $5000 fund planned to contest the Fort Worth rate. Such an allowance can not be made before the regular session of the committee next Tuesday. The Fort Worth hearing is not set until January 27th.

Insurance men express perfect confidence that the rate will be found good. They cite cases where changes made at small cost for the purposes of coming within the requirements of the regulations remove the high penalties against many pieces of property. They say this is not only beneficial to the property owner but to the city in decreasing the general fire-risk. The H. W. Williams Drug Company and the Casey-Swasey risks are cited as examples of reductions under the present schedules.

Another instance cited is that of twelve policies renewed since January 1 by one property owner. While his business property cost more to insure all the residence property was less.

Insurance men, too, say they are not worried by threats to place insurance outside the state. Any effort of an outside company to operate in the state at other than the fixed rates, they say, would result in a penitentiary sentence and the placing of insurance, negotiated and payable in some other state would leave the property owner without recourse against the company so insuring except by going to the place where the insurance was issued to maintain suits. The Texas courts, they say, could not entertain such suits and the cases would have to be tried in New York, or wherever, the insurance was placed.

The business men's committee is now raising the fund started by the city commission. — Star-Telegram.

Tomatoes? YES, FINE ONES

Our tomato stock is one we can talk about freely. Our White House brand is an especially fine article, solid ripe tomatoes packed whole and cans full. More tomato meat in these cans than ever before. Most all of last year's crop was good, a great deal of it was fancy, and White House brand was packed from the fanciest. 17 1/2¢ per can—$1.90 per dozen. Independent Brand Tomatoes $1.35 per dozen

EAT MORE CHEESE

That is good cheese, for it's a fine food. Don't be blinded by the old-fashioned idea that cheese is hard to digest. Poor cheese may be, but good cheese, such as our Burnham, American Cream, is not only easy to digest, but very wholesome and nutritious. The last cheese of this brand that we cut was something very classy and we have another now just like it. Have a pound?

LIFE.

Are not the victories of life worth its struggles? Are not the pleasures worth its sacrifices? Who would not cross swords with adversity to win the jeweled hand of fortune? Who would not dare the desert wastes of death to taste the sweets of glory? Who would not bear the toll and endure the pain in the battle of the day for the joys of the evening around the hearthstone of home, where the festal fires of virtue burn and where confiding innocence gives welcome with beaming bosom and tender arms?

John Howard Payne touched the tenderest chord that vibrates in the great throbbing heart of all mankind when he gave to the world its song of "Home, Sweet Home," for to the old it is the blessed shrine of precious memories; to the young it rings with laughter and echoes with song, and breathes the name of mother; to the weary it is the open gate of paradise; to the disconsolate the vestibule of heaven.

After all, is it not glorious to live and face "the storms that rise dark o'er the way," for the angel of light hangs a rainbow on the bosom of the darkest cloud, and when the angry furies of the tempest rush out from its vapory vaults to harness their thunder-shod steeds to the chariot of the winds, does not the spirit of love whisper on the Gallee of every troubled heart, "Peace, be still."

The world is an open volume of the beautiful, fragrant with the dreams of God. There is a poem in the garden where the tulips drink the dew, and the crimson popples blow; there is a love song in the woodlands, where the wild flowers boom; there is music in the meadow, when the chorus of a thousand larks on thrilling wing is tangled with the passion song of the bob-o-link in the purple of the dawn. —Bob Taylor's Magazine.

UNIFORMITY NEEDED IN INSURANCE LAW

MINNESOTA MAN SAYS COMPANIES ARE GREATLY HAMPERED BY LACK OF IT.

EXPENSE IS INCREASED

Result To Policyholders is Largely Heavier Cost Without Resultant Benefit.

By Associated Press.
Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—Declaring that expense is the only result to the life insurance policyholder from the present great dissimilarity of state supervisory laws, John Hartigan, commissioner of insurance of Minnesota, urged that the third annual meeting of the Association of Insurance Presidents take steps to obtain uniformity.

"Certain uniform insurance laws exist in a number of states, and certain requirements are the same, as, for instance, the form of annual report," said Mr. Hartigan, "but the multiplicity of other requirements is as great, almost, as is the number of states. This lack of uniformity is exasperating, both to the departments and to the companies.

The work of the department is increased and the result of this work diminished on account of the diverse demands of different states. A knowledge of the laws of the home state must be supplemented by a thorough familiarity with the laws of all other states, as companies are governed sometimes by the laws of the home state and sometimes by those of the licensing state. A company complying strictly with the laws of one commonwealth, may find itself, on that account, a lawbreaker in another. As different state laws prescribe different standards for admitted assets, the annual statements show surprising divergence as published in different places. If, for the annoyance caused by this diversity, there were compensating benefits to the policyholders, it might be tolerated, but of these there are none. The only result to the policyholder is increased cost of supervision, which increase he must bear."

After relating various efforts that have been made to obtain uniformity since the convention of insurance commissioners' was organized in 1871, and after stating that the greatest accomplishment in the line of uniformity was the enactment within the last few years in more than twenty states of the laws known as the "Committee of Fifteen Bills," the commissioner said: "If the cause for lacking uniformity has been correctly and properly set forth, then the following remedies are apparent: Action on one subject at a time; agreement between supervising officials and company representatives on proposed laws and amendments to existing laws; a central bureau with the legislatures; education of policyholders and appeal for their support; proper insight into the needs of the business.

"The policy holder must be impressed with the idea that everything that affects a company adversely, affects him in like manner. In considering laws that may be uniformly adopted, personal, selfish desires and ambitions must be eliminated. Only such laws can be generally enacted and retained as tend to the improvement of the business as a whole and any law that will have this effect must receive the support of companies, departments and policyholders. Where laws are the same, interpretations may vary. I think I can assure you that the next convention of insurance commissioners will take up the matter of uniform rulings and interpretations of existing laws. Never before have the departments worked so harmoniously together and the outlook bright for more complete and more effective cooperation."

THE Floral Heights Realty Company wishes to announce to the public that beginning February 1st, they will put on a thirty day sale of lots in FLORAL HEIGHTS with a guarantee that the prices on all unsold lots will be raised 25 per cent. at the close of the sale. This practically insures every purchaser that his lots will be worth 25 per cent. more on March 1st 1910. The sale will be advertised extensively throughout Texas and Oklahoma. Excursions will be run into the city on all railroads and it is expected that nearly every lot in the addition will be sold.

"HELLO, BILL."

Stock Company Closes Here With Comedy Sketch.

The Morey Stock Company closed its engagement here last night with a comedy sketch, "Hello, Bill," which proved to be a very acceptable production. It is based on a series of complications that are very bewildering and which add materially to the fun of the piece. The specialties between the acts were of a very enjoyable nature.

It is understood the company has arranged for return dates here in March.

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS."

At the Wichita Theatre Tomorrow Evening.

It is not often that we are tempted to find fault with a producer of plays for being too generous, but that is the kind of a play-producer Frederick Thompson happens to be. He wants to give too much for the money. As a result of his extravagance, he has made "Polly of the Circus," which appears at the Wichita Theatre tomorrow night, a case of "Polly" and the circus.

There are not to many who will object to this, however. There may be some who will agree with us that Polly is so much more interesting and so much more important to the little drama of which she is a part, than a hundred circuses could ever be that the show scenes should be eliminated. But, probably, there will be as many more who will enjoy the sight of a real lady horseback rider turning somersaults off the back of a real horse ambulating patiently around the inside of a real ring and keeping time to the oom-pah horn of a real circus tune. It is not often playgoers object to being offered too much entertainment, even though the extra measure proves a clear case of assault and battery with the poor old drama as a victim.

"Polly of the Circus" is a pretty appealing story of hearts of the tried and found true type, until the circus happens into it. Then in its last fifteen minutes it tapers off into a commonplace little show piece in which Polly is sacrificed to the scenery and the drama to the twinkling lights.

It is to the credit of Margaret Mayo's play that there should be some disappointment when Polly all but fades away and the circus moves forward. If the first two acts did not make her dear to the audience, no one would care a hurrah what became of her. She might return to the lot and forget all about the young person who had spent a year teaching her how to become a darling in a simple white frock and how to live a different and happier life than she had ever known as an equestrienne extraordinaire, if that be what she were, for all any one would care.

When she develops a charmingly pathetic little character, and, in spite of all the commonplaces of the stage and the most ordinary situations of the heart drama, keeps an audience wondering whether it should be ashamed of its tender heart or proud to cry with her and for her, and is then pushed aside while the scenery acts, it does inspire a kind of resentment.

Polly (it may be stated in explanation) as the heroine in Margaret Mayo's play, met with an accident the day of the circus in which she was riding (as her mother and grandmother had ridden before her) played on a lot adjoining the parsonage of a Methodist church in a small middle western town. Her friends carried her into the parsonage; the young minister had her taken upstairs to the spare bed room, and the circus, of course, had to go on and leave her there.

Polly stayed at the parsonage for eleven months, and in that time wormed herself into the hearts of all who knew her. Then the circus, playing over the same territory, came back to the town and again threatened the lot next the parsonage. In the mean time much had happened. Polly had learned to love the minister, and the young minister had grown to love Polly. But just as they were about to confess their affection, the village gossip made Polly think she was in the way, and she rejoined the circus. The minister followed, however, and met her back by the dressing tent. There it was nearly all patched up, sanely and reasonably, when some one was struck suddenly with the circus notion. To promote the circus, Polly is forced to again break away from her true love and dash for the arena. Then we have the spectacle itself for five minutes, when in dashes Polly, who faints in the center of the ring. Following a back drop tableau with the circus disappearing and Polly being folded to her true lover's choker.

Get It Under Cover

It's a good deal cheaper to build good, weatherproof sheds than it is to buy new machinery. The elements will injure an expensive machine in one season more than the wear it gets from legitimate use.

Of course you know that as well as we do. If you have a costly machine that's standing out in the field or the barn yard, get it under cover. We are this week selling good common boards at prices that will make it very much to your advantage to settle the shed question at once.

Let us name you a price on what material you need.
