

Wichita Falls, Texas

By J. C. Mytinger, Acting Secretary Chamber of Commerce in Texas Banker

Wichita Falls, Texas, with a population of 10,000, is located in Northwest Texas, 114 miles from Ft. Worth and within 16 miles of the state line, at an altitude of 1000 feet. It has six railroads with seven outlets and 28 passenger trains daily; and is the natural manufacturing commercial and distributing center of a very rich and rapidly developing trade territory. It has increased in population 400 per cent since 1900, and 1,500 people were added to it during 1909, while $1,000,000 were spent for new buildings, civic improvements, an electric car line and a lake resort.

The city has every modern convenience for all purposes, such as city water, electric lights, natural gas for domestic purposes and manufacturing use, an excellent sewerage system, 50 miles of cement sidewalks, a modern telephone system, fine churches, two National and two State banks, and a first class system of schools both public and private.

Arrangements have been perfected whereby a boys' school, to be conducted along the lines of the most successful schools of this character in the North and East, will be established in Wichita Falls this year in time for the fall session, beginning in September. This school will be one of the best of its kind in the Southwest.

Along manufacturing lines, Wichita Falls has the cheapest natural gas in Texas, for manufacturing, being 9 3/4 cents per thousand cubic feet. It has the largest flour mill, brick plant and broom factory in this state, besides a cotton oil mill, two cotton gins, foundry and machine shops, railroad repair shops, iron culvert works, marble and cement stone works, a candy factory, bottling works, two ice plants, a glove factory, seven lumber yards, two planing mills, two sheet metal works, a creamery, water and light plant, etc. Its location, raw material, abundance of water, coal and oil nearby, natural gas, and an enterprising citizenship, equips Wichita Falls as an exceptional manufacturing center.

Wichita Falls possesses the largest wholesale grocery house in Texas. Inbound freight rates from Chicago and defined territories are the same to Wichita Falls as to Dallas and Fort Worth, while jobbing rates are decidedly in favor of Wichita Falls owing to its nearness to trade territory, as its nearest competitive point is Fort Worth, 114 miles away.

Our citizens are afforded the best of banking facilities through the two National and two State banks, whose officials are as follows:

- First National Bank—Robt. E. Huff, president; W. M. McGregor, cashier.
  - City National Bank—J. A. Kemp, president; P. P. Langford, cashier.
  - First State Bank—T. J. Taylor, president; T. C. Thatcher, cashier.
  - Wichita State Bank—J. C. Candy, president; B. E. King, cashier.
- The altitude of 1000 feet causes a dry atmosphere free from the humidity of lower altitudes and the extremes of higher sections. Sunshine largely predominates. The winters are mild and summer nights always refreshing.
- At Lake Wichita, five miles south of the city amusement features are being provided for at a cost of $150,000. The lake covers 3,200 acres and is the leading amusement resort of Texas. An electric street railway line with excellent service, connects Lake Wichita with the city of Wichita Falls.
- Wichita Falls has one of the best-equipped and best-supported commercial organizations in the state—the Chamber of Commerce, with 300 members and an annual revenue of $12,000. Through its efforts Wichita Falls has become widely known, and few communities have such a united citizenship.

Two rich river-valleys—the Wichita and Red River—traverse Wichita county. The country is generally a rolling prairie, free from stumps or rocks, and one man can break from ten to twelve acres per day with a gang plow of three to five plows. Corn, wheat, oats, cotton hay, peanuts, broom corn, forage crops, fruits, melons, and vegetables, poultry and dairy products are the principal products.

In early days Wichita county was the leading wheat section in Texas. Cotton followed wheat; but few farms are now found restricted to one crop. Corn produces on an average 35 to 75 bushels per acre; wheat, 15 to 30 bushels per acre; oats, 40 to 90 bushels per acre; cotton, one-third to a bale and a half; peanuts 40 to 75 bushels; broom corn, one-fourth to one-half ton. Hog raising is especially profitable in this county.

FASCINATING HAIR

Easy to Stop Hair Falling Out, and Dandruff Also.
No one doubts that it is the duty of every woman to look as charming as possible. Every woman knows why she wants to be attractive and beautiful.

A woman with scant hair, dull and lifeless has lost half her charm. How many times have we heard the expression 'the crowning glory of a woman is her hair.'

Nowadays, thanks to Parisian Sage, almost every woman can have hair so radiant and so glorious that it attracts, fascinates and compels admiration.

Parisian Sage, the scientific and ideal hair rejuvenator and tonic, will cause hair to grow. It will turn harsh withered hair into lustrous and bewitchingly luxuriant hair in a few days.

It is a most delightful hair dressing that kills the dandruff germs, stops falling hair, and eradicates dandruff in two weeks or your money back. Go to Weeks Drug Co., and buy a large 50 cent bottle on the money back plan.

Trusts Got Most of the Profits.
Bonham News.

In a recent speech Senator Bailey said he was glad to see high prices, because the farmer is now getting a reasonable profit on his crops. The objection of the average consumer is not the price that the farmer gets for his cattle, hogs and grain, but the unjust toll levied by the trusts that prepare these products of the farm for the consumer. The senator advises the city dweller to content himself with less than choice cuts of beef, but the city consumer will not be content as long as the packing house buys beef cattle at 5 cents while he is compelled to pay 18 and 20 cents for cuts not choice, and, in some places, more for choice cuts. The prevailing high price of food-stuffs can not be laid at the door of the farmer. While he profits by them to a certain extent, others profit still more.

Paper Money Not Modern Idea.

From Harper's Weekly.
Paper money—properly certified—is now generally recognized throughout the world as the most satisfactory and convenient form of currency. It is not, however, as is very generally supposed, a comparatively modern idea.

The celebrated traveler, Marco Paulo, of Venice, was the first person to announce to Europe the existence of paper money, in China, under the Moguls. It was subsequently introduced by the Moguls into Persia where their notes were called djos, or djaws, a word evidently derived from the Chinese word schiao, signifying 'a want of specie.'

The fact of the Moguls having, in China and Persia, made use of paper money, has induced the belief that they were the originators of it. But in the history of Tchinghis-khan, and of the Mogul dynasty in China, published in the year 1729, the author speaks of the suppression of the paper money which was in use under the dynasty of the Soung, who reigned in China previous to the Moguls, and he also mentions a new species of notes which were substituted for the old in the year 1264.

The original financial speculation of the Chinese ministry, to provide for the extraordinary expenditures of the state, which were exceeding the revenues, was in the year 119 B. C. At this period were introduced the phi-pi, or value in skins. These were small pieces of the skin of deer, which were kept in a pen, within the palace walls. They were a Chinese square foot in size, and were beautifully ornamented with painting and embroidery. The price of those skins was fixed at a sum equal to about $65.

Fifteen-Cent Cotton.

Winnsboro Free Press.
It is very questionable whether or not 15-cent cotton will prove a blessing to the people. It depends entirely on what the farmers do about it. Just following the war cotton was 15 to 25 cents a pound, and the result was the farmers cut down their fruit trees and planted cotton; the women turned their gardens into cotton patches. Farmers brought their bread and meat from St. Louis and went heavily in debt to the merchants of the country. They planted 20-cent cotton and traded accordingly; and the consequences were that cotton began to fall in price because there was so much made, and left a heavy debt saddled on the farmers, so much so that many of them never did come out. Now the same danger confronts us. We think cotton is a certainty at 15 cents and we will raise no corn, neglect our stock, grow no fruit or vegetables, leave it for some one else to raise the hogs, abandon our truck farms, go headlong into debt; the present crop is overwhelming, prices drop to 5 cents—and there you are. As sure as you live, there is danger ahead and we only sound the warning.

WE ARE LAYING FOR YOU

And the way we are doing it is keeping the best wire fencing in stock. Before deciding on the wire fencing most suitable to our particular trade, we investigated all the leading makes. Our object was to get the strongest fencing; fencing that would stretch up the easiest; would not sag when run over uneven ground; was animal proof and so constructed as to best withstand the ravages of time. The fencing that we found to most nearly combine all these desirable qualities was the Pittsburg Perfect Welded Wire Fencing. So this is the fence we not only offer you, but advise you to take. It costs no more than other fencing of inferior quality.

Training Men in the Duties of Citizenship.

An interesting story appears elsewhere in today's News showing how the American International College at Springfield, Mass., is working to fit European immigrants for American citizenship. It is a work which greatly needs to be done, and on a very much larger scale than that institution is able to do it, if American citizenship is to withstand the deteriorating influence of this immigration. To put the ballot every year into the hands of hundreds of thousands of aliens who scarcely speak our language, know little of our institutions and less of our problems, is of course to make ourselves the victims both of ignorance and crime. For when they do not vote in accordance with their own feeble judgments, they vote at the behest of some political boss, and in either case the wisdom that ought to be generated in the ballot box, is considerably diluted. If they are unfit to discharge this, the simplest duty of citizenship, how much more are they unfit to perform the larger tasks and to exert an influence for good! Such work as the American International College is doing is not only important, but indispensable if we are to exercise an ordinary sense of prudence.

But, unhappily, it is not only the newly arrived immigrants who need to be educated in the duties of citizenship. We have multiplied thousands who, though to the manner born, manifest a sense of civic duty that is only fractionally better than that of the newly arrived alien. None of our schools below the grade of a college teach much that bears directly on the duties of citizenship; some of them nothing whatever. A few observe flag day; but about the only idea those exercises instill in the youthful mind is that if his country should become involved in war it would be his duty to grab a gun and shoot straight in his country's behalf. It may be that there is some need to instill that sanguinary idea in the minds of the boys, but if there is a need, it only increases the need of teaching that good citizenship requires a vast deal more than an alacrity willingness to shoot and to be shot at when a war drum is sounded.

A youth gets very little, if any, such instructions in the lower grade schools, perhaps not much more than from such mottoes as may be hung up to ornament his class room. Perchance there is one to admonish him that peace has her victories no less than war, and that suggestion is apt to germinate into the vague notion that when he "grows up" he can vote, pay taxes and serve on the jury. He will regard those functions merely as privileges, until, growing up, he begins to observe the practice of his elders, when he is apt to revise his notions radically, and conclude that, instead of being privileges all those functions are burdens which he is to shirk, if he can. So instead of paying, he will seek to dodge his taxes; instead of serving, to swear himself off the jury, and if he thinks a vote worth the cost of a poll tax receipt, it is not unlikely to be because he wants to favor a friend or support a policy in which he has a special interest. The idea that he misuses the power of his citizenship when he suffers his vote to be controlled solely by personal partiality does not occur to him; the notion that he is under the obligation to study the problems of government and to voice his conclusions at the ballot box would probably be hooted as a fantasy if suggested to him. As to tax-dodging, that he regards, not as something that taints his citizenship, but as something that decorates him as a business man; while his only concern with jury service is to deplore the success of tricky lawyers and denounce judges for tolerating professional jurors.

The idea that to vote, pay taxes and serve on juries is a duty which he can not shirk without tainting his own citizenship was probably never suggested to him at a period when to plant an opinion is almost to assure it the strength of a tradition. And yet these are the simplest and most elemental duties of citizenship. If to them men are so little sensible because of their lack of political education, how quixotic is it to expect them to discharge the larger and less obvious duties of citizenship! A man with a keen sense of his larger duties as a citizen and ready to perform them becomes a Cleveland, a Folk, a Pinchot, a Roosevelt or a Ris. Is it not the rarity of their example that makes them so conspicuous? Is it, under the circumstances, remarkable that indifference should be our National besetting sin; that cliques and cables and rings should so largely control public affairs and use public institutions to promote their private ends? Is it remarkable, since so little is done to impress men with a sense of their civic duties, that some of the profoundest thinkers of the world believe that our institutions are menaced more by the indifference of citizens than by any other single force?

It seems to us that such facts flow too naturally and directly from palpable cause to make them remarkable as phenomena. However ugly their import, however sinister their suggestion, they are facts which we would do well to look at without blinking, for the better we look at them, the more likely we are to remove the cause of them. This American International College is doing a valuable, a necessary work. But there is a task outside its domain that also needs to be performed. We need, also an American National College for those who, when they went to school, got no instruction in the duties of citizenship and have had their ideas formed by practices which weaken the integrity of our government. They have been affected with the laesae-faere principle, which is the hookworm disease of politics; the disease that makes men not only indifferent but tolerate to every evil, to every injustice that does not encroach within the little circles which their complacent selfishness has drawn about themselves. It is the disease which enables men to witness gross abuse of power in high places with silent acquiescence, protesting against it never, and often excusing it on the pretext of miserable technicalities. It is the disease which makes many idolatrous worshippers of worthy men and instills a superstitious reverence of forms and ceremonies, blinding them to the reality of things done. It is a mental malady, an atrophy of the conscience, that while it may not be wholly curable in elders, may at least be prevented largely in those whose minds are still plastic.—Dallas News.

LIVE STOCK ON RANGES.

Absolutely Confidential Treatment of the Answers to Census Enumerators.

Washington, Feb. 15.—The United States Census Bureau is making extraordinary preparations to ascertain the approximately exact number and value of live stock on the ranges in the United States on April 15 next, the date of the livestock inventory, as required by the act of Congress providing for the Thirteenth Decennial Census.

Fearful that one reason or another the live-stock raisers may be deterred from freely stating the number and value of their holdings, the Census Bureau is exerting unusual efforts to assure the ranchmen and farmers, especially of the western range states, that their interests, whether personal or corporate, can not possibly be affected in any way by their frank and full disclosure of their live-stock possessions. The information gathered by the Census office is held strictly confidential not only in respect to the fact that under no circumstances is it ever imparted to any one not connected with the Census Office, but in respect to its ever being given to any other branch of the Government.

"In behalf of the Census Bureau," today said Assistant Director William F. Willoughby, "I can give as positive assurance of the confidential treatment of information called for by the live-stock questions in the general agricultural schedule as I could if a confidence were to be imposed upon me personally and privately. The Census Bureau is concerned only in the collection and publication of statistical facts. The spirit of every act of Congress providing for the various decennial census has been, and is, that the information as to individuals, firms, and corporations is to be given inviolable secrecy. It is as much 'privileged information' as that imparted by a client to a lawyer, by a patient to a physician, by a dying man to a minister. It can not even be imparted to another branch of the Federal Government, no matter how much the information may be desired. No court ever has or ever will ignore this 'immunity' from personal or business involvement required by United States Census inquiries. To do otherwise would impair, if not wholly destroy, the scientific efficiency of the census work. So far as the live-stock census is concerned, the bureau, following fair, impartial, and unbiased methods, quickly separates the person, firm or corporation from the facts furnished, and private or corporate identity in connection with any census data remains forever sealed and sacred in the great safes of the Census Office."

In his annual report of 1909 to Secretary Nagel, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Census Director Durand stated:

"The thirteenth census act is more specific than that for the Twelfth Census with respect to penalties upon supervisors, enumerators, or other employees who disclose information which they secure, or who make false returns. While there is no evidence that employees of the Census Bureau in the past have been guilty of improper disclosure of information—except, possibly, in a very few cases—these more specific provisions for penalties are highly advantageous. Although the census law requires persons interrogated to furnish the information called for on the duly authorized schedules, reliance for prompt and accurate returns must rest largely upon the good will of those making the returns. Manufacturers, farmers, and others will not freely disclose the needed information unless they feel assured that it will be treated in strict confidence. The Census Bureau exists solely for the collection of general statistics, and is not, and should not be, an instrument for disclosing the affairs of individual persons, firms, or corporations. Returns made by the Census Bureau are in no case published in such a way as to identify the business operations of individual persons or concerns, nor are they disclosed to any person aside from employees of the bureau itself—not even to other departments of the Government or to other bureaus of the Department of Commerce and Labor."

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and Vicinity. -Tonight, fair and continued cold weather. Friday, fair, with slowly rising temperature.

The Times takes this opportunity of urging upon every citizen qualified to vote in tomorrow's election, the necessity for his going to the polls and recording his vote in favor of all three of the propositions up for consideration.

There are a number of towns in Oklahoma, smaller than Wichita Falls, with blocks and blocks of paved streets. A little nearer home is the town of Bowie, much smaller than this city, with several blocks of brick streets.

The mayor of Amarillo has issued a proclamation naming March 10th as clean-up day. Last year Wichita Falls did likewise, and an army of teams and men responded.

While the contract for the boys' school was not signed up until yesterday, it has been a lead-pipe cinch ever since grand old Wichita looked at the proposition and said: 'We want it.'

Beyond a question of a doubt, Dr. Rankin is doing more to solidify the Colquitt vote than any other one man, with the possible exception of Mr. Colquitt's campaign manager.

Wichita Falls is to get a railroad connection with Ardmore, Okla., by extending their Petrolia line across the river to the northeast.

The Daily News observes with considerable interest that at a meeting of republicans in San Antonio, it was decided to 'put out a full state ticket.'

Amarillo has just closed a deal by which she disposes of her $100,000 worth of school bonds for the sum of $103,290, a premium of $3,290.

There are a good many towns in Texas that would be content to gain in a whole year what Wichita Falls has been favored with during the few short weeks of 1910 that have elapsed.

Sleet, snow, rain, wind, thunder and lightning were all features of the weather in Wichita Falls yesterday.

Of course, your vote may not be necessary to carry the bond election tomorrow, but you'll feel a whole lot better for registering it, just the same.

The Texas congressmen may not be able to get their anti-future bill through, but they made the cotton gamblers stop and look around to ask, 'Who threw that brick?'

The government's new 16-inch gun on Sandy Hook can be felt six miles away when it is fired.

Captain Osborn denounces Peary as 'a selfish egotist and braggart.'

The reform ticket was defeated in Philadelphia Tuesday. Anybody with nerve enough to try to reform Philadelphia ought to be kept out of office for all time.

While it has been snowing in Wichita Falls lately, it will not be necessary to have a funeral on sleds, as was the case in the poor freezing north recently.

No man ever begins to realize how homely and common-place he looks until he is in the photograph gallery with the camera pointed at his face.

CLIPPED FROM EXCHANGES.

This meat boycott business seems to have made a general hit with the whole people, and there is no telling what the outcome will be.

Somebody says that within ten years everybody will be living in glass houses. Many people are living in them now, but you'd never imagine it to hear them talk.

Anyhow, if the dear people cannot be gratified with a special gathering of the legislative boys at Austin, it will be less than a year now when there will be a general gathering of them up that way.

If there is a single department of the National Government which has not been investigated in the last few years, it only shows that the party in power is slow in its movements along this line.

There are 500 to 1000 large boxes of crackers coming to Sherman every week. The manufacturers of crackers is said to be very profitable.

Twenty-five hundred people passed through Fort Worth one day this week en route to points on the Texas and Pacific road.

Texas' vagrancy law is a commandment to swat the slothful and the slippery is the way the Fort Worth Star-Telegram interprets the act under the recent decisions of the Court of Appeals.

Since seventeen of the county's richest thirty-three men are farmers, no wonder can be expressed that so many farmers of the county ride in autos.

Agricultural colleges in other states are establishing short winter courses in agriculture for actual farmers, and the same thing will be adopted in Texas.

The amateur gardener is on the firing line now, and he is going to do a good work. Gardening never offered more returns than at the present time.

Though it will be a year or two before the Rockefeller lazy bug commission gets around to Texas for expert observation, nobody seems to be making any pessimistic observations or even caring a darn about it.

They do things in a peculiar way up at Austin town. For some time the D'Hanis independent school district has had an $8000 bond issue on the market.

The meat strike, which was discussed at length last week, continues to spread, but not with such rapidity as during the first few days.

Quannah's overall factory, starting in a small way last year, is preparing to double its capacity. That's the way real towns grow, building their industries up into larger ones.

BURNED PAPER MONEY.

Source of Great Profit to the Government and Banks.

At the redemption windows of the treasury and of the sub-treasuries of the country any silver coin that has not been mutilated willfully and which still is recognizable as from the mints of the United States will be redeemed at face value, this in spite of the fact that the silver in the worn coin may not be worth half its face value.

In the case of the paper currency two-fifths of a note must be presented if it shall be redeemed or a new note issued, and, no matter what the evidence may be as to total destruction of this paper currency, the government regards it as the holder's individual loss with which it is no further concerned. Fire may melt $1,000 worth of silver coins and it is worth its metal value. It may melt $1,000 in gold coins and the mint will pay $1,000 in new twenty-dollar gold pieces for the mass. But the ashes of $1,000 in paper currency is without value.

In the thousands of fires over the country every year involving office buildings, factories, business houses and family residences an untold total of legal tender notes of all kinds are destroyed. Every piece of such paper lost is loss to the holder and gain to the government or to a national bank. It is a promissory note hopelessly lost to the holder. It is even more, for in many cases an individual man might redeem his debt obligation if he were assured by the holder of it that the piece of paper to which he had signed his name had been destroyed by accident and by no chance could turn up again against him.—Chicago Tribune.

Muggins is not handsome, and he knows it. When his first baby was born he asked, "Does it look like me?" Of course they replied in the affirmative. "Well," said he, with a sigh, "break it to my wife gently."—London Times.

Amusements

GEORGE PRIMROSE.

George H. Primrose Minstrel.
The name of Gov. Gowen is by no means an unfamiliar one to amusement patrons, for every once in awhile
it crops out from among the countless array of comedy talent and bobs up serenely in a most unexpected manner.
Gov. Bowen, however has for a considerable space been recognized as the accepted leader in the fun monologue line and his reputation was not long in attracting the attention of Manager Bean, who was indeed fortunate in adding this extremely comical Bowen
to the Primrose Minstrel aggregation, which is scheduled to appear at the Wichita Theatre tonight. The advantage that Gov Bowen has, and a very decided one it is too, is that he is as original as he is funny and that the laugh provoking material he uses is as wholesome and healthful as it is unctious. There is an irresistible something about this comedian that leaves a pleasant taste in the mouth
after the convulsive smiles they produce.

BUSINESS OF DAIRYING.

[G.-M. Lambert in Farm and Ranch]

The population of the United States is gradually and surely increasing, and every part of our country is becoming thickly settled. This ever-increasing through demands more food, keener competition and better methods of farming. It has long been known that the dairy cow is the most economical producer of human food to be found among our other useful farm animals.
Until a few years ago very few men were milking cows on a commercial basis. Cows were kept merely to supply the family with milk and butter.
Gradually the far-sighted men began to realize the true value of the dairy cow, and today, dairying is the leading branch of animal industry.

We live in an age of specialization and intensified farming. We cannot hope to farm as did our fathers; our land is more valuable and every acre
must be made to produce its maximum. Farming is no longer a custom, but a cold business proposition,
and must be handled by skilled men.
The general farmer cannot expect to compete in the many lines with the men who put their whole thought,
time and study on a special line. It takes concentrated thought and action
to succeed in any line of business, and as conditions differ, so must the methods of farming differ.

In some shape or form dairy products are used in most every family;
and as long as the population increases, they will continue to use even larger quantities of this precious food.
The time has now come when the farmer must look out for profits. The many years of continual cropping is wearing out his land. He has sold its fertility, still, he must live on his farm, restore its fertility and at the same time make a living. The question is, "How can this be done?"
We answer, "By dairying."

Experiments have proven that will gain 25 pounds of live weight when consuming the same amount of food as a cow producing one pound of butterfat. 25 pounds of live weight, worth 6 cents per pound, amounts to 15 cents, while one pound of butterfat is worth 25 cents. As an economical producer of human food, the dairy cow speaks for herself.

The dairy farmer need not sell any of his farm crops from his farm for the dairy cow will take them all, even the coarse roughage, and change them into milk and butterfat. In selling milk and its products the farmer takes very little soil fertility from his farm.
About three-fourths of all the elements can be returned to the land in the form of manure. The best of calves can be raised on skim milk. The income from a dairy is sure and constant the year round, and the returns are received each day or week,
and the farmer always has his money
on hand with which to meet his daily expenses. There is no need for borrowing money or asking the grocery man to wait until the crop is sold, and if there is no crop, to wait until next year. Market prices for dairy products vary slightly the year around.

We must all concede that the dairy cow is the money-maker, and at the same time she solves the problem of maintaining soil fertility. Being such a useful animal she necessarily requires much thought, care and attention, just as would any other profitable business require. A model dairy does not require a large outlay of capital, but it does require the best of intelligence and care in its management.

Now, I think I have given some of the most important reasons why the farmer should go into the dairy business. The man who specializes to the greatest degree, and in the most Intelligent manner, is generally the most successful, no matter what his line of business is. Until the farmers of this section of country grow less grain and study and develop the dairy industry they cannot hope to become the money-makers that are their neighbors in the highly developed dairy districts.

The crops raised, soil adaption, markets and transportation are all in favor with the development of dairying.
The most favorable argument
for dairying is the constancy of market prices, and the absence of general competition. The object of every man in business is to make it pay, and only those who know exactly what they are doing make it pay. Once started along the right line, you will find dairying a fascinating business and as you study the improved methods of handling and feeding your stock you will in time come to love it. In the terrific struggle for existence—the hardships and grinding toll—you will find the ever faithful dairy cow to be the surest way to restore the soil to fertility and at the same time lift the mortgage from your home. The opportunities for future success now lies with you, what are you going to do about it?

A TALK ON ADVERTISING

In a talk with Joseph M. Weber, the well known actor-manager, that gentleman has some interesting features to present regarding the lithographers' strike which came pretty general before the show man a season or so ago.

"For a while it seemed that this strike would play havoc with managers," said Mr. Weber. "For coming early in the theatrical season, many Broadway producers were caught without any pictured sheets to herald the coming of their attractions. Scores of managers had given in their printing orders to various lithograph houses all detail of the work had been completed, and it was up to the press when the printers walked out. Consequently, the lithograph houses were in a very chaotic state, and conditions not changing the billboard throughout the country soon took on a vacant stare. But, nothing daunted, theatrical managers took the road, for even those who had pinned great faith to billboard advertising heretofore were ready to meet the emergency. As a matter of fact, it was an ill wind that does not blow someone some good. The strike continuing the newspapers reaped a harvest. Money that heretofore had been spent for coloring matter for the big fences eventually found its way into the 'general coffers' of the newspaper office. There was some block matter, printed sheets, pasted about here and there, of course, but the reds and the blues and the greens were sadly wanting. And these sheets, costing less than the lithos, the average manager put the surplus into newspaper advertising, for it was necessary for him to get his attractions to the public eye.

"During the last decade the billboard has become a very prominent feature in the theatrical business; much emphasis has been placed upon billboard advertising. But I think that gradually more attention will be given to newspaper advertising by theatrical men. Newspaper men are drifting into theatrical ranks. Indeed at the present time theatrical managers are begin to see the value of newspaper men as advance agents. And the average press man who has been associated with the newspaper office comes to realize the importance of newspaper advertising. This being the case, he will give emphasis to press advertising rather than fence advertising."

"For the circus, the billboards offer an excellent medium for advertising. I believe. There is an opportunity for keeping the bills before the public for a longer period of time. And, being spectacular-by nature, an excellent impression of a circus may be made upon the billboard. Men go to a circus to 'see'; they go to a theatre to 'hear'. We speak of the 'spectators' under a canvas and the 'audience' in a theatre. The circus ring offers a series of passing pictures, and these may be reproduced with a considerable effect upon the fence. But how are you going to convey the subtle lines of 'Hamlet' and the novel situation of 'The Climax' to the theatre-going mind upon the billboard? A Shakespeare, line may be expressed in a newspaper, and ring true. Undoubtedly, there is an art in billboard advertising. Men who have made it a study for years are engaged in the circus business. They know how to get the best results; they know the value of different colors and they know how to blend the various sheets to secure the greatest harmony. The best billers are in the circus business, because the spectacular sheets afford greater opportunities for displaying and developing their art than the dramatic sheets of a hall attraction.

"Do you know, I believe that the popularity of musical comedy, of extravaganza and pantomime is responsible for the great emphasis theatrical managers have been placing upon the billboard advertising. The chorus girl with her big picture hat offers a good subject for the billboard, and an array of chorus girls, soubrettes and what not, in variegated costumes, make an interesting picture. Some seasons ago, as I said before, printing was reduced to type bills, and very little of that, yet attractions played to successful business all year. Heavy advertising was carried in the papers. Of course my big travesty company playing the 'Merry Widow' with its gorgeous display of costuming offers an excellent subject for the artist. But an episode of a situation or a big scene, such as we have in 'The Climax' cannot be presented upon the boards with any degree of satisfaction. What becomes of your pathos or your comedy or your heart interest on the fence? It falls flat. Even lithos displaying the various acts of melodrama, are far fetched. It is best to tell about the 'rescue' on the old bridge; a picture of such a scene is never very startling.

"I recently saw a 'three-sheet' which showed—in speaking of bills one cannot get away from that word 'show'—(so closely identified is the pictorial sheet with the circus ring) the villain and his accomplice, a woman, in the act of pressing the hero's arm in a book press. The situation was monstrous; the situation might have been told.

"I have often wondered whether the billboard is an American institution. I am in ignorance as to its origin. It might be a reflection of the old 'sandwich' man who now seems passe. At one time this individual was a novelty, and by virtue of his locomotive power, I believe he was more effective than the stationary billboard; he had a greater circulation. And this very circumlocution of the newspaper gives it a power over all other forms of advertising."

"Of course I carry more billing for my theatrical show than I do for 'The Climax' productions. 'The Climax' is a classic, a miniature of light and color which cannot be reproduced upon the fence."
