TOBACCO DECISION NOT EXPECTED NOW

BELIEVED SUPREME COURT WILL WAIT UNTIL IT CAN CONSIDER OIL TRUST CASE ALSO.

CASES VERY SIMILAR

Court Might, However, Find in Favor of One and Against the Other.

By Associated Press. Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—While the Supreme Court of the United States has vouchsafed no intimation on the subject, it is generally supposed here that the decision in the case of the American Tobacco Company, which has already been argued before the court, will not be handed down at least until after the arguments in the case of the Standard Oil Company, which is set for March 14. Attorney General Wickersham, in his motion to advance the hearing of the latter case, described the two as essentially kindred, and suggested to the court that they be considered together.

Lawyers here generally concur in the statement made by Mr. Wickersham to the court, that these two cases together present for its consideration "practically the entire range of modern industrial organizations in this country," and substantially every feature of the "trust question," so far as it falls within the purview of the Sherman anti-trust law. Yet they are not precisely alike; indeed, it is said that in some particulars they are so dissimilar that the court might find in favor of the government in one case, and against it in the other.

The two cases are alike in that they are proceedings in equity to enjoin alleged violations of the law of the land and neither is in its essence a criminal action; in neither does the government seek to procure either imprisonment of individuals or exemplary fines upon the defendants. In both suits the charges pressed are those alleging unlawful combination and conspiracy in restraint of interstate trade and commerce, and continuing monopoly or attempted monopoly, or important elements in interstate commerce.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is attacked as a "holding company." Out of its $100,000,000 capital stock, over $97,000,000 was exchanged in 1899, according to the government figures, for stock in nineteen other corporations, engaged in the various branches of the petroleum business.

The American Tobacco Company is alleged to be both a holding and an operating company. It is actively engaged in the tobacco business, owns its own shops and sells the manufactured products. In the case of the Standard Oil Company, the raw product is to an extent produced by the corporation; in that of the tobacco combination, the raw material is purchased.

While the Sherman law does not specifically prohibit the organization of holding companies, the Supreme Court declared in the Northern Securities case that the holding company constituted an organization in restraint of the time of the organization of the of trade and commerce.

The government charges that from the time of the organization of the Standard Oil Company in 1889, a monopoly was obtained; that in fact, for years prior to that, a virtual monopoly had existed, and that the various forms which the conspiracy alleged against the oil company has taken, have been merely adaptations to the changing needs and conditions of the times.

In the tobacco case, it is alleged that originally when the merger was consummated in 1890, there was a monopoly only in the cigarette trade; the defendants claim the control of the business then secured has since materially dwindled.

The Standard Oil's counsel have contended that the corporation which in 1899 entered into the agreements complained of had long since ceased to be competitors. In the tobacco case, the defendants contend that their acts have been confined merely to the manufacturing property; that manufacturing corporations are under no legal obligation to compete—the prohibition being against specific agreements to suppress competition; non-competition as the result of the acquisition of property is, the defendant insists, not a violation of the statute.

Another difference between the two cases lies in the fact that the Standard Oil Company is charged with offense against the Sherman law alone; the tobacco corporations are charged with offending also the Wilson tariff act of 1894, which extended the application of the anti-trust law to any conspiracy in restraint of trade, one party to which was an importer. Furthermore, the government is seeking to establish the rule that a corporation entering into an agreement abroad which in purpose conflicts with American laws, gains no immunity from the fact that such an agreement is lawful in the foreign country.

It is suggested that the commodities handled by the Standard Oil Company may be more properly called "Necessaries of life" than those dealt in by the tobacco corporations.

Attorney General Wickersham in his argument of the Tobacco case expressed the opinion that a different element would enter into the trade in an absolute necessity of life, as distinguished from one that is not a necessity, because such a commodity "was charged with public use, just as much, if not more, than what is called public utility companies."

As the result of the hearing in the circuit courts, other differences were either made or became apparent.

In the tobacco suit, the court did not find sufficient evidence to hold that there was a monopoly in the trade in question, although it did hold that there was a combination in restraint of trade. In the Standard Oil case, the court was unanimous in finding that there was an illegal monopoly, in addition to there being a conspiracy.

BALDHEADED ROW

Early Piety not Always the Cause of Baldness

Inasmuch as it is an accepted fact that baldness, falling hair and dandruff are caused by a germ, doesn't it stand to reason that the only way to prevent such calamities is to kill the germs?

And doesn't it stand to reason that the only way to kill these germs is to use Parisian Sage, which The Weeks Drug Co., has so much faith in that they guarantee it to cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks, or money back?

Parisian Sage is a delightful hair tonic and is pleasant to use. It is not sticky or greasy, and contains only those ingredients that will surely benefit.

It is now sold by druggists all over America and by The Week's Drug Co. for 50 cents a large bottle. It is used extensively by women who desire luxuriant hair with a radiant luster. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package.

The Times is authorized to announce H. A. Fairchild as a candidate for the office of County School Superintendent, which office was recently created by the commissioners' court and Mr. Fairchild appointed by that body to fill it. He is a democrat and announces for the office subject to the action of the democratic primary. That he is well qualified for the office, there does not exist the slightest doubt in the mind of any man who has formed his acquaintance. For fourteen years he has conducted schools, three years in the state of Kentucky and the remainder in Texas, and he knows the school work from the humblest rural school to the best high school. For three years he was principal of the high school in this city and had been re-elected for another year, but resigned. He is a graduate of the East Texas Normal College and holds a permanent certificate. As a citizen he ranks at the top. He has no opposition for the office and is not likely to have. The Times takes pleasure in presenting his claims for the office to the voters of the county and feels satisfied they will act favorably on them at the proper time.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and Vicinity.
—Tonight, fair, rising temperature. Friday, fair and warmer.

The Amarillo News recently published a big "booster" edition, setting forth the beauties and advantages of the Panhandle metropolis. If Amarillo is as the News depicts it, we unhesitatingly admit that she is the second best city in Northwest Texas.

If Wichita Falls had done nothing during the first two months of 1910 except vote the paving bonds and land that boys' school, she would have done herself proud; but just look at the other things she got during that period.

The receiver got only eleven thousand dollars in fees out of the four oil companies which were recently fined. He must be a very modest, retiring sort of an individual.

PROFIT IN CITY-PLANNING FOR SMALL TOWNS.

Dallas News.
The articles on city-planning which The News has been printing are worth the study of any town which hopes that it will grow in comfort and beauty, as well as in size. The articles are rich in both precept and example; they contain not only the views of men who have given much study to the matter, but the experiences of towns and cities which have virtually transformed themselves by determining what they wanted to look like and then directing their energies to the realization of that conception. There are some beautiful towns in this country. But they did not become beautiful by haphazard or accident; it has been the result, in every case, of following out faithfully a carefully conceived plan. Such cities as Detroit and Cleveland, and even such towns as Madison, Wis., have probably got in advertising values enough to compensate them for the energy and money their planning has cost them. But of course the greater profits have been of another kind. Life has been enriched for the residents of those cities. For them living means something more than three meals a day and a bed. Their cities have been made more convenient, and more comfortable and more ministrative to the finer senses. They have developed a keen sense of pride, and at every turn they find something to gratify that sense of pride.

Every town in Texas that expects to grow, no matter how small, can profit by planning its growth. Indeed in one sense, city-planning offers greater inducements to the small towns and to the large towns just budding into cityhood than it does to such places as Dallas and Houston. For the smaller places it is far less costly, and can be done by them much more completely, for the simpler reason, of course that there is not so much ugliness to destroy as a preliminary step. There is a vast deal of ugliness in Dallas, and in every city of its class in Texas, thrice as long as they ought to be, with a consequent dangerous crowding of streets. There is a lack of open spaces in the midst of the city with means of wholesome recreation, no access to free and unincumbered air; while for their children the streets are the only playgrounds, beset as they are with physical and moral perils. Life in this environment, under these conditions, is not a highly attractive boon. There is nothing to exalt men's minds, to uplift the spirit; but there is much in it to generate discontent, pessimism, despair—to make living a routine, sodden existence. He is woefully lacking in understanding who imagines that these conditions are without a very real and sensible influence on the physical, intellectual and moral life of a city. Under those handicaps the latent power there is in society to uplift itself can accomplish very little, if anything.

And what is the cause of this condition in Dallas and in every other Texas city of its class? Fundamentally it is the failure of those who ruled twenty years ago to consider future needs, much less to make any provision to meet them. Their negligence may have been due to their inability to foresee the growth of those cities, or it may have been due to that spirit, happily passing away, which made men regard the growth of a city merely as a chance to make money. Whatever may have been the cause of their negligence, the consequences of it are abundant, unmistakable—and pitiful. They stand as a warning to every smaller town against such costly folly social welfare of a people. We can conceive of only one reason why a Texas town, however small, should not mark the lines of its future growth that is, that it does not expect to grow.

At a meeting of the Wichita Falls Real Estate Dealers Association held late yesterday afternoon, steps were taken to advertise Wichita Falls more extensively through the columns of the local papers, as this plan seemed to appeal more strongly to the real estate men than all others that have been tried heretofore. Of course, it is quite natural for the newspapers to give their hearty endorsement to such a plan. Thousands of dollars have been spent in other ways to give publicity to Wichita Falls, where only a measly few hundred has heretofore grudgingly been given to the local press for such purpose, and yet there is evidence in abundance that more publicity has been given to the outside world through the local newspapers of the advantages offered capital seeking investment and to homeseekers than all other agencies combined. The Times naturally, feels just a little "puffed up" by the modest little compliment tossed to the local press at yesterday's meeting of our live and wide-awake real estate men; not so much because it will, in the event their plan is carried out, profit to some extent, perhaps, but because of the fact that the real estate men, who are as a general rule broad-gauged fellows, have gone on record without any solicitation on the part of the local papers, and acknowledged that the best way in which to give publicity to the development of the city was through the columns of the local press.

The latest dispatches from Washington indicate that Senator Tillman will again recover his health and speech. This is good news to the south, which has had no more able defender on the floors in the United States Senate since the war. Tillman has suffered all sorts of indignities heaped upon him by Roosevelt when he was president, simply because he stood for the south. Of course, southern people are grateful to him for what he has said and done. The only thing to be regretted is that some of the leading southern papers, at the time of the Tillman-Roosevelt incident, took the part of Roosevelt and denounced Tillman rather severely. These same papers have lived to see their error. The name of Tillman will be remembered in every southern home long after the name of Roosevelt is forgotten, or will be remembered only as the man who was made president of the United States by the act of an assassin, and so manipulated things as to have himself elected for another term.

Yesterday's Dallas News contained a picture of Miss Gladys Kerens, daughter of the American Ambassador to Vienna, who is now on her way to join her father. If Miss Gladys took no more wardrobe with her than when that picture was taken, she will shiver powerfully during the blizzards she is likely to encounter on the way.—Bonham News.

When one sees the word "Insurgent" in a headline, he always has to look twice to ascertain whether it means the republican kind or the Nicaraguan variety.

Never before did we so fully appreciate the melody, rhythm and sublimity of that grand old song, "In the Good Old Summer Time."

SAD MOMENT FOR MOTHER

Mrs. Nelson Waited in Vain for Message of Victory.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—"This is the saddest moment of my life," said Mrs. Nelson, mother of Battling Nelson at her home in Hegewisch, as she strove to brush back the tears that coursed down her face last night after she heard of her son's defeat by Al Wogast in San Francisco.

"I hope Battling will give up boxing now. He has been so busy writing and traveling in the last year that I don't think he prepared long enough for the match. No one can ever accuse him of a dishonest act, though, and I dare say he is greater in defeat than had he won from his rival. We watched all afternoon and long until after supper time for word from out West and all of us looked for the same message he had sent us so often telling of victory. I hope he was not hurt. Battling always would stand up and fight until it seemed he must keel over and die. Perhaps this lesson will teach him to give up prize fighting."

David Jayne Hill, ambassador to Germany, and Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell University, are among those prominently mentioned for the republican gubernatorial nomination in New York.

Fighting Against Texas Fever

At the A. & M. College of Texas, Dr. Mark Francis, professor of veterinary science and surgery, and his associate Dr. R. P. Marsteller, have just concluded the inoculation of a lot of fine bred cattle against Texas Fever. Some of these came from the Taft Ranch at Gregory, Texas, some from the Santa Gertrudis Ranch near Kingsville and others belonged to G. O. Creswell of Abilene. The included several kinds of fine breeds, and some of the individuals were prize winners at the last International Live Stock show in Chicago. Dr. Francis has been fighting Texas fever in cattle for twenty-two years, during which time he has been at the A. & M. College. The United States department of Agriculture and scientists concede he has made a great deal of progress in the war. At any rate it is determined that by inoculation cattle can be made immune against the fever, and after the inoculation period has passed the owner is safe to take his cattle anywhere in the fever zone. The death rate was formerly eighty per cent. It is now eight to ten per cent, under the inoculation process. No charge is made for the immunizing work at the College, but owners are expected to pay for the feed for their cattle while they are undergoing the fever test. Thousands of dollars have been saved to owners of fine cattle by the inoculation at the A. & M. College.

PEARL THOMAS.

With "ST. ELMO," Wichita Theatre, Tuesday, March 1st.

"St. Elmo."

Nell Twomey, who has dramatized Augusta J. Evans' novel, "St. Elmo," set himself no small task when he set out to work over into stage form the crowded incidents and dramatic situations of the book. To make clear to an audience in a theatre the characters and motives of the creatures of an author's fancy when deprived of the author's privilege of explaining at length in the printed pages those essential characteristics which go to make up rational human beings, is always the stumbling block of the dramatist when using material originated by another. In a work like "St. Elmo," the task is particularly exacting, for the novel has enjoyed so widespread a popularity since it was written almost fifty years ago, that to make any material change in character to situation would be to offend those to whom the works of Miss Evans are classic. It is safe to say that no other native author ever commanded the attention of a more devoted following than did Miss Evans, in proof whereof, it need only be pointed out that the book is as popular today as it was when new and that in spite of the changing popular taste in literature, "St. Elmo" is also exceptionally rich in descriptive scenes and lengthy philosophical discussions, all of which must of necessity be discarded in preparing the book for stage use. On behalf of Mr. Twomey it is said that he has succeeded in writing a faithful dramatic version, free from taint of melo-drama and in every way a dignified presentation of the southern author will be interested in noting how well the dramatist has done his work, while to those for whom the theatre if of interest only so far as it serves to amuse, a play of great dramatic value has been prepared and expense has not been spared either in scenic features or in securing a cast of players who will intelligently interpret the work of both author and dramatist. "St. Elmo" will be seen at the Wichita Theatre for a return engagement, Tuesday, March 1st.

Baseball Notes.

Hartford has released Tom McCarthy, the former Boston pitcher, to Indianapolis.

Chicago fans are worried over the fact that "Three-Fingered" Brown has not signed his contract with the Cubs.

The only catcher who ever led the National League in batting was the late Mike Kelly. As a member of the Chicago club Mike hit for .388 in 118 games.

Jake Beckley has signed for 1910 with the Kansas City Blues. The exact date of St. Jacob's first appearance on the diamond has been lost. Some declare it was in 1821, while others say it was two years later.

Amendments permitting the state to conduct a hail and tornado insurance, providing a 1-15 mill tax for reforestation and permitting the legislature to exempt timber lands from taxation are among six proposed changes in the state constitution to be voted upon next November by the voters of Minnesota.

Speaking of the elasticity of the English language, did you ever contemplate what a difference there is between being upheld and being held up?—Fort Worth Record.

Some fellow has said one can make a dollar go a long way in East Texas. That's correct, as some East Texas people make them go so far as Chicago and New York, to mail order houses.—Nacogdoches Sentinel.

With 200 Denton County boys growing an acre of demonstration corn each in Denton county this year and hopes Dealers in Mebane cotton seed are put to their wits end to fill the many orders for planting seed now coming in. Mr. Mebane generally has his supply before it is grown. The demand for the seed is the best evidence of their excellence.—Lockhart Post.

A demonstration hog farm has been established in Athens behind which is a combination of Fort Worth capital. Demonstration hog farms have proven successful and beneficial elsewhere and will doubtless be a good thing for Athens.—San Angelo Standard.

An exchange wisely says: The merchant who believes he can ignore the influence of a local paper with impunity is a little off his balance. The newspaper has but one thing to sell—and that is space. The merchant has numerous articles to sell and needs the patronage of the people to make his business a success.—Hallettsville Herald.

Nacogdoches folks have formed a county fair association and propose to make this year's event a derby winner in that section of the state. Why not feature a tobacco show along with the fair, demonstrating the evolution of the plant from seedling to cigars. Help Texas top the list in all things that make for peace and prosperity.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

To get some idea of how fast the world is progressing it is but necessary to think of the sinking of the Kentucky last week. A few years ago the ship and crew might have gone to the bottom and none been the wiser for a month afterwards. The wireless call is heard 1500 miles off, and is answered by a boat a hundred miles away in time to rescue the imperilled crew. Mighty is the march of invention, especially in the field of electricity.—Belton Journal-Reporter.

A New York subscriber inquires: 'What is a yard egg?' Of course, it is but natural that New Yorkers should be mystified, because there are no yards nor hens in New York. A yard egg, however, is a Houston egg, laid in a Houston yard by a Houston-born hen that is fed on the choicest vittles in the land, escorted by the most pompous and aristocratic chanticleer and permitted to scratch in the neighbor's flower and vegetable gardens. The yard egg eaten makes the maidens, matrons and widows beautiful and the men strong, chivalrous and solidly democratic.—Houston Post.

Beaumont has three of the largest rice mills in the world. Handles 550,000 bags of cleaned rice annually. That town claims to be the center of the rice belt of Southwest Texas, being in Jefferson county, which produces one-sixth the rice crop of the United States. The Beaumont Chamber of Commerce is determined to take advantage of the high living agitation to direct attention to the food value of rice grown in that section. That organization claims that the profit demands of dealers puts rice in the luxury class when it should be a staple food, cheapest and most nutritious available. One pound of rice cooks into four pounds of sustaining and strengthening food.—McKinney Courier-Gazette.

Long, Lithe Lines that Express Suppleness and Grace

THERE! We have given you the story of Corset styles in one brief sentence. You, madam, who are posted in fashion matters will realize its truth at once. You will likewise see that Gossard Model 'F' carries out Fashion's dictum with remarkable faithfulness.

These are the corsets which are built according to the tenets of the 'New School' of corset design. Through 'New School' methods every seam and gore is placed with scientific precision—every bone is located with the accuracy that obtains in adjusting the balance wheel of a fine watch.

Every Gossard Corset is boned with Electrobone, a boning which in resiliency and strength excels whalebone. The basis of Electrobone is high carbon clock-spring steel, which is the only quality considered adequate to mould the figure to the exquisite Gossard lines. And the only quality that can be rust-proofed without destroying its flexibility.

But in commending the Gossard Corset to you, we particularly call your attention to the fact that in the Gossard we are showing not merely a model for every figure, but a 'long model' for women of every height and build. This is an innovation that you will appreciate.

The Gossard is the American modification of the original French front-lacing corset. Its constructive principle is: that beauty and hygiene should have their closest union in a corset that essays perfection. The beautiful sculptured back and the adjustable front-lacing features of the Gossard are the product of this principle.

It is the only corset that has the unqualified approval of physicians. Instead of injurious pressure, it affords support for the organs, compels a correct standing position and carriage, and imparts that poise which never fails to elicit the admiration of the beholder. The proof of the corset is in the fitting.
