

IN SOCIETY'S REALM

A WOMAN WHO UNDERSTANDS.
Somewhere she waits to make you win,
Your soul in her firm white hands—
Somewhere the gods have made for you
The woman who understands.

As the tide went out she found him,
Lashed to the spar of despair—
The wreck of his ship around him,
The wreck of his dreams in the air—
Found him, and loved him, an gathered
The soul of him to her heart;
The soul that had sailed an uncharted sea—
The soul that had sought to win and be free—
The soul of which she was a part;
And there in the dark she cried to the man
"Win your battle—you can—you can!"

Helping and loving and guiding,
Urging when that was best,
Holding her fears in hiding
Deep in her quiet breast;
This is the woman who had kept him
True to his standards lost—
When tossed in the storm and stress and strife,
He thought himself through with the game of life
And ready to pay the cost;
Watching and guarding—whispering still,
"Win—you can—and I know you will."

This is the story of the ages;
This is the woman's way;
Wiser than scores of sages,
Lifting us day by day;
Facing all things with a courage
Nothing daunt or dim;
Treading life's path wherever it leads,
Lined with flowers or choked with weeds,
But ever with him—with him;
Guardian, comrade, and golden spur,
The men who win are helped by her.

Somewhere she waits, strong in belief,
Your soul in her firm white hands;
Thank well the gods when she comes to you—
The woman who understands.
—J. Appleton, in Progress.

O, woman, whose form and whose soul
Are the spell that the light of each path we pursue;
Whether sunned in the tropics, or chilled at the pole,
If woman be there, there is happiness too.
—Moore.

How sweetly sounds the voice of a good woman;
It is so seldom heard that, when it speaks,
It ravishes all senses.

Baptist Church will hold a business tendance is desired.

The Florals spent one of the busiest afternoons at the home of Mrs. Butler Moore, with Mrs. Dr. Mark Moore as their hostess, on last Tuesday.

It was the occasion of getting the flower seeds ready for the school children. After every little envelope was sealed and labeled, ready to be addressed to its owner, our kind, girlish hostess had a most dainty refreshment ready for her company of workers.

On Thursday morning the seeds were carried to the different school rooms and left in the care of the teachers to be handed out to the pupils.

The Floral Club felt that their efforts had received a partial reward when so many little eager hands went up when questioned about the sweet peas that had been distributed some weeks ago. With very few exceptions, every pupil reported their peas were coming up.

When the Tenth street school was reached, we were greeted by a little story about a certain little row of sweet peas that is being watched and tended by a very sweet little girl, Mary Bonner Campbell. The sunshine that was on her face as she told in her childish way all about it, lighted up the remainder of the day for us and shall be thought of when we sum up the pleasures we've reaped by helping the children to become active in a work for civic righteousness that shall find flower and fruitage in their lives when they have grown to manhood and womanhood.

There are many vacant lots in our town that grow up in weeds every summer; there are ways that these vacant places may be made to make a more pleasant appearance. Vegetables might be grown on the lots—Irish potatoes, beans or the common cow pea would look much better than sunflower weeds and tin cans.

We have expressed these ideas to the president of the Retail Merchants' Association. His views were favorable. He thought that our merchants would gladly give the vegetable seed to the Floral Club for that purpose.
Our mayor encouraged the committee of ladies whose complaints were that so much stock and chickens were being allowed to run at large. Immediate attention to the matter was assured them.

We meet next week with Mrs. H. A.
Oripp. The program will be strictly literary and a great time is anticipated. The science of housekeeping:
how made easy, is to be one feature of the occasion, by Mrs. Thatcher.
Response to roll-call—Household hints.

The Easter Lily Elf

"If love were like the lily," as once a poet said,
I'm sure this sheaf she carries would kiss her lips so red.
If I were like the lily I couldn't help myself—
I'd simply have to kiss her, this darling little elf!

Oklahoma Dynamite Mystery Has Been Solved By a Setler.

Tulsa, Okla., Mar. 26—Last December, on the west side of the Arkansas River near here, the ground and trees at a certain spot were found torn and broken as if they had been the target for a battery or artillery. Scattered around were fragments of a man's clothing, and in a nearby tree was the forearm of a man, bearing a tattoo mark. It was apparent that a terrific explosion had taken place, but nobody could be found that knew anything about it.

The other day Sheriff "Hy" Thompson received a letter, mailed in Kansas by some unknown person saying that the writer was one of three men—all safe blowers—that were present at the time of the explosion. He was the only survivor. He and his companions had been making "soup," a mixture of dynamite and wood alcohol, used in safe blowing. The writer of the letter had gone to a small stream for water. The "soup" exploded while he was on that errand. He said that one of the dead men was "Bennie" Burns, known in many states as an expert safe blower. He asked that anything left of the bodies be given decent burial.

Burns boasted that there was no kind of safe he could not blow, and his expertness led him to make a unique proposal to Tilghman, just before he was taken to the penitentiary. Burns asked one day that he be removed from his cell, as he wished to talk privately to Tilghman. After his request had been granted, Burns said: "Now, if my talk doesn't go, Tilghman, forget that I ever spoke a word to you. There must be a lot of money in that bank across the street, isn't there?"

He was told that probably there was not less than $100,000 in the bank's vaults.

"Well," said Burns, "if you'll supply me with the dope, we'll wait for a dark, stormy night, when the wind is high, so that the sound will be deadened, and I will blow the safe and divide with you. I can get back into jail in a minute or two, and nobody will ever suspect the game. If you think I might not play fair, take in another man and have him stand where he can shoot me if I try to get away. I'll bury my share of the money and come back and dig it up after I have served my time."

"That's about the smoothest scheme

I ever heard of, Burns," Tilghman replied, "and if I were in the business I'd shake hands on it—I'm not greatly in need of money, however, and will have to turn you down."

Debate upon the postoffice appropriation bill.

Mr. Ellerbe (S. C.)—When the sun shines hot, and in the language of my friend from Alabama—(Mr. Heflin), "You can see the heat waves sizzling in the atmosphere;" when the man behind the plow leads his tired mule into the shade and slakes his thirst with deep draughts from the old oaken bucket; when even the negro, product of the tropics, drops his hoe from exhaustion, we look down the glaring road and cuss the rural carrier for being late. And when the icy breath of winter has frozen the streams; when the drifted snow piles high in the deserted roads; when the lifeless log roars in the chimney and the children count their dollars in the sparks; when we drive the shivering cattle into comfortable sheds lest they freeze to death, we greet the carrier's cheery call often with a muttered complaint because we have had to wait an hour or two for our favorite paper.

Ah, gentlemen, it takes grit and grace to be a rural carrier, and I tell you now, it is going to take greenbacks as well if we wish to have men fill these places who will be a credit to Uncle Sam.

There was a young maid from Illaria, Who was wooed by a brave rural carrier.

But she said we can't live On the pay that they give, And so the poor chap couldn't marry her.

But now the young girl of Illaria, Asks us to remove this sad barrier, She says one thousand per Sounds all right to her, And if he gets that he can marry her.

NIGHT RIDERS.

Gang Attacked Negro Recently Near Grandfield, Oklahoma.

Special to The Times. Grandfield, Mar. 26.—On Monday night a band of about a dozen night riders riddled Rev. Geo. P. Howard's farm house northeast of Grandfield, with bullets and shot, in an effort to kill a family of old harmless negroes who have been in the Howard family for a quarter of a century, and who were in charge of the premises. Every window in the house was shot to pieces, and it is remarkable that the negroes suffered no more serious injury than fright. Just before the band left they notified the negroes to leave the country within twenty-four hours or they would return and kill them and hang the preacher.

Tom Pickett was notified of the outrage and spent the following day in an investigation, with the result that he had Sheriff Frank Carter come down. Together they worked on the case all of Tuesday night and all day Wednesday and brought five young men in from north of Devol, whom they charged with attempted murder. Those arrested were W. D. Franks, Hinkle Franks, Code Bigbe, Virgil Garrett, and T. J. Moyers. The first three made bond in the sum of $1,000 each, and the others failed to make bond and were taken to Frederick. They all claim their innocence.

A preliminary examination will be held before Justice of the Peace, Walt Smith, on Saturday, April 2nd. The officers claim they have evidence that will send some of the defendants to the pen. They also tell us that there has been a regular night rider organization adopted upon the Tennessee and Kentucky plan, formed for the purpose of keeping all negroes out of the country, and for taking the law in their own hands under cover of darkness and enforcing their demands. Several people have suffered at their hands and the examination will prove startling. The organization seems to be very complete, and more arrests are expected. Devol seems to be their headquarters.

Northwest Expects Big Apple Crop. Spokane, Wash., March 26.—Recent reports from all parts of the Pacific Northwest indicate bright prospects for a large apple crop this year. Leading orchardists in the Inland Empire are predicting that the harvest this year will break all records. Its subscription books and press room records are open for inspection to those who have a right to such information, and who want evidence of the above statement.

THE TIMES PUBLISHING CO.,
—259-tfc ED HOWARD, Manager.

It is reported that a little girl in Del Rio sold a litter of pups for two bits and gave the money toward a railroad bonus. And yet, even in Wichita Falls, there are some specimens of humanity who can be coaxed to dig up for a similar cause only with the aid of dynamite and a stomach pump.—Wichita Times.

The Del Rio little girl is entitled to have a station on the new railroad named for her. The widow's mite is a very respectable contribution, of course, but the sacrifice that West Texas child made in exchanging a basket full of real pups for an intangible interest in an unmade railroad deserves first place on the list of heroic come-acrossings.—Dallas News.

Gainesville has the right idea. Here's, hoping the road she is to build will be at least half as successful as the Wichita Falls and Northwestern, which will be going some.

Those Pittsburg grafters who failed to confess in time to keep from being indicted should have heeded the call to the humanity bath—"Come in, the water's fine."

Clean-up Day will give us an opportunity to see just who have the welfare of Wichita Falls really at heart and who are merely stalling.

AS TO THE FREE PASS LAW.

Geo. P. Slaton, candidate for state senator from this, the 29th senatorial district, is sending out his campaign literature, and the Times hereby acknowledges receipt of it, from which it takes the liberty of reproducing the following excerpt:

"I notice with some degree of astonishment that a few of the newspapers of this district are demanding that the anti-railroad pass law be amended so as to permit the editors to carry a pass in their vest pockets. There is no reason given as to why that class of citizens should be exempt from the anti-pass law. There is no reason given as to why our newspaper editors are less susceptible to the unholy influence that a pass might have, than our merchants, doctors, lawyers, farmers and other classes. Let the anti-pass law stand as it is, barring everyone from the influence of the free railroad transportation. The doctrine is "equal rights to all, special privileges to none." As above stated I oppose any amendment of the anti-pass law which would give certain classes "free passes" and especially our newspaper editors. They claim to be the "molders of public sentiment," and to a great extent, such claim is well founded. Hence, the greater reason why our newspaper editors should not be allowed to carry a "free pass" and in return thereof be handed by the railroad companies, ready made editorials and news items to be published in our papers for the purpose of influencing and misleading the general public."

It will be noticed that Mr. Slaton although he thinks himself qualified to represent the upper house of the Texas legislature, is ignorant as to the anti-pass law. The Times has no knowledge whatever that any newspaper man in the State of Texas ever carried a "free railroad pass," even before the anti-free pass law was enacted, and none of the editors are now contending that the law be amended so as to give to them this privilege, provided the railroads are willing to grant it. Some of the newspaper men of the state are contending that the anti-free pass law does them a great injustice when it forbids them to sell their advertising space and take in exchange for it transportation over the various railroads, but as for the Times, while it must agree with the newspaper men and other men who have nerve enough to discriminate between right and wrong, that the anti-free pass law is unjust to the newspapers, it would rather see the law stand as it is today, rather than take chances on amending it and probably get one that would permit the giving out of free passes indiscriminately, as was the case before the anti-free pass law was enacted. The newspapers of the state, judging from information in possession of the Times, have paid full value for every mile of transportation issued to them by the railroads, and in addition to this, did not use more than one-half the transportation for which they paid full value. When Mr. Slaton says the newspaper men are contending for a law that will permit them to carry "free passes in their vest pockets," and is ignorant on other matters as this, in the humble judgment of this paper, he is not the man the sound, conservative people of the 29th senatorial district should send down to Austin to look after their interests, and assist in the enactment of sane and just laws. As for the Times, it wants no amendment made to the anti-free pass law. It is satisfied to pay its car fare just like other people, and if everybody is required by the law to pay their transportation, it will not be a great while until the railroads will voluntarily reduce cost of transportation, and, in the event they will not do this of their own voluntary act, then the people of the state will be perfectly justified in appealing to the railroad commission for a reduction in transportation rates. Mr. Slaton should have posted himself better before making the unjust accusation against the press, and he will, no doubt, have cause to regret his action before the campaign is over.

It is stated that the Glidden tour matter is "up to Wichita Falls." Which of course is just another way of saying that it is a cinch.

The Times is authorized to announce G. W. Filgo as a candidate for the office of county commissioner of precinct No. 1, subject to the action of the democratic primary to be held in July. Mr. Filgo has been a citizen of Wichita County for the past 17 years. In the conduct of his own business affairs he has been a success, and if elected to the office to which he aspires, he promises to give to the affairs of the county the same careful attention as he has his own. The Times takes pleasure in presenting the name of Mr. Filgo to the taxpayers and voters of commissioner precinct No. 1, and believes that, should they elect him to this office, he will faithfully and conscientiously do his whole duty in looking after their interests.

List of Capitol Graft Trials

Harrisburg, Pa., March 25.—The jury panel has been drawn and all preparations have been completed for the trial of Architect Joseph M. Huston, for complicity in the Capitol graft conspiracy, next week. The defendant is specifically charged with having entered in furnishing 277 desks to the capitol, on which an overcharge of more than $25,000 is alleged, and of making false entries of the number of feet contained in the desks. Huston has been indicted together with four other men, but has been granted a separate trial. The other four men, William Mathews, who was state treasurer at the time the big frauds were committed; John H. Sanderson, the chief "trimmer"; Dr. Wm. P. Snyder, who, as state auditor general, audited the bills of the grafters, and James M. Shumaker, the former superintendent of grounds and buildings, were tried and convicted. The former two died before being taken to the penitentiary, while the latter two, after a hard fight in the courts which extended over nearly two years and ended with the confirmation of their sentences by the supreme court, were taken to the Eastern Penitentiary near Philadelphia, on March 8, of this year and are now serving the two-year terms of imprisonment to which they had been sentenced.

After several postponements the trial of Joseph M. Huston was finally begun before Judge Munkol last January, but the breaking out of scarlet fever in the family of one of the jurors, Cyrus Mowinger, made it necessary to again postpone the trial. It was set for next week and it is confidentially expected by District Attorney John Fox Weiss, that there will be nothing to interfere with bringing the case to a final termination this time.

The history of the new capitol of Pennsylvania, popularly called the "House of Scandal," of the gigantic frauds perpetrated in its construction and equipment, of the subsequent disclosures of these frauds, the indictment, trial and conviction of the men held chiefly responsible for the grafting and of the strange fatalities in the wake of the scandal, would fill a book.

The conspiracy, by which the state was robbed of nearly $10,000,000, was widely ramified. Of the four indicted principals, two died before punishment overtook them, the two now serving their sentences are broken in health and spirits and may not live to see freedom again. One of the principal witnesses, who was also to be a witness in the case against Huston, committed suicide a few days after the subpoena, which for a long time he had evaded, had been served upon him and six other men, more or less connected with the grafting conspiracy, died since the frauds were discovered.

The old capitol was completely destroyed by fire on February 2, 1897, and there is strong reason to believe that the fire was of incendiary origin and had been planned to aid the conspirators to carry out their gigantic plan. Under Governor Hastings, who was in office at the time of the fire, the legislature made an appropriation of $550,000 for a new capitol. That amount was considered entirely adequate and no steps toward rebuilding were taken.

Under Governor Wm. A. Stone, an additional appropriation of $4,000,000 for a new state house was made and a building commission was created to take charge of the work. As later it appeared from the evidence, the grafting did not assume its gigantic proportions until Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker came into office. There has never been the slightest suspicion that Governor Pennypacker was in the conspiracy, or even had the slightest knowledge of its existence, but there is no doubt that his childlike confidence in his officials connected with the work of rebuilding the capitol made it possible for the conspirators to carry on their wholesale looting with incredible boldness.

How cleverly the grafters had covered their tracks may be inferred from the fact that in September, 1905, the state officials announced that the state capitol had been completed within the appropriation of $4,000,000 and that a remaining surplus of $30,000 would be returned to the treasury. Not until State Treasurer William H. Berry had been elected two months later and had made an investigation, was it discovered that nearly $14,000,000 had been expended in building and equipping the capitol. An investigation was ordered by the legislature, which began in March, 1907. As a result, six months later, warrants were issued for fourteen men, three of them former state officials, under the charge of conspiracy to defraud the state. Four of the conspirators were found guilty on March 13, 1908, and on December 18 of the same year they received their sentences.

The trial of Huston, who was indicted at the same time, but who obtained a separate trial, will probably be the last chapter in the history of the great graft.

CLINTON'S NEW ROAD.

Trains Now Running On the Clinton and Oklahoma Western.
Special to The Times.
Clinton, Mar. 25.—During the three days excursions on the Clinton and Oklahoma Western road nine heavily loaded trains were run each way and without any mishap. The road was new, the train new, the crew new and the crowd was the usual restless unrestrained sort.

That no accident occurred is due to the careful train management.

Today the regular schedule is in force which provides for two trains daily each way.

Contract has been let with the United States Express Company to handle the express business of the road.

No telegraph line has been constructed as yet and trains will be dispatched by telephone.

Application has been made to the corporation commission seeking authority to charge three cents per mile fare on the grounds that passengers cannot be carried at a profit at two cents. It is expected that the three cent fare will be established. Meanwhile two cents is the rate charged.

There are a number of Clinton business men who were unable to go on the excursions and they are planning on taking the trip at an early date. Butler is a lively town and the route extends to the Washita River and through a beautiful country.

Something for Lunches

The woman who prepares lunches every day has troubles and difficulties of her own. It is anything but easy to keep on hand suitable lunch foods, especially in warm weather. Many things that are palatable hot, are flat and tasteless cold, so there is little chance for variety.

It is just here that Heinz's Mince Meat helps. Mince pie is fine for lunches, because it doesn't "run" when it is so good.

"Heinz-Made" Mince Meat is just what the home-made article would be if the housekeeper had the Heinz materials and facilities for making it. The person who eats the lunch will enjoy a change from canned fruit pies, jams or preserves. Incidentally, a mince pie might taste good on the home table.

NEW FREDERICK CHURCH.

Ground Broken for Methodist Structure There.

Special to The Times.

Frederick, Mar. 23.—With ceremonies befitting the occasion, ground for the new Methodist church was broken Tuesday morning. The actual breaking of sod was done by Mrs. E. Longwell, president of the Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church, this honor having been gallantly given over by the men of the church to the ladies, because of their devotion to the work which has been done and the labors that are yet to be performed, in providing the necessary funds for the new building.

The ceremonies began at 9 o'clock with Rev. W. A. Shelton, the pastor, in charge. After the singing of several songs and scripture reading and prayer by Rev. Shelton, the latter made a brief address. It was appropriate, he said, that the worship of God on this ground which had been consecrated to him, should begin even before ground had been broken for the building. He spoke feelingly of the sacrifices that had been made and were yet to be made, and called on the chairman of the building committee, Dr. Fair, for a talk.

Dr. Fair spoke briefly and was followed by Rev. Sherman Moore, of the Baptist church, Rev. J. R. Cain, of the Christian church, and Edwin Brown, all expressing a feeling of pleasure and thankfulness at the work about to begin.

The members of the building committee, the missionary society and others then gathered about while Mrs. Longwell, with a new spade, broke ground for the beginning of the excavation for the foundation.

I can make a few choice city loans on long time.

The Finney-Hiett Protracted Meeting.
The First Baptist church is making extensive preparations for the protracted meeting commencing Sunday morning, April 10th. Evangelist L. E. Finney will conduct the meeting. Hugh L. Hiett will lead the singing. Mr. Finney is an evangelist of remarkable power. He is not sensational but leads people to see things as they are. His meetings have been remarkable for the conversion of men and boys. The following is an account of the conversion of a man in the great revival at Monnet, Mo.: "W. S. Brown, brother of E. O. Brown, and secretary of the Car Builder's Union of America, was proud and resisting night after night. Finally he came to the front, got down on his knees and surrendered to God in the old-fashioned way. He got up from his knees and voluntarily stepped on the platform and, calling the attention of the people said: 'Men and women, for years I have been a wicked man; I have gone all the gaits; but tonight God has forgiven my sins and I want to put everybody on notice that Jesus is my Master and men nor devils can move me from the decision I have made.' Then taking a Brewery Worker's Union button from his coat he gave it to Mr. Hiett, then taking an Eagle button from the other lapel, he said to Mr. Finney, 'Brother Finney, here is a button representing my membership in the biggest 'aerie' in the United States; no man can be a follower of Jesus and wear a button like this; I give it to you as a souvenir of this night when I have severed my membership and renounce my allegiance to all such institutions.'"
This is a striking illustration of what the religion of Jesus will do for a sinful man.
A large tabernacle will be erected on Indiana and 9th street in order that the people of the entire community may come to the meeting. We earnestly desire the cooperation of all the Christian people of the city, both in earnest prayer in behalf of the meeting and also in regular attendance at the services. Further announcement will be made later.
JOSEPH F. BOONE, Pastor.

A Correction.
In making editorial mention of the carload of eggs shipped from this city yesterday the Times was in error when it stated that it was the first car ever shipped out of Wichita Falls. It appears that A. B. Patterson and Company have shipped out of this city about 1800 cases of eggs. On the 22nd they shipped to New York one car containing 486 cases, and today are shipping to New Haven, Conn., a car containing 400 cases, making two cars in one week of 886 cases. They have shipped several parts of cars, and are the largest shippers of poultry and eggs in the state, having branches of their business located at several towns in the state.
