Enormuos Cost of College Baseball. To the old-timer who played base ball in college thirty-five years ago one of the most striking differences of the baseball of today is to be found in its enormous cost as compared with the cost then, Like football, baseball has come to be conducted in the larger institutions as a business. The young fellow who plays upon a team, instead of buying his own suit, as we did a generation ago, and chipping in a certain modest sum to purchase bats and balls, finds everything bought for him. Boys who have come from modest homes suddenly find themselves living at a rate which they never before imagined. From the ample receipts of and sweaters are furnished in profusion. The nine is carried about the country in Pullman cars at the expense of the college athletic associa oughly demoralizing to many. Of all the affectation which this business has brought in, there is nothing which seems to us old-timers so absurd as the fad of the college training table. The idea that a young fellow of 18 to 22 who is leading a decent, clean life, eating wholesome food and dividing his time between work and play, must be provided with a special table or baseball, is an affectation so extreme that it is difficult to treat it seriously. It belongs to that regime of extravagance which has come in with big gate receipts and expensive coaches and free baseball suits. The quicker it is dropped the greater respect men will have for the tion and lead a life as college athletics so far beyond their means in luxury and in expense as to prove thorcollege conduct of athletics. How widespread the demoralization is which comes from the use of these large sums, few fathers realize unless their atention is called especially to the matter. In this respect the military schools-for example, West Point have set a better example. It allows no gate receipts. It takes the sudenis .No. 289 off on no expensive trips, and runs its athletic expenses on a modest scale,-From the Evolution of College Baseball," by President Henry S. Remarkable Capture of a Wolf.

"In the winter of 1896-97," says a contributor to the April Wide World Magazine, "I was depot agent at Duncan, Neb., a small town on the main line of the Union Pacific railroad, 99 miles west of Omaha. The weather was bitterly cold. One morning shortly after daybreak, while a man I knew called Herman Ernst, and his assistant were hauling hay a short distance from my station, the former's attention was attracted to a gray wolf standing between the rails on the main line, and as he did not leave the spot on the approach of Herman's wagon, he, Herman, grabbed his fork head close to the rails as if in a trap. After killing the wolf, Herman tore the animal from the rail and was astonished to note that its tongue was left attached to the metals. Subsequently I investigated this curious in cident and evolved the following explanation. The morning passenger minutes before Herman saw the wolf and had run over a jack rabbit, leavmany visitors.

Poets' Descendants Feasted. London, April 5 .- A decidedly in teresting event of a rather unusual character was the banquet which was given in honor of the memory of England's poets, by the Poetry Recital society. The date was especially selected in commemoration of Swinburne's birthday. What made the banquet exceptionally odd was the fact that a large number of well all here today for a three-days' session thenticated descendantts of British has attracted to Amarillo not only a noets had been invited to the func- large number of delegates, but also tion and had availed themselves of the invitations. As many of these guests were quite ordinary tradespecple or belonged to even a lower strat-that the banquet was a rather mixed affair. Among those present were Lord Crewe, the chairman of the banquet; Lady Margaret Sackville, the president of the society; Frank Hart gates has been arranged, including an and some of his brothers and sisters, automobile race meet, which began who are directly descended from Joan, today and will close tomorrow. Lady Wentworth, a great granddaugh. ter of the poet Byron; Miss Mand Southey, a granddaughter of the poet Southey; Mrs. Rivett Carnac, a descendant of George Crabbe; the Duke of Norfolk, a descendant of the Earl of Surrey and the Baroness de Beryouch, a descendant of John Wilmet, the poet Earl of Rochester.

DISPLAY OF FASHION.

Remarkable Show is Booked for England in May.

London, April 4.-What promises to be the most complete and comprehensive display of feminine fashions which has yet been seen is to be held at Holland Park Rink in May. It is a repetition of the Fair of Fashions, which proved so popular in June and July last, with the difference that on this occasion it is to be about five times as large a scale in more central premises.

All the fashion centers of Europe including Paris, Vienna, Venice and Brussels, are arranging to send disthe athletic committee, expensive suits plays to the fair, at which all the principal London houses will also be represented. Coming as it does just before Ascot week, the psychological moment in the world of dress, the fair is certain of an enormous attendance. and it is this fact not less than the success which attended it last year which accounts for the extraordianry interest it has excited among London and continental meists and milliners. A feature of the fair will again be the display on living manikins of gowns by all the well known fashion creators.

Texas Conservation Congress.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 5.-Inspired by a desire to place upon a business basis, the work of conserving the resources of Texas and to learn thru discussion by and with experts of national reputation and life-long experience the best ways and means of making Texas produce more, and of attracting the attention of the nation to the great opportunities the state offers to settlers, scores of public officials, educators, business and professional men assembled in Fort Worth today for the opening of the first Conservation Congress. Every county in Texas is represented at the gathering, which will remain in session two days. In conjunction with the conservation congress there is being held a meeting of the Texas Irrigation Congress, which was organized last January.

The chief subjects scheduled for discussion by the conservation congress are forestry, irrigation, horticultural conservation, the conservation of soil fertility, scientific soil culture, beneficial results from drainage, inland and coastal waterways, the need of uniform irrigation laws, dry warming, animal and bird life and sanitation, the mineral resources of Texas, and irrigation and reclamation in the lower Rio Grande valley. Included among the speakers to be heard during the two-days' session are President S. P. Brook of Baylor University, H. W. Campbell of Lincoln, Neb.; Dr. H. H. Harrington, director of experiment stations; Dr. William B. Phillips of the University of Texas; R. M. Magill of Brownsville, and Mrs. John W Swavne president of the Women's Federated Clubs of Fort

HOPE FOR DEMOCRATS.

If the secretary of the interior stands accused and suspected before his countrymen he has only himself and his official chief, the president, to thank for it. Assuredly everything that has thus far come to pass is inculpatory. In case Mr. Ballinger be innocent, he and the administration behind him have done their uttermost to raise a presumption of guilt.

Let honest and thoughtful men stop and think it over. Immense stores of wealth, the property of the people, lie hidden in Alaska. Certain organizations are openly and notoriously cocked and primed for the appropriation week (mail or carrier).......150 of wealth to themselves. They have had their experts out there to inspect By the year (mail or carrier) $5.00 the field and locate the best things; they have had their agents out there to lay the basis for the present claims. They have their attorneys on the ground and in New York and Washington to find the law for it. They are represented ably, though clandestinely, in congress. All that money and chicane can do to anticipate events, and to thwart justice and right, these land pirates and franchise grabbers are doing and have done, to the imminent peril of the public domain.

There happened to be at the head of the Bureau of Forestry, charged with the conservation of these natural resources, a man having two especial recommendations to popular and official confidence; character, intelligence, disinterestedness and independence, on the one hand, and, on the other hand, preparedness to meet and combat the aggregation of the spoilers by reason of the upright and alert attitude of the administration immediately preceding.

Since Taft has taken so many lessons of Roosevelt, it would seem that he might have given greater heed and consideration to Pinchot. There need have been no question of precedence, or insubordination. But, having chosen for Secretary of the Interior an excommissioner of the land office, who had guit Washington to practice law in Seattle, he took a leap in the dark and invited the misadventures that followed, the shuffling and evasions designed to keep things dark; the summary removal of dangerous witnesses; the final suppression of the sole competent prosecution, and the appeal to the spirit, and discipline of the party in congress and throughout the country for a vindication that does not vindicate through an investigation that had no purpose to investigate.-Henry Watterson in Norman E. Mack's National Monthly for April.

Passover Week, the most important of all the Hebrew festivals, commences this year on Saturday, April 23, and preparations here are already being made for its proper celebration.

The week is observed by Hebrews of all classes, and it is especially important to what are known as the Orthodoz Jews, who still cling to many of the old forms which have been handed down from generation to generation for several thousand years.

It is during this season that the Hebrews must abstain from eating ordinary bread and substitute therefor the unleavened bread, or matso. This is a thin wafer, made from water and flour, salt and all other seasoning or leaven being absent.

While some of the breadaoihrdual While some of this bread is made in the homes of the Hebrews of this city, much if is ordered from great bakeries in cities which make a specialty of preparing matso. A number of orders are now being prepared by bakers for this bread.

In making the bread, whether at home or in the bakeries, great care must be taken to see that all vessels or machinery are clean, or kosher. In the bakeries all of the machinery, the flour and water are inspected by a rabbi and blessed by him. The baking then proceeds. Only eighteen minutes are allowed to elapse from the time the water and flour is mixed until the mateo is removed from the oven. This is because when the Israelites escaped from Egypt they did not take a longer period than this to bake their bread-the original matzo-and according to the modern ritual no longer period is permitted at the present

Training for Matrimony.

St. Louis Post Dispatch: Out of the and an ordinance of this kind ought discussion over marriage and divorce there has come the foundation in Boston of a school of matrimony. Perhaps the result was inevitable. It appears that in these days of excessive talk and more excessive wealth, no sooner does the press find a subject that promises to be a perennial fount cific to Fort Worth. To some people of discussion interesting to the public but that some malefactor of great wealth founds a school to teach it dog-

One would suppose that the prime precept of a school of matrimony for girls anywhere in New England would be; "First, catch your husband." Statistics show that husbands are hard to catch in that section of the United States, and lessons in the arts and crafts of capture appear to be necessary. However, none of them is to be taught. Perhaps the school is designed mainly for girls whose parents are rich enough to buy husbands for them when needed. That much being out of the way, the curriculum of study is wide, but one-sided. The prospectus says:

"The matrimonial course includes the following subjects with which the student must be entirely familiar before she is accredited competent to be a homemaker: Literature, ethics, ed at the fire station patiently for child study, household arts, house building, textiles and sewing, handwork and design, music in the home, Central told them no one had put in literature for children, home econoan alarm and she had told all who mics, chemistry, biology, social economics, hygiene, dental hygiene, home After about ten or fifteen minutes nursing and the care of delinquent

Pineapple

Comes as you already know from the Hawatian Islands. Just as the finest sweet corn comes from Maine, and as Califronia is noted for its grapes, so Hawaiia is the land of the pineapple. As it grows there it is rich, tender, ripe and yellow and as the canning factories are located at the plantations the pines are picked ripe and canned at once which makes them absolutely perfect. You will not know how to appreciate pineapple until you try the Hawaiian varieity.

Pope as a Witness. Pope, like Garrick, made but a poor figure in the witness box. He was 2ited to appear in defense of Bishop Atterbury when that prelate was tried for high treason in the house of lords in 1728. "I never could speak in public," he told Spence afterward, "and I don't believe that if it was a set thing I could give an account of any story to twelve friends together, though I could tell it to any three of them with a great deal of pleasure. Washington, D. C., April 5 .- Speaklug through Justice Harlan, the United States Supreme Court yesterday rendered a decision upholding the constitutionality of the Kennedy gross receipt tax law in a test case instituted by the Southwestern Oil Company, on appeal from the Texas state courts. It was held that the tax is an occupation tax and, cleaving to the decision in the Delaware tax case, it holds that the state can tax one class of dealers without taxing a similar class of dealers or unfurnished rooms with modern in other commodities or without tax-Ad-ling retailers in a commodity the wholesalers of which it taxes. The second question is disposed of on the ground that the matter of penalties is not involved in the case, the state not having sued for or recovered penalties.

THE CABINET LEAK.

Daniel Webster Was Not Long In Discovering Its Source.

Once years ago, when Daniel Webster was secretary of state, there was an important foreign matter up for discussion before the cabinet, and the utmost secrecy was of course maintained, but the whole thing was blazoned about in a few hours after the cabinet meeting. So the president hastily sent for his cabinet to talk over this leak. Each man had a different idea of it.

Finally Mr. Webster arose, saying. "You, gentlemen, go on with your discussion, and I'll be back in a minute." In a few minutes he returned and rewoman for general housework. How Eskimo Women Die.

On her first entrance to her new but of snow an Eskimo woman is buoyed by hope of welcoming a son. What of her last incoming to those narrow confines? She knows that the medicine man has decided that her sickness is mortal when she is laid upon her bed of snow. She gazes upon the feebly burning lamp beside her, upon food and drink set close at her hand. She sees her loved ones pass out of the doorway that needs no tunnel entrance to keep chill airs away, for presently the door is sealed with snow. The chill of death pierces through her enveloping furs. Her tomb insures that long tarrying will be hers. The soul, companioning with her, may refresh itself with food; but, starving and freezing, her feeble body will witness even that boul's departure and know that its hour has come to perish alone.-Harper's Basar.

> To cut in half the death rate from tuberculosis in New York state, outside of New York City, would mean an annual saving of 3,000 human lives. Even to stamp out this disease and to save 6,000 human lives per annum in the Empire state is within the range of possibility. This is the excuse for the strenuous efforts which are being made to secure the fullest and heartiest co-operation of every agency, public and private and of every citizen in our state to carry out the program of no uncared-for tuberculosis in 1915.

In that one word, "restraint," will be found the answer. The Chantecler Luncheon.

Coronado-The international polotournament has given rise to a new diversion for the smart set, which gave it the cachet of approval during the past week. The diversion has been christened the Chanteclerettethe new dance over which all Paris is now raving.

The Chantecler luncheon presumably has evolved from the orthodox method of feeding barnyard fowls and consists in tossing in the air small pieces of cake and other dainties that are caught before they descend.

When the diversion was introduced here a party stood on the veranda of the Coronado Country Clubhouse. Below them, with upturned faces, stood | a group of the most familiar figures attending the polo tournament. Outbursts of hilarity greeted the attempts of the group to catch the morsels that were tossed to them in their mouths. It is not considered comme il faut in Chantecler luncheons to use

Since the stage success of "The Man I From Home," which was supplement ed by a literary success when the Harpers' made a book of it, these two writers have been prolifically occupied at play-writing to the exclusion of almost all else. "I hope some day to get back to writing books," said Mr. Tarkington recently, and he added that the writer can take but a small part in the making of the play, while with a book he can "be himself and say what he pleases." This notably successful author relates how he wrote for five years before he had a single manuscript accepted. During those the first fish alive, but experimented on five years his earnings were just $67, of which the major portion came from a relative "for services rendered;" $20 from the sale of a drawing, part represented two prize essays, "and the rest," concludes Mr. Tarkington with pride, "was earned by shoveling snow for the neighbors."

WASHED AWAY HIS HOME.

His Glever Wife. An Irishman named Whalen found a fortune in a very amusing way, says the Cape Town Argus. With the savings of his wife he bought not far from Ballarat a few acres of ground containing a water pool and a sluggish spring. With the mud and gravel from the bottom of the pool he made sun dried bricks and, building a cabin for himself and family, started a bar for the miners.

Quite contrary to their usual habits, a colony of Chinamen living mear by commenced to visit his bar every night. Then Mrs. Whalen discovered that some one had bit by bit carried off the mud pigstye and its surrounding wall so gradually that it had almost gone before she noticed it. Soon the chimney and the cabin walls also began to vanish. After a careful watch Mrs. Whalen discovered that while one band of Chinamen kept her husband busy in the bar another band was stealing the chimneys and walls.

Whalen knew the Chinamen were no fools, and, acting on his wife's suggestion, he also "stole a pan of dirt" from his own chimney and washed it out. Then he ordered tents for his family to live in and washed away the entire house. It was literally built of gold dust. After that the pool and the spring were also attacked, and the result was a big fortune for the lucky Irishman and his cute little wife.

"Ah, that's nothin'!" said the second. "My father's a dump trimmer, and he's twice as big as yours."

It was plainly up to the stranger to make good. And he did it with much gusto

"My father is a politician," he said, but I heard a man tell him last night that he was the biggest trimmer in this ward."

He leaned back in his chair and gazed at her quizzically. "Baked potatoes all over, are they?" he replied. "All over what?"

A special election will be held April 19 in the Thirty-second congressional district of New York to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative James B. Perkins.

The Federated Labor Party has been organized in Pennsylvania to represent the labor unions in politics. The party proposes to nominate candidates for congress and the state legislature.

A gubernatorial boom has been launched in New Jersey in behalf of Pierre Garvan, the Hudson county prosecuting attorney, whose crusade against the alleged meat trust recently attracted nation-wide attention.

Montana Democrats are plannig a great fight to capture the next legislature. If they succeed it is probable that T. J. Walsh of Helena will be elected to succeed United States Senator Carter, whose term will expire next March.

Minnesota Democrats are laying plans to capture the "insurgent" Republican vote of the state this fall and carry seven of the nine congressional districts. The Third and Sixth districts, it is said, are the only ones they will leave alone.

Eugene N. Foss, who recently wrested the Fourteenth Massachusetts district from the Republicans, is soon to make a western tour "to carry the message of tariff reform and reciprocity." Des Moines, Sioux City, Omaha and St. Paul are among the places where he is scheduled to address Democratic gatherings.

A DEAD STOMACH.

Of What Use is It?

Thousands? Yes, hundreds of thousands of people throughout America are taking the slow death treatment daily. They are murdering their own stomach, the best friend they have, and in their sublime ignorance they think they are putting aside the law of nature. This is no sensational statement; it is a startling fact, the truth of which any honorable physician will not deny. These thousands of people are swallowing daily huge quantities of pepsin and other strong digesters, made especially to digest the food of the stomach without any aid at all from the digestive membrane of the stomach. Mi-o-na stomach tablets relieve distressed stomachs in five minutes; they do more. Taken regularly for a few weeks they build up the run-down down stomach and make it strong enough to digest its own food. Then indigestion, belching, sour stomach and headache will go.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are sold by druggists every where and by Weeks Drug Company, who guarantee them. 50 cents a box.

THE PLANET VENUS.

Night Eternal Reigne Over One-half of Her Globe.

To have the same hemisphere ex posed everlastingly to sunlight while the other is in perpetuity turned away must rause a state of things of which we can form but faint conception from what we know on earth. Baked for acons without letup and still baking, the sunward face must if unshielded be a Tophet surpassing our powers adequately to portray. And unshielded it must be, as we shall presently see Reversely the other must be a hyper borean expanse to which our polar re gions are temperate abodes, for upon one whole hemisphere of Venus the sun never shines, never so much as peeps above the star studded horizon. Night eternal reigns over half of her globe. The thought would appall the most intrepld of our arctic explorers and prevent at least everybody from going to the pole, or, rather, what here replaces it, "through the dark continent." It exemplifies the eventual effects of a force in astronomical mechanics the importance of which is only beginning to be appreciated, tidal friction. It has brought Venus as a world to the deathly pass we have contemplated together. Starting merely as a brake upon her rotation, it has ended by destroying all those physical conditions which enable our own world to be what it is. Night and day, summer and winter, heat and cold, are vital vicissitudes unknown now upon our sister orb. There nothing changes while the centuries pass. An eternity of deadly deathlessness is Venus' statuesque lot.-Dr. Percival Lowell in Popular Science.

OLE BULL

Not a Classical Player, but He Be

The truth is that Ole Bull was not a classical player. As I remember him, he could not play in strict tempo. Like Chopin, he indulged in the rubato and the regions visited, was not in the ed with marrow and sugar. In a pilmood for sonatas or concertos. "Old Dan Tucker" and the "Arkansaw Traveler" were the mode. Bull play d them both, played jigs and old tunes, roused the echoes with the "Star Spangled Tayef. Banner" and Irish melodies. He played such things beautifully, and it would have been musical snobbery to couldn't help yourself. The grand old fellow bewitched you.

A Lesson For Nellie.

Mrs. Washington was a strict disciplinarian about certain matters and as six feet high, broad chested, strong the members of the household to follow the example of her husband and dress for dinner, which was at 3 o'clock. On one occasion Nellie Custis and her cousin, Martha Dandridge, appeared at the table in their morning gowns, but no comment was made upon it until a coach was seen approaching and the visitors, some French officers of high rank and Charles Carroll, Jr., of Carrollton, one of Miss Custis' ardent suitors, were announced. Instantly the girls, in a flutter of excitement, begged to be excused in order to change their gowns, but Mrs. Washington shook her head. "No," she said. "Remain as you are. A costume good enough for President Washington is good enough for any guest of his." Needless to say, Miss Nellie never overlooked her proper garb for dinner again. - National Monthly.

Sensible Sandy.
While passing by an old fashloned inn in Scotland the tourists were attracted by an ancient bagpiper, who was tooting atrocious sounds through an instrument that was both dilapidated and squeaky. "Great Jericho, Sandy!" exclaimed one in desperation. "Why don't you have your bagpipes repaired?" And the old man ceased playing and looked up in astonish-"Havers, mon, ye dinna understand! If ma bagpolpes wor in good tune the inn mon winns give me 2 shillings to move on."

Wind Velocity. The majority of people are unable to determine the wind's velocity. When the smoke from a chimney moves in a straight, vertical column, it means that a one to two miles an hour breeze is blowing. A three miles an hour wind will just stir the leaves on the trees. Twenty-five miles an hour will sway the trunks; at forty the small branches will break, and it takes a mile a minute gale to snap the trunks of hig trees.-London Answers.

STANLEY AS A FIGHTER.

His Revenge on the Africans For Attacking His Forces.

In the following language Sir Henry M. Stanley describes an attack of natives upon his party during one of his African expeditions: "The leviathan bears down on us with racing speed, its consorts on either flank spurting the water into foam and shooting up jets with their sharp prows. A thrilling chant from 2,000 throats rises louder and louder on our hearing. Presently the poised spears are launched, and a second later my rifles respond with a ripping, crackling explosion, and the dark bodies of the canoes and paddlers rush past us,

"For a short time the savages are paralyzed, but they soon recover. They find there is death in those flaming tubes in the hands of the strangers, and with possibly greater energy than they advanced they retreat, the pursued becoming the pursuers in het chase. My blood is up. It is a murderous world, and I have begun to hate the filthy, vulturous shoals who Inhabit it.

"I pursue them upstream, up to their villages. I skirmish in their streets, drive them pelimell into the woods beyond and level their ivory temples. With frantic haste I fire their huts and end the scene by towing their canoes into midstream and setting them

RAVENOUS EATERS.

Gluttony of Soliman and the Appetite of Louis XIV.

Touching the matter of eating, the stories told by the old chroniclers and historians of the abnormal appetites of certain Roman and oriental men of note fairly stagger bellef.

Gibbon tells of Sollman, a caliph in the eighth century, who died of acute indigestion in his camp near Chalcis, in Syria, just as he was about to lead an army of Arabs against Constantinople. He had emptied two baskets of abused the portamento. But he knew eggs and figs, which he awallowed his public. Such a statement would defy belief were not others of a similar character well avouched. Louis XIV. could hardsay that you didn't like them. You ly boast of an appetite as ravenous as Soliman's, but he would eat at a sitting four platefuls of different soups, a whole pheasant, a partridge, a platetouch of the charlatan and a touch of ful of salad, mutton hashed with gar-Liszt in his tall, willowy figure, small lic, two good sized slices of ham, a waist and heavy head of hair. No Chance In History. Mazzini said that he did not believe that chance existed in history. "A cause must necessarily underlie every event, although for the moment it may appear as the result of apparently accidental circumstances, An Alexander, a Caesar, a Napoleon, are not the results of accident, but the inevitable product of the time and nation from which they spring. It was not Caesar who destroyed the Roman republic. The republic was dead before Caesar came. Sulla, Marius, Catiline, preceded and foreshadowed Caesar, but he, gifted with keener insight and greater genius, snatched the power from them and concentrated it in his own hands. For there was no doubt that he was fitter to rule than all the others put together. At the same time, supposing he had appeared 150 years earlier, he would not have succeeded in destroying the republic. When he came the life had already gone out of it, and even Caesar's death could not restore

Scene of "Garden of Allah."

Ella Wheeler Wilcox and her husband are spending some time at Biskara, that strange town that Robert Hitchens made famous by his "Garden of Allah." Possibly no writer has succeeded better in conveying the atmosphere of a locality than Hitchens has of this queer sleeply little town in Africa, which contains about eight thousand Arabs and four hundred French. In proportion it has many more natives than Algiers and therein lies its charm. The natives are Arabs, Kabyles and Nomads or tent dwellers, who lead an easy life, living on cous-cous and dried dates. At night the tourists walk around the streets, which are filled with Arab men and dancing girls of the neighboring tribe of Outed-Nail, who come here for the season. These girls live in two streets and have a hospital devoted to their exclusive use. If sick or injured they are obliged to go there where they receive the best of care.

Since Biskara became celebrated it has, as a rule, been filled with touriats, but the season this year has been poor, both at the Riveria and in Egypt. le Newspaper Making Easy? Men who make newspapers sometimes believe that their profession is an exacting one. They are wrong. It is the simplest calling. Making a newspaper is an easy task. Anybody can do it.

A lawyer without a diploma and a brass sign who would lose a suit even if the other side were ready to confess judgment will tell you how to run a newspaper. A physician who would send his patient to the morgue before the prescription has been filled will know all the fine points of making a newspaper. An actor who never earned any other plaudit than a soft tomato will give instructions in handling the world's news, Even a society person who never paid anything but a call, or made anything but a visit; or did anything but a taflor, knows how stupid those men are who write "stories," edit "copy" wrestle with "hedas" that won't fit, and get the paper out on time.

One reason for the universality of perfection in this trade, among those who do not work at it, is that everybody has been employed in it. It is a most natural thing to meet a man who, when the occasion seems ripe, will not say, "I used to be a newspaper man myself." Every time a man works his country editor for a puff on the strength of a big pumpkin, he graduates in journalism. When he writes a "piece" for "The Squash County Clarion" about a "most enjoyable entertainment" he completes his post-graduate course in newspaper work, and when he writes a communication on both sides of the paper to the editor he becomes a thirtythird degree member of the Tribe of
