WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, FRIDAY, APRIL 8, 1910

NUMBER 282

BUILDING PLANS ARE COMPLETED

NEW SIX STORY BUILDING WILL BE ONE OF THE FINEST IN THE SOUTHWEST.

OVER HUNDRED OFFICES

Will Be Strictly Fire Proof in Con- struction and Modern in Every Particular.

The plans for the six-story office building to be erected at the corner of 8th street and Indiana avenue have been completed and it is now a question of only a few days until the contract is awarded and the work put under way. The plans were drawn by Hubbell and Greene of Dallas, and call for one of the largest and most up-to-date business structures in the entire state.

The dimensions of the building will be fifty by one hundred and fifty feet, extending back to the alley. The front part of the first floor will be occupied by bank offices, while three store rooms will front on 8th street, back of the bank. The basement will run the length of the building, making it practically a six-story structure.

The four upper floors will be for offices, twenty-six to each floor, or a total of one hundred and four rooms, not including the first floor.

The building will be strictly fire proof in construction. The floors will be tiled and the wainscoting and stairways will be of marble. Heavy plate glass will be used for the large windows, except on the north side, where wired glass will be used.

The brick used in the construction of the building will be the same as that on the Southland Hotel in Dallas, a fancy face brick, costing about eighty dollars per thousand. The frame will be of steel, making a structure that will in every particular sustain Wichita Falls' claim to being the "best built city in Texas."

Work will probably be under way on the building within sixty days, at the outside, and it will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. The cost of the structure will be in the neighborhood of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. Messrs. Kemp and Kell are chiefly interested.

MATERIAL COMPANY TO MARKET WICHITA FALLS GRAVEL NOW ORGANIZED

A company to be known as the Wichita Falls Sand, Gravel and Material Company is soon to be organized in this city for the purpose of handling and marketing sand and gravel in the bed of the Wichita river, the supply of which is inexhaustible, and the experts who examined it, say it is the best building sand and gravel that can be found anywhere.

A starter, machinery costing in the neighborhood of $30,000 will be ordered that will move and place aboard the cars 600 yards of sand and gravel every twelve hours.

A survey has been made to put in a side-track or spur for the handling of the sand and gravel, and when the machinery is installed this industry will employ more labor than any other enterprise in the city.

Mr. W. E. Willett, superintendent of the McCulley Construction Co. of St. Louis, one of the largest concerns of that nature in the west, says that three sand pumps will be put in at once, together with washing and grading machines.

As the Times understands it, the company has received a twenty-year lease on a stretch of about two miles of the sand and gravel bed, and place a very high value on the lease something in the neighborhood of a quarter-million dollars, which indicates, at least that Mr. Willett thinks a great deal of a product which has always been here, and which no one has ever thought worth anything.

Mr. Willett says there will be not the least trouble in finding a ready market for all the sand and gravel that can be gotten out and prepared, and thinks that the plant will be operated both night and day.

RAILROAD CONFERENCE IS BEING HELD TODAY AT THE WOLF CROSSING

A conference is being held at Wolf Crossing this afternoon between the railroad committee from Walters, Oklahoma, and the committee representing the directors of the Northeastern. At this writing the result of the meeting is not known.

The Walters committee, it is understood, has the money on hand to build the road from Walters to the middle of Red River and they want the Wichitans to attend to its construction from this city to the meeting point.

The objection that has been raised to this plan is that if the crossing is made at the Wolf point, the road can pass through neither Charlie or Thornberry, both of which places the promoters of the line are very anxious to reach. This matter will probably be settled at today's conference. Wichita Falls is represented by J. B. Marlow, J. D. Avis, A. Zundelwitz, J. L. Jackson and others.

The Chamber of Commerce has contracted for a page advertisement in the Rand-McNally pocket map for this year.

DULANEY WITNESS IN INVESTIGATION

SAYS CHARGE AGAINST HIM BY BILBO IS A "FILTHY, INFAMOUS LIE."

BILBO FOR VARDAMAN

He Was Seen to Mark Ballot for For- mer Governor—Dulaney Pleads Not Guilty.

By Associated Press.
Jackson, Miss., April 8.—In the bribery investigation today, Representative Anderson testified that he saw Bilbo mark his ballot for Vardaman and deposit it in the ballot box. Senator Bailey stated that Bilbo came to him in the senate and told him that the Percy faction was using money and said that two women were acting as go-betweens and asked him to help catch them.

He added that he told Bilbo that he had no advice to give and that if anyone made him a crooked proposition he would knock his head off.

L. C. Dulaney, who was placed on the stand later in the day, declared that he had opposed Vardaman because of the latter's attitude on the negro question. He testified that he was approached by Representative Cowart, but told him that no one was buying votes.

He characterized the statement of Bilbo, that he paid him money for his vote, as a "filthy, infamous lie." He said that he never gave Mrs. Hall or Mrs. Neill any money.

In court here today, L. C. Dulaney, who is charged with offering a bribe to Senator Bilbo, pleaded not guilty, and asked a change of venue, asserting that prejudice was so strong that it would be impossible to get a fair trial in Jackson.

RETAIL MERCHANTS GIVE BANQUET

MEMBERS MEET FOR BUSINESS, REVIEW YEAR'S WORK AND ELECT OFFICERS.

TRADES DAY ENDORSED

Many Subjects Are Thoroughly Discus- sed and Plans Adopted to Widen Wichita's Trade Territory.

The Retail Merchants Association held its regular monthly meeting last night at the Chamber of Commerce, and elected the following officers and directors for the ensuing year:

J. M. Bland, president; P. C. Maricle, vice president; W. C. Barrickmann, secretary and treasurer. Directors: St. Clair Sherrod, I. A. Farris, J. L. Lea, Jr., W. Lee Morse, J. W. Ford, Frew W. Weeks, Marvin Smith, E. P. Walsh, P. H. Pennington. The president and vice president were also made directors.

The subject most discussed was that of "Trades Day," and the best way in which to advertise same.

Messrs. Kennedy, Pennington, Farris, Fonville, Myrick, and others made short talks on this subject, and all endorsed the movement heartily.

After the report of the program committee for Trades Day had been read and approved, the business session came to an end, and the members were invited to repair to the "Saratoga," where a banquet awaited them. Plates were laid for forty, and the menu card read as follows:

Consomme ala Petit Pais
Tomato Mayonnaise
Squab Chicken ala Maryland
Asparagus Tips au Buerre Noir
Julienne Potatoes, Cafe Noir
Cigars.

R. E. Huff acted as toastmaster, and at the conclusion of the elegant five-course luncheon called on Mr. Freeman to respond to the toast: "How Best to Advertise Wichita Falls," who excused himself by saying he had been kept busy in assisting Mayor Noble in preparing his speech on another subject.

Marvin Smith was next called but refused to respond, and then Mr. R. D. Kennedy spoke to the subject, and thought the best plan to advertise Wichita Falls was for all to act as a union on the plans as mapped out by the committee of the organization to get up a program for a monthly Trades Day.

J. W. Pond, A. S. Fonville, P. H. Pennington and others made a few remarks on the subject under discussion.

President Bland then called on the toastmaster for his views on the subject, and Mr. Huff did so by endorsing all that had been said or suggested by those who had spoken before him, adding that "a steady pull together" was the best plan he could think of, and if the Association acted as one body the results would be most satisfactory and there would be enough business for all. He thought sharp practice should be discouraged and that by proceeding on the plans as outlined by the committee in his opinion, the trade for Wichita Falls could be greatly enlarged. "You must advertise the town by advertising your own business," suggested Mr. Huff, and thought the Trades Day movement, the refunding of railroad fares to customers from a distance who purchased as much as $50 worth of merchandise was a plan, if carried out properly would within a short time draw trade for 100 miles from every side of Wichita Falls. While not professing to be a merchant, and therefore incapable of giving advice to those who were, he thought larger stocks should be carried by our retail merchants and the proper sort of a campaign was made to induce those of our people who are in the habit of sending away for that which could be obtained of the home merchant was carried out, that the home merchant could well afford to carry larger stocks. Mr. Huff then excused himself and asked the President of the Association, Mr. Bland, for his views on the subject.

Mr. Bland responded by calling on all those present who were reading trade papers and keeping themselves posted to hold up their hands, and quite a number did so. He then added that if all would become readers (Continued on Page 5.)

PLANS FOR SHOPS ARE MADE PUBLIC

IMPROVEMENTS BY NORTHWEST- ERN ARE TO BE VERY EXTEN- SIVE THIS YEAR.

MODERN REPAIR SYSTEM

Round House, Coal Chute, Coach Shed, Shop Buildings and Storehouse To Be Built.

The details of the plans for the shops, round house, coal chute and other improvements to be made by the Wichita Falls Route during this year have been announced by the officials of that road. They represent a total expenditure of one hundred thousand dollars.

The improvements are to be constructed on the north side of the river, to the right of the present Northwestern tracks, as one crosses the river and will cover about thirty acres of ground. Summarized, the improvements include:

Ten-stall round house, with turntable.
Shop building, 100 by 200 feet.
Storehouse and office building, with platform, 42 by 365 feet.
Twelve-pocket coal chute.
Coach shed, 40 by 230 feet.
Transfer table, 70 by 215 feet.
Twelve miles of tracks, sidings and spurs.

The plans for these improvements are nearing completion and work will be started at the earliest possible date. The round house will be large enough to accommodate the road's motive power and will be equipped with a 10 by 12 turn table. The shop machinery will occupy a one-story building of the dimensions above stated. The machinery has already been ordered. The storehouse will be a two-story building, 26 by 50, the upper story being used for offices.

The entire arrangement is such that all work can be handled with dispatch and there will not be a more modern system of shops in the southwest, not excepting those of the big lines. There will be about twelve miles of track through and around the shops.

The magnitude of this undertaking and the completeness of the arrangement will not be fully realized by Wichitans until the improvements are finished.

Russian Painter Gambled Away His Wife.

Once the famous Russian painter, Verestchagin, used to travel about Russia looking for subjects and models for his pictures. One day he came upon a 'gypsy encampment. Among the women was a young girl of great beauty, with whom he fell in love. She was barely 16 and her parents were very poor. They asked very little for her, and the painter married her. The young couple left the camp at once, and in course of time went to St. Petersburg. Prince Chertkoff used to go to the painter's studio to play, and he, too, fell in love with the beautiful Olga, who was now the mother of a small daughter. The officer, who knew the story of his friend's marriage, asked him if he was not tired of her. At first the painter laughed at the question; then he said "No" and finally, when it was repeated many times, he received it in silence. One winter's evening Chertkoff came in, and, as usual, suggested a game of cards. "I would play with pleasure," the artist said, "but I've no money."

Chertkoff laughed. "Well, then," he retorted, "let us play for love—the stakes to be Olga." They both laughed and sat down to play. The game got interesting; then absorbing. At dawn they ate a hasty meal and sat down again. The artist always lost. They agreed to stop at noon, because Chertkoff had business and Olga watched them, perhaps not ill pleased to think that she might exchange the studio for a more exciting life, for the officer was energetic and, people said, likely to make a career. By noon the artist was still the loser. Chertkoff rose and looked at Olga.

She got up and went for her cloak. Then she spoke to the artist.

"You are tired of me," she said. "I go with him, but only on condition that he marries me today. And I take the child into my new life, as well."

Chertkoff went to a priest and told his story.

"We do not recognize gypsy marriages," was the decision. "She can be your wife at once if you wish."

And so Olga became Princess Chertkoff. She was a clever woman as well as a handsome one, and in a few months this gypsy became fashionable in circles where many are refused an entrance. A few years later her husband, rising from one post to another, became governor of the province of Vilna, then of the Caucasus, and, finally, viceroy of Poland. People say she was cruel and revengeful, and that she urged her husband to many cruel acts, until at last he died, a very old man, hated, but feared. The princess returned to Russia, a handsome old woman, with a queenly air and cruel eyes.—From "A Gypsy Wedding in Poland," in the April Wide World Magazine.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.

"Jem" Mace is Eighty Years Old Today.

London, April 2.—In the little parlor of the public house in Islington, called "The Bluecoat Boy," which he has made his headquarters for a number of years, "Jem" Mace, the former champion pugilist of the world, received the congratulations of a little circle of friends and cronies today on the occasion of his eightieth birthday. It is now nearly half a century since Mace won the championship from Tom King. Subsequently he defended his title in fights with Joe Goss, Joe Wormald, Tom Allen, Joe Coburn and Ned O'Baldwin. It is estimated that during his long career in the prize ring Mace earned considerable more than a million dollars, the most of which was dissipated in unfortunate speculations. Today the old-time fighter is practically penniless, almost his only source of income being a government old-age pension.

San Diego's Unique Exposition.

The news that San Diego has already raised a million dollars for an exposition in 1915; that another million is about to be raised, and that, no matter who likes it or who doesn't, there is going to be a show, will send a sympathetic thrill through any veins sufficiently blessed with red blood, to know a plucky little sport when you see him. Bully for little old San Diego! But here a question comes up: What sort of show does San Diego intend to have? And the answer also sends a tingle through the red corpuscles of the southwest, at any rate, for San Diego gives notice (and she means it!) that her show is to be "different." Any old town can have a world's fair, and we all know what a world's fair is before we see it. But an exposition the like of which was never seen on earth—that's what San Diego says her big Panama-California Exposition in 1915 is going to be. Which is "going some!" And this is how it's to be "different."

Man and boy, the oldest inhabitant on earth can exclaim: "What's a decade without a world's fair or two?" Yes. Every since the prince consort opened the crystal palace show, sixty odd years ago, princes, potentates and presidents have been asked to "push the button," and the exposition managements have done the rest—including—sometimes, the public.

Up to date, a world's fair has been a celebration of achievement, a sort of glorified fifth act of the stupendous drama of man's attainment. But what San Diego proposes to do is to make her affair a curtain raiser, intended to introduce the still more magnificent drama of the possibilities confronting the southwest. The name of this new play is "Opportunity"—to display the yet scarcely scratched resources of the southwest; to proclaim to the world the limitless possibilities of Arid America; to invite from the congested centers of the earth the ambitious worker to the waiting feast of profit and success in the sun-kissed open of this virgin empire—this is what San Diego means that her fair shall do.

At San Diego "machinery hall" will not be the usual bewildering display of everything that the wit of man has contrived, from dynamos and pianos to rat traps and patent can openers. It will concern itself with an inspiring demonstration of what invention wedded to human purpose can accomplish here in this vast southwest. All that is big with promise to the tidal wave of immigration, sure to be set loose by the opening of the canal, will be shown at the San Diego fair. Whatever these inexhaustible states possess, in mineral wealth, agricultural possibilities, climatic advantages or historical romance and scenic grandeur, will be exploited at this unique and singularly timely show.

Those magic words, "irrigation" and "reclamation," which have caught the stirred imagination of the nation, will here be most convincingly interpreted to the wistful and curious from far and near, arid strips of the grounds being left to cactus and sage brush, with verdant alternating strips (under the beneficent operation of model irrigating plants at work in sight of all) proclaiming that the whole southwest waits only intelligent development to become the veritable garden of the world.

Cotton will be shown growing beside apples and wheat; oranges amid waving luxuriant alfalfa; silk worms will spin their priceless cocoons above kingly corn tassels, and flowers and trees in all their varied splendor, will nod together in the perpetual summer breeze, although embracing the whole of the wondrous varieties from the palm to the pine.

The ponderous enginery of mining will stand side by side with the delicate apparatus of the worker in precious stones. Surely, if the opening of the great canal portends the mightiest movement in history of the children of men, San Diego has hit upon the very way to establish the unquestionable fact that, by geographical situation and natural characteristics, she is to assume the dignities—and the responsibilities—of the great seaport of the southwest.

In what a setting; with what rare charms of scene and atmosphere, may San Diego celebrate her commercial and industrial coming of age! No world's fair ever held had anything comparable to the site—a vast fourteen hundred acre park in the heart of the city—that will be used here. With magnificent views of the sapphire Pacific and coronet of mountain ranges, this park (basking the whole year round under a genial sub-tropical sky) will itself repay the visitor from New England, or Old, who travels to the San Diego fair in 1915.

It's "Camino Reale," breathing the very air of the old Spanish days, will long outlive in memory the sordid banality of the "midways," "pikes" and "trails" or other fairs. On the face of steep defiles, cutting down into the canyons, will perch the adobe villages of New Mexico cave-dwellers; cowboys will patrol the "corral" of the fair grounds; Indian tribes will weave their baskets squatting beside camp fires; Japanese and Chinese villages will nestle among the groves of flowering fruit trees; Mexicans will thrum guitars and dance in the shade of their haciendas, while their dream-eyed women patiently toil at their exquisite "drawn-work," and every type of southwesterner, from the brawny frontiersman to the nervy builder of commerce and trade, will be on hand in person with the triumphant evidence of what he dared do and still dares.

And over all, the spirit of California! One may fancy what this San Diego exposition will mean. It will mean that here all that is most reminiscently winsome in the past, most inspiringly inviting in the future, will meet and mingle in a tapestry of quaint and lovable texture and color. Under the witchery of the soft summer nights, the athletic pliant of the pasing people will run like a minor chord through the strenuous dominant of the giant people that is to be, the conquering man who is to grasp the tremendous opportunity of the new southwest. Every state in the southwest, every one who has cast his lot with it's boundless future or who has cast longing eyes in its direction, owes it to himself to "get back of" San Diego for the year of grace, 1915.

JEFFERSON DINNER TONIGHT.

Iowa Democrats Are Hopeful of Defeating Republicans.

Des Moines, Ia., April 8.—Certain defeat for the republican party in Iowa next November is the prediction of the democratic leaders, gathered at Des Moines today, from every nook and corner of the state. Tonight's annual dinner of the Jefferson Memorial Banquet Club furnished the ostensible subject of the round up of the party leaders, but the true reason for the unusually large gathering of the faithful is found in the general desire for a party conference to discuss the early plans for the coming campaign. Chairman Price and all of the members of the state committee were in attendance.

The democrats profess to regard the outlook for their success next fall as unusually bright. Their hopes are based largely on the serious dissensions in the republican ranks. Iowa is now regarded as a "progressive" state. Her senators took the lead in the tariff fight, and were backed by insurgent congressmen from several districts. It has been practically settled that an effort will be made to elect insurgent republicans in congressional districts represented by standpatters. But whether a fight shall be made on governor and other state offices, has not been definitely determined. It is believed by many progressives that they should keep their hands off state offices. Perhaps just as many insist that a campaign should be made to oust Governor Carroll, who, it is conceded, will be a candidate for renomination before the June primaries.

Leading democrats are of the opinion that if the factional warfare of the republicans extends to the state offices a democratic victory is certain to result. The democratic ticket will be named at the state convention to be held in Ottumwa the last week of July. The republican convention is to meet in Des Moines one week later.

Bill Edwards of the People's Review at Henrietta, forbears for some time to comment on the passing of James T. Denton from the secretaryship of the Board of Trade there. James and Henrietta did not make a good working team, and the mesalliance was brought to a close several weeks ago. When Brother Bill did break out, it was in rhyme, thusly:

Why so sad, dear old Henrietta?
E'en too sad to shed a tear?
Is your name scratched off the map?
Is there nothing left for us here?

Why this fit of melancholy?
What has dimmed your lustrous light?
Is there ought to be repressed
To relieve this awful plight?

Why bowed in sackcloth and ashes?
Why no lustre in your eyes?
Why this pose of deep dejection?
Tell us where the trouble lies.

Some one may perchance relieve you
If you openly confess:
There is ever balm in Gilead
For the one in dire distress.

Ah, indeed! I read your answer
In the furrows on your face;
Same old story—"Loved and Lost"—
Yours, we fear, a hopeless case.

He has gone; your faithless lover
Whom you cherished well and long;
One you fed and clothed all winter
Harkened to the siren's song.

Took a trip on Halley's comet,
Gone to graze in pastures new,
Gone to fill "Old Timer's" schedule;
Gone to sail the azure blue.

Guardian angels cover Quannah
With your wings of love and light.
She's caught "Jimmie," may God help her
To persist and hold him tight.

The republicans of Indiana in state convention endorsed the action of Senator Beveridge in opposing the Payne-Aldrich tariff measure, forced through by the administration—and President Taft cancels his date to speak in that state.

AS TO THE FREE PASS LAW.

Hereford, Tex., April 7th, 1910.
Editor Wichita Daily Times,
Wichita Falls, Texas.

Dear Sir:—My attention has been called to an editorial in the Daily Times of March 26th, attacking my position on the anti-pass law. I can not claim the honor of a personal acquaintance with the editor, but from my knowledge of editors in general, I feel sure that you will accord me the privilege of answering your criticisms and give my answer the same publicity through the columns of your paper as was given your editorial.

You stated that I was ignorant as to the anti-pass law, but you did not state as to what part of it I was ignorant. That statement immediately preceded the following sentence: "The Times has no knowledge whatever that any newspaper man in the state of Texas ever carried a free railroad pass, even before the anti-free pass law was enacted, and none of the editors are now contending that the law be amended so as to give them this privilege, provided the railroads are willing to grant it." My dear Mr. Editor, I must certainly now charge you with ignorance. How long have you been in the newspaper business? I charge it to be a fact, well known, that prior to the enactment of the anti-pass law that at all important conventions, meetings, etc., you would find editors there as thick as fiddlers, and got there on passes over routes, a portion of which were frequently over lines of road which had never advertised in the particular papers belonging to the man who carried that pass. Frequently such passes were given to the editor and his better-half for interstate trips, summer outings, etc. That, Mr. Editor, if you didn't know of the other boys riding on free passes over lines that they never did any advertising for before the anti-pass law become effective, then they kept you hoodwinked; you didn't get all that was coming to you.

By reading all of your article one will see that you approve of my position on the anti-pass law. Here is what you say: "As for the Times, it wants no amendment made to the anti-free pass law. It is satisfied to pay its car fare just like other people, and if every body is required by the law to pay their transportation, it will not be a great while until the railroads will voluntarily reduce the cost of transportation, and, in the event they will not do this of their own voluntary act, then the people of the state will be perfectly justified in appealing to the railroad commission for a reduction in transportation rates."

But was it not because of your enthusiasm for another candidate that you attacked my position; that other candidate's platform being as follows: "Five different subjects might be named as being among the things which shall receive my cordial and undivided support. These are—first and foremost, the return of the press of Texas the right to contract that is vouchsafed to them by both state and federal constitutions?" Now what does this mean except that in case this candidate is elected to the senate that his FIRST AND FOREMOST and his best efforts will be to amend the anti-pass law so that the newspaper men may "contract" with the railroads to carry a small ad, and a free pass at the same time? Won't his amendment necessarily let in all others to again "contract" for free passes? Now, be fair, and you newspaper men charge for your space and pay for your tickets as the others of us. Let the anti-pass law stand as it is, and, according to your statement in your editorial, we will soon be buying tickets at less than 3 cents per mile. Your statement is sound and is good, and in line with my platform. We—you and me, Mr. Editor, are right. Let the doctrine of "Equal rights to all and special privileges to none" stand.

Yours respectfully,
JNO P. SLATON.

In answer to Mr. Slaton's question, the Times editor will say that he is about 43 years of age, and has never followed any calling other than that of newspaper work, and during all of his life has never yet ridden on what Mr. Slaton would term "A newspaper free pass." He has, on perhaps as many as a half dozen occasions, had the privilege of riding on a "free pass," but this courtesy was not due to the fact that he was engaged in the newspaper business. All the transportation he ever received from any railroad was paid for.

The Times, however, does not wish Mr. Slaton, or others to believe that it is taking sides in the senatorial contest in this, the 29th district. All the interest it has in the contest is to do what little it can in seeing that the man who succeeds Mr. Veale will be one who will not put in circulation statements that cannot be substantiated by the facts.

The Times will again say that, so far as it is personally concerned, it desires no change made in the anti-pass law. It was enacted to spite the newspapers who made a fight on members of the legislature who rode to and from Austin on free passes and then put in their claims to the state for mileage. If it is any satisfaction to that kind of law-makers to deny the right of contract between newspapers and railroads, by all means, let the law stand as it is now, rather than take the chances of changing it.

The Times begs to dispute the claim of the Quannah papers that Quannah's postoffice gain of twenty-seven per cent was the largest on the Denver road. Wichita Falls' gain for the year was over thirty per cent, which is a better showing than Quannah made. Just to keep the record straight, you know.

Representative Henry took a few shots at Speaker Cannon a day or two ago. These Texans have a habit of "speakin' out in meetin'" on occasions.

The court of inquiry has finally reported that negro soldiers were responsible for the shooting-up of Brownsville, Texas. Only fourteen of the men were found eligible for reinstatement. The decision cannot be reviewed. This ought to relieve the public of any further mention of the incident.

The Gainesville Register is very much exercised for fear that a lot of people are going to get left out of the Colquitt band-wagon. We have never yet heard of a politician's band wagon which was not built for the express purpose of taking care of everybody who wants to get into it, any old time, anywhere.

Senator Bailey is out in a statement to the effect that if Mayor Gaynor of New York is nominated and elected by the democrats to succeed Hughes, he will be the logical man for the presidency to succeed Taft. Didn't somebody say something about Senator Culberson for the presidency?

The question of whether a husband is the personal property of the wife is to be decided in the supreme court of the United States in a case appealed from Georgia. That decision has so often been settled by the wives of the country that the court ought to have little trouble in preparing the opinion.

Every person who is interested in the history of the Confederacy is urged to be present at the meeting at the Chamber of Commerce tonight. Matters of interest to future generations will be taken up at this meeting and a large attendance is desired by those in charge.

Ever notice how some men will swell with pride when somebody refers to them as farmers? These days of high prices for farm products make people envy the fellow who has any to sell.

Make up your mind to render all the necessary aid in your power to the census enumerators. They have a trying position to fill and the information they will gather will be of great value to every citizen.

Candidate Cuny says: "I will be elected." There are some people, however, who will insist that the election be held, any way, even though it is only for the purpose of ratifying this declaration.

THE VERY BEST Pineapple

Comes as you already know from the Hawaiian Islands. Just as the finest sweet corn comes from Maine, and as California is noted for its grapes, so Hawaii is the land of the pineapple. As it grows there it is rich, tender, ripe and yellow and as the canning factories are located at the plantations the pines are picked ripe and canned at once which makes them absolutely perfect. You will not know how to appreciate pineapple until you try the Hawaiian variety.

of these trade papers their minds would be broadened and they would conduct their business on a broader gauge.

J. H. Erwin took the floor to say that if the retail merchant would cut out the "dead-beats," the retail merchant could well afford to offer prizes to get the trade of those who paid their bills promptly.

P. C. Maricle thought the good work could be advanced considerably by urging upon customers to take care of their credit; that those who are slow in paying their accounts are responsible for the limit that is generally placed on their credit.

On the subject of "The garnishment law and how it can be amended," was responded to by Hon. T. B. Noble. In his judgment the retail merchant should be very careful before making an appeal for a change in the present law. Thought a law could be framed so as to garnish as much as 25 per cent of the wages of a laboring man, and if that was the case, it would be necessary only in isolated cases to resort to this law for the collection of debt, from the very fact that the knowledge of such a law would be warning in advance to the dead-beat class that they could not eat and wear the merchant's goods and not pay for them. That kind of a law would not, in the opinion of the speaker, seriously injure the honest laboring man. The law as now, in his opinion, is both unfair to the merchant and the wage earner.

Mr. C. G. Tevis was called on, but did not respond, and Mr. Bradley took the floor to endorse the work that had been accomplished by the association in the manner in which it handled credits, which plan, to his knowledge, had made a great many who were bad pay, good pay, and thought his accounts had increased 50 per cent in value since the credit rate bureau had been inaugurated.

Mr. A. S. Ponville also added a few remarks, giving his experience with the garnishment law in another state, which, in his opinion, was much more satisfactory than the Texas law.

The president then called on Mr. Huff, the toastmaster, who happened to be the only lawyer present, to give his views on the present garnishment law. He thought that in the event it was only a statutory law, it could be changed by the legislature, but that if it required a constitutional amendment to change the law, it would be a little more difficult matter. He thought that when a man had honor it was unnecessary to appeal to the law for the collection of an honest debt.

"Why Should the People Patronize Home Merchants" was responded to by Secretary W. C. Barrickmann, in a short but very interesting talk, which was well received by those gathered around the banquet table, and at the conclusion of Mr. Barrickmann's remarks (it being 11 o'clock), one of the most enjoyable banquets ever given by any organization in Wichita Falls came to an end.

Canine Etiquette.

In their relations with one another dogs have a keen sense of etiquette. A well known traveler makes this unexpected remark about a tribe of naked black men living on one of the south sea islands: "In their everyday intercourse there is much that is stiff, formal and precise." Almost the same remark might be made about dogs. Unless they are on very intimate terms they take great pains never to brush against or even to touch one another. For one dog to step over another is a dangerous breach of etiquette unless they are special friends. It is no uncommon thing for two dogs to belong to the same person and live in the same house and yet never take the slightest notice of each other. We have a spaniel so dignified that he will never permit another member of the dog family to pillow his head upon him; but, with the egotism of a true aristocrat, he does not hesitate to make use of the other dogs for that purpose.—Henry C. Merwin in Atlantic.

When Lives Were Cheap.

In the prison of Luxembourg one of Fouquier Tinville's agents could make up only seventeen convicts out of the list of eighteen which had been given him. "I want one more," he said. He asked the first suspect who passed by his name and on hearing it said, "Yes; it is you." He had him carried off, and the next day he was guillotined.

On another occasion a warder called out the name of an aged prisoner. A lad who was playing ball in the gallery mistook the name for his own and asked if he was wanted. "Yes," was the answer; "come along," and the next day the boy was guillotined instead of the man.

At Bordeaux a boy of sixteen named Mellet was guillotined instead of an old man of eighty named Belsay. On objecting he was told that he was eighty years old in wickedness.

Why Motion Pictures Pay.
How can they afford to pay such colossal sums? The answer is easy, says Glenmore Davis in Success Magazine. Where it costs $2,500 a week to operate the average first-class theatre while a dramatic or musical piece is the attraction, the same house can be run nicely for $500 with pictures as the offering. Excepting at holiday sessions, eight performances weekly is the limit in a theatre where entertainments other than vaudeville prevail. In any motion picture house twenty-eight "shows"—four a day—can be given. In many of them hourly exhibitions from 11 in the morning until 11 at night are run. Suppose the manager does throw in a few variety "turns" as extra attractions. If he has a good location and an adequate knowledge of the tastes of his public, he can not lose. That is why the owners of the Harlem opera house, the best of all the New York playhouses north of the new theatre, were able to lease their property for five years at the annual rental of $50,000. It is why the proprietors of the five other "legitimate" houses—the Circle, Majestic, Lincoln Square, Yorkville and Metropolitan—none of which have been successful ventures in the past, have found an easy road to monthly dividends by turning over their handsome auditoriums to the men with the spinning reels of film. It is the reason why hundreds of the theatres throughout the country—whole circuits of them—have ceased to be homes of music and drama. It is why every business man is rapidly becoming an amusement magnate, and it is why hundreds of theatrical companies disbanded before the last season was half over, and left thousands of experienced actors and actresses out of work, with hardly a chance of obtaining histrionic employment for another year.

Dutch Architecture Honest.
The architecture of Holland could be summed up in the one word, honest. Pretense is altogether lacking, but to many people this is far from being a fault. The influences of Germany has been greatly felt, owing, of course, to the close proximity of that country. The French feeling has also found its way into the Netherlands for the same reason; but the Italian influence has rarely been known, and its absence is always to be deprecated, says the Designer for April.

The Dutch are neat, thrifty people, and their houses express to a marked degree many of their traits. In the cities and small towns, for instance, the trim rows of private dwellings are particularly attractive, though built primarily for comfort and devoid of much adornment.

While Dutch house exterior may not invariably please the eye, it must be remembered that the Hollanders have greatly atoned for their lack of artistic feeling here by a splendid sense of interior decorating. Witness, for instance, their passion for debt, porcelain and other ceramics, and the use to which they have put them in their schemes for interiors. They cannot, then, be called a wholly inartistic people. Their homes, on the contrary, are worthy of the closest study; and the duplication of a Dutch house, inside and out, should prove a fascinating idea. A Dutch kitchen, for example, is always delightful; and the same feeling, carried through the entire house, would make something rarely distinctive in this country.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR.
It is Easy To Get and Keep.
When a fifty cent bottle of Parisian Sage will put life, lustre and brilliancy into any woman's hair, why should any woman have repulsive or characterless hair unless she wants to.

Parisian Sage is the ideal hair dressing of the times, not only does it make woman's hair beautiful, but it is guaranteed by Week's Drug Co. to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp into weeks or money back.

If you are troubled with disgusting dandruff, get rid of it as soon as you can. Dandruff is caused by a dandruff germ, and sooner or later will cause baldness.

Parisian Sage kills the germs that cause dandruff, and kills them promptly. It is a dainty perfumed tonic, free from grease and stickiness. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every bottle. Price 50 cents at druggists every where and at Week's Drug Co.

The Original Tramp Chair.
This chair, says a writer in the April Wide World Magazine, is made of steel and was invented and patented by Sanford Baker of Oakland, Maine. The original intention of the inventor was that a chair of this make should be kept in every house and that when a tramp called he was to be politely asked to take his seat, after which the chair was locked and the sheriff sent for. The sheriff would then be called upon to haul the tramp to jail. The chair might have been highly successful had not the tramps of Kennebec Valley called a meeting to consider the matter, with the result that Mr. Baker was anonymously informed that he would be killed if he manufactured any more. Mr. Baker immediately stopped their manufacture and thereby probably saved his life. The original chair is now in Moscow, Maine.

THE MICROSCOPE.

It Has Its Prototype in Every Spherical Drop of Water.
Nature offers a free microscope whenever one is wanted. She has been dealing in free optical instruments and optical phenomena ever since the first dewdrop formed or the first raindrop fell earthward. Every dewdrop and raindrop and spherical water drop has all the powers and principles of a microscope. To get one of nature's microscopes in operation take up a drop of water between the two points of two sharpened sticks, say matches, and hold the drop over the minute object to be examined. The result will be that the object will be magnified about three diameters. The supposed invention of the microscope was nothing more than shaping a piece of glass into an imitation of a water drop so as to be easily handled. Spiders have made suspension bridges for ages. The rough edge of sword grass gave the inventor the idea of the reaper blade for the harvester. The buzzard has been using the aeroplane for flying a good many centuries. By tapping on an end of a long beam the man at the farther end can hear you telegraphing, the sound traveling through the timber. Fishes have been using bladders of wind for balloons, lifting them in water for countless years. Water has been a camera ever since the world had sunshine. Help yourself to nature's store of all things man needs, but never say anything about the invention. Nature invented; you can only arrange and combine facts.—St. Louis Republic.

EARLY BALLOONING.

Some Odd Ideas That Prevailed in the Eighteenth Century.
As far back as 1844 the American public were led to believe that the Atlantic had been crossed in a balloon. On May 28 in that year the New York Sun published a detailed account of an aerial voyage from Liverpool to Charleston, which purported to have been accomplished by "the steering balloon Victoria in a period of seventy-five hours from land to land." Five columns were devoted to the description of the journey and to a scientific account of the balloon, of which a woodcut was given, and an air of verisimilitude was added by a list of eight passengers, one of the names mentioned being that of Harrison Almsworth, who was then at the height of his fame. At the end of the eighteenth century balloons were all the rage. Then, as now, enthusiasts predicted a time near at hand when war would either be an awful matter of the annihilation of armies and forts by bombs from above or would cease altogether through the abolition of frontiers, and the fusion of nations. Prophecy went even further. Canals and roads were to vanish and the space occupied by them to be restored to agriculture. And ships (if any still existed) when caught in a storm would be grappled by the mast from balloons above and safely conveyed into port or even carried over mountain ranges.—Chicago News.

London's Police Press.
An article in the Illustrated English Magazine gives an account of the printing department of Scotland Yard and the astonishing amount of work it turns out. Four times a day a broadside is issued to all the police officers. At 9 in the morning the first is sent out, giving an inventory of all property lost. At noon is issued a list of all persons missing, and this often occupies several pages. At half past 6 the broadside contains both subjects, and also at half past 10. A habitual criminal register is distributed and every few days an account of persons released on tickets of leave. A sheet of missing articles is sent to every pawnbroker, and as many as 4,000 copies of this document are needed. This is only a small part of the work done by the Scotland Yard press.

When You Can't Sleep.
There is an odd theory, which many people believe and which is certainly harmless, that sleeplessness may often be cured in the following odd way: Move your bed out into the room so that no part of bed or covers will touch the wall. Then place under each corner of the bed a piece of rubber or a rubber overshoe or set the caster in a thick glass dish. Then go to bed, making sure the covers do not touch the wall. Thus the bed and yourself will be cut off from all electric contact with floor or wall. Such absence of electric contact, it is claimed, will make you sleep better. It is said to have cured stubborn cases of insomnia.

How to Open a New Book.
The best way to open a new book without risk of injuring it is to place it on its back upon a smooth or covered table, let down the fore and then the hind board, hold the leaves in one hand and open a few of the fore and afterward the end leaves until you reach the center of the volume. Do this several times and you will not break the back of the book.

Made It Very Clear.
"How do you suppose she manages to keep up appearances on her husband's income?"
"What is her husband's income?"
"I don't know; but, of course, it can't be as big as it would have to be if they could afford to live as they do."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Nature's Gift from the Sunny South

A Cottolene Home Is a Healthy Home

Food Purity is of great importance in every well-regulated home.

The woman who fries or shortens her family's food with lard is doing so because she is unaware of the ill effects which may come of it. Lard-cooked food never has been, never can be, as healthful as food cooked with Cottolene. The very sources of the products will teach you this.

Lard is made from hog fat, and what assurance have you that the animal is free from infection, or disease germs? On the other hand, Cottolene comes from the cotton fields of the Sunny South, and is made from the purest, refined cottonseed oil, which physicians to-day recommend as being fully as healthful as olive oil.

Cottolene is clean, pure, and makes digestible, nourishing food. It has been recommended by physicians generally for the building up of patients whose bodies contain tuberculosis germs. Can you imagine hog lard being recommended for such a purpose?

COTTOLENE is Guaranteed Your grocer is hereby authorized to refund your money in case you are not pleased, after having given Cottolene a fair test.

Never Sold in Bulk Cottolene is packed in pails with an air-tight top to keep it clean, fresh and wholesome, and prevent it from catching dust and absorbing disagreeable odors, such as fish, oil, etc.

That the high cost of living is due to the general way of uplift that has been sweeping over this land for several years past:

That when the aeroplane is finally perfected the man higher up may be lured to come down and let us see what he looks like:

That the American heiress is an invention of a far-seeing nature to fill in those arid financial spots where the Lord is unable to provide:

Belgian Ruler 35 Years Old.

Brussels, April 8.—In striking contrast to the celebration or lack of celebration that characterized the birthday anniversaries of the late King Leopold during the latter years of his reign was today's hearty observance on the part of the Belgian people of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the birth of their new ruler, King Albert. All the newspapers of Brussels today devote leading articles to the anniversary, and publish retrospects of King Albert's brief reign together with much favorable comment. During the day the king received messages of greeting from nearly all the crowned heads of Europe.

Arbor Day in Kansas.

Topeka, Kas., April 8.—Arbor Day was widely observed throughout Kansas today by the planting of trees and flowers and by special exercises in all of the public schools.

"THIS IS MY 63RD BIRTHDAY"

Harry B. Hutchins.

Harry B. Hutchins, president of the University of Michigan, was born at Lisbon, New Hampshire, April 8, 1847. At the age of 19 he entered Wesleyan University and later took some special studies in astronomy, physiology and surgery at the University of Vermont and at Dartmouth College. In 1867 the family moved to Michigan and in the fall of that year Mr. Hutchins entered the University of Michigan and was graduated in 1871. For the year after graduation he was in charge of the public schools at Owosso, Mich., and in the following fall he returned to his alma mater as instructor in history and rhetoric, and in another year was advanced to an assistant professorship. After three years' teaching in the literary department, during which time he had been preparing himself for the study of law, he resigned his position and formed a partnership with his father-in-law. For eight years this partnership continued. In 1884 Mr. Hutchins was recalled to the University of Michigan, this time junior professor of law. Later he organized the law school at Cornell University and remained with that institution eight years. In 1895 he again returned to the University of Michigan to become dean of the law department, a position which he continued to fill until he was elected to the presidency last year to succeed Dr. James B. Angell.

HOFFSTOT DECLINES TO TALK.

Says He May Have Something to Say Tomorrow.

New York April 6.—Frank N. Hoffstot, when informed at his New York residence tonight that a presentment ordering his indictment on charges of conspiracy and bribery had been returned in Pittsburg in connection with the graft investigation, said:

"I always leave business behind me at the office and now that I am at home I cannot discuss this matter. Tomorrow when I go down town and look things over I may have something to say, but until then you must excuse me."

No urging could induce him to discuss his indictment, although he intimated he had been informed of the grand jury's action through private advice from Pittsburg.

Mr. Hoffstot is perhaps best known as president and director of the Pressed Steel Car company. But in addition, he is president and a director of the Canada Cattle Car company, limited, of the Chicago-Calumet River railway and of the Western Steel Car & Foundry company. He is also secretary and treasurer of the South Shore railroad.

Mr. Sanford Dodge as Nero, in "The Gladiator."

Arrangements have been made by which the people of Wichita Falls will have an opportunity of witnessing next Wednesday night, April 13th, the eminent actor, Mr. Sanford Dodge, supported by an excellent company, producing "The Gladiator." On the following night Mr. Dodge will produce "Othello."

Mr. Dodge is recognized as one of the greatest living actors and the press of the country has been unanimous in its approval.

Of his production of "The Gladiator," the Daily Globe of Arizona, in its issue of March 24th, says:

"It is a mighty gulf that lies between light and comic opera or melo-drama to tragedy and heroism, such as was enacted during the reign of 'Nero, the Terrible' and his barbaric persecutions of the Christians before the decline and fall of the Roman empire."

"Not to have witnessed the talented efforts of Sanford Dodge and his very excellent company in a portrayal of 'The Gladiator' at Dreamland last night was to miss a grand treat."

"The play took one back to 267 A. D. and the change from the modern drama to a tragedy that took place sixteen hundred and forty-three years ago was indeed refreshing."

"Mr. Dodge, as the 'Gladiator,' was splendid in his role and in every instance lived up to the requirements of the part, which is a difficult one to portray. He is a fine looking man, with a superb physique and an articulation that is well-nigh perfect."

"Miss Nickerson made a splendid 'Faustina,' and had almost as difficult a role as Mr. Dodge and played it to the entire satisfaction of her auditors. She is possessed with good looks and has a queenly carriage."

"Hazel Haslam as 'Neodamia, the slave girl, and George C. Sommes, as 'Flavian,' share honors equally and the remainder of the company played their parts well."

"The scenery was effective and the costumes very attractive."

The prices for this attraction will be from 25 cents to $1.00. Seats will be on sale Monday morning at Bean & Huey's office.

Unique Exposition in London. Arrangements have been made by Christian at Olympia this afternoon opened the great exhibition devoted to "The Ideal Home." The magnitude of the exhibition, which is to last several weeks, quite eclipses any affair of its kind ever given here before. Thousands of dollars were spent in the decoration of the great building of Olympia, which has been totally transformed in appearance.

The chief features of the exhibition are a Tudor village, with its real bowling greens, waterfall, and growing grass; a Russian cottage of the fifteenth century, especially brought over from Russia; cottage industries from Scotland, Ireland, Wales and the English countries; a three-thousand dollar villa built complete in ten days by a famous firm of London builders, and numerous novelties connected with the furnishing and beautifying of the home.

A great success is predicted for the exhibition, which has the patronage of many titled personages and the elite of London's society.

The present convention is to conclude tomorrow night with a banquet at which Secretary of the Navy Meyer, Senators Penrose and Oliver, Governor Stuart, Rear Admiral Sperry and other men of national prominence are to be present.

A Famous Money Lender.

Nobody in New York knows its leading loan shark. Everybody in London knew Lewis. In fact, his death removed a unique figure from the fashionable life of London. Not that the money lender was received in polite society, but that he might be found on almost any occasion that brought smart people together where it was only a question of purchasing the entrée. Was there a charity bazaar, for instance, where ladies of title were selling boutonnières and ices, or beautiful actresses mixing drinks? There was Lewis cheerfully paying the highest price for everything in sight. Did a first night at one of the fashionable theatres bring out a particularly brilliant audience. Lewis was on view in the most conspicuous box. Was there an unusually gay evening at the Savoy or the Carlton, Lewis was presiding at the most gorgeously decorated table, his guests consuming the most expensive viands, drinking older wines and receiving a little better attention than any others in the restaurant. Was royalty laying the cornerstone of a hospital or asylum to which ceremony the subscribers to the erection fund had been invited. Lewis stepped to the crimson carpet across the sidewalk from the tallest landau, with the biggest horses and the most stately coachman and footman of any that drove up to the inclosure. He might have been seen surrounded by the best known of English sportsmen on the race tracks at all the more prominent meetings, and his houseboat during Henley week was one of the most elaborately equipped and in one of the most advantageous situations on the stretch of river confronting the races. Indeed, though the king of the money lenders was unable to purchase social position, he bought in on the surrounding territory as closely as possible, and if he did not know the women of the aristocratic world he was acquainted with a great many of the men. The owners of most of those names on his million pounds' worth of paper were men who could not afford to affront Lewis; and, as it was known that more than one haughty gentleman of title who had been wanting in respect to him in public had had cause to regret it on settling day, and as many another could discern in the distant or near future a possible use for him the money lender was sure of a polite reception among the gay youth of London in almost any circumstances.—Marshall White, in Harpers Weekly.

What Do You Know?

How about the schoolhouse in your town? What sort of a classroom is provided for your son or daughter to work in, five or six hours per day? Do you know whether fresh air is admitted or prohibited in that room? Do you know whether the room is properly cleaned or is it germ-laden with sweepings? And if you don't know, why don't you know?

Why do you watch your child's scholastic progress, as shown in weekly or monthly reports from the teacher, and neglect to ask what care is given to his body from 9 to 12 and from 1:30 to 3:30, five days each week.

If you heard that little Jimmy Brown, who sits at the desk next to your son, was carrying diphtheria germs from the bedside of his sick father into that classroom, you would be the first to appear before the city physician or board of health to file complaint. Well, Jimmy's father has a disease just as infectious—tuberculosis—and Jimmy Brown is carrying into that close, unventilated classroom tuberculosis germs in his clothing.

Why don't you do something to prevent such dangerous contact for your boy?

Why don't you demand in your town notification and registration for the father and fumigation and segregation for the son? What right have you, as an intelligent father or mother, to let your child take such chances?

These are straight-from-the-shoulder questions which you, as a parent, should consider and answer. They contain the reason for physical examination of school children. This does not work a hardship on the few, and it does save the many. Better that the school board of your town be forced to spend a few dollars each month for a class of segregated tubercular children than that your children and a score of other healthy children should be infected with the white plague.—From Woman's Home Companion for April.

Coming to Wichita.

The following is from the Gainesville Register:

Having accepted a position with the City National Bank at Wichita Falls, J. Risdon Lanus will shortly remove with his family to that city to reside permanently.

For the past five years Mr. Lanus has held the position of bookkeeper in the Lindsey National Bank, from which he has resigned to take a similar position at Wichita Falls.

The change Mr. Lanus is making is regretted by his many friends here, who know him to be a young man of exceptional moral character and good business equipment, but they hope for him the most pleasant surroundings and much success in his new field of endeavor.

BLOODLESS SURGERY

DEMONSTRATIONS FREQUENTLY MADE ON PLATFORM NEAR THE POSTOFFICE.

Tumors Removed in Full View of the People.

The monster tumor removed from the head of Mr. H. F. Jackson of 308 Lee Street has quieted many skeptics. Previous to the removal of this tumor, Dr. J. LaFayette Berry removed a tumor from the head of Mrs. Eason, wife of the proprietor of Lake View Hotel. Before these tumors were removed the skeptic said it could not be done without the knife, but thousands of people witnessed the doctor perform the operations without knife, blood and practically without pain. No bad after-effects followed the removal of the tumors; not a moment of time has been lost from work in either case, and no inflammation or soreness has bothered either.

The cancers the doctor killed for Mrs. A. A. Hambric of 709 Scott avenue, which was done without pain or blood, have fallen out and the wounds are nearly healed. No suffering or annoyance followed the treatment in this case.

Many more who were suffering from female troubles when the doctor came to this city, have been relieved without the knife. Bloodless surgery, the syringing and other methods he employs, are meeting with great success. Many people are arriving from Oklahoma and distant cities to be cured by these new methods of treatment.

"REST CURE"

is What Country Needs Just Now, Says Hill.

Spokane, Wash., April 8.—"What the United States needs most of all just now is to give business a 'rest cure.' Let up on this agitation and do more work and less talking in trying to solve the great economic questions. The 'rest cure' is the thing."

James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern Railway Company, who is in the northwest with Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific Railway Company, and Darius Miller, first vice president of the Burlington system, suggested the foregoing remedy after diagnosing the country's ailments. Mr. Hill came to Spokane for a conference with Jay P. Graves, president of the Spokane & Inland Empire Electric Railway system, in which he recently acquired a controlling interest. He added:

"The people, not capital, make the country advance, but capital must be employed to keep the people at some occupation. When workers curtail the profit of capital, then the country will face a serious condition. I do not say this will happen, but I do say that we must work to ward off even the probability of facing a situation of this kind. The way to do this is to keep the people employed. Give them occupation and the northwest can help mightily to do it at the present time. We need more foodstuffs.

"The country is still prosperous, but this is no time to make a comparison as to the brightness of the outlook. I don't know what to think of certain conditions, and for that reason, I would not say that America will face a happy holiday season, or that it won't, taking the financial status of the states as a basis."

Mr. Hill announced officially that the Hill lines will traverse the Des Chutes country, where the Harriman system is now active.

CREDIT MEN TO MEET.

Will Gather at Spokane Next July For National Convention.

Spokane, Wash., April 8.—When the National Credit Men's Association meets in Spokane next July, its delegates, representing various lines of trade in all parts of the United States, will be argued to adopt a code of ethics to govern wholesale houses and jobbers in their dealings with the retail stores. V. E. Sanders of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, president of the Inland Empire Retail Grocers' Association, and A. W. Bower, president of the Spokane Grocers' Association, will present a code, in effect, as follows:

That the wholesale merchants and jobbers exercise the utmost loyalty to the retail dealers in selling only to those who are entitled to buy at wholesale.

That they do not encourage any person to embark in business in communities already supplied with stores to handle the trade.

That they refuse financial support to any dealer who has not the training or ability to succeed, and who, through ignorance of the cost of doing business, sells goods at a loss, thus causing annoyance to competitors and less of legitimate profit.

The foregoing has been adopted by the Spokane Wholesale Merchants' association, effective at once, and it is believed it will greatly simplify matters and protect dealers in the Spokane country.

Philip Carbery, secretary of the Inland Empire Retail Grocers' association, says the enforcement of the provisions of the code will eliminate box-car peddling, a traffic that is harmful to wholesalers and communities in general, as it results in throwing shop-worn and cheap goods upon the market and demoralizing prices. He believes it a means of protecting the trade and the honest customer.
