WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, SATURDAY, APRIL 30, 1910

NUMBER 301

FIRST TRAIN OVER LINE TO ELK CITY

E. HERRING, CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR, MADE TRIP ON A SPECIAL TRAIN.

100 MAKE INITIAL TRIP

Candidate Addresses Crowds At Fred- erick, Altus and Mangum On His Journey.

The first train over the Wichita Falls and Northwestern's extension to Elk City, which was completed yesterday, left Elk City this morning at 7 o'clock, having on board Hon. F. E. Herring, candidate for governor and about three hundred of his friends and political advisors. This party made the first trip over the new road going from Elk City to Frederick and back.

Candidate Herring made three campaign speeches on the trip, speaking first at Frederick, then at Altus and in the afternoon at Mangum. At Frederick a large and enthusiastic crowd greeted the candidate. He is a distinguished business man and ranchman, being one of Elk City's most prominent citizens. He is a former Texan, being a brother of C. T. Herring, the banker and cattleman of Amarillo. Mr. Herring's Frederick speech was well received.

The special made the trip into Frederick in good time, considering the newness of the line beyond Mangum, and arrived at Frederick at 12:45 p. m., leaving on the return trip at 3 o'clock. They will arrive at Altus at 1:15 this afternoon and stop there for two hours. Mr. Herring will again address the people there. At 7:20 the special will arrive at Mangum, leaving Altus at 6:15. A stop of three hours will be made at Mangum and an address delivered by the candidate there. Brief stops are being made at all the smaller towns along the route between Elk City and Frederick to give the candidate an opportunity to greet his friends at those places and probably make short talks to the crowds.

The first regular passenger train out of Wichita Falls over the line will probably be run the latter part of next week, as soon as the roadbed can be gotten into good condition. Elk City is preparing to greet the first regular train in a manner befitting the occasion.

Raisin is Crowned as King.

Fresno, Cal., April 30.—All other crops may wither and fall, but the luscious raisin continues to hold its kingly sway in this section of California. It has its day of glory today in Fresno, where thousands of people gathered to pay homage to the fruit which is one of the principal products of this vicinity. Raisin bread, raisin pie and plain raisins were distributed free to all the visitors and a carnival program was given for their entertainment. Boxes of raisins were sent to President Taft, John D. Rockefeller and other notables and hotels, railroads and restaurants throughout the country helped to exploit the fruit at the request of the Fresno growers and packers.

Ty Cobb is willing to bet that he will not be put out of a game this season for talking back to an umpire. "I'm deaf and dumb on the field from now on," says Tyrus.

JOHNSON DENIES THAT HE IS TO WITHDRAW FROM GOVERNOR'S RACE

Waco, April 30.—Just before leaving for West, where he speaks at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Cone Johnson declared that there is nothing to the reports that he would withdraw from the gubernatorial race and that he would remain in the contest to the finish. Sterling P. Strong and J. H. Gambrell, prohibition leaders have been here since Johnson arrived.

Dallas, April 30.—There were no developments here today relative to the reported effort of the prohibitionists to eliminate Cone Johnson and William Polindexter from the gubernatorial race, and compromise on some other candidate. Friends of both men say there will be no withdrawal.

$325,000 COMPANY IS TO BE FORMED

WILL MARKET IRRIGABLE LANDS BETWEEN THE CITY AND LAKE WICHITA.

2,000 ACRES INCLUDED

Will Be Cut Up For Suburban Homes and Small Truck Farms for Homeseekers.

The organization of the "Highland Land and Irrigation Company" with a capital stock of $325,000, is to be perfected next week. This concern proposes to acquire and market the land between Floral Heights and Lake Wichita and will throw about eighteen hundred acres in that neighborhood open to homeseekers. The organization of the company will be along the same lines as was that of the Floral Heights Realty Company, practically all of the stock being taken by local

REGON COTTON COMPANY BEING ORGANIZED HERE WITH $10,000 CAPITAL

Plans are under way here for the organization of what is to be known as the "Wichita Regon Cotton Company" with ten thousand dollars capital stock. This company is being organized to regin cotton, and it operates principally by cleaning inferior cotton, using screenings, waste and other material that is usually thrown away. By means of specially constructed machinery it is possible to convert matter of this kind into comparatively good cotton and the business is usually attended by substantial profit.

At present there is only one other similar concern in the United States, it being located at Dallas. The local company will have ten thousand dollars capital and of this amount three thousand has already been subscribed. Little difficulty is anticipated in raising the remainder of the required amount. R. P. Webb and Son and Ed Orr are among those interested.

Historic Site at Auction.

New York, April 30.—One of the last of the historic sites in the vicinity of the metropolis fell before the march of population today when Battle Hill Park, at White Plains, was auctioned off for building lots. It was on this memorable ground, on Oct. 28, 1776, that Washington, after detaching a garrison of 3,000 men for the defense of Fort Washington, entered with the remainder of his force into a spirited action with the British under Gen. Howe and lost nearly 400 of his men.

parties. The stock subscription list will be thrown open to local investors.

The land to be placed on the market comprises about eighteen hundred acres, of which about half is irrigable land, with a permanent water right. This territory will be cut into small tracts, ranging in size up to ten acres and sold for suburban homes. It is close to the car line and it is believed will be very desirable property.

Work is now under way on the irrigation system which is to supply this land and by the time the tracts are placed upon the market, the water will be flowing through the ditches. It is hoped to sell these tracts not only to those from other parts seeking homes in this section, but to Wichitans for use as suburban homes.

The proposition is to be handled along the same lines, practically, that the Floral Heights tract was sold, and it is believed that it will be equally popular. The new company will be organized next week and will have its work well under way within a few weeks.

HOUSTON WOMEN ROBBED.

Thrown Down By Men and $175 Taken From Them.

Texas News Service Special.
Houston, April 30.—Two robbers attacked Mrs. Frank Gilman and her daughter, Mrs. C. R. Brown, at their home in Houston Heights late last night and made away with a bag containing $175 which Mrs. Gilman were about her neck. She was seized while sitting on her front steps. The robber spilled acid from a bottle on Mrs. Gilman and she is badly burned on the face. The robbers first threw the women down and removed their stockings in the search for money and failing to find any slashed the elder woman's wrist with a knife, found the money and fled. The police have a slight clue they are working on. Mrs. Gilman's husband manages a skating rink and it is believed the burglars knew his wife carried the receipts of the rink.

The sultriness of the weather today and the cloudy aspect of the sky are giving promise of wet weather during the next twenty-four hours.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER OF RANCHMAN IN OKLAHOMA; WAS SHOT FROM AMBUSH

Texas News Service Special.
Muskogee, April 30.—Crow Crutchfield, aged 23, a wealthy cattleman, was murdered near Inola, a small town north of here late last night and his body found this morning with a bullet hole in the head. He left last night with his team and horses for the ranch and the horses came into town this morning. His uncle, J. K. Crutchfield, was killed at the same place a year ago in a similar manner. There is no clue.

APRIL'S PROGRESS IN WICHITA FALLS

LIST OF "GOOD THINGS" FOR THE PAST MONTH INCLUDES SOME WORTH WHILE.

KEEPS UP GOOD SHOWING

New Office Building, Voting of School Bonds and Others of Moment During April.

Forty thousand dollars in school bonds and site purchased.

Work started at Walters on Northwestern railway.

Catholics purchase site and get plans under way for $150,000 improvements.

Tenth street property owners agree to pave that thoroughfare.

Plans for general trade extension inaugurated by Merchants' Association.

Furniture and mattress factory and jobbing house landed.

Elk City extension of Northwestern completed.

Company formed with $325,000 capital to put "Highlands" on the market. The monthly record of progress in Wichita Falls shows no signs of decreasing and the list of "good things" for April seems as replete with evidence of continued development during that month. Each of the four months passed has shown remarkable progress and there is no indication that the eight months that remain will fail to make equally excellent showings. These lists do not include the lesser factors, but only the larger things and they make a list worth remembering.

WICHITA CONTINUES TO DEFEAT VERNON TEAM; HAS WON SIX STRAIGHT

Special to The Times.
Vernon, Texas, April 30.—Wichita Falls easily captured the second game of the series here yesterday against the locals, by the decisive score of 3 to 1, making it two straight. Vernon never had a look-in from the very first round, the visitors by the aid of a scratch hit and a few errors put a runner over the top in the first inning, following up with three runs in the second, two more in the third and one each in the fifth and sixth. Most of the runs secured by Wichita are attributable to errors and bone-headed plays on the part of the locals.

Rice started pitching for Vernon. He early showed a weakness for hitting batters, issuing free passes and lack of headwork. He was relieved in the seventh by Inman, who held the visitors hitless and runless the remainder of the game. Hancock pitched a good game for Wichita. He yielded six hits, keeping them well scattered and was almost unhittable with runners on bases, with the exception of the third inning when three singles filled the sacks and Webber sent one into right field for three bases, scoring three runs. Extra-base hits were secured by Webber, Powell and Woodward, the first two got a three-bagger each and the last a two-bagger.

PRIZE FIGHT FATAL.

Pugilist Received Blow From Which He Died.

San Francisco, April 30.—Tommy McCarthy, the light weight pugilist, of this city who was knocked out and his skull fractured in the sixteenth round of a fight with Owen Moran, of England, last night, died of his injuries early today.

Moran was formally charged with manslaughter today. Five others, seconds and attendants are booked on the same charge.

FIRM DID NOT FAIL.

Report Regarding Steels, Miller & Co. was Erroneous.

By Associated Press.
Columbus, Miss., April 30.—It was erroneously reported yesterday that the cotton firm of Steele, Miller & Co., whose headquarters are in Corinth, Mississippi, had gone into bankruptcy. There is not the slightest foundation for the report. The company's offices here and elsewhere are doing business as usual.

TWO ARE ARRESTED.

Man and His Foster-Mother Charged With Murder.

By Associated Press.
Arkansas City, Kans., April 30.—Louis Patterson and Mrs. Emma Allan his foster-mother were arrested here today upon a coroner's warrant charging them jointly with having caused the death by poison of Mrs. Frances Patterson, wife of C. W. Patterson. Mrs. Paterson, a bride of a few months died suddenly January last.

TAFT AT BUFFALO.

Is Guest of Ansley Wilcox and Com- mercial Clubs.

Texas News Service Special.
Buffalo, April 30.—President Taft arrived here today. He was met by a committee from the Chamber of Commerce and the Manufacturers' Club. He will be the guest of Ansley Wilcox, while here.

CENSUS TAKING WORK NEARING COMPLETION; MANY YET UNCOUNTED

The work of taking Wichita Falls' census is now proceeding on a well-organized basis, and it is believed that when the time is up—May 15—practically every inhabitant of this city will have been duly counted. In the opinion of W. F. Jourdan, who is representing the Chamber of Commerce in the work, a great many names would be omitted if the census were to come to a close today.

Picards bearing the words: "Have you been counted yet? If not call up the Chamber of Commerce, Phone 390," and "See the census man today; pull together for Greater Wichita Falls" were distributed today by the Chamber of Commerce and are bringing good results.

Wichita Falls' census, when completed, will not be "padded," as are those of some cities. In Altus, Okla., it is said, every transient in the hotels are being counted and the list is being swelled in other ways equally profitable.

BRYAN MEN INJURED.

Two Were Hurt in Recent Hempstead Affray.

Texas News Service Special.
Houston, Tex., April 30.—J. F. Mahall and R. W. Howell, business men of Bryan, Texas, it is learned today, were passengers on the north-bound Houston and Texas Central train and were wounded at Hempstead in the battle of Thursday night in which Shannon and Poole were killed.

PATTEN IS AGAIN BIDDING FREELY

BULL LEADERS IN COTTON MARK- ET RENEW THEIR ACTIVITIES TODAY.

SCALES BUYS HEAVILY

Texan Estimated to Have Acquired Seventy-five Thousand Bales Recently.

By Associated Press.
New York, April 30.—James Patten, and the other bull leaders in the cotton back market are again today bidding freely for May and July contracts. Although they accepted notices yesterday of deliveries of about two hundred thousand bales they are seemingly as anxious as ever to buy all the cotton in sight. Trading is quiet and the volume of business is not large. It is estimated that Eugene Scales of Texas took seventy-five thousand bales yesterday.

NO UMPIRE NEEDED HERE.

Claude Ritchey, the ex-Pirate, has caught on with the Louisville team. Evidently no mistake about Midget Browning of the Tigers being some pitcher.

Outside of Addie Joss, the Cleveland pitchers seem to be unable to find their bearings.

Larry McLean is back with the Cincinnati club under a behave-or-banishment sort of contract.

Dode Criss, the champion pinch hitter of the Browns, is still there with the needed wallop.

The Cotton States League found the secret of happiness, reorganized and is playing ball once more.

The Doves must have sprained their "winnings" in taking those two first games from the Giants.

Billy Maloney, the former Brooklyn Chicago player, has joined the West End semi-professional team of Chicago.

When Johnny Kling and Mike Donlin get back in the game the National Commission can wind up its affairs and go out of business.

It is said that Manager Jennings of Detroit wants to get Jack Kleinow from New York, Hugh must be "leary" of his catching department.

In Pittsburg they placed the wrong numerals on the pennant and then hoisted it upside down. Guess that will make a Pirate fan spit over his little finger.

Connie Mack's pitchers are doing mid-summer work and it looks as if the White Elephant were out to cause trouble for the other American League teams.

Both the Red Sox and the Doves have a Collins, and the only Jimmy is in Providence, a short distance from Boston. The name will always sound good in the Hub.

TRIALS BEGIN MAY 4th.

Haskell Town Site Cases to Come Up Then.

Texas News Service Special.
Tulsa, Okla., April 30.—The trial of the Haskell town lot cases involving Governor Haskell and five business men of Muskogee is set for May 4th in the Federal Court here. Fifty veniremen have been summoned and the government has subpoenaed one hundred and twenty-five witnesses. Judge Marshall of Salt Lake City will try the cases.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS LODGE BEING FORMED; INSTALLATION TOMORROW

A lodge of the Knights of Columbus will be installed in Wichita Falls tomorrow afternoon and will be organized with about sixty members. This is a fraternal order composed altogether of Catholics. A number of members from Fort Worth, Dallas and other cities will be here to install the lodge and initiate the members. About forty members will be initiated here, and there are already about twenty unaffiliated Knights in this city who will join the lodge here. A meeting will be held tonight at Odd Fellows hall to complete the arrangements and the installation will take place tomorrow afternoon.

IN SOCIETY'S REALM

In Quest of Beauty.
Come, let us all be beautiful, no matter what our looks!
Directions we can clearly find in magazines and books;
For all of us may handsome be—there is reason in the rhyme—
Providing that to beauty's quest we give sufficient time.

We surely must have sleep enough, and should not think to rise until the morning sun is high and shining in the skies;
To dress allow an hour or more, nor think the time a waste;
For if we would be beautiful we must not dare to haste!

Our visage we must treat with care, not only wash, but steam;
Then treat it to a Turkish bath, and rub up with cream.
The gentle manicurist's art we must not think to shun—
Oh, if we would be beautiful, there's plenty to be done.

Gymnastics to the form convey a rare unstudied grace,
And in the program for the day massage must have a place;
While exercise in open air, of course, we must not shirk—
Oh, if we would be beautiful, it means a lot of work!

Come, let us all be beautiful! We can if we will try,
If to the task we heartily our energies apply;
For plainness should be ranked as sin and homeliness a crime.
And we may all be beautiful if we can spare the time!

Aid Society Picnic.
Fearing that "all work and no play might make Jack a dull boy" the Aid Society of the Christian church decided to spend an afternoon of combined business and pleasure out at Lake Wichita. Loaded down with baskets of good things, freezers, of ice cream and even the "little brown jug," of which even the minister drank, and did not disapprove, for it only contained "Adam's Ale," the ladies and a few invited guests boarded the three o'clock car. Arriving there the president, Mrs. Reese, called the society to order and the business meeting was held, for be it known it is always "work before play" with this energetic band of women. A social hour followed, which was greatly enjoyed and then all things else paled into insignificance when supper was announced and such a supper: It seemed everything good to the taste and pleasing to the eye was there in abundance. All too soon the time came to return to our homes, then came the scramble for the car in true picnic style and one by one the crowd grew smaller as destinations were reached and finally all that remained of a delightful afternoon was a satisfied appetite and most pleasant memories.

Where Quality Tells and Price Sells

Stray Topics from Little Old New York

New York, April 30.—All New York mourns the loss of Mark Twain, the great American humorist, who died peacefully the other day at his summer home in Connecticut. After a long and active life the Nestor of American humorists was called away, leaving a vacancy that can never be filled. He won the admiration and love of his fellowmen not merely as a writer of humorous yarns and as a brilliant after-dinner speaker, but by his kindness, frankness and other lovable characteristics. He did not contribute millions to universities and churches, did not found hundreds of libraries to perpetuate his name, but it is safe to say that his memory will live when the names of the men trying to buy fame with their ill-gotten millions will long be forgotten.

Quite recently a movement has been started for the erection of a suitable monument to the race of the American Indian, rapidly becoming extinct. There is a certain grim humor in the proposition which will appeal to those who have studied the history of the United States. It shows a commendable amount of decency in the promoters of the monument plan that they wish to erect a handsome monument upon the grave of the victim of American civilization. The poor red man was driven from his land, cheated, defrauded and, eventually, massacred, either by the superior armed force of the white men or by the physical and moral corruption inflicted upon them by the cunning and unscrupulous invaders. Is it not eminently proper, therefore, now that the work of "civilization" is completed, to mark the grave of the red man's race with an elaborate tombstone?

The taking of the United States Census in a city of the size and peculiar mixture of races in its population which New York can boast, is not an easy task and it speaks well for the ability of the officials in charge of the work that the task was completed with comparatively little difficulty and friction. The experiences of the enumerators, not only in the tenement districts of the East side with their polyglot foreign population, but even in the aristocratic precincts along Fifth avenue and Riverside Drive, would fill several good sized volumes. As a rule the enumerators met with little difficulty. Where there was any trouble it usually arose from the fact that the enumerators had to deal with women who considered the inquisitiveness of the officials an impertinence and shut the door in their faces. In some cases the enumerators were unnecessarily brusque or rude and fully deserved a rebuke. But, those cases were comparatively rare and the work progressed smoothly.

The disclosures concerning the career of the bogus Count d'Aulby de Gatigny, now on trial in Paris for swindling wealthy patrons of art by means of fraudulent "masterpieces," are rather humiliating for the scores of American millionaires who have been filling their houses and galleries with fake Rembrandts, Rubens, Velasquez, Gainsboroughs, etc., paying enormous prices for cheap imitations.

Champion Waco Basketball Team Coached by L. A. Webster

Several hundred guests were assembled to witness the ceremony and take part in the feast to follow, when the discovery was made that by the mistake of the license clerk Jake had been given the wrong license. There was great consternation and Jake started out to have the mistake corrected. The license clerk was in bed when Jake pounded on his door. He positively refused to make a night trip to the city hall to make out another license and nothing remained but to postpone the wedding once more.

SAW THE BRIGHT SIDE.

He Made the Most of an Unpleasant Situation.

A group of men were discussing human nature and the difficulty of looking always on the bright and glittering side of things when the dingy, dark brown side is uppermost and seems destined to remain uppermost.

"It's a great thing to cultivate a disposition to make the most of things in this life," remarked a man who used to drive trotting horses for a living.

"The most striking illustration I ever had of that was in a big horse race at a county fair down the state about ten years ago. The man driving alongside of me let his horse avenge on the back stretch, and my sulky was upset. That caused a general mixup, and a colored driver behind me got unloaded and his sulky broken to pieces. Well, I lay there for a minute, and then, as I didn't seem to be much hurt, I started to get up.

"Hey, boss, don't yo' go gittin' up!" yelled the colored driver at me excitedly.

"Why?" I asked him, some puzzled.

"'Cause," he answered, "yo' all lay right wha' yo' is, and in a minute they'll see' roun' hyah and haul us back pas' the gran' stan' in a cal'riage."

"Sure enough, they did, and when we drove up that home stretch in the open hack they sent for us that colored man was the happiest person I ever saw. Now, that's what I call making the most of things."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

COURTSHIP IN PORTUGAL.

The Way the Young People Begin Their Lovemaking.

The most important event in the life of a Portuguese woman is marriage. Next in importance are the early days of courtship, for a Portuguese courtship is the essence of romance, and the ways of the Portuguese lover are singularly picturesque. Here is a little drama in which Cupid is stage director. If a young Portuguese sees in the street a pretty girl with whom he would like to become acquainted he follows her. Chaperons are not impossible obstructions. He follows her right up to her very door and notes the address. Next day he comes again, and if the young lady approves of him—for she certainly saw him the day before—she is on the lookout.

Sometimes hard fate in the guise of an angry parent prevents her, and then the gallant youth is kept waiting. Sooner or later she leans over the balcony and smiles at him. The happy youth ties a note to a cord which the fair lady drops from the balcony. The next day the young man comes again. This time he rings at the door. If the inquiries which the young lady's elders have made prove satisfactory the swain is admitted to make the acquaintance of the young lady. After that courtship in Portugal is about the same as it is in Kankakee or Kalamazoo.—Leslie's Weekly.

Not a Laughing Matter.

Cut off from family and home by a relentless tide, fat Mr. Bodger had been forced to clamber till he gained a pathway cut in the cliff's face. It was a narrow path, and Mr. Bodger was no narrow man. Getting more frightened every moment, he proceeded warily along the fast diminishing way till at last it faded suddenly into what the poets would call "sweet nothingness." Already he was overlapping, and it was impossible to turn.

An excited crowd watched his progress from above.

"What on earth am I to do?" gasped Bodger desperately on his four-inch ledge as he gripped a tuft of seaweed with one hand.

"Do, gov'nor?" came back a voice. "Do anyfin'k you like, but for goodness' sake don't lart or your wesk't 'il bump yer off as sure as eggs is eggs!"—London Answers.

Can't Please Everybody.

The manager of an asbestos mill conceived a novel idea for his announcements. He had them printed on thin asbestos and inclosed in envelopes of the same material. As he was uncertain of the correct addresses of some of the stockholders, he ordered his stenographer to write on each envelope "Please Forward."

"The idea was clever, but one may appreciate the feelings of the widow of one of the stockholders when she received an asbestos envelope addressed to her late husband with the inscription "Please Forward" beneath the address.—Lippincott's.

All Were Pretty.

During an equestrian performance a number of ladies in the front stood up, thus obstructing the view of those persons who were seated. In vain were they collectively requested to sit down till at last a happy thought occurred to one of the sufferers. He called out in measured tones:

"Will the pretty lady in front kindly sit down?" whereupon about fifty old women briskly seated themselves.—London Tatler.

Old School Prejudice.

"Doctor, I met a medical practitioner of a new kind the other day, and I can't classify him. He diagnoses all diseases by looking at the finger nails of his patients. What would you call him?"

"I should call him a humbug."—Chicago Tribune.

The Feminine Instinct.

"What on earth made your mother bring home that bundle of feathers?"

"I'm sure I don't know, dad, unless it was because she saw it marked down."—Baltimore American.

CHINESE SAILORS.

They Never Learn to Tie a Knot Properly, Says a Skipper.

"I don't know why it is," said the captain of the tramp steamer, "but you can't teach any of those Chinese sailors there to tie a real knot."

"There isn't much need aboard a steamer for the rope knowledge that used to be so much the part of a fo'c'sle training, but we do need splices and knots now and again just the same."

"Those Chinese there, who were signed on as A. B.'s, can do anything needed in the way of splices that would make an old tar green with envy, and they'll fix up deadeyes better than most of the men I've shipped."

"But you can't get one of 'em to tie a right knot. Teach 'em again and again, and they remember the lesson for half an hour. Next time there's a straight everyday knot to be tied the Chinese fo'c'sle hand makes up the same old granny."

"Every child that tries to tie a knot makes a granny. This kind of a knot is made up by passing the ends around each other in the reverse direction, making the ends stand out at right angles. The ends should be wound around each other in the same direction. When they come out of the knot they should lie alongside the line on either side of the knot. Such a knot won't slip. But a Chinaman can't learn it for keeps—not he."

"The Lascar and Malay and Kanaka learn the right knot easily enough. In a storm that's one of the things we have to guard against if we have Chinese sailors."—New York Sun.

EYE DEFECTS.

Some Things That Are Said to Affect the Sense of Vision.

Many eye defects, of course, are due to the bad habits of their possessors. Tobacco, for instance, is generally held to impair the vision, usually injuring the color sense so that gold and silver become indistinguishable. According to some medical authorities, again, the connection between eye and tooth trouble is more than an old wife's fable. In his book dealing with the subject Hancock relates the story of a boy who woke up one morning to find himself blind. On examination his teeth were discovered to be crowded together, and a few of them were removed, with the result that by evening he could distinguish between light and darkness. More teeth were removed, and in eleven days his sight was fully restored. Other cases which tend to show the connection between eye and tooth trouble have also been noted. Very frequently occupation has much to do with one or other eye defect. Thus nystagmus is sometimes known as the miners' disease.

Nystagmus is an involuntary oscillation of the eyeball to and fro or round in its orbit. In contradistinction to glaucoma, it is a young defect, having been noticed in infants, but sometimes it attacks miners after forty. Miners are inclined to attribute the falling to the bad light, but it is more likely to be caused by the continual upward glance so often necessitated by their occupation.—Strand Magazine.

What the Light Revealed.

A story is told of a simple and devout Methodist minister who was not sufficiently eloquent or businesslike to be approved by the presiding elder. Through the influence of the elder he felt sure he was appointed to a small and widely scattered settlement where there was much hard work, and the results were necessarily meager. One day he was commenting sadly on the narrowness of his opportunities to a friend, who said gravely that he ought to pray for light that he might see the hand of the Lord in his appointment.

"I have, brother," he answered, "again and again. But so far," he added, with a whimsical smile, "I've had only light enough to see the interfering hand of Elder Brown."—Youth's Companion.

Eyeglasses.

"Did you ever notice," queried an optician, "that nearly every person who wears rimless eyeglasses when polishing the lenses with a handkerchief holds the glasses by the nose piece, thus putting all the strain of the rubbing upon the screws which attach the glass to the metal? Of course this tends to loosen the glass and wear out the thread upon the tiny screw. This in turn causes the lenses to wobble, resulting in great discomfort to the wearer. It's strange how little intelligence intelligent people display in simple matters, but then it brings us business."—New York Globe.

Margery's Accident.

"What's the matter with your office boy?"

"He hurt himself while running when I sent him on an errand the other day."

"Come off! You don't mean to say?"

"I do. He never did the errand, but he found out why a horse had fallen down in the street."—Cleveland Leader.

A Rare Bird Indeed.

"I think I shall learn to like that friend of yours."

"You were favorably impressed by him, eh?"

"Yes, indeed. He watched me playing billiards for an hour yesterday without once suggesting how a shot ought to be made."—Detroit Free Press.

His Illustration.

"Papa, what is faith?"

"Well, my boy, they say your baby brother sleeps, but I've never seen him do it. Yet if I believe he does—that's faith."—Life.

HIS DEATH SCENE.

A Stage Performance That Took Place Under Difficulties.

In an article on barnstorming in the Wide World Magazine P. R. Eaton describes a performance which took place under certain difficulties.

There had been an ice cream social just prior to our arrival in the hall, and no one had cleaned the stage. Mac had a new pair of broadcloth trousers and my scarlet tunic, also new. When a shot was fired he was to fall and before dying confess that he had killed old Fitzgerald.

The juvenile down front was not to speak till Mac had fallen and confessed. There he stood while Mac staggered about the stage looking for a clean place on which to fall. Mixed in with his lines he was making remarks to us in the wings sotto voce, while we were convulsed with laughter at his antics.

"I cannot die—oh, why didn't you have a grass mat?—I must not die—I shall ruin my breeches—I can't die—oh, this stage is afloat with ice cream—1—must—not—die."

Here the juvenile put in some side remarks of his own. "Oh, hurry up and die or I'll walk off!"

"Go ahead," retorted Mac, "and bring me a suck. I must—not—die. Well, if I must here goes—it's ruin to your tunic. Perce, and my breeches—oh, oh!" (He went down on one knee, then on one elbow and finally lay full length.) "The deed is done—I confess—1—murdered—Old Fitzgerald"—A realistic shiver and all was over, including the ruining of our clothes, as prophesied. The natives said it was the "best and most likeliest death scene that had ever been given in that town."

THE MUSKRAT.

More People Trap This Little Animal Than Any Other.

In America nearly 10,000 people trap the muskrat, or muskrat, every year. More people trap this little animal than any other. It is claimed that the greatest number of skins are taken in Minnesota and the Red river district. Most of the pelts are exported.

The skins are very uniform in color, usually a dark brown. However, those of Alaska and the Mackenzie district are very light in color. The black pelts or those which are nearly so come from the southern sections, although occasionally a few are found in other localities.

The muskrat is very prolific. In some latitudes, says the News, it has three litters of young in a summer and from three to five young in each litter. The animals are nocturnal in their habits, but are often seen during the day. Musquash, it is said, thrive best in sluggish streams, lakes and marshes. In appearance it is very much like the beaver, and its habits are very similar.

The muskrats that inhabit the ponds, marshes and shallow lakes build their houses of grass, weeds, etc., and plaster them together with mud. The house is built in the shape of a dome and is usually several feet above the water. The musquash that lives along the streams usually has its home in the banks of them. The entrance to this den is almost always beneath the water, but as the burrows range upward the dens are never filled with water except in times of freshets.

Color Blindness.

One thing is definitely shown by the tests that have been made for color blindness in various races—no race, however primitive, has been discovered in which red-green blindness was the universal or general condition, and this is a fact of some interest in connection with the physiology of color vision, for it seems probable that red-green blindness since it is not by any means a diseased condition represents a reversion to a more primitive state of the color sense. If this is so no race of men remains in the primitive stages of the evolution of the color sense. The development of a color sense substantially to the condition in which we have it was probably a prehuman achievement.—Professor R. S. Woodworth in Science.

A Gambler's Philosophy.

"There's no use in trying to buck against bad luck," said the successful gambler as he put down his glass of vichy and milk. "If you see luck is going against you, drop out. If the fickle goddess of fortune is with you, woo her for all you are worth. That's the whole secret of the game. I've been gambling all my life, and I rarely lose. Why? Because I never take a chance against bad luck. Luck is bound to be either with you or against you. You win or you lose. The chances of breaking even are mighty slim. So I never buck bad luck."—New York Times.

How Inspiration Works.

"This sea poem of yours fairly smacks of the salt gale. It is palpably the result of genuine inspiration. You evidently planned it while upon the bounding deep."

"Well, to tell you the truth," said the poet, "I got the idea one day while sitting in a shop having my shoes cobbed."—New York Journal.

Could Have Got It More Easily.

Mrs. Newlywed—People are saying that you married me for my gold. Mr. Newlywed—What nonsense! If I'd simply wanted gold I could have got it with far less hardship and suffering in South Africa or Alaska.—Scraps.

There is nothing so powerful as an example. We put others straight by walking straight ourselves.—Miss Swithead.

The Poppy Bee.
The poppy bee is the artist of the honey makers, though she builds her nest in a hole in the ground, burrowing down about three inches. At the bottom she makes a large hole and lines it gloriously with the scarlet petals of the red poppy. She cuts and fits the gorgeous tapestry perfectly,
then partly fills the cell with honey, lays an egg, folds down the red blankets and covers the hole so that it cannot be observed, leaving the baby bee to look after itself in its rosy nest.

Thrilling.
Sir John Benn recently related a story of a boy who was asked what he would like to be.
The boy said, "A lighthouse keeper."
The schoolmaster asked, "Why?"
The boy replied, "It would be so nice to sit up at the top of the lighthouse and see all the wrecks going to pieces below!"—Dundee Advertiser.

STARTING A FASHION

The Way a New Style in Ladies' Hair Was Born in France.

TOUCHED A QUEEN'S VANITY.

Marie Antoinette's Hairdresser Was Confronted With a Serious Situation, but His Gascon Diplomacy Proved Equal to the Occasion.

At the end of the year 1781 Leonard, hairdresser to Queen Marie Antoinette, was confronted by an alarming situation, and with the fulfillment of this dread event would fall his credit. But with his native "Gascon quickness"—as Leonard puts it in his "Recollections"—he proceeded to save his reputation.

"Madame," said he one day to the queen when he saw that the fall of her hair was imminent, "the high headdress is becoming very common. It is long since the bourgeoisie has taken possession of it, and now it is the turn of the common people."

"Good gracious, Leonard, what are you telling me? Do you know it grieves me to hear it? Those headdresses were so becoming to me!"

"And what headdress would not become your majesty? I have carefully thought over a total revolution in your majesty's headdress. I have even had your portrait drawn with the new arrangement I have in view, and, as I expected, my august sovereign by adopting my innovation would be made younger by six or seven years."

"Do you mean it, Leonard? The headdress you have in mind would make me look younger?"

"I do not see what your majesty could gain in that, for many women of the court would take on years to resemble the queen of France."

"Oh, I do not deceive myself, Leonard. I shall soon be twenty-seven, and at that age a style which makes one look younger is always favorably received."

"Well, madame," Leonard continued quickly, while placing a miniature before her majesty's eyes, "see this portrait—it is a striking resemblance. It is your majesty, but ten years younger."

"What do I see—the hair cut a few inches from the head?"

"Yes, madame, it will be, if you are pleased to consent to it, a coiffure a enfant, and you will see it taken up with as much enthusiasm as all those that I have created for your majesty."

"You are right, Leonard. It is charming. In truth, I am but eighteen with my hair dressed like that. But to sacrifice my beautiful hair!"

"Your majesty will have the satisfaction of seeing all the ladies of the court, all the ladies of France, sacrifice theirs."

"But if the style changes?"

"Who would dare to adopt a new one without your majesty's having first set the example? If some ambitious hairdresser amid the myriads of weaklings who swarm in Paris should dare undertake such a change I would have him reduced to atoms by the Journal des Dames. He would be a ruined man."

"But I prize my hair very much," said the queen, with an air of hesitation, still looking at the portrait. Yet I am dying to have my hair dressed a enfant."

"Well, madame, since I have been so fortunate as to find a style which pleases your majesty I must tell you all. For the last two weeks all my waking hours have been devoted to the service of my sovereign in the attempt to make an agreeable thing of an impetuous necessity."

"What do you mean, Leonard?"

"Your majesty was saying a little while ago that she prized her hair, and I can easily understand it; but, unfortunately, her hair does not prize her. Before fifteen days it will have entirely fallen out if this very day we do not apply the infallible remedy—the scissors."

"What's that you say?" exclaimed the queen with veritable fright.

"The least painful of truths, madame, since what I propose to your majesty, while forestalling a great misfortune, is entirely to her taste."

"Come, Leonard; no more deliberation. Cut it, but do not cut it too short."

"Just enough, madame, to give back to the roots of the hair the vigor it was beginning to lose."

The queen's beautiful hair fell under Leonard's regenerating scissors, and two weeks afterward all the ladies of the court had their hair dressed a enfant.

Let no one say there is no diplomacy outside the king's cabinet. It is at the bottom of all human combinations—Youth's Companion.

We call special attention to the bulk sweet mixed pickles. These are prepared from choice "Heinz-Ground" vegetables, preserved in a sweet, spicy liquor made of granulated sugar, old malt vinegar and pure spices. They are thoroughly sweet, but delightfully piquant—not insipid like ordinary sweet pickles.

SHE KNEW THE GAME.

A Nice Old Chicago Lady Who Was a Baseball "Fan."

I remember being on a Chicago street car, says Ellis Parker Butler in Success Magazine, sitting beside a nice old lady in mourning a year or so ago. She was nervous and kept glancing at me and then glancing away again. It made me uncomfortable. I thought she took me for a pickpocket or some other bad man. Finally she could contain herself no longer. She leaned over. "Excuse me," she said, "but have you heard yet how the Cubs game came out?"

"I hadn't, and her face fell, but in a moment she saw a possible opportunity for consolation.

"Well," she asked, "can you tell me who they are putting in the box today?"

How was that for a gray haired grandma?

In Chicago they all talk baseball from the cradle to the grave. Up to 3 o'clock in the afternoon during the baseball season no one talks about anything but the game of the day before. From 3 o'clock on the only subject is the game that is being played. The school child who cannot add two apples plus three apples and make it five apples with any certainty of correctness can figure out the standing of the Chicago nines with one hand and a pencil that will make a mark only when it is held straight up and down.

ART CRITICISM.

A Story a Painter Told About the Artist Constable.

A well known New York painter told at a luncheon a story about art criticism.

"All art criticism is tolerable," he said, "except that which is insincere. The great Constable at a vanishing day at the Royal academy paused before A's picture and said:

"Very good, especially the sky. The sky is superb."

"Then he passed on to B and said:

"A's picture is very bad. Go look at it. The sky is like putty."

"So B went and looked and then exclaimed as if to himself:

"Why, I like the sky!"

"Well," cried A, the painter of the picture, "why shouldn't you like my sky?"

"But Constable said it was like putty," B explained confusedly.

"So A in a furious rage strode up to Constable and shouted:

"Constable, you're a humbug. I never asked for your opinion about my picture, yet you came to me and praised it. You said that especially you liked my sky. Then at once you go off and tell some one else that my sky is like putty."

"Constable listened, with a smile. He was not at all confused.

"My dear fellow, you don't understand," he said; "I like putty."—Los Angeles Times.

A Fresh Start.

A girl came in and sat in front of them at the play, she and her escort. "What a lovely profile!" said he. "Beautiful! Delicate little upturned nose, small mouth, deep, pretty eyes! Isn't she beautiful—beautiful?"

"Beautiful," said she, "but not half so much so as the man she is with. Isn't he the handsomest chap you ever saw? Look at his color, his mustache, his lovely head of hair. So many men are bald or beginning to be bald. I do love to see a fine head of hair on a man."

"You know," he whispered, "it always makes me sore to speak of people beginning to be bald, and you know why."

"Will you let up on the pretty profile if I cut out the bald head?" she asked.

"Yes," said he.

"All right," said she.—New York Press.

Born to Starve.

Many years ago an American naturalist, Dana, discovered on the surface of the sea a little animal of so singular a character that he named it "monstrilla." It is a small crustacean akin to the cyclops so common in ponds. But, while the latter are furnished with all that is necessary to capture and digest their food, the monstrilla has neither apparatus for seizing prey nor any digestive tube. It is richly provided with muscles, nervous system and organs of sense; it lacks only what is necessary to prolong life by alimentation. The monstrilla is doomed, therefore, to natural death—Exchange.

An Odd Wish.

A PATHETIC PARTING.

Last Meeting of William Winter and Richard Mansfield.

The last days of Mansfield were impressively afflictive and sorrowful. His condition underwent very many changes, his suffering at times was great, but slowly he gained a little strength. He had for some time been determined on a journey to England. His passage was engaged for May 4, but he was not able to sail. I saw him on the morning of May 11, 1907. "I told them I would see you, Willy," he said, "even if I were dying." We sat together for some time. He did not speak much, nor could I speak much to him. It seemed best that we should both pretend to believe that he would soon be well, but I knew that I should never see him again. When he did speak it was little more than a murmured word or two. His mind was busy with the past. Several times he mentioned Jefferson and his paintings. "Studies in green they are," he said. "Once he spoke aloud to himself, 'I have not lived a bad life.' Presently I rose to go and clasped his hand and said goodby. At the door I turned to look at him once more. He was sitting huddled in his chair. His figure was much emaciated; his clothes hung loosely about him; his face was pale and very wretched in expression, and I saw in his eyes as he looked at me that he knew our parting was forever. I went back and kissed his forehead and pressed his hand and so came away. We never met again. Since then I have stood beside his grave. Life seems to be chiefly made up of farewells like that and memories like these.—"Life and Art of Richard Mansfield," by William Winter.

BLOTTING PAPER.

Its Discovery Was the Result of a Workman's Carelessness.

Blotting paper was discovered purely by accident. Some ordinary paper was being made one day at a mill in Berkshire when a careless workman forgot to put in the sizing material. It may be imagined what angry scenes would take place in that mill, as the whole of the paper made was regarded as being quite useless. The proprietor of the mill desired to write a note shortly afterward, and he took a piece of waste paper, thinking it was good enough for the purpose. To his intense annoyance the ink spread all over the paper. All of a sudden there flashed over his mind the thought that this paper would do instead of sand for drying ink, and he at once advertised his waste paper as "blotting."

The reason the paper is of use in drying ink is that really it is a mass of hairlike tubes which suck up liquid by capillary attraction. If a very fine glass tube is put into water the liquid will rise in it owing to capillary attraction. The art of manufacturing blotting paper has been carried to such a degree that the product has wonderful absorbent qualities.

The original blotting paper was of a pink color, due to the fact that red rags were used, rags which could not be used for making the ordinary paper, as the color could not be removed. Here was a method for using the apparently useless matter, and so for a long time pink was the predominant color.—London M. A. P.

The Arch.

The consensus of opinion among the learned is to the effect that the arch was invented by the Romans. Some claim that Archimedes of Sicily was the inventor, while there are others who would make it to be of Etruscan origin, but there can be no doubt about the fact that the Romans were the first to apply the principle to architecture. The earliest instance of its use is in the case of the Cloaca Maxima, or Great sewer, of Rome, built about 588 B. C. by the first of the Tarquin line of kings, a work which is regarded by the historians as being one of the most stupendous monuments of antiquity. Built entirely without cement, it is still doing duty after a service of almost twenty-five centuries.—New York American.

The Word "Slave."

An interesting instance in history of the twisted application of the names of a people is afforded by the case of the word "slave." Now, the Slav, tribes dwelling on the banks of the Danube, derived their appellation from "Slav," meaning noble or illustrious. In the days of the later Roman empire vast numbers of these Slavs were taken over by the Romans in the condition of captive servants, and in this way the name of the tribes came to time to carry with it the idea of a low state of servitude, the exact antithesis of its original meaning and one that has survived to this time.

Where He Belonged.

"Sir," said a little blustering man to a religious opponent—"I say, sir, do you know to what sect I belong?"

"Well, I don't exactly know," was the answer, "but to judge from your make, shape and size I should say you belong to a class called the In-sect."—London Tit-Bits.

Suspected of Wholesale Murder.

Aberdeen, Wash., April 30.—Intense interest is manifested throughout the Gray's Harbor region in the murder case against William Gohl of Aberdeen, ex-manager of the Sailors' union of Grays Harbor, which is to come up for trial next Monday at Montesano. Gohl is to be tried upon the specific charge of having murdered his former friend and companion, Charles Hattberg, a German sailor, but he is suspected of having robbed and murdered scores of other sailors, whose bodies were found in Grays Harbor during the past ten years.

The prosecution, headed by prosecuting attorney William Campbell of Hoquiam, has collected a large amount of evidence and expects to be able to prove not only that Gohl was guilty of the murder of Hattberg, but that, for many years, he has made it a practice of robbing and murdering sailors whom he had placed on vessels and who had entrusted their savings to him for safe keeping. The total number of Gohl's alleged victims is variously estimated at from sixty to one hundred and fifty. It is charged that by his wholesale robberies and murders Gohl has accumulated a fortune estimated at more than $20,000, which he will probably use for his defense.

Gohl has made no confession, but J. Mlinsenber, who is held as his accomplice in the case, made a detailed statement, incriminating himself, which will be used by the prosecution. According to the confession of Mlinsenber, who was arrested upon his arrival from San Rosalia, Mexico, on the schooner A. J. West, on April 5, Gohl, accompanied by Mlinsenber and William Hoffman, another German sailor, went out in the bay in a launch on the night of the murder. On the way, so Mlinsenber stated, Gohl killed Hoffman by firing two bullets into the back of his head, robbed him of $700, which had been paid to Hoffman by Gohl as wages during the afternoon; and then cast the body in the bay, weighted with a heavy anchor previously stolen from a mill company's boat. Mlinsenber further stated that, after they had returned to the shore after the murder of Hoffman, which was on December 23, 1909, Gohl forced him to accompany him to his shack and to kill Hattberg, who had been taking care of Gohl's hut and had learned too much about Gohl's alleged crimes.

The body of Hattberg was found in Indian Creek by Chief of Police Dean of Hoquiam, on February 3, last, strapped to a 50-pound anchor, and plainly visible at low water. The body of Hoffman whom Gohl is said to have thrown into the bay not far from the mouth of Indian Creek, has not yet been found, although the authorities have made the most diligent search and notwithstanding the fact that the Odd Fellow lodge to which Hoffman had belonged, offered a reward of $500 for the recovery of his body.

Hoffman and Hattberg disappeared about the same time, just before last Christmas, but at first their disappearance did not arouse any suspicion. In the early part of January the police authorities received a tip from "Ally" Montana, a somewhat notorious character, that Hattberg had been murdered and his body sunk to the bottom of the bay. It is supposed that he had heard Gohl speak of the crime. Acting upon the tip Chief of Police Dean detailed two men to watch Gohl while he began a thorough search of Indian Creek. After six weeks of searching the body was found and an examination showed that there were two bullet holes in the back of the head.

It is believed that two detectives from Seattle, who assisted in the investigation of the case and in the collecting of evidence against Gohl, struck up an acquaintance with Gohl and so completely won his confidence, that he became unguarded in his conversation and gave them some valuable pointers. It is understood that the authorities had information of Mlinsenber's connection with the Hattberg murder and were prepared to arrest him upon the arrival of the schooner upon which Gohl had placed him, a few days after the murder. Mlinsenber stated after his arrest that Gohl, fearing that he would betray the secret of the crime, tried to murder Mlinsenber and failing, owing to the latter's watchfulness, had placed him upon the schooner A. J. West and ordered him never to return under the penalty of death.

Gohl, who for several years was local agent of the Sailors' union, is said to have a bad police record which, it is understood, will be used against him in the trial. The union has raised a fund for his defense and Gohl will be defended by W. H. Abel, one of the shrewdest criminal lawyers in Chehalis county, who will be assisted by his brother, A. M. Abel of Aberdeen.

Don't Let it Worry You.

Scratching your head and worrying about the length of that lumber bill will never get you anything—not even the satisfaction of knowing how much it is going to cost you.

Put it in an envelope and mail it to us, or bring it in yourself, and let us make you an estimate on it. Then you'll be in position to take intelligent action on it. We will charge you nothing for making the estimate.

ROOSEVELT MEETS HIPPO.

He Tells of an Exciting Adventure in the Jungle. So I left Cunniff to cut off the head for the museum and started off by myself in the boat with two rowers, neither of whom spoke a word of English. For an hour we saw only the teeming bird life. Then, in a broad, shallow lagoon, we made out a dozen hippo, two or three very big. Cautiously we approached them, and when seventy yards off I fired at the base of the ear of one of the largest. Down went every head and utter calm succeeded. I had marked the spot where the one at which I shot had disappeared, and thither we rowed. When we reached the place I told one of the rowers to thrust a pole down and see if he could touch the dead body. He thrust accordingly, and at once shouted that he had found the hippo; in another moment his face altered and he shouted much more loudly that the hippo was alive. Sure enough, bump, went the hippo against the bottom of the boat, the jar causing us all to sit suddenly down—for we were standing. Another bump showed that we had again been struck; and the shallow muddy water boiled, as the huge beasts above and below the surface, scattered every which way. Their eyes starting, the two rowers began to back water out of the dangerous neighborhood, while I shot at an animal whose head appeared to my left, as it made off with frantic haste, for I took it for granted that the hippo at which I first fired (and which was really dead) had escaped. This one disappeared as usual, and I had not the slightest idea whether or not I had killed it. I had small opportunity to ponder the subject, for twenty feet away the water bubbled and a huge head shot out facing me, the jaws wide open. There was no time to guess at its intentions, and I fired on the instant. Down went the head and I felt the boat quiver as he passed underneath. Just here the lily pads were thick; so I marked its course, fired as it rose and down it went. But on the other quarter of the boat a beast, evidently of great size—it proved to be a big bull—now appeared, well above water; and I put a bullet into its brain.—'African Game Trails,' by Theodore Roosevelt, in the May Scribner.

THREATENING STARVATION

Lobster Lairs Are Rapidly Exhausting Their Supplies. Approximately twenty thousand people have supper in or near the Tenderloin each night. Next year, when the newer Lobster Lairs are built, the number is expected to increase to thirty thousand. Several thousand pounds of lobster and several thousand quarts of champagne (besides innumerable other things to eat and drink) are served by several thousand waiters every night. And in the morning there are several thousand aching heads and several thousand empty pocketbooks. You have doubtless heard Mr. Jas. G. Hill's shrewd epigram to the effect that it is not so much the high cost of living that kills the United States as the cost of high living. The cost of eating lobster must increase. The demand grows, but the supply diminishes. Millions of pounds of lobster are caught along the coasts each season, but the government statistics show that, despite the work of various fish commissions, the available supply has shrunk more than 50 per cent within the past three years. In short, starvation stares the Tenderloin directly in the double chin.—Everybody's Magazine.

In Memory of Daniel Boone. Salisbury, N. C., April 30.—Descendants of Daniel Boone and a host of other admirers of the famous pioneer gathered today at the old Boone homestead near here and took steps for the perpetuation of the memory of Daniel Boone and the preservation of the cabin in which he lived while a resident of Davidson county. The cabin is to be restored, as nearly as possible to the condition it was in when Boone occupied it and a suitable monument in memory of the pioneer will be erected in the grounds surrounding the house.

WOMEN'S BEAUTY.

Imperfect Digestion Causes Bad Complexion and Dull Eyes.

The color in your cheeks won't fade, the brightness in your eye won't vanish, if you keep your stomach in good condition.

This was the advice of a prominent physician to a woman's club in Boston and it is good advice.

Belching of gas, heaviness, sour taste in mouth, dizziness, biliousness and nausea occur simply because the stomach is not properly digesting the food.

The blood needs nourishment to carry vigor, vim and vitality to every part of the body and when food ferments in the stomach enough nourishment is not supplied.

Mi-na stomach tablets give instant relief to upset stomachs, but they do more; they put strength into the stomach and build it up so that it can easily digest a hearty meal without giving its owner hours of misery.

Mi-na is sold by druggists everywhere and by Week's Drug Co. at 50 cents a large box. It is guaranteed to cure indigestion or any stomach distress or money back.

WOMEN SPIES IN RUSSIA.

Their Great Beauty Lures Them to Tell Their Secrets.

The charm of Russian women is proverbial. They have won men's hearts for centuries, with a fascination greater than that of most women of any other country. Our American sisters attract easily, but not with the power that belongs to the Russian—the do not stir the whirlwind of emotions do the Northern beauties, nor do they inspire such mad love. The Russian woman's charm is almost hypnotic.

The coquetry is regarded as a great asset by the Czar's government; the heads of state play it as a trump card. Beautiful Russian women are sent as spies to the world over, to learn secrets of state from men whose heads they turn easily, and thus induce them to tell their innermost thoughts.

These beautiful secret service employes receive large salaries in addition to generous gifts for special work. The Russian government has employed women spies for well nigh a hundred years, although it is said that as long as live the Terrible, princesses were sent to distant lands to learn the true sentiment of foreign courts toward him.

Members of the present secret service corps are found in every civilized country of the world. The Russian is a natural linguist and learns to speak fluently all languages. In every instance these spies are women of masterful judgment and cool, calculating minds, although apparently they are only soft, gentle, negative natures of boundless charm and helplessness. Their insidious temperaments are brought to bear upon unsuspecting diplomats, statesmen and officials of different lands, and despite the fact that Russian methods are well known, the susceptible men never suspect their individual charms until they have been stung deep.

Naturally the lives of these women are filled with marvelous adventures. Many of them have had very narrow escapes, but they are fearless and daring—that desperate chance-taking spirit is part of the Russian nature; the people have been trained to take things against great odds, and the land where life is regarded so lightly, this spirit prevails.

The Russian women spies are prepared to play any part—to wear men's clothes, dress in rags or satin and in all sorts of queer and dangerous quarters, to take long, hazardous journeys and to be cast among roistering coarse men; they are ready to do "the great white Czar," for they are loyal Russians, not members of the revolutionary set.—Grace Aspinwall, in the Woman Beautiful.

CHINESE FANMAKING.

The Industry Carried on in One District For Centuries.

The fanmaking industry in China was started centuries ago in the village of Pengchow, at Ampow, about three miles from Swatow. It was formerly confined to women in various households, but for many years past every family in the village has been devoted to the work, all the members of the families being occupied in the manufacture. Only the open fan is manufactured in this district.

For the frame the split bamboo is repeatedly rived until each piece is sufficiently slender and flexible. These threadlike pieces of bamboo are arranged in a row, attached to each other by a thread passed crosswise through the middle. This thread is fastened to a semicircular strip of bamboo, giving the fan its shape. The ribs are then slightly heated and bent at the ends. The fan has now the peculiar and characteristic shell-like shape at the top. Very filmy silk gauze is then pasted on the face and a kind of tissue-like paper on the back.

After the handle is attached the border of the fan is black varnished and the gauze is coated with a chalk and water mixture. The handles are made of bamboo, various kinds of hard wood, bone and ivory. The hand painting on the fans is cleverly done, in some instances being works of art.—Exchange.

A FAITHFUL FRIEND.

The Secret of His Loyalty to the Condemned Man.

A negro was executed in a prison not long ago, says the Philadelphia Times. For several months prior to his departure he had been visited by a faithful friend who brought him chicken, possum, sweet potatoes, cigars and other things.

The bearer of these good things seemed to be under some trouble. It was suspected that he had some intimate knowledge of the crime for which the other was to be executed. The secret came to light on the morning of the execution, when one of the guards overheard this conversation between the two men:

"Now, Jim, didn't I done do everything I could for you?"

"Yes, Bill, you has sho' fulfilled all ob yo' obligation an' squared counts fo' dem crap games, an' I sho' is 'bliged to yo'."

"And, Jim, does yo' swear that yo' won't come and ha'n't me after yo's done gone an' been hanged?"

"No, Bill; yo' has sho' acted like a man an' a brudder, an' I ain't low down mean 'nuff to ha'n't yo' now, but ef yo' hadn't brung me dem things when I told yo' I sho' would ha'nted yo' every night of yo' life, an' don't yo' forget it."

Yellow Fever.

"Every one knows that when a man has once had yellow fever and recovers he never contracts the disease again, no matter how much he exposes himself to infection," said Dr. Fred S. Williams of Havana. "This ability to resist the minute organisms which cause the malady is called immunity, and in tropical countries where yellow jack is always present it is turned to profit in various ways.

"Thus during the Spanish-American war regiments of immunes were enlisted in the south for service in the fever ridden country about Santiago. Again, during an epidemic in New Orleans many persons purposely exposed themselves to infection because the disease prevailed in a very mild form, and they concluded that if they were infected they would quickly recover and would be immune during severe epidemics in the future."—Washington Herald.

Wonder of Blood Transfusion.

There is nothing more dramatic in surgery than a transfusion of blood—to see the patient take on the rosy hue of health, waken out of his lethargy, show an immediate live interest in his surroundings and actually recover under the eye of the operator, in adults we must not permit the amount transfused to equal the normal for fear of suddenly overtaxing the heart, but in the case of young children who have had severe hemorrhages there may be complete recovery without a period of convalescence, so that at the termination of the operation the patient is well.—Century.

Down and Up.

"That remedy," said a senator of a proposed piece of legislation, "is as impracticable as little George Washington's." George Washington, you know, when his father spoke to him about the cherry tree said:

"Yes, father; I did chop down the tree, but I can easily make the evil good."

"How so, my boy?" the father asked. "Why," said George, "if I chopped it down can't I chop it up?"—Los Angeles Times.

Poor Temper!

"I have just made a valuable discovery," announced Timper. "What is it?" asked Twigg.

"I'm a fool."

"Ah, the joke is on your tricks."

"How is that?"

"You know something they don't think you know."—Birmingham Age-Herald.
