

IN SOCIETY'S REALM

THE WAIL OF A BACHELOR.

I am a most unlucky man
In matters of the heart.
From youth it's been my wish to play
A matrimonial part;
I must have hoped a hundred times
And in a hundred ways,
But all in vain; a bachelor
I'll have to end my days.

My first love I remember well,
Miss Shipp, her I adored;
But when I asked her to be my mate
She threw me overboard.
Miss Cone was next; I told her that For her I pined, but she Said is a husband she desired,
She'd never pitch on me.

I asked Miss Page to be my bride,
She turned me down, alas!
Miss Wicks made light of my request,
Miss Hay said: "Go to grass!"
Miss Bird I begged to fly with me,
But she could give no hope;
Miss Mellen listened to my pleas,
But said: "I cantelope."

Miss Soule refused her heart to give,
Miss King my queen to be,
In vain I begged Miss Frost to melt,
Miss Leach to stick to me,
Miss Pond threw water on my hopes,
Miss Foote raised her hand,
I tried to pop to fair Miss Beach,
But did not have the sand.

Miss Pott I asked to cook my beans,
Miss Lodge with me to dwell,
I told Miss Ladd I'd be her man,
I tried to ring in Miss Bell;
And thus from maid to maid I went Proposing, but in vain—
Alas! a lonely bachelor I'm destined to remain.

Noted Southern Statesman Recalled.

Jackson, Miss., May 14.—Tomorrow will mark the centenary of the birth of Jacob Thompson, who was one of the members of the cabinet of President Buchanan and one of the leading public men of Mississippi. Born in North Carolina on May 15, 1816, Mr. Thompson came to Mississippi in his early manhood and at the age of 23 he was chosen to congress as a democrat. By continued re-election he served in congress for nearly 20 years. President Buchanan appointed him secretary of the interior in 1857, and Mr. Thompson served in that capacity until January, 1861. The occasion of his resignation was the ordering of troops to re-enforce Fort Sumpter.

While he was still holding the office of secretary of the interior, the legislature of Mississippi had appointed Mr. Thompson a commissioner to urge on North Carolina the adoption of an ordinance of secession. In the midst of the war he was elected governor of Mississippi and served from 1862 to 1864. He afterward was an aide-de-camp to General Beauregard in the field. In the summer of 1864 he went to Canada as a Confederate commissioner. His death occurred in Memphis, March 24, 1885.

Because he pulled the noses of the girls coming out of the school building, a certain young man in Cincinnati was arrested and fined. If that had happened in Texas the undertaker would have had a job on his hands. We mean if the young man had pulled the noses of the Texas girls.—Beaumont Journal.

Trial May Solve Poison Mystery.

Kirkville, Mo., May 14.—Mysteries of an unusual character remain to be solved in the case of Professor John T. Vaughn, for whose death his widow, Mrs. Alma Proctor Vaughn and her family physician, Dr. James R. Hull of Monroe City, are soon to be placed on trial. The case of the widow is on the court docket for next Monday, but it is understood that strong efforts will be made to have the trial delayed, probably until the fall term of court.

Prof. Vaughn, who was instructor in American history at the State Normal School, died October 14, of last year at his Kirkville home under peculiar circumstances. He had been in perfect health and attended church in the evening. At ten o'clock Prof. Vaughn left the church after he had informed one of his friends that he had some work to do at home and could not stay in church any longer. Half an hour later a message was received at the church that Prof. Vaughn was in convulsions and fifteen minutes later the news was brought that he was dead. Although the circumstances surrounding the professor's sudden death were peculiar, only a few persons considered the case suspicious and those were inclined to believe that Professor Vaughn had accidentally taken poison.

The body of Prof. Vaughn was buried at Monroe City, the home of his widow, who did not display much grief over her bereavement. Ten days after Vaughn's death Mrs. John R. Kirk, wife of the president of the State Normal, whose guest Mrs. Vaughn was after the funeral of her husband, heard her guest play Mendelssohn's Wedding March on the piano in her parlor. She was greatly shocked and considered Mrs. Vaughn's action suspicious enough to speak to her husband about it. President Kirk communicated with Prof. Vaughn's brothers and they began an investigation. After they had gathered some material they placed the matter before the coroner, who took official cognizance of the matter and ordered an investigation. In spite of the protest of Mrs. Vaughn and her attorneys, the body of Prof. Vaughn was exhumed and the viscera were turned over to Dr. Paul Schweitzer, of the Missouri State University for analysis.

When Dr. Schweitzer reported that he had found 49-55 of a grain, or nearly a whole grain of strychnine in the stomach and liver of Dr. Vaughn, the coroner's jury have a verdict in conformity with the findings and the grand jury indicted Mrs. Vaughn and Dr. J. R. Hull of Monroe City, for the murder of Prof. Vaughn. Both were arrested and placed under heavy bond for their appearance for trial, which was set for May 16.

Mrs. Vaughn, who is 25 years of age and quite attractive and vivacious, is the daughter of James M. Proctor, a wealthy bank director and the niece of Dr. Proctor, president of the Monroe City, (Mo.) Bank. She reputed to be wealthy in her own right and has many wealthy and influential relatives in various parts of the state. She became acquainted with Vaughn when she was a pupil in the Paris, Mo., high school, of which Vaughn was at that time the principal. They were married shortly after she had completed her course, although her relatives opposed the marriage to a man fifteen years her senior. They seemed to live happily and had one child, a little girl, now almost seven years old.

It is the general belief that, if Mrs. Vaughn had in some way caused the death of her husband, her motive was not to obtain possession of his estate, which is said to be considerable. It is expected that the trial will throw some startling light upon the relations which are supposed to have existed between Mrs. Vaughn and Dr. Hull, for several years the family physician of the Vaughns. Dr. Hull is fifty years of age and has a wife and married daughters. It is understood that the state will try to prove that Dr. Hull met Mrs. Vaughn secretly in Quincy several times and carried on a rather intimate correspondence with her.

Neither Mrs. Vaughn nor Dr. Hull showed any disposition to evade service with the papers issued against them and it is considered a strong argument in their favor. It is an actual fact that Mrs. Vaughn voluntarily came from Monroe City to Kirkville to accept service. She, as well as Dr. Hull, deny that they were in any way responsible for the death of Prof. Vaughn or that they had the slightest motive for removing him. Mrs. Vaughn has made the statement that her late husband had been in the habit of carrying medicine with him and that on the night of his death, shortly after his return from church, he had taken a white powder which he said was quinine, wrapped in a piece of tissue paper. The paper was found in the stomach, together with some undigested food.

RELIC OF FAMOUS RACE HORSE.

Hide of Animal Valued at $10,000 is Couch Cover.

There is among the possessions of August Belmont in the residence occupied by Superintendent Ed Kane at Nursery stud, near Lexington, Ky., a $100,000 couch cover, which was greatly admired by Eleanor Robson, the charming bride of the great financier, turfman and chairman of the Jockey Club, when recently they stopped off in their honeymoon entourage for a day at this famous farm. Of course this couch did not actually cost $100,000 in its making, and its market value, based on the price of choicest leather, is nothing approximating that vast sum, but the master of the Nursery would doubtless preclude its sale at any price. This couch cover is the hide and hair of the celebrated race horse and sire, St. Blaise, who had the distinction of having been sold at auction for $100,000, and who, under the weight of his twenty-nine years and attendant infirmities of old age, died at the Nursery October 27, 1909.

Superintendent Kane sent the rich chestnut coat of St. Blaise to a tanner in New York, with instructions to preserve as much as possible of it, and it came back beautifully finished, minus only the skin that had covered the face and legs, and long bright hairs of the mane and tail remaining to fall gracefully over the head and foot of the couch which the coat of the celebrated equine now covers in the hallway of Mr. Kane's home. St. Blaise was bred in England by Lord Arlington, and was foaled in 1880. As a 2-year old he won four of his six races, including a walk-over and a dead heat, this latter with Elzevir in the Molecomb stakes at Goodwood.—St. Louis Republic.

"Where Quality Is Higher Than Price"

Comment on the...

Hook Worm

The following interesting comment on the hookworm is taken from the address of Dr. C. W. Stiles of the U. S. M. and H. Service at the recent convention at Dallas.

"It is unnatural to bring different races of men as inhabitants into the same country. In our Southern states 34.34 per cent of the population is of African origin. The white race has brought disease here from Europe and the black race has brought disease from Africa. Each race has transmitted its disease to the other race, each being virgin soil for the maladies of the other.

"The negro has contracted tuberculosis from the white man and his death rate from this disease is three times that of the white. In return he has given the white race, which suffers from this infection much more than does the negro. Certain diseases are spread by poor sanitation. This is particularly true of the negro diseases. White people who live under good conditions may contract these infections in slight degree and not suffer very much. But the poorer families without good sanitary arrangements suffer severely from these negro maladies, which are spread through filth. The 'tenant' white class of the South a people of good extraction but of defective physical development, suffer greatly.

"The sanitary conditions of our open country are miserable. Of 1,000 Southern families examined, 61 per cent were found to be without any toilet facilities, 44 per cent of the white farms and 89 per cent of the negro farms were without toilets. The result is a wide-spread soil-pollution, with a great amount of resulting disease, such as hookworm and typhoid fever. Dr. Brumby, State Health officer of Texas, recently reported that of 100 farms examined only five had toilets. Thus sanitation is far behind the times in sanitation."

Dr. Stiles explained the anatomy and the life history of the hook worm. He showed the pictures of many hookworm patients, some of them farmers and some cotton mill hands. He declared that the pale faces of cotton mill hands, commonly attributed to working indoors were not due to working indoors but to hookworm disease, contracted most probably by the patients on the farm before going to work in the mills. In support of this claim he exhibited diagrams of numerous examinations which showed that the so-called cotton mill anemia is not uniformly distributed in mills of the same kind in the same localities, but that it is most common in laborers coming from the sand lands and next common in laborers who come from the mountains, and least common in laborers from clay lands and from cities. Yet all these people are breathing in the same kind of cotton lint.

In explanation of the wide-spread prevalence of disease in the United States, Dr. Stiles said: "We Americans as a Nation are conceited and dirty. We are so well satisfied with ourselves that we bury about 35,000 persons a year from typhoid fever, about 18,000 persons a year from tuberculosis, and in all, according to statistics, about 600,000 persons a year from preventable causes. Still, we have not yet shown sufficient moral courage to enforce the anti-spitting laws. We are as a nation ignorant as to what constitutes cleanliness and good sanitation. We are so conceited so proud of and contented with ourselves that we continue in our filthy habits and continue to bury our people at an inexcusable great rate.

"You should all join in a campaign to clean up your back yards and farms in proper sanitary condition, and thereby reduce the death rate, especially among the women and children.

"The treatment of hookworm disease is simple, but it should always be given under the supervision of a physician, as the size of the dose of medicine depends upon the condition of the patient's heart. The two drugs used are thymol and Epsom salts. Many cases are cured in a single day's treatment. Other cases must be treated once a week for from two to twenty weeks. If a person is not treated and does not become reinfected, he will outgrow his hookworm infection in about eleven years."

Following the illustrated address, a hookworm symposium was held in the section meeting, during which the technical side of the treatment of hookworm infection was discussed by a number of the physicians.

Dr. Stiles brought out the point that many children attending country schools are growing up under a severe handicap. "In some localities," said he "50 to 95 per cent of the school children show hookworm infection, which stunts them in their physical and mental development. They are backward in their studies, and they have a high absenteeism from school. We are educating our country children from 6 to 20 years of age, and burying many of them before they are 21. In one family of sixteen children twelve were dead and four living; in another family of twenty children, only five were alive all dying of hookworm disease. But these facts are not of much interest to Americans, who hold life so cheap. But if these children had been swine, the country would have made greater efforts to save them.

"The same conditions which spread hookworms also spread typhoid," continued Dr. Stiles. "Our Nation-wide typhoid death rate is 46.5 deaths per 100,000 inhabitants, and our negro population averages 11.6 per cent deaths from typhoid. The fifteen negro states average 34.34 per cent negro and 72.7 per cent of 100,000 in their typhoid death rate. There are seventeen states with an average of 2.48 per cent negro population, and in these states the typhoid death rate drops to 39.25 per 100,000. Then there are eighteen states with an average negro population of 0.4 and the typhoid death rate rate drops to 25.51 per 100,000. Thus the greater the negro population, the higher the typhoid death rate.

THE "KNOCKER."

No city, however great may be the predominance of the booster element, is entirely free from the class known as "knockers."

By the term knocker, we do not mean a man who necessarily is ashamed of his town or who has no faith in its future. A man may be neither of these and yet give careless utterance to sayings that tend to discourage the newcomer and make him feel less hopeful and enthusiastic about what he had probably already decided was one of the best towns on the footstool.

In addressing the mass meeting at the court house recently, President Emerson of the United States Packing Company, said that the man who was not proud enough of Wichita Falls to help build her ought to get out.

A man who has been in Wichita Falls only a few months and who is associated with a concern that is doing more business than it can begin to handle, was heard recently to warn a prospective investor against "going too strong" here.

If we can't eliminate the knocker from our midst, we can at least counteract his yapings by putting in a good word at every opportunity.

Think about the union depot and the railroad shops that are to be built this year; the streets that are to be paved; the five-story building that is going up; the packing house and the brick plant and the other new industries that are coming.

Ruth Graves.

On Thursday, May 5th, Ruth Graves, loved by all who knew her, fell asleep surrounded by loving Christian ladies who left nothing undone to make the last moments of this life peaceful.

Miss Ruth was born in Kansas in 1892. At a tender age she was deprived of the tender care of a loving mother, at the hand of the grim reaper. Thus were the duties of mother to a baby brother and housekeeper for the father thrown upon Ruth's young shoulders, but she never complained.

While attending the high school at El Paso several years ago she contracted the dreaded tuberculosis and, though the loving father done all that his circumstances would allow, the disease did not check.

About a year ago the family moved here and the effect of the pure air was very noticeable in her a month after she came. In six months, even the anxious father began to hope for her ultimate recovery. But it was not to be. God, in his all-seeing providence, plucked the flower while it was sweet and fresh, and, though in the father's heart is left the thorn, he may be comforted by the sweet thought that the rose is blooming, kissed by the sunshine of His presence, by the side of his wife and her sainted mother.

To the bereaved father and to the little brother we pour out the deepest sympathy of our hearts. Oh, how sad must be the home now that its light has gone! But father, think not that now you have nothing to live for, but rather that you have doubly more to live for now than before—to live that some day you will be united with your loved ones, to part no more. What comforting thoughts and surely the sufferings we have on this short span is worth joy like this throughout eternity.

Ruth Graves was the daughter of Geo. E. Graves, for any years a conductor on the Denver road, and resided in this city up to five years ago, after the death of Mrs. Graves, the family moving to El Paso.

She was a sweet girl and loved by all who knew her. She was a faithful attendant at the Episcopal Sunday School. Her untimely death will be a shock to her many friends in this city.

Why Delay?

TEXAS PRESS OPINIONS.

Two Texans are prominently mentioned for bishops of the Methodist Church, South. Texas can furnish first class material for any first-class job going. The soil breeds that variety—Amarillo Panhandle.

At least the News is dead certain that every self-respecting man in Texas will resent Dr. Rankin's presumption that it is essential to know where he stands on the governor's race before they can cast a vote.—Brownwood News.

A straw vote taken on the special train bearing prominent Methodists of Texas to the Asheville conference showed 27 votes for Johnson and 3 for Poindexter. Dr. Rankin was not one of the two who voted for the Cleburne man.—Tyler Courier-Times.

We have no defense to make for the evils of whiskey, but we do wish that as much attention was given by Christian people toward correcting other evils that are daunting the civilized world. Yes, whiskey is bad, but it is not the root of all evil.—Bartlett Tribune.

The Birmingham Ledger thinks that Mr. Bryan might be induced to become senator from Texas. Perhaps, but Texas is very well represented as it is, and there is little evidence that it desires to change, even for the peerless one.—Beaumont Enterprise.

Jewell P. Lightfoot is having such an easy time in the race for attorney-general that he hardly knows that he is running. He goes out and makes his Woodman speech at picnics occasionally and forgets to tell the people that he is a candidate for anything.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Texas is coming out strong in many ways, and particularly in onion culture. The state reports an extraordinary expansion in railroad building, development of sections heretofore unsettled, creation of various industries in addition to farming and a big boom in onion growing. The Texas onion has practically supplanted the Bermuda variety in this country, a fact that almost takes the breath away.—Rockport Tribune.

Davidson is Making Good—Colquitt Says It Suits Him—Will Fight to a Finish—Cone Johnson Spoke in Waco—Dr. Rankin for Johnson—Prohibition Chief Issue—Did Ambition Lure Dr. Rankin?—Poindexter's Frey Words: "here were the headlines strung across the front page, overflowing onto the second, in an issue of the Waco Tribune last week. Such is politics in Texas; and the campaign is just beginning to be 'het up.'—Temple Telegram.

In taking militant advantage of our two-crop climate Southwest Texas put Bermuda out of the onion-growing business, and now the cranberry farmers of New Jersey and Wisconsin are beginning to walk the floor nights. Leastwise, the rosella plant—introduced into Texas some two years ago from Jamaica—has proven a commercial find on the government's demonstration farm near Brownsville. Sauces, jellies and even refreshing drinks are made from rosella. And now we have the cranberry worried.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

H. Hairston, deceased, whose residences are unknown, to be and appear before the Hon. District Court at the next regular term thereof, to be held in the County of Wichita, at the Court House thereof, in Wichita Falls, Texas, on the 6th day of June, A. D. 1910, then and there to answer a Petition filed in said Court, on the 7th day of April, A. D. 1910, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 2917, wherein Emma F. Kemp is plaintiff and Cabell Hairston, Sr.; Willie Hairston, Anna Hairston, Nettie Hairston, Lula Hairston and Cabell Hairston, Jr., and the unknown heirs of P. H. Hairston, deceased, are defendants, the nature of the plaintiff's demand being as follows, to-wit: Plaintiff alleges that on September 30th, 1909, she was and is now lawfully seized and possessed of a tract of land hereinafter described, situated in Wichita County, Texas, and being 100x116 2-3 feet, out of Lot 4, Block 225, in the City of Wichita Falls, as shown by the original map of said City of record in the Deeds Records of Wichita County, Texas, and more particularly described as follows: Beginning at a point on the North side of 12th street, 50 feet Westward from the S. W. corner of said Lot 4; Thence at right angles with 12th street 116 2-3 feet; Thence Eastward with 12th street 100 feet; Thence Southward in a line perpendicular with 12th street 116 2-3 feet to a point in North side of 12th street in South Base of Lot 4; Thence Westward with 12th street 100 feet to beginning, holding the same in fee simple, and on said day defendants entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff therefrom and withholds from plaintiff the possession thereof to her damage, $500.00; plaintiff alleges that she claims said land under deed duly registered and she and those under whom she claims have had peaceable, continuous and adverse possession of the lands and tenements hereinabove set out, using and enjoying the same, paying the taxes due thereon for more than 5 years and more than 5 years before the commencement of this suit; plaintiff alleges that defendants set up a claim to said land by reason of the fact that they are heirs of said P. H. Hairston, and that said P. H. Hairston, their ancestor, having died seized and possessed of said land owing the same in fee simple and they as her heirs having acquired said property by inheritance and claim same by reason of said inheritance, that is, all said defendants claim to be descendants of P. H. Hairston, except Cabell Hairston, who is her surviving husband and all defendants claim said land by being heirs of said P. H. Hairston, deceased. Wherefore plaintiff prays for restitution of the above premises, clearing her title, for damages, costs and general relief.

TODAY'S PRISONERS OF WAR.

United States Holds 261 in Durango. Five Were Warriors.

"The Man Without a Country" was a character in fiction, but almost as startling to the popular imagination is the unquestionable fact that in these times of peace there are 261 "prisoners of war" in the United States, in defiance and under military control. They are the survivors of the 407 Apaches under Chief Geronimo who twenty-three years ago were removed from New Mexico, as a measure of precaution, and placed under armed guard. That at the time was thought to be the short and simple way for keeping the Apaches off the warpath. They had left a trail of fire and blood on their raids in New Mexico, and Geronimo was regarded as worse than a bad Indian, a fiend incarnate. Since they were deported they have been interned at Fort Marion and Pickens in Florida; at Mt. Vernon Barracks, Ala., and at Fort Sill, Okla.

Of the original band but seventeen are known to have made war against the United States, and but five of these survive. Geronimo has gone to the happy hunting grounds. At Fort Sill, where the prisoners have been for sixteen years, they are peaceful, orderly, and differ from no other reservation Indians except in being guarded. It is now proposed to release these Apaches from captivity, giving them allotments in severalty at Fort Sill or in such other locality as the Secretary of the Interior may decide. A bill to carry out this purpose has passed the Senate and is now before the House. That these wild people are now thoroughly tamed and not only willing but anxious to live at peace with their white neighbors and the nearby Comanches and Kiowas is the belief of the military authorities who have so long held them in custody.

If their punishment was deserved, it was nevertheless severe, for they were hill people and they suffered much during their stay on the Florida coast and in Alabama. Consumption found many victims. At Fort Sill they have had more favorable environments, and have under restrictions for their safe-keeping been allowed to follow congenial industries. They have flocks and herds enough to give them capital with which to start their career as "good Indians." In the twenty-three years they have been in military keeping they seem to have won the good will of their guards, and among the officers who have conspicuously ameliorated the lot of the captives is Colonel Scott who was at one time commandant at Fort Sill. Army sentiment generally second the efforts of the Indian Rights Association to do away with the anomaly of prisoners of war in peace.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Fads and Fashions

New York, May 14.—Those who expected that with the approach of the summer season fashion would declare upon a certain and definite style of silhouette for women's dresses or designate itself for some particular period, are sorely disappointed. The uncertainty as to the future is as great at present as it was last fall. Compromise seems to be the dominant note in the fashions of the day and it seems that for some time to come feminine dress fashions will be based more or less upon compromise.

In many instances the new skirts, both for day and evening wear, present quite remarkable examples of a compromise. Just below the line of the waist they start their career with an extraordinary amount of fullness, brought about by sundry gathers and plaits, and affording a striking contrast to the close-fitting skirts of last season. After allowing to the upper part of the skirt a certain amount of latitude, however, in the way of plaits and folds, dame fashion seems to change her mind, and the same draperies a little lower down are gathered in quite closely in the region of the ankles under a wide band of some contrasting fabric. This broad band of material draws the skirt down and holds it in place within a limit which is much narrower than any other part of the skirt.

The Russian influence is still felt in outdoor toilettes though, as the weather grows warmer, the double-breasted coat is modified by leaving off the collar and having a Y-shaped opening at the neck, which is very becoming to nearly all figures. This design is suitable for plain faced cloth or cashmere, with embroideries in silk and a black patent leather waist belt with fancy clasp on it, or it could be carried out in colored linen embroidered in white or the same color as the material. The style is so simple that it is eminently suitable for a washing costume.

The separate vest, for which the Louis XVI period, with all its magnificence, is responsible, has made its appearance in Paris and New York, and although it is as yet a rather exclusive garment it will no doubt prove its right to a place in our wardrobes by its convenience and comfort. It is an addition to any costume and a last beautiful touch. Another recommendation for the vest is its value as a becoming color note and as a means of introducing richness to the otherwise simple coat suit. Paris wears the vest richly braided or embroidered satin, or of ornate lace with the supple satin coat suit. The combination is the richest street costume of the season. In its less elegant forms the vest is made of linen or of wide-waived plique or cotton Bedford cord. Plain silk and plain cloth, too, are used, and the make-up of this fascinating masculine garment brought in to feminine lines and uses varies from the plainest corded, stitched or strapped edges to most elaborate creations in handwork.

The sheer white goods vest, with laces galore, is one of the most summery expressions of this style, while the most simple and practical vest is that developed in plain linen for wear with the tailored suit. Every available kind of metal button has been used to ornament and fasten the severely plain vest. Four, or even two, gold ball buttons have been brought into requisition as the sole attraction of some of the little foreign vests bound with gilt braid. Silver filigree buttons and Etruscan gold, as well as colored enamels, have found their way to the fronts of others.

For summer traveling the topcoat is just as important as the various other wraps or jackets that women considered necessary. Whether in motor car, train or on foot, the summer mantoux are of varied design and decided utility. The straight silhouette, with no flare at the feet is the one striven for by Paris designers, with, undoubtedly more attractive results than we usually associate with the convenient slip-over article. The range of materials is wide, including heavy tussor, coarse chevots and cloths that are of basket weave, while charmeuse, satin and changeable silks under voile are delightfully fashioned into afternoon wraps, with which the Parisienne always covers her afternoon gowns.

One of the striking features of the summer coat is its lining. Of soft foulard in some of the most attractive designs, it generally contributes to a striking whole. White serge is still in high favor; oyster gray and tan linen are delightfully heavy in the new basket weaves, while woolen materials are loose enough to afford comfort without an overburdening warmth. The summer coat is usually ornamented with a marine collar or with long revers that cross and button quite far down. Metal and tortoise shell buttons are used on the summer coat and huge pockets are not lacking. Keep in mind these points when planning this very necessary article in your summer outfit.

An important detail that is recurring with persistency is the introduction of black pipings. They are used to emphasize the important lines of a costume. The bolero line that is certainly creeping into the newest models of the season is successfully suggested by pipings. The extended yoke frequently can be emphasized by narrow pipings that cross the bodice or the sleeves. The value of a touch that frequently holds the different tones of a color scheme together in one effective whole.

Turbans closely imitating Oriental styles, are much worn in Paris and are rapidly becoming popular here. They come as a relief from the extremely large hats and the small, closely fitting toque occupies a place which can not be filled by any other shape. Of supple straw, so soft that there seems to have been little difficulty experienced in plaiting it into the brim, the turban swathed with Persian silks, speaks for itself of the possibilities of color and form. Blue predominates in this model, while a rose of old gold silk nestles in green leaves at one side. The hair forms a soft resting place for the entire form.

Chantilly lace effects are particularly fashionable in women's hose just now and so delicate is the texture of the hose that the lace actually seems to be attached to the skin at ankle and instep. Hand-embroidered silk stockings are very expensive, but the woman who can embroider may have beautiful stockings at very little cost. Tiny rosebuds and forget-me-not patterns are the daintiest, and there are leafy spray and bowknot effects that look well in self-color embroidery. Black lace butterflies and other motifs may also be used with good effect, great care must be taken, however, that the edges are firmly secured with buttonhole stitches, so that the silk stocking may not ravel away from the face medallion.

With a pink frock and pink slippers pink silk hose embroidered with rosebuds are worn; with a pale blue frock, blue slippers and forget-me-not embroidered hose. The yellow dress has stockings embroidered with buttercups and the lavender dress, of course, is accompanied by violets embroidered on a lavender ground. Beautiful bridal silk stockings are embroidered with lily of the valley sprays, among which are set motifs of real lace.

For dress occasions more velvet than gold slippers are worn. The dainty velvet pump with high heel and delicately turned sole promises to be exceedingly smart with summer evening frocks.

"THIS IS MY 51st. BIRTHDAY."

William M. McCarty.

William Murdock McCarty, who worked his own way from farm boy and mine worker to the position of chief justice of the supreme court of Utah, was born at Alpine, Utah, May 15, 1859. As a youth he worked on the farm and at saw mills and cattle ranches and gaining such education as could be obtained by attending the country schools for a few weeks during the winter. In 1876 he quit the farm for the laborious work in the mines and at the smelters. In the winter of 1881-2 he was enabled to attend an academy for sixteen weeks and the following summer he began to read law at Monroe, Utah. He was admitted to the bar in 1887 and two years later was appointed assistant United States district attorney. When Utah was admitted to Statehood in 1895 Mr. McCarty was elected district judge and was re-elected in 1900. He continued on the district bench until elected to the supreme bench of Utah in 1902, in which he was associate justice until 1906 and since then has been chief justice.

Parisian Sage Stops Falling Hair and Makes it Grow, or Money Back.

People who are not using Parisian Sage are not using the best, most delightful and refreshing hair grower and tonic in the world.

Parisian Sage is the big seller nowadays because when once tried no one ever goes back to the ordinary commercial tonics.

Read this: Mrs. Alberta Van Hise, 725 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J., on Oct. 14, 1909, wrote: "I have used Parisian Sage, and can say, safely, that it has been very beneficial to my hair, stopping my hair from falling out and curing dandruff and making my hair much thicker and nicer."

"Last summer I had the measles and my hair came out in handfuls; I thought I would have to have it cut off. I got a bottle of Parisian Sage, used it, and it saved me from having my hair cut off."

Parisian Sage is sold by druggist everywhere and by the Weeks Drug Co., and is guaranteed to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itchy scalp in two weeks or money back. It makes women's hair bewitching, lustrous and luxuriant. Big bottle for 50 cents; mail orders filled, charges prepaid by American makers, Groux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Carrying News to Hanover.

London, May 14.—As might be expected, a number of persons have come to the front this week ready to make the solemn assertion that they saw "the boatman" start for Hanover with the news of King Edward's death. As the most of the self-styled eyes-witnesses to the supernatural event, however, are sailors and longshoremen who are commonly supposed to be more superstitious than veracious, their confirmation of the old story of the Hanover boatman may be taken for what it is worth.

The earliest authority for this popular story, which has been revived with the death of every British sovereign for nearly a century and which is still believed by a surprisingly large number of people, was Col. Dawson Damer, a son-in-law of the celebrated Mrs. Fitzherbert.

It seems that on the night of June 26, 1830, Col. Damer was standing with a friend on Westminster bridge, when he saw a small wherry containing a little muffled figure dart from the shadows and swiftly and noiselessly make his way down the river.

While they were watching the small craft a Thames veteran near by exclaimed in an awestruck voice, "There goes the boatman to Hanover!"

On being asked what he meant, the man explained that King George must be dead, as the figure always appeared on the demise of the sovereign, his consort or the direct heir to the throne, and rowed to Hanover to carry the news.

On returning home Col. Damer heard that George IV. had died at the hour when he saw the wherry set out from beneath the bridge.

The ghostly boatman is said to have come over with the house of Hanover and to have been seen at the death of each of the English sovereigns of that dynasty. When the prince consort died in 1861, the boatman is stated to have appeared from beneath Westminster bridge, and, again, at the very moment when Queen Victoria breathed her last at Osborne, not only many Thames watermen, but quite a number of well educated and responsible people alleged that they saw the messenger of death bending to his oars on his ghostly errand to Hanover.

It is a queer superstition, quite in keeping, however, with those according to which the death of a number of the reigning house of Hohenzollern or of Hapsburg is always heralded by the apparition of a white lady.

SEVEN SEATS ARE CLAIMED.

This is Senate Change Which Democrats Predict.

Washington.—The prospects of the insurgents in the Senate are looking up. Many indications are given that after this Congress they will hold the balance of power in the upper house and will be in a position to have a much greater influence on legislation than they now have.

The announcement of the purpose of Senators Aldrich and Hale to retire from the Senate at the end of this Congress is the forerunner of a great change in things at the Senate end of the Capitol. The power of the old organization is on the wane. That element among the Republican members of the Senate known as regular Republicans will continue to be the most numerous element on the Republican side, but it begins to look as if the insurgents would be more potent in shaping the course of legislative events.

Even if Senators Aldrich and Hale should continue in the Senate, much the same thing would doubtless be true. With Aldrich and Hale gone however, the regulars will suffer for lack of strong leadership and with a decline in number, and it is likely they will fall far short in the next Congress of holding the commanding place they have held hitherto.

It is expected that not less than seven Republican Senators will be succeeded by Democrats.

The Senate now has ninety-two members, of whom fifty-nine are Republicans and thirty-three are Democrats. If the Democrats gain seven seats they will enter into the Sixty-second Congress with forty and the Republicans will have fifty-two. It is easy to see in what position of advantage this would place the insurgents.

Among those generally looked on as in jeopardy are Senators Burkett of Nebraska, Carter of Montana, Dupont of Delaware and McCumber of North Dakota. Senator Warner of Missouri will probably be succeeded by a Democrat. Talk is current that he will not make the race for re-election. Senator Dick of Ohio is confronted with trouble both for renomination and re-election. And there are several other State situations that are extremely uncertain and out of which the Democrats hope to gain at least two Senators.

Senators Aldrich, Bulkeley, Burrows, Clapp, Clark, Flint, Hale, Lodge, Nixon, Page, Scott and Sutherland will end their present terms next March. Each of them will either succeed himself or be succeeded by a Republican. Aldrich, Hale and Flint will retire. Bulkeley is expected to succeed himself. Burrows may be beaten by Representative Townsend.
Clapp will be returned and so will Clark, Lodge, Nixon, Oliver, Page, Scott and Sutherland, probably.

Indications now are even more plain than when the retirement of Aldrich and Hale was announced that the new governing force on the Republican side to succeed Senator Aldrich will be a small group of regular Republicans, like Lodge, Crane, Warren, Penrose, and Gallinger. But if the insurgents hold the balance of power, as they now promise to, the new leadership will have a hard road to travel unless it adopts the policy of making concessions to the insurgents.—Balti-

WHAT MACHINES WILL DO

Wonderful Mechanisms 'Are to Aid in 1910 Census.

The automatic machine is the most recent development in census tabulating machinery, and had it been perfected earlier much of the work of the hand machines could have been dis-pensated with, though, in most cases where readings must be taken very frequently, the hand machines are almost, if not quite, as economical.

Whether in the hand machine or in the automatic, the counters are operated by means of electrical contacts made through the punched holes. The machines are so wired that facts can be counted in combination with one another. Thus, it is possible to count at the same time facts with regard to age and marital condition, so as to show, for instance, on one counter the number of married persons from twenty-five years of age, on another those from twenty-five to thirty, and on others the number of single persons of these two age periods. Each machine in fact, is provided with a large number of counters, as many as sixty counters to be used in certain "runs." Even thus, however, it would be quite impossible to count all the manifold combinations of items at a single "run" of the card. Each card on the average must be passed through the tabulating machines five or six times. In other words, the work is equivalent to tabulating approximately 500,000,000 of the cards.

Even the hand machines used at the present census are much more rapid than those of ten years ago. In 1900 the counters used consisted of dials, from each of which the results for each county or other unit of presentation

NEWS FORECAST.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—Ohio's new primary law, under which the party primary elections for the nomination of candidates on republican and democratic tickets are held the same day, is to have its first practical test Tuesday. Senator Dick who is a candidate for re-election, will abide by the result of the primary, but the other aspirants for the senatorship and state offices have decided to await the conventions, as they are permitted to do according to the law. Congressional candidates will be chosen at the primaries, as well as candidates for county offices.

Other events of the week in the domain of politics will be the state democratic convention in Alabama for the adoption of a platform, the democratic state and congressional conventions in South Carolina, the prohibition state convention in California, and the municipal election in Denver, in which the question of abolishing the saloons will be voted upon for the first time in that city.

During the latter part of the week Halley's comet is expected to be at the best point for observation. Wednesday the comet will pass between the earth and sun, and on that date the earth will probably pass through the tail of the comet.

The safeguarding from accident of the country's vast army of industrial workers will be the chief subject for consideration at the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers, which is to begin its sessions in New York Monday. Other important conventions and conferences of the week will be the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church at Atlantic City, at which President Taft will be one of the speakers; the meeting of the Southern Presbyterian General Assembly at Leesburg, Va.; the triennial session of the World's Sunday School Association in Washington, the National Conference of Charities and Correction in St. Louis, the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration, and the annual conventions of the American Cotton Manufacturers' at Charlotte and the Piano Dealers' of America at Richmond.

Other events of interest to a wide section of the country will be the Golden Jubilee celebration of the University of California and the ceremonies in St. Paul, at which six bishops of the Roman Catholic Church will be concentrated at one time.

Developments following the death of Edward VII. and the accession of George V. will continue to absorb attention in England. Other events of the week in the foreign field will include the performances of the "Passion Play" at Oberammergau, the Robert Schumann memorial celebration in Munich and the conference of the Y. M. C. A. of the world in Berlin, at which both the United States and Canada will be well represented by delegates.

YEARN'S TO WISE UP YAPS.

Bathhouse John, Chicago Alderman Pitia Constituents.

Chicago.—Alderman John Coughlin of the First Ward, known as Bathhouse John, is going to run a special train from Chicago to his amusement resort, "The Zoo" about August 1, and those who have the price will be welcome to join the merry throng.

The proposed trip to Colorado Springs, Alderman Coughlin says is only the forerunner of a series of jaunts which he will conduct to all parts of the country, of which he says:

"My main object in these trips, that I have in mind, is to educate the whole lot of 'yaps' who think Chicago is the only place in the world. Most New Yorkers will tell you when they go 100 miles away from Broadway, that they are just camping out. This sort of a foolish notion is taking hold of a good many Chicago people."

"Take it from me, there are more 'yaps' to the square inch in Chicago than there are in Oberlin. Everybody in Oberlin goes down to the railroad depot to see the express train go through without stopping, but all that Chicago hasn't anything on Oberlin when it comes to the 'yap' business."

"Do you get wise to my talk? We've got a lot of people in Chicago who have never been out of the First Ward. And say, maybe they ain't wisabout the 'yap' towns like Denver and Frisco and Kansas City. 'Mizoo' and New Orleans and Boston and 'Philly' and little old New York. These 'yaps' know it all. They've traveled."

"My idea is to take these 'yaps' around the country and show them a few things. First of all, I'm going to take them out to Colorado and let them gaze on the Garden of the Gods, Pike's Peak and my Zoo which I may be pardoned for saying, is no slouch of an amusement park, as it contains more than 100 acres. I'm going to show them around Omaha, Kansas City Denver and other places, and if they don't come back to Chicago a whole lot wiser I'll lose my bet."

"I'm going to engage a special train the number of coaches depending upon the size of the crowd that will go. I expect to take at least 1000 people with me. I'll show them the time of their lives.—St. Louis Republic.

THEY ARE BOTH YELLOW BUT—

Things Will Happen When the Chinese Awake.

Some day Americans will know the Chinese as well as they think they know the Japanese now. When this knowledge comes the Chinaman will leap upward mightily in our estimation. Already Americans on the Pacific coast have turned to the Chinese as a people whom they can trust and away from the Japanese as a people whom they cannot trust. Those who dread to think of China awakening and displaying in magnified proportion the disagreeable traits of the Japanese should learn this fundamental difference in the nature of the two races, as expressed in the words of Ng Poon Chew, editor of the Chinese daily, Chung Sai Yai Po, of San Francisco:

"The Japanese started to reform from top to bottom. As a result the lower classes of Japan are not enlightened at all. The Government is fifty years ahead of the people. On the other hand reform in China is being pushed on by the common people, who compel the government to take cognizance. As a result, the people of China are twenty years ahead of the government, and the progress there will be more normal and substantial than in Japan. It was the common people who forced the opium reform of the government by the organization of hundreds of antioptium societies. Today there is far more tyranny and despotism among the English colonies in China than in the Chinese Empire itself, and, as I have said in many lectures, America is the only country which the Chinese believe to be troubled with such a thing as a National conscience."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Use of Royal Standard.

London, May 14.—Few persons are aware that there are forms and ceremonies connected with the use of the British flag besides the regulations as to the signalling of messages and the displays in the times of general rejoicing. But there are, and the use of the Royal Standard is an interesting case in point. It is never lowered on occasion of death, excepting the case of the sovereign, and this has accounted for the late King's colors at his castles and palaces always being at the mast-head while the Union Jack and the white ensigns of the navy have been at half-mast on the death of a member or relative of the royal family.

On the demise of the King the standard was lowered, probably for the first time since his majesty's ascension. The position of the standard on the flagstaff at the Buckingham Palace every morning during the last illness of the late King was a matter much interest to the many journalists and others who were waiting for what they knew would eventually be serious news.

Your Rent Money WILL BUY A HOME

Who Are You Working For, The Landlord or Yourself & Family?

WHEN you buy house rent receipts you are squandering money needlessly. You only keep a roof over your head from month to month. House rent receipts are valueless bits of paper. Every dollar invested in them is wasted. They provide nothing for the future. You cannot expect to always retain your present physical and mental powers. With old age comes poverty—the wage income ceases. Then you will realize that your rent money has been thrown away—too late.

NOW is The Time To Stop PAYING RENT

We make it possible for you to buy a home of your own on a monthly payment basis—the same as rent. It's like paying rent—but just think what you get! Every monthly payment is money actually invested in real estate and a Home. In a short time it will be YOURS. You will own something of real worth. You will have an asset that can always be realized upon in-time of trouble or adversity.

We want to tell you all about our Home Building Plan—how simple it is and how easy it is to buy a home in this way. Simply fill out the coupon and mail it to us. DO IT AT ONCE—NOW.
