WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1910

NUMBER 18

TO RUN EXCURSIONS TO WICHITA FALLS

FORT WORTH & DENVER AND WICHITA VALLEY TO BRING VISITORS HERE.

PLANS ARE BEING MADE

Attractiveness of This City as Excursion Point is Recognized by Roads.

The Fort Worth and Denver Railway has recognized the attractiveness of Wichita Falls as an excursion point and plans to shortly introduce Wichita Falls and Lake Wichita to the people of Fort Worth and other points. A. G. Gilson, general passenger agent of the Fort Worth and Denver, has decided to run a Sunday excursion here at an early date, probably on June 12. Mr. Gilson visited the city several days ago and was convinced that there was enough here to interest visitors from other points, even from Fort Worth and other large places.

The Wichita Valley is making plans for Sunday excursions from all points on its line, including Abilene. It is understood that a rate of one fare for the round trip is to be made, although this is not official. The people of Byers and Petrolia will probably also be given an opportunity to make Sunday trips to this city.

Official announcements regarding the excursions will doubtless be made shortly. They are to be well advertised and will undoubtedly result in bringing this city to the attention of more people than ever. There are more people over the state of Texas and Oklahoma who are deeply interested in Wichita Falls than the average Wichitan has any idea of and most of these would be glad of an opportunity to come and see this city for themselves. Lake Wichita will, of course, be the principal attraction.

CHINESE NATIVES MAKING TROUBLE IN NANKING TODAY--INSULT CONSULATE

By Associated Press.
Pekin, June 3.—Consuls at Nanking report that native disturbers in that city have openly assumed an insulting attitude toward foreigners and defiled the walls of the American Consulate in a disgusting manner.

Placards were posted in the streets calling on the people to rise and slaughter foreigners and destroy property. Threats of revolution are launched and June 5, is the date set for the opening. The Nanking exposition is causing the Chinese merchants to flee with their treasures. It is believed the cruiser New Orleans and German and Japanese men of war lying off town will protect foreigners in the event of an outbreak. All diplomats at Peking think an outbreak in the provinces south of Yangtse-Kiang river is likely to occur.

By Associated Press.
Washington, June 3.—The City of Nanking, China, has been posted with placards inciting the people to the destruction of foreign life and property.

MILLER IS HANGED TODAY; LAST CHAPTER IN BOX CAR TRAGEDY ENACTED

The final chapter in the Miller murder case was enacted this morning at Carbondon, when G. R. Miller was hanged by Sheriff Patman of Donley county for the murder of Floyd Autrey in March 1909. The murder was committed somewhere between Wichita Falls and Carbondon. Autrey's body not being found for some time, Miller was arrested and convicted, the verdict being upheld by the criminal appellate court. The case presented features that attracted a great deal of attention in this section.

A dispatch to the Times from Carbondon today states that the hanging took place at 11 o'clock and that death was instantaneous, Miller's neck being broken by the fall.

Texas News Service Special.
Fort Worth, June 3.—The City Commission here this morning passed a resolution urging the Southwestern Telephone Co. to arbitrate the differences with the linemen who are on strike here and who have indicated a willingness to have disinterested persons settle the controversy. The linemen demand increased pay of fifty cents a day. Last week a petition was signed by several thousand customers asking for arbitration and presented to the telephone company. The officials declined to act.

OPTIMISTIC REPORTS ON CORN AND COTTON ARE RECEIVED--OUTLOOK GOOD

Reports on corn and cotton from Wichita and Archer counties received today are quite optimistic in tone, and it is believed that the recent rains in this section insured good yields in these crops.
Some uneasiness was felt yesterday on account of the extremely dry wind which prevailed locally, but it seems that the damage done, by it was so slight as to be inconsequential. There is a great deal of moisture still in the ground and there is every reason to believe that both corn and cotton will make good crops locally.

STOCK MARKET WEAK.

General Crumbling of Prices Occurred At Noon.
By Associated Press.
New York, June 3.—The stock market became suddenly weak at noon today with a general crumbling of prices. Great pressure was directed against the Harriman lines particularly Union Pacific which sold the lowest price of the year. St. Paul also touched the lowest point of the year.
Later, the stock market became demoralized, Union Pacific dropping to 5 3/8, Reading to 4 and St. Paul and Southern Pacific to 3 1/2.

TAFT AT DETROIT.

By Associated Press.
Detroit, Mich., June 3.—President Taft arrives here late today from Ada, Ohio. Tonight he will attend an elaborate banquet given at the Light Armory by the Detroit Board of Commerce and will deliver an address. Nearly a thousand will sit at the banquet table.

WINNING STREAK OF LADS BROKEN

HENRIETTA TEAM GETS ITS FIRST VICTORY OF THE SEASON BY CLOSE SCORE.

QUANAH DEFEATED AGAIN

Contestants Are Now More Closely Bunched and Race is More Interesting.

Club	Pld.	Won	Lost	Pcc.
Irish Lads	4	3	1	.750
Quannah	5	3	2	.600
Altus	4	2	2	.500
Henrietta	5	1	4	.200

The Lads' winning streak was broken yesterday by Henrietta, which team won its first game by a score of 4 to 3. The Lads keep their position at the head of the percentage column, but should they lose today and Quannah win, the latter would pass them in the race. It is not thought, however, that this contingency is likely to arise. Jimmy Hancock pitched for the Lads at Henrietta yesterday and gave for one bad inning, kept the home team guessing very freely. Flynn pitched for Henrietta.

Altus again defeated Quannah yesterday on the latter's grounds, by a score of 4 to 2. Beddingfield and Kaiser, and Rayburn and Nallor were the batteries for Altus and Quannah, respectively.

The lads return to their quarters at the lake tonight, accompanied by the Henrietta team and tomorrow these teams will open a series of three games. Ladies will be admitted to the grounds and reserved section free on Saturday and Monday. Sunday's game will be called an hour earlier than usual, at 2 p. m. The closing game of the series at Henrietta will be played this afternoon. Palmer Clark said today:

"If the ladies of Wichita Falls only knew how pleasant and comfortable the grandstand at the new ball park at Lake Wichita really was, they would take their sewing and their little ones for a day like yesterday and all every seat. The cool breeze from the lake, free from heat and dust, certainly make this place a pleasure and a delight."

RATING BOARD ACTS.

Is Convinced That Public Has Wrong Impression of It.
Texas News Service Special.

Austin, Tex., June 3.—Because it thinks that the public believes the key rates announced are rates made officially, which is erroneous, the fire rating board this morning gave out a statement that it would not announce for publication the receipt of any more key rates. The rates will be open to the inspection of the public, but no more formal statements will be made to the press.

This action is believed to be the result of a storm of criticism which has arisen from various parts of the state on account of the increase proposed by the actuary companies who make recommendations to the board.

It is reported here that the governor is likely to demand a withdrawal of the board's statement.

Y. M. C. A. OPENS ROOMS TO PUBLIC

LARGE CROWD ATTENDED EXERCISES LAST EVENING AT ASSOCIATION ROOMS.

SEVERAL TALKS ARE HEARD

Addresses Delivered by Officers of Association and Others--Plans Discussed.

The rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association in the First Methodist church were formally opened to the members and the public last evening and a large crowd was present to attend the opening festivities. The occasion was an entertaining one and was heartily enjoyed by all who attended. The visitors were shown through the rooms and given an opportunity to inspect the association equipment. They were met at the door by Mrs. D. P. Woodward, Mrs. J. G. Fahn, Mrs. C. W. Beavers, Miss Lucille Brooks and several other ladies who formed the receiving line. The Wichita orchestra furnished music during the evening.

The exercises were opened by the invocation of Rev. R. R. Hamlin. This was followed by a vocal selection by Mrs. J. T. Roberts, accompanied by Miss Lucille Brooks on the piano. This was rendered in Mrs. Roberts' most pleasing manner and was very much enjoyed. J. T. Gibson, president of the association, then spoke briefly, welcoming the visitors and extending them the freedom of the quarters. He discussed the plans of the association and said that it was the intention to make a campaign for a large building for the association at an early date. The outlook for a successful organization he said, was excellent, and he predicted good results from the movement. A pleasing solo by John W. Bradley then followed and an encore was called for by the audience.

Mrs. T. L. Toland then discussed the movement from the standpoint of the ladies. Her address appears in full below.
Rev. J. L. McKee, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, then spoke of the Y. M. C. A. movement from the standpoint of the church. The church, he said was back of the organization and cooperating with it. He warned the young men against the tendency to make the association the sum total of their religious activity. He spoke very interesting and instructively along these lines and his address was very closely heard.

Secretary J. T. Webster was the closing speaker and he devoted his remarks to a discussion of the association's plans in detail. He told of work that was to be done along moral, physical and educational lines and pleaded for the support and cooperation of the citizens in the movement.
This address closed the speaking and refreshments in the form of ice cream and cake were then served. A number of young ladies assisted the members of the association in dispensing the refreshment and when all had been served the meeting came to a close.

The directors of the association wish to express their gratitude for the large attendance and also for the cooperation of those who helped to make the opening a success, especially the ladies.

The address of Mrs. T. L. Toland before the meeting, follows:

I appreciate the honor conferred upon me by your program committee in asking me to speak to you in behalf of the ladies of the city this evening, but I feel that it is a great responsibility. However, it is true that the effect of every action is measured by the depth of sentiment from which it proceeds. I trust that the warm place the Y. M. C. A. has in my heart, and my desire for its success may cause what

I shall say to you to be helpful, for "Tis but brothers' speech we need, Speech where an accent's change Gives each the other's soul."
I am sure that I voice the sentiment of every true woman in this city in extending to your organization a most cordial welcome in our midst. Nothing should be of more vital importance to us than a measure by which the standard of moral of the young men of our city—our boys—might be raised. And I think there is no organization that is doing greater work along this line than the Y. M. C. A. I feel that the women of the city will be happy to give this organization their hearty cooperation and aid them in any way in their power.

Time would not permit me to mention all the advantages we could, and hope to get, from the Y. M. C. A., but we will notice a few. We hope their meetings on Sunday afternoons may be a substitute for the baseball. The observance of the Sabbath is a duty that is helpful to us physically, as well as spiritually. We need this day for rest and meditation. Gladstone said he attributed his longevity and well preserved powers of mind and body, largely to his strict observance of the Sabbath.

Again, it may help us to solve the problem of keeping the boys off the streets to a great extent. The age requirement for admission to this organization, I believe, is twelve years. Up to about this age it is conceded the parents' duty to have the boy under their exclusive care. After this age the boy necessarily has more latitude and demands companionship. It is not wise to restrain him too much along this line. The Y. M. C. A., properly conducted, is almost ideal in this respect, for it is true that physical and moral laws are closely correlated; as water seeks its level, so it is in the moral world. It is the better class, as a rule, who seek this organization. Emerson says: "A man cleaves to one person and avoids another, according to their likeness or unlikeness to himself, truly seeking himself in his associates, and moreover in his trade and habits and gestures and meats and drinks."

This association is not only beneficial in a moral and educational way, but meets the demands in a physical way, furnishing that El Dorado to every live boy—the gymnasium. We all know that it is necessary for the peace of the home and community, as well as vital to the health and development of the boy, to furnish a harmless method of working off pent-up energy.

It is well for us to remember just here that the foundation of the boy's character is laid in the home, and that no institution or organization can supply the lack of this; but they may help build a splendid structure upon the foundation laid in the home. Let us realize that, climb as high as boys will, their ladders must still require to rest on the ground.

Perhaps one of the greatest benefits in the province of the Y. M. C. A. is the assistance and protection it furnishes to young men who have no homes, and to those who are strangers in the city.
Many snares and pitfalls are avoided by these young men, when they come to the rooms of this association to spend their leisure hours, or for instruction.

INTERSTATE FAIR PLANS UNDER WAY

ONLY ABOUT THREE MONTHS LEFT IN WHICH TO ACT ON THIS MATTER.

WILL ORGANIZE COMPANY

Informal Conference Held This Morning--Several Features Already Provided.

Steps looking to the organization of a fair company, with a view to holding an annual fair at Lake Wichita, are being taken and it is probable that the company will be perfected within a short time. It has been the intention for some time to have a fair here next fall, but it was only lately that it was realized how short the time was for action.

The circle building and the race track now in process of construction at Lake Wichita are being built with a view to holding what is to be known as the "Interstate Fair" there in September. It is expected that the usual premiums for exhibits and the like will be offered and that the agricultural and other products of this section will be on display.

Wichita Falls is on the western Oklahoma racing circuit, which will open in this city late in September, and whatever is to be done in the fair line will have to be finished by that time. The idea of holding a fair has never lost favor and it is felt that the time has come to act definitely.

An informal meeting of several of those interested was held this morning and it is likely that the matter will be taken up by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at an early date, with a view to getting the movement under way.

German Girl's Hope Chest.
Few American girls can appreciate the love often amounting to adoration that the German girl has for "hope chest," or supply of household linen, which is to tax to its utmost the capacity of a huge closet. When American girls become really engaged and the wedding day decided upon, then, if convenient, they remain home a day or so now and then and embroider a few centerpieces and dollies. But the general spirit is: "Why waste one's time when they can be bought so pretty and so cheap?"

With the German girl it is an inborn love, this desire from childhood for a "hope chest," when she reaches the age of womanhood, that will equal, if not excel, that of her mother. She begins collecting when she enters her teens, thus assuming as a matter of course, that some day she will be a housewife and it is her duty to be in readiness. Consequently, every piece is of the very best, and no work is done in haste. She gradually builds up from year to year, through industry and good taste, dainty bits of exquisite handwork that may well be handed down a generation or two with pardonable pride.

It does not detract from the girl's girlishness because she faces the fact that in all likelihood she will some day need supplies for a home of her own. Nor does she talk or brag of it. She steadily and silently adds to her store from year to year and unconsciously is weaving some of life's sweetest memories as she dreams out her future in graceful yarns.

Many girls will dream and build most ideal situations for the future. Far better that as they dream they let their clever fingers create something which will be real.

The last touch to every article is her own initials daintily outlined in an inconspicuous place, and this binds tight to her heart the thought that those beautiful things are her very own, and as such are sacred from the gaze of any but those she holds dear.

America is one of the few countries where is it no disgrace for a girl to be married without a "dowry," and in many cases without an outfit worthy of the name of a "trousseau." It is not to be wondered at that men ponder long before taking upon themselves the support of another, when so very soon the expense of supplies of all kinds must be drawn from his purse. It often seems hardly fair to the man, for it is true that the average American parent is inclined to regard his duty with a few garments, a stylish wedding and a wedding present that he is proud to give. The value of a large proportion of all this will be gone in less than a year.—From the Boston Herald.

Iowa Park News Items.

From the Iowa Park Herald.
While out in the field plowing Monday Lee Winfrey was kicked by a horse. He had some bolts in his pocket and the horse struck him there, driving the bolts into his hip, making a bad wound. He and his brother Charley, were both plowing when something got wrong with Lee's plow, and he asked Charley to fix it for him, he taking charge of the other plow which had four horses hitched to it, and in some way they became tangled and Lee got between them to straighten them out and received the kick. He seems to be very unfortunate with horses and mules, as he has been kicked several times before, but has never been hurt. Dr. Cooley was called and dressed the wound and left him resting easy.

We are informed that Dr. J. M. Bell has sold his practice to Dr. Leach, formerly of physician of the Park, but Dr. Bell will continue his practice for the next three months. We are not informed what Dr. Bell will do after that time, but the Herald and its readers are hoping he and his excellent family will remain among us.

The corner stone of the new Methodist church at Iowa Park will be laid next Monday at 2:30 p. m. The Masons will assist and the ceremonies will be impressive. Bishop E. D. Moulton of Georgetown, Texas, will be present and will deliver the address. He is one of the most talented preachers in the American pulpit. A large attendance of Masons and friends from other towns are expected. Let everybody come. Five o'clock dinner will be served on the ground by the good people of Iowa Park. Come and let us make this a red letter day in the history of Iowa Park.

Old timers in this country tell us they have never experienced such weather as we are having at present, at this time of the year. The hot winds of Wednesday and yesterday have been something dreadful; it has been equal to a furnace. The thermometer registered 111 in the shade and 122 in the sun yesterday.

Mr. J. B. Winfrey and bride came in Tuesday afternoon on the fast mail train from Houston, Texas. Mr. Winfrey was united in marriage to Miss Northrop of Houston, in that city Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock. The couple will spend part of their honeymoon in this city with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Winfrey, who invited the relatives to welcome them yesterday, and a delicious dinner was served. The Herald extends congratulations.

Word was received in this city of the death of Mrs. E. Schneider at Cone, Crosby county, Texas, one day last week. This will be sad news to their large circle of friends in and around the Park. Her death was due to typhoid fever, and at the present time two children are very ill with the same malady. The Herald joins the friends in extending to Mr. Schneider and family their heartfelt sympathy.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For Wichita Falls and Vicinity.

Tonight and Saturday—Generally cloudy.

KEEPING THE RECORD STRAIGHT.

The fact which the Post asks the good citizens of Texas—whether Bailey partisans or against Bailey—to consider is, that throughout the campaign the Bailey question has been raised from time to time by Davidson, Johnson or Poindexter. Mr. Colquitt has proceeded with his campaign discussing the issues of the campaign and treating the Bailey question as a close-ed chapter of political history, and the people of Texas will see that pending issues are decided according to their merits and not obscured by extraneous subjects.—Houston Post.

Just in order to keep the record straight, it is well to reflect a bit. Less than four years ago Senator Bailey was in Texas making a fight for his political life. In that fight he had the support of Mr. Poindexter and the opposition of Mr. Johnson. He blamed much of his trouble on Mr. Davidson. The issue was state-wide, and Mr. Bailey promised to drive his enemies "into the gulf" and to live and win in order to reward his friends.

Possibly this accounts for the interest taken in the Bailey part of the campaign by the three candidates named by the Post. Poindexter should get his reward. Davidson and Johnson have every reason to forestall promised oblivion. So far as the record goes, Mr. Colquitt was then square upon the middle of the fence. While Texas democracy was torn asunder over the Bailey issue the railroad commissioner was doing a balancing act.

There are thousands of Bailey men in Texas who believe it is due to his friend of thirty years that he return in kind the faithful support that has been unselfishly given him by Mr. Poindexter and lend the magnificent power of his voice and the vast influence of his expressed wishes in the cause of his friend who is oppressed by ancient enemies of Bailey and by a man who was not for Bailey in Bailey's great fight, and, therefore, was against him.

Bailey men in Texas have every reason to expect the Senator actively to support the one man seeking to be governor who has always supported the man from Gainesville with all the power of a strong mind and a forceful argument through all sorts of vicissitudes and alarms.

The Bailey issue is more potent in Texas today than the other alleged issues. Shall it go unheralded by the man who is the center of it when his friend needs the support that should, under the circumstances, be his without the asking?

Shall the one Bailey man in a field of four be allowed to fight his battle for the governorship without the aid of Bailey after Bailey's protestations of undying fealty made on frequent occasions in behalf of those who were his friends in an hour of sore need?—San Antonio Express.

ECHOES.

The Times' subscription to the $50,000 packing house bonus was $250. Now, if the Dorsey Printing Company and two or three other outside concerns who are favored in Wichita Falls with at least 50 per cent of the printing business (stationery) will do likewise, the printers' donations to a Wichita Falls enterprise will not look so very insignificant when added together.—Wichita Times.

Right you are, Mr. Times Man. Strange that people expect the local printers to boost the town and pay its money to new enterprises for the public good, thereby helping not only the town, but every interest in it, and yet will send their printing to the out-of-town fellow, who never returns one dollar of it in taxes or bonuses.—Dallas News.

Mr. Davidson has resented the Bailey letters and is demanding that Senator Bailey prove that Davidson misrepresented or slandered the senator. The Bailey issue is in the race good as strong.—Children Index.

The congressional race, in this district is a very quiet one. So far Hon. J. W. Veale has made a few speeches in different parts of the district, but Mr. Stephens has not thought enough of the efforts of Mr. Veale to come home and make a speech. Mr. Stephens will take the stump as soon as congress adjourns and he can leave Washington. As affairs are in Washington, he cannot afford to leave his duties and enter a campaign.—Children Index.

Mr. Veale is a good campaigner. He has been in every county in the district, and that is getting over some territory, itself. The average voter wants to meet the man for whom he casts his vote, and Mr. Veale realizes this, and when the votes are counted, it will show that he has met a few of them.

Today is the birthday of Jefferson Davis, president of the Southern Confederacy, who was born in Todd County, Ky., June 3, 1808, and died while on a visit to New Orleans, on Dec. 6, 1869. The day is a legal holiday in Texas and throughout the Southern states and is being generally observed by the closing of the banks, both state and national.

formation in regard to places for lodging, etc.

There is another feature let me mention, I do not know whether you have provided, or intend to provide, anything in the musical line for your organization, but this should not be neglected, for there is nothing more elevating than music. Carlyle says: "If you go down into any good thing deep enough, you come to music." Music strikes a responsive chord in almost every heart. Shakespeare says: "A man that hath no music in himself, nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds, is fit for treason, stratagem and spoils." Gen. Diaz, president of Mexico, says that since he has inaugurated free open air concerts in the cities of the republic crime has been lessened to a great extent.

And now, just a few words to the young man: The good you can accomplish in this organization is almost limitless. In your association with each other your first and greatest work is the amstery of self. The next is to draw sharp lines of conviction, and be true to your convictions. Indifferentism works with the power of moral paralysis. When the optic nerve is paralyzed the eye ceases to be able to discriminate between black and white. Indifference to principal soon produces the same effect upon the morals.

"So long as righteousness does not impress us as infinitely magnificent, and unrighteousness as unspeakably abhorrent, we shall be at any moment on the edge of renouncing the first and espousing the second." We shall certainly slide, unless we are grounded, into something fixed, and when we slide, we always slide down hill. It is impossible to become good by the negative process of trying not to be bad. Satan is like our common atmosphere, which always occupies every nook and cranny that is not otherwise pre-empted. Concern yourself with the questions of the day and take a decided stand. The men who will not commit themselves, and the decent sinners, should be placarded with danger signals, for in them the danger lies. No young man cares to emulate the low and vicious, but the decent sinner is a different proposition.

The young man who considers himself a decent sinner, who compromises with his conscience by committing what he calls little sins, will soon find himself in a similar state to the man in "Action, who finally gave his soul in exchange for his shadow. When the prince of evil offered this man a great price for his shadow, it occurred to him as being a rare good fortune. Only his shadow asked—it would cause him not the slightest pain or inconvenience to part with that. No one could possibly know he had made this compact with evil. But soon he became an object of interest, then of suspicion, then of superstitious fear—to such an extent as to cause him to seek the prince and implore him to rue the contract. The prince tells him there is only one condition under which he will return his shadow, and that is, that he must give him his soul after death. He consents and finds this latter agony hopeless and maddening.

There is no escaping the consequences of our wrong doing. "Crime and punishment grow out of the same stem. Punishment is the fruit that unsuspected ripens within the flower of the pleasure which concealed it. Cause and effect, means and ends, seed and fruit cannot be severed; for the effect already blooms in the cause, the end pre-exists in the means, the fruit in the seed." "Our acts our angels are, or good or ill; our fatal shadows that walk by us still."

It is your privilege to shape your own destiny. Take the place and attitude to which you see your unquestionable right, and men will acquiesce. The world always leaves every man with profound unconcern to set his own rate, but it reserves the privilege of judging what that rate is. "Do not trouble yourself too much about the light on your statue," said Michael Angelo to the young sculptor, "the light of the public square will test its value." Character writes itself on the face. A student of this subject says no man need be deceived who will study the changes of expression. When a man speaks the truth, in the spirit of truth, his eye is as clear as the heavens. When he has base ends and speaks falsely, the eye is muddy, and sometimes asquint. Confucius exclaimed: "How can a man be concealed! How can a man be concealed!"

The lesson which these thoughts convey is: be, and not seem. If you would not be known to do anything, never do it. Let us be servants in the Master's power, and learn that in truth and modesty alone is greatness. The fool says:

"The Christian" Tonight. One of the strongest plays ever written, "The Christian," will be the bill at the Franklin tent theatre tonight. This play is peculiarly fitted to the Hollingsworth Twins' company of players, as each member has a strong part and the role of Glory Quayle, in the hands of Miss Maude Hollingsworth, will be given a very clever interpretation, as this is her favorite part, and one she takes a great delight in portraying. This undoubtedly is the only time that "The Christian" will ever be given at the Franklin prices.

Tonight at the Franklin Theatre, corner 10th and Ohio. Notice. There will be an ice cream and cake social given at the home of Mrs. J. W. Bowersock, 809 9th street for the benefit of the G. I. A. to the B. of L. E. All are cordially invited to attend. 14-3tc

PURSER'S BOY ON LARGEST SHIP.

Leo Calaghan Guides Passengers in the Right Channel.

On the biggest steamer in the world Leo Calaghan is the smallest member of the liner's complement. Leo is known as the purser's boy, and he has held the position of general amanuensis to the purser for several years. In this time Leo has met all the big men of two continents, and his diminutive size has never been a handicap to him in making steadfast friendships.

Leo Calaghan is the medium between the passenger and the purser in the transmission of the lengthy documents that determine whether the passenger is an anarchist, has ever been in jail or perhaps has plans for the extermination of the American Government. When the long list of questions puzzles the passenger Leo Calaghan is the one who directs the answers in the right channels.

He delivers the Cunard Daily Bulletin to his personal charges changes foreign money into the coin of the realm and does a hundred other little services for his particular friends that would not come under the list of services of either the deck, bedroom or saloon stewards.

Leo Calaghan is 15 years of age and has followed the seas ever since he can remember. He is invaluable to those whose business it is to look up either arriving or departing passengers, for he knows them all by sight if not more intimately, and the customs officers always turn to him when they must have a certain passenger before them quickly.—New York Evening Telegram.

The Democrats.

From Collier's Weekly.

Every democrat in the United States has a patriotic duty during the twenty-five weeks which end the 8th of next November; it is to see that men of high quality get the democratic nomination for congress in every district. It need occasion neither surprise nor resentment to say that the democrats now in congress do not measure up, in character or ability, to the average of the party in power; it is always so; a party out of power and without responsibility for seventeen years can not help but degenerate in personnel. It would be trite to point out the probability of change. The thought we have in mind is much better expressed by the Houston Post:

"O Lord, now that everything is coming our way, purge every democratic soul of hot air and vainglory and insert large installments of common sense in every democratic cranium; and O remember, Lord, our proneness to make fools of ourselves just when we have the world by the tail and a downhill pull, and see that we don't get in bad this time."

And above all, see that democratic nomination in every district goes, not to the ubiquitous party hac, but to the best man in the community.

Do You Know.

On an average 44.75 inches of rain falls every year in New York.

Scientists estimate that the age of the earth is about 72,000,000 years.

The lowest temperature ever recorded in Key West Fla., was 41 degrees above.

Trinity Corporation is the wealthiest single church organization in the United States.

The postoffice in Manhattan was erected at a cost of between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000. It was opened for occupancy August 25, 1815.

Staten Island is about thirteen miles long, eight miles wide and consists of an area of about fifty-seven square miles. It has a population in excess of 50,000.

The great Washington bridge over the Harlem river is 2400 feet long, eighty feet wide, cost $2,680,000, and is built of steel, iron and stone. It is 135 feet above high water mark.

Jealousy.

An American, visiting the Jardin des Plantes in Paris, after much amusing conversation with a loquacious guide, said: "It seems to me that giraffe is an unusually thin one, although all of them are thin enough."

"But surely, he is of an extraordinary thinness," said the guide, looking at the giraffe with an air of affectionate solicitude. "And they say he grows ever thinner. For myself—I believe it is the pride that so affects him. He sees the obelisk and the Eiffel Tower, monsieur, and he is jealous of them. What would you have? He is jealous, and therefore he starves himself, and grows continually less."—Youth's Companion.

North Carolina Objects.

From the Charlotte Observer.

We greatly like Texas and consider Houston, its best town, one of the best towns in the country. At the same time we do not think Texas is warranted in intimating, as the Post after the admiral's prose poem quoted above proceeds to make it do, that the rest of the country, and still more the rest of the south, is a small potato by comparison. Let the Post, like Texas' horses, sheep and goats (see lines four and five of prose poem); "ramp and snort in sheer delight," but even this joy should not cause all the universe outside of Texas to be forgotten.

Don't You Like to Trade

at a store where you see something fresh and new every time you enter? Don't you like to trade where the clerk hands an article over the counter and frankly looks you in the eye and says, "Mr. F., try this article, if it isn't absolutely first class you may return it and same will be exchanged for another or your money refunded."

Don't you like to trade at a store where the clerk answers "yes we have it."

This is just the kind of a store we are conducting. We are receiving new goods every day and we exercise the greatest care in selecting goods that meet the ever increasing demand. Then why not trade at the right place.

A CEMETERY FOR BURROS.

Wealthy Man in Mexico Does Honor to Little Beast of Burden.

Douglas, Ariz.—Pisa has her Campo Santo, where rest in marble arcades the notables of the past; Genoa has her garden of marbles, where exquisitely carved angels weep over the heroes of Piedmont—but Glenwood Springs, across the border in New Mexico, has the only cemetery for burros in all the world.

This odd little burial ground is presided over by George Krauss, who is said to be the son of a Pittsburg brewer, and who combines with his duties as sexton of the burros' burial ground the day watch at the village powderhouse.

Every person who has lived in the Southwest knows that the burro is with the prospector the forerunner of civilization on the desert and semi-arid mesas of Arizona, Nevada and Southern California. The burro eats cactus, even the kind that the wild Burbank has not deprived of its dangerous whiskers; he risks the fangs of the rattler and the bite of the hydrophobia skunk. He is to the silent pilgrims of the arid gulches what the mottled Arab steed is to the Bedouin of the plains of Africa; he is the camel of the bold hunter, the Pullman car of the silver seeker. Occasionally a Western Tennyson sings his praises in an ode with broken feet, but a dead burro has never been a holy thing, except at Glenwood Springs. Here his services in life have not been forgotten in death.

Six miles up the canyon from the camp is the Little Fanny Mining Company. Here a turbine engine develops 355 horse power, and to supply fuel to generate this power it requires 25 cords of wood per day. It requires ten burros to pack one cord of wood to the plant from the hills, and thus 250 burros are kept busy each day, the company owning in all 300 burros to do the work.

The path or trail which the burros patiently follow from the wood groves in the hills to the plant is a treacherous one, and notwithstanding the proverbial surefootedness of the Southwestern burro, the headstones erected over the graves of the burros in the quaint cemetery tell only too often of mistakes made on the mountain side, which terminated the career of the wood packers. In all there are now in the cemetery fifty graves, and at least thirty of these contain the bones of burros that met death in accidents.—San Francisco Bulletin.

The Insurance Law.

It seems, from the report of Senator Claude Huddspeth of El Paso, that Governor Campbell is almost persuaded to call a special session of the legislature to repeal the present insurance law. The practical operation of the law, especially in the greatly increased and one-sided power it allows the insurance companies, has surprised the News, as well as Governor Campbell and several others, and, lest the favorable opinion formerly expressed should be misleading, the News must avail itself of the privilege of modifying the view it has heretofore expressed. Apparently the law was designed to harmonize risks, but not to raise rates; that is, to classify risks so that a greater risk should bear a higher rate of insurance. In other words, it was assumed that the chief intent of the law was to adjust rates more on the peculiar merit of each particular risk than was formerly done, and if it had accomplished this in a fair and just manner there would have been little fault to find. To that extent it was in the line of economy and equality. But the way it has been applied in numerous cases which have come to the knowledge of the News, wherein rates have been largely increased and even rendered prohibitive, and the injustice thereby inflicted, make it evident that something is radically wrong, either in the provisions of the act, or in the manner of its application, or in both. It has become evident, from the experience the people have thus far had in the application of the law, that it leaves the door open for serious abuses, and that its tendency is to create a monopoly in the fire insurance business that may become in time more objectionable than other monopolies, because, in the nature of things, there are here fewer safeguards, and the people would be at the mercy of a trust. If a man objects to a transportation monopoly he can walk or drive or ride, but with an insurance monopoly he must insure on given terms or go without insurance, while a company can reject risks at will, moving out of the state if necessary. If the News is correct in the diagnosis of the case as recently developed, it is but rational that a remedy should be sought before greater harm is done, either by a more reasonable and practical interpretation of the law, or by the modification, or even by the repeal if necessary.—Dallas News.

The Burdens of Wealth.
One spring, for some reason, old Eli was going round town with a face of dissatisfaction, and when questioned, he poured forth his voluble tale of woe thusly:

"Marse Geo'ge, he come to me las' fall an' he say, 'Eli, dis gwinter be a hard winter, so yo' be keeful, an' save yo' wages fas' and tight. An' Ah b'leve Marse Geo'ge, yas sah, I b'live him, an' I save an' I save, an' when de winter come it ain't got no hardship, an' dere wa Ah wid all dat money jes' frown on mah hands!'—Everybody's Magazine.

Vendetta Still Exists in Italy.

Rome.—Vendetta murders in certain parts of Italy occur with frequency, and the details of one crime of this nature are about to be revealed at Cagliari, the capital of Sardinia.

A few years ago Angelo Mosca, mayor of Bithli, and from all accounts a man of great integrity, was shot dead from ambush at a fancy dress ball by a masked dancer. The murder caused great indignation in Sardinia, and after 53 sittings of the Assize Court Francesco Cavada was found guilty of it and sentenced to penal servitude for life. Three accomplices received sentences of from 20 to 30 years imprisonment.

The Court of Cassation in Rome has just quashed these verdicts and ordered the case to be retried at Cagliari, with the object of probing to the bottom the motives underlying the crime. The revelations promise to eclipse those of the Tarnowska trial at Venice.

More than 400 witnesses have been summoned. The affair is exceedingly complicated and will expose the extraordinary ramifications of the vendetta. The chief witness, the brother of the victim, a youth of barely 17, already has been threatened with death several times.

In the last ten years the small town of Bithli alone has been the scene of 50 vendetta murders, while 1,000 head of cattle and 3,000 sheep belonging to the various persons connected with the vendetta have been killed and an enormous amount of willful damage has been done to crops and plantations.

It's the Sure Dandruff Cure.

Men and women, be sensible, what's the use of wasting time and money trying to drive dandruff and dandruff germs from the scalp when the Week's Drug Co. guarantees Parisian Sage to completely rid your scalp of dandruff in two weeks or money back. Mrs. F. J. Moreau, 9 Oak street, Concord, N. H., wrote Nov. 1, 1909. "Parisian Sage has done wonders in my case as a dandruff cure, for my scalp was in a bad condition.

Hair doesn't fall out as bad, the new is making its appearance fast. Am still continuing its use.
In over a thousand towns in America news of the marvelous cures of Parisian Sage are spreading. It is undoubtedly the greatest hair grower in the world.

It will stop itching scalp and falling hair in two weeks or money back. It refreshes the scalp, gives it a delightful, comforting feeling, and is not sticky or greasy.
It puts the radiance of sunshine into woman's hair, and women who use it regularly are sure to compel admiration. It makes women's hair grow profusely; yet silky and lovely.

A large generous bottle only costs 50 cents at druggists everywhere and at Weeks Drug Co. Girl with the auburn hair on every bottle.

Day of Big Hat is Past.

London.—The day of the large hat and the over-elaborate coiffure seems to be over. In England the sudden donning of mourning has altered the fashions to a remarkable extent. The large hat has almost disappeared and with it the mass of false hair that was necessary to make it keep its proper position on the head.

In Rome a petition has been laid before Parliament urging that prohibitive duties be placed upon the large headgear fashionable there, also that women be taxed heavily for the switches of hair which they coil and plait around their heads. These duties are necessary, say the petitioners, because women have seemingly lost their judgment regarding hats and coiffures.

In France special sermons have been preached against the big hats in several parishes. One preacher suggested that women should come to church without hats at all so that men could contemplate the altar in peace, while others have urged the women of their congregations to observe what is fitting in church and dress their heads modestly and quietly.

Naturally with all this opposition the big hat is becoming more unpopular among women of various nations, and with its disappearance among the Englishwomen, who first wore it, its vanishing elsewhere becomes a matter of course.

Farce of French Duels Exposed.
Paris—Apropos of the sanguinary duel between the Comte Ismael de Lesseps, the son of the great canal builder, and the elder brother of the aviator who made the second flight across the English channel, and the Comte Just de Poligny, Henri Rochefort had this week rather a burst of candor. He referred in a reminiscent mood to the affairs of honor in which he figured many years ago, both as principal and second.

According to him the seconding of principals in duels amounts with certain persons to a regular profession. It is a fact that one frequently sees the same sets of names successively in many formal reports of duels, and it is also true that certain Parisian ladies have earned great reputations as managers of duels. They are enthusiastic in the least details of affairs of this kind and as punctilious about them as a third-rate lawyer about judicial technicalities.

But there is something which has before been hinted at but which no past master in dueling ever before broadly acknowledged. M. Rochefort, in speaking of the responsibility of seconds, says: "When one of the adversaries is seriously wounded the unfortunate issue of the combat is generally attributed to those who took the second part in it. The pistols should not have been loaded with the balls, or the gunsmith should have been instructed to arrange the weapons that the bullet on leaving them would fall to the ground at a distance of only 15 or 20 feet."

It is well known that the science of fencing in these days consists chiefly in the ability to wound an adversary in the least dangerous manner, and between the so-called gentlemen of this modern school it is decided lack of form to vary this sort of pleasantry by inflicting a really grave injury.

Of course, there are exceptions to this organization, where the motive of hatred or vengeance has played, and a motive of this character undoubtedly existed in the repeated combats between the Comte de Lesseps and the Comte de Poligny, which followed one another at brief intervals. The quarrel at the Paris show late in April was merely a pre-arranged episode.

Who it is who is responsible for the sanguinary animosity of the two combatants, making them so far forget the conventions of Paris "chivalry" as to fight in dead earnest, has not yet transpired.

Fill Bombs With Poisonous Needles.
London.—Cocoon shell bombs filled with polished needles are the latest weapon used by the seditious Bengali against the English. A copy of what is described as "the most outrageous yet published in the Indian press has incitement to murdering Europeans just reached London. It is held to fully justify the recent rigorous application of the press law in India.

This production which originates at Delhi and is being circulated in various parts of India, is headed "Killing No Murder," and a passage from it reads:

"We once more appear before you to preach our revolutionary doctrine to all for the redemption of our Mother from the atrocious hands of the Feringshis (foreigners, more particularly the English). Your life is not worth even a dust or a straw if you do not soil your hand with the blood of our oppressor, the Feringshi.

"You must kill as many of these white sheep as you lay hands on, whether men, women or children. This sort of killing we call no murder, but a sacred duty that devolves on the shoulders of every Indian for the lifting up of our Bharata Mata to the very lofty pedestal filled with glory and splendor.

"Rise up! Rise up! O sons of India! Rise up! Arm yourselves with bombs and dispatch the white asuras soon to Yama's abode. (Yama is the Indian Pluto).

"If you are in need of money, loot down the oppressors' houses. It is the wealth of the poor Indian that fattens the Feringshi."

Then follow directions as to how arms may be procured from arsenals, assurances that British soldiers may be counted upon to offer "only a faint-hearted defense," and the suggestion that domestic servants may assist in the work of "extripating the British by poisoning their masters a method which is described as "the smooth dispatch" in contrast to the use of poisoned needles and bombs.

The article proceeds to warn such Indians as are loyal and seek to shelter Europeans that they will surely "share the fate of the wretched traitor of London," presumably the late Dr. Lalaca, who lost his life in a gallant attempt to save Sir W. Curzon Wylie, who was shot at an evening reception in London by an Indian anarchist last July.

A Story of Longevity.
Census Enumerator Conklin of this place reports a curious incident on Silver mountain, where people live to be quite old.

Finding an aged man sitting on the front porch and weeping bitterly, the enumerator inquired the trouble, whereupon the man, between sobs, ejaculated:

"My dad licked me."
"How old are you?" asked Conklin.
"Eighty-nine," was the reply.
"Where is your father?"
"He is behind the house splitting wood."

Conklin found the old man engaged at the wood pile and among other questions, asked him why he had whipped his son.

"Why, the little cuss was throwing stones at his granddad," the wood chopper answered. Conklin then inquired: "Where is his grandfather?"

The man said, as he resumed his attack on the wood pile: "Oh, he got hit on the head and is gone in to have his mother put on some sticking plaster."—Millerton (N. Y.) Dispatch in Middleton Register.

The Picturesque Pirate.
The ocean highways, like the king's had its gentlemen of the road, although an age of steam and wireless telegraphy has sadly curtailed their enterprise and they rarely molest the modern traveler, save in some backwater of the China seas. Dispassionate historians of the Seventeenth century must have experienced some difficulty in discriminating between the gallantry of admirals and the ferocity of pirates, since the two professions curiously overlapped.

The origin of piracy is shrouded in the mists of antiquity, but it seems to have been introduced independently by the Arab corsairs of the Persian gulf and the lawless Vikings of the colder north. The pirate, like the highwayman, has had his place in romance, and has even been the theme of light opera, but he relies for his admirers chiefly on schoolboys who pore over thrilling stories of his victims being keelhauls or made to walk the plank, and who follow him breathlessly in his quest of buried treasure.

Those old-time buccaneers, whose dreadful memory still lingers along the still lagoons of the scented Spanish Main, must have included a strange variety of types, ranging from illiterate cutthroats to such men as Dampier, who could lightly turn from butchery and arson to the writing of travel books unsurpassed of their kind. In the days when Elizabeth was queen it was honorable enterprise for a gentleman of birth and substance to fit out a vessel or two and then sail into the sunset to plunder helpless Spanish merchantmen. Close to Felixstowe is a little village called Trimley, about the most unlikely looking spot to produce a pirate as could well be pictured. Yet in Elizabeth's reign, the squire of Trimley, by name Cavendish—Hakluyt spells it Candish—embarked on the career of gentleman-pirate, voyaging to Java and the Cape of Good Hope and bringing home great treasures. Unfortunately, inspired perhaps by the success of Drake and unable to foresee his hero's untimely ending, he made a second venture. It was a complete failure, and he died at sea. Romance, which has glorified the smuggler and bushranger, and which, in drama, has even made a gentleman of the pirate with more than transient glamour. For he was in truth a very bloody villain, seen at his best when dangling from a gallows.—Pall Mall Gazette.

OWEN FOR DIRECT ELECTION.
Says Corruption in Legislative Bodies Could Be Prevented.
Washington, June 1.—"It will be better for this country," said Senator Owen of Oklahoma, "when members of Congress and state legislators and municipal legislators are chosen by the direct vote of the people and when the people have the right of recall by the nomination of a successor to their public servants. The people will never abuse their power."

The senator was speaking in the Senate in favor of a resolution introduced by him, in accordance with the wishes of the legislature of the state of Oklahoma, providing for the submission of a constitutional amendment for the election of senators by direct vote of the people.

Such an amendment he said, would prevent the corruption of legislatures, would prevent the improper use of money in the campaigns by men ambitious to obtain a seat in the Senate, and would compel candidates for the Senate to be subjected to the severe scrutiny of a campaign before people and compel the selection of the best fitted men. Further, he said, it would promote government and tend to increase the confidence of the people in the Senate, "which has been to some extent impaired in recent years." It would also prevent deadlocks, he continued, due to political contests in which various states from time to time had been left unrepresented.

Styles in Drink.
Styles in soda fountain drinks change as do those in clothes and etiquette. There was a time when one either asked for a soda or a phosphate, but now these things have been relegated to the background and have been replaced by the "sundae," the "frappe," the "pouffe," the "coupe" or the "parfait."

If one doesn't know the one from the other, or imagines for an instant that the last may be had for the price of the first, one is far behind the times. The differences may seem slight, but they must be mastered lest one incur the scorn of the soda clerk.

The "coupe" is perhaps the most wonderful of all. In fact, it is so wonderful that it may be called only by the names of famous opera stars. There are three kinds—Melba, Nordica and Gadsdill—containing, respectively, peaches, raspberries and strawberries. In a deep round dish the mixer puts some of the fruit; this he covers with ice cream and over the whole he pours the thickest and the richest of fruit syrups.

If the beverages themselves do not change from season to season, then their names and titles must respond to the whims of Dame Fashion. Once upon a time a cherry sundae was a Merry Widow. Now it is Chantecler. The chocolate nut sundae was called Sagt Harins for a while, then Alice Roosevelt, and now the Jungle—the compliment having been shifted from daughter to parent.

Whenever a play makes a big hit or a man does a big thing the soda clerks are among the first to make use of the event. They made up a Wright Brothers frappe and a North pole sundae. They invented a Taft soda and a Peter Pan phosphate. They can't afford to lose an opportunity or to let any other shop or business get ahead of them. So they spend what spare moments they have in inventing new things and new names for old things.—New York Tribune.

"The 'bighead' is a popular way of expressing a common and very frequent ailment," says the Vernon Call. "It rises from various sources, but the real foundation is a lack of sense. A little money develops it in some people; a few good clothes gives it to others; a little office, where a chance is given to exercise a little authority is often the cause of it; while others get it by having a little better job than their associates. The truth is no sensible person gets the 'bighead.' The one who becomes stuck-up and stiff-necked from sources of any kind, are weak in intellect."
