DICKINSON SPEAKS

ON ARLINGTON HILL

SECRETARY OF WAR IS ORATOR
AT MEMORIAL EXERCISES IN NATIONAL CEMETERY.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO SOUTH

Discusses Valor and Bravery of Those Who Fought on Each Side in Conflict.

By Associated Press.
Washington, June 5.—Inspired by the hallowed ground of Arlington, the resting place of Union and Confederate dead, Secretary of War Dickinson drew an eloquent picture of a reunited country and paid a beautiful tribute to the manhood and soldiery of the south.
In full light of the home of Robt. E.
Lee, he said, are the graves of the gallant soldiers who sustained the cause of the union while close by rest, by authority of congress many southerners who heroically sacrificed their lives for the cause of secession. In depicting the changed conditions and the evidences of unity of the present time, Mr. Dickinson mentioned his own responsible relation to the army of the country today in contrast with his relation in the memorable sixties when he said, he had shouted and lamented in turn as success or failure came to the Southern arms.

Our civil war," he continued, "was such a war as only men of such a blood could wage. It was bitter, fierce, destructive. The area of passion was moved to its profoundest depths. It was succeeded by fierce political strife that engendered a hatred
as intense as the heart could cherish.
The wonder is, not that deep resentment should abide with some, but that such feelings could ever so generally subside within the lives of those who were actors in that great tragedy, as to make such scenes as this possible.
We may well assign the reason given by Plato for a like reconciliation between contending Greeks, who with moderation, had laid aside their hostility for no other reason than their real consanguinity—producing a firm friendship and amity, not in words,
but deeds."

"While they deserve this honor at our hands, it will be but an idle ceremony if we do not for ourselves gain some good from this tribute. They illustrated a quality of citizenship that must exist for the healing of the nation if it is to survive.

"The South developed a splendid manhood. Native Americans (with less than one per cent of foreign birth) descended from revolutionary ancestry, with every fibre of their being wrought in the mold of Republican instincts, schooled in the principles of civil liberty and self government, believing to be an American was greater than to be a king, they loved their country with a patriotic fervor not surpassed in the histories of the nations and were ever ready to illustrate by their deeds their cherished sentiment: 'It is both sweet and honorable to die for one's country.'

"With the leisure and opportunity afforded by their ample means and simple life, they cultivated literature,
not as breadwinners, but for the pure pleasure and adornment it bestowed.
Despising the trade of the politician,
they studied the science of government and moved along the higher plan of statesmanship. They did not grow rich in offices on small salaries and large opportunities, but illustrated in their public services the declaration of Mr. Jefferson that he had resolved not to better his private fortune while in office. Frugal in their generosity with a sense of personal honor that preferred death to an impeachment of character, holding a sacred duty:

"To right such wrong where it is given,
"Though in the very court of heaven."

"Bred to the fine manners and stately bearing of olden times, deeply imbued with religious reverence, born with the instinct of command, trained in all many accomplishments, with a courage as keen, but as polished as a sword, boundless in their hospitality and offering to women adoration and courtesy not excelled by the pallidians of old, they were a race of men, whose splendor of character were equal to the best that any time has produced.
"The Pythian Apollo pronounced the oracle:

"By naught but greed of gain will Sparta perish"

"The greed of gain is the gangrene
that is destroying the life of the nation. Never in the history of our country were there so many such startling,
such shameful disclosures of corruption. It comes from an overpowering love of that which the men who lie here eagerly sacrificed for their country. There was never a time in the history of the world when for the defense of a principle so many of a people yielded up more freely all that men

The Hollingsworth Twins Company.
An elaborate production of "St.
Elmo" will be presented at the Franklin tent theatre tonight, corner 10th and Ohio. This is one of the Hollingsworth Twins' star bills and is a fit one to commence the second week of this company's engagement in Wichita Falls.

As this play is especially pleasing to the ladies and one that appeals to them strongly, the management will admit ladies free again tonight, that is, two ladies, or lady and escort will be admitted on one paid 25 cent ticket, the chairs costing ten cents extra.
Tom Calloway, one of the best comedians in the south, will be an added vaudeville number between acts one and two.

The Hollingsworth Twins' Company
will remain here all this week, changing plays and specialties each night.

Lively Contests in Iowa.
 Des Moines, Ia., June 6.—Politicians who have been watching for the national drift in republican politics will await with keen interest the results of the republican primaries to be held tomorrow throughout Iowa. It will afford the first real test of strength between the regulars and progressives and will doubtless exert considerable influence upon the republican party conventions to be held later in Minnesota, Wisconsin and other states of the middle west.

The fight between the regulars and progressives for control of the state convention has been one of the fiercest ever known in Iowa politics. Iowa is now regarded as a progressive state. Her senators took the lead in the tariff fight, and were backed by the insurgent congressmen from several districts. If the progressives succeed in controlling the state convention, the Taft administration is not likely to be endorsed, excepting possibly in quite general terms, and Senators Dolliver and Cummins will be held up as reflecting perfectly the will of the republican party in Iowa. If the regular gain control, the Taft administration will be endorsed generally and specifically, and the work of the two senators thus discredited.

The fight between the rival factions is general all along the line. The more conservative of the progressive leaders were inclined to confine the fight to members of congress and to leave the state officers alone, but after considerable hesitation they yielded to the demand of the rank and file to extend the fight to the state offices. In pursuance of this plan former Lieutenant Governor Warren Garst has been brought out as the progressive candidate for governor in opposition to Governor B. F. Carroll, who is making the fight of his political career for renomination.

But the most spectacular contests of all are those that are being made to return insurgent congressmen to Washington. Three districts in Iowa are conspicuously represented by Cannon republicans. Walter L. Smith, a member of the old Cannon rules committee, represents the Ninth district; Captain J. A. T. Hull, chairman of the military committee in the house, represents the Seventh district, and C. A. Kennedy represents the First district. All supported Cannon measures and all voted for the Payne tariff bill. The other districts in Iowa, except the Eighth, which is represented by a democrat, are progressive.

In the Ninth district Congressman Smith is opposed for re-election on the ground that he is a Cannon man. In H. W. Byers he has a foeman worthy of his steel. Mr. Byers has served two terms as attorney general of Iowa, and it is believed by the progressives that he is as strong a candidate as could be put up.

In the Seventh district, Captain Hull is opposed by Judge S. F. Prouty, who came within forty votes of securing the nomination at the last primaries. He is a close friend and adviser of Senator Cummins.

Captain Hull, who has represented the Seventh district for twenty years, is strongly entrenched in his political position. As chairman of the committee on military affairs, he has secured for Des Moines one of the finest military posts in the country. In addition he secured last summer the great military tournament for Des Moines.

But, in spite of this, the progressives believe he will be defeated. At a banquet here last winter Senator Cummins declared that even if Captain Hull had been able to do much for Des Moines by making it a military center, he had lacked in other respects which might entitle him to re-election.

The contest against Congressman Kennedy in the First district, though it has not attracted so much attention, is regarded as almost as important as the fights in the Ninth and Seventh districts. S. Brookhart, a radical insurgent, is making the race against Mr. Kennedy.

More Honors for Roosevelt.

London, June 6.—Many persons of distinction are preparing to go to Oxford tomorrow, when the honorary degree of D. C. L. is to be conferred upon Theodore Roosevelt. The degree will be conferred at a convocation to be held in the Sheldonian Theatre immediately before the Romanes lecture. Lord Curzon will propose the degree and after Mr. Roosevelt has been duly presented by Dr. Goudy, Regius Professor of Civil Law, Lord Curzon will confer the degree of Latin. This ceremony being concluded, the chancellor will, in English, express the welcome of the university to Mr. Roosevelt, who will then deliver the Romanes lecture.

Ohio Bankers in Session.

Columbus, O., June 6.—The twentieth annual convention of the Ohio Bankers' Association assembled here this morning and was called to order by President W. F. Hoffman. Governor Harmon delivered the address of welcome and former Governor Myron T. Herrick responded for the visitors. The address of President Hoffman and the annual reports of other officers and of committees occupied the greater part of the day. A leading feature of tomorrow's session will be the discussion of the proposition for a central bank of issue for the United States.

AS OTHERS VIEW US.

For the past four years, up to just a few days ago, there had not been a real genuine "knocker" in the city, and to the credit of Wichita Falls and the harmony which has and which will combine to prevail among our citizens, the Times feels that it is due to explain that this "knocker" had not been here long enough to pay a month's dues to our splendidly conducted Chamber of Commerce, but what he said in a short time inspired strange ers to talk, and it gave them a sort of a license to knock. On account of this fellow Wichita Falls suffered. But following from the Denton Record and Chronicle should go a long ways in showing to those who are not prejudiced, or who have been made to believe that they have a real or imaginary grievance against the city. Read it. It will do you good:

"The Record and Chronicle has all along insisted that aside from any and all other good the organization has done, the greatest benefit the Chamber of Commerce has been to Denton has been that it tended to harmonize all public-spirited citizens, to decry bitterness, petty jealousies and petty bickerings, and to promote a feeling of union, wherein lies any community's greatest strength. 'United we stand, divided we fall,' was used epigrammatically to describe a wholly different occasion, but of nothing is it more true than of towns and cities. The town that is harmonious and presents a united effort for everything that is for the upbuilding of that town is sure to grow; the town that is divided into factions may—emphasizing the 'may'—grow, but it will be by its ability to overcome the serious handicap and all the time with the perfect realization that it requires a much greater effort to do little things than it were to do big things with a united and harmonious citizenship.

"The remarkable growth of Wichita Falls has attracted attention throughout the state. In 1900 Wichita Falls had less than 2,500 people. The 1910 census, it is believed, will show between 9,000 and 10,000, and very much the greatest part of the increase has come within the past two or three years. Indeed, the rapid strides of that little city have come very greatly since the news went out that Wichita Falls had raised $10,000 a year for the support of its Chamber of Commerce and advertising the Wichita country. But back of that and back of the fortunes of its citizens lies another story.

Let a staff correspondent of the Dallas News, who is touring the Northwestern portion of the state, tell his story.
"The other day I was in Wichita Falls. It was soon noised about that a News man was in the city, and if there is anything in Wichita Falls and the surrounding country that he did not see it was unworthy of mention. After talking with bankers, merchants and farmers; after riding over the country, walking through fields; after being told of the natural gas which costs but 9 cents per thousand and of the plan to get 3-cent gas; of the present industries and those on the way, I turned to one of the leading citizens and asked: 'What is your greatest asset?' Like a flash came the reply: 'Harmony.' There are worse towns in as good countries as is Wichita Falls; there are few communities that contain so many men working together for building a city. The rich man spends hundreds of thousands on enterprises which he knows will help his city, and which he fondly hopes will pay expenses if not dividends. He spends his money on the proposition with a view of getting it out of another. He may not see his operating expenses at first, but so abiding is his faith in his city that he cheerfully takes the risk. There are men in Wichita Falls who boldly proclaim their belief in a city of 60,000 people in 1920, and if a citizen does not look forward to 25,000 population in five or six years his enthusiasm has not been worked up to the right pitch. This spirit has trebled the population of his city in four years. It has made it a railroad center, a jobbing center and an industrial center. It will soon become a packing center, for an institution to employ 200 men at the start is assured. A union station, costing $100,000 is to be erected, the second $100,000 brick company has been organized and new wholesale houses and other institutions are provided for. To top this off, the city will spend $100,000 on new paving. New school houses, five story business blocks and parks are already in existence, and more building. Pulling together by all citizens and faith in the future is bringing results which justify the predictions of a city of the first class."

"No knock is intended when we say that agricultural conditions around Wichita Falls this year are very poor compared with Denton county's. But has Wichita Falls let up on its 'boosting' Not a bit. Indeed, the shortness of the crop prospects has, if anything, increased their pushing and hustling and boasting, and if there are any hard times on hand or imminent in that country, you have to get outside of the town to notice it."

The Times finds itself unable to shed any tears over the demise of the District Association. We believe that Wichita Falls is able to stand alone, and that there is no plan which can be successfully carried out that combines the efforts of other towns in this section. The principle of the District Association was good, but in actual practice the plan has not proved nearly as successful as was hoped. Peace to its ashes.—Wichita Times.

What was the District Association? And why are you so reluctant to cry at its funeral? From the reading of your unfeeling comment, we gather that you consider Wichita Falls too big and individualistic for any sort of communal experiment. In other words, your town has distanced its neighbors and is willing to let them look out for themselves. It is the way of the world. Cities, like men, rise to higher things upon the stepping stones of their dead selves, and then kick the ladder down.—Dallas News.

The prospects now are better than a week ago for a splendid corn and cotton crop. One day last week the hot winds came, and there was no mistake about the "hotness" of them. Had they continued for another day or so, the corn crop would have been greatly damaged, if not entirely destroyed. But, instead of being followed by another wind of the same kind, a two-inch rain came, and that was just what was needed to put the cotton and corn crops in the pink of condition. There need be but little fear now but that a record-breaker corn and cotton crop will be produced in Wichita county.

The death in New York yesterday of W. S. Porter, better known to the World as "O. Henry" will bring regret to every reader of light fiction. It will bring regret particularly to Texans for O. Henry resided in this state many years and served his apprenticeship as a writer on the Houston Post. He had keen powers of observation and his writings show that close study of human nature that a fiction writer needs. Many of the scenes of his stories, especially those delightful ones dealing with ranch life, were laid in Texas.

El Paso is enterprising. She is now preparing to pull off a stunt that will be superior to any circus that is traveling, by having a meeting of ex-President Roosevelt and President Diaz, on the occasion of the opening of the new bridge soon to be completed across the Rio Grande.

The United States Treasury officials have it all figured out that if the money of the United States were divided equally, each man, woman and child would be entitled to $34.69.

Church Notice.
The interest in the meeting now in progress at the Church of Christ, on Bluff street, is growing. We had good audiences Sunday and Sunday night. We invite all to our services. Services daily at 8:30 p. m., throughout this week. Subject tonight: "The New Birth," Juno 3:5; Tuesday night, "Can Good People Be Saved Outside the Church?" Wednesday night, "Old Time Religion."

We treat all who attend these services with kindness. We regard all religious people's honesty and try to be considerate of their feelings in all we say and do. All who feel an interest in Christ's cause and will work as God directs, are invited to come and help us in the fight against sin.

TRY THIS FOR CATARRH.

Get a Hyomel (pronounced High-ome) outfit today.

Four a few drops from the bottle in to the inhaler that comes with each outfit, and breathe it in 4 or 5 times a day.

Immediately you will know that Hyomel soothes and heals the inflamed and irritated membrane.

But Hyomel does more than soothe and heal, it kills the germs, those per-severing pests that are at the root of all catarrhal conditions.

"Last year I suffered terribly with catarrh. I used one bottle of Hyomel and my catarrh was better."—Miss Helen McNair, Loyalton, Cal.

A complete Hyomel outfit, including a bottle of Hyomel, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and simple directions for use, costs only $1.00. If you now own a Hyomel inhaler, you can get an extra bottle of Hyomel for only 50 cents at drug stores everywhere and at the Weeks Drug Company.

Guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup, asthma and sore throat or money back.

Sale of Rare Books in London.
London, June 6.—The fourteenth portion of the famous library of the late Sir Thomas Phillips of Middle Hall, Worcestershire and Thriestane House, Cheltenham, was put on sale at Steby's auction rooms today, the auction sale to last four days. The collection contains many rare and valuable books, classical manuscripts, mainly on vellum, early monastic cartularies and chronicles, royal household books, wardrobe and jewel books and a large number of autograph letters and documents bearing on Monmouth's rebellion and the French Revolution. One of the most interesting manuscripts is the original Household book of accounts in connection with the expenses incurred by Eleanor, daughter of Edward III, on her journey to Verlie for her marriage with Reginald, Earl of Gelders.
Sir Thomas Phillips was the son of a wealthy Manchester merchant and was born in 1792. All through his life he accumulated books and manuscripts and his wealth permitted him to make extensive purchases of entire libraries put upon the market. It is estimated that he spent more than $1,000,000 for his enormous library. He died in 1872 and since his death parts of his collection were sold at auction at different times.

War Against Rat in Indiana.
Princeton, Ind., June 6.—War against the pestiferous rat was begun in earnest today in this state, hostilities beginning in Gibson county, where the citizens observed the day as "rat killing day." The movement for the extermination of the rat in this state was originated by J. R. Strickland, a young druggist of Owensville, who is taking great interest in the problem and introduced a bill in the legislature, authorizing townships to pay a small bounty on rat tails. Owing to the rush of bills during the closing days of the session the bill was not passed, but the citizens realizing the importance of the problem, readily supported the plan of waging wholesale war against the rats which are the cause of enormous damage and a source of constant danger in many of the infested districts of the state. The people of Gibson county were the first to take up the plan in a practical way and today was assigned as rat-killing day throughout the county. Statistics showing the number of rats killed are not yet available, but, judging from the extensive preparations that had been made for the day it is safe to assume that the number of rats in Gibson county was materially reduced today.
Cafe service at Lake Wichita is unexcelled.

London Horse Show Opens.
London, June 6.—With the call of "Boots and Saddles" sounded by the bugler in Olympia today, the fourth International Horse Show was opened and, while shorn of some of its brilliance by the official and popular mourning for the late king, the exhibition this year promises to eclipse its predecessor from the viewpoint of the lover of blooded horses. The number of entries—several hundred more than last year—indicates the measures of the exhibition's appeal to the horse owner. The American exhibitors are numerous, among them being Alfred Vanderbilt, Judge William H. Moore, C. W. Watson, Joseph W. Harriman and E. T. Stotesbury.
The exhibits include practically every variety of harness and riding horse and pony, in addition to trotters and hunters, novices, appointments, chargers, pace and action, teams, pony tandems and four-in-hands. Sixty thousand dollars, the largest premium list ever offered at any horse show, will be distributed among the winning owners.

Foreign Cruise for Middies.
Annapolis, Md., June 6.—The midshipmen from the Naval Academy sailed on their annual practice cruise today, cheered by their friends and relations who waved hats and handkerchiefs from the three battleships Massachusetts, Indiana and Iowa weighed anchor. For the first time in ten years the middies are going on a foreign cruise, which will take them to Marseilles, Gibraltar and the Azores. They are expected to return to Annapolis about August 29. The entire cruise will cover a distance of nearly 10,000 miles.

Bishop McFaul 50 Years Old.
Trenton, N. J., June 6.—Rev. James A. McFaul, bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Trenton, celebrated his sixtieth birthday today. The bishop is a native of Ireland, but has lived here since his early youth. He is widely known throughout the country as one of the most active promoters of the American Federation of Catholic Societies.

Fads and Fashions

New York, June 4.—Contrary to all predictions, blouses are more popular than ever this season and a scrutiny of the displays in the big fashionable shops will convince anyone that this season's blouses are exceptionally pretty and effective. One of the most striking features is the employment of frills for ornamentation. Frills are decidedly impractical, especially with lingerie waists or blouses, but they are pretty and give a dainty effect that cannot be obtained in any other style of ornamentation.

The frill collar implies a bare throat, or at least that is the case with the lingerie models, though in the costume blouses of chiffon, crepe, etc., a frill neck finish is often accompanied by the shallowest of transparent guimpes with with close high collar. In the lingerie model this idea does not work out very well and where a high collar is required the frill usually runs down the front.

The collarless blouse, like the collarless frock, has things very much its own way in Paris, save for delightful little sheer tucked and frilled and long sleeved models designated as "tailored," but although the chic Parisian has taken up the collarless models with enthusiasm there are always women, even in Paris, who refuse slavishly to adopt unbecoming modes, and in New York there are plenty of fashionable women who will have none of the collarless models.

When a collarless frock or blouse is becoming, it is charming, but few women past their teens wear it as well in connection with a severe street costume. In such cases the hard collar line should be softened by a lingerie frill or embroidered collar falling over the tailored collar and lined next to the throat. There are numbers of such collars in all grades of fineness and usually accompanied by cuffs to match.

The veiling idea has strongly influenced the designers of costume blouses and many of the prettiest models in this class are of chiffon, silk mousseline or tamine veiling silk or satin, lace or contrasting chiffon. The idea is not altogether new, but the treatment fit, for the blouses follow the frock lines, and the best looking of the veiled models are excessively simple in line and have most of their elaboration, if elaboration there is applied to the foundation, while the sheer veiling is of the most pronounced simplicity.

Sometimes where the collarless effect is not desired, instead of introducing a guimpe the veiling chiffon or mousseline is run on up to form a perfectly plain yoke and collar, semi-transparent of course and perhaps relieved by a line of white or cream at the collar top. Often two veilings of chiffon are used in order to obtain a desired color effect.

The bordered chiffons are used for some attractive little blouses of simple line, a surplice arrangement with the wouldified kimono sleeve being a design of ten chosen for such material. Persian or cachemire silks veiled in the models are excessively simple in line and have most of their elaboration, if elaboration there is applied to the foundation, while the sheer veiling is of the most pronounced simplicity.

The newest models are very handsome handmade embroidered in openwork designs and combined with the sheerest of linen and finest of laces. The cotton crepes are less used by the blouse makers than they were last season, but some handsome models are made up in the fine cotton etamines. White linen embroidered in color is much liked, the touch of color echoing some of the tones in skirt and coat with which the blouse is worn.

The designers of millinery are producing new hats of great and interesting variety. Some of them are charming or quaint; others are extraordinary in size and line, and the rest are wonderfully beautiful in line and color. There are some hats that reach down to the eyebrows, with trimming sloping abruptly toward the back, giving an unbecoming, top-heavy appearance that few women can wear and look well. On very tall and slim women these hats look perfectly grotesque.

Maude Adams in Open Air.

Berkeley, Calif., June 6.—After many weeks of hard work and lavish expenditure of money all preparations are now completed for the magnificent performance of Shakespeare's "As You Like It," with Maude Adams as Rosalind, at the Greek Theatre of the University of California tonight. The town is full of visitors from all parts of the state and its expected that every seat in the big amphitheatre will be occupied at the performance. Besides Miss Adams the company engaged for the occasion includes Martin Sabine, who will play Orlando; Arthur Byron, Jacques; Robert Peyton Carter, Touchstone; George Osbourne, who will play the banished Duke; Miss Dorothy Dorr, Miss Molloy Desmond and Miss Pollett Paget. Everything to be used in the performance has been made especially for the occasion, including the costumes, which were designed and made under the direction of John W. Alexander, president of the National Academy of Design, New York. The music, especially composed for this performance, will be under the direction of William Hurst and the orchestra will be supported by a chorus of 100 voices. Not only the stage of the Greek Theatre, but also the space in front of it will be used, thus bringing the audience in close touch with the scene.

Rose Carnival in Portland.

Portland, Ore., June 6.—Rose Festival Week opened here today under most favorable auspices. The city is gayly decorated and the hotels are crowded with visitors. The arrival of Rex Oregonus, king of the festival, ushered in the festivities at noon today. Tomorrow the first of the parades will be held. The "Spirit of the Golden West" will be exhibited to the visitors tomorrow evening, while the mammoth exhibition of roses will have its formal opening in the afternoon. The program for the entire week is much more elaborate than in previous years, and each day will be full of brilliant features.

Opportunity Says—

They do me wrong when they say I come no more, When once I knock and fail to find you in, For each day I stand outside your door, And bid you wake to rise to fight to win.

The possibilities for the educated man or woman were never so great as today. Our mission in the world is to prepare you to successfully fill positions of merit and responsibility. Arrange now to enter our school on its opening date, July 1st. HENRY'S BUSINESS COLLEGE. 20-21—

Racing at Salt Lake Starts.

Salt Lake City, June 6.—The race meeting of the Utah Jockey Club opened at Buena Vista Park today under favorable conditions. With both the race officials and the race-attending public in evidently happy frame of mind at the prospect, the opening gave evidence that the meeting was to be a success and to furnish excellent sport. There is to be racing every day until July 21st. The purses will range from $250 to $500, and overnight handicaps, with from $400 to $500 will be given weekly.

LOCAL NEWS BREVITIES

The following invitations have been sent out: "Rev. Finis E. Leach requests the honor of your presence at the marriage of his daughter, Susan Anna, to Mr. Murray Merton Hotchkiss on the evening of Wednesday, June the fifteenth, nineteen hundred and ten, at nine o'clock, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Davis Kelly, one hundred and four Austin avenue, Wichita Falls, Texas. At home after August first, Denison, Texas." Miss Leach, for the past two years, has held the position of stenographer at the First National Bank of this city and is very popular among her friends and acquaintances. Mr. Hotchkiss is a prominent young business man of Denison.

Little Norman Adams, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Adams, met with a serious accident yesterday afternoon at Lake Wichita, by a heavy gas drum falling on his hand, mashing it severely. The child was brought to town and Dr. Miller called to attend his injuries.

The Northwestern's tracks on the Hollis extension have passed through the town of Duke and reached the first bridge west of that place, according to the officials of the road this morning. Train service will start as soon as the line reaches Hollis.

The gas mains are being laid in the court house yard at present, preparatory to the installation of the lights which will illuminate the lawn during the summer evenings.

The county court will convene Wednesday, Judge Yeager not taking up any of the cases today on account of the district court being in session.

R. M. Moore complained to the police station this morning that a quantity of feed had been stolen from the barn at his home.

Bishop Mouzon will preach at the Baptist church tonight, and those who do not go to hear him will miss a great treat.

The sky has been dark with clouds since noon and there are indications of rain during the afternoon.
