GLIDDEN TOURISTS THROUGH RINGGOLD

ONLY FOURTEEN OUT OF FORTY-FOUR CARS STILL REMAINED IN CONTEST

WICHITANS ARE ON HAND

Number of Local Automobiles Have Little Endurance Run of Their Own

Fourteen dust-covered automobiles, all that have survived of the forty-four that left Detroit early last week, passed through Ringgold yesterday afternoon and crossed Red River, north of that place en route to Lawton, where they spent last night. The rest of the cars have either become disabled or have so many points counted up against them that it was impossible for them to make a good showing.

The feature of the run from Dallas to Ringgold was the loss by the Chalmers car No. 5 of its perfect score. Up to yesterday not a point had been recorded against this machine, but near Bowie yesterday its engine was overheated and it was necessary to stop and take on water, which impaired the standing of the car.

The contestants crossed Red River on the Rock Island bridge. They understood that it was to be floored for them, but it was not, and they were forced to cross on the bare ties, which was accompanied with considerable labor and difficulty. Those who were questioned stated that yesterday's was not only the hottest run they had experienced, but the more laborious in every way. The following cars were still in the contest at Ringgold: A Chalmers-Detroit, driven by Pathfinder Dai Lewis; two other Chalmers cars; a Maxwell, 30, a Maxwell 22, three Morrises, one Glide, one Premier and one Hudson.

The contestants were greeted at Ringgold by a large party of autoists, most of whom were from Wichita Falls, together with several from Bowie and Henrietta. The Wichita party went from this city to Henrietta over a 24-mile route in seventy-two minutes and from Henrietta to Ringgold, about eighteen miles, in slightly over an hour. The return trip was made more deliberately, partly on account of the fact that there was no occasion for hurry and partly because four of the autos got lost. One did not get in until the wee small hours of the morning.

The trip was in the nature of an endurance run for the local machines and all of them stood the rough ride well. Ira Wills, in a "Flanders 26," accompanied by the Times man, acted as pilot and the little car set a pace that the others were at times hardly able to follow. The performance of this car and of the "AA Maxwell" driven by Carl Crow was considered excellent, they having a total mileage for the day of nearly one hundred miles without any trouble whatever. The Wichita party included:

Ira Wills and John Gould, in a "Flanders 20"; C. E. Brown and Joe Kimble in an "AA Maxwell"; T. C. Thatcher, H. Cranmer, Walter Brown, Frank Collier and T. E. Dobson in Mr. Thatcher's "Maxwell 30"; Piner Avis and Carter McGregor in Avis' "Over-Mrs. T. T. Reese and Mrs. W. A. Reid in Mr. Reese's "Maxwell 30"; J. C. Tandy, Sam Scaling, N. Henderson, G. Barnett, Miss Annie Carrigan, Miss Ade

It was shipped from Brownsville, weighed 323 pounds, was classed as strict middling and sold for $50. The bale from Mercedes was sent by express to New York this afternoon.

Woods and Miss Searly of Henrietta in Mr. Barnett's Studebaker.

Special to The Times. Chickasha, Okla., June 23.—The first of the Glidden tourist cars arrived here at 11 o'clock today and the last arrived at 1:30. The Chalmers No. 5 has still an almost perfect record, and stands first in the contest. Premier No. 1 has 10 points against it, and stands second. A Maxwell is third in the contest.

The Glidden tourists were given a reception by the local automobile club, and left at 2 o'clock for Oklahoma City.

ON PRACTICE CRUISE

Five Hundred Annapolis Students Sail on Battleships

By Associated Press. Plymouth, June 23.—The American battleships, Indiana, Massachusetts and Iowa, with 500-midshipmen from the naval academy at Annapolis, on a practice cruise, arrived here today. The squadron is under the command of Admiral Clark.

ARRESTS FOR GAMBLING FOLLOW RAID BY LOCAL OFFICERS YESTERDAY

Chief of Police Gwinn and Deputy Constable Pickett raided a room that is commonly supposed to be used for gaming and sporting purposes late yesterday afternoon, and placed four men, O. C. Hebing, Pat Smith, Jess Williams and Johnny Taylor under arrest, charging them with gaming.

All the men gave bond for their appearance in Judge Rye's court today. This is the same place in which Dr. Crutcher was relieved of a check of about $700, for which he instituted suit, and which was tried Friday and Saturday of last week, the jury failing to agree upon a verdict.

Three of the defendants plead guilty in the city court this morning and were fined $15 each. The fourth was dismissed.

The Irish Lads won the second game of the series at Childress yesterday, the score being 4 to 2.

CONFUSION IS CAUSED BY CHANGING OF THE SECOND PRECINCT LINE

By the changing of the lines of commissioner's precinct No. 2, a great deal of dissatisfaction and confusion exists in that commissioner's precinct.

According to the statement of Mr. S. P. Hawkins, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed citizens of Wichita county, and who has resided in this county for thirty-one years, neither himself nor any of his neighbors were consulted about the changing of the precinct lines, nor did they have any knowledge whatever about the matter until after it had been done. He also says that he was told by the editor of the newspaper published at Burk Burnett that he (the editor) was asked to not publish the fact that the precinct lines had been changed. As a result but few people know little or nothing about where the boundary lines of precinct No. 2 are now located, and may not find out where they are in time to vote on the day of election.

"Had the people of our neighborhood been treated with the courtesy which we, as old citizens of the county, thought was our due, we would have sent in a strong protest against the changing of the boundary lines of precinct No. 2," remarked Mr. Hawkins.

Mr. Hawkins, is a candidate for county commissioner from that precinct, having yielded to the wishes of his friends in that matter, but it now appears that he failed or neglected to notify the chairman of the county Democratic Executive Committee of his candidacy for that office, in due time, and for that reason his name will be left off the ticket on the day of the primary election, July 23, that of his opponent will be printed on the ticket. This gives his opponent considerable the advantage, but Mr. Hawkins says that if the county Democratic Executive Committee will do him the kindness to leave a blank space on the ticket sufficient to write in a name, that he feels confident his friends will find it, and write his name in, and that if this is done he does not fear the result.

BRICK PLANT WORK TO START SHORTLY

PRESIDENT KENTNER RETURNS FROM NEW YORK TO MAKE HIS HOME HERE

MACHINERY IS PURCHASED

Blue Prints for Buildings Are Now Being Prepared by Architects

I. H. Kentner returned today from New York, where he has been for several weeks and stated to a Times reporter that plans for the construction of the new brick plant, to be known as the Northwestern Brick Co., were rapidly maturing. Mr. Kentner returns to make Wichita Falls his permanent home and is this afternoon trying to solve the home and office problem.

The blue prints for the plant, according to Mr. Kentner, are now being prepared and will be here shortly. Work will not be started, however, while the hot weather lasts. While in the east, Mr. Kentner purchased the machinery to be used in the plant and it will be here by the time the buildings are completed.

The object in buying is to give more room for the general offices and to enlarge the track facilities. The property cost the railroad about $250,000. MERCHANTS MEETING LANDED BY WICHITA

THIS CITY GETS 1911 MEETING AWAY FROM SAN ANTONIO AND GALVESTON

VICTORY ON FIRST BALLOT

Means from Five Hundred to One Thousand Visitors Here Next Year

The 1911 convention of the Texas Retail Merchants' Association will be held in Wichita Falls, the delegation from this city being victorious on the first ballot at Houston this morning. The following telegram was received from Secretary Barrickman:

"We win on first ballot with forty-eight votes. San Antonio thirty-three, Galveston six."

Advices received last night were to the effect that Dallas, Fort Worth and Austin, who were in the race, had withdrawn in favor of Wichita Falls and those who stayed at home felt encouraged by this news. The fact that Wichita Falls defeated such opponents as Galveston and San Antonio shows the esteem in which this city is held over the state.

Mayor T. B. Noble, Secretary Barrickman, J. L. Lea Jr., and B. J. Bean represented this city at the meeting, and the success in securing the 1911 convention is due to their efforts. They went prepared to put up a determined fight and how well they succeeded can be seen.

It is learned that B. J. Bean of this city was elected a director of the state association at the meeting this morning and the conferring of this further honor on Wichita Falls is a matter of which the officers of the association feel quite proud. The Wichita Falls delegation is expected home tomorrow afternoon.

The bringing of the state association meeting here next year means from 500 to 1,000 visitors to this city, and it will be a convention which any city in the state might be proud to entertain. Plans are already being formulated to make the reception and entertainment the most lavish of which this city is capable.

MAN BELIEVED TO BE PORTER WALTON TAKEN INTO CUSTODY IN N. Y.

By Associated Press. New York, June 23.—It is reported that Porter Charlton, the husband of Mary Scott Charlton, whose body was found in a trunk in Lake Como, Italy, reached here on the Morgan Liner today. The man gave the name of Chas. Coleman when arrested, but is reported to have broken down at the police station and admitted that he was Charlton.

While Charlton was being sweated he became infuriated and drew a revolver and tried to shoot Chief of Police Hayes. He was quickly disarmed and a few minutes later confessed to the crime. Charlton arrived on the steamship Princess Irene and was given the "third degree" before he admitted his identity and also confessed he murdered his wife. Later Charlton made a signed statement to the police. Charlton said he and his wife engaged in a violent quarrel, she calling him vile names, and finally he became angered and struck her over the head three times with a wooden mallet. After placing the body in a trunk he carried it to the lake and threw it in the water.

Texas News Service Special. Austin, Tex., June 23.—The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals just before adjournment this morning for the term granted bail for $7,500 to J. D. Seay of the Criminal Court of the Dallas District, who remanded Manley to jail without bond. The Criminal Appeals Court has adjourned until October 3.

SUMMER BUILDING ACTIVITY BRISK

ADVENT OF WARM WEATHER HAS HAD NO EFFECT ON CONSTRUCTION WORK

SEVERAL NEW RESIDENCES

Steady Progress Being Made on New Business Structures Downtown

The advent of summer does not seem to have had any depressing effect on local building operations and the activity in this line is as brisk as ever. In addition to the business structures contemplated and under construction, there are several handsome new residences.

The contract will be awarded shortly for the Moore-Perkins buildings on 10th street, on the site of the old Alamo school. The latter building will be moved into the southeastern quarter of the city and used as a negro school. A long row of one-story business buildings, of brick, will be constructed on this property. R. M. Moore and D. M. Perkins are the builders, and it is understood that the contract will be awarded before the end of the month.

Several handsome new residences are to be constructed shortly. Mrs. R. E. Clifton will shortly begin the erection of a two-story dwelling on Bluff street between 9th and 10th, and H. Zimmerman is preparing to put up a $3,000 home on Broad street. J. B. Stokes intends to erect a new and handsome residence on the site of his present home at 7th and Lamar. A number of new cottages have been erected in North Wichita, across the river, and that part of the city is getting to be quite a populous suburb.

Work is under way on the following downtown buildings: City National Bank building, Hines-Jackson building, Friberg building, Times building, Joine building and Souter building. Among the new buildings contemplated are one by R. M. Moore back of the Moore-Bateman building and the Knight building at the corner of 9th and Indiana.

The big building for the Carroll-Brough-Gates Grocery Company is nearing completion and is already being used by the company.

THE RISE OF THE ZION LACE INDUSTRIES

The Zion Lace Industries possess the distinction of having introduced into the new world the manufacture of fine Valenciennes Laces. In 1901 the Chicago Historical Society took official recognition of this notable fact. This enterprise occupies the new field with scarcely a rival.

As late as 1900 this beautiful product was considered a monopoly of the historic lace centers of Europe. Americans annually imported $6,000,000 worth of Valenciennes laces. Then the unique community of Zion City built the first factory making this class of lace in this country. The entire working staff of a large factory in Nottingham, England, was transported and installed with modern machinery at Zion City.

Instead of impairing the lace industry, the financial reverses of the Zion City community opened the way to greater possibilities.

The manufactory, covering many acres, was considerably enlarged and improved. Additional machinery was brought across land and water to Zion City. A power house was erected. The efficiency of the plant was raised in many other ways.

This rapid growth of the Zion Lace Industries has not equaled the remarkable increase in the demand. The product is constantly oversold. This is but one indication of the great future promised an enterprise which saves the American consumer about 50 per cent on every yard of French, English and Normandy Valenciennes Laces, Lace Allogers and Lace Dress Nets.

The Human Side of Zion Laces
The some 650 operatives of the Zion Lace Industries constitute a class perhaps found in no other factory in the world. They include many of the first citizens of the Zion City community and represent an order of good intelligence.

Through a sequence of unique circumstances many of these people find themselves engaged in the manufacture of lace. They take a great personal pride in their work, devoting not only their rare skill and physical ability, but concentrating their thought in producing the best Wash Laces ever placed before the American woman.

So intricate is the work of the designers of the lace patterns that years of study are necessary before they become at all proficient; only those who have made it their life work can, in the higher sense, be at all successful in lace designing.

These operatives work amid environments far more agreeable and healthful than usually afforded factory employes. The immense manufactory at Zion City in length is almost equal to two large city blocks. It is lighted by great numbers of wide windows. Its rooms are spacious and its ceilings high. These factors combine in making for unusually good ventilation.

Each machine is operated by its individual motor, eliminating all the dangers from belts and pulleys. Graphite instead of oil is largely used in lubricating the machinery.

These things are mentioned merely to show the ideal factory conditions existing at the Zion Lace Industries. They are important because every piece of Zion Lace reflects the conditions under which it is made.

Interesting Facts About Zion Laces

Every woman knows that good cotton yarns are essential to the making of good laces, but practically none is aware that any single machine in the Zion City Lace Industries handles in perfect order 3,000 separate threads daily.

The monster machines that weave their curious designs in the filmy fabric of miladi's wear are composed of 32,000 metal parts. The threads of one machine if placed end to end would reach twice across the American continent.

The cotton yarn used in the manufacture of Zion Laces demonstrates its superior quality by withstanding a powerful tension while the machines are in operation. This fact is more forcibly felt when one considers that thread as fine as No. 160, and sometimes No. 200, which seemingly would break of its own weight, successfully undergoes the strain.

The widths of lace may be from one-half to six inches. In the process of weaving, these widths compose a wide expanse of lace, known as web. The number of yards that can be woven by one machine depends upon the number of widths of lace in the web. This varies from 27 to 364, as the width of the lace varies. For example: In two daily shift of nine hours each one machine will weave 4,126 yards of lace if the lace is one inch wide.

Chemically pure water is necessary in attaining the best results in cleaning and bleaching laces. The Zion factory is provided with a supply of water shown by analysis and work demonstration to be pure to the highest practical degree. To this is credited the snowy whiteness distinguishing Zion Laces.

WAR ON THE TOURIST

Treasury Ruling Provides Payment of Duties on Everything

Tourists and others traveling into the United States from Mexico must pay on everything bought in this republic and not in actual use by the person carrying the same. Not one cent's worth of any dutiable article can be carried across the border free of tax now.

This was made known by official announcement from the consul general's office in pursuance of orders from the Treasury Department at Washington.

Consul General Arnold Shanklin was interviewed regarding the new ruling this morning, but he could shed no light on the natural question as to why this stringent order had been issued.

"It is simply the difference between the opinion of the former treasurer and that held by the present incumbent in office," he declared. "I can offer no explanation as to why the order is made so strict. All I know is that I have received orders from Washington to the effect that nothing will cross the border without the payment of duty unless it is in actual use and a necessity of travel."

Dutiable souvenirs of any description will be taxed, no matter how infinitesimal their values.

Tourists who load their trunks with remembrances of the country expecting to carry the articles across the line, will be surprised to be accosted for payment of the revenue, or suffer their trinkets to be confiscated.

It's a hard proposition to face, especially for the person with friends expecting a gift back in the states. But so the law decrees, and so it shall stand until the man at the helm in Washington sees fit to assume a more liberal attitude toward the traveling public.—Mexico Daily Record.

How Are You Fixed For Racks?

Stacking time will soon be upon you, so we thought we'd just call your attention to the question of racks. We realize how prone most men are to put off attending to these things until the last moment; then it's too late. The old things are patched up in hopes that they will do for a while. The result is no end of time and trouble wasted tinkering to keep them together.

Better look up the rack question and get into shape before you actually need them. We have a good stock of clear, dry materials—just the thing for racks.

"Love," said the maiden, "is a rose That in life's garden sweetly grows," "Marriage," the horrid man did scoff, "is the wind that blows the petals off."
—Boston Transcript.

James A. Patten, apropos of a failure that had an ugly look, said recently in New York:
"That failure reminds me of Brownlow's boy."
"Pop, said Brownlow's boy, 'I've been reading all them modern society novels by Robert W. Potts about marriage being a failure, and I want to know what it means.'
"Run along and play," said old Brownlow. "You're too young, sonny, to understand such delicate matters."
"No, pop; I'm gettin' a big boy now," said the lad, "and I insist on knowin' all about this here social question. Tell me, is marriage, or ain't it, a failure?"
"The old man, after a moment's thought, replied:
"Well, if you marry a rich enough woman—a Gould or a Harriman—then marriage is as good as a failure."
—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

and faster, higher and higher, as it sailed away. Just as the ball was passing over the fence I looked toward the plate and there that numbskull was standing stock still, a look of abject alarm on his face.
"Run!" I shouted with all my might, for we needed the tally. "Run! Don't you see the ball has gone over the fence?"
"Run?" he howled back. "Not on your life. I've done nothing to run for. I didn't mean to lose the ball, but I've got the money to pay for it. How much is the damage?"

Little Harold was getting final instructions before starting for a party.
"Now," cautioned his mother, "at supper if they ask you the second time to have something, you must decline."
Harold agreed and trotted off.
At one stage of the feast the hostess noticed how eagerly the little fellow was applying himself to the task of disposing of a generous dish of marmalade. When he had finished, she inquired: "Won't you have some more, dear?"
The child looked up at her quickly. "I can't accept the second time," he said earnestly after a slight pause, "but if you'll ask me a third time, I think it will be all right."
He was asked.—Thomas Jenkins in Woman's Home Companion for June.

To Pay Penalty for Triple Murder
Savannah, Ga., June 23.—Unless saved by legal formalities, J. C. Hunter will die on the gallows in the Chatham county jail tomorrow for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Maggie Hunter, and aged Mrs. Eliza Gribble and her daughter, Mrs. Carrie Ohlander.

The murders were committed in the Hunter home in the heart of the city last December and were among the most brutal in the criminal annals of Savannah. It was at first suspected that the crimes had been committed by a negro and for a time there were fears of a bloody race riot. Within a few hours after the discovery of the triple murder the police raided the negro districts of the city and more than 150 negroes were taken into custody on suspicion. Within a few days, however, the charge was fastened upon Hunter, the husband of one of the victims. Evidence was brought no light that he had quarreled with his wife and had separated from her on account of her alleged unfaithfulness. This, it is believed, furnished the motive for the crimes.

On the afternoon of December 10 the attention of a passing patrolman was attracted to the house by hearing moans from within. A ghastly spectacle met the officer's eyes when he forced an entrance to the house. Sprawling hideously about the hall and rooms of their home, Mrs. Eliza Gribble, aged 70 years, and her daughter, Mrs. Ohlander, were found dead, while nearby lay Mrs. Hunter, dying, with her skull beaten in. A bloody ax on the floor showed how the women had come to their deaths.

The murders were not brutal. Mrs. Gribble was killed as she sat in her easy chair reading. Her gray hair was blood-clotted where the ax crushed her skull. Beside her body on the floor were her newspaper and her spectacles. One blow, or two at the most sufficed to end her life. Mrs. Chandler had been killed evidently while she was attempting to defend her mother, and Mrs. Hunter, whose body was found near the door, had probably been struck down as she attempted to escape from the house.

The work some of our officers are doing just now to rid the city, or at least the business portion of the city, of a gang of tin-horns and prostitutes is commendable, and so long as they keep up their good work the better class of the citizenship of Wichita Falls will stand by them. A number of raids on these low dives have been made during the past few weeks, and the officers declare it is their intention not only to raid these places, but to file complaints against the owners of the buildings in which these tin-horn gamblers and prostitutes rendezvous. Some of these places have been raided more than once, often enough in the eyes of the law to condemn them as public gambling dens. The Times believes our officers are making an honest effort to do their duty, and they need to be encouraged in this good work. Because a man will get drunk and perhaps stay drunk for weeks at a time, in the opinion of this paper, is no reason why such a person, if he happens to have some money, should have it taken away from him in a game of poker where the victim, being drunk and almost without reason or sense enough to sign his name correctly, should be relieved of his money by a set of dirty gamblers who have no honor, and are not entitled to the respect of any good citizen. Wichita Falls needs to be freed from that class of people, and if our officers will keep up their present good work, this will be accomplished.

There are two of the Davidsons to be voted for state office in this campaign. R. V. for governor and A. B. for lieutenant governor. They are cousins and good, sound men, in the opinion of this paper, but so far neither of them has made addresses in the interest of their candidacy in Wichita Falls. Of course, it is not possible for them to visit every town or city in the state, but unless they find out that Wichita Falls is on the map, some of the fellows up here who may be a little bit over-sensitive might not be able to discover that either of them are on the ticket to be voted on July 23.

There are a whole lot of would-be statesmen who will talk and talk, but when confronted with the man about whom they have talked, will take back water. That, however, does not seem to be one of H. Bascom Thomas' failings. Confound his time, he fights, or at least Senator Senter believes he will, and there is no telling how many daggers his imagination led him to believe were in that Dallas audience on the night of that joint debate. The next time he accepts or butts in on Thomas, he will perhaps study his disposition a little more carefully.

Just one month from today and the Democratic candidates for state, county and district offices will be cut down to one in a hill.

Yesterday was a long, hot day, the longest that will be recorded in the year 1919.

White fish are good and only twenty-five cents for twelve. Phone 261—King's.

Prince Edward 16 Years Old
London, June 23.—Flags were displayed on all public buildings today and the customary official salutes were fired in observance of the sixteenth birthday anniversary of Prince Edward of Wales, eldest son of King George and heir to the British throne. Prince Edward, or the Duke of Cornwall, as he has been styled since the accession of his father to the throne, has recently joined his ship at Dartmouth. Within the next year or so he will probably start on a world cruise such as it is customary for all British princes to make in their youth.

A typical Anglo-Saxon lad is Prince Edward and extremely popular among his fellow cadets in the navy. He is known among his mates as a thoroughbred sportsman. He could ride his pony at five years of age and later he became proficient in swimming, cricket, football and boxing. Cross-country running, however, is his favorite sport and it is probable that few lads of his age in all England can outdistance him.

Now that he has entered upon his seventeenth year it is likely that he will be created Prince of Wales at an early date. If the investiture takes place in Wales, two towns, Carnarvon and Cardiff will contend for the honor.

A PRAYER FOR NEWSPAPER MEN.

The following plea to the Almighty for newspaper men is taken from the July issue of the American Magazine: "O thou great source of truth and knowledge, we remember before thee the writers of books, the newspaper men, and all whose calling it is to gather and winnow facts and to inform the people. Grant them a determined love for honest work and a staunch hatred for the making of lies, lest they revert the judgments of our nation and teach us to call light darkness and darkness light. Suffer them not to drug the mind of our people with falsehood and prejudice. Since the sanity and wisdom of a nation are in their charge may they count it shame to set the baser passions of men on fire for the sake of gain.

"Grant them boldness to turn the unwelcome light on those who love the darkness because their deeds are evil. Put into their hands the shining sword of truth, and make them worthy sons of the champions of the people in the past who held truth to be a holy thing for which men should die. Make them realize that they have a public function in the commonwealth, and that their country may be saved by their courage and undone by their cowardice and silence.

"Grant them the heart of manhood to cast their mighty influence with the forces which make the people strong and free, and if they suffer loss may they rejoice in that as proof to their own souls that they too have been friends of the common man and servants of the higher law."

Sometimes when you get sore on the paper, read this prayer over again. It will help you.

Governor Campbell is responsible for his administration, and it is to be regretted that, after he has discovered he has made a serious mistake and attempts to correct it by asking for the resignation of one of his appointees, the law is such that it does not give him the right to demand the resignation of that appointee when he refuses to step down and out at the request of his superior. Fire Insurance Commissioner Hawkins, from the way he has acted in the matter, seems to think this will be his last chance to get an office where he can wield so much power, and doubtless he is right. If the people of Texas were given an opportunity to pass on his case the Times doubts very seriously if ten per cent of them would approve his course in this matter. Usually, when men accept appointments and afterwards find out they are not in harmony with the administration in charge of affairs, they esteem themselves too highly to hold office under that administration and tender their resignations. The fact that Commissioner Hawkins refuses to do this leads many to believe that he has a motive other than service the interests of the people of Texas in holding on to this office.

There are a whole lot of would-be statesmen who will talk and talk, but when confronted with the man about whom they have talked, will take back water. That, however, does not seem to be one of H. Bascom Thomas' failings. Confound his time, he fights, or at least Senator Senter believes he will, and there is no telling how many daggers his imagination led him to believe were in that Dallas audience on the night of that joint debate. BEWITCHING WOMAN DEFENDAN

Murder Case in Venice Has Interesting Figures

It is to the sorcery of her eyes—those wide, staring, night-like, hypnotic, black eyes—that Marie Nikolaevna, Countess Tarnovska, is chiefly indebted for a celebrity comparable only with that of Phryne among the ancients. "Amazing" is the term for those orbs in the judgment of the special correspondent in Venice of the London Mail. "Only Guy de Maupassant," he avers, "if he were alive, or Gabriel d'Annunzio, if he cared to, could describe the peculiar power of those weird black eyes. The wonder about the eyes of Marie Nikolaevna—and this no doubt may seem a paradox—is that they are totally expressionless. Their stare, their size and their shade never vary. I have observed her for thirty minutes while the clock of the court struck the hour and then the half hour, and I did not see those uncanny eyes blink a single time. And yet those inscrutable eyes appear to read one's very soul." For has this inscrutable gazed the powers of characterization and analysis of that brilliant French woman of letters who writes for the Paris Gaulois under the pen name of Daniel Lesueur. She caught the overwhelming Tarnovska eyes full with her own. "The young woman has a long, pale visage wherein at first one sees but the eyes. Are they very beautiful? Have they that captivating potency which imposes itself upon the very children, if we are to credit the mother of the murdered man himself, the Countess Komaroffsky? The son of the victim, a mere boy, seems to have declared that he felt the eye of the Tarnovska, whom he adored, fixed upon him even when he did not see her, and that disobedience of the best in those eyes was utterly impossible." That air of melancholy, with which her countenance is clouded, adds the correspondent of the Paris Figaro, himself a critic of distinction, grows poignant when tears dim the luster of her eyes and make one realize the perfect art of "depicting Helen in tears the first time she appears in the Iliad, where her charms extort even from the venerable fathers of Troy one of the highest encomiums that ever were pronounced on beauty." Nothing to this observer so breathes the soul of poetry as the expression of these eyes, in which "the beautiful grief" of the prisoner extinguishes any idea of her legal responsibilities. She still remembers in the last extremity of sorrow that she faces her judge, and yet maintains all the sweetness of feminine complaint and tender expostulation with her eyes. Were there an epithet of the whole French language conveying an idea of perfect majesty blended with absolute beauty, he would apply it to the expression of this woman's eyes and still feel the inadequacy of the term.—Current Literature.

BIRDS KNOW THE GAME

They Are Masters of Movement in Aerial Warfare

The bird's art in mastering the air has become vitally important in creating that new element in international politics—air-power. Aerial battleships must not only be perfectly navigated to gain strategic positions to the wind, word of the enemy, but practice has shown that birds even point the way to aggressive tactics in aerial warfare.

A hawk, attacking a chicken, folds its wings while high above the ground, and drops like a bullet on its prey, for the same reason that tigers and lions, after stealing upon their victims, pounce on them in one irresistible leap. These tactics prevent flight or defense. Animals that are the natural quarry of birds of prey seem to have a dread of any object hovering above them. Instinct evidently warns them that the suddenness of such an attack is almost overwhelming. Mr. Dienstbach suggests that the swoop will be the most effective feature of the tactics of aerial warfare.

The Wrights, Paulhan and Latham have found that while descending from great heights their flying machines involuntarily swoop. One of Paulhan's passengers recently said that coming down was "awful—like shooting the chutes." The more conservative Wrights have tried to check this speed of descent. To avoid swooping, Orville Wright made a spiraling descent when making his highest flights over Potsdam in the summer of 1909. But the high fliers, Paulhan and Latham, make a practice of swooping from great altitudes. Paulhan, who is less of the dare-devil than the far-seeing aviator, found that the very force of the plunge sends the aeroplane up again when the rudders are manipulated near the ground, lifting the machine's front edges.

An eagle swoops so suddenly on a cat that the prey fails to locate the point from which to expect the attack. For the same reason, men upon whom an air craft might swoop with the eagle's speed, would fail to fire efficiently. This situation would be similar to a cavalry charge, the nature of the surprise preventing the directing and concentrating of the fire of the aerial foe. Under the most favorable conditions, cavalry requires more than a minute to deliver a charge. In comparison, the air craft would swoop like a falling stone.

Such an attack might be made with a favorable wind, at a speed of 100 miles an hour. From a steady airship, moving at that speed, long-range guns would be fired with more exactness than from a destroyer running thirty-two knots an hour. Thus the swoop seems destined to become vastly superior to any similar attack in land or sea fighting, whether a charge by cavalry or by a torpedo boat. When surprised, an enemy's discomfiture should become intolerable, because of the leaden hail beginning with the inception of the swoop, and increasing furiously during the entire advance. Aiming back might then become highly improbable. In a few seconds one machine gun could concentrate a tremendous fire which suggests that this weapon is an ideal one for the swoop. —Century Magazine.

THEIR HOMAGE IS COSTLY

Long Journey and Loss of Work Are Endured
What some of the older people suffered for their impulse to pay respect to the memory of Edward VII they only can tell. I saw two tall sons bring their aged mother over Westminster Bridge. The party was, obviously from the country.

"Which is the best way to get to Westminster Hall?" one of the young men asked. "You will have to walk at least four miles yet," said the policeman, who evidently thought it kindest to tell the plain truth. "Mother, can you do it?" said the son. "I'll try. I shan't be able to come up again, and we shall walk slowly," said the feeble woman, and the two sons almost carried their mother away in the direction the eager crowd was taking. At one point in the queue an old negro with a piece of rusty black cloth around his old bowler walked, leaning heavily on a stick. Beside him tramped three London workmen, who had given up half a day's pay to join in the great act of public homage, and behind him came a country clergyman with a party of rosy-cheeked village boys and girls. Then there came half a dozen lasses from some workshop in the metropolis, their morning wear running to no more than a black ribbon around the necks and tied in a bow under their chins, yet all sufficient for the sad needs of the hour, for their faces, too, were as quiet as those of their country cousins.

Here were smart, soldierly men, who held His Majesty's commission. Mingling with them were young civil servants from the adjacent government offices. Boy scouts were scattered here and there down the long black line. Two pale-faced convent sisters walked together with bowed heads, telling their beads along the way y road. Worn fathers led their little sons to gaze on the historic catalaque and store a precious memory.

And it struck me as I saw the people disperse their various ways on coming from Westminster Hall that the fact of their still marching slowly and silently away to their railway stations and their homes was by no means all of purely mechanical origin. Those thousands on thousands of folk who saw the peacemaker at rest had nothing in their minds but the beauty and majesty of the scene. The body fulfilled the mood of the mind. The slow and stately march and the silence were fitting for the hour. The filling throats, the twitching mouths, the dim eyes, spoke aloud in the May sunshine of a great and deep national grief.—Daily Mail.

LICENSE HELD TWO YEARS

Swain Finally Decides to Give Up Ante-Matrimonial Ghost
Not all the marriage certificates issued by the county clerk of Los Angeles county are used to make two little hearts beat as one, according to the number returned to County Recorder Logan. One was returned yesterday by Otis C. Welch of Pomona, who has had it two years, with the following statement:

"Please cancel this, as it has never been used, and it never will be."

The license was made out to Welch and Lucille Childress of Pomona, April 6, 1908, and it was evident that Welch had no good fortune in his suit or else he changed his mind.

Another sent back to the recorder's office by Robert L. Byrd, bore the statement that the would-be groom had decided that matrimony no longer had claims for him and to declare positively that he would never use the certificate.

All the certificates are returned to the county recorder, whether they are used or not, and some of them have been held out for years before the ceremony has taken place, after which they are sent in to be recorded.

One certificate was returned by Robert A. Jones after he had held it for seven years. He had taken his license out in 1903, and when he gave it in to the Recorder's Court he said:

"Well, I finally got things to the point where I used that license. We were married yesterday," he ended happily.

"What was the matter?" he was asked.

"Oh, when I first brought it out to my girl seven years ago she got mad and turned me down. I stuck to her, though, and would not give her up. Finally she began to be a little older than she used to be, and when I pressed the question again she accepted me."

"A very small percentage of the marriage certificates are secured without being used," said County Recorder Logan. "In many instances the man takes on a license before he has the consent of the girl, and he uses it to influence her with, showing her how easy it would be to get married. Of these returned some of them want their $2 fee back, but as a rule the disgruntled lovers send back the certificates and are too hurt or disgusted to ask for the return of the fee."—Los Angeles Herald.

Sale of Zion Laces

and a display of illustrations of mechanical devices requisite in the art of fine lace making. This sale offers an exceptional opportunity for economy purchases of durable fine laces of exquisite beauty. It will prove very interesting even to those not intending to purchase. Zion Laces, manufactured in the most modern lace factory in the world, are the best of their kind made—the best wash laces ever placed before the American women—and sold without a customs duty of 70% added to the cost, as are imported laces. All machines of Zion Lace Industries are and have been operating 18 hours daily, except Sunday, for over a year, with the product of each machine sold ahead several weeks. New machines are continually being installed. Women wanting laces for present or future use will experience a marked saving by visiting our lace counters.

ZION LACE INDUSTRIES, ZION CITY, ILLINOIS

ZION LACES and many interesting features in their manufacture are on exhibition in one of our show windows. This display is educational and every person should see it.

From 3,400 to 4,500 bobbins are required to thread one lace machine, besides the beam and warp, making a total—when the machine is threaded—of 13,000 threads in actual work. When a machine is fully threaded there are 6,700 miles of cotton on it, enough to reach from here to England and nearly back again.

See the illustrations of the various machines in operation—where they take in the thread and turn out the dainty, attractive laces—also skeins of yarns, yarn spools—pieces of lace just as they come from the machines. Especially interesting is the process of clipping, scalloping and separating. The exhibit is so unique and the values so unusual that a visit will be of material interest to you.

A RECORD-BREAKING SPONGE

Lately Captured by Bahama Island Fishermen

The old and historic city of Nassau, New Providence, Bahama Islands, experienced quite a sensation about the middle of March in the matter of sponges. The principal industry of Nassau is the gathering, curing and selling of sponges, and quite a large fleet of schooners and many colored men, composing their crews, are engaged in gathering them around the neighboring islands. One of these schooners came to port recently, having as part of its cargo the largest fine sponge ever taken from the Atlantic Ocean. When laid out upon the dock among thousands of other sponges classified for sale, by auction, this particular one attracted general attention as a wool sponge, which is the finest quality known among sponges. It is in form perfectly round, arched like an immense fruit case, and is six feet in circumference and two feet in diameter in every direction. When taken from the water it weighed between eighty and ninety pounds, and the fortunate man who captured it had a hard time landing it in his dory. Now that it has dried out and been relieved of all excrescences, it weighs about twelve pounds.

Its equal in size, fine quality and attractive appearance has never been seen. When it was presented for sale it was put in a class by itself, and there were many competitors in the bidding for it, every dealer in sponges being anxious to secure it.

This immense sponge is peculiar in that it had no fixed habitation, no permanent attachment to anything, but is what is known as a "roller," being tossed about by the waves in every direction. Rolling about in this way at the mercy of the waves, it naturally acquired its present round shape. It reminds one of the "tumble weed" of the Western prairies that is blown about in the winds, assuming its round, ball-like shape, as it rolls about in any direction the wind chooses to give it.

The gathering, curing, selling and exporting of sponges is the principal industry of Nassau. The sales of sponges for export average about $500,000 annually—most of them going to England and France, but some of the coarser ones find a market in Russia. A large number of small vessels, nearly 400, are engaged in the work of gathering sponges, which are found in the vicinity of many of the islands of the Bahama group. The vessels are manned, according to their size, by nine, eleven, thirteen or fifteen men, always an odd number, the odd man being the cook and in charge of the schooner while the others are out in dories hunting for sponges.—New York Times.

Millions Involved in Suit

Victoria, B. C., June 23.—What promises to be the most sensational lawsuit in the history of British Columbia came up for trial today. The action is that brought by Henry Croft and others against Hon. James Dunsmuir, the late premier, and other heirs of the celebrated Dunsmuir estate, which acquired millions by the development of coal lands on the Pacific coast.

The plaintiffs in the suit claim $4,600,000 for alleged conspiracy respecting an option on lands in the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railroad belt. The defendants are owners of lands on the Cranberry strawberry and oyster districts. The plaintiffs claim that they obtained options on this land, commenced their development as coal mines, and negotiated for the sale of their rights.

They allege that the defendants conspired as to the granting of a second option in order to cloud their registration of the first option, in an effort to prevent competition in the coal producing business, which they claim the defendants have monopolized.

Dear Jasper:-

I have met that fussy pill plant on Eighth street, and say, the information is mine, that dump makes them all look an old maid at a mother's congress or a bunch of amateurs begging for car fare after the game, and in the matter of foam building and that soda water joke they have the others nine miles down the speedway with a bursted tire and a dead engine and in perfumery and feature medicine they joy ride while the others count the ties.

Take it from me, lad, I am for the fussy one strong enough to pull a dray.

I beg to still be yours until Bugville ruins Chicago as a commercial center. BILL.
