MOVING DAY IN THE ROOMING HOUSES

ARRESTS MADE LAST WEEK SEEM TO HAVE PROVED VERY EFFECTIVE.

CLEAN-UP IN PROGRESS

General State of Affairs in Buildings is Now Much More Desirable.

A much more desirable state of affairs now exists in the down town rooming houses of this city, following the action taken by the police department several days ago, and the arrests made at that time seem to have been in the nature of a word to the wise.

No further arrests of this kind have been made by the police. It is understood that the first raid was followed by a general clean-up on the part of other proprietors, with the result that undesirable tenants were forced to seek other homes.

Some of those arrested last week are still at work on the city's street gang, having been unable to pay their fines.

The rooming house question has been put up to the grand jury and when that body reconvenes on July 5, it is probable that some further activity along this line will be forthcoming.

$223 A SQUARE FOOT FOR ART

Annual Report of President Shows the Cost of Pictures

Art in St. Louis is flourishing. The city has in the last year paid as much as $223 a square foot for paintings. Measuring its love of the esthetic by the price it is willing to pay for its intellectual pleasures, St. Louis is as high in the scale as any other place in the country.

In his first annual report to the municipal assembly, President Bixby of the Public Art Museum in Forest Park gives the total outlay for sculptures, paintings and other objects as more than $28,000.

Among the paintings acquired were "Mother and Child," 51x42 inches, executed by Albert Neuhaus; "The Approaching Storm," 10x5 feet, by Geo. Innes, and "Sheep Shearing in Bavaria," 50x84 inches, by Walter Shirlow. President Bixby suggests that in purchasing paintings for the museum, special attention ought to be given to the work of Americans, because "none better is done in any other country."

During the year 1892 paintings and other objects of art were exhibited at the museum. These embraced practically every class of virtue. The attendance for the twelve months covered by Mr. Bixby's report was 106,184 as against 74,798 in 1908-09. The greatest number of visitors at the museum on any single day was that of October 3, 1909, when 14,911 were entertained. The heaviest attendance in 1908 was that of March 22, when 3390 persons visited the institution. President Bixby advocated additional facilities for reaching the museum as a means of extending its benefits.

The large model of the German House of Parliament, formerly an exhibit at the museum, has been sawed in two and one part has been stowed in the basement.

Employees of the museum, whose number and individual compensation are not given in Mr. Bixby's report, received a total of $22,415.39 in salaries. Of the $75,000 appropriated for the year, $63,536.75 was expended.—St. Louis Republic.

CHARLTON'S MIND IS BELIEVED UNSOUND

APPEARS NOT AT ALL WORRIED OVER SITUATION IN WHICH HE IS PLACED.

MAY BE TRIED IN ITALY

Latter Government, However, Will Probably Not Demand His Return There.

By Associated Press. New York, June 24.—Apparently unconcerned over his desperate plight, Porter Charlton, the young bank clerk, who stands as the confessed murderer of his wife, Mrs. Mary Charlton, at Lake Como, Italy, spent a comparatively restful night in the Hoboken jail. He will be arraigned in the recorder's court today. It is expected that Italian officials will ask Charlton's extradition to Italy. "A consumptive" boy whose actions point to an unsound mind, "is the way the prisoner was characterized by his father.

Charlton, after eating a hearty breakfast, sent out for all newspapers and read with eagerness every story of the crime he could get hold of. Police Surgeon Arlitz, after examination of the prisoner, stated he saw signs of insanity, but refused to talk further, as he has been engaged by the elder Charlton as an alienist.

Recorder McGovern later in the day, at the request of counsel, adjourned the case until Tuesday next. It was decided to hold Charlton in the Jersey City jail until then.

REACHES HIS BIRTHPLACE

Father Dolje Writes Interesting Letter to Times

The Times has received the following interesting letter from Father J. Dolje, who is now at Orsbeck:

"At last I have arrived safe and sound at my birthplace, with all its memories of the past. If no living being was here, with all the old buildings, the narrow winding streets, the trees, grand and majestic, the teeming fields—all have such an irresistible charm for me that I can sit and dream away hour after hour. But there is no danger of dreaming my time away. There are many old friends and relations come around with a glad handshake, and a thousand questions about the far-off land of America.

"He who travels through Holland must say it is a rich and beautiful country. The canals and rivers are the arteries of commercial and industrial life. Its green meadows feed the fine, sleek cattle, its windmills are the safety valves pumping out the surplus waters; its level ground gives you an immense horizon with a grand panorama of villages, towns and cities lotting the land in all directions. It is superfluous to say I am happy. I am enjoying every minute of the time here, but sometimes I think it is too far away from Wichita Falls. Au revoir. Yours truly,

"REV. J. DOLJE."

BEATING PARI-MUTELS

Latonia Managers Object to Flashing of Race Results

Cincinnati, June 23.—Evidence of a struggle between the management of the Latonia race track and the handbooks and other outside betting agencies in this and other cities was revealed today in an order promulgated by the track officials.

The order provides that no race result shall be flashed from the track until after the official result has been announced. This means a delay of practically five minutes after each race is run before the news of it can go out. It is stated that the track officials have discovered that men who intend to wager heavily in the pari-mutuel machines at the track have been induced to place their money with agents of the outside interests, who offer them better odds than the mutuels pay, thus reducing the play in the machines and cutting into the track's income.

Detectives have been employed to keep the handbook agents away from the betting machines at the track.

BURLESON BELIEVES HIS ANTI GAMBLING MEASURE WILL PASS HOUSE TODAY

Texas News Service special.

Washington, June 24.—Representative Albert S. Burleson of the Tenth Texas District this morning said to the Texas News Service correspondent that he felt certain that the measure known as the anti-cotton futures gambling bill will pass the house today. The house began considering the measure again this morning and the debate was in progress at ten o'clock. Under the rule, vote on the passage of the bill will take place this afternoon.

The house this morning adopted the conference report on the bill to parole Federal prisoners who obey rules at the prisons, after they serve a third of the terms for which they are sentenced. The measure as adopted this morning goes to President Taft who will probably at once affix his signature enacting it into law.

Representative Burleson and Representative Jack Beall of the Fifth Texas District, both spoke favoring the passage of the anti-cotton futures gambling bill. They denounced the practices of the cotton exchanges which permit the use of markets by gamblers to rob the planters. The measure, they declared, would not interfere with legitimate contracts, but would stop gambling.

College Crews Ready for Race
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 24.—With weeks of grueling practice at an end, the crews representing Cornell, Wisconsin, Syracuse, Pennsylvania and Columbia, which will participate in the sixteenth annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association over the historic Hudson River course here tomorrow, are awaiting the events in confidence. Three championship events will be decided—the two-mile race of the university four-oared shells, for the Kennedy challenge trophy now held by Cornell; the freshman eight-oared two-mile race for the Stewards' cup, which was also won last year by Cornell, and the university eight-oared race over a four-mile course for the varsity challenge cup, which for the past year has been in the keeping of the Cornell navy.

Although open pool selling is not permitted, there is keen interest among the backers of the various crews, and many individual wagers are being placed. On account of her magnificent record in the past and also because of her two splendid victories over Harvard last month, Cornell appears to be the favorite in all the three races. Columbia's admirers say the New York crews have improved notably and that the blue and white will have a place well to the fore. Syracuse looms up promisingly, according to the viewpoint of others, while Pennsylvania and Wisconsin are left to shift for the final honors of the race.

All the crews rested today from their long training, and reports from the different headquarters indicate that they are in almost perfect physical condition.

In the varsity eight-oared race, the big struggle of the regatta, the positions of the crews allotted some time ago gave Pennsylvania the inside course next to the west bank of the Hudson, with Syracuse second, Cornell third, Wisconsin fourth, and Columbia fifth, or nearest the Poughkeepsie side of the river.

In the other races the positions of the various crews will be as follows: Varsity four-oared race—1, Cornell; 2, Columbia; 3, Syracuse; 4, Pennsylvania. Freshman eight-oared race—1, Pennsylvania; 2, Cornell; 3, Wisconsin; 4, Columbia; 5, Syracuse.

In Memory of Champlain.
St. John, N. B., June 24.—With impressive ceremonies and in the presence of a large crowd of spectators, a magnificent bronze statue of Samuel de Champlain was unveiled today in Queen Square. The day was appropriately chosen as being the 296th anniversary of the discovery of St. John River by the great-French explorer and colonizer, Premier Hazen, of New Brunswick, and prominent French-Canadian leaders of Quebec and other provinces were among the speakers at the unveiling exercises.

The statue, which is fourteen feet in height and weighs more than two tons, was designed by Hamilton MacCarthy of Ottawa. The figure is depicted in early seventeenth century costume, with high boots, plumed hat and long, flowing coat. The features were reproduced from authentic paintings of Champlain. The base of the statue represents the base of a sailing vessel. Behind the figure is a captain with a coil of rope.

The pedestal is of granite, twelve feet in height and five feet square and is decorated with fleur-de-lis and palm leaves. The frieze is carved with signs of the zodiac and vessels representing the Don de Dieu-Champlain's ship.

How Are You Fixed For Racks?

Stacking time will soon be upon you, so we thought we'd just call your attention to the question of racks. We realize how prone most men are to put off attending to these things until the last moment; then it's too late. The old things are patched up in hopes that they will do for a while. The result is no end of time and trouble wasted tinkering to keep them together. Better look up the rack question and get into shape before you actually need them. We have a good stock of clear, dry materials—just the thing for racks.

Setting the Table for a Fourth of July LUNCHEON

As the lawmakers are planning to rob young America of its divine right to make a noise on the glorious Fourth, it behooves grown-up folk to do a deal of celebrating of the red, white and blue kind—if the spirit of '76 is to be maintained.

Noiseless fireworks there are a plenty, for celebrating at the dinner and luncheon table; firecrackers filled with chocolate instead of powder; packages of torpedoes which reveal lemon drops cunningly wrapped in tissue papers; Roman candles, giant crackers, sky rockets and the like—all provided with candy ammunition, or forming receptacles for sweets.

Plenty of red, white and blue, there is, too; yards and yards of it in garlands; little fluttering flags from a penny up, and even whole luncheon sets, with table cover, doilies and napkins, printed in the patriotic colors and decorated with flags, cannon, eagles and the like.

The eagle is a favorite in Fourth decoration this year, and the bird of freedom presides gracefully over small favor boxes in which are packed peppermint drops and other dainties beloved by young America. The features of Fourth decorations for 1910, however, are the Roosevelt favors. White Teddy bears are tied with red ribbons to packages of chocolate and to the little boxes in which almonds and bonbons are placed on the dinner table. All sorts of animals, too, supposed to represent the prowess of the redoubtable Nimrod in African wilds, are ready for Fourth entertainments, all bedecked in red, white and blue ribbon. Just what relation to Independence Day these beasts of the jungle are supposed to bear is a question; but here they are, the feature of the Fourth, it seems.

Chantecler also has a place—which was quite to be expected; as the "cock-o-the-walk" has become a popular guest of the summer. Pretty little gilt and silver bowls, designed for almonds or bonbons, as place favors, have lively looking roosters perched on the edge. The little metal receptacles will also make attractive ash trays, as long as the Chantecler fad continues.

A mother, who has four hopeful youngsters to imbue with a patriotic spirit, is planning to have a Fourth of July breakfast, the gaily dressed table being used for all three meals during Independence Day. This seems rather a pretty idea; and one that may appeal to other mothers of young Americans. The dining room and table will be decorated over night, and between the meals the cloth need not be removed; the crumbs being brushed away and the specially dressed table reset. By dinner hour, when the novelty has worn off a bit, there may be surprises in the way of favors; and, of course, the traditional "ice cream and cake" which always come on Fourth of July as regularly as turkey comes on Thanksgiving Day.

The dining room may be decorated very inexpensively with the paper flags which, placed back to back, may be draped most artistically in shield fashion. Paper garlands with festoon from walls to chandelier, and from chandelier to corners of the dinner table. A bowl of red geraniums, blue larkspur, or bachelor's buttons, and some simple white flower, will make a pretty centerpiece, and at each place should stand one of the little flags which come with ebionized standards.

The little mother who is arranging the all-day celebration in the dining room, is going to have a huge independence bell of red paper over the table, and the clapper is a white paper bag filled with small yet acceptable, gifts for the young folks. When the appointed moment arrives, someone will hit the clapper hard with a cane and the gifts will shower over the table.

A splendidly patriotic luncheon table for the Fourth is shown in an illustration; yet the expense of getting up such a table is very little. Paper flags, set in one of the cone standards which hold a number of these flags, form the centerpiece, and this flag group is set on a strip of white crepe paper sprinkled with blue stars, which runs the length of the table. On place doilies matching the strip are paper napkin bags tied with red, white and blue ribbons and filled with salted almonds.

The plates themselves are of white papier mache decorated with stars and stripes, and beneath them are tucked the paper napkins, also patriotic in style. Between the places are set small groups of gaily waving paper flags, and the place cards are of white cardboard decorated with eagles. The festoon of paper draped around the edge of the table is attached lightly with pins and may be removed when the guests take their seats.

rather heavy worsted and will prove a protection from cold when one comes out of the water. The short trunk-bloomers are also knitted and have a ribbed "cuff" at the knee to keep them from slipping up. There is a knitted skirt matching the sweater and bloomers, this skirt being made of mohair. Both brown and blue models are shown, the white trimmings on the sweater being matched by white braid on the mohair skirt.

Macaroni Cutlets

Boil about a quarter pound of macaroni until it is quite tender, drain it well and let it get cold. Then cut up into small pieces and mix with about a quarter of a pint of thick white sauce; add a dessertspoonful of cooked lean bacon or ham (finely sliced) and half a beaten egg and spread the mixture on a plate. When it is cold, take up a small portion at a time and form it, on a floured board, into the shape of small cutlets. Dip them into beaten egg, cover them until they are nicely browned.

To take white spots from varnished furniture, hold a hot stove lid or plate over them and they will soon disappear.

An Egg Cup in English Style.

The Englishman thinks our American way of eating soft-boiled eggs out of a cup "horridly messy"—especially when the cup is glass and the yellow and white mixture shows through. We in turn look upon the Englishman preparing, and eating, his morning egg with awe, and wonder if he really likes it that way. Those who have, after patient practice, acquired the English knack of slashing off a quarter of an egg at the top without sending the whole egg across the room or crushing in any other portion of the shell, state that the trick is really a very simple one, once learned. Most of us, however, are dreadfully afraid to try—especially in company. There is a new egg cup shown in the silverware departments which clasps the egg gently but firmly in four curved silver arms. The "cup" sets solidly on the table with four heavy little silver feet, and all one has to do is to grasp the knife with determination and with one swift and accurate stroke, sever the top of the shell. It sounds easy. Perhaps it is. At any rate the little silver egg stands are an attractive addition to the breakfast service.

In announcing him as a candidate for sheriff and tax collector the Electric News says W. E. Skeen the following tribute:

"Mr. Skeen is a man of sound convictions and daring bravery. At the time of the Lewis-Crawford bank robbery he was editor of the Wichita Times, and when he observed the bank robbery being executed, and which cost Cashier Dorsey his life, Mr. Skeen mounted his first available horse and led in the chase which resulted in the capture of the desperadoes."

This recalls stirring times in Wichita Falls, and but for the cool and daring nerve displayed on that occasion by Mr. Skeen and Maje Davis, the two robbers and murderers would have made good their escape. They were desperate characters, and the men who pursued them on horses for thirteen miles, changing horses three times during the chase, and succeeded in forcing the robbers to dismount and take to the brush, took their lives in their own hands, and too much in their praise for that daring deed in defense of law and good government cannot be said. W. E. Skeen, at that time, was merely a sprig of a boy, but he is made of the right kind of stuff.

The Floral Heights Realty Company of Wichita Falls, has paid total dividends of 132 per cent. within sixteen months, and has sufficient property to pay some 200 per cent. more. That is a pointer for some of our real estate men. The Floral Heights Company got hold of a desirable tract of residence property close up to Wichita Falls, and by judicious advertising and by good business methods, sold about half of it, largely to people who have built fine residences thereon. Example is better than precept. Here is Quannah, here is the property; where are the men to handle the proposition?—Quannah Observer.

AS TO CHANGING PRECINCT LINES

In yesterday's issue of The Times, there was something said in regard to the changing of the boundary lines in commissioner's precinct No. 2, about which at least some of the older citizens of the county and who reside in that precinct were not consulted, and a great deal of dissatisfaction exists on account of the fact that the matter has been kept quiet, ostensibly for a purpose.

Burkpratt, which is in precinct No. 2, recently voted out the saloons by a very narrow majority. It is charged by some that the changing of the boundary was the pet project of the anti, who conceived the idea of taking in a part of precinct No. 3, which is settled by Germans, and who vote the anti ticket, and by cutting off another part of precinct No. 2, known as the Friberg settlement, which is conceded to be largely pro. Precinct No. 2, thus strengthened, would have no trouble in voting back the saloons at the first opportunity. If this be true, however, the anti forces have reckoned wrong, and the changing of the precinct lines will in no way affect the result of another local option election, should one be held, from the mere fact that the highest courts of the state have ruled that when another local option election is ordered for that precinct, those residing in the original boundary lines of precinct No. 2 will have a voice in the matter, and the territory which was topped off by the Commissioners' Court for "road purposes only" will compose and be a part of commissioner's precinct No. 2 at any local option contest that may be pulled off in that precinct for the future. Such a ruling as that may appear ridiculous upon its face, but to show that The Times is right in this matter, it here produces excerpts from the decision as handed down by the higher courts:

"Ex-Parte Fields, Local Option Election, Justice Precinct, Change of Boundary....."

"2. Where after local option has been put in force and operation in a justice precinct, and thereafter while the law remains in force the Commissioners' Court changes the bounds of such precinct so as to add territory thereto, a local option election after the change in boundary, ordered and held in and for the territory which comprised the precinct when the law was first adopted, is valid. Such territory ceases to be a justice precinct for judicial purposes, but exists for the purposes of local option, and this status continues until repealed by the voters of that particular territory."

Again, from the same court decision rendered by Henderson, Judge, as reported in the Texas Court Reporter, Vol. 13, is the following:

"..... We concede that the old justice precinct in which local option was adopted no longer exists as a justice's precinct for judicial purposes, but it does exist for the purpose of local option, that status was engrafted on it while it existed as a justice precinct and will continue until it is repealed by the voters of the territory."

Thus, it will be seen that if the object for changing the precinct lines was for the purpose of strengthening the anti vote and weakening the pro vote in that particularly precinct, their plan has miscarried.

As to the confusion that has naturally been caused by the changing of the boundary lines, causing many in the territory affected to wonder where they will be allowed to cast their votes at the coming election, The Times has it on good authority that steps will be taken by the proper authorities to inform each and every voter at which voting box he will be allowed to cast his ballot. If this is done, and The Times believes it will be, then the people interested should be satisfied, or, at least, will have to be. It would have been much better, however, had the Commissioners' Court consulted the people of precinct No. 2 before changing the lines, and the fact that they were not has strengthened the rumor that some trick had been played on them.

WORKING FOR YOUR CITY.

With "Team Work in the Improvement of Cities" as its text, the Dallas News says:

"The average man's sense of civic duty is lamentably weak in this country. Especially is it so in the cities of Texas. Even the duty of aiding in the selection of a city's public officers is one which the average man regards very lightly. Whether or not he performs even this easiest and most elemental of duties is apt to depend almost entirely upon his convenience. As to studying the city's municipal problems for a few moments in a year with the same earnestness which he gives to his private concerns many hours every day, he would rebel as if some inherent right were being invaded if an effort were made to compel him. As for the less material, although no less important, matters, such as relate to the comfort, convenience and pleasure of the whole community, he feels that it is an intrusion into his privacy to ask him to trouble himself. If his social sense radiates beyond his 50-foot front, it will not, in a great majority of cases, extend beyond the block he lives on. He feels that he has done rather more than his civic duty if he joins his neighbors in clearing and beautifying that block; and when he has done something in that selfish task he is apt to feel that posing as public spirit personified."

The San Antonio Express can hardly be accused of a predilection toward Cone Johnson. But the Express is a newspaper reporting things as they are and not as it would like them to be, hence we read that "Cone Johnson of Tyler, candidate for governor and advocate of statutory prohibition, switched from the course of his speech, while speaking to 2,500 people in Beethoven hall.... and with searing epithets condemn the liquor traffic and the American saloon in what was, beyond doubt, the most sensational discourse ever delivered in San Antonio." We read also in the same account that so tumultuous did the applause become that Mr. Johnson had finally remonstratively to ask the audience to be quieter so he could finish his address. Mr. Johnson's tour in South Texas has been one continual ovation. Speaking every day to enormous crowds in a section popularly known as "the enemy's country," he has delivered some of his strongest speeches and no man who has heard Johnson speak but knows that wherever he can get a crowd he makes converts both to his candidacy and to prohibition. In many parts of South Texas the prohibitionists are almost unanimous in support of the Smith county man, for with them it is really prohibition and not the Bailey question that is the issue, and they are going to vote accordingly. Mr. Johnson's next campaigning is to be in West and Northwest Texas, where largely the same condition is true, save that no part of the state is more strongly for prohibition and, although he has not been in those sections, he is always a very formidable candidate there. As time passes the more and more does the race seem to be narrowing down to Colquitt, the radical anti, and Johnson, the radical pro. You paid your money and can take your choice.—Denton Record and Chronicle.

BAD DREAMS.

Nightmare, Restlessness and Night-sweats all Caused by Indigestion.

Half of the nervousness in the world, all of the disturbing dreams and nightmares can be ended in a few weeks by a simple, inexpensive treatment.

Upset stomach is the cause of nervousness and bad dreams. Your food is lying in your stomach undigested and fermenting; it is forming poisonous gases which irritates the pneumogastric nerve that leads direct from the brain, and ends in a network of tiny branches running through the stomach.

It is also the irritation of this great pneumogastric nerve that causes headaches. Many times people have severe headaches and know they are caused by the stomach but do not know in what manner.

If you are nervous, have dreams or nightmares, and do not sleep sound at night, get a 50 cent box of Mido-na stomach tablets and take one or two after or with meals. They relieve distressed stomach in 5 minutes. Sold by O. F. Marchman Drug Co. who guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back.

DIDN'T WANT WASHING

What This Woman Needed Was a
Laundress

"Be sure to advertise for a laundress," said Mrs. James H. Hayes to her husband as he was leaving their home at 169 Murray street, Flushing, L. I., Thursday morning. The family laundress had quit suddenly. Hayes, who is connected with the Edison Company, obeyed his wife. He left an "ad" in the office of the Flushing Journal. When that newspaper appeared Thursday evening it contained this under a "Wanted" caption: WORK WANTED—Woman wants washing and ironing. Call 169 Murray street.

Laundresses are scarce in Flushing. All Friday the Hayes doorbell was rung by housewives eager to get a good user of the scrubbing board. After experiences with the first few Hayes decided to stay home and he kept saying, "No one here wants washing or ironing either," until his throat was sore.

Early in the forenoon he cut across his lawn dodging two more laundress-seekers and rushed to the Flushing Journal office to let John H. Ridenour know his fervid opinion. Hayes repeated that visit several times until a printer's devil was stationed before the office. Whenever the devil yelled, "Here he comes!" Ridenour and everybody else in his business-office hid.

Some of those seeking a washwoman at Hayes' handsome house realized that persons dwelling there could not possibly want a job at the tubs.

"Beg pardon," said a young man caller, "but am I mistaken?"

"Yes, you are," was the emphatic response.

"But this is the number," he persisted.

"Never mind the number; you're mistaken and that's enough," and the caller departed, wondering.

To try to placate Mrs. Hayes and to stem the tide of laundress seekers the Journal published a correction Friday evening. It said the advertisement should have read:

WANTED—Woman to wash and iron. Call at 169 Murray street.

The correction said further:

"Naturally such an error in an ad caused considerable confusion to those who answered it as well as to those who desired it published. Since the publication of the advertisement the want has been filled, but this article is published to set matters right. We regret the error in proof reading."

WHAT WILL THEY DO?

This Is Question About Shuberts in Present War

Recognizing and considering the formidable and growing strength of the Messrs. Shubert in the present theatrical situation—however pending negotiations may eventuate—it becomes pertinent to inquire: Gentlemen, what are you going to do, is it to be right for the sake of right, or, in the old insurance phrase, "Coves and a market?"—anything and everything for the sake of profit. You have a great opportunity. Through the error of ignorance of the governing powers of the new theater, you possess that institution as a sort of "trial house" in the capital, without cost; that is, you have an option—for presentation "on the road"—on every new, copyright-protected play produced there; so that you can reap the "road" profits of a successful New York production, without the original risk and expense of making it. Thus the money which, under wise direction, would have flowed into the treasury of the New Theater (as a needed provision for the pension fund essential to the enduring success of that endowed house), will, if you exercise good judgment, flow into your coffers instead. What are you, while properly using your legitimate advantages for profit, going to do for the public, the actor and the drama as a national asset? How much longer are you going to disgrace yourselves, stultify and injure the theater, and offend the public taste and moral sense by presenting such pieces, for example, as "The Comet," "The Blue Mouse," "The Narrow Path," "The Only Law," "The Incubus" (renamed "The Affinity" in order to trade on the dirty notoriety of an atrocious scandal), and "The Revellers"—all of which plays you have either produced or booked. When will you put an end to the disgraceful speculation in theater tickets which goes on, to the public annoyance and loss, in front of most, if not all, of your local theaters? What are you going to do toward restoring freedom of honest newspaper criticism, whether adverse to your plays or favorable to them, by terminating the use, direct or indirect, of the advertising of your theaters as a club to coerce the newspaper press? When do you propose to discard gross advertising methods in the exploitation of actors—methods which, in the public esteem, degrade the theater and the performers to the level of freaks in an itinerant show or that of a new brand of lard? What are you going to do for the establishment of legitimate stock companies, presenting at least a semblance of repertory—companies which, combining and using all the good of and a display of illustrations of mechanical devices requisite in the art of fine lace making. This sale offers an exceptional opportunity for economy purchases of durable fine laces of exquisite beauty. It will prove very interesting even to those not intending to purchase. Zion Laces, manufactured in the most modern lace factory in the world, are the best of their kind made—the best wash laces ever placed before the American women—and sold without a customs duty of 70% added to the cost, as are imported laces. All machines of Zion Lace Industries are and have been operating 18 hours daily, except Sunday, for over a year, with the product of each machine sold ahead several weeks. New machines are continually being installed. Women wanting laces for present or future use will experience a marked saving by visiting our lace counters.

ZION LACE INDUSTRIES, ZION CITY, ILLINOIS

ZION LACES and many interesting features in their manufacture are on exhibition in one of our show windows. This display is educational and every person should see it.

From 3,400 to 4,500 bobbins are required to thread one lace machine, besides the beam and warp, making a total—when the machine is threaded—of 13,000 threads in actual work. When a machine is fully threaded there are 6,700 miles of cotton on it, enough to reach from here to England and nearly back again.

See the illustrations of the various machines in operation—where they take in the thread and turn out the dainty, attractive laces—also skeins of yarns, yarn spools—pieces of lace just as they come from the machines. Especially interesting is the process of clipping, scalloping and separating. The exhibit is so unique and the values so unusual that a visit will be of material interest to you.

An Indian Tercentenary

Restigouche, N. B., June 24.—Roman Catholic churchmen and other distinguished visitors from points in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec and Prince Edward Island assembled here today to take part in the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the first conversion of a Micmac Indian to Christianity.

It was three hundred years ago today that the aged chief Membertou of the Micmac tribe was received into the church. Although French parties of exploration had visited the country in 1603, it was not until 1610 that a priest accompanied one of these expeditions to care for the spiritual welfare of the savages. This pioneer was Rev. Jesse Fleche, who accompanied the explorer Putricourt.

It was through his zealous labors that the old Micmac chief Membertou, then over a hundred years old, became a sincere convert to the Christian faith. He was baptized on St. John's Day, June 24, 1610, and to show his great devotion also to the French nation he permitted himself to be called Henri, after Henry of Navarre. Then his whole tribe became baptized Catholics, and to this day are steadfast in their faith.

Class Day at Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., June 24.—Today was class day at Harvard, the most conspicuous social event of the college year, when the members of the senior class entertained their friends and relatives in splendid style. The festivities began at 9 o'clock this morning, when the seniors, garbed in black academic gowns and caps, assembled in front of Holywell Hall, at the upper end of the famous yard, and marched to Appleton Chapel, where prayers were conducted by Prof. G. H. Palmer. At the conclusion of the chapel services the class paraded across the quadrangle to Sanders Theater, where the formal class day exercises were held. Heretofore the class oration was delivered by W. R. Ohler of Bethel, Conn. E. T. Hunt of Mechanicsburg, O., read the class poem and the exercises concluded with the singing of the class ode written by T. S. Elliot of St. Louis. In the afternoon the seniors again assembled in front of Holywell and marched around the yard and cheered the buildings. They then proceeded to the Stadium, where the ivy oration was delivered by F. W. Sullivan of Lowell. The address teemed with witticisms and was enthusiastically applauded.

To Quit Tribal Customs

Muskogee, Okla., June 24.—During the ten days beginning with today this city and vicinity is to be the scene of probably the most notable gathering of Indians ever held. It will be the final conference of representatives of every Indian tribe in the United, and will mark the abandonment of tribal customs and the laws and the entry of the red men into full privileges and rights as American citizens. The arrangements for the great gathering have been completed under the direction of Chief Quannah Parker, the famous headman of the Comanches.

King's Birthday Observed

London, June 24.—The forty-fifth birthday anniversary of King George, who was born June 3, 1865, was officially observed throughout the empire today, this date being chosen as more suitable for a public holiday than the actual anniversary. Reports from the British dominions beyond the seas indicate a widespread observance of the day. In London and at Windsor, where the royal family is now in residence, the customary salutes of twenty-one guns were fired and also at all the military and naval centers throughout the United Kingdom.

Mississippi "Drummers" Meet.

Columbus, Miss., June 24.—The population of Columbus was increased by hundreds today by an invasion of "drummers" from every section of the state. The third annual convention of the Mississippi Travelers' Association opened at the Industrial Institute and College this morning, the first of a two days' series of meetings at which business appertaining to the affairs of the organization was to be will also take up much of the delegates' time. The visitors were formally welcomed to the city by Mayor Donnell.

Northfield Conferences Begin

East Northfield, Mass., June 24.—The twenty-eighth season of conferences established at Northfield Seminary by the late Dwight L. Moody was begun today with the opening of the annual Y. M. C. A. student conference. The conference, which will continue until July 3, is attended by college men from many institutions throughout the eastern states and Canada.

Dear Jasper:-

I have met that fussy pill plant on Eighth street, and say, the information is mine, that dump makes them all look an old maid at a mother's congress or a bunch of amateurs begging for car fare after the game, and in the matter of foam building and that soda water joke they have the others nine miles down the speedway with a bursted tire and a dead engine and in perfume and feature medicine they joy ride while the others count the ties.

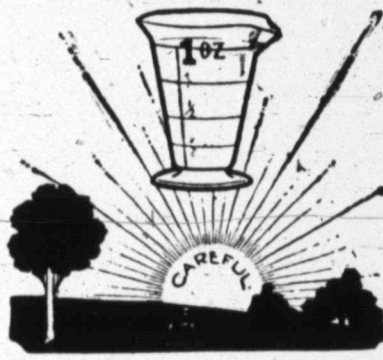

Take it from me, lad, I am for the fussy one strong enough to pull a dray. I beg to still be yours until Bugville ruins Chicago as a commercial center. BILL.
