ENDEAVOR PLANS FOR THE NEW YEAR

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING AND BANQUET IN FORT WORTH FRIDAY NIGHT

ADDRESS BY MR. HENRY

Told of the Preparation Being Made At Wichita Falls for the 1911 Meeting.

That the forthcoming annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor, to be held in this city, will be the largest and most enthusiastic in the history of the state organization, is the opinion of the members of the organization here. The interest being taken in the work of 1911 and the enthusiasm already being developed in the success of the annual local.

Reports from locals throughout the state indicate that all are looking forward to the meeting at Wichita Falls with great anticipation, and in addition to this manifestation of interest, there is an organized effort among the Endeavor societies to break the record in point of attendance and in the results to be accomplished.

The Endeavor interest over the state is taking on new life as indicated in the rallies being held at the beginning of the New Year, one of which is represented in a banquet held at Fort Worth Friday night, following a reception in the hotel parlors, where the work was discussed from all angles, and at which the membership pledged their support to the newly elected officers and to the work outlined for the New Year. The following account of the meeting is taken from the Fort Worth Record:

Leroy A. Smith presided as toastmaster. Greetings were received from the City Pastors' association, young people's church organizations in Fort Worth and neighboring cities, and short addresses were delivered by leaders of the various societies represented.

"The young people of any church as represented by the Christian Endeavor, are the strong right hand of any pastor," said Rev. J. E. Dinger, of the First Christian church in delivering a greeting. "When the pastor wants something accomplished he is wise to call on them," said Mr. Dinger.

On behalf of the city Baptist Young People's union Howard Martin promised loyal co-operation in advancing the interests of the young people and the church. He suggested as a motto for the young people's church societies the new acrostic of the Baptist Young People's union—"Be your pastor's understudy."

In delivering a greeting from the city Epworth League union W. D. Smith declared there is no longer antagonism between the young people regarding denominationalism. He made a plea for organization and co-operation among the young people and pledged the Epworth League to the same.

L. W. McConnell who brought a greeting from the Dallas Endeavorers, expressed keen interest in the aims of the local workers, and indulged in several jokes at the expense of his home city regarding the water situation.

Elaborate preparations are being made in Wichita Falls for the entertainment of the state convention in June, said Patrick Henry of that city, who delivered a message to the Fort Worth societies. Said one of the interesting features that is being arranged is a sunrise prayer meeting on the lake, steam launches to be provided for the delegates who desire to attend.

Speaking of the past of the Christian Endeavor George S. Adams declared that it would serve only as a stepping stone and the future would be much better.

The development of many young people in church endeavor all over the world has been due to the Christian Endeavor movement, said Miss Mamie McNeely, in a discussion of the present work.

In closing the regular program with an address on the future of the work John H. Durrill, president of the city union, declared the interest and enthusiasm manifested at the banquet was a good omen for the new year.

He then presented the other new officers for the year, as follows: C. M. first vice-president; Wortham Beaumont, second vice-president; Miss Naomi Martin, recording secretary; Charles Dudley, treasurer, and

OBSERVANT FARMER SAYS RECENT FREEZE FORECASTS HEAVY WHEAT YIELD

A wheat crop like those of years ago that made the Wichita country famous as a wheat country, is predicted this year by E. S. Frieberg, one of Wichita county's pioneer farmers, who has made a neat fortune in farming. In addition to the crop being in a most flourishing condition at this time, Mr. Frieberg finds other conditions most favorable. The recent freeze, he thinks, is a favorable omen for good crops.

"The ground was frozen to a depth of seven inches," he said, "and this is the deepest and hardest freeze we have had in eleven years. This freeze will loosen up the ground and bring up the moisture. It has also killed the injurious insects. I have always noticed that we have had the big crop following winters when the ground was frozen deep.

"With conditions as they are now, I believe we will have the best wheat and oat crops in years."

The case of Herman Tramble, charged with burglary, is on trial before a jury in the district court this afternoon. The charge grows out of the burglary of the Wichita State Bank several weeks ago.

One boy has pleaded guilty to the burglary and has been sentenced to the state reform school at Gatesville.

Tramble's mother is here from Fort Worth and Judge Edgar Scurry has been retained by the defense.

Judge J. A. P. Dickson is acting as judge in place of Judge P. A. Martin, who is disqualified in the criminal case this term on account of having been district attorney when the indictments were returned.

Six Reasons Why the Panama Canal Should be Neutralized

By Associated Press

Durham, N. C., Jan. 16.—A statement embodying six reasons why the Panama canal should be neutralized, bearing the signatures of men and women prominent in the United States and abroad, was made public today. Richard Olney, former secretary of state; David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr. University; William Howells, author; Charles P. Anderson, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Chicago; William H. P. Fierce, president of Brown University; Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago; George B. Holt, justice of the United States district court; and George Foster Peabody, the New York banker, are among the sponsors of the document. The statement follows:

"Why the Panama canal should be neutralized is not fortified—

1. Because the canal would be safer in wartime without fortification. According to the agreement signed by the Hague conference in 1907, unfortified coast places can not be bombarded.
2. Because the original intention of our government, as distinctly expressed in 1900, and previously, was to prohibit fortifications on the canal. Though this prohibition was omitted in the finally revised Hay-Pauncefote treaty, signed in 1903, this in no wise implies that we ought to fortify it, nor was its construction proposed as primarily a military undertaking.
3. Because, though the Suez canal was built with English money, England agreed to its neutralization. The Straits of Hazzell are also neutralized, and the Inter-Oceanic Union, in 1910, declared in favor of the neutralization of all inter-oceanic waterways.
4. Because the United States in all its history has never been attacked and become every foreign war it ever had and it is too important a customer for any great nation at this late date to warrant attack. Though an enemy might in stress of war be tempted to break its pledge to us, no nation would dare break its neutralization pledge with the combined powers, as the penalty of non-interference, which could be included in the general treaty, would involve commercial ruin.
5. Because, with the experience of nearly a century's peace with England, passed by our undefeated Canadian border since we have asked for complete neutralization treaties with all possible future enemies and have been refused, we should be insouciant in increasing our armaments. This is especially true in view of the fact that since 1900 the nations have signed one hundred arbitration treaties and President Taft has made the impressive declaration that he sees no reason why this question whatever should not be arbitrated, that the second Hague Conference in various ways diminished the usefulness of war, that not only the prize court but the court of arbitral justice is practically assured and that in the summer of 1910, congress unanimously passed a resolution asking the president to appoint a commission of five to consider the utilization of civilian agencies to limit the armaments of the world by mutual agreement of the nations and to constitute the world navy an international force for the preservation taken up and supported the cause of the minority, consisting of 100 local unions, and directed organized labor everywhere to recognize no other electricians.

The "insurgent" majority of the electrical unions charge President Gompers with using "big stick" methods. They contend that the term "seceders" which he has applied to their more properly belongs to the minority faction. This contention is based upon the fact that the officials now at the head of affairs in the electrical workers' union were elected at a special convention, which at the same time impeached the old officials.

It is pointed out, moreover, that the so-called insurgents among the electrical workers are fighting for the same principle as President Gompers and his co-defendants in the Buck Rove and Range contempt case, namely their "constitutional rights." The majority of the electrical workers claim as their right the privilege of choosing their own officers and governing themselves, which right they allege has been denied them by President Gompers and the federation, who have gone even farther and defined all organized labor from joining the insurgent recognition as union men.

Both sides to the controversy have sent representatives to the present meeting of the executive council. The two factions lay claim to the same name—International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers—and both maintain headquarters in Springfield, Ill. The minority faction, which has the support of the American Federation of Labor, is headed by F. J. McNulty, general president; Peter W. Collins, general secretary, and William Hogan, general treasurer.

The officials elected by the so-called insurgents when the old officers were impeached are James J. Reed, general president; J. W. Murphy, general secretary, and F. J. Sullivan, general treasurer.

The trouble among the electrical workers dates back to the winter of 1907, when charges of malfeasance of office and incompetence were directed against President McNulty and Secretary Collins of the international union. Local unions in both the United States and Canada petitioned for a special convention to thresh out the charges. Secretary Collins refused to call the convention, whereupon the Cleveland local issued the call. When the special convention opened in St. Louis, three-fourths of the locals, it is said, were represented. The convention heard the charges and impeached the general officers. The American Federation of Labor was drawn into the controversy a short time later when the federation convention met in Denver. The Denver convention seated the delegates of the impeached officers and declined to recognize the representatives of the insurgent majority.

Since that time, the claim is made, President Gompers and the federation have steadfastly supported the cause of the minority faction of the electrical workers, though ostensibly endeavoring to bring about a friendly settlement of the dispute by arbitration. The insurgents allege that the federation has not been sincere in its efforts to give justice to both sides, but, on the other hand, has manifested a disposition from the start of the trouble to favor the minority faction.

The controversy already has spread to other building trades and the possibility is made that unless a satisfactory settlement is reached at an early date, a serious split affecting the entire body of organized labor may result.

MISS ELKINS AND DUKE OF ABRUZZIA

THE CURTAIN LIFTED ON SOME INTERESTING FACTS IN REGARD TO AFFAIR.

NOW THE SENATOR FELT

He Advised His Son-Titled Would Be Son-in-Law to Become an American Citizen.

New York, Jan. 15.—In the advice from Washington announcing the death of United States Senator Stephen B. Elkins, it was laid upon the duke and his daughter, Miss Katharine Elkins, and the Duke of the Abruzzi.

The real reason for this concern has never been told.

When Senator Elkins was apprised of the duke's love for the duke, more than three years ago, he told intimate acquaintances that if his daughter would give her consent, eventually, when the duke asked the senator for his daughter's hand, the senator expressed to the duke his utmost confidence in him and his belief that Miss Elkins, future would be happy with him.

Then came the obstacles. The duke, elated, went to the court of Italy and breathed his secret.

Instantly there arose the problem of the status in the court that the duke's wife would have. The royal family discussed the situation and opposition to the marriage sprang up. Miss Elkins, it was decided if she became the bride of the duke, could assume the title of duchess, but could not assume any official position in court life.

The duke argued in vain. So, unable to move the royal family, he came to America and consulted Senator Elkins.

He suggested to Senator Elkins that perhaps, after all, Miss Elkins would be satisfied without the title of duchess and to have no fixed place in the royal court.

"Is that so?" replied Senator Elkins sternly. "Well, I don't care much about my daughter not having the title of duchess and I don't know that she can marry either. But if my daughter becomes the wife of the Duke of the Abruzzi she will be his wife in every sense of the word. I mean what I say. I do not object to a money settlement if that is the thing to do. Not at all. I want my daughter to be the wife of the man she marries and to hold the same position of wife that any woman would do in our own country here. Do you catch my meaning?"

The Duke of the Abruzzi confessed, sadly, that he did.

"Well, then, see what you can do," was Senator Elkins' report.

The duke, distracted, went back to Italy and tried to argue the Italian royal family over to Senator Elkins' view. He repeated what the senator had promised about a marriage portion and also his inexorable terms. The court was immovable. Miss Elkins could not be received as one of the family.

Foot haste he sped to West Virginia and sorrowfully related what the royal family had told him. He impressed Senator Elkins with his sincerity.

"Duke, it's no use," exclaimed the senator. "I have told you what I would do. Now, here is an alternative: If you want to marry my daughter—if you love her so that you must have her—then, why not give up the idea of shining in the Italian court? Why not marry her in this country, where we don't bother about royal properties?"

"Why not take her as your American wife, live here, and, if you wish, become an American? If you want to marry her I will keep my word about that settlement. I will give you all the money you need. I will put you in the hands of my daughter. I will look for anything—you and my daughter. Now, it strikes me that is reasonable enough. I know my daughter loves you and I believe you love her. Now, I want to make you both happy. Think it over."

The Duke of the Abruzzi, related to the Italian king, was too loyal an Italian to go contrary to the royal desire. He fought the battle out in his own heart—and love for his country won. He had to tell Senator Elkins that he could not accept his proposal and that he would have to give up the idea of marrying his daughter.

DISSENSION REPORTED IN RANKS OF LABOR

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—What is regarded as one of the most important meetings of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor held in years, began today at the federation headquarters in this city.

The long-standing trouble among the electrical workers is the main subject of consideration. Before the meeting adjourns it is expected action will have been taken that will result in a definite settlement of the controversy or else cause a split in the ranks that may widen until it involves the whole fabric of organized labor in America.

The trouble among the electrical workers dates back about three years and already has had a most disastrous effect on the building trades in various parts of the United States and Canada. Two attempts at arbitration have failed utterly and now the executive council of the American Federation of Labor has undertaken to settle the matter.

The majority of the electrical unions, numbering some 450 locals, have been "read out" of the federation by President Gompers. The latter has

DAY'S BEST STORIES.

Smith's Wise Precaution.

Walter I. Smith, congressman from Iowa, was in a town in his district one night when a mob gathered about the jail for the purpose of lynching two colored men. Mr. Smith heard of what was going on, and mounting the jail steps, he made an impassioned plea to the mob to disperse and not bring discredit on the name of their town through lawlessness. His plea was effective and the negroes were spared.

A few weeks after that he revisited the town. At that time there was a movement to build an asylum for the blind. In opening his speech, which was the beginning of his joint debate with a Democratic orator, Mr. Smith said that the purpose to build the asylum was so wise so humane that the Republicans of the county invited the Democrats to join with them in raising enough money to make the project feasible.

"I distrust Mr. Smith's remarks about the asylum," said the Democratic fulminator in answering Smith's speech. "He makes political capital out of everything. We Democrats might give our money for that building and wake up to find that the Republicans claimed all the credit for it."

"Why, look what Mr. Smith said in making his speech to save the lives of the two colored men from that mob a few weeks ago. His remarks were eloquent. They were great. They carried his point. But here is how he wound up:—

"Shoot—shoot, if you will, this bald head of mine, but save those two black votes for the Republican party!"—The Popular Magazine.

When Pence Reached Congress. Late Pence, former member of congress from Colorado, now a lawyer of New York, who is at the Riggs tells this story about his first appearance in the house of representatives:—

"Following my election I came to Washington possessed of the fancy that I was a man of considerable importance. I wanted to look about a bit before becoming a full-fledged member, and so I decided to come here and sit around for a time during his short session. With another new member, as verdant as I was, I went to the capitol on the morning of the opening day. In my pocket I had a letter of introduction to Bobbie Cockran, a shining member of the house, from a particular friend of his in Colorado. We arrived at the capitol early and sat around like knots on a log while members came in and greeted each other. Neither of us knew anybody. At last Mr. Cockran came walking in, and while he appeared to be in a hurry, I determined to stop him. I caught him as he was moving up the center aisle, and thrusting out my letter of introduction asked him to read it. Mr. Cockran did not appear at all cordial and did not even stop to shake hands, but kept moving on toward the speaker's desk. I would not be denied and trotted along with him. Finally he condescended to open and read my letter, and then he said:—

"Well, hub, tell Mr. Pence that I shall be back in an hour and shall be glad to see him."

"You could have bought me for a nickel. I am Mr. Pence," I said, hesitatingly. Cockran looked me over, and then with that gracious manner of his begged my pardon. It made me feel a little better, but I certainly found out that a new congressman is not so big as he thinks."—Washington Post.

WILL WIRELESS PRODUCE RAIN

J. B. DICKINSON, CONNECTED WITH TEXAS WIRELESS SYSTEM THINKS IT WILL.

ETHER OSCILLATIONS

Agitated Atmosphere Reacts in Rain When Power is Discharged From Many Stations.

Houston, Jan. 16.—If the operation of high-power wireless stations produce rain in the semi-arid regions of Texas the name of Marconi, inventor of the first apparatus which made wireless transmission of fact, will go down in history as a yet greater benefactor of the human race.

Experts in wireless communication maintain that when great power is discharged into the atmosphere, or ether, at dizzy heights, it will have a decided tendency in causing rain clouds to gather and that continuous oscillations at such heights above the ground will ultimately produce rain. Their contention is that electric waves flashing through space agitate the upper air currents, causing the molecules of air and ether to set up a radiating current in the clouds and rain will result in sections where not even a drop of rain has fallen for months, or even years.

Speaking of wireless transmission and its effects on the clouds J. B. Dickinson, connected with the financial side of a Texas system, said:—

"Whether or not wireless waves will produce rain, I am not prepared to state as a scientific certainty, but from my experience and frequent conversations with eminent wireless experts I should say such action would prove a favorable factor. I believe a sufficient amount of energy can be discharged into the upper air currents to bring about changed conditions and probably produce rain, but just how much or just how high it should be discharged into the ether is a question I shall leave to scientists to answer. My opinion is, however, that with one hundred or more powerful wireless stations in Texas working at the same moment will produce rain, and this opinion is founded from statements made by practical wireless men with whom I have talked.

"When one considers that the average commercial station with an aerial 200 feet high throws off nearly one million waves per second each vibrating 50,000 billion times per second, one may reasonably hope for almost anything to happen in the upper air currents. With such power being turned loose into the heavens from various points in Texas, say from one hundred or more high-power stations, I should certainly look for thunder storms and lightning flashes."

Further questioning brought out a fact which is but little understood by the average reader, Mr. Dickinson proceeded to give facts which are verified by government reports.

Wireless in Army and Navy.

"The army and navy are doing more towards the actual development of commercial wireless transmission than anyone else at present unless it be the men of Texas who are furnishing the money with which a great many wireless stations will soon be in operation. 'Uncle Sam' is using wireless almost exclusively in Alaska and the Philippines and practically every craft owned by the government is either equipped or will be equipped before very long. Congress has decreed that all ships leaving American ports destined 20 miles or more carrying 50 souls, must be equipped with wireless on and after July 1, which only goes to show how important wireless has become in the matter of protecting lives and property.

"The history of wireless dates back only about 15 years and its rapid development has been marvelous. I predict that within a few years it will take the place of the wire to a large extent. As to wireless waves producing rain I am hopeful, but would not advance this theory as a scientific fact at present. Time alone can tell."

JENNINGS BELIEVES SOX ARE CONTENDERS

Leader of Detroit Tigers States That His Team Will Be in the Running.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 16.—Hugh Jennings, the sorrel-top leader of the Detroit Tigers, has an idea that those White Sox will be in the running this year.

You know Jennings was in Chicago while the magnates of the American Association were holding their annual meeting. Hugh was accompanied by Mrs. Jennings—his bride, you know. Well, they were at the Congress hotel, where the magnates met. Hugh naturally fell in with the baseball men, and what was more natural than for the sorrel-top to discuss the great game, and especially as it pertains to the American League?

"Let me tell you, right now, that the Tigers are not out of the running," said the leader of the Detroit bunch.

"The Cubs have proved the fact that a team can drop a pennant and then come right back and nose out the fellows that kicked them.

"When the season of 1910 started the critics all picked the Pittsburgh bunch to win again. They had beaten the Cubs the year before. Well, it would be no greater upset of the dope for the Detroit team to come right back and beat out the Athletics."

"But the Sox? Hugh was reminded. "I look for the White Sox to put the south side of Chicago on the baseball map this year," was Hugh's rejoinder.

"It wasn't a good team last year because it was a young team. It was an inexperienced team. This year it will be much stronger. The pitching staff will be stronger. The hitting staff will be stronger. Hugh had his trial and will be a much more valuable man this year.

"Now, mind you, I don't say that honor will belong to the Detroit team." Pay your poll tax before February 1 and be a qualified voter.

District Judge P. A. Martin is to be commended for his order that the testimony in divorce suits be taken in full and transcribed to the court records. While this may not decrease the number of divorce suits filed it will be a protection for those who may hereafter be about to engage in matrimony with divorced persons. The revelations of the court records may prevent many unhappy marriages and even the knowledge that there is such a record open to public inspection may prevent those who are unfit even from contemplating another alliance.

THE RETURN OF "UNCLE JOE."

Uncle Joe Cannon came back! It would be difficult to estimate how many American readers chortled over the news in their morning papers recently.

Regardless of the merits of the issue at stake, not the most incurable critic of the aged speaker but will find a sympathetic grin for the way the old man lifted the hide, temporarily at least of his former enemies.

The world loves a fighter as well as a lover.

And the gentleman from Danville is one of the toughest fighters seen in American public in many years.

Henry Watterson called him the "magnificent old reprobate."

His game battle last spring, and his last stand attitude during the blistering summer campaigns entitle him to this distinction.

He may be, is, of course, dead wrong but with it all he is courageous, aggressive, with the energy of his convictions and the lack of that busy-foot diplomacy characterizing some of his stand-pat friends.

It will be interesting, too, to watch the strenuous tussle he will give the democrats in the new congress, if, as now seems probable, he will be floor leader of the congressional minority next winter—Atlanta Constitution.

The Waco Young Business Men's Club has offered a prize of $2000. to any aviator who will fly from Waco to Austin bearing a message from that body to the legislature to allow the Katy and Central railroads to consolidate their lines, and whether any one bears the message in a flying machine or not, there will be many other such messages sent to the legislature from the various business men's organizations throughout the state, and there is not the least doubt but that these messages will be given the consideration that is due.

The record for progress made in El Paso during the year 1910 exceeds by far that of any preceding year and this was done in the face of the fact that the rainfall as recorded at El Paso was less than for any previous year since the time the national government established a weather bureau at that place. This is accounted for by the fact that El Paso is a manufacturing city, and as a rule manufacturing cities get along with very little rainfall.

"You get up the best Democratic paper north of Fort Worth and have the best town on the Denver road. In five years will have 20,000 population." That is the way one of the Times' readers puts it in writing to have the address on his paper changed, and his optimistic tone is in harmony with 99 per cent of our population. Wichita Falls is growing now as never before and there is not the least bit of uneasiness on the part of her progressive citizenship that she will ever stop.

We read that "The Glideons, as an association of Christian traveling men," have placed 5,000 Bibles in the bed rooms of Chicago's hotels; also that the books will not be chained down, as the object being to encourage Scripture reading, it will be the better promoted if the books are stolen—when they will be replaced. This mostly looks right enough as we read it in enlarged detail, for the quantum of human sentiment has never yet been measured, and there is probably more of it than is generally suspected. Sentiment probably exists even in Chicago. But the thing that really bothers us is as to where those Christian traveling men operate, or how they can so successfully disguise themselves—Peoples (Henrietta) Review.

The prospects that Iowa Park will soon be the center of a gas-and-oil field are rather flattering just now. If reports are to be relied on, the company drilling the well at the Park are greatly encouraged over the fact that a strong flow of gas had been struck. The well is down 1650 feet, and gas, it is reported, was strong enough to throw salt water to the top of the derrick. Drilling was stopped temporarily, but was resumed again, and something in the way of a real oil or gas gusher may be expected within the next few days.

From all indications, Governor-elect Oscar Branch Colquitt will be inaugurated tomorrow according to program and the "dance" will proceed without interruption. The pros and antis have made this possible by a compromise.

Alabama Has New Governor. Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 16.—The inauguration of Emmet O'Neal as governor of Alabama today was attended by all the pomp and ceremony which are usually made a part of the formalities on the occasion of the induction into office of the chief executive of the Commonwealth. The inauguration parade was one of the largest ever seen here.

NO MORE CATARRH

Marchman Has a Guaranteed Cure That Has Stood the Test.

Catarrh cures come and catarrh cures go, but HYOMEI continues to cure catarrh and abolish its disgusting symptoms wherever civilization exists. Every year the already enormous sales of this really scientific cure for catarrh grows greater, and the present year will show all records broken. If you buy a HYOMEI outfit for $1.00 and hide it in a dark cupboard it won't cure your catarrh. If you breathe it daily as directed it will cure your catarrh or it won't cost you a cent, ask O. S. Marchman about it.

If you have a hard rubber Hyomei inhaler somewhere around the house get it out and start at once to forever rid yourself of catarrh.

O. S. Marchman will sell you a bottle of HYOMEI (liquid) for only 50 cents start to breathe it and notice how quickly it clears out the air passages and makes the entire head feel fine.

HYOMEI used regularly will cure catarrh, coughs, colds, bronchitis or sore throat. A complete outfit including a hard rubber pocket inhaler costs $1.00. No stomach dosing. Just breathe it. It kills the germs, heals and soothes the inflamed membrane.

THIS IS MY 52nd BIRTHDAY George W. Taylor.

George Washburn Taylor, representative of the First district of Alabama, and one of the few civil war veterans left in congress, was born in Montgomery county, Alabama, Jan. 16, 1849. In 1864, when but fifteen years of age, he left the University of South Carolina where he was a student, and enlisted in the First South Carolina Cavalry, serving until the end of the war. In 1871 he was admitted to the bar in Mobile and seven years later he began his public career as a member of the Alabama legislature. From 1886 until 1892 he occupied the office of state solicitor. Since 1897 Mr. Taylor has been regularly elected to congress on the democratic ticket.

From the Sunday Services

REV. BISHOP AT THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH

Text of His Sermon Delivered Sunday Was From Revelation 11:20.

Following will be found the text and a brief synopsis of the sermon delivered yesterday at the First Methodist Church, South, by the pastor, Rev. Charles McTyrie Bishop:

Text: Revelation 11:20—Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear My voice and open the door, I will come into him, and will sup with him, and he with Me.

"It is rather startling to note that these words were addressed to the members of a church. When a congregation is worldly and indifferent, 'lukewarm'—in its religious life, then the fact is that Jesus Christ is on the outside, shut out of the hearts of the individual members.

But, following the address of rebuke and warning contained in the message to the 'Laodicean Church,' this picture of the Divine Redeemer still seeks entrance to the human life is a most significant and appalling exemplification of the Divine approach to the soul.

It seems almost unbelievable, but the attitude of God as revealed by Jesus, is that of one who is making advances toward men. The Old Testament in general represents man as the seeker. 'Oh, that I knew where I might find Him!' was the cry of the old-time sufferer, sitting upon his heap, in lonely wretchedness, unrelieved by the presence of unsympathetic companions. 'When ye shall search for Me with your whole heart, I will be found of you,' was the prophetic answer to this plaint of sorrowful solitude. But Jesus represented God Himself, 'I am come to seek and to save that which was lost.' He was the Shepherd who went to the darkness and storm, where the way was rough and the dangers thick to find his sheep that was lost.

So now He comes to the human life, shut like a walled castle, against all intrusion from the infinite and Divine, and stands knocking at the door. Do you hear of the foolish man who built his house without windows or doors? The plans of the architect were like those for other houses except that he neglected the detail as to windows and doors. There were rooms and halls, apartments for all possible uses, and furniture of various kinds. But there were no windows or doors. The sunlight pelted the dead walls with the batteries of a million rays; the pure air of God blew over it and whistled round its corners. But the house was dark and airless, a hideous dungeon, a very mockery and farce of a house. Such is a human soul when the light of God is shut out. But Jesus stands knocking outside; and, thank God, there is a door which you may open into your heart for Him. Will you let the Saviour in?

"PURE IN HEART SHALL SEE GOD"

Such was the Text of Rev. E. S. Lawrence of the Southern Presbyterian Church.

At the Southern Presbyterian Church yesterday, Rev. E. S. Lawrence preached at both the morning and evening hours. His sermon in the morning was based upon Matt. 5:8: 'Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God.' In part he said: 'Then gather around the Christ man the rarest gems of thought and the most beautiful words which the world has ever known. In this sermon on Mount where his pure diction flows like a gentle stream and words like liquid pearls roll from his lips, he gathers this beautiful nugget of gospel truth. 1st. The text begins with a choice word, 'Blessed' is plural and means 'O, the blessedness.' Blessedness is the state of the heart. It is as though Christ had gone through the vocabulary gathered the rarest and choicest words, such as 'joy,' 'happiness,' 'delight' and extracted the essence of sweetness from these and coined a new word, 'blessed,' to describe the state of his pure in heart. 'This joy is for the pure in heart.' God counts men by the heart. It is not the pure in hand. 'The ill white hand is no more an evidence of God's favor than the brassy hand used only to hard labor. Pilot washed his hands of the guilt of Jesus, but there were murder on his heart. David prays 'create with in me a clean heart.' Purity is a quality of heaven. A pure heart is the purest thing on earth—a pure life, a pure character is beautiful but a pure heart is better. There is nothing so pure as a pure heart. We speak of the purity of water and the pure air of our woods; prairies but under the magnifying glass we find these full of foreign matter. There is no alloy in the pure heart. This is why David could say 'Wash me and I shall be whiter than snow.' This does not imply a stainless heart. We speak of the height of manliness, when, in fact, it is the same old trait of human nature six thousand years old. When Aaron made the golden calf 'The people sat down to eat and rose up to play.' To sit at ease while eighteen men do all the work to amuse the crowd requires no real manliness on the part of either the players or spectators. A crowd of street urchins can 'play ball' and get up their share of enthusiasm. How strange that the world misses the measure of a man! It takes no real manliness to swagger, drink, curse and use tobacco; it takes a real man to resist the evil desire of the flesh. There are men in Wichita Falls who imagine that brick and mortar, lumber and nails with street pavement make a city. I had rather see Wichita Falls a city of hearts with gentlemen and ladies in all of them or old fashioned dignities with Christ a welcome guest in each and all, than to see the white plastered walls of political houses stained by iniquity or the brick walls or prominent corners made dens of infamy and traps for men, while the resounding echoes of highly decorated ceilings only re-echoed the blasphemy of polluted lips and man's decorative art only become an environment for a rotten character.

Jesus Christ had a real man's job. He dethroned emperors, changed the map of Europe, took the British man to resist the evil desire of the flesh. He dethroned emperors, changed the map of Europe, took the British man to resist the evil desire of the flesh. He dethroned emperors, changed the map of Europe, took the British man to resist the evil desire of the flesh.

At the Christian Church yesterday, after reading from Mark 2:1-12, Rev. Hamlin took for his text Mark 2:13: 'When He Saw Their Faith.' He said in part:

'When he saw their faith, the faith of the man's friends, we note that the New Testament gives space to approve the faith that leads to personal work in Christian service. Andrew finds Simon, his brother, and brings him to the head of his calling, the key holder of the Kingdom. "Phillip find Nathaniel." They were scattered abroad everywhere preaching the word.—Acts 2:1. Certain ones go to Antioch and preach the Grecian and the Gentile thereby find fellowship in the church with the Jew and God gives them the name promised in prophecy and the disciples are first called Christians at Antioch.—Acts 11:26. The style of evangelism is changing today. A few years ago we could find the entire congregation gathered with their friends, bombarding the throne of grace beseeching God to get willing to save the poor sinner. Today, the methods are the printed page, the personal appeal and the personal help is all brought to service to bring them to Christ, whom we are taught is both able and willing to save all that come unto God by Him.

We find the question coming up ever and anon, 'Why are not more men working in the church?' The answer has been given. 'It is not a man's job.' The church work is not done by some being a ladies' aid society with tea and suppers, or a woman's missionary society—a kind of prayer meeting work with a woman's social club to talk together and incidentally plan something to do for the heathen. A preacher attending a great game of baseball with thousands of men in attendance and a grand stand packed to the danger point, remark, 'Why what a lot of men! Why cannot we get them to church?' A man in front turned around and remarked: 'Parson, you don't play ball.' This sport is looked upon as the height of manliness, when, in fact, it is the same old trait of human nature six thousand years old. When Aaron made the golden calf 'The people sat down to eat and rose up to play.' To sit at ease while eighteen men do all the work to amuse the crowd requires no real manliness on the part of either

THE STATE OF TEXAS, County of Wichita, C. C. YOUNG, Plaintiff, vs. ANDREAS SCHMIDT, Defendant.

In the District Court of Wichita County, Texas.

Whereas, by virtue of an order of sale, issued out of the District Court of Wichita County, Texas, on a judgment rendered in said court, on the 6th day of December A. D. 1910, in favor of the said C. C. Young and against the said Andreas Schmidt, number 4007 on the docket of said court, I, R. L. Randolph, Sheriff of Wichita County, Texas, did on the 15th day of January A. D. 1911, at 11 a. m., levy upon the following described tracts and parcels of land, situated in the County of Wichita and State of Texas, and belonging to the said Andreas Schmidt, to-wit: Situated in the Counties of Archer and Wichita, and State of Texas, to-wit:

1st Tract. Two and one-half acres of land, a part of block 10, league 4 of the Denton County School Land and being all that part of said block 10, which lies south of the Wichita Falls and Seymour public road.

Historic Case to Be Heard.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—The long drawn out case of the State of Virginia against the State of West Virginia is on the docket of the Supreme Court of the United States for hearing this week. The case originated in the question of the division of the position of the Old Dominion at the time of the separation of the western counties and the formation of the State of West Virginia. The dispute involves about $33,000,000 and has been dragging through the courts more than 35 years.

Scene From "ST. ELMO"—Wichita Theatre, Saturday, January 21st.

AT THE THEATERS

"St. Elmo." The woman with a past has been a familiar subject dealt with by play writers for years with more or less disagreeable effect. "St. Elmo" presents a man with a past, and has redemption at the hands of one of the sweetest little heroines of the stage makes a production that loses none of the force of the unpleasant play but leaves the spectator with a feeling that he is better for having witnessed the performance.

Following closely the lines of Augusta Evans' successful novel of the same name, "St. Elmo" presents a little wildflower of a girl who hears almost the first unkind words in her life from the lips of "St. Elmo," the misanthrope. A series of disasters transfers the innocent girl of the woods into the splendid household where "St. Elmo's" word is law.

She loves him and remains true to her love through countless temptations. "St. Elmo" fights against his love for the girl. He tests her faith in every way, he plunges into more desperate affairs than ever but cannot escape the girl's steady influence for good.

A more powerful series of situations than is presented by the play could not easily be imagined. It provides the right kind of a problem play.

This splendid attraction will be at the Wichita Theatre next Saturday evening.

The Play and Company are Perfection.

Speaking of "The Climax," which is to be presented to our theatre patrons very soon, a reviewer says: "But no words can portray the beauty or tell of the exquisite charm that permeates the play. It is deftly touched here and there with an artistic brush and radiates and sparkles until it is bedewed with tears. The atmosphere of home, the wholesome idea, the sweet Italian music and the clear, beautiful wording make it an uplift; a play that to be seen rouses noble thoughts and purposes."

TESTIMONY IN DIVORCE TRIALS WILL BE MADE PART OF COURT RECORDS

How the wife assaulted her spouse with a frying pan, how the husband carried home a load and playfully assaulted his frow, the kind and endearing terms used by one in addressing the other, these and the various other incidents and causes of domestic discord that finally lead to the divorce court will be fully recorded and preserved for the inspection of parties who may be interested in divorce suits that are tried before Judge P. A. Martin hereafter in the district court.

Judge Martin has instructed the court stenographer to take all the testimony in divorce suits that are tried before him and to transcribe all the testimony and make it a matter of public record, where it will be accessible to anyone interested in the facts.

Judge Martin is having this done especially for the protection of persons who may be about to engage in matrimony with persons who have been divorced. By reading the court records such persons may come into the possession of valuable information and in some cases the records may prevent marriages that would be certain to result unhappily. Judge Martin believes that the very fact that the testimony will be recorded and will be open for public inspection on the court records will be a deterrent to the increase of divorce suits in the court here.

He believes that one of the most potent remedies for the divorce evil is publicity. He heard his first divorce suit as district judge last week and refused to grant a decree.

CARL MORRIS THE WHITE MAN'S HOPE

He is Believed By Many to Be the Coming Pugilist of the Country.

Have the promoters a heavyweight champion in the rough? If the dope sheet counts, Carl Morris, of Sapulpa, Okla., needs watching. In a career of a few months this big fellow has won six fights, all under five rounds and all by knockouts. He knocked out Tim Hurley in three rounds, Ed Anderson in five, Battling Britt in one, Jim Harper in three, Marvin Hart in three and Spike Kennedy in two rounds; thus it will be seen that his six battles have gone but seventeen rounds. Jeffries started his fighting career in much the same manner as did the world, and if the big black is to Morris and from a big, roush fighter, with apparently no future, he managed under a good adviser, to startle have his title disputed at all, the contender will in all probability come from the rough. It is a long way from the foot of the ladder to the championship title, but a man with the proper punch is bound to leave in sight sooner or later.

So far Morris has shown improvement and it is said that he would rather fight than eat. When it comes to build Morris is a real fighter. He stands 6 feet 4 inches and weighs 235 pounds. He has a reach of 84 inches, which is longer than that of any other fighter.

Morris is but 24 years old and is said to have considerable natural fighting skill. A few months of coaching under an experienced boxer would no doubt work wonders with him and with proper matchmaking to give him ring experience he should prove the most formidable of the white "unknowns."

COOK STILL INSISTS HE DISCOVERED POLE

Writes Friend That He is Victim of Press Slander Paid For By Arctic Trust.

Skidmore, Mo., Jan. 16.—The Rev. T. R. Gray of this town has received a letter from Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the Brooklyn explorer, in which Dr. Cook maintains that he did climb Mt. McKinley and also that he reached the north pole.

The letter was written at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, dated Jan. 6, 1911, and follows in part:

"There is hardly a word of truth in all that the press has printed about me. For the past year and at present phrases are being picked out of my articles, and around these a false meaning is being built to discredit me. There is no plea of insanity, no bid for forgiveness and no doubt of the actual accomplishment of either task; the climb of Mount McKinley or the quest of the pole. But to determine the mathematical point of the pole with the accuracy which the arm chair geographers demand is a physical impossibility. All this will be brought out later.

"I am all alone against an organized army of rival interests, aided and fed by unlimited funds. Every charge put against me is false and if my health and money hold out in the end all will be proven.

"The calculations upon which accurate polar location is based are open to such interpretation as friend or foe desires to express, and that my self-exile was a mistake, I know. At last, dogged by the press, abused by paid conspirators and driven to the verge of despair by an unrelieved tension of public excitement, I said to myself, 'Let the mill of infamy grind. I will take a much-needed rest in seclusion, where I can enjoy food and rest and get undisturbed sleep; where I can be a mere man and not a freak to the ex-

"I am sending my story out through a magazine because that is the only way to get a hearing without having every word I utter distorted. To do this, I have already sacrificed $15,000 by refusing other offers. When I went away I canceled lecture engagements for $140,000. At Copenhagen I refused contracts amounting to over $1,000,000. The story that I have ever planned to rob Mr. Peary of honor and credit is a malicious lie. I have served on two of his expeditions without pay. I have defended him for twenty years; have never given public utterance to a word which would hurt him, and in the last campaign I was among the first to give him praise.

"I ask for nothing now except to be freed from an unmerited charge of press slander, all of which is paid or influenced by the Arctic trust. Every phase of the bitter battle of defamation will be met, and then watch for what comes next.
