Hereford man drowns in local lake

Sylvestre Trevino, 59, of Hereford, drowned Sunday evening at a lake behind the Goodpasture facili-

Trevino had been fishing with some friends at the lake located a mile and a half south of Dimmitt on Highway 194, according to Deputy Joe Hoard, when he apparently dove in to catch a fish by hand. Hoard, who was called to the scene at 5:09 p.m., said Trevino reportedly never came back to the surface.

Trevino was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace, Marshall Young. An official ruling in the death has not been made pending the results of an autopsy.

The funeral Mass for Mr. Trevino will be at 10 a.m. today (Thursday) at LaIglesia DeSan Jose Church with Rev. Joe Bixenman, officiating. Burial will be in St. Anthony's Catholic Cemetery by Gililland-Watson Funeral Home.

Mr. Trevino was born in Skidmore. He was married to Teresa Gonzales in 1951 at Lovington, N.M. He came to Deaf Smith County in 1987. He was a farm laborer and a Catholic.

Survivors include his wife; three sons; four daughters; a stepmother; a brother; and 26 grandchildren.

By Don Nelson

What a great way to begin August, I thought.

It was the gray dawn Saturday, our final day in the White Mountains of eastern Arizona. I was almost soaking wet, having ducked and twisted 50 yards from the bridge along a narrow path shrouded by wild willows, which were dripping with heavy dew. I was back at a secluded pool of the Little Colorado River where, the evening before, I had landed five rainbows.

Verbie and I would have to start our return trip in a couple of hours. But we could still get four more trout without going over the legal

(That was my excuse. However, a fisherman doesn't really need an excuse to jump out of bed, throw on the dirty old clothes and boots, brew a quick jug of coffee, grab the creel and rod and head out one more time. After all, God doesn't deduct fishing time from a person's allotted days on earth.)

I had that little stretch of river to myself; there were no other fools around. It was just the rushing water, the soaked willows, the hummingbirds, the early martins, the trout and me.

You couldn't use a fly in that pool; the willows were too thick. It had to be salmon eggs or corn, flipped out underhanded and allowed to drift or swirl freely in the eddies of the pool. You couldn't use a split shot, either, for it was moss city in some spots.

After 15 minutes, nothing. I knew they were there, but they weren't awake yet. I moved to a little clearing upstream.

Again, nothing-not on salmon eggs, anyway. I switched to corn.

In a little rivulet next to a moss patch, my hook got hung up. But when I tried to ease it out of the moss, I felt the tug.

He took four kernels of corn from me before I landed him. (Continued on Page 12)

Her car reportedly went off the road to the right, hit the grass, then went back across the road into a skid. The car then skidded into the ditch, struck a fence and gate and overturned. Huff was not wearing a seatbelt.

County Judge Polly Simpson pronounced Huff dead at the scene at 3:10 a.m.

Funeral services for Judy Huff are pending with Justice - Mason Funeral Home in Post.

The Board of Directors of Plains Memorial Hospital has proposed a tax increase and has scheduled a public hearing for Thursday, Aug. 13. Without the tax increase, we may no longer have a hospital in Castro County, according to Joe Stevens, administrator of Plains Memorial Hospital.

The problem here is not unique, Stevens says. Small, rural hospitals all across the state are having severe financial problems. Since July 1985 there have been 28 small, rural facilities closed in places such as Groom, Paducah, Knox City, Robert Lee, Muleshoe, Meridian, Comfort, Johnson City, Mason, Gorman, Plainview and New Boston. Stevens attributes the problem to low patient census.

Plains Memorial Hospital's patient census has dropped steadily since 1982, Stevens says, primarily because of drops in Medicare payments and more stringent Medicare admission requirements. Both Medicare and Medicaid now refuse to pay for patients being hospitalized when it might be possible to treat them as outpatients.

If a patient does meet Medicare requirements for admission, the Medicare payments have been lowered to the point of placing an enormous burden on the hospital. Hospitals are now paid by a Prospective Payment System in which approximately 15,000 diagnoses were broken down into 470 groups called Diagnosis Related Groups (DRG). Each DRG supposedly includes all the diagnoses that cost about the same amount to treat. Medicare and Medicaid then set what they think it should cost to treat each group and the hospital is paid according to that rate regardless of actual cost, according to

Stevens cites a recent example in which a local Medicare patient's bill amounted to $6660.27. The DRG payment on that amount will be $1670, and the hospital will have to absorb the rest of that cost. By law, losses cannot be billed to the patient, nor can the difference between what the bill is and what the government pays.

Also, rural hospitals are paid less than city hospitals for the same things, Stevens says. In some cases, he points out, the difference between what the hospitals in Lubbock or Amarillo are paid is as much as 38% more than what Plains Memorial Hospital is paid for the same

Medicare has always paid only about 80% of cost and private pay/insurance has subsidized the rest. The new system pays even less, Stevens says.

Stevens recently did a six month study of the hospital's cases and found that they made money on 51% of the cases, averaging $700 per case. But, on 49% of the cases they lost money, averaging a loss of $5,000 per case.

At the same time payment rates to the hospital are being lowered, Medicare and Medicaid are making even more stringent demands on how hospitals should be equipped, staffed and operated. The hospital recently had to install an $80,000 sprinkler system and a $7500 alarm system in order to meet Medicare requirements, according to Stevens. Even if there are no patients in the hospital at all, they must have an RN and an LVN there and all medical services available 24 hours a day, Stevens says. He adds that there is a tremendous amount of paper work required by any of the government programs.

Another element adding to the hospital's financial problems are charity cases and bad debts, Stevens says. The hospital is required to furnish a certain amount of charity care each year and as the local economy suffers, the bad debts increase. He estimates that the unreimbursed services at this hospital next year will come to at least $500,000.

Aldermen balk at ambulance billing

In the process of discussing preliminary work on the 1987-88 budget for the City of Dimmitt, the Board of Aldermen balked at paying a year's-worth of billings from $13,000, with $3,400 going to E.M. the ambulance service, saying that they felt the bills were not itemized or explained sufficiently.

The billings, dated from August 1986 through June 1987, showed expenses of $22,633.01 and showed that $18,552.50 had been billed to the persons who used the ambulance service. No note was made of how much was collected or what portion of the billings should be paid by the city.

City Manager Reeford Burrous also noted that no credit was given the city for an ambulance motor which had been replaced at the city's expense. Mayor Wayne Collins suggested that a representative of the Plains Memorial Hospital Board be invited to the next meeting of the aldermen to explain the on the project of completing a loop in the city waterlines in the southwest part of town. Estimated cost of the project was set at around Jones Ditching, which won the bid for the project. The rest of the cost will be for supplies and equipment, including the pipe and fittings. Bids will be sought on that part of the project as well.

Vandals strike Nazareth schools

Nazareth School officials and local law authorities are investigating the vandalism which took place at the Nazareth Schools sometime along Butler. Saturday.

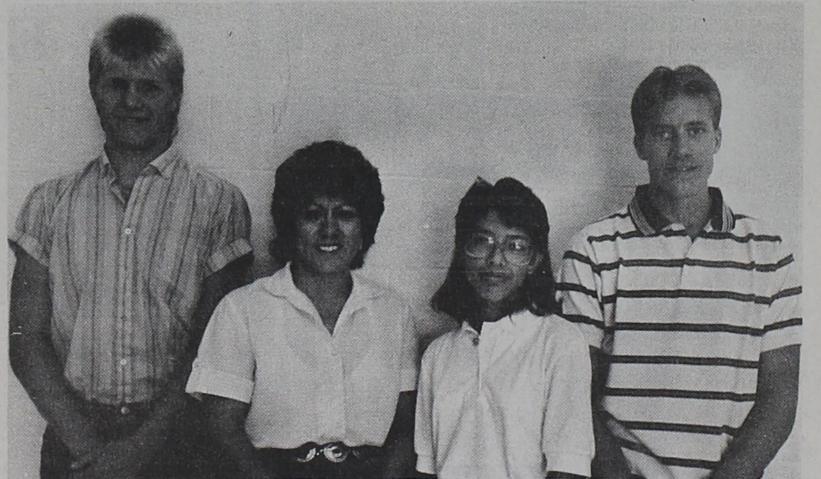

About 100 window panes were including the band hall, the gym and several classrooms, according to School Superintendant John Mason. Apparently some type of stick was used to break the windows, he said.

The loop will connect city water lines at the corner of Southwest Twelfth Street and Butler Boulevard with the east end of the line in the alley behind the houses on Ruskin Circle. The loop will cross Butler Boulevard from the northwest corner of the intersection of Twelfth and Butler, then follow Butler to Ruskin.

City Dept. of Public Works head James Killough told the aldermen that the loop will help eliminate reduced water flow problems that the southwest area of town has been experiencing, especially the homes in the Ruskin Circle and Sunset Circle areas, as well as

The aldermen agreed to re-allocate remaining Revenue Sharing broken out of several buildings, Funds, with $1,000 going to the Castro County Senior Citizens' Center, and the remaining $20,000 being applied to the city's most recent seal coating project.

There is still time to sign up for the competition, Heller said. Those interested should call or go by the Chamber of Commerce. The deadline for I.T. sign up is Aug. 19.

An Aug. 14 deadline has been set to sign up for food boothes or kids activities, Heller added. Harvest Days is set for Aug. 20 - 30.

Alton Loudder and his sons, Dwayne and Doug Loudder, and grandsons, Lance and Lyle Loudder, and Arturo Soto sawed off the dead branches on the old mulberry tree on Running Water Draw and hauled them off Tuesday and Wednesday. The branches looked like tree trunks, they were so large. Bro. Bentley Gwyn, who has a degree in botany, a year in horticulture and two years in forestry, examined the stump Wednesday afternoon and painted the freshly sawed branches. The decay and heart rot in the pith of the tree was extensive with a verticle hole into the trunk, and the rotting will gradually spread out until it gets into the nutrimental outer rings. When this takes place, the tree will die.

Teeny Bowden watched as Bentley examined the tree rot and painted old cracks, holes and cuts, as well as the new ones. The living part now is the east branch which makes the tree look like it is falling over east, but the roots are mostly to the west. If it lives long enough, some branches, or at least limbs, may grow back to the west and make it look better. There are still two branches that are dead, but they are so high up they were not cut off. This may be done this winter after the sap in the live part of the tree has gone down. Maybe water and fertilizer in the fall will keep it alive several years at least, but the long range outlook for the tree is bleak.

Howard Bridges of Dimmitt, grandfather of Bruce Bridges, was moved unexpectedly from Plains Memorial Hospital, where he was being treated for kidney problems, to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock Friday morning. Eddie Haydon rode in the ambulance with him since his son John was at a cattle auction. Sherry Haydon drove down to bring Eddie home, and they stayed until John arrived. He was resting well at 11p.m. Saturday when John and Evelyn went to a motel. John had stayed in the room with his father Friday night, and Saturday and Sunday when John called his mother Beck, Howard was sleeping. Willard (Si) and Beatrice (Sis) McCloy of Morse spent most of the day Saturday with Beck in Canterbury Villa in Dimmitt.

Alene Abeurto, four month old daughter of Ricardo and Alicia Abeurto, was moved to a room this week after five days in ICU in Lubbock General Hospital after running 102 degree temperature for two days with meningitis. Bro. Bentley Gwyn and his wife Kathy visited with them in the hospital on Tuesday. Ricardo works for Lonnie Wilson and they live in the Phillip Jones' house in the community. Lonnie and Renee visited with them before they left for the Wilson reunion and Renee and Flossie Jones spent one day with them last week when the baby's condition was very bad.

Canola future possibility for production in County

With everyone stressing the need for crop diversification these days, one possibility on the horizon could be a tiny seed called Canola. Canola, a variety of rape seed, is an oil producing crop which is currently used in Proctor and Gamble's Puritan Oil due to its low saturated fat content.

Robert Riggs, a field representative for ADM Corp., said at last week's meeting sponsored by the County Extension office that his company is interested in processing Texas grown Conala. Currently, the only plant processing Canola seed is located in Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

Canola has a growing season very similar to winter wheat, being planted in September and harvested in June, Riggs said. The seed company, Canola, Inc., of Illinois, recommends that the crop be planted Ballots will be mailed to eligible voters on Nov. 24 and ballots must be returned by Dec. 7.

Ballots will be counted at the about 30 days prior to winter wheat, saying that it would then be ready for harvest about 10 days prior to wheat harvest.

The crop has a critical harvest period, and a delay in harvest can result in some seed shattering, according to Riggs.

Riggs showed pictures of Canola in its various stages of growth. The Canola plant will reach to about chest height and will produce a yellow flower and a great deal of folliage. In the later part of the growth season, the folliage drops off and the stalk is covered with seed pods. The crop can be harvested with a standard combine, with a few minor adjustments.

After harvest, the tiny seeds can be processed into a livestock feed which has a 35% protein content, or can have the oil extracted from them.

Riggs said Canola is a nonprogram crop, but, because it is planted in one year and harvested in another, it can be planted on leaveout ground.

Riggs said if there are growers in the area interested in producing Canola, Quanah Cotton Oil Co. of Quanah will have the seed available and will process the Canola grown. Riggs said Canola is currently being grown in Kentucky, Indiana, and Missouri. There is also Canola production in Canada, China and some parts of Europe.

WHAT IS CANOLA? Seth Ralston, County Agent, and Robert Riggs, field representative for ADM Corp. display Canola seed and its by-products.

It's two-a-day time!

The muscles will start straining Monday as the Bobcats, Longhorns and Swifts begin their pre-season football workouts.

For Dimmitt and Nazareth players, it will be "two-a-days" until school starts, while Hart's gridders will have a single marathon workout each evening from 6 to 10:30.

The Longhorns are picked to go into the Class AA playoffs again this year, and Head Coach Mark Stroebel thinks they can do it. The Bobcats are ranked at the bottom of a stronger District 2-AAA, but Head Coach Clifford Smith doesn't believe it. The Swifts are picked to finish down in the pack somewhere in District 1-A South, but Head Coach Rex Minshew vows, "We are going to have a lot better season than everyone thinks."

DIMMITT

Those sophs have grown up

In Class AAA, sophomores rarely make the varsity squad. But last year a lot of Dimmitt sophs had to go out there as starters. Although they suffered through a 2-7-1 season, they played most of their opponents close.

Now those sophomores comprise the most experienced corps of juniors in the district, and Coach Smith is expecting a lot from them.

"We'll be banking mainly on juniors for the nucleus of our squad," Smith said. They include Kevin Petty, Emilio Arce, Oscar Valdez, Britt Boozer, Mat Bradley, Chad Davis, Rene Enriquez, Paul Espinosa, Kelly Howell, Clay Lytle, Aaron Odom, Kyle Shelton, Prentiss Washington "and Rodrigo Jackson, if his knee will let him play," Smith said. Seven of these

Hart to hold tennis tourney

The Hart Tennis Association is sponsoring a tennis tournament set for Aug. 13-16 at the Hart High School tennis courts.

Entry deadline is Tuesday. Entry fee is $6 per event. Call Cindy Davis at 938-2572 to enter.

Competition will include junior high and elementary singles and doubles, open singles and doubles, and mixed doubles. Trophies will be given for first and second places and consolation.

14 juniors started as sophomores last year, and Petty was named honorable mention all-district as a running back.

Seniors expected to report for duty Monday include five returning starters-Ricky Major (honorable mention all-district defensive end last year), John Schultz, Jim Nelson, Joe Yokum and Ricky Zimmer -plus Frank Valdez, Jon Bruegel and Dennis Kirby (all up from the JV), Stacy Gonzales, Scott Sava and Reagan Frye.

With this much upperclass talent, there may not even be room for any sophomores on this year's varsity squad, Smith said, "although I could be surprised—there may be one or two who'll make the varsi-

Smith thinks this year's players, when they report for two-a-days Monday, "will be in as good a shape as any bunch of kids we've had in quite a while" because of their individual dedication to offseason conditioning programs such as weight training, running and aerobics classes.

"All of them are going to be stronger," Smith said.

The Bobcats will have a squad meeting Friday night, and will vote then on their pre-school workout

"They usually vote on 7:30 a.m. and 6 p.m.," Coach Smith said.

HART

What's this? Plenty of beef?

Cautious optimism is a trademark of Head Coach Mark Stroebel, and usually his optimism proves out. You can imagine how he feels about this year's Longhorn squad when you consider that:

(1) Five senior starters are back to provide early-season leadership;

(2) The rest of this year's probable starters are up from a junior varsity squad that went undefeated last year and gave up only six

(3) The traditionally small Long-

335 Miles Phone 364-2255 Hereford, Texas OFFICE HOURS: Monday-Friday 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. horns are suddenly huge, with an offensive line that will average 195 lbs. per man.

"We're young and inexperienced, but other than that the kids look pretty good," Stroebel said. "We could possibly go into the playoffs again this year."

Both the Harris Rating System and Top o' Texas Football pick the Longhorns to finish second in District 3-AA behind powerhouse Abernathy, which Harris ranks among the top 16 Class AA teams in the state. That's how they finished last year, with Abernathy winning bi-district before losing to Panhandle in the area playoff, and Hart losing its bi-district game to Seagraves to end an 8-3 season.

Three of Hart's returning seniors started on both offense and defense last year-Steven Reyna (split end and safety), Alonzo Sarabia (guard and linebacker) and Cody Myrick (flanker and cornerback). Other returning defensive starters are senior linebacker Danny Valadez and junior tackle Junior Washington. Myrick, Valadez and Washington all earned all-district honors last year and are ranked among the top Class AA players in North Texas at their positions. After these five, though, there's a big fill-in job to be done. Graduation took all of last year's classy backfield and left some big holes to fill in the line. But Stroebel is confident that his remaining upperclassmen and the boys up from last year's unbeaten JV team will be ready to take the fight to their opponents when the horn sounds.

"The guys have a lot of desire and have worked hard all summer," Stroebel said. "We'll be bigger than ever before, and fairly quick, although not as quick as last year.

"The key to our season will be keeping away from injuries," Stroebel added. "Danny Valadez missed the last two games of the season last year with a broken collarbone, and Cody Myrick missed those last two games because of broken ribs. That really hurt us in the playoffs."

NAZARETH

Swifts plan aerial assault

Seven seems to be the key number for Head Coach Rex Minshew's Swifts.

They'll hold their daily preschool workouts at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. starting Monday, and will build their team around seven returning seniors, with seven defensive starters back to go with five offensive returnees.

The seniors are Chris Schmucker, Wesley Dobmeier, Heath Schulte, Cory Hoelting, Gregg Gerber, Wayne Wilhelm and Brad Hoelting.

"The rest of the team is really young, but they got a lot of playing experience last year," Minshew said. "We have a lot of experience with our returning seniors, and our senior leadership will be strong."

Minshew plans to unveil a brand-new offense this season-the split-I, which is geared for aerial Aldermen balk . . .

Concerned homeowners from Northwest Eleventh Street appeared before the board again to see what can be done about drainage problems in that area of town.

Burrous said that he had not been able to get anyone from the State Highway Dept. to come look at the problem, but said he felt they could probably lower the bar ditch on the north side of Halsell at least a little bit. However, he noted that if the ditch is lowered too much it becomes a hazard to any cars forced to pull off of the roadway. He suggested that the city look into obtaining right-of-way north of the state right-of-way and placing a drainage ditch or terrace there.

He told the homeowners present that no matter what else the city does, the alley behind the houses on the east side of NW 11th will have to be lowered about a foot to handle the drainage more efficiently. But he added that it would make the alley little more than a ditch, and that the trash dumpsters would have to be moved so that the trash truck could have access to them.

Homeowner spokesperson Gloria Hernandez said she would talk to the other homeowners and see if that would be an acceptable solution for now.

Burrous said he will continue to try to get someone from the highway department to come look at the situation, and to attend the next aldermen's meeting and explain the state's opinion on the matter.

Aldermen voted to pay the $29,-908.45 bill for the recently-completed seal coating project, and the $2,392.68 bill to the engineering inspector.

Other items considered in the budget discussions included two new cars for the Police Department at an estimated cost of $24,000, and a new compact pickup for the Fire Department, if the county is willing to pay half.

Back to the pool that had paid off so well the previous evening. By now the sun was peeking over the ridge, creating the penultimate beauty of dawn in the high country as its rays filtered through the pine, spruce and aspen and set the wildflowers aglow.

This time, 'way over beyond that overhanging willow branch, I saw my line shoot against the current. He had grabbed the salmon egg and carried it a good two feet before he spit it out. I couldn't see him, even with my polarized lenses, because of the glare of sunrise over the water. I couldn't feel him either because my floating line was arcing downstream well ahead of the hook; I couldn't keep a tight line and still get the bait to that spot.

After several more tries, another sharp strike-and another miss. He made some cuts in personnel and other expenses. Stevens says they belong to a group purchasing plan to reduce the cost of supplies. Pay raises were not given last year and are not planned for this year. The local doctors have cooperated, Stevens says, and their cuts this year will save the hospital almost $45,000. The big problem, according to Stevens, is not so much expense as it is revenue. Until the patient load picks up and other revenue sources are developed, outside money will be needed if the hospital is to stay open, Stevens says, and the only outside source for money right now had to be bigger than most, to hit like that.

I realized that one of my back muscles was aching from the strain of standing there in the only position possible in those tight quarters and trying repeatedly to pitch the salmon egg to that spot 20 feet away without hitting that overhanging willow limb.

I changed targets, back to the head of the pool, just under the same willow, where I had hooked several last evening. Bingo.

He took three salmon eggs in the next five minutes before I was able to hook him. I knew he was wellhooked-don't know why I knew; it's just something you sense—so I played him for almost two minutes before landing him. He was a good

He struck twice more, but it was the same story. By the time I could see my floating line shooting across the water, it was too late. He was invisible and unpredictable, and very well protected in his little domain over there. Ted Newman, Clarence Bearden, Ralph Smith or Slim Vardell could probably have landed that fish, but I couldn't get him out.

Well, heck, we had plenty of fish anyway. Verbie, who had taught me to fly-fish and who nearly always outfishes me, had gotten her limit in just an hour yesterday, and we were just two fish shy of four daily limits. We didn't really need anymore.
