GLASS FACTORY MEN VISIT GAS FIELD

CHANUTE KANSAS MEN MAKE TRIP TO PETROLIA TO INVESTIGATE GAS SUPPLY.

TO OPEN NEGOTIATIONS

Factory Men Return to Chanute and Planning Committee Will Report Recommendations Monday.

Andrew Hudson, president, and F. Bostock, secretary and manager of the Chanute Window Glass Co., of Chanute, Kan., in the presence of the city were yesterday afternoon, left this afternoon for their homes after investigating the conditions here with reference to the removal of the factory to this city.

These gentlemen met with the manufacturing committee of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon at which time the situation was gone over thoroughly, the representatives of the company explaining in detail the extent of the organization, its capacity and the number of men employed and the pay roll of the factory. After some discussion it was decided that a visit be made to the gas field at Petrolia as a means of acquainting the members of the company with the advantages offered in the way of cheap fuel, according to Messrs. Hudson and Bostock, accompanied by Secretary Day of the Chamber of Commerce Mayor Noble and J. G. Culbertson, spent the forenoon in the gas field, returning to the city at noon.

While no definite proposition was submitted on behalf of either the company or the city, it is understood that a general appreciation of the value of the enterprise prevails as to the local committee and as a result negotiations will be continued further. It is expected that a committee from the city will visit the factory at any early date, as they were especially requested by the gentleman representing the company in order that our people might better understand and appreciate the importance of the plant. The manufacturing committee is expected to make a report at the meeting of the directors on Tuesday and it is likely that a committee will be named at that time to go to Chanute.

The matter of the removal of the plant to this city was discussed with Mr. Bostock, the secretary and manager of the company just before their departure and the Times reporter expressed himself as being favorably impressed with Wichita Falls and its advantages and gave it his opinion that it would be possible to make a deal for the removal of the factory to this place. Mr. Bostock said: "I have not as yet submitted a proposition, nor have we asked one of the representative citizens of the city, desiring first that your people do us what we have done, pay us a visit to both parties may understand just what they are figuring on. We have come to Wichita Falls to look over the location and we want a committee from your commercial organization to come to Chanute in order that they may know what we have. We have a plant employing 200 men with a weekly payroll exceeding $2000 and we are not ashamed of the record we have made during the past six years. Conditions make it necessary for us to seek a new location and I am pleased to say that we are very favorably impressed with Wichita Falls."

AUTOMOBILE CLUB ORGANIZED HERE

Good Roads Committee Appointed and Temporary Organization Permitted.

In response to a call for a meeting of the automobile owners of the city, quite a large number assembled at the city hall last evening for the purpose of organizing an automobile club at this place. The attendance is reported as having been very satisfactory to those who have taken a lead in this work and much enthusiasm was manifested by those present. Temporary organization was perfected by the election of C. W. Snider as president, J. G. Culbertson, secretary and treasurer, and the selection of the following good roads committee: F. E. Orth, C. W. Snider, N. Henderson and J. G. Culbertson. After some discussion as to the purpose of the organization and the plans for carrying out the work in behalf of better roads for the county, it was decided to adjourn to meet again Friday evening, the 14 at 5 o'clock and in the meantime rules and regulations governing the club will be prepared for submission at that time. Considerable enthusiasm is developing in the movement that has been inaugurated by a number of the automobile owners with a view to encouraging the development of good roads and it is expected that much good along this line will develop as a result of the organization of the club.

The bond issue of $100,000 for building good roads in Gregg county was carried by a large majority.

The grand jury which has been taking a recess will reconvene Monday to complete its work.

A number of important cases including the suit of McGlasson vs. the Wichita Falls Traction Company and Kennedy vs. Moore are on the docket next week.

MORE THAN FOUR LIVES LOST IN THE WRECK

Rescued Passengers From Santa Rosa Contradict Statements of Steamship Company's Officials.

By Associated Press. San Francisco, Cal., July 8.—Despite assertions from the company officials to the contrary, passengers of the wrecked steamer, Santa Rosa, arriving here today asserted that more lives were lost than four members of the crew already reported. Of the two hundred passengers, it is reported but hundred and ninety-two have been accounted for, and that some at least lost their lives when the raft went to pieces after the huge vessel split the ship in two at dusk last night. Passengers assert that Captain Faria refused to listen to the pleas of the passengers to be landed during the early hours of the wreck when the sea was comparatively calm. He is said to have replied that he had instructions from the Pacific Steamship Co. to let no one ashore unless absolutely necessary. Many women still are hysterical after their experience.

HIS POSSESSIONS WERE INCRIMINATING

Sword, Cane, Revolvers, 1000 Letters From Criminals; Letters From Bribed Officials Among Vitozzi's Belongings.

By Associated Press. Viterbo, July 8.—At the Cammori trial today personal belongings seized at the home of the priest, Ciro Vitozzi, were examined. These included a sword, cane, revolvers, one hundred and forty bills of exchange, one thousand letters from criminals asking protection from Vitozzi and letters from Maria Bartolotti. This woman is believed by some to be a close friend of the priest while others say he acted as her agent in looting money.

Confronted by these exhibits which were intended to establish his evil character the priest defended his possession of them. Regarding the communications from criminals he said he considered it a duty of his ministry to assist sinners, including criminals who applied to him for help. There was also found among Vitozzi's effects two hundred letters from various clerks and officials of law courts complaining that money promised them had not been received. It is charged the priest was in the habit of giving bribes to court officers in order to obtain light sentences for convicted criminals. It is declared the revelations along this line will be scandalous.

Lord Strathcona, the Grand Old Man of Canada, High Commissioner in London for Canada, who, according to recent announcement made in London is to resign, owing to his advanced age. The photo shows him on his last visit to America, when his grandchild, Francis Howard, accompanied him. He is 91 years old and well known in this country.

TERRIFIC DOWNPOUR OF RAIN AT BYERS THIS AFTERNOON

Telephone communication had with Byers at 3:30 this afternoon contained the information that a fine rain had fallen there this afternoon, the precipitation to that hour being between three and four inches. Rain began to fall at 2:15 and the downpour was heavy and rain was still falling at the time the conversation was had. It is stated that some wind accompanied the rain but there was no dust storm preceding the precipitation.

DOBSON HOME FROM GROVE CITY, PA.

T. F. Dobson, president of the Citizens Light & Power Company has returned from a business trip to Grove City, and other eastern points in connection with the company's business and reports every thing in favorable condition for the opening of the plant on the date originally contemplated. At Grove City he inspected a try out of the machinery to be used and found it satisfactory in every respect and is now enroute to this city as heretofore announced in The Times.

Mr. Dobson looked after a number of matters connected with the business while away, including the purchase of a stock of supplies to be carried by the company and which will be sold at a reduced price as previously announced. He is favorably impressed with the progress made in getting out the machinery for the plant at this place as well as the character of goods supplied, while he says is the very best that many can buy.

STATE CHEMIST FINDS HARMFUL PRESERVATIVES

Of Twenty-five Samples Tested, Nineteen Had Been Doctored With Injurious Preservative.

By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, July 8.—Assistant State Chemist Golaz of the food and dairy commissioner's department, announced today that out of twenty-five samples of meat tested during the week, nineteen had been doctored with harmful preservatives. Prosecutions will probably follow. Throughout the summer the department will spend its time testing meats and milks.

Dickinson to Vanderbilt. By Associated Press. Nashville, Tenn., July 8.—Judge J. M. Dickinson, former secretary of Vanderbilt, has accepted a professorship in the Vanderbilt University Law Department.

MANY OIL LEASAS BEING TAKEN THAT ARE NOT MADE PUBLIC

It is believed that thousands of acres of land are being leased in Wichita county by oil men which are not being filed for record and about which little is said. The reason for the secrecy is that the different oil men do not want the others to know what they are doing. Local hotels are crowded with oil promoters who have come from Oklahoma, Kansas, Pennsylvania, California and other fields attracted by the reports from Petrolia and Electra. The fact that most of them are staying after making personal investigations at the two places named is a good evidence that they believe the field here is worth while. In automobiles and with teams they are driving about the country and if they are not leasing lands it is probably because the land owners are demanding excessive terms. With tanks filled for the first time by Thursday night's rains and an abundant supply of water enough to last for six months without more rain, it is believed activities will be immediately renewed in the Petrolia field. At Electra operators are still hampered by the lack of water, and extensive developments there await a rain heavy enough to fill up the tanks already dug.

POPE'S CONDITION IS NOT SERIOUS

HE SUFFERS ONLY FROM THE GOUT, BUT FROM EACH ATTACK HE RECOVERES MORE SLOWLY.

A GENIAL, LIKEABLE MAN

He Loves His King and Enjoys the Breath of Fresh Air He Gets From the Outside World.

By Associated Press. Rome, July 8.—Pope Leo, especially in the later years of his Pontificate, was accustomed to go to bed quite well and wake up to find himself reported at the point of death. So accustomed had he become to this that he used to scan the papers "to find out the state of my health today." Up to within a year or two, Pius X. was almost free from this kind of annoyance, and when such a statement was made, allowed himself to be seriously discomfited and took the trouble to try and discover the source of the rumor. Once a rumor of this kind reached his sisters, who, hurrying to the Vatican, insisted on seeing him, although there is a strict rule that they must give notice of their visits. Thus some difficulties were made for them, but when they did enter his presence their surprise at his robust condition was so great that Pius X. laughed with amusement, exclaiming, "Did you expect me to be shrunken to a shadow? By your expressions I should say that you are disappointed to find me well!"

At the present moment something of the kind is taking place. According to the rumors the Pontiff is seriously ill and a Conclave is imminent. This, of course, is nonsense, but certainly he is not the man he was, and the trouble can be described with one word—gout. There is absolutely nothing else the matter with the Pope, but those who watch him find that he recovers ever more slowly from each attack, and in consequence is more languid, takes more rest and does less work. But this is only natural, and when his 76 years is taken into consideration, it must be acknowledged that he has wonderful strength and vitality. If nothing unexpected happens he should round out four score years.

Pius X. is essentially a genial man. He loves his kind and enjoys the breath of fresh air which he gets from the outside world through audiences. For this reason he is apt to prolong the receptions, and so use up the time that he should be resting, but all resistance is in vain, the usual answer being, "I am not made of paper, let me enjoy what I can."

Recently the visits of his sisters, who live "just around the corner," have been more frequent, but his health is not discussed, as he does not like the topic. "Just as though I were an invalid," he cried the other day. "Thus the good ladies confine themselves to pleasant gossip about 'home' affairs. His Holiness still takes a most affectionate interest in all the members of his family. The latter, however, do not profit by his exalted position. The inn at Rome is kept just as before, his nephew's wife still teaches the primary class in the village and his brother is still a postman. Pius X. certainly cannot be accused of nepotism.

Knockout Brown wants $12,500 for his end to meet Wolgat. Nothing stirring for K. O. at that price.

FARMERS PROPOSE A MASS MEETING

ROAD BONDS CALL FOR AN INTERESTING DISCUSSION AT MEETING OF COUNTY UNION.

KEEP MONEY AT HOME

Union Members Opposed to Expenditure of Bond Money if Large Percent Will Leave County.

Special to the Times. Burk Burnett, Texas, July 8.—The Wichita County Farmers' Union now holding its regular quarterly meeting here will probably ask County Judge Pender to call a mass meeting of the citizens and taxpayers of Wichita county to be held in Wichita Falls next Saturday to hear expressions from the people of the entire county relative to the proposal to issue bonds to build roads. Such a resolution was introduced by J. L. McConkey of Wichita Falls. Late this afternoon it was still in the hands of the committee but a favorable report is anticipated.

The subject of a bond issue for road improvements was one of the most important matters discussed at today's meeting. At the opening of the discussion there appeared considerable opposition to a bond issue but this was overcome with the conditional understanding that if the bonds were voted practically all the money should be spent at home, and that the improvements be of a permanent character.

It seemed to be the desire of all that the county commissioners take no action toward a call for an election until all the people had an opportunity to express themselves on the matter. The meeting is one of the best ever held by the Wichita County Union. Members are in attendance from every community in the county and the people of Burk Burnett are making them feel at home.

On last Friday John Brochhouser struck artesian water on his place 7 miles southeast of Archer City, at a depth of 280 feet. This good sized stream is now running out at the top of the well. Unfortunately he made the mistake of putting in ordinary sheet iron casing, and in some manner 160 feet of it broke loose and dropped to the bottom, cutting off the flow considerably. This casing will be drawn and replaced by the kind usually used in such wells.

This is the first flowing well ever struck in Archer county, as people usually get good wells at a shallow depth, and are satisfied to stop. John struck several strong veins on the way down, but ceased them off and kept going with the above results.

This well only demonstrates the contention of Prof. Cummins, ex-State Geologist, that Archer county is underlain by artesian water at a depth of 250 to 300 feet on the south side, and 1500 to 2000 feet on the north side. He figures that a 1000 foot well in Archer City would throw a stream of water nearly as high as the court house cupola.

CLOSING CONTRACTS FOR EXTENSION GRADING

Walter H. Denison, whose headquarters for the present is at Lubbock, Texas, today closed a contract with the Wichita Falls & Northwestern Railroad for the construction of 900,000 yards of extension of the line from Hammon, the contract representing the first nine miles beyond the Canadian river, toward the town of Woodward, Okla. This work is a continuation of the contracts heretofore announced, which included the extension from Hammon to the river. Mr. Denison stated to a Times reporter that he expected to begin work on the contract within a short time and to push it as fast as was possible considering the nature of the country in that location.

Mr. Kell in discussing the contract later stated that it involved one of the most difficult and expensive pieces of work ever awarded by the Northwestern road. J. L. McSpadden, another well known contractor, also closed a contract for a portion of the construction work between the river and Woodward. Convicts Thank Governor. By Associated Press. Austin, Texas, July 8.—Self-styled "unfortunate" convicts of the State penitentiary sugar camp at Bonham, have written Governor Coggitt a letter thanking him for the improved treatment in general. "We are greatly pleased with treatment and forbearance under the present administration and we, the inmates, here hope to live so as to help the authorities carry out this stupendous undertaking," they wrote. The undertaking referred to is the reform measure now on foot in all the State's penal institutions.

Unique Luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carver and daughters, Misses Genevieve and Eddie, of Archer county, gave a delicious six-thirty o'clock luncheon to about twenty of their friends on the launch "Bertha" the Fourth of July. According to previous plans, the guests met at the Lakeside Hotel and were soon riding over the waters of Lake Wichita, doing full justice to a repast that an epicure would approve. The menu included fried chicken par excellence, broiled country cured ham, chicken salad, suratoga chips, sandwiches, jelly, pickles, olives, ice cream served in cones and an abundance of lemonade and ice water. Those enjoying this feast of good things were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Jackson, Bernice and J. L. Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bacon, Miss McLaughlin, of Archer City; Misses Maybelle Jackson, Beas Kell Orveta Wyatt, Messrs. Leroy Sheurer Bently Bacon, Joe Hatcher, Ernest Fain and Cliff Bullock. This put the party in fine fettle for the fireworks; but alas for human calculations! The scenic display went off ahead of schedule time and "stood" not upon the order of its going but went at once.

B. A. C. Club. The girls club met Thursday afternoon with Bernice Jackson, 800 Denver street as hostess. The game of hearts was the principal diversion though music by various members was an added pleasure to the afternoon. Hishop and family with a six o'clock dinner as a farewell courtesy before their departure for Georgetown. Small Dinner Party. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Foreman and little daughter, Helen of Amarillo and Miss Minnie Foreman of Padlo Kansas, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Richoit, Monday evening at their new home, corner of Twelfth and Austin streets. Being old friends quite a happy time was had in a social way and reminiscences were sincerely enjoyed by all.

Those enjoying the event were Misses Audrey and Adele Adicks, Louise Fox, Silby Kell, Lillian McGregor, Alice and Margaret Burnside. Chaperoning the party were Mesdames Sheppard, Burnside and McGregor. Features of the evening were the delicious supper and a splash in the natorium and some of the party remained to dance. All in all it was one of the week's happy affairs for those "in the swim."

Five Hundred. The evening of the third Miss Lee entertained a few friends at cards very informally previous to her departure for the summer. Those invited were Misses Helen Fitzpatrick, Frances Buel, Orveta Wyatt, Messrs. Jalonick, Griffin, Martin and Penick. After enjoying the game for some time, simple refreshments were daintily served, the table being appropriately decorated with fire-crackers and novelties suggestive of the season. Fireworks at midnight heralded the approach of the Fourth of July and fittingly concluded the evening's entertainment.

Pier Luncheon. Mrs. McGregor and Miss Fitzpatrick chaperoned a small party to the lake, where they enjoyed an alfresco lunch on the pier after a delightful plunge in the pool. Those composing the party were Misses Helen Jalonick, Frances Buel, and Helen Fitzpatrick. Messrs. Jalonick, McKiernan and McGregor. Automobiles conveyed the party on this pleasure trip and no evil did betide them.

Party for Miss Sebring. First among the social gaieties of the week was Judge Secury's party in honor of his visiting niece, Miss Janette Sebring of Alvin. The colonnade was next invaded and a delicious luncheon prepared by the young ladies of the league as only they know how, was spread and enjoyed to the entire satisfaction of all present. After a short business session, sometime was pleasantly spent in conversation and promenade after which the happy leaguers returned to the city, all pronouncing it one of the most enjoyable and worthy to be remembered socials in the history of this organization.

Texas needs more babies and better babies.

Bee Raising in Jack County. Mr. J. H. Timberlake of Jackboro has demonstrated that bee raising can be made as profitable in that section of the state as in the famous bee district of Southwest Texas.

Miss Laura Hamner, of Claude, arrived Saturday for a few days stay with Miss Minnie Young. movement started with the Jefferson County Good Roads Association four years ago, and which has been nurtured and fostered by the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce. Conservation of Texas Fish. An effort is being made by the Texas Fish and Oyster Commission to have ladders placed in the dams of the various streams throughout the state. Only three ladders have been placed in Texas streams so far and it is claimed by the Commission if these ladders are not placed in all streams, that it will result in ultimate annihilation of fish in the upper levels. Such a movement will protect the fish in the streams and result in an increase of this valuable food product. Pathfinders to Lay Out Route. For the purpose of mapping out a through trunk highway from the Red River to the Gulf, a party of pathfinders will make the trip across the state, leaving the Red River on Monday, July 10th and arriving at Galveston July 15. The trip will be under the supervision of Robt. J. Potts, Director of public Highways A. & M. College. Data will be secured on the trip relating to the cost of material, the character of road best suited to each locality, the probable cost of construction, etc. Meetings will be held in all cities and towns along the route and good roads advocates will address the citizens at each stop. The Texas Commercial Secretaries and Business Men's Association recently prepared a map and submitted to Mr. Potts showing the proposed route. The route was selected from the standpoint of utility and one which will render service to the greatest number of farmers and give cheap communication with markets and it is probable that the route laid out by the association will be selected by the pathfinders. Mrs. Taft Interested in Texas. Mrs. C. P. Taft, wife of the brother of the President, is preparing to make extensive improvements on her land in South-west Texas. Mrs. Taft is one of the largest single land holders in Texas and has over a quarter of a million acres of land in Dimmitt, La Salle and Webb counties. Mrs. Taft has great faith in the future of Texas and is preparing to have one hundred thousand acres of this land brought under cultivation in the near future.

Emelle Griggby, American woman befriended by England's royalty. The apparent high favor in which the royal family holds Miss Emelle Griggby—as evidenced by her position at the Coronation ceremonies in Westminster Abbey—has caused no end of gossip. Society and the general public alike find it difficult to understand how the American girl, whose chief claim to fame is that she was the "ward" of the late Charles T. Yerkes, the traction magnate, was placed in a seat much nearer to the King and Queen than were many of the highest nobles of the land. To her also was sent an especial luncheon in a leather case by Princess Mary.

HIBERNIANS GREET KING AND QUEEN

QUAINT CUSTOM ENACTED WHEN KING GEORGE AND QUEEN MARY REACH DUBLIN.

IS A GENERAL HOLIDAY

Royal Party Welcomed With Loud and Enthusiastic Cheers by Irish Subjects.

Dublin, July 8.—The ceremony of the entry of King George and Queen Mary into Dublin today was the counterpart of a sixteenth century play. Shortly before the arrival of the royal party at the city limits the parent-vant-ant-us, wearing a gorgeous cape of royal heraldry, galloped up to a gate which had been specially constructed across the roadway and asked permission of the lord mayor for the entrance of the royal party. Gravely and in quietly worded terms of courtesy the lord mayor granted the request. Back galloped the parent-vant-ant-us, the gate closing behind him.

The arrival of their Majesties in Dublin was made the occasion for a general holiday. Flags and bunting and mottoes worded in terms of loyalty were displayed in all parts of the city but especially in the magnificent cent were the decorations displayed along the route of the procession to the Viceregal Lodge in Phoenix Park. The royal party were welcomed with loud and enthusiastic cheers. Their Majesties continuously bowed their acknowledgments of the warm greeting in fact, they scarcely ceased nodding during the entire nine-mile drive.

The King and Queen accompanied by their suites, arrived at Kingston at a seasonable hour this morning on board the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert. From the yacht they were rowed in the Royal barges to the Victoria wharf, where they were received by the Lord Lieutenant and the Earl of Aberdeen, and a number of officials. Immediately after the first ceremonies of welcome were concluded their Majesties, accompanied by the Lord Lieutenant and a brilliant staff, drove off toward Dublin amid the greatest enthusiasm on the part of the crowds lining the route between Kingston and Bull's Bridge.

The arrival in Dublin was the occasion for further ceremonies of welcome, following which the King and Queen took luncheon with the Lord Lieutenant and Countess of Aberdeen. At 3 o'clock the King officiated at the opening of the Royal College of Civil Engineers. The opening of the Royal College of Science their Majesties proceeded toward Trinity College, where an address was read, to which the king made a reply. Later the Royal party visited the Phoenix Park Race Course, and the day's program was concluded with a dinner party at the Royal Castle.

The day's proceedings were not marred by any unpleasant incident, with the possible exception of the fact that the municipal government of Dublin did not enter as enthusiastically into the welcome to royal visitors as might have been desired. On the other hand, the population, reinforced by thousands of visitors from many parts of the island, were extremely cordial in their welcome. The grandstands erected in various places were crowded with cheering spectators, while the sidewalks were packed by a multitude of people.

Tomorrow morning their Majesties will attend service in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Afterward they will visit several of the hospitals and other public institutions of the city.

Open N. E. A. Convention.
San Francisco, Cal., July 8.—San Francisco became in truth the educational center of the country today, with the opening of the departmental discussion in the National Education Association, which is to hold its forty-ninth annual meeting here during the ensuing six days. For this occasion thousands of school teachers have arrived. Every State in the Union is represented. Among the visitors are many college presidents and other eminent educators. Nearly one hundred regular meetings for discussions on educational topics will be held with several speakers for each, and the social features which have been arranged for the entertainment of the delegates are unusually numerous.

The National Council of Education held two sessions today, with Charles H. Keyes of Columbia University presiding. A discussion of the report submitted by the Committee on Moral Education occupied the morning session. This afternoon the Council discussed the improvement of teachers in the service of city schools. The program for the evening sessions calls for addresses by Dr. Elmer E. Brown, late United States Commissioner of Education, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University.

WORLDWIDE PROTEST AGAINST EXECUTION

PETITIONS BY TENS OF THOUSANDS FOR PARDON OF MRS. NAPOLITANO POURING IN.

SHE KILLED HER HUSBAND

Woman Claims That He Tried to Force Her to a Life of Shame.
Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 8.—In a grimy, ill-lighted prison cell Mrs. Angelina Napolitano waits to become a mother. Within fifteen days she expects her fifth child.

In a remote corner of the jail the gallow's awaits to kill the mother as soon as the new-born babe may be torn from her bosom.

In the outside world, horrified at the thought, hundreds of thousands of men and women are clamoring that she shall not die, demanding that August 12th shall pass without this woman dropping to death through the maw of this gallow's beast.

For Angelina Napolitano though she slew her husband, the father of her unborn babe, killed rather than yield to his beastly demand that she sell herself and lay the purchase price of her honor at his feet.

Stray Topics From Little Old New York

New York, July 8.—The city government has at last taken a step in the right direction toward making the school facilities of New York more adequate. Owing to misjudgment and altogether insufficient appropriations the Board of Education for many years, has been unable to build enough new schools to accommodate the constantly increasing number of children in the various sections of the city. Two years ago only $1,500,000 was appropriated for new school buildings, a sum altogether insufficient considering the tremendous increase in school population. Last year more than $6,000,000 was appropriated for that purpose, but even that sum was inadequate. This year the appropriation will be more than $10,000,000 and it is hoped that by a judicious distribution of that sum the overcrowding of the schools two years hence will be greatly mitigated, although perhaps not entirely prevented.

Police Commissioner Waldo has learned a sad and discouraging lesson in former years it was the custom to make the rounds of the various precincts for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the police officers were doing their duty. Commissioner Waldo did not like this system of espionage, which, in his opinion, was degrading. When he was placed at the head of the police department he promptly abolished the so-called "Shoo-Fly" squad and placed the roundsmen and other police officers upon their honor. The other night the Commissioner made a tour of the city to find out how his "honor plan" worked out. His disappointment was great and as a result of that single trip, sixty complaints against as many policemen and higher police officers were filed by him. The outcome will probably be a shake-up in the police force and the restoration of the "Shoo-Fly" squad.

The New York police force may not be as efficient as it might be, but it would be unjust to place all the blame upon the men. The system, which enables too many cooks to meddle with the broth, is to a great extent responsible for existing conditions. The men are expected to fulfill many duties for instance the ferretting out and arrest of criminals, are neglecting another serious handicap consists in the fact that in many cases the police magistrates are unwilling to uphold the policy of the police department.

For all round meanness the members of the Italian criminal colony in this city take the blue ribbon. In the King's County Hospital are two women who were driven into hopeless insanity by the persecution of their families by the Black Hand. The misdeeds of the Black Hand are outrageous and it is a disgrace to the city that the blackmailers, murderers and robbers carrying on their nefarious business under the name of the Black Hand, are allowed to continue their work. It is true, a few of these criminals have been caught and punished, but there are hundreds more, as dangerous as the others, still committing crimes of every kind without fear of detection by the police.

With a large, an overwhelming majority the stalwart burghers of Hoboken have declared themselves against the Commission form of government. They do not believe in this new-fangled system and put down their ponderous feet upon the proposition of the reformers.

A young man, elegantly dressed, attracted considerable attention the other evening by stopping in front of one of the big stores in the shopping district and beating with his cane upon the big plate glass window and the latter broke and angled upon the sidewalk. The store was closed at the time and the action of the young man well seemed to be prompted merely by a desire to find amusement. He was arrested and taken to the nearest police station, where he intimated that his name, however, he would not divulge. The police officials are of the opinion that the young man is merely "natty" which, however, would by no means preclude his being a member of the English aristocracy.

The notions some people have concerning the duties of the police are rather amusing at times. The other day a woman sent a complaint to the police department that somebody had stolen her evening paper, for which she had paid one whole penny. She demanded that the detective force of the city be sent out to investigate the case and to trace and arrest the thief. However, neither the detective force nor the police reserves of the precinct were sent out on the case.

An Italian girl had a serious quarrel with her Italian beau the other day. The case was really aggravating and, according to Italian notions, called for the shedding of blood. The girl had a revolver, every bander of which was loaded. She pulled the weapon from beneath her skirt and pointed the gun at her untrue lover. For a moment, but only for a moment, there was a happy prospect that the Italian colony would be reduced by one bad number. But it was not to be. The man took to his heels and the girl, pursuing him, began to shoot. Unfortunately not one of the bullets hit the sprinting miscreant, but when the smoke had cleared away, three innocent passers-by, who had been hit by as many of the bullets were scattered along the road and had to be taken to the hospital for repairs.

Of all the pupils graduated this year from Public School 110, Broom and Cannon streets, a blind boy, Benjamin Appicello, carried off the highest honors. His general average was close to 97. What makes the success of the boy even more remarkable is the fact that he could speak but little English when he entered the school two years ago and that he completed the work of four years within less than a year and a half. It is the boy's ambition to become a lawyer. In the fall he will enter the De Witt Clinton High School. Senator Gore, the blind member of the United States Senate is taking great interest in the boy. The boy has a letter from Senator Gore, in which the latter advises him to study law. The boy treasures that letter and is determined to win success at the bar.

ILLINOIS TEXAS

Railroad mileage is the yard stick of progress. We have in Texas 14,000 miles of railroad and rank first of all states in the Union in mileage. In miles per area, we rank fourth, having 6.15 miles of railroad per 100 square miles of territory. In mileage per population, we rank nineteenth, having 28.43 miles of railroad per 10,000 people.

The comparative cost of railroad facilities is in miles per area. If we had the mileage per area that the state of Illinois has we would have 15,500 miles of railroad for the same $4,000,000 that Iowa has 46,000 miles. We have only 14,000 miles.

According to the last interstate commerce commission report, completed June 30, 1909, we constructed 273 miles during the previous year and ranked fourth in the list of states in the Union in construction during the year. We are more in need of railroad construction than any other state in the Union.

This is My 40th Birthday. Lee Cruce.

Lee Cruce, governor of Oklahoma was born in Marion, Ky., July 3, 1852. The death of his father threw him upon his own resources at an early age and it was only by hard work that he was able to obtain an education. He studied law during one year at Vanderbilt University and in 1878 began the practice of his chosen profession. Three years later he removed to Oklahoma, locating at Ardmore. In 1901 he abandoned the legal profession to engage in the banking business. About the same time he began to take an active interest in political affairs and in 1910 he was nominated and elected governor of Oklahoma on the Democratic ticket. In 1904 Governor Cruce was married to Miss Chicke Le Flore, a young Indian woman.

The Bowie Commercial Club has had a United States engineer surveying its tract section for ten days for the purpose of determining the cost of good roads in that county. An election will be held soon for voting bonds for building roads.

The improvement of our rivers and harbors will greatly lower the cost of transportation.

Prohibition Snap Shots

Note.—The matter published in this column is authorized by the county prohibition committee, J. M. Bell, chairman.

It is at all times a delicate position for a man to question the sincerity or conduct of a woman. But when she deliberately goes out of her way, and becomes participes criminis in violations of law, that she may help the anti-bolster up a losing fight in Texas, she can't complain if she is held up in her true light before the public.

Mrs. Mary Winn Smoot has made herself conspicuous in her Oklahoma City and Tulsa prohibition exposure. Quoting from her own published experience, we leave good citizens and honest voters of Texas to judge the questionable methods of Mrs. Smoot to aid the anti side, to say nothing about the anti committee that accepted and published the story. "I know good people of Texas," what Mrs. Smoot says of her visit to Atlanta: "I thought this would be a novel experience for me, and as I was looking for facts and not altogether hearsay, after my uncle assured me he would not make any attempt to cover up the 'blind tiger' run down if I did succeed, because I did not relish the idea of appearing in police court as a witness against a 'blind tiger,' as the Atlantans call whisky sellers, I followed my uncle's directions and went to a certain corner designated by him and stood there only a few minutes when I was accosted by a negro man, who asked if I wanted a cab—I told him 'No. I want a half pint of whisky'.

He said, 'Well, lady, I ain't got no whisky, 'cause I never sells it, but I has a friend around de corner dat sometimes gets it for white folks.' And imagine my surprise when he handed me the immense package, containing 'Missis, bear are yo' package, and de charges on dat is 60 cents.' I paid him and he went his way rejoicing. I got the large box almost as big as I could carry, joined my uncle, who was laughing loudly by the time I came up to him, and together we went into a dry goods store, and after untying the box I finally came to the half pint of whisky. 'What did I tell you?' said my uncle.

Impressions of the Houston Anti Raly.

Editor Times: Perhaps your readers might be interested in knowing something of what I have seen and heard in the Magnolia city.

I had been here one week admiring her sky-scrapers, the moss-draped pines, the miles of magnificent beaches, and her cultured people when I went to hear Gov. Colquitt.

I went, laying the great question of prohibition aside, to see the Governor of the great state of Texas and to listen to his logic and eloquence.

Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Colquitt had advised the ladies of Texas to stay at home during the summer, the Post and Chronicle repeatedly invited the ladies to the great anti raly.

Houston's beautiful auditorium will hold 8000 people and there was said to be 5000 present. We went early and were fortunate in securing front seats directly below the speaker's desk, where our correspondent watched the crowd come in.

I soon saw that Houston's elite were either detained at home or out of town. While I was cudeeling my brain for a word to describe the class of people that were filling past me one near me supplied it by exclaiming, "My—what a crowd of millionaires!"

To the left of the stage was a life-sized portrait of Gen. Sam Houston—and all through the evening he sat, with his back to the speaker and wore an inscrutable mask of sternness; farther down Alonzo Steele, lacking Gen. Houston's great nerve was half hidden by the folds of the Texas flag, as though he had pulled down the blinds rather than face the crowd and be called one of them. I was surprised at the absence of ladies after the papers had told of the preparations for their comfort: ice water was continually passed around, etc., etc., but the ladies of Houston did not come. Houston would never give to the world a picture of the women that attended that meeting as a sample of its wives and daughters; and as for the gray-haired mothers, they were conspicuously absent.

Men without coats smoked constantly and "yours truly" felt very much out of place.

I shall not attempt to report the speech for you will have it before this reaches you. But as far as a public speaker is concerned Mr. Colquitt was the world afire; Leo Mathis has him beaten there too bad to talk about.

The ovation given him when he walked out on the platform was very weak—so much so that many said, "That is how the Governor will stand if he comes out if you want to hear a noise."

He had some one to let him know when he had spoken an hour, and here is the way in which he killed time:

"I see a man strut through the jam in a hall. Take a seat 'mid the speakers and 'la, 'la, 'la, 'Murphy?' I ask, 'that the crowd he defies?' 'No,' says someone, 'he's one of the newspaper guys.'"

"I see a man pushing his way through the lines. Of the cops where a fire brightly glimmers and shines. 'Chief Keaton?' I ask, but a fireman replies, 'Oh, no that's one of those newspaper guys.'"

"I see a man start on the trail of a crook. And he scores all assistance, but brings him to book. 'Mr. Burns?' I inquired. Someone scornfully cries—'Burns? Naw. He's just one of them newspaper guys.'"

"I see a man walk through the door of a show. Where great throngs are blocked by the sign 'R. O.' 'Is this Goodwin himself, that no ticket he buys?' 'Well, hardly. He's one of those newspaper guys.'"

"I see a man knock on a president's door. And the sign—'No admittance'—completely ignore. 'Is this Morgan that procy's rights he defies?' 'Morgan? Shucks! It's just one of those newspaper guys.'"

"And some day I'll walk by the great streets of gold. And see a man enter, unquestioned and bold. 'A saint?' I'll inquire, and old Peter'll reply, 'Well, I should say not, he's a newspaper guy.'"

AMUSEMENTS.

Quite a "large crowd" was present last evening at the Colonial Ardmore to enjoy the official program prepared for the third Test of pictures and the vaudeville act of the Bowery Trio. The pictures were pleasing subjects and were very much enjoyed, while the vaudeville act, consisting of a talking and singing program, was liberally supplied by those present. Tonight there will be an entire change of program both in pictures and vaudeville and those who attend will enjoy the evening.

Long & Lambert furnished a very pleasing entertainment at the Lamar Ardmore last night, their singing and comedy being of a high class and such as will bring the patrons back. They will present an entire change of program tonight and in addition three new reels of pictures will be shown. A large crowd witnessed the performance last night and the applause indicated that those present were delighted with the entertainment.

Manager Tritch of the Gem Theatre continues to give his patrons one of the best picture programs that can possibly be arranged and as a result the attendance at this popular place continues to tax the capacity of the building. The picture program is not only pleasing but the singing of Miss Baker adds largely to the program for voice being well cultivated and far above the average.

The BUSINESS WOMAN in SUMMER

A Hat that is Both Shady and Rain-Proof

Smart Little Gingham may be Bought Ready-Made

A Best Frock Not Too Dressy for an Office Appearance

The Gentlewoman in Business Recognizable by Her Dress—Tailored Blouses Better Than Lingerie Styles—The Hat Question

Columns and columns have been written about the desirability of inconspicuous and unelaborate dressing in the business office, but only the women who habitually dress that way ever pay attention to the advice. There are scores of business women—so called—who set forth for their long day's work decked out with an elegance which the society woman would consider impossible and absurd before the late afternoon calling and tea hour. Satins, velvets, ostrich plumes, white kid gloves—you meet them all in the jammed subways and on the ferry boats in the "rush hours," and the obvious inference is that the little stenographer, bookkeeper or clerk has invested every bit of her salary in finery at the expense of her living comforts and a saving toward the inevitable rainy day.

Silk stockings, drop earrings, willow plumes and chiffons are all very well in their way, but that way does not lie along the business thoroughfare. If a young man has no "social circle" and contentedly presents himself for the donning of his dress clothes, he does not wear them at business, but leaves them at home in his wardrobe and appears in his office in the neatest, most appropriate business dress that he can command on his means. The fashionably dressed young man has little place in the serious affairs of the business world, and if business girls would but realize it, it is the trimmings that they should discard, not the substance. The men who occupy positions of trust, responsibility—and high salaries in business offices.

There is no reason, however, why perfectly appropriate business dress should not have an attractiveness—and even a coquetry of its own. A girl who possesses that essence of femininity—personal charm—cannot hide it under the severest uniform of serge skirt and shirtwaist—the hated costume which has come to be the accepted type of office garb. Above her trim little boots, this charming business girl's serge skirt will hand faultlessly and above her trim belt her shirtwaist will fit without a wrinkle. And there will be a perfection in her coiffure, her collar and her general grooming that will make the lace waist, velvet neck of her associates at the next desk look inexpressibly cheap and tawdry.

The importance of a smart street costume. The business girl who is clever with her needle may make herself dainty blouses and even whole frocks for summer wear at her office, or may buy such blouses and frocks at the late-season sales, which are full of economy gleanings for those who visit the shopping belt after the big harvesting has been done, but one good looking tailored suit of durable material she should have, and such a suit, if carefully selected in the first place for its inconspicuous style and smart lines, should last two seasons. This suit, which should be of serge or mixed worsted material, may be worn through the spring and late into the autumn, but as soon as cool summer weather appears it should be put away on its hanger and a cool suit of linen or mohair substituted. A little money spent in a light-weight suit of this sort will add infinitely to the comfort and happiness of the business woman in summer time. One feels and looks—so fresh and charming in a cool, thin suit and summery hat on a sultry morning, and nothing is more pathetic on such a morning than the business woman who goes down town in a hot wool skirt and shirtwaist, with possibly the jacket of the wool skirt—as an apology to the conventionalities—over one arm. A delightfully cool little suit of gray or tan serge may be picked up late in the season under ten dollars, and in this suit, a thin, but not lacey blouse, a smart hat of the tailors drape and a smart but not an expensive parasol, the little business girl will be correctly dressed and will look the body from her well-groomed head to her neatly shod little toes.

Mohair crumples less easily than linen and needs no pressing for hours and needs no ironing for hours. The little business girl will be correctly dressed and will look the body from her well-groomed head to her neatly shod little toes. Mohair crumples less easily than linen and needs no pressing for hours and needs no ironing for hours. The little business girl will be correctly dressed and will look the body from her well-groomed head to her neatly shod little toes.

There is no reason why the business woman should not have the pleasure of wearing fresh, dainty, washable dresses in her office provided they are checked and striped gingham in neutral colorings or in the always desirable blue tones, which are to be had made up in exceedingly pretty styles at very little prices. Two or three dollars will often buy a smart little gingham or lawn frock which could not possibly be made at home in the same style at less cost. Manufacturers of these frocks employ very clever designers, who modify latest Paris fashions for reproduction in materials that are bought at low prices because of immense quantities, and the little trimming touches, stitchings, platings and the like make these ready-made costumes very chic and charming.

A ready-made gingham frock of this type is illustrated. This little frock is made of gray and blue-striped gingham, with stitched bands of plain blue. The shape of these trimming bands is very effective and the buttons are covered with corse silk; the parasol is in the same shade and the big black hem hat has a box of corse velvet slanted smartly across the turnback brim.

Blue and white foulard with blue chiffon under white chiffon would make a pretty combination for this dress, or green and white striped silk with green and white chiffon.

It is to be presumed—and also to be hoped—that the business woman has some friends beside the agreeable young bookkeeper who gives her a dainty voile or marquisette with a little circle of women-friends who help to make the humdrum life happier by occasional pleasant occasions. One costume she should have that never goes out of fashion—her costume for social hours entirely and ten times more delightful on that account. This costume in summer time may be a lingerie frock of some sort, or perhaps a dainty voile or marquisette with a touch of becoming color. A simple but charming frock of machine embroidered cream voile is pictured. The tulle falls over the hem of one of pale lavender tulle. The next of orchid mauve batiste and the lowest hem of dark violet tulle. These three shades are repeated in the skirt and the hat is faced with violet velvet and trimmed with a white feather wreath. Very dainty embroidered "corse robe" patterns may be picked up now at moderate prices and any clever girl with the aid of a seamstress should be able to put one together in the simple blouse and tunic fashion pictured, the shaded violet hems being mounted on an under petticoat of silk mull or cotton mousseline.

Pretty and Practical Hats for Business Women. The hat question is liable to be a vexing one to the girl who goes to business. So many hats are worn out in turn by the daily trips, the changes in weather for which one is not always prepared, and the dust of a busy office which will sift into cloak rooms and wardrobes. The business girl who is young enough should wear in summer one of the smart and becoming sailor hats in a shape that is at the moment fashionable. If a sailor does not become her, a flexible outing hat of Panama will be the best choice, and this may be smartly trimmed with a scarf of pongee or Persian patterned silk, with perhaps a quill or two to lend dash. The caddy business woman chooses a hat small enough and flexible enough to permit of her leaning her head back comfortably in the car going home at night. When one is tired out, with perhaps the misery of a headache, to add to one's troubles, it is most trying to be obliged to sit bolt upright for half an hour in the car because one's hat brim will not permit one to lean back.

The pretty flower-trimmed hat is a model that was trimmed by the way, by the little business girl of her dainty frocks, spoken of earlier in this chat. The hat is a modish, yet not extreme shape of milan straw, and the crown is covered with javais, a box of violet-velvet adding depth of color at one side.

RARE EXHIBIT PUT IN LIBRARY MUSEUM

Omaha, Neb., July 7.—An exhibit of a decidedly unusual character has just been added to the splendid collections in the Omaha Public Library museum, and it is quite unlikely that any museum in the United States, barring the American museum of Natural History, New York, can boast of anything like it. The new feature comes from Washington county, Neb., and credit for its display is due to Gus Suverkrubbe, a former resident on what is known as the old Higgins place, on the Ridge road between Omaha and Fort Calhoun. The exhibit was secured for the library by W. H. Woods of Page Calhoun and it will attract probably a greater amount of interest than anything in the entire museum, once it is made known that it is ready to receive visitors.

The new feature is the contents of a large Indian mound along the road near the Suverkrubbe place, about three years ago. Originally the mound was about fifty-five feet long, thirty to forty feet wide and four feet high. Before fences were placed along the road it had been plowed to corn and Gus Suverkrubbe, rather told he had plowed it for many years in an attempt to level it down. When Gus Suverkrubbe began operations the mound had by constant plowing developed two separate elevations.

It is not the mound, which by the way, was a structure similar to those in the great mound builder area of Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Missouri, but to its contents that interest attaches and for these reasons—it represents a time in the past history of Nebraska, and in fact, the United States, when the Indian inhabitants were losing their art of manufacturing stone implements and taking into themselves those of white man's make. Stone implements were used in America for thousands of years, but when better tools made by the whites became available the Indian dispensed with his primitive tools and adopted those of the invader. Therefore the time he used both steel and stone was comparatively short. The contents of the Suverkrubbe mound prove that it was built during this brief period.

Bones Painted Black and Red.

Mr. Suverkrubbe found at one end of the mound the skeleton of an adult and a child surrounded by a variety of implements, but first of all a description of the skeleton is in order. The adult skeleton had been buried as bones, that is, after the flesh had been removed from the skeleton, the bones were laid after they had been painted black, a very unusual color for Indians to decorate the bones of their dead, and one which I am informed by a leading anthropologist, never before heard of in this country. The child had been laid in the grave after a dissection of the body. From the opposite end of the mound the calvaria of a skull was taken which had been painted vermilion before interment.

Nearby the adult and child were a dozen copper bracelets, several of which more of copper bells, sometimes tied at the knee during dances commonly designated "hawk bells" a Micmac pipe, a type rarely found in this part of the country; sheet copper, copper cones, copper wires, portions of an old fashioned bowie knife, including the hilt or hand guard; arrowshaft polishers—probably of white man's manufacture; a fine mound builder type of stone ax adorned with a cross or swastika cut into the compact tray rock of which it is made; the incisions being rounded off through long service; a string of forty-six inches of China clay beads (identified by M. D. Franks, the Omaha lapidary) with which is one Indian made bead of Mexican origin. These beads, according to Mr. Franks are very old and probably were made in Austria. No such beads adorn any of the bead-worked Indian garments found in museums nowadays. A peculiar and curious design made of talons of a large hawk or eagle and several flint knives, blades and scrapers.

Mummyfied Body. A remarkable feature is a large part of the cuticle from the back of the child which has been preserved by contact with copper carbonates from the objects of that metal placed in the grave. Many of the bones have turned green in color from the copper objects. Around the ears of the child was wound copper wire, which Mr. Suverkrubbe cut off with his pocket knife, but the ear bones were saved, the former, like the child's skin, having become "mummyfied." To one part of the child's cuticle from the back of the neck dark colored hair is still attached.

All the skeletons taken from the mound were presented to me by Mr. Suverkrubbe and were brought to Omaha a year ago last February by Rev. Ralph W. Liders of South Omaha and myself, we packing the bones on foot to Florence from the Suverkrubbe home.

The bones and all the other objects in the mound are now in the glass case in the Omaha public library museum. A study of the adult skull will reveal a remarkable hodgepodge. In profile it has an absurdly small forehead but normal supraorbital ridges. It seems to be similar to the well known Mound Builder type. It is probably the lowest browed skull ever found in America, but is plainly an Indian cranium and cannot be much over 200 years old.

The Suverkrubbe mound lies along an old Indian trail which had evidently been in use many hundreds of years as it is even now in spots places four feet deep and thirty feet wide after forty years of plowing. The nearby highway which has been in use nearly half a century, is cut into the hill less than a foot. The mound proves conclusively that the Indians did build the mounds—a theory not always accepted.

SUMMER FROCKS IN GREAT VARIETY

HIGH WAIST LINES GIVE CUNNING YOUTHFUL LOOK TO SUMMER GARMENTS.

THE ROYAL RED SHADE

is All the Rage Just Now and Red Hats Are a Fad of the Summer.

New York, July 8.—Delightful summer frocks in bewildering variety are shown in the shops at this time and those, who make the rounds of the shops, with a view of purchasing one of these frocks, find it extremely difficult to choose. All waists are high, not high enough to be embarrassing, but sufficiently above the normal to give a cunning, youthful look to little summer frocks.

This accentuating of the high waistline is due, some dressmakers insist, to a reaction from the straight front corset, which, while it has wrought marvels in the improvement of nature's figures, lengthens the waist and gives a heavy effect between bust and beltline. The high waistline is really more youthful and on some figures it is charming. Sashes seem to belong rightfully with girlish, short-waisted frocks and almost every midsummer costume this season has its sash bow, with or without ends, at the back of the bodice.

The velvet sash may seem a bit cumbersome for midsummer wear in America, where the humidity brings a weather condition absolutely unknown in Paris, but in Paris, just now, these velvet sashes are considered extremely chic.

A Paris frock, worn in London during Coronation week, had three very limp, scant frockies of black chiffon on a white tulle skirt, and, of course, other touches of black in the costume balanced this arrangement of frockies at the foot. Everything that comes out of Paris this year has the touch of black that proclaims it Parisian. There may be a tiny line of black piping at the neck, or a sprinkling of black buttons on a chiffon vest, or perhaps the sash. Chiffon sashes are extremely graceful, but, of course, the material must be substantial enough in order that it shall not fly about and spoil the lines of the frock.

Just now there seems to be a perfect craze for a certain deep, brilliant red shade, the royal red of coronation frocks. Some of the best dressmakers have turned out whole frocks in this blazing color, and as everybody with an observant eye has noted, red hats are a fad of the summer. But red is not a color that is comfortable to wear about in dog-day weather in America, however much they may like it in London for patriotic reasons, or in Paris, where humidity is unknown. Green is more favored in America, and most of the handkerchiefs for the summer wear that are shown in the shops, are of that color.

The long straight lines which, as already stated, are inseparable from the modern mode adapt themselves admirably to the slenderness of the youthful figure, and the debutantes this year may be congratulated upon the fact that they are not required to exploit fashions that are in the least degree exaggerated or outre. On the contrary, they are even now being encouraged to attire themselves in garments which show none of the eccentricities of the hobbie skirt on one hand or the jupe culotte on the other.

A happy medium as regards both length and width will characterize all the skirts of those frocks which are intended for young people, while in the matter of color only the faintest and most delicate shades will be in request. Pale Quakergray will be one of the favorite tints for young girls' summer frocks, and some of the prettiest of these dresses are carried out in gray silk voile, and trimmed with Ostrich lace insertions done to match the color of the voile. These frocks are worn with gray suede shoes and gray, openwork silk stockings.

There is a great variety of summer blouses in the market this season, nearly all of them are pretty and attractive. For tennis and golf special blouses are necessary, as the sheer models in lingerie and lace and hand embroidery are altogether out of place on tennis court and golf links. There are even now being encouraged to attire themselves in garments which show none of the eccentricities of the hobbie skirt on one hand or the jupe culotte on the other.

Some of these blouses in stripes of white and color, buff, pink, blue, lavender, etc., are made up in the simplest fashion without plaits or tucks, with a pocket on the left side, long shirt sleeves and wristbands, and with a white stock and cravat of the linen cloth turn down negligee collar either of white or of the stripe. The same materials are used for blouses with short sleeves and sailor or other turn-down collars, as severe in finish as the others but a trifle less conventional.

This latter style is to be found also in white linen and is as comfortable as anything one could imagine for hot weather outing use, though the effect is rather youthful and the collar is not becoming to all. Such waists in the very fine light weight French plique are still better than the linen models because they mass less quickly yet wear as well and have no transparent effect. Worn with skirts in either of separate skirts they invariably look well.

The pretty white-striped or plain silken garters, either black or navy blue are the great vogue of the moment with regard to tailored suits in Paris and charming they are indeed with their simple row of buttons on the side or down the front, their broad collar of white lace, moire, or silken poplin, and cuffs to match.

The vogue of navy blue and white has in no way decreased; indeed, blue dresses with white revers and trimmings, or white frocks with dark blue decorations, are the order of the day. Hats naturally follow suit, and dark blue straw, Tasse, or Yedda or linen shapes are plentifully trimmed with Florence silk or muslin flowers forming wreaths, sheaves, or sprays of foliage. The latter is pure white upon dark blue, and eminently smart, while a large navy-blue hat began recently at the races, trimmed to match with navy blue silken, peonies leaves and buds, was much admired. The combination of dark blue, crimson, or ruby, red and gold, is also effective.

Pretty light check costumes for morning wear have the collar, lapels and cuffs of plain satin-faced cloth, silk or cotton and a three-inch deep hem of similar plain cloth or fabric upon which the skirt is apparently buttoned, the plain band giving the impression of an underskirt. Another attractive fashion is the narrow apron, either in front or on the side, upon which the skirt is buttoned with five or seven buttons, or buttons and loops of satin. With up-to-date navy blue costumes there is a return to an old-time and charming fashion, that of trimming with narrow bias folds of Scotch tartan taffetas in greens and blues, lightly barred with crimson, yellow and white. These make highly effective cuffs.

The Stringer No. 1 is making enough gas which is now going to waste to heat and light Electric. It is a shame to see this gas escape in to the air, not only is it a direct loss at the present time but the danger of exploding the gas pressure to such an extent that the flow of the other wells will be affected is a still greater and a very important thing to consider. Blue Mass... and cinchona bark once had everything else crowded out of the physician's mind. That was back in the palmy days when it took five balls to walk the batter, foul strikes did not count, and they treated appendicitis with a mustard plaster. That method of procedure was all right. So was the stage coach. However, most of us prefer to wear out the paving in a stately horse man killer that makes the telegraph poles look like a picket fence. Things have changed? Well I should hiccough, and the change includes drug stores. We deliver everything except postage stamps and weather reports.

JUVENILE BRASS BAND MAY BE ORGANIZED. A movement is on foot which has for its object the organization of a juvenile brass band for this city to be composed of about thirty boys ranging in age from eight to fourteen years. The proposition has been submitted to Dr. Dunavski, director of the Wichita Falls Conservatory of Music, who it is understood has had considerable experience in training juvenile bands, and he has consented to give a portion of the time to the work. Dr. Dunavski states that there is nothing that will attract more favorable comment than a juvenile band of trained musicians and that it will be a great advertisement for the city. He, as well as a number of our citizens are very enthusiastic over the matter, and it is understood that an effort will be made to interest a sufficient number of boys in the movement to make it a success. The movement for the organization of a choral club of about one hundred voices is said to be meeting with much encouragement and it is expected that a sufficient number will have been secured within a short time to justify the organization of the club.
