SCOTLAND READY FOR ROYAL FAMILY

PILGRIMS FROM EVERY CORNER OF LAND O' CAKES TRAVELING TO "AULD REEKIE" TO WELCOME KING.

AT HOLYWOOD PALACE

King George and Queen Mary Will Take Up Their Residence for the Summer.

Edinburg, July 15.—From every corner of the land o' cakes pilgrims are making their way today to "Auld Reekie" to take part in the welcome to the King. His Majesty, with the Queen, the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary, will arrive in Edinburg early Monday morning for a five days' visit to Scotland, which will mark the final stage of the royal tour of the United Kingdom, following the coronation. Preparations which have been under way for months are virtually completed, and when the royal train steams into the Caledonian railroad station at 6 o'clock Monday morning the machinery will be set in motion for what is expected to be one of the most remarkable demonstrations of the kind that Scotland has seen in years. The royal family will reside in Holyrood Palace during their stay in Edinburg. It will be remembered that in 1593, nine months after their coronation, King Edward and Queen Alexandra came to Scotland and held levee and court at Holyrood—for the first time for eighty years. Their majesties did not, however, take up their residence in the palace, but occupied Dalkeith House, which was placed at their disposal by the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch.

Old Holyrood Palace, which under King George is now to become once more brilliant with regal ceremonies was originally a convent, supposed to have been founded in 1128 by David I. The legend is that the king was hunting in the forest of Drumcruick when he was attacked and would have been killed by a stag that had gone mad but for the miraculous rood or cross that suddenly appeared and caused the animal to flee. In gratitude for his deliverance, David endowed the church of the Holy Rood for the Canons of St. Augustine, giving them the privilege of erecting a borough between their church and the city gate, now known as Canongate. The abbey seems to have become a regular royal residence in the time of James IV, and James V built the apartments known as Queen Mary's. With the exception of these apartments the whole palace was burned at the close of the civil war, and Charles II. erected the present palace. In view of the forthcoming royal visit extensive improvements have been made at the palace. The scheme as adopted included the opening up of three of the state rooms, overlooking the quadrangle on the east side, and the installation of electric light, hot water heating apparatus, and telephone communication between various apartments. The royal apartments have been redecorated, the servants' accommodation has been improved, and the whole building has been overhauled and cleaned.

On Tuesday next the King and Queen will pay a visit to Edinburgh Castle. This edifice, ancient though it looks, is not as old as it seems. The greater part of it was built since 1573. Queen Mary's room and St. Margaret's Chapel are the oldest parts remaining. On the third day of the royal visit the King and Queen will attend St. Giles' Cathedral in the morning for the dedication of the Chapel of the Thistle. St. Giles' is one of the most historic structures in the ancient city. It existed, at least in part, as early as 1559, and only gradually it attained somewhat the appearance it has at present. In this church the Solemn League and Covenant was sworn and subscribed to by Parliament, the General Assembly and the English Commissioners in 1645. It was in this church, too, that Jenny Dudgeon in 1827 flung her stool at the Dean's head when he began to read the hated liturgy. St. Giles' contains many tablets and other memorials to distinguished men, especially to soldiers and officers.

On Wednesday afternoon the King and Queen are to lay the foundation stones of Casher Hall. This hall is to be built out of a fund donated by the late Andrew Usher, senior partner in the great distilling firm which bears his name, and is to be utilized chiefly for promoting the cultivation of, and taste for music.

The program for the royal visit also provides for a review of the Scottish troops by the King, a visit by the Queen to the Women's and Children's Hospital at Bruntsfield, a visit to the Royal Scottish Academy, a visit to Linlithgow Castle, and an inspection by the King of the veterans, the boys' brigade, the boy scouts and a detachment of boys from Queen Victoria

School at Dunblane. The purely social functions will be confined to a levee at Holyrood Palace on Tuesday and a court at the same place Wednesday night. The visit will conclude with the departure of the royal family from Edinburg Friday morning.

MANY HONORS FOR DIAZ IN EUROPE

BRILLIANT RECEPTIONS AND FETES IN PARIS AND ELSEWHERE.

SEEMS TO BE HAPPY THERE

New York and Berlin Bankers Active Rivals for Investments of French Savings.

Paris, July 15.—Gen. Porfirio Diaz has received many official honors in Paris. Among the Latin American residents of the capital his presence has been the occasion of a series of brilliant receptions and fetes. The former president of Mexico was received by President Fallieres at the Elysee and later the President paid a return visit to the Mexican. Senora Diaz and Mme. Fallieres also exchanged visits.

Several hitherto unchronicled incidents of the long voyage on the German steamship Pinarosa from Mexico have been told by fellow passengers as interesting side-lights on the aged soldier's personality. General Diaz mingled freely with all and talked on a variety of subjects. Outspoken thoughts of bitterness at his revolting fellow-countrymen formed the least place in these talks so eagerly indulged by fellow travelers, anxious to get a close-to-hand view of the man accredited with the building up of modern Mexico.

The great topic of interest to General Diaz was the old world, whose shores he was approaching for the first time in his life. He wanted to know all about the nations of Europe, and especially of France and of Paris. He recounted often his experiences with the troops of Napoleon III. to help the Maximilian campaign when he was made prisoner by the French officers, who treated him, however, with the greatest courtesy, more, indeed, as a friend.

He was greatly affected by the demonstrations of welcome at the Spanish ports. Unlike the times later when he was officially greeted in England and France, he was more at home here—for those about spoke his own Spanish tongue. At Santander boat loads of enthusiastic visitors brought him masses of beautiful flowers. The president was literally buried under floral pieces, made up from the finest beds of Spanish gardens. Somebody estimated these flowers as worth at least $2,000.

The day after leaving Santander General Diaz saw the purser, "Parsner," he said. "I think we'd better throw those flowers overboard now. It was very nice to have given them to me but I have no use for them." On the way to his cabin he said to a friend: "After all, flowers are all humbug. I would have been better to have spent the money on the poor."

At Havre as he was about to land General Diaz said:

"I am going into a vast country whose languages I do not know. Alas I fear I am too old to learn." Then with a gleam in his eyes and a straightening of his shoulders, he added: "But Europe has much to interest me; I am sure I shall be happy here."

The financiers of New York and Berlin are in active rivalry for opportunities to invest French savings, which amount to more than $1,000,000,000 yearly. German diplomacy has sought for ten years to list government bonds on the Paris exchange, but the French government has steadfastly refused their admission. French—three per cents sell at 96 while Imperial German three per cents are usually at about 85. The German government desires to avail itself of the French market for an enormous number of municipal, state and Imperial issues; this releasing German savings for investment in industrial and commercial undertakings.

Berlin bankers have been borrowing great sums from Paris regularly through Swiss houses, but up to the present the French government will not allow German securities of any sort to be openly listed on the Paris Bourse. New York has been able this year to make its first official entry on the floor of the Paris stock exchange, where three different American stocks are now admitted. The probability is that some 20 other companies will receive within the next twelve months official recognition.

The great international aviation contest just ended probably will be the last for this year, as the public has been shocked by the recent fatalities. These deaths have caused much discussion, not only in parliament, but in technical quarters regarding the propriety of offering prizes of from $40,000 to $50,000, and thus attracting daring experiments, who are inadequately trained and using machines which have been subject to no authoritative test or examination.

THE TIMES FOR THE BEST IN PRINTING

Fads and Fashions

New York, July 15.—At this time of the year the selection of a suitable outfit for the summer outing is a matter of serious consideration. The best choice depends in a great measure upon the place where one intends to spend the summer months. A fashionable seashore-resort demands a different outfit from that which would be suitable for a more popular resort and of course, the same may be said as to the requirements in mountain resorts and in lake-resorts.

White serge is an excellent material for shore resorts or yachting and women whose summer plans include a sojourn on the sea shore will find it almost indispensable to provide themselves with one or two frocks of light weight serge in white or in stripes of black upon a white ground. These frocks can easily be made at home or can be purchased for very little at the shops.

The white silk serge, which is found in many qualities in the fashionable shops, may be made up on severely tailored lines or in dressier, semi-tailored fashion, and a little heavy lace either Irish or filet by preference, is often used as trimming, appearing in the shape of a big collar if in nothing else. Embroidered muslin may be used as a collar in place of the lace, and occasionally a model shows a collar of hemstitched chiffon in black color, falling over a collar of the silk or a collar of striped silk in black and white or white and color.

On the white serge frocks and coats similar collar and trimming ideas are exploited and plain one-tone satin in black or bright color is also used for relieving touches. An exceedingly chic little coat and frock costume of fine white serge falling low over a skirt band of black satin and black satin was also used for the collar, cuffs and sash belt of the jaunty short coat, as well as for the buttons of the costume.

Another modish white serge had big revers of hemstitched purple chiffon draped across the front of the coat from the right shoulder to the left side of the high waist line. Big buttons were embroidered in purple and a purple cordellere defined the waist.

But the best looking of the white serges and white and black stripe woodens are the more simply tailored models with color introduced but lightly if used at all. Some French models are stitched in silk of bright color and have touches of the same color about the collar and girdle. Colored linen too is used upon white serge, dull blue, bright brown, rose or green linen forming collar, cuffs and perhaps trimming bands. One good model in white serge had linen trimming in dull blue, and upon this blue linen were narrow bands of white linen set with lines of little black buttons.

Collars and cuffs of white linen hemstitched in bright color are pretty upon a simple, one-piece white serge frock, and a cravat and leather belt may repeat the bright color of the hemstitching. The striped serges require even less trimming than the all white, trimming effects being achieved by clever handling of the stripes, but a mere dash of bright color is sometimes added to the white and black. A rather bright though deep shade of blue is used with white in certain light weight, striped woolen stuffs and silks and it makes up attractively. A touch or two of black adds to the effectiveness of the indigo blue and white and sometimes plain blue is combined with the stripe.

This union of striped and plain stuffs is seen throughout all fashion's province. The French makers are turning out coquettish linen costumes with skirts or frocks of stripe in white and color and jaunty coats of plain linen in the color of the stripe, and there are many linen frocks combining plain and striped materials.

Linen is not an ideal material for seashore wear, as it becomes easily mussed in damp air and quickly loses the crisp freshness which is its chief charm. Nevertheless it is much worn at the shore.

Some of the silks make exceedingly useful afternoon frocks for seashore wear, and foulards are the most serviceable of all, cool, uncrushable, spotproof, impervious to dampness, having in fact all the qualities that defy sea air. Striped foulards are smartly made up in combination with plain color satin or with veiling of one tone voile, marquisette or chiffon, the voile or minion being preferable to chiffon for seashore use. Some of the dotted designs are still modish and these too veil prettily. There are also the facetas, striped, plain, or in shot effects.

Thin muslins, etc., are not very practical morning or afternoon frocks for the shore, though of course they are much worn. The cotton, tannines and voiles, utterly devoid of stiffening keep their freshness better than linens, battistes and other materials of similar character, but of course if one does not mind pressing the latter out after each wearing they may be made to give excellent service. The trig little coats known as top coats are smarter than ever this season. They have lost that unsightly, skimpy air that they bore last autumn and are cut on entirely different lines, many having the fronts cross each other, and while there is no waste of material, the effects is far less confusing and there is a bit of fullness at the back introduced through a narrow plait. Sometimes the plait is arranged in the form of a floating panel similar to that seen on skirts and gowns; then again the entire skirt of the coat will be pulled onto a short waist, giving it a decided empire effect. Such garments are made of silk serge, mohair, sponges, shantung and heavy linen. Big buttons add much to the finished regardless of the material from which it is cut. The idea of wearing shapely collars of black hemstitched chiffon cloth is attractive. The collars are put on white blouses, on light colored marquisette gowns, on black frocks when they are overlaid with a shallow collar of white Irish lace or white chiffon cloth, also hemstitched.

These collars are not always in strict sailor shape. They vary considerably. The points may run out to the sleeves and the back and front, cut off in straight lines. Again, the collar may be as deep as a bib in the back and sharpened off to points in front. One can buy them in the shops but it is better to get the hemstitched material by the yard and cut them according to the desire of the wearer. Lingerie coats for children are made of dotted swiss over pale rose, or blue, china silk. These, with the lovely lingerie hats shown in the best shops, make cool attractive costumes for the little ones.

WEBBAYERS NUPTIALS.
How's Cross Timbers.
One among the prettiest brides that has stood before the hymeneal altar in Bowie for many a day, played in that pleasing role at the Methodist church at 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning, namely Miss Margaret Ayers. The fortunate gentleman was Mr. Luther Webb. Both are most excellent young people and genial favorites here. The ring ceremony was used and Rev. O. T. Cooper performed the ceremony in a most impressive manner, the church being decorated with ferns and flowers.

The wedding was a semi-private affair, only a few special friends having been invited. At the appointed time the couple approached the altar to the air of Lohengrin's wedding march, performed by Mrs. H. Karlsberg, left the church with the air of Mendelssohn's masterpiece pealing in their ears.

The bride was gowned in a tailored traveling suit of blue with hat to match, brown gloves and brown shoes. The groom wore a neat fitting blue serge.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ayers. Mr. Webb is engaged in the cotton business in Wichita Falls.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Webb took the northbound Denver train for Colorado, amid a shower of rice and well-wishes. At Colorado Springs they will join Mr. and Mrs. Curg Brown. Together the party will see the sights at Salt Lake, Portland, Seattle and Yellow Stone Park, and travel together as far as San Fran-

Many beautiful and useful presents were received.

Out of town guests present were: Mr. R. E. Webb, Wichita Falls; Miss Lillie Webb, Wichita Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Adcock, Alford; Miss Bertie Sparkman, Alford; Mr. and Mrs. Newton Ayres, Dallas.

CONCESSIONS AWARDED LAKESHORE ASSEMBLY

Messrs. C. W. Snider, R. M. Moore, J. M. Bland, Dr. Cooper and M. L. Lefter, manager of the Lakeshore Assembly, held a meeting at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon for the purpose of arranging for the concessions at Lake Wichita during the session of the Assembly. The dining service concession was awarded to P. St. Clair who will have charge of all eating places on the ground in addition to the Lakeside Hotel, the Assembly to realize 10 per cent of the proceeds.

The cold drink concession was awarded to W. Newton Maier on a percentage basis on all business transacted other than the business within the Colonnade which was reserved when the contract was made with the Assembly management.

R. M. Moore, acting for the assembly management, will look after the swimming pool and the sale of ice, while arrangements are to be made with Mr. Robbins to handle the boats on a percentage basis. It is also proposed to have a grocery store on the ground for the accommodation of campers and others who may want to buy supplies and in this connection J. M. Bland was appointed to make arrangements with some of the local dealers for this provision, if possible, otherwise the concession will be offered to the public in general.

Full details with reference to the concession matters were not worked out and will be disposed of from time to time, by members of the committee and by Manager Lefter of the Assembly. It is expected to have these matters in good shape by the opening day and to provide every feature that is calculated to add to the comfort and pleasure of the guests. It is planned to operate the merry-go-round and it may be possible that the Ferris wheel will also be placed in service during the assembly.

Greetings For Bishop Bowman.

East Orange, N. J., July 15.—Receiving congratulations from distinguished friends throughout the country, Dr. Thomas Bowman, the oldest bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, today observed his ninety-fourth birthday anniversary, surrounded by the members of his family, giving up a part of the day also to a general public reception.

Services will be held again under the Evangelical tent, corner Broad and 15th streets. Rev. C. P. Mayer, the pastor, will preach and his theme will be "At Home, Going Away from Home, Coming Home to Stay." The services last evening were well attended and the meeting is proving to be beneficial to all.

E. P. Greenwood and Frank Griffin are at Clarendon, Texas, in the interests of the Wichita Southern Life Insurance Co. Charles Kirkpatrick, a young man living near Mablegan lost two fingers on one of his hands and another finger was severely lacerated yesterday while he was trying to rope a horse. Kirkpatrick was on one horse and had hurled the lariat at the other. The rope missed the horse and caught on a stake and in some manner Kirkpatrick's fingers were caught and before he could stop the horse he was riding he had been jerked to the ground sustaining the injury described. The cafe of the Westland hotel was again opened to the public yesterday morning, after being closed for a month. During the closing the kitchen was enlarged materially and a system of ventilation was installed, which will add materially to the comfort of the employees.

Elephant and Donkey Both Ou of Race. New York, July 15.—That race to the White House between Judy, the big Luna-Park elephant, and Jenny II, the donkey, which started from Coney Island one week ago, as a result of a wager between Frederic M. Thompson and Uncle Joe Cannon as to which of the two political parties will win the Presidency in 1912, has been called off. Judy has a nail in one of her forefeet and Jenny II, is suffering from lameness. The two animals reached Darby, Pa., last night and John Evans, the keeper of the elephant, telegraphed to Mr. Thompson that neither of the animals could hold out to reach the goal. They will probably be sent back to New York. Wood blocks for sale. Apply to Superintendent Tracey of the Creosoted Wood Block Paving Company. 54-1fc. Nearly Smothered. Chandler, N. C.—Mrs. Augusta Loman, of this place, writes: "I had smothering spells every day, so bad that I expected death at any time. I could not sit up in bed. I suffered from womanly troubles. My nerves were unstrung. I had almost given up all hope of ever being better. I tried Cardui, and it did me more good than anything I had ever taken. I am better now than I ever expected to be." Thousands of ladies have written similar letters, telling of the merits of Cardui. It relieved their headache, backache and misery, just as it will relieve yours, if you will let it. Try.

$7,000.00 worth of Improved Wichita Falls property to trade for farms, etc. in Texas, Oklahoma or Arkansas. Address Box 547, Wichita Falls. 11-1fc. The North Texas Gas Co. has an exhibition a desk fan operated by gas that is attracting quite a little attention. The fan is made after the design of the ordinary desk fan with a cylinder and cooling attachment beneath the hood to all appearances is very successfully designed and constructed. The claim is made that it can be operated on three feet of gas per day or a total of thirty cents per month. C. A. Walling was in the city today from Burkhmet and reports that a crew of excavators are at work in that community, who are supposed to be laying a pipe line from Petrolia to Electric. Mr. Walling also reports considerable oil and gas interest in that section and states that the demand for leases is growing stronger and as a result increased prices are being paid. We write all kinds of insurance. Phone 694. Kell, Perkins & Cravens, Kemp & Kell building. 52-1fc. The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. will meet next Monday at which time it is expected they will announce the appointment of a successor to Mr. who expects to leave for Chicago about August first. It is understood that a selection has been agreed upon, but the announcement is withheld until ratified by the directors. See Kell, Perkins & Cravens for all kinds of insurance. Phone 694. Room 208, Kemp & Kell Building. 52-1fc. St. Clair Sherrod, who owns a farm six miles west of the city, reports a 4-inch rainfall in that neighborhood on Thursday night. Mr. Sherrod had just constructed a dam across a ravine at a cost of about $300, and says that the lake was filled and that a flow of water 18 inches in depth was escaping through the spillway.

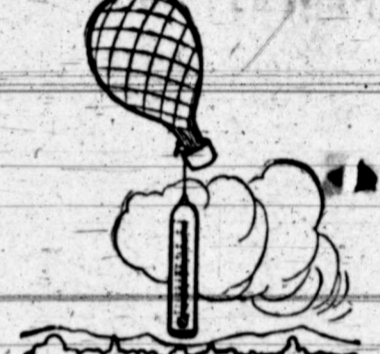

WORKING FOR AMENDMENT. Tyler Women Organize to Make House To House Canvass—Many Speakers Are Billed. Tyler, Texas, July 15.—A large number of women of this place met yesterday afternoon in the basement of Marvin Methodist Church for the purpose of forming an organization for work in the statewide prohibition election. Plans were formed to make a house to house canvass next week. Several ladies have gone to the country to get the country ladies organized for similar work. Tonight at the Baptist Tabernacle H. B. Marsh and T. N. Jones addressed a fair-sized audience in favor of statewide prohibition. W. M. Imboden of Bunk is billed for a prohibition speech here next Thursday night. Judge John M. Duncan of Houston, will visit here next week and has agreed to make the closing speech for the statewidens on Friday night, July 21. It is planned to have speakers out over the entire county every day and night of next week. The only work the anti have done has been in the way of privately canvassing for votes. No speeches have been made.
