IMPORTANT MATTERS TO BE BROUGHT UP

MEETING OF DIRECTORS OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WILL BE ONE OF GREAT IMPORTANCE.

THE INDUSTRIAL SITE

Sewer Pipe Factory, Reduction of Insurance Rates and Building of Auditorium.

Three matters will probably come before the directors of the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow morning. One of these is a movement to reduce the insurance rate in Wichita Falls 12 cents per hundred. President Huff of the Chamber of Commerce has asked the mayor and members of the city council to attend.

Another important matter that will be presented will be a proposition for the location of a sewer pipe factory here. A gentleman is now in the city in connection with this proposition and the matter will come up for consideration.

The third matter and probably the most important will be a report of the committee appointed to receive proposals for an industrial site. It is reported that this committee will present offers of two sites.

At tomorrow's meeting the Chamber of Commerce may be asked by the pastors of the city to cooperate in the building of a large auditorium near the business center of the city. Plans are not yet matured for this project, but developments are expected this afternoon that may place matters in such shape that the matter may be laid before the Chamber of Commerce in some detail.

Decatur to Have Bond Election.

Decatur, Texas, Nov. 13.—At a called meeting of the city council, the council acting as agents for the town, entered into an agreement with Judge Coover, owner of the Decatur Water, Light and Power Company, whereby the city contracts to purchase the plants, provided the trade is ratified by a vote of the taxpayers of the city at an election to be called for that purpose in a short time. The sum agreed upon was $10,000, but the bond issue to be submitted to the citizens will call for an issue of $18,000, of which amount $8,000 is to be applied to improvements in the plant.

Another provision made in the contract entered into Saturday night is that should the bond issue fail to be approved by the Attorney General, then the contract between Judge Coover and the council becomes null and of no effect.

Much trouble and impetuosity has been experienced here with the lighting and water service. Since the serious damage by fire to the plant, two months ago, the town has been without electric lights, and owing to the damaged condition of the machinery at the water plant, that service has been very unsatisfactory to the people and the approval of the Attorney General is secured, to rebuild the plant and install modern machinery, allowing the patrons several months' grace.

Which (Mr. Wilson) developed genuine liking for the town and believes that there is a great future for the city when the people are ruled by the way, Wilson. Just the ordinary kind of a salesman. Just to hear him you'd think he was a preacher, he says he does preach to everybody he talks with and in this he believes he gets to a larger audience than any preacher almost country. Shortly after Wilson last year The Times got in shipment of paper. It wouldn't feed through the press, didn't know at the time that the

Only Governor Can Now Save Beattie From the Electric Chair

Richmond, Va., Nov. 13.—The supreme court of appeals today denied the petition for a writ of error by Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., convicted of murdering his young wife last July. Decision on appeal from Chesterfield court, which sentenced him to die in the electric chair Nov. 23, is final. Only the Governor can now save the condemned man.

LITTLE GIRL DIES FROM ACCIDENTAL SHOT

Fort Worth, Texas, Nov. 13.—May Sheriff, aged 19, was accidentally shot by two boys while hunting yesterday and died this morning.

The boys who are two years older than the girl, were released on bond today. They claim the child ran in front of them while they were shooting at a tree with a target rifle.

The shooting occurred on East Bluff street near the Rock Island tracks. The wounded child, moaning in pain, ran over a block before she swooned and fell in the arms of her cousin, Grace King.

When the two boys were taken to the home of the girl for identification the Williams boy broke down, and looking at the pallid face of the little victim, exclaimed: "Little girl, I didn't mean to shoot you. Please tell them that I didn't do it on purpose."

The shooting was done with a 22 target rifle. Both the boys rented guns Sunday afternoon from a local gun store and started out to shoot birds. When found by the police they had a gunny sack partly filled with grass birds and woodpeckers.

The bullet which struck the child is a 22 short. The ball hit her in the middle of the back and ranged upward, finding lodgment in the region of the heart.

At the time of the shooting the girl and her 12-year-old cousin, Grace King, were playing on the commons near the Terminal elevator. The boys, with their rifles, came on the scene and commenced firing in the direction of the girls, ostensibly to try their skill on a large wooden post.

The Sheriff girl came to Fort Worth with her parents three weeks ago from Cooldge, Texas. They have been residing with J. H. King, a relative, at 1214 East Weatherford street. Mr. Sheriff is employed by the Fort Worth Furniture Company.

FOREIGNERS LEAVING CITY OF NANKING

London, Nov. 13.—A cable dispatch from Tien Tsin announced that Yuan Shi Kai arrived in Peking this morning, and will have an audience with the regent today to discuss the situation. It is said Yuan will not accept the premiership.

Nanking, Nov. 13.—American and other consuls and foreigners under their protection will leave the city immediately. The commanders of the foreign warships today notified the consuls they could not protect those remaining inside the city.

At the Colonial. Hotel Castoria is the title of a three-act play at the Colonial tonight to be presented by the Bush & Loaders Company of comedians. The play is called a non-sensical farce comedy. Its only object being to make one laugh, and in this it succeeds all the way through. The Bush & Loaders Company come here from a summer's engagement at Houston, where the papers speak very highly of the players as individuals and the company as a whole. In addition to the stock company's production, there will be two reels of pictures on the Colonial program tonight.

PRESIDENT GOMPERS' ANNUAL REPORT

HEAD OF AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR PREDICTS GREAT CHANGES IN METHODS OF GOVERNMENT.

THE DEMANDS OF LABOR

Gompers Sets Forth Some of the Recognized Demands—Tells of Progress.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 13.—President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, in his report submitted today to the delegates of the 31st annual convention, predicted great changes in American methods of government, particularly with regard to political parties. He gave to the referendum, initiative and recall the unqualified endorsement of organized labor and declared that a real, representative democracy had never been known in the United States because of the general absence of those provisions.

This semi-dedication of judges," he said in defense of his endorsement, "this sanctimonious cant about rule more of which was in President Taft's message vetoing the Arizona statehood bill, is mere drivel."

President Gompers' report, which covers 60 closely printed pages and would make more than 30 columns in a newspaper, says it leaves many subjects untouched or inadequately presented.

In the main, the report declares for and says organized labor demands:

The referendum, the initiative and the recall.

Passage of the so-called anti-injunction bills at the next session of Congress.

Restriction of immigration.

Further restriction of convict labor.

Legislation to relieve civil service employees from the executive orders prohibiting them to petition Congress.

Uniform laws for protection of life and health in factory buildings.

A department of labor in the Federal government.

Employer liability and Workmen's compensation acts throughout the States.

Severe arraignment is made of so-called scientific management or Efficiency systems.

With its membership now more than 1,750,000, the greatest in its history, and its financial condition excellent, the organization often called the greatest altruistic institution of the times enters the thirty-first year of its work.

"Despite all opposition of the most relentless kind the American labor movement grows and thrives. Its beneficent influence for the common uplift of labor and all our people extends to all fields of useful activity and is becoming more generally recognized. The power which labor holds within its grasp is understood by our opponents perhaps better than that of the toilers. The fact is that labor's opponents, like the Tories of the past, many of whom are still with us, are afraid to trust the people."

"With power in the hands of labor and of the people generally comes a quickening sense of responsibility. And though errors are liable to occur they bring experience, and an avoidance of recurrence. The errors or encroachments of the few or of an autocrat teach them no lessons and are rectified only by the people's revolt. How perfectly safe freedom is, is a truth not yet fully understood," said the report.

"Labor's contentions of many years have become merged, or have rather coordinated with those of the progressive of all parties. The people as a whole, irrespective of class, conditions, calling or partisan alignment have declared for freedom in fact and not merely in name. They are taking affairs political into their own hand. They will no longer tolerate the sale of legislation to the highest bidder or the granting of franchises to the richest bidder. Under the coming regime, assuredly there are to be no more court decrees entered as prepared in advance and ordered by the attorney for the stronger party—stronger politically and financially."

"In lieu of the political boss and his machine, we shall have leadership of intelligence, pleading for public justice with adherence proportioned in number to the strength of the arguments. The stuffed ballot box, the false count, and the perjured election returns will likewise disappear. With these opportunities, with those stimulating inducements to free thought

40,000 CARTLOADS OF ROTTING GARBAGE

Health Department of New York City May Be Forced Into Controversy With Teamsters.

New York, Nov. 13.—If garbage carters strike is not broken today, the health department will take a hand to save New York from the rotting stench of forty thousand cartloads of refuse that has accumulated. The health department men took out several hundred barrels of disinfectant to sprinkle on piles of rotting garbage in the poorer districts.

Fear of strikers and their leaders has kept professional strike breakers from accepting the high wages the carters offer for substitutes and the threat of the teamsters' union has kept contractors from bidding to do the work usually done by the city. The police believe the severe clothing ordinance issued to the mobs yesterday has taught the strike sympathizers a lesson. Although yesterday's riots were the most extensive that have taken place there were no fatalities and no hospital cases, the number of arrests being remarkably small.

Under the prevailing system of cur and dried platforms, and saloon nominations, provided by fake primaries, the ballot in our hands has not been, in any edifying sense, either a protecting shield against wrong or a means of redress. We may not for some time be entirely rid of the rule of parties. If they are ever, they are such as are incident to all governments based on popular suffrage. It does not advise, or rather impudently waste our energies now in efforts to abolish political parties. Perhaps they are institutional in all free governments. But if we can not now destroy them, we may, by more arduous and regular exercise of our privileges and rights of citizenship, do much in the way of controlling them.

Under existing conditions, we must obtain various measures of legislation at the hands of dominant parties in legislative bodies, and party affairs are to remain in the hands of corporate agents and corporations as heretofore, then our interests will be imperilled and the desired relief retarded, no matter which party has the majority."

Mr. Gompers refers very briefly to the contempt of court proceeding against Vice President John Mitchell, Senator Morrison and himself which are still pending before the courts in the District of Columbia.

The McNamara case, however, is taken up at some length and fully reviewed. President Gompers expresses his faith in the innocence of the men now on trial at Los Angeles for alleged dynamiting outrages and denounces in unmeasured terms their removal from Indiana to California.

The Wilson bill, now pending in Congress, a so-called anti-injunction measure, which has the support of labor, is warmly endorsed and President Gompers calls upon all organized labor to work for its early passage.

Mr. Gompers expresses the belief that if united action the Wilson bill may be passed at the next session, and he expresses the opinion that even should it be vetoed by President Taft, a great victory would be partly won.

He declared labor could expect little voluntary help from the President on the anti-injunction legislation.

To the subject of immigration, much of the report is addressed. Several plans are proposed for bringing the migratory laborer into the ranks of organized labor. Further restriction of immigration is deemed necessary and schemes of distribution of immigrants are discussed.

"Turn which way we may, the fact invariably confronts us in our endeavor to ameliorate the lot of the laborers now in America, that there must be a restriction of immigration. Restriction, as recommended by the United States Immigration Commission, is, if not the first step toward organizing migratory laborers, at least an essential step. There are sufficient workers on the Pacific Coast at the present time, were their shifting about intelligently systematized, to perform all the pressing work there throughout all the seasons of the year. The main trouble has been that the employers have not paid adequate attention to the laborer as a social entity except at the moment when one is to be hired. Society has

DARING OF LIFE SAVERS ONLY HOPE

IS DRIFTING ONTO ROCKS

High Gale Drives Steamer Toward Rocks Between Cape Disappointment and North Head

Astoria, Ore., Nov. 13.—The steamer Washington, which ran aground on Peacock point Saturday, is being driven by a southerly gale toward the rocks between Cape Disappointment and North Head. It is believed that many of the fifty persons on board are doomed. A landing party consisting of a doctor, a nurse and a priest is on the steamer. No signal from the steamer could be seen. It is believed the ship is full of water. The life savers are prepared to launch their boat at any moment and attempt to save the crew of the Washington. Two of the crew of the Washington were rescued yesterday and are now in the city. The only hope for those on board is the launch of the life savers who are waiting for the vessel to drift close enough to shore that the launch might be first to reach it.

The steamer's crew of 50 persons, including the captain, were not rescued from the wreck until late Saturday night. The crew of the Washington were rescued yesterday and are now in the city. ## PERSONAL WORK TO REACH UNSAVED

Plans Laid This Morning for an Aggressive Campaign—Services Changed to Church.

Saturday's high wind put the big tent in which the Ham revival has been in progress out of commission and today it was rolled up and shipped to the owners in Dallas.

The meeting for the Sunday service was transferred to the First Baptist church where it will be continued this week.

At the special meeting service Sunday afternoon, Evangelist Ham spoke on "Personal" to practically all the men who could find seats in the main auditorium of the building. The discourse was a characterization of all of these special services. The most important of the service results was brought about through the efforts of Elder A. H. Carrigan in raising a collection of $1,000 to pay on and toward the incidental expenses of the meeting.

Sunday night every available seat was taken, all the aisles were filled with chairs and there were yet others leading from where there were none. The evangelist preached from the text "What Will You Do With Your Money?" The invitation given at the close of the service did not meet with a ready response and only a few of the unsaved moved out and made an apparent demonstration of interest in themselves and their eternal welfare. There were several conversions, however, before the final close of the service. A number of Christian people joined in prayer until a very late hour.

At the service this morning plans were laid for an aggressive campaign of personal work, and workers will all upon matters of the unsaved this afternoon in response to requests from friends who are interested in them. Evangelist Ham is impressed that something very much out of the ordinary must be done to reach this city, or town and it is likely some plan will be evolved in the hope of arresting attention of the unsaved and leading them to a knowledge of the Savior.

Services will be held each morning at 10 and at 7:30 every evening this week.

TRANS-MISSISSIPPI CONGRESS TOMORROW

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 13.—A thousand or more delegates are in the city to attend the annual meeting of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress, which will begin its sessions in convention hall tomorrow.

Among the participants will be the governors of several States, mayors of cities, prominent railroad officials and representatives of commercial, industrial organizations throughout the West. Many matters of importance will be considered during the meeting. The principal ones, however, will be the repeal of prohibition, projects of the West, the development of Western roads, immigration and river transportation.

Annual Carnival Opens in Houston. Houston, Texas, Nov. 13.—Houston's annual fall carnival opened today with the arrival of a large number of visitors from all parts of Texas. An elaborate program of entertainment including street shows and acrobats, fireworks, college football games and aeroplane flights, will carry the festivities through the entire week.

To Vote on Commission Plan.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Nov. 13.—Council Bluffs will hold a special election tomorrow to decide on the commission plan of municipal government. Advocates of the commission plan have waged a vigorous campaign and express confidence today that it will be adopted by a substantial majority of votes.

National Fox Chase.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 13.—The annual field trials of the National Fox-hunters' Association began at Crab Orchard today, with sportmen from various parts of the United States in attendance. The meet promises the best sport in years. The Derby for young hounds, started this morning and will be followed on Wednesday by the All Age Stake.

Cold Wave Extends as Far South as Middle Gulf Coast

The weather bureau promises a general rise in temperature. In a large part of the sugar belt cane is still standing the fields and the cold snap came so suddenly that few planters had time to give any protection to the crop. A temperature of twenty-seven degrees is recorded as far south as Alexandria, La.

TEXAS LEADS STATES IN TURKEY RAISING

POULTRY BUSINESS OF UNITED STATES PASSES $750,000,000 MARK.

EGG CROP BEATS COTTON

Preliminary Report of Census Bureau Deals with Subject of Live Stock and Fowls on Farms.

(Dallas News)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—The poultry business of the United States has exceeded the three-quarter billion dollar mark.

The egg output alone of the United States is greater than the whole American cotton crop of this year should it reach 14,000,000 bales, at the prevailing prices of cotton.

In one of the late preliminary reports of the Census Bureau dealing the subject of live stock and poultry on the farms one phase of the poultry industry of the country is presented. It is the census of number, value and kinds of fowls. It tells only a fourth of the story, for where 295,576,176 birds on 5,335,990 of the 65,340,377 farms of the country aggregate in value $153,391,142, the value of the egg alone of the United States is worth $620,000,000 each year.

The Census Bureau does not take into detailed account the eggs, but it does count the fowls and their value. The Department of Agriculture, however, has exploited the most trustworthy sources of information on egg production, and finds that the annual output of the American hen exceeds $620,000,000. And the egg business is growing rapidly. It is getting less of a pie-money proposition. In four years the egg and poultry business of Kansas jumped from $6,400,000 in 1903 to $10,300,000. In 1910 there were 15,700,000 fowls, nearly all chickens, on the Kansas farms, and the birds alone were worth $7,377,000. The increase in the number of chickens in Kansas in ten years was 3,200,000, and Kansas, at that, is not really and scientifically a chicken State. The exclusive poultry farm, as it exists in the East, is almost unknown in Kansas, yet the Kansas statistics illustrate how the poultry business has grown in the Middle West, where it is still largely an incidental producer of the farm.

The great chicken State of the country, however, is Iowa. Of the 217,044 farms in that State, 204,508 reported a total of 22,691,641 chickens having a total value of $11,632,064. This is an increase in numbers in the preceding ten years of 3,709,000 chickens. Next to Iowa stands Illinois, whose 227,000 chicken keeping farms reported 2,563,850 birds worth $10,941,491. The third rank as a chicken State is held by Missouri, which has an aggregate of 19,919,000 birds valued at $10,822,952, and then Kansas comes in fourth place. These figures indicate an average value of little more than 50 cent apiece placed on chickens on the farms in 1910.

While those leading poultry States have made great advances in the past ten years, Texas together with Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama, have dropped behind. In 1909 Texas was right up with the leaders in the number of birds, with 12,562,302 chickens; according to the 1910 count Texas had but 12,719,572 chickens worth $4,139,450, or about 33 cents each. But, in 1900 the 13,562,423 Texas chickens were worth only $2,595,243, whereas the 12,719,572 chickens in 1910 are worth $4,139,450. The 1910 census has not been worked out sufficiently to indicate what the laying power of the Texas hen was in 1910, but the improvement in the strain of chickens that has been going on steadily in Texas will warrant the assumption that it was considerably higher than in 1900, when the average number of eggs per Texas chicken was 4.3 dozens per year, worth 3 cents per dozen on the farm. Thus, in 1900, Texas was second lowest in the matter of the laying power of its hens, and lowest among the States for the price of its eggs.

Aside from the 45,000,000 increase in the number of chickens in the United States between 1900 and 1910 the poultry business of the country has fallen off heavily. The decreases were: Turkeys from 6,594,695 to 4,888,688; geese, from 5,876,788 to 4,431,623; and ducks from 4,785,850 to 2,904,359. The 1910 census data so far available indicates that while the price of the poultry has increased, the price of turkeys, geese and ducks has increased in proportion to the decrease in numbers. Thus turkeys on the average, have doubled in value, while their number has been cut almost in half.

On account of the importance of the turkey industry and the high favor of the bird with the American people the Census Bureau this year has under preparation a special text on the turkey industry. This text, judged by the preliminary census reports for the forty-eight States and Territories, will show an increase State of affairs. It will show that in every State, save four in the interior mountain region, the turkey has decreased in numbers on an average of 50 per cent.

Texas still retains her place as the leading turkey producing State, but her turkey crop has fallen from 648,671 in 1900 to 368,666. Missouri is second, with 311,575 turkeys though ten years before the Missouri turkey crop numbered 466,565 birds. The falling off in turkeys in other leading turkey States was a loss of more than 200,000 turkeys from Ohio, 200,000 for Iowa and 250,000 for Illinois. In the Eastern and New England States these fowls have been reduced to a few thousand birds in States that once were noted turkey producers. The declination of the turkey flocks in the East has been due principally to the disease known as blackhead, which has made it impossible to successfully raise turkeys in some sections and in other sections has prevented farmers from raising enough to keep pace with the demand of a rapidly increasing population. This has resulted, especially through the development of the cold storage plants and refrigerator cars, in drawing heavily upon the Southern and the Mississippi Valley States for the turkey supply of the East, and wherever freight rates made turkey shipments practical such a heavy drain was made upon turkey country that farmers have not been able to raise the birds fast enough to keep the supply up to a point where it was ten years ago.

Another interesting thing that has been developed by this census is the large number of guinea fowls that is disclosed. These fowls to the number of 1,675,000 are reported for 1910 and a value of $613,282 is placed on them. It is impossible to compare the guinea fowl statistics, as this is the first census in which they have been enumerated separately, having been included with the chicken count heretofore. So great, however, has become the demand of eaters for these birds that the guinea fowl industry in this country is rapidly coming to the front, and it was decided this year to carry the number of guineas and their value in a separate classification for the purpose of comparison in the future. Likewise squab raising in the last ten years has grown into an industry of such magnitude that the census for 1910 enumerates pigeons separately, showing that there are 99,000 farms that raise pigeons, but the number of the birds, exclusive of those raised in cities is 2,309,996 and their value $762,372.

Thus the 1910 census indicates that the principal development in the poultry industry is in the direction of greater egg production; an involuntary decrease in turkeys, so heavy as to threaten the future of the turkey industry; a voluntary decrease in the production of geese and ducks because of falling off in demand, and, finally, the development of a large market for and the consequent greatly increased production of guinea pigs and squabs.

DAY STATE MONUMENT AT PETERSBURG

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 12.—The handsome granite monument erected to the memory of the Massachusetts soldiers who fought and fell on the historic Crater battlefield was dedicated today with impressive ceremonies in the presence of a large number of prominent men from the Day State and many residents of Petersburg and vicinity. Veterans of the Blue and the Gray had an equal share in the ceremonies. Governor Mann of Virginia welcomed the visitors and Governor Foss of Massachusetts delivered the address of acceptance. Alfred S. Roe was the orator of the day and the unveiling ceremony was performed by Miss Ottilie Mahone McGill, a granddaughter of the late General William Mahone. The ceremonies closed with a benediction by Father O'Farrell, captain of A. P. Hill Camp of the United Confederate Veterans.

The memorial consists of a granite shaft 22 feet high, surmounted by a bronze eagle bearing in its beak an olive branch, emblematic of peace. A bronze tablet bears the coat of arms of Massachusetts and another tablet contains the inscription: "To the memory of the soldiers and sailors who gave their lives in the army of the Potomac and the James in the various battles of Virginia. This monument is erected by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

HEARD ON THE STREETS

The ladies of the Christian Church are giving a chili supper at the tent in the rear of the church building.

Dana Sidwell has returned to the city after an absence of five or six months in the north and east.

C. M. Burnett, of Louisville, Ky., is in the city making maps and hunting up data relating to the oil prospect in this section of the State. Mr. Burnett has traveled through Wichita, Archer, Shackelford, Stephens and Eastland counties recently.

I. H. Roberts, the cement man, engaged in the construction in sections of a twenty-two foot cement smoke vent, which when finished will be erected over the building to be used by the Dobson Electric Company. This stack is of reinforced concrete, and will probably be finished in the course of the next few days.

See Mrs. Harry Robertson 1310 13th street at once for hand-painted brooches for Christmas presents. She offers her $2.00 brooches for $1.25 and $2.50 brooches for $1.75 until December 15th only. Supply limited.

The city police rounded up thirty offenders for violations of the law over Sunday. Six were for gambling, six drunks and one affray. So far six plead guilty for intoxication, three plead guilty for gaming and the remainder of the cases are pending. Some of the defendants are demanding jury trials, which will come a later.

W. Lee Moore has about recovered from the injuries received when his carriage went over the dump at the crossing of East Lake, during the exhibition of the Seils-Floto show in October.

I. H. Roberts is putting in the cement foundations for the flooring of the Wichita Valley Mercantile building preparatory to refitting the building for a modern playhouse.

W. W. Wooten, alias Jackson, was arrested Saturday night and lodged in the city calaboose, pending an investigation of a cutting affray in a restaurant on Seventh street. During the difficulty, a Greek by the name of Pete, who runs the restaurant, was seriously cut and is now under the care of a physician. Wooten, alias Jackson, has been turned over to Sheriff Randolph, pending an investigation by the county officials. Wooten himself suffered several cuts.

George Dobson is working the city gang in Barwise & Jalonek's Addition this week, grading and ditching the streets in that part of the city. The improvement will add greatly to the drainage system.

Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Bishop arrive from Fort Worth last evening, and are the guests of Mayor T. B. Noble and family. Rev. Bishop was formerly pastor of the Southern M. E. Church in this city, but is now president of the Southwestern University at Georgetown, Texas. Rev. and Mrs. Bishop will remain in the city a few days.

Arthur Wilson, apostle of optimism and good cheer and representative of the Duplex Printing Press Company of Battle Creek, Mich., is spending a few days in Wichita Falls with The Times force while getting ready to sell his press to several Texas publishers. Mr. Wilson and his estimable wife spent several weeks here a little more than a year ago during which time Mr. Wilson developed a genuine liking for the town and he believes that there is a great future for the city when the "people get right." "And by the way, Wilson isn't just the ordinary kind of a press salesman. Just to hear him talk you'd think he was a preacher, and he says he does preach to every publisher he talks with and in this way he believes he gets to a larger audience than any preacher almost in the country. Shortly after Wilson left us last year The Times got in a bad shipment of paper. It simply wouldn't feed through the press. We didn't know at the time that the fault was with the paper and for a time Wilson's preachments went at a discount in The Times press room and the Duplex press wasn't the occasion of pleasant reflection. However, since that time the press has been doing splendid work and when Wilson dropped in on us with optimism exuding from his beaming countenance and even from his closely cropped head on which gray hairs are beginning to bristle, we were genuinely glad to see him, and although the newspaper man learns to be skeptical, Wilson's preachments have a sort of ring to them that almost convinces us he is more than half right.

The Southwestern Mining and Development Company has been organized at El Paso with a capital of $2,500,000.

Stray Topics From Little Old New York

New York, Nov. 13.—The Metropolitan Opera Company will begin its fourth season under the direction of Giulio Gatti-Casazza next Monday evening with a performance of "Aida" and there is every indication that the opening performance will be a great artistic as well as social success. The cast will include Mme. Dealth, who will sing the title role; Caruso, who will make his reappearance as Iphigene and Margarete, Matzenauer, the new contralto, who is cast for the part of Amneris. Signor Toscanini will conduct. As usual on the opening night of the Metropolitan opera season everybody who is somebody will attend the performance and to figure up the billions of wealth represented by the occupants of the row of boxes in the "golden horseshoe" would make any ordinary mortal dizzy.

The new season promises to be quite interesting to music lovers. One of the interesting announcements is that the new American opera "Mona" the music by Prof. Horatio Parker, of Yale, and the libretto by Bryan Hooker will be given its first production during the season. Other new works to be presented are "Boris Godunoff," by the Russian composer. The season will include several performances of "Parsifal" and a complete cycle of the Nibelung Ring. Last year's operatic novelties, "The Girl of the Golden West," is again to be presented and the repertoire of standard operas will include "Carmen," which has not been heard at the Metropolitan for several years.

Public School 2, located on Henry street near Pike street in Manhattan will celebrate its centenary anniversary next week in a manner befitting the historical importance of the event. The board of education and the graduates of the school have combined their efforts in arranging an elaborate program for the exercises. "The old Seventh ward school" is the name by which the school used to be known for many years in its early history. That was before the district changed and when Montgomery street and Henry street and Pike street were lined with neat brick dwellings with carved doorways and knockers and all that distinguished in those days the homes of substantial citizens. Today about the only English heard in that neighborhood is spoken in the classrooms of the school. Alien languages are heard almost exclusively outside its walls and crowded tenements now surround it on every side.

The site on which the school of today stands was given to the Society for Establishing a Free School in the city of New York by Col. Henry Rutgers. It consisted of two lots and in 1806, when the gift was made, the value of the two lots was estimated at $2,500. The building used at present is the second erected upon the lot. The first school, which was opened on November 13, 1811, accommodated on a pinch 450 children. In the present building there are cruezed about 2,500 children, nearly all Russian Jews. The original building was remodeled in 1834 and still later was torn down and replaced with the building still in use. More than 20,000 of the graduates of this old school are still living and many of them will take part in the four days' celebration planned.

Some members of the gentile sex are not always quite so gentle and amiable as one might expect them to be. It is true, history contains many records showing that tigers are comparatively gentle and harmless creatures compared with infuriated women, yet flagrant examples of the lack of gentleness in women of the present day, especially among those not actively engaged in the suffrage business, are always more or less a shock. There were two such examples within a few days. A constable visited the saloon in Yonkers the other day to confiscate the license, when he was attacked by the woman who runs the place and nine other women. The women beat, kicked and bit the constable and tore every stitch of clothing off his body.

When the police arrived it was found necessary to use a barrel to convey the constable through the streets. ### OIL LOTS FOR SALE

ELECTRA OIL FIELD
$10.00 EACH

The Powell Oil and Development Company owns in fee simple 311 acres of land situated about three miles south, 63 degrees east from the Electra Oil Field. This company is putting 87 acres of this land on the market for the purpose of developing holdings.

The land is a part of the H. & G. N. R. R. Survey of land located in Wichita County, Texas, Survey No. 21, Abstract No. 142.

Oil men of experience consider holdings as being in the heart of the oil bearing territory for the reason that the geological survey marked by the government shows that the oil strata runs northwest and southeast from the town of Electra.

The first shallow oil encountered is about three and a half miles southeast from our holdings. This 87 acres of land is near enough the railroad to afford shipping facilities. It is also within one mile of a two hundred acre tract bought by the Fordyce Oil Company for tankage purposes.

OUR PLAN.

There are 2188 oil lots as shown by plan on file with the county clerk of Wichita County. Each lot contains 600 square feet. The purchaser of each lot is entitled to one share of capital stock of the company, when same is finally organized. When one half of the lots are sold we will at once begin operations on a deep well to be put down to a depth of 2000 feet, unless oil or gas in paying quantities is found at a less depth, and when well is completed it will be turned over to the stockholders to be managed by a Board of Directors. 100 lots in the center of the field will be reserved for the deep well. The price of these lots is $10 cash in hand.

Everything that man or woman needs to eat, wear and drink can be found right here in Abilene. There is no excuse for not patronizing home industries.—Abilene Reporter.

That is a good way to build a city. All-home industries should receive the loyal support of all home people, but those who own the industries should not take advantage of the loyalty of home people and charge them a greater price for their product than the same is being sold delivered at neighboring towns, after allowing freight charges. Under such circumstances, there is the very best of reasons to not patronize home industry, if there is any way to keep from it, but in some cases you have no choice in the matter.

JOE PULITZER.

Joe Pulitzer is dead and buried and there are plenty to pay a tribute to him because he succeeded in establishing two successful newspapers. If this be a test of merit, his great rival, William Randolph Hearst, is a demigod because he has established half a dozen. Joe came to this country, having worked his passage on a steamer from Hamburg to New York City. When he landed in New York, the boat was short of hands, for the civil war having just broken out, everybody was enlisting. They told Joe that he couldn't go ashore, but he must work his way back to Hamburg. In order to escape he dropped over the side of the boat one night and attempted to swim to land, but he was caught by the current and after a long struggle was thrown up on the south shore of Long Island, insensible and as naked as the day he was born. A clam fisherman found him, took him to his cabin, gave him a suit of clothes and he made his way to New York City. He went into the corridor of a hotel to sleep and was kicked out into the street as a tramp. Twenty years after he bought that hotel and demolished it to make room for an office building. He obtained a job as a coachman. Then the huge bonuses offered for volunteers attracted him and he enlisted. At the close of the war he found himself in Memphis. The cholera broke out and no one could be found to dig graves. Joe offered himself and was paid $25 a grave. He had saved his pan in the army and with the money went to St. Louis and engaged as a collector on the old Westliche Post. He was so ugly in countenance that Carl Schurz, the editor, ordered him discharged, because he said, "A man with such a villainous cast of features would bring discredit upon the paper." He was too valuable to be dismissed, for he had the faculty of working 20 hours a day and all his spare time was spent in studying and making up for his meagre education. In revenge for Schurz's treatment, he put all his money into shares of Westliche Post and one day announced to Schurz and Pretorius that the paper must take a definite policy. In alarm they told Joe to set his price on the stock and he finally compelled them to buy him off for $30,000. With this he bought the St. Louis Post. There was an afternoon paper called the Dispatch and for a few hundred dollars Joe bought the Dispatch and united it with the Post. This gave him the Associated Press dispatches. He was utterly wreckless as to methods, but his wonderful capacity for labor soon put the Post-Dispatch on its feet and gave him an enormous income. He dabbled in politics and went to the Missouri legislature as state senator, but in a quarrel with one of the members he fought a duel and inflicted a wound on his opponent from which the man afterwards died. Joe was indicted for murder and only escaped after a long and tedious trial. It gave him an ill name, however, in St. Louis. He went to New York and purchased the World, which was then an organ of Tammany, edited by Manon Marble, who aimed to make it a scholarly and dignified exposition of democratic principles. Joe remodeled it and astonished everybody by attacking Tammany as an organization. But he did several notable things. He raised the money by popular subscription to erect the base of Bartholdi's statue of liberty. He compelled Cleveland to submit the bonus which that worthy assayed to popular approval. In the midst of his efforts William Randolph Hearst descended upon New York and stirred all the heads of Joe's departments, so that one Monday morning Joe found himself destitute of a force between the World and Journal. Ultimately, however, Joe recognized his opponent and several times has published interviews from Hearst. In the meantime, his labors resulted in the loss of his eyesight and towards the end he led a crabbed, irritable life, nervous to the last degree, so that he had to live in a padded chamber that would shut out the noise of the streets. Now that he is dead, people pay him the tribute of respect which success always wins. But Joe paid a high price for it, as most men do, but now that he is dead people yield him the passing tribute of a sigh.—Peoria Star.

motive Boller inspection, the Danbury Matters case, the Senate Third Degree investigation, Seamen's rights, Railroad Track inspection, insurance laws, the strike of the women's Garment Workers, the Baldwin Locomotive works strike and the work of the federation's organizers. Each is treated briefly, reporting progress, but without any recommendations other than those hitherto expressed. The membership of the organization was never so great. According to Secretary Morrison's report, its financial condition is excellent. The Treasury shows a balance of nearly $200,000 on hand. Nearly $5,000,000 was disbursed in support of strikes by the various unions which are affiliated with the Federation. During 1911 the Federation issued 326 charters to unions, bringing the total of its organization membership to 1,464. In individual membership the Federation gained nearly 200,000 during the year.

"The American Federation of Labor through its affiliated organizations has today the largest membership in its history," said President Gompers in conclusion. "Its standing is sound and prospects are bright. In its long drawn out legal contests there is more reason than ever to assume that labor's cause will win. In a number of important strikes during the year, we have had gains, and there has been a tendency to continue the shortening of the work day, to do away with child labor, and to animate the unorganized masses with a desire to take part in the great labor movement."

"Our movement has no schism within. All opposition to its policies, its procedures, its form of organization, and its tactics, come from without. All who would divert it from its established principles are enemies, working for the promotion of institutions foreign to its character. Those who would change it aim at its disintegration."

"This is true whether the antagonist in view is the college president who believes in the right of the non-unionists to work below the union scale alongside of the unionists; or the philanthropist who believes unions should be mere benevolent societies; or the editor who believes that the unionist should be always in his party and a supporter of his interests or the politician who demands that the unionist must always vote his ticket."

"But, it can safely be said, our trade unionism is to witness no integral change in structure, or principle for these are all adaptable to circumstances as they arise—to conditions as they develop."

It is reported that a large cotton mill will be operated at Post City in the near future.

The Real Sherlock Holmes

From the Literary Digest.

Those of us who have read and sorrowed at the death—before his resurrection—of the inimitable Sherlock Holmes will be forced to regret all over again the passing of this famous man. For the real Sherlock Holmes, as so many may know, was a Scotch physician by the name of Joseph Bell, and many cases of skill in deduction are now being retold. Sir Conan Doyle's Sherlock Holmes was, in reality, only a second-rate Bell, and the good doctor, instead of suffering a violent death, passed peacefully away a day or two ago in his home at Edinburgh. Sir Conan Doyle was a wonderful admirer of his and attended many of the doctor's lectures. At those lectures, we are reminded by The Paris Gaulois, Dr. Bell was in the habit of making experiments at random, and after fixing a cold, stern eye on one of his hearers, he for example, would say: "Notice, gentlemen, this man has a callous on the right side of his thumb. I conclude that he is either a cooper or a slater, for this callous is not common excepting in these two professions."

It was all very disconcerting, and the doctor, we are told, could even detect at first sight the profession of a man, and more than that, his criminal past. On one occasion, to a man who entered a room without taking off his hat, he said: "Why, you are a military man; a non-commissioned officer. I should think, and you have spent some time in Bermuda."

Amidst the astonishment that was everywhere shown, and it was shown by all, for he was quite right, he added: "The explanation is quite simple; this man has the walk of a soldier, he entered this place as if it were a bar-room; with a certain air of authority, whence I concluded that he had some rank in the army, but that he is not a commissioned officer, in which case he would have shown better manners. I know that he had been to Bermuda because he as a warrant on his forehead such as is not produced excepting in those islands."

He recognized a cobbler because of the worn place on the knee of his trousers, produced by the last. He also said that a certain child brought in was the first-born because his mother, a young and rather slovenly woman, had put on the head of her child a very expensive cap. There are some extravagances in which a mother indulges only in the case of her first-born, from the joy which she feels on becoming a mother.

He knew the marks of each profession, even to the little rings of flesh which perpetual use of the pen raises on our fingers. He used to know that a woman was a dressmaker from the needle-prints on her flusters, and the pianist because of his short nails and slightly flattened finger ends.

The very soul of a person is indited by his smallest gesture, Dr. Bell would say; and then he would give an exhibition of his powers. But the eminent doctor was well versed in other like arts, and at one of his most recent lectures said:

"As to the handwriting, it is also expressive of our inner being. People of an irregular life have a handwriting which wanders over the page; the miser writes even up to the top of the paper; the suspicious adds a dash at the end of the line so that nobody can add any word, and he seals the envelope even to the very end of the letter. The wasteful person employs large margins, and that on the left hand grows in breadth to the bottom of the page. The ambitious man crosses his t's very high up. The logical man unites all the letters of his words the dreamy man separates them on purpose."

The same paper goes on to tell of another man who has this gift of wizardry. We read:

The last Duke of Laval-Montmorency, who died in 1852, studied these matters and has made many observations. One day while his talent was being discussed by a party in his drawing room a mother, who had many children said to him:

"Well then, tell me what you think of the person, who has written this letter."

The duke looked at the letter, hesitated, and ended by saying: "Please do not ask me."

"Why?" was the answer. "Do tell me what you think."

"This letter is from a young girl."

"It is."

"Then you must keep guard over her, for she is going to do something desperate."

"O heavens! What do you mean by that? This letter is from my daughter, and she is the most quiet girl I ever knew."

Eight days afterward it was learned that this young person had eloped with a young man, whom her mother had refused to accept as a son-in-law.

News From the Oil Fields

Will Prospect For Oil Near Amarillo.
 C. N. Henderson, a well known civil engineer and geologist of Texas, is in Amarillo for the purpose of making extensive tests and examinations near this point for oil and gas. Mr. Henderson is also interested in coal, and states that in his judgment either oil, gas or coal may be found within a short distance of this city, and he will not be surprised if all three of the commodities shall be discovered.

These statements coming from Mr. Henderson are to be taken with appreciable consideration for the reason that he has spent much time on the oil and coal fields not alone in Texas but throughout the United States and in European countries. He declares that the formulators near this city are the same geographic ally considered as are found in the vast California fields, and suggestive in many ways to the experienced eye of the Texas and Louisiana fields.

It is the purpose of Mr. Henderson, and perhaps one or two other gentlemen interested, to test out these conclusions, superficially at first, and later to follow with drilling ventures. Mr. Henderson in conversation with a representative of the Daily News, said: "We will take active steps in this work within a short while, and when drilling is begun, we will not stop short of three thousand feet even if we go that deep without evidences of either oil or gas."

"It is my judgment that we will be amply repaid for the trouble in making this investigation. So strong is the belief entertained, that we are willing to make the necessary expenditure of time and money, for this purpose. The promise seems good for results."

Mr. Henderson is not making a loud mouthed campaign on this matter, but is getting all of the details rounded out, looking to a campaign that will be final in its determination as to the minerals lying beneath the beautifully rounded and fertile surface of the Panhandle country.

Enthusiasm is expressed by a number of those to whom Mr. Henderson has talked regarding the scheme. Worth is attached to the observations of Mr. Henderson, partially by reason of the fact that he has had such broad observation and experience in oil operations throughout the country. He is interested in the Electra field, and has traced out veins of coal where others have failed to find them. He is most hopeful of winning in this undertaking, and is hastening the time for trying out his conclusions.—Amarillo News.

Leasing in Comanche County.
 The Benedict Trees Oil Company of Pittsburg, Pa., yesterday filed 75 oil leases in the Register of Deeds of this county. All of these leases were obtained in the vicinity of Apeaton and it is apparent that this company will soon start drilling for oil and gas.

The representatives of the company have gone over the situation and are confident of finding oil and gas in paying quantities.

It is likely that there will be a rise in the field in the southern part of Comanche county within the next few weeks.—Lawton Constitution.

We are informed by Judge Arnold that a string of tools will be put on the ground this week or first of next for the purpose of drilling for oil in his pasture on Sugar Hollow. This is only about five miles southwest of Newcastle, and a road is now being built in order to get the machinery there. We are glad to see this work begin and hope to see many more derricks around Newcastle.—Newcastle Register.

The Pierce-Fordyce Oil Association has started work on the first of a number of 25,000 barrel oil tanks on the land recently purchased just south of Electra.

The sudden cold snap caught many drillers unprepared at Electra and as a result a number of rigs are shut down until bursted pipes are mended.

The proprietors of a local pool hall were fined twenty dollars in the city court this morning for allowing a minor in their place of business. This case grew out of an incident that happened last August.

INTEREST IN VIRGINIA MURDER TRIAL

Livingston, Va., Nov. 13.—The people of Nelson county are looking forward with much interest to the trial of Ben Hubbard, who is to be arraigned tomorrow on the charge of having murdered Dr. James C. Pettit. Hubbard belongs to an old and prominent family of this section, while his victim was one of the most prominent physicians of the county and a member of Governor Mann's staff.

The murder of Dr. Pettit occurred on the afternoon of September 25 last in front of the Virginia Hotel, in full view of hundreds of country folk who had congregated here, it being court day. Dr. Pettit was settling an account with a client, when Hubbard approached from behind and shot him in the head. Hubbard then walked up to his victim and fired five more shots from an automatic gun. Five of the six shots took effect in the head. Any one of them would have produced death.

The six shots were fired so quickly that no one in the crowd could have stopped Hubbard, but when he had finished shooting a farmer came up and pinned his arms behind him and took the weapon from him. Then a crowd surged around him and the excitement became intense. For a time there appeared to be danger of mob violence, and Hubbard was rushed to the jail. Later he was taken to Lynchburg for safe-keeping.

Hubbard was declined to make any statement concerning the tragedy beyond admitting the killing and declaring that he was justified. As to the motive for the shooting, about all that has been definitely learned is that Hubbard's wife who was in a delicate condition, Hubbard had arranged for a negro to attend his wife and did not want a physician. Hubbard's father had learned of the woman's precarious condition and sent for Dr. Pettit, who did not want to attend the patient because of her husband's objection, but was finally persuaded to do so, and it developed later that the woman probably would have died but for his attention. After the occurrence Dr. Hubbard stated to friends that Hubbard had threatened his life, but that he did not fear him.

Dr. Pettit was 45 years old, and had been practicing here for years. His practice was large and he was very popular. It was for this reason that Hubbard was hurried out of the county after the tragedy.

In the coming trial Commonwealth's attorney Whitehead will be in charge of the prosecution. John L. Lee, one of the foremost criminal lawyers of Virginia, will be the leading counsel for the defense.

Says Practice is a Nuisance.
 To The Times:
 Employees of the city of Wichita Falls doing work on sewers and similar improvements are making a practice of using water from the hydrants of various citizens, agreeing in each case to pay excess meter charges, but it appears that the Water and Light Company has no authority to charge such excess amounts to the city and any person obliging enough to furnish water is put to the inconvenience of making several trips to the city hall to get rebates on water bills, often finding it impossible to locate the persons responsible for the charge. Any citizen having co-operated in this manner is confronted with the alternative of inconvenience and loss of time, or loss of the amount represented by the water used.

The writer is informed by Mr. T. R. T. Orth of the Water and Light Company that cases of this kind have become so numerous as to amount to a nuisance to the water company and its patrons alike, and it is certain that many citizens lose the amounts rather than incur the trouble incident to collection. It is unquestionably the duty of someone connected with the city to relieve this situation.

Yours very truly,
 CLARENDON IONS.

Comparisons are often invidious. The truth of this saying was demonstrated at the city hall this morning when physical encounter was the result of certain comparisons, viz: to the effect that a negro's testimony was about as credible as a policeman's and that a lawyer was no better than a crook or words to such effect. The reporter wasn't there and nobody will volunteer to tell the straight of it but rumor has it that the first comparison was suggested by a lawyer in the course of a trial of a negro on a charge of gaming in the corporation court, this comparison drawing the second named from a city police officer. The police court docket shows that the lawyer paid a fine.

Southbound Fort Worth and Denver passenger train number two was over two hours late this afternoon, and has not reached this city on time for several weeks.

At the Ruby.
 Seymour and Mae in vaudeville have been secured to appear at the Ruby Theatre tonight, and several other nights this week, and their act is said to be especially fine. In addition to this team, the Jolly Chink, and the Soubrette, and Miss Rose Mae, better known as the "Little California Nightingale," will all appear at the Ruby, making a combination of entertaining features which is seldom seen anywhere.

These alone, would be sufficient to make one feel that they had received their money's worth, but in addition several other numbers will be given for the benefit of those seeing the shows, and all who attend will no doubt be satisfied.

ECUADOR - A LAND OF POSSIBILITIES

Quito

Cacao Trees

Cacao Ready For Export, Guayaquil

Mt. Chimborazo

Market Place Quito

There are few if any portions of the world today offering greater opportunities for the profitable investment of capital and the establishment of trade relations than Ecuador, the little republic lying directly below the equator on the west coast of South America. It has wonderful undeveloped resources of various kinds, mineral, agricultural, water, timber, etc. The tropical products which it exports have the advantage of being produced in few other regions. It has enjoyed for years the financial stability that is derived from the momentary system based on the gold standard, and which is so potent a factor in international commerce. Its geographical position insures to it the greatest degree of benefit from the operation of the Panama Canal and the increased business that is sure to result from the opening of that waterway is already being anticipated by enterprising foreigners and natives of the city of Guayaquil.

Although there are other ports upon the coast of Ecuador, all the foreign export and import trade is done through Guayaquil. The city lies about forty miles up the Guayas, which is the largest river upon the Pacific side of South America. Ships find ample fair way up to the port, beyond which the river is navigated by small steamers.

Guayaquil has for many years had an unenviable reputation in the matter of disease, and especially yellow fever. Great improvements have been effected in sanitary conditions here ever during recent years. The municipality is taking steps to secure sewerage and thorough paving. There is an excellent water supply. The city is well cleaned and garbage crematories are in operation.

This, although going far in the right direction and indicating the best interests, is not sufficient. There would be more difficulty in protecting Guayaquil against epidemics of yellow fever and small pox than there was in fending Panama of the scourges. The government of Ecuador should enter upon the task with the determination of completing it before the opening of the canal.

It is an undertaking in which the co-operation of the United States government could doubtless be secured. Guayaquil is the principal city of Ecuador. Its population of 80,000 is considerably larger than that of Quito, the capital. The practical monopoly of the trade which it has enjoyed for many years, makes it one of the wealthiest cities in the world in proportion to its size. The business is concentrated into the hands of comparatively a few firms, which have accumulated immense amounts of money. This capital is too restricted in its operations, but there are indications that in the future it will be employed in more diversified directions, with greater benefits to the country in general.

A few years since, the city was reconstructed, so that none of the streets are less than 100 feet wide. This has made for the better health conditions and has also minimized the fires which formerly were of frequent occurrence. All the buildings, even to the large cathedral, are of bamboo and light timber, the most suitable material for the earthquake belt.

After ten years of extremely difficult construction, the Guayaquil and Quito Railway was constructed in time to carry passengers from the coast to the exposition held at the capital in 1910. The distance between the terminals is approximately 300 miles and through nearly its entire length the road traverses beautiful and interesting country. Starting in the tropical plains it carries the traveler through rich mountain valleys where the products of the temperate zone are grown and flocks are pastured. The only railroad resembling this at all is that running up to Darjiling, in the Himalayas. In both cases there is the experience of rapid passages through almost every description of climate and the presentation of the greatest diversity of animal and vegetable life. Here, leaving the alligator and the banana on the lowest levels, wheat and the llama are found on the middle ground, whilst among the topmost peaks, the lichens and the condor have their homes.

There are many bridges across streams and a few tunnels through the bowels of the mountains.

The Mitachi is surmounted by means of a switchback and by a splendid piece of engineering the Alausi is made at about 11,000 above sea level, but the flanks of the giant Chimborazo are traversed at 10,000 feet above the level.

This road presents one of the greatest scenic panoramas in the world. A score of volcanic peaks are passed, the highest 15,909 feet in height, whilst the extinct Chimborazo tower, up to 22,500 feet, Corcovado, latest of the active volcanoes, has not played for years, but at times its sinister rumblings can be heard at a distance of 100 miles or more. An attempt to reach its north has failed owing to the great flow of snow upon its summit.

Quito is built upon the breast of the volcano Pichincha, at an altitude of 12,000 feet. The mountain rears its rugged head 4,000 feet higher. There have been but three eruptions since the Spanish invasion, the last in the middle of the seventeenth century, when Quito was almost entirely destroyed. An ancient city of the Carancho, the capital of the Shiri dynasty, stood on this site in olden times, it was captured by the Incas shortly before the coming of the conquering Spaniards from the north.

On these table lands the climate is temperate and delightful the year around. Even upon the lowlands it is seldom extremely hot, notwithstanding Ecuador is right under the equator. A breeze, which the Indians call "chubasco" blowing from the snowy Andes, tempers the atmosphere and the thermometer hardly ever registers above 90 degrees.

The country is on the verge of the arid coastal belt of Western South America, but it enjoys ample rainfall. Indeed, in parts it is somewhat excessive. In the south of the country a peculiar phenomenon is occurring, where the sandy desert of Northern Peru is steadily advancing into Ecuador. Here and there a few other parts are being invaded by a necessary adjunct to successful cultivation.

Ecuador, like Colombia is a country of great possibilities, but little development.

Its area of 161,000 square miles is about the extent of Illinois. Only a very small portion of the extensive fertile lands of the Republic are cultivated. Large expanses of unimproved valley and high mountain sides, which the fabled will-some day yield great harvests of cereals. A noted British economist predicted that in a short time the world would run short of grain. It is certain that in making his calculation with its alarming conclusion, he overlooked potential sources of supply in South America, which in the aggregate would make a vast area. A similar solution might be sought in the growing shortage in the world's wheat supply. The grazing grounds in South America are capable of supporting enough cattle to provide all the meat eaters of the earth. Great Britain has been drawing largely upon Argentina for years, and we are beginning to look to that source. Which it proves unequal to the demand other areas will be available. All the cattle in the United States might be accommodated in the Orinoco valley and still leave the vast plains of Brazil for future use.

The population of Ecuador is about 1,500,000. It is made up largely of Indians scattered through the country in little hamlets. After Guayaquil and Quito there is but one large city, and that is Cuenca, the trade centre of the south, which has a population of about 100,000. Loja, near the Peruvian border, and Ibarra, are considerable towns, but the population of neither exceeds 50,000.

"That the country is but little developed may be gathered from the fact that its annual exports average some thing less than $8 per capita per annum, and its imports only about $3. With the introduction of capital, extending in Ecuador as it is all over the world and unless something is done to stop this reckless destruction the forests will be denuded of their most valuable product.

Ecuador is one of the world's chief sources of supply of quina, or vegetable ivory. The substance which is obtained from the wild palm tree, is used to make imitation bone buttons. It is collected by Indians who transport it on their backs or on burros, from the mountainous region to the coast.

Guayaquil is the centre of the trade in what we know as "Panama hats," all of which are made in Ecuador. The name is due to the fact that Panama was formerly the depot for the sale and distribution of them. The Indians of that country make straw head gear, as they do in all tropical regions, but it is inferior in material and manufacture.

The making of Panama hats for export has been an important industry for Ecuador for more than half a century. As machinery can never be applied to it the handicraft must remain a monopoly of the peasants. The toquilla straw "paja" as the natives call it, needs to be carefully treated by a peculiar process, and the fabrication requires much dexterity and skill. It is not the case, however, as has often been stated, that the plaiting is done under water.

Ecuador offers great opportunities to individuals with moderate capital, as well as to corporations with large resources, for profitable enterprise in a number of directions. Tropical fruits should be cultivated much more extensively than they are. Stock raising is a profitable employment for money. The conditions in the Andean valleys are ideal for sheep.

Corporate efforts may secure handsome returns from working the mineral deposits. An American company has successfully been mining gold for years. Silver, zinc, iron, coal and petroleum are known to exist in paying quantities.

Aside from these fields of endeavor Ecuador offers exceptional openings in the promotion of public utilities, such as railroad extensions, generation of water power, electric lighting, etc.

Foreign capital is to some extent engaged in this field. Two German companies are operating extensive cacao plantations with every prospect for the greatest success.

There are large tracts of wild rubber in Ecuador, but the difficulties of access to them and of transporting the product to the coast make the gathering of it a somewhat formidable undertaking. From time to time expeditions penetrate the remote interior, and after many months return laden with the valuable product. As the authorities are unable to exercise any control over these expeditions they do not the easiest and quickest way of securing the gum, cutting down trees with a reckless disregard for the future supply. The quest of rubber is

DECENT STANDARDS UPSET BY THE "400"

So Long as the "Turkey Trot" and the "Bunny Hug" Are Permitted in Private Homes Dance Halls Cannot be Bettered.

Expect to arrive at a decent standard for New York, Nov. 13.—How can we get dancing when we read in the daily press throughout the country the report of what the so-called smart set's dances at New Port? We read that they have adopted the "turkey trot" and the "bunny hug" and that these suggestive dances have been given at the homes of some of the leaders of the colony.

These comments and many others were made by Mrs. Charles H. Israel before a meeting of the neighborhood workers association at Greenwich house yesterday in a discussion relative to bettering of conditions in dance halls in this city.

"What can we expect?" said Mrs. Israel, "when the so-called leaders, people are so eager to set a wrong standard of dancing. And how can we go to the owners of decent dance halls in this city and ask them to cooperate with us when they tell us that Mayor Gaynor has exercised his discretion over the bureau of license and allowed the notorious Haymarket dance hall to reopen?"

"One of the solutions we believe is to teach people how to dance correctly," she said. "When girls learn the regular social dances—the waltz and the two-step—they are averse to the vulgar dances like the 'turkey trot,' 'bunny hug,' 'nigger,' 'silver dance' and the 'bunny hug.' Many of those addicted to these dances are those that they knew no other, and that they had been given to understand that these dances had been approved by the well-to-do. The only answer is to educate the girls in the right way of dancing."

So Posters may See.

To hand down to posterity more complete records of present day life than has been attempted in the past, the American Historic Record Association, incorporated here, has purpose to promote and systematize the use of modern scientific inventions for the preservation of historical records, and to that end advocates the employment of the photographic plates as the most durable means of preserving documents, the photograph for securing the voice and words of contemporary celebrities, and the moving picture machine for preserving records of current events, all such records to be kept in suitable fire proof buildings.

Women Ask no Vote There.

Princess Zoe Maurecandis of Romania and her sister, Princess Chikla, the latest distinguished arrival in New-York. They are enroute to Newfoundland to meet their husband, who has been hunting in the western United States and Canada for the past four weeks.

The two princesses are not suffragists, although they have been prominent for charity and welfare work in their own countries.

"I'd rather have a baby than ten thousand votes," declared Princess Zoe. "My three babies are worth more than all the votes in the world. The women in Romania have, so far, not uttered their heads about votes. I think if any of us had votes we would abstain for men."

The Blind "Saw" a Show.

One hundred blind persons attended the performance of "Disraeli" at Wallack's theatre yesterday. They were accompanied by fifty companions who described the movements of the actors and the settings so that it disconcerted neither the actor nor the audience. The party was given under the auspices of the New York Association of the Blind in cooperation with Ladd & Company. Now that the event of yesterday proved successful, it is the intention of the association to have the blind folk visit theatres where such educational plays as "Disraeli" are played.

Garbage Collectors on a Strike.

A daybreak today a large portion of the ash barrels and garbage cans used by New York householders and business houses yesterday were still lined up along the curbs. Two thousand of the street cleaners assigned to the necessary duty but on a strike attention being demanded, but as a strike until their grievances are adjusted, they presented their grievances to complete Mayor Gaynor yesterday, complaining of the new system of night collection and working hardships upon them, and demanded a return to day duty. The mayor refused the demand.

America's Pioneer Elephant Dead.

Charles, the oldest "actress" on the American stage, is dead here after a week's illness of pneumonia. She was 105 years old and had been engaged in the circus and theatrical business for eighty years.

Miss Carle was the first elephant to come to the United States, appearing at the time in a circus owned by John Robinson. During most of her career she was the largest performing elephant in the world. Her skeleton will be turned over to the American Museum of Natural History and mounted alongside that of Jumbo.

Murder Trial at Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 12.—The case of Thomas F. Dolan, charged with the murder of Patrick Mooney, was called for trial today. The killing of Mooney occurred last spring and alleged to have resulted from a quarrel between the two men. Dolan is an employe of E. P. Bradley, the turfman, and is well known among horsemen. Mooney, the victim of the tragedy, was one of the proprietors of the Leland Hotel and a member of the board of aldermen. This is the second trial of the case, the first trial having resulted in a jury disagreement.

A New Theme for a Play.
Love, Marriage and Divorce, have been the theme of many a great play in fact there are but few plays to day that do not have some sort of love scene in it.

In dramatizing his greatest story play, the "Common Law" Lem B. Parker has taken a subject which has been discussed in the home, in the newspapers and from the pulpit and we are prone to believe there is no other subject which has been so widely discussed as the "Common Law" of marriage.

The Biblical history records show that the first divorce was in the year A. D. 117, and the common law marriages are recorded years and years before that time. Divorce is spoken of as an evil, yet there is legislation about divorce. The common cry, "Stop the Divorce Evil." We read of and hear of the fruits of common law marriages daily, yet no one seems to cry out "Stop the Common Law Marriages."

If married people have children and the law sees fit to divorce them, the child at least has a legitimate name, but how about the child who is the fruit of a common law marriage? It must go through this life bearing the burden of its parent's sin.

The great play "The Common Law" which comes to the Wichita Theatre tomorrow night, carries with it a wealth of heart interest. No matter what your station in life may be, no matter what your profession or occupation is, no matter whether you are a father, or a mother, in this great play, there is a lesson taught which will not pass from your mind years to come, and you will teach this lesson of morality to your children, who in turn will teach it to theirs, and so for generations to come.

Madame Sherry.
Madame Sherry, the most delightful of last season's attractions comes to the Wichita Theatre for November both. It is promised that the company and production comes in its entirety. No marked changes will be found in the cast. Miss Ada Meade the popular prima donna again heads the cast. Ben Grinnell, Alta Virginita, Houston, Neil McCay, Harry O. Stephens, Milo Joyce and Mae Phelps seen here on the previous occasion are retained. Phil H. Ryley and Moe Josephine Arthur Burke are new members of the company.

Of course that haunting melody "Every Little Movement," the theme of the play is retained. It is doubtful if a composition ever had the vogue of this fetching song. While it is the best remembered of a score of hitting melodies the others were far from ordinary. I've Got Feathers on My Head; Good-bye Old Gal; and We Loved Each Other in the Long Ago have been added and will be heard here for the first time. The first named, it is predicted, will rival the popular Dublin Rag.

Madame Sherry, since the opening of its Southern tour has aroused, it is said, quite as much enthusiasm as on its former visit. George W. Lederer, the producer, if anything has attempted to make the attraction even better, if that were possible. The same massive and magnificent production will again be seen.

Madame Sherry has been termed "The musical comedy rage of this country." It is shortly to be produced in London. Mr. Lederer is to go there and personally stage it. Madame Sherry is adapted from the French by Otto Harbach with music by Karl Hoschna. Some of the original score by Felix Mendels is used in the American version. One travesty Terzotto Dufo, is said to be one of the cleverest ever attempted in musical comedy.

So much has been written and said about this latest of plays that it seems unnecessary to relate what is introduced in the forthcoming presentation. It sparkles with comedy and its musical score is all that could be desired.

The sale of seats for the engagement at the Wichita Theatre opens next Saturday at O. F. Marchman's Drug Store.

Woman is Getting to Straight Lines.
Every little while we hear that hips are again coming into fashion, and then some one rushes into print to say that their slim hips and small bust are becoming unfeminine. Indeed, Thomas Edison, while he was abroad, seemed to be more shocked than he had ever been by his electrical currents by the straight lines of the modern woman's figure. He said the lack of curve hurt his eyes, but woman's form should be a series of curves. The straight lines probably injured Mr. Edison's masculine sense more than his eyes.

Woman's dress has always been an indication of sex, and now because he is striving to become a human being she becomes a woman she is meeting all sorts of condemnation and ridicule from man, who has arrogated the natural straight lines to himself because of their comfort and he said to woman: "You must make yourself altogether different in appearance from masculine standards."

Woman, as pliable in mind as she is plastic in physique, naturally tried to conform to this, and she compressed her waist until her bust and hips were thrown into undue prominence in a series of curves that were either natural nor healthful. When he found, however, that this artificially made deformity was not only injuring herself but the generations to come she began as she always does, diplomatically to change her standard—which in this case meant hanging her form.

This back to nature movement is of a sudden one; it has taken at least eight years to accomplish it, but quietly has woman gone about her business that man has only just wakened to the fact that she has metamorphosed herself right before his eyes without his knowing it into a human being instead of remaining a mere woman. The pendulum has swung perhaps too far the other way in many cases, as there are women as stiff as men in the world who are entirely too enthusiastic in their reap of a new idea.

But the woman, who takes for her physical ideal the masterpieces of the old sculptors, will find a large waist and proportionately small hips and bust is not only nature's mold but a thing of beauty. Women are growing more beautiful and they certainly are growing more healthy—and much of this is due to the sane and sensible beauty culture of which we are hearing too much.

I do not think women will ever return to the small waist period because they are setting not only beauty standards but other standards of life for themselves as well.—Miss Kogee Phoenix.

National Municipal League.
Richmond, Va., Nov. 13—A wide variety of municipal problems are to be wrestled with by the delegates who assembled in Richmond from all parts of the country today to attend the seventeenth annual convention of the National Municipal League. Commission government, franchise legislation, electoral reform and the work of secretaries are among the leading topics slated for consideration. Important reports also will be presented by committees appointed to investigate the relation of the social evil and the liquor traffic to municipal administration.

The regular yearly football game between Texas State University and the A. and M. College, is being played this afternoon at Houston, which is neutral ground and half way between the two institutions. On account of the respective records of the two teams, the game this afternoon will be played to decide which team will become eligible for the championship of the Southwest, and on this account, many former students of both the Texas University and the A. & M. are greatly interested in the result of the game.

The Denton high school football team which is scheduled to meet the X. M. C. A. team here next Saturday afternoon avenged itself on the Sherman team at that place Saturday, defeating the latter by a score of 5 to 0. The team was the only one that had defeated the Denton team this season.

OUR CANDIES WILL PLEASE HER

of all the attractions you can show or the presents you can buy, nothing is more appreciated than a box of nice candy now and then. OUR CANDIES TASTE GOOD AND ARE IN GOOD TASTE. This is about all the argument needed for the young fellow, but remember this. After she has seen such things as are appreciated even more than before, she knows that you think more of her, of course, but still she likes to be told and she likes to be shown even better. Naturally she cannot tell you this, but try her one with a box of our candy and see how much it means. Why not?

at your business and if we don't make good it's our fault and we will beg your pardon for being on earth and expect you to leave us like a pay car leaving a tramp.

Our toilet department is where we are strong. Our line of drug medication and beauty makers has them all down on their knees yelling quit.

We win on always being on the job and giving you what you think you want without a whisper about something just as good. We take it that people that the police department will allow to run at large have sense enough to ask for what they want. A fellow might look like he needed a bath tub, but if he asked for and orange stick we would never send him to the plumbers.

At its regular quarterly meeting today the county commissioners court ordered the issuance of $150,000 road bonds as agreed upon at a called meeting several weeks ago. It is the understanding that only 50,000 of the $150,000 as will be necessary will be sold. Bids for the purchase of the bonds have not yet been opened.

A. F. Kerr, clerk of the district court received a letter from Will Hursh with the engineering corps of the Northwestern in Beaver county, Okla., saying that the ground there was covered with snow to a depth of a foot or more. The letter further said that the engineers had been able to do only a few days work this month being prevented from working by the heavy snows and rains.

$10.00—Reward—$10.00 We want every family in Wichita Falls to test our fresh roasted coffee, and see the difference between it and goods roasted out of town. We know that one pound means repeat orders, and are willing to pay something for that first order. Have hit upon the following plan—Commencing Wednesday, November 15th until December 1st we will take orders for a special blend at 35c per pound. This coffee to be roasted by us and delivered the same day it is roasted. Each pound purchased entitles the purchaser to submit a name for this particular blend and we will pay the party who submits the most appropriate name (which we will adopt for this blend) the sum of Ten Dollars. We are to be the sole judge, but the Ten Dollars will be paid to someone who submits a name for the coffee. The coffee will be delivered and award made as soon as possible after December 1st.—which will be within the first five days of the month. Our solicitors will make a canvas of the city but that no one may miss the opportunity we will accept telephone and mail orders and orders may be left at the store. Now we promise you will get more than full value for your 35c and in addition you get a chance at the $10.00. If the coffee don't make good we are the loser as we are staking our reputation as roasters on this deal. All coffee sold by us under the name adopted will be exactly like the first pound. As these orders will be small will expect to collect on delivery. O. W. BEAN & SON Grocers and Roasters of Fine Coffees
