START DRILLING OF OIL WELL TODAY

WORK IS BEGUN ON MARLOW AND STONE TRACT WEST OF THE CITY

TO GO DOWN 2000 FEET

Progress Is Being Watched by Oil Men—Prospects Considered Good

From Wednesday's Daily. The first step in what may lead to the development of a new oil and gas field almost within the city limits of Wichita Falls was begun this afternoon when drilling was started on an oil well in the Marlow and Stone tract about three-fourths of a mile west of Floral Heights. The drill bit into the earth for the first time early this afternoon and work will proceed until a depth of 2,000 feet is reached.

Messrs. J. B. Marlow and J. W. Stone are backing this enterprise, assisted by a number of other local gentlemen who believe that oil exists in the immediate vicinity of Wichita Falls and that steps should be taken to develop it.

Wichita Falls is between two proven fields, one at Petrolia and one at Electra and it has long been thought that this city was in the belt. Oil experts who have examined the "signs" near this city have stated that the outlook for striking oil is excellent and it was acting upon their advice that it was decided to put the well down. Wells have already been put down in this section at Charlie and other points, but not to a sufficient depth to determine whether there was any oil there or not. A number of Iowa Park parties are now putting down a well near that city.

The progress on the Marlow and Stone well will be closely watched, not only by the local parties interested, but by oil men in general who are keeping their eyes on the matter.

GALVESTON IMPROVEMENTS

Santa Fe Buys Twenty-One Lots for Buildings and Tracks

Texas News Service Special. Galveston, Tex., June 23.—The Gulf Colorado & Santa Fe Railway today closed a deal for the purchase of twenty-one lots in the heart of the city across the street from the present passenger station. The object in buying is to give more room for the general offices and to enlarge the track facilities. The property cost the railroad about $250,000. The company will ask the closing of the street for three blocks, but will deed to the city the ground next to the property for reopening.

The general impression is that the city will comply with the wishes of the company.

The grand jury is investigating the case.

ARRESTS FOR GAMBLING FOLLOW RAID BY LOCAL OFFICERS YESTERDAY

From Thursday's Daily.

Chief of Police Gwinn and Deputy Constable Pickett raided a room that is commonly supposed to be used for gaming and sporting purposes late yesterday afternoon, and placed four men, O. C. Heblag, Pat Smith, Jess Williams and Johnny Taylor under arrest, charging them with gaming.

All the men gave bond for their appearance in Judge Rye's court today. This is the same place in which Dr. Crutcher was relieved of a check of about $700, for which he instituted suit, and which was tried Friday and Saturday of last week, the jury failing to agree upon a verdict.

Three of the defendants plead guilty in the city court this morning and were fined $15 each. The fourth was dismissed.

The Athletics are still on the job. It will take more than the loss of a game or two to put that bunch out of business.

CONFUSION IS CAUSED BY CHANGING OF THE SECOND PRECINCT LINE

From Thursday's Daily.

By the changing of the lines of commissioner's precinct No. 2, a great deal of dissatisfaction and confusion exists in that commissioner's precinct.

According to the statement of Mr. S. P. Hawkins, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed citizens of Wichita county, and who has resided in this county for thirty-one years, neither himself nor any of his neighbors were consulted about the changing of the precinct lines, nor did they have any knowledge whatever about the matter until after it had been done. He also says that he was told by the editor of the newspaper published at Burk Burnett that he (the editor) was asked to not publish the fact that the precinct lines had been changed. As a result but few people know little or nothing about where the boundary lines of precinct No. 2 are now located, and may not find out where they are in time to vote on the day of election.

"Had the people of our neighborhood been treated with the courtesy which we, as old citizens of the county, thought was our due, we would have bent in a strong protest against the changing of the boundary lines of precinct No. 2," remarked Mr. Hawkins.

Mr. Hawkins is a candidate for county commissioner from that precinct, having yielded to the wishes of his friends in that matter, but it now appears that he failed or neglected to notify the chairman of the county Democratic Executive Committee of his candidacy for that office, in due time, and for that reason his name will be left off the ticket on the day of the primary election, July 23, that of his opponent will be printed on the ticket. This gives his opponent considerable the advantage, but Mr. Hawkins says that if the county Democratic Executive Committee will do him the kindness to leave a blank space on the ticket sufficient to write in a name, that he feels confident his friends will find it, and write his name in, and that if this is done he does not fear the result.

ENDORSES TAFT ON RAILROAD BILL

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS AND IS ENTERTAINED BY HAMILTON CLUB IN NEW YORK

APPROVED STATEHOOD BILL

Expresses Regret Over State Capital Muddle in Oklahoma—Opposes Direct Primaries Now

New York, June 22.—With an address more like a personal chat than a political discussion, Theodore Roosevelt met the delegation of the Hamilton Club and was entertained here today. He expressed his pleasure at the attitude of the Taft administration on the railroad bill, compelling the railroads to secure the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission before raising rates. He declared he approved statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, and expressed regret over the state capital situation in Oklahoma. He opposed direct primaries under present conditions, but said it might be possible in the future. He said he was pursuing the policy of trying to be of assistance in solving the problems of social, economic and political life, and announced that he expected to confer with the commercial and political leaders from all sections of the country.

Washington, D. C., June 22.—From expressions made this morning to the Texas News Service correspondent by friends of Former President Roosevelt, it is believed he endorses Taft's legislation program so far as it has been made effective by congress. A representative of New York said that Roosevelt is not likely to take an active part in the campaigns this fall, but will probably deliver a number of speeches commending the administration without reserve, which includes the indorsement of the tariff act.

One congressman said it was likely the Minnesota Republican State Convention's refusal to adopt a resolution indorsing Roosevelt yesterday will drive the former president into active work, in behalf of the party.

Democrats declare Roosevelt's future public life depends on the manner of his present department towards the Taft regime.

Texas News Service Special. Austin, Tex., June 23.—Following appeals in his behalf, the decision was announced this afternoon that John Wynne, a negro, convicted of killing his wife, must pay the legal penalty by hanging tomorrow at Huntsville. MERCHANTS MEETING LANDED BY WICHITA

THIS CITY GETS 1911 MEETING AWAY FROM SAN ANTONIO AND GALVESTON

VICTORY ON FIRST BALLOT

Means from Five Hundred to One Thousand Visitors Here Next Year

The 1911 convention of the Texas Retail Merchants' Association will be held in Wichita Falls, the delegation from this city being victorious on the first ballot at Houston this morning. The following telegram was received from Secretary Barrickman:

"We win on first ballot with forty-eight votes. San Antonio thirty-three, Galveston six."

Advices received last night were to the effect that Dallas, Fort Worth and Austin, who were in the race, had withdrawn in favor of Wichita Falls and those who stayed at home felt encouraged by this news. The fact that Wichita Falls defeated such opponents as Galveston and San Antonio shows the esteem in which this city is held over the state.

Mayor T. B. Noble, Secretary Barrickman, J. L. Lea Jr., and B. J. Bean represented this city at the meeting, and the success in securing the 1911 convention is due to their efforts. They went prepared to put up a determined fight and how well they succeeded can be seen.

It is learned that B. J. Bean of this city was elected a director of the state association at the meeting this morning and the conferring of this further honor on Wichita Falls is a matter of which the officers of the association feel quite proud. The Wichita Falls delegation is expected home tomorrow afternoon.

The bringing of the state association meeting here next year means from 500 to 1,000 visitors to this city, and it will be a convention which any city in the state might be proud to entertain. Plans are already being formulated to make the reception and entertainment the most lavish of which this city is capable.

A. W. Terrell of Austin, spoke in behalf of the medical department of the university of Texas, at Galveston, denouncing the new rates as applied there.

IMPORTATION OF BABIES IS SUBJECT OF PROTEST BY LOUISIANA DOCTORS

MAN BELIEVED TO BE PORTER WALTON TAKEN INTO CUSTODY IN N. Y.

By Associated Press.

New York, June 23.—It is reported that Porter Charlton, the husband of Mary Scott Charlton, whose body was found in a trunk in Lake Como, Italy, reached here on the Morgan Liner today. The man gave the name of Chas. Coleman when arrested, but is reported to have broken down at the police station and admitted that he was Charlton.

While Charlton was being sweated he became infuriated and drew a revolver and tried to shoot Chief of Police Hayes. He was quickly disarmed and a few minutes later confessed to the crime.

Charlton arrived on the steamship Princess Irene and was given the "third degree" before he admitted his identity and also confessed he murdered his wife. Later Charlton made a signed statement to the police.

Charlton said he and his wife engaged in a violent quarrel, she calling him vile names, and finally he became angered and struck her over the head three times with a wooden mallet. After placing the body in a trunk he carried it to the lake and threw it in the water.

SUMMER BUILDING ACTIVITY BRISK

ADVENT OF WARM WEATHER HAS HAD NO EFFECT ON CONSTRUCTION WORK

SEVERAL NEW RESIDENCES

Steady Progress Being Made on New Business Structures Downtown

The advent of summer does not seem to have had any depressing effect on local building operations and the activity in this line is as brisk as ever. In addition to the business structures contemplated and under construction, there are several handsome new residences.

The contract will be awarded shortly for the Moore-Perkins buildings on 10th street, on the site of the old Alamo school. The latter building will be moved into the southeastern quarter of the city and used as a negro school. A long row of one-story business buildings, of brick, will be constructed on this property. R. M. Moore and D. M. Perkins are the builders, and it is understood that the contract will be awarded before the end of the month.

Several handsome new residences are to be constructed shortly. Mrs. R. E. Clifton will shortly begin the erection of a two-story dwelling on Bluff street between 9th and 10th, and H. Zimmerman is preparing to put up a $3,000 home on Broad street. J. B. Stokes intends to erect a new and handsome residence on the site of his present home at 7th and Lamar. A number of new cottages have been erected in North Wichita, across the river, and that part of the city is getting to be quite a populous suburb.

Work is under way on the following downtown buildings: City National Bank building, Hines-Jackson building, Friberg building, Times building, Joline building and Souter building. Among the new buildings contemplated are one by R. M. Moorg back of the Moore-Bateman building and the Knight building at the corner of 9th and Indiana.

The big building for the Carroll-Brough-Gates Grocery Company is nearing completion and is already being used by the company.

ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME IS GIVEN EX-PRESIDENT

Hundreds of Thousands in Cheering Throng That Extend Him Greet- ing at New York Today.

New York, June 18.—Theodore Roosevelt was welcomed here this morning by upwards of two million people who crowded the thoroughfares and waterways when he passed along the water and land parade routes.

In his answer to the welcoming address of Mayor Gaynor of New York, he declared he desired freedom from politics and said he intended to devote a larger portion of his time to writing books.

The former president's boat arrived last night on schedule time. This morning he was transferred to the revenue cutter where he breakfasted with his family. He was later transferred to another cutter where he met the reception committee of three hundred. With an official escort of patrol boats, the water parade up the Hudson followed, ending with the landing at the Battery where brief exercises took place.

Thirty minutes later the land parade turned into Broadway. The streets were lined with cheering thousands and Roosevelt was kept busy acknowledging the huzzas of the populace. He was closely guarded by detectives under the chief in person.

The street parade was succeeded by the family party going to the residence of Mrs. Douglas Robinson, a sister of Roosevelt, where he took luncheon.

At 3:30 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Roosevelt and family will go by motor to Long Island Ferry, where they will take a special train to Oyster Bay at which place the home-coming will be celebrated by neighbors.

No untoward occurrence marked the celebration of his arrival today. The authorities say the crowd was the best handled in years and the most orderly. Hundreds of visitors who came especially for the occasion, making their first trip to New York, are leaving this afternoon for Washington to see congress at work.

New York, June 18.—The Kaiserin Augusta Victoria docked at flag and passed into quarantine at eleven-thirty-eight and at once came to anchor. She was escorted in from Ambrose Channel lightship by the battleship South Carolina, with the band playing the "Star Spangled Banner" and half a dozen torpedo boat destroyers. The official welcome to Roosevelt began at eight-thirty. He then boarded the tug Manhattan. At that instant the whistles of the assembled craft were blown long and loud in unison. The salute was taken up by every vessel within a mile or more and continued for two minutes.

Shortly afterward he was transferred to the revenue cutter Androscoggin, which led the water parade that took him as far as Fifty-Ninth street on North River and down to the Battery where he was officially welcomed by Mayor Gaynor at 11 o'clock. When the steamer Kaiserin Augusta Victoria entered the harbor she was greeted by the battleship South Carolina with the national salute of twenty-one guns. The water pageant in honor of Mr. Roosevelt was divided into twelve divisions, commanded by as many vice-commodores and a fleet of nearly two hundred strong. As the parade reached the tower end of Manhattan gery craft afloat and every factory ashore let loose their whistles.

The water parade turned at Fifty-Ninth street on the North river at ten-forty and keeping in the same formation, started on the return trip to the Battery.

The Androscoggin was saluted the entire distance by blasts from steam whistles on vessels and factories. Roosevelt set foot on American soil on ten-fifty-five. He stepped from the Androscoggin at the Battery and walked to the speakers' stand, accompanied by Mayor Gaynor. It is estimated that one hundred thousand people were massed in Battery Park when Roosevelt arrived. After the welcoming address by Mayor Gaynor and the reply by Roosevelt, the land parade started up Broadway at 11:12 o'clock.

The march up Broadway was through a densely massed throng and extended for five miles along the main thoroughfares of the city. Everywhere Roosevelt met the same whirlwind demonstrative greetings. Roosevelt stood erect in the carriage most of the time, his silk hat in his hand, waving responsive greetings to the echoing cheers. By noon the popular welcome was practically concluded and Roosevelt joined his relatives for lunch, preparatory to returning to Oyster Bay later in the day.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

The Socialists of New Hampshire have nominated Asa Warren Drew for governor.

Governor Donaghey of Arkansas will oppose Senator Jeff Davis for re-election.

Mrs. L. R. Gammage of Palestine, Tex., is a candidate for county treasurer.

It is reported in Washington that Senator Tillman of South Carolina intends to retire from public life at the end of his present term in the senate.

Former Governor Frank Brown of Maryland has formally announced that he would be a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination next year.

A recent decision of the Oklahoma Supreme Court renders it certain that the woman suffrage question will be voted on at the regular election in that state next fall.

Democrats of Wisconsin have decided to hold their state convention in Milwaukee on July 12 to adopt a platform and make other arrangements for the coming campaign.

William Brice Cumberland, a druggist of St. Louis, has entered the race for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from Missouri to succeed Senator Warner.

Civic bodies in Pittsburg, Scranton and other Pennsylvania cities will endeavor to make the adoption of the commission form of municipal government an issue in the state campaign this year.

The Socialists of Nebraska are planning this year to nominate a full state ticket, candidates for United States senator and congressmen and candidates for the state legislature in a majority of the districts.

Everett J. Lake, the old Harvard football player, and Charles A. Goodwin, a prominent Yale graduate, are running a hard race for the Republican nomination for governor of Connecticut this year.

Senators Clapp of Minnesota, Dooliver and Cummins of Iowa, LaFollette of Wisconsin, Borah of Idaho and Bristow of Kansas have promised to speak in the state of Washington this fall in support of Representative Miles Poin-dexter, the progressive Republican candidate for United States senator.

In connection with the boom of Collector Loeb for governor of New York it is recalled that the only collector of the port of New York nominated for governor in the last twenty-five years was Representative J. Sloat Fassett, who was nominated in 1891 and defeated by Roswell P. Flower.

Leading Republicans of northern Alabama are advocating the nomination of Amos Goodhue, a prominent lawyer of Gadsden, as the Republican candidate for governor of Alabama, to oppose the Democratic nominee, Colonel Emmet O'Neal, of Florence. Mr. Goodhue is one of the foremost prohibitionists in the state.

If New Mexico and Arizona are united into one state the new state will be very close politically. The New Mexico legislature is Republican by twenty-two, while the Arizona legislature is Democratic by eighteen. The swing of the Socialist vote, it is stated, might decide the election of two United States Senators from the new state. The strength of the Socialist party is rapidly increasing in Arizona and New Mexico as well as in Nevada and other states of that section of the country.

Here is an indictment of Modern Commerce

The story that many thousand car loads of potatoes were left to rot during 1909, because the price at the points of excess supply was about ten cents per bushel, taken in conjunction with the fact that in the same year some 5,000,000 bushels of potatoes were imported, on which a heavy duty was imposed, points to something radically wrong in the method of distribution of this important food supply, at a time, too, when the cost of living was receiving serious discussion. The fact that the potato crop of 1909 was abnormally large does not excuse this tremendous waste—a piece of business folly and an economic crime. The potato crop of 1909 was from 67,000,000 to 70,000,000 in excess of the normal—the total production for that year was, according to the Federal Agricultural Department's figuring, near to 370,000,000 bushels. That the entire crop should have been (and could have been, if properly handled) marketed at some profit to the producers and to the great relief of consumers all over the country, is an apparent fact. That this was not done indicates blundering in the specific instance and a considerable failure of the country's economic machinery to work as it should in practical matters. In this connection the financier sees a "crying need for men skilled in the solution of economic problems." That paper points out that "the Agricultural Department at Washington knew early last fall that there was an excess crop of potatoes; the railroads knew it, or if they did not, they should have known it, and yet during all the winter and this spring no effort seems to have been made either by the government or by the railroads, which would have profited on account of extra freights, to open new channels for the distribution of this food supply." In this case as in most matters statistical and academic concern regarding economic problems as they are officially treated, the rights or desires of the consumer had no influence. It would be well for this country if the consumer's interest were to become the guiding inspiration in handling such problems of production and distribution of commodities which are for his use. The idea that the consumer exists by the sufferance of the producer or distributor is fallacious, but common. It is uphill work to reverse the point of view, and compel recognition of the fact that production and distribution are alike dependent upon the support of the consumer. When that point of view becomes established, and is acted upon, there will be fewer instances such as this illuminating case of potato waste in the West.—Boston Advertiser.

COURT IS UP TO ALDERMEN

Appropriation for Model Structure Costing $150,000 Awaiting Approval
The matter of providing means for a new court house in which the wrongs of New York's juvenile population may be redressed is now up to the board of aldermen. The committee on the corporate stock budget has put itself on record as favoring the expenditure of $150,000 for a new building.

In its report, just made to the board of estimate, it releases the authorization of the old board, which passed a resolution that the money be appropriated. The lack of adequate facilities in the present children's court and the shameful overcrowding had already been described in the World.

A new building is virtually assured now. The money is available, contracts for the work may be signed at any time and work should be begun very soon. That the board of aldermen will approve the report nobody doubts.

Plans for a new building have already been drawn. What that building should be like the last annual report of the court of special sessions tells, as follows:

"It will be possible to incorporate in the new building certain features for which there has long been urgent need. In addition to a bright, cheerful and commodious courtroom it will be possible to have suitable detention rooms where the children can be comfortably kept pending the calling of their cases.

"It will be possible also to have a better separation of the younger from the older children and those charged with actual offenses from those in custody merely because of improper guardianship. A nursery, too, will be provided for the very small children of this latter class. Suitable waiting rooms can be had for parents who are in necessary attendance, many of whom are obliged to bring infants with them.

"There will also be afforded adequate accommodations for the various religious and charitable organizations whose representatives are in court each day to aid in following up the cases before and after final disposition and whose work is of inestimable value in the saving of these children to future good citizenship.

"Other features will be available, all of which it is believed will make this building a model in physical equipment for other children's courts throughout the world in the same manner that this court has been a model in past years in its methods of procedure."—New York World.

CRISIS IS NEAR.

Administration Forces Prepare For Fight This Week.

Washington, D. C., June 21.—The Texas News Service correspondent was this morning informed at the White House that President Taft had cancelled his engagement to attend the Yale commencement exercises at New Haven, Conn., tomorrow, where his son Robert Taft, will graduate. The reason assigned for the failure of the president to go is the stress of official business. This is taken to mean that he feels that the crucial moment is arriving in connection with the postal savings bank bill. A fight has developed on the measure in the senate. Because of this, it is now doubtful whether congress will adjourn Saturday as had practically been agreed. For another thing, Senator Bailey has announced his unalterable opposition to the bill by Senator Warren of Wyoming, providing for an increase in the army engineering corps, to sixty men, because the senate refused recognition of Texas' rights in the Beaumont-Orange waterway matter. A conference at the White House at which the administration leaders will be taken to task and at which the recalcitrant ones will be implored to use every effort for the administration program, is likely tonight.

WILL FIGHT BILL.

Senator Bailey Declines to Grant the President's Request.

Washington, D. C., June 21.—Senator Bailey, who was summoned to the White House today and requested by the president to withdraw his opposition to the bill increasing engineering corps of the army, replied: "If the other side don't withdraw the bill we will be here until August."

EGYPT REPLIES TO TEDDY

Here is Statement of Case from the Other Side

"Egypt's Reply to Colonel Roosevelt" is the title of a stirring article in the June number of the North American Review, by His Excellency Sheikh All Yousof, president of the Constitutional Reform League. It is a clear statement of what the Egyptians hoped from such a representative of the American people and the keenness of their disappointment in what was said to them. In part he says:

"Thus Colonel Roosevelt left Egypt, and when he departed from Alexandria and boarded the steamer 'Prince Heinrich' on March 30, 1910, he saw the following mournful spectacle: On one side stood some young Mohammedans and on the other side some young Copts. (The Mohammedans being in Egypt 92 per cent of the Egyptians and the Copts are 6 per cent, the remainder being other denominations and foreigners.) The Mohammedans were shouting: 'Long live Roosevelt!' This was the last thing seen by him in Egypt and the last result of his visit. He came to Egypt with its people preparing to receive him in honor and left the country with the natives divided into two parties in regard to him, and the result would have been unhappy had not the wise men of both sections worked hard to destroy the bad effect which remained after this visit. Had Mr. Roosevelt been an ordinary man, or had his importance been due only to his intelligence, we would have said that he may be right or may be wrong and nothing more. But he is the ex-president of the United States of America and may be again its president, and Americans must share a great part of the responsibility which results from what he says of his mistake. It is not to the interest of Americans that this insult should remain the only impression left in Egypt by the visit of one of their leading men."

But the wonder chapter in modern circus annals is the record of the Ringlings. Thirty years ago these five brothers (Al, Charles, John, Otto and Alfred T.) were "trouping" with a few horses, a few dens of animals and providing the music themselves. Today they own the three greatest circuses, the one which bears their name, the Barnum & Bailey show and the Sells-Forrepaugh circus, and dominate the business. These three circuses represent a total investment of approximately $8,000,000. They have brought the commercial and artistic organization of the circus up to its highest and cleanest efficiency. And, incidentally, they have proved that a goodly quantity of gold dust can cling to the sawdust.—The Bookman.

GOLD DUST AND SAWDUST

Rulers of the Ring Have Found It Profitable

It remains only to tell briefly just how the circus kings have fared with fortune. The richest of all showmen was P. T. Barnum, whose estate was worth more than $3,000,000. He had good investments in real estate in Bridgeport and in New York in addition to his circus interests. The right to use his name in connection with "The Greatest Show on Earth" alone was worth a small fortune. His partner, James A. Bailey, left more than a million dollars; likewise, James L. Hutchinson, who completed the famous trio, whose names have flashed from billboards the world over. Adam Forepaugh died very rich. W. W. Cole, who was a great circus man in his day, and who is now a resident of New York, is a millionaire. The Sells Brothers (Louis, Al, Peter and Ephraim) built up a fortune of several millions and left their families with big estates. These successes are in contrast with the poverty-stricken end of some of the circus leaders of other days, notably Dan Costello and Yankee Robinson.

$25,000 MORE FOR NEW POSTOFFICE

WICHITA FALLS WILL GET PART OF ADDITIONAL MONEY ASKED FOR.

REPORT BILL FAVORABLY

This Makes Total of Seventy-Five Thousand for Postoffice in This City.

From Friday's Daily. Wichita Falls gets an additional appropriation of twenty-five thousand dollars for the government building in this city, according to word received here from Washington yesterday afternoon. This means that a total of seventy-five thousand dollars is available for the new postoffice in this city, which will make possible the erection of a handsome and substantial structure.

An appropriation of fifty thousand dollars was secured several years ago for a government building in this city, but the money has never been used, as it was felt that the size and postal business of this city demanded a larger building. Congress was asked for an additional appropriation of seventy-five thousand dollars this year, which would have made a total of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. While Wichita Falls did not secure the full additional amount asked for, she secured enough more to make a handsome structure possible.

The appropriation has not yet been made, but has been formally reported by the committee on Public Buildings, which practically assures its passage. The site for the building here has already been purchased, being at the southwest corner of 9th street and Ohio Avenue.

Other Texas cities whose requests for additional appropriations were favorably acted upon include Austin, Belton, Bryan, Clarksville, Cuero, El Paso, Eagle Pass, Denison, Galveston, Marlin, Huntsville, Weatherford, Paris, Longview, Yoakum and others.

By virtue of a certain Execution and Fee Bill issued out of the Honorable Justice Court of Precinct No. 1, Wichita county, on the 7th day of May, 1910, by W. E. Broderick, said Court against Sam J. Fought Catarrh for 20 Years.

Here is a letter that we sincerely ask every reader of the Times to read. If you suffer from catarrh or any nose, throat or lung ailment, read it over twice, and then consider if you can afford to ignore a prescription with the healing virtue of Hyomei (pronounced High-oh-mey). Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Gentlemen—"I suffered terribly with catarrh in the head for twenty years, and I tried many prescriptions, but never found relief. I have used Hyomei for two weeks and find it the best preparation I have ever used for catarrh. Every cold I would catch seemed to go to my throat, and I had to use gargles for days at a time. Now when I catch a cold in the throat I use Hyomei inhaler and this ailment disappears over night. Hyomei has put me on the good road to getting rid of my catarrh, and if you want to use this letter to publish in your advertising, do so. Perhaps it will help some other sufferer.—W. K. Engle, 703 Walnut St., Reading, Pa.; Oct. 5, 1909. Complete outfits $1.00; extra bottle 50 cents at drug stores everywhere and at O. F. Marchant Drug Co.

The Stag Afloat.

The stag is by no means afraid of the water, and when the necessity arises he is ever ready to give an exhibition of his swimming powers. Such a spectacle is not uncommon in the Highlands and excites little comment among foresters. The noble creature frequently takes to the limpid element in order to elude pursuit. Only the other day a fine stag, which had apparently been subjected to some molestation in the neighborhood of Melmsdale Harbor, Sutherlandshire, plunged into the sea, and set his course idly and succeeded in placing two miles to his credit. Two fishermen in a boat captured the animal, which, unhappily, was drowned while being towed to shore. It was a fine pointer and weighed about eighteen stone. The occasion reminds me of a similar incident which some four years ago came under my observation in the Island of Mull. A certain proprietor had ordered a number of stags from the south with the object of infusing some fresh blood into his ruddy herd. On arriving by steamship the animals were carted in their crates to the park assigned to them, and where they were promptly liberated. One of the strangers was, evidently, much alarmed by his new surroundings, and instantly made a dash for the adjacent shore. Without a moment's hesitation he sprang into the water—which at that time was very choppy and intensely cold—and struck out gallantly for the nearest point on the mainland. The sound of Mull, three-quarters of a mile broad, was duly negotiated, and, after resting for an instant on the tangle-covered beach, the gallant creature stripped it lightly toward the rugged banks. Bodily fear is not, however, the only motive that causes the stag to engage in aquatic exercises. In the fall of the year he is often impelled by amatory considerations to cross inland lochs and arms of the sea in order to visit favorite hindes known to be sporting themselves on the opposite shores.—Country Gentleman.

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS

Two prominent men of Cameron according to press dispatches, have drawn their checks for ten thousand dollars each, betting on the strength of Colquitt and Davidson. If we were a betting man, which we are not, and had to take either side of that bet we would put our money on Colquitt, but if we wanted to put in on a great winner we would back up Cone Johnson as the first man. We have it figured out that Davidson will run third and Polindexter fourth man in the race. Just keep this prediction by you until the primaries.—Palestine Herald.

It has been asked why men who labor should vote for Cone Johnson. Representatives of organized labor have stated in the public prints that Mr. Johnson has answered satisfactorily all the inquiries made to him with reference to his position on questions of interest to men who labor. If Cone Johnson is satisfactory to men who investigate such matters he should be to those who do not.—Rusk County News.

R. V. Davidson, the next governor of Texas, spoke at three points in Denton county—Pilot Point, Denton and Sanger—last Friday and Saturday. For weeks the Herald has been telling its readers about the final drift of state politics. At first everybody laughed, later a few began to see and now a number are getting their eyes open. Both Colquitt and Cone Johnson are losing ground every day and gradually the race is narrowing down to Polindexter and Davidson just as we foresaw and predicted. We would it were otherwise, but one had just as well concede the inevitable first as last. Davidson has gained thousands of votes in North Texas in the past ten days.—Aubrey Herald.

It is possible for a man to change from an anti to a pro, but who ever heard of a genuine, blue-blooded pro changing to an anti? We can overlook some of Johnson's slip-flops, but when Colquitt quit the pros to join the anti it points out clearly that he only wants the office. Well, Colquitt wants are slated for another shake-up about July 23.—Waelder News.

Martial Law Prevails in Cananea and Naco Today. El Paso, Tex., June 21.—A special dispatch to the Herald this morning from Naco, Arizona, says that all Mexican women and children slept on the Arizona side of the city under guard of Federal and Territory authorities last night because an attack was feared from malcontents who are responsible for the uprising. Cananea is practically under martial law. Over one hundred suspects are already seized and under guard in the Mexican prison.

Statehood Bill Signed by President. Taft This Afternoon. Washington, D. C., June 20.—At 12:30 o'clock today the vice president affixed his signature to the statehood bill. This is the last step in the progress of the legislation before the measure goes to the president for approval. The bill will probably reach the White House during the afternoon. The president signed the statehood bill at one-forty o'clock this afternoon.

RECEPTION TO OKLAHOMA VISITORS ON JUNE 28 IS ARRANGED BY COMMITTEE

Upon their arrival here the Oklahomans will be taken out to the lake on street cars and dinner will be served in the Colonnade pavillion. At this dinner they will be welcomed to this city by Messrs. Huff, Foster and Montgomery and representatives of the visitors will be given an opportunity to respond. A motor boat ride on the lake will follow the dinner and the visitors will then be brought back to town and taken over the city in automobiles. A number of machines have been volunteered for the occasion. This will conclude the entertainment. A reception committee of fifty was appointed at the meeting yesterday, consisting of the following:

Eliot-Post Wedding in London

London, June 22.—The third and last of the series of notable Anglo-American weddings solemnized in London this month took place today at St. George's Church, Haover Square, when Miss Helen Agnes Post became the bride of Montague Charles Eliot. The church was filled, the guests including Ambassador and Mrs. White, embassy and most of the Americans, prominent in London society, besides many friends of the groom's family. Lord Barrymore, step-father of Miss Post, gave away the bride, who was attended by two pages and several bridesmaids. The latter included Miss Dorothy-Smith Barry, the bride's half-sister, Miss Claire Frewen and the young daughter of Sir Bache and Lady Cunard.

The bride's gown was of rich white satin, draped with priceless old lace, with a wreath of orange blossoms holding in place the Brussels lace veil. Her only jewel was a pennant given by the bridegroom. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Adair in Curson street, an aunt of the bride. Over a thousand invitations were accepted and the handsome house, which was beautifully decorated with flowers, was crowded with guests. The presents were numerous and costly, including diamond tiaras and necklaces and other jewels.

The marriage of Miss Post and Mr. Eliot is entirely a love match, and neither the bride nor bridegroom has a superabundance of this world's goods. The bride comes of American stock, though she has passed the most of her years in London. Her mother was the daughter of Gen. James Wadsworth of Genesee, N. Y., who fell in the battle of the Wilderness. In early life she married Arthur Post. After his death she became the wife of Lord Barrymore.

The bride has been a favorite in high society since her coming out in 1908. Two of her intimate friends are the Crown Princess of Sweden, who is the elder daughter of the Duke of Connaught, and the Crown Princess of Roumania, who is a cousin of King George.

Montague Eliot, the bridegroom, was in the personal entourage of King Edward as groom-in-waiting and it is said that he is to be retained in a similar capacity by King George. His father was the late Lieut. Col. Charles Eliot and his grandfather the third Earl of St. Germans. The Countess of Beaumont and Lady Layard are his aunts.

It is believed the automobile is between Amarillo and Roswell. He expects a notification of its recovery today or tomorrow. So far the Cubs have it on the Giants six games to one.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO RECEIVE JOHNSON WHEN HE VISITS HERE.

From Monday's Daily. The local supporters of Cone Johnson for the gubernatorial nomination are completing the arrangements for the entertainment of this candidate when he visits this city next Saturday. He will arrive over the Wichita Valley at 11:55 and will speak at 2 p. m., after which he will be taken for a ride to the lake. He will probably spend next Sunday in the city. A member of the committee said today:

"He will in a sense be the guest of the city and it is hoped that all will co-operate in making his welcome one befitting the high position to which he aspires."

The entertainment committee consists of A. H. Carrigan, A. A. Hughes, Job Barnett and L. H. Mathis. The reception committee includes the following:

IF IN LOVE, PROPOSE.

Waiting for Better Prospects Should Not Deter a Man.

A man may certainly propose to a girl; although he is not in a position to marry. He might lose the only girl he could ever really love did he refrain from "popping the question," and she might lose by his silence the only man who could make her a good husband.

But there are many men who consider it a point of honor not to formally blind a girl until their own positions are secured. This may sound all right, but it does not work out very satisfactorily, for the girl at any rate.

To the man the proper "formality" consists in "speaking to papa," and presenting an engagement ring. After that he is looked upon as one of the family, and has exclusive right to the society of his beloved. If the two are mutually happy in each other this arrangement may prove quite successful. The man has an incentive to push ahead, and the girl has the benefit of his companionship, his career and the affection which exists only between lover's with the added advantage, too, of acquiring a true knowledge of her lover's character that will come in usefully, by and by.

If a man refrains from speaking until marriage comes within his means, he may cause the lady of his choice much unhappiness and distress of mind monopolizing her time and company, guarding her affectively from the attentions of any other man, by practically seizing the privilege of an engaged man without giving the girl the right to openly declare that she belongs to him.

The man may probably feel that he is acting fairly and honorably in not speaking definitely until his position is more fully assured, but if he wishes to continue to enjoy the delights of the girl's society, it is clearly his duty to give her the only position fair to her—that of his affianced wife.

Of course there are some people who think that a man who is not in a position to marry has no right to tie the girl down to an engagement and perhaps spoil her chances in securing a more eligible partner, but it is not what these people think, but what the girl herself thinks, which really counts.

It is the girl herself who should decide whether she will say "yes" or "nay," and the man who loves her—however remote his prospects for matrimony may be—should go to her and tell her frankly about his position, and then if she is willing to wait for him, well and good; if not, well, time softens the hardest plow.

But a rule women prefer love to wealth, and there is perhaps no better test of true love than poverty; for when woman really and truly loves a man she does not take his poverty into consideration at all preferring rather to be mistress of a cottage with him to share it with her than reign as a society queen in a palatial mansion.—New York Weekly.

A short woman, wearing a white shirtwaist and a hat with three apples on it, grabbed by the neck a chunky young man who held a ticket in his right hand in the waiting room of the Lackawanna railroad station in Hoboken at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and screamed, "Give me my ticket!"

"Gug-gug-gug," gasped the gagged stranger as he struggled to release her grip.

The station cop went to the man's rescue and gently inquired what the rumpus was all about.

"He's got my ticket," said the woman.

"I haven't," growled the man. "I paid for it, and it's mine."

"Well, it looks like mine," explained the woman. "It's the same shape and color. I put it in my bag, which I placed on the seat, and I saw him walk away from it."

"Why don't you look in your bag and make sure?" suggested the cop.

The woman took a peek and found her ticket.

"Men shouldn't carry their tickets in their hands," said the policeman as he backed away from the backing woman and backing man.—New York Sun.

Meg and Dorothy were both six, but Meg was a month the older. Recently very serious difficulties arose between the little ladies over an extremely important matter. Meg was finally heard to put an end to the unfortunate controversy in these crushing words:

"Well, I don't care if your doll is bigger than mine, Dorothy Brown, I'm sixer than you are, anyhow!"—From Woman's Home Companion for May.

Little five-year-old Mary had seen a baby baptized in church on Sunday. Next day she was seen digging a large hole, and then bringing out a dipper of water from the kitchen. Next she captured her kitten and carried it to the hole. Holding the kitten in one hand, the dipper in the other, she poured some water on the struggling ball of fur and said in a singsong voice, just as the minister had done: "In the name of the father, and of the son, and in the hole he goes."—Wolfe City Sun.

Mother and the baby had gone away visiting for two whole days. Eight-year-old Marjorie was keeping house for her father.

"What shall I order, Marjorie," he asked very gravely. Marjorie's eyes shone as only Marjorie's eyes can shine.

"Candy!" she cried; and her father wrote it down. "But that is not enough for us to live on," he remonstrated gently. "What else?"

Marjorie caught her breath. Oh, the delight of being able to order meals like a grown-up person! "Cookies!" cried Marjorie. "And bananas! And plums; And more candy! Oh, what fun it is to keep house!"—Delineator.

Edward H. Crump, mayor of Memphis, praised, in a recent address, these charities in the hot weather.

"The pale, lean urchins of the slums," said Mayor Crump, "show in quaint ways how strange they are to the country and its charms."

"Thus a little country weeker, on leaving the train at Green Willows, ran ahead of his companions over the meadows. He soon came running back again, shouting excitedly: "Hey, fellers, come here, quick! Here's a field of shrimps!"

"The field of which he pointed was planted in wheat."

They had been sitting in the old parlor talking on different topics and finally the subject changed to pugilism.

"Yes," remarked the prettiest girl, "father used to be quite a pugilist in his day."

"Indeed!" remarked the young man with much interest.

"Yes, and even now he is exceedingly clever with his footwork." And she still wonders why the young man called for his hat and cane and vanished.—Chicago News.

The visitors were welcomed by Mayor Nelson S. Pratt. The chief business of the convention is to discuss the proposed amendment to the standard rules by which every railroad in North America runs its trains. POLITICS AND VICE.

Often a Mysterious Connection Between Them is Suspected. The mystery of the connection between the police and the politicians and the under world, is one of the things which is always difficult to prove; but that there is such a connection is the only hypothesis upon which certain phenomena can be explained.

That some such entente existed a few years ago was not open to doubt. Politicians could grant or withhold immunity for certain forms of evil, and that they were paid for their protection no person with eyes to see and ears to hear could disbelieve.

Occasionally evidences of concerted effort to override the law are so plain that the only conclusion to be drawn is that the under world has been given a "tip" that the bars are to be let down. It may be noticed that if the press is silent for any length of time about vice it takes on boldness as if it had nothing to fear so long as publicity is not given its doings. These are the things which make the public uneasy when charges of corruption—though not sufficient to convict in a court of law—give intimation of where the trail leads.

We know that there are still with us politicians who live by their wits. Some of them live well. Few months pass without some development which gives the initiated ground for suspicion that the explanation of their affluence is to be found in some illicit connection with the only authority which the under world fears—the police and the criminal courts.

Whatever the secret, there is no question that politics has much to do with it.—Baltimore News.

CONE JOHNSON AT GAINESVILLE

In his speech at Gainesville Cone Johnson made a plea for elimination of extraneous issues from the campaign for governor, and with respect to a past difference that separated voters now engaged in a common cause he simply advised, "Forget it."

Referring to what he regards as a most remarkable joint discussion in the prohibition campaign of 1887 between Joe Bailey and himself, Mr. Johnson said it had a most unusual effect in that "Bailey made a prohibitionist of me and I seem to have made an anti-prohibitionist of Joe."

That was twenty-three years ago, when Cone Johnson, now a candidate for governor, and Joe Bailey, now a United States senator, were both rising young men. It matters not now, Mr. Johnson thinks, what were their varying views at that time, or what they stood for politically then; it is what they stand for now that the voter should consider and be guided by in his choice. Mr. Johnson also made the point that an anti-prohibitionist should not be permitted to assist in the selection of prohibition candidates, and he added: "I don't think he has any part in our councils because he is not on our side."

This was said in Mr. Bailey's home town, and was warmly applauded by Mr. Bailey's neighbors and friends, who have always stood by him with unswerving loyalty. If the issue in the campaign is to be prohibition against anti-prohibition, that must be the line-up, and every fellow must shine on his own side. But if the issue of prohibition is to be brought directly to a decision of the voters in an expression by ballot for or against submission, why should that issue affect the personality of the candidate? Why should prohibition cut any figure at all in the choice of the candidate if the matter is to be settled by the qualified voters in the primaries and the result is to be equally binding on the nominee, whether pro or anti?—San Antonio Express.

The recent speech delivered by Senator Dolliver of Iowa in the United States Senate will prove about the best campaign document the democrats can put out, provided that Taft is given a re-nomination by the republicans, and it looks like this will be done in the event that ex-President Roosevelt cannot be prevailed upon to take it.

Since the State Democratic Executive Committee has decided that the question of submission shall be voted on in the Democratic primaries on July 23, it has had the effect of working a great change in the race for governor, and now most papers that are not prejudiced in favor of this or that candidate, candidly admit that the winner of the nomination will be either Colquitt or Johnson—the radical anti will vote for the former, and the radical pros will rally around the standard of Johnson. That Colquitt has the inside track is admitted, from the fact that, to a certain extent, the Bailey question is cutting some figure in the contest, and the pros who cannot see their way clear to line up with the Tyler man, will cast their votes for Judge Poindexter, who, while strong in this particular part of the state, is not taking so well in other parts, and it is a race between Judge Poindexter and General Davidson as to which will have third place. There is also a rumor afloat to the effect that General Davidson views the situation in that light, and is thinking seriously of withdrawing from the contest. As these rumors emanate from sources not friendly to Davidson, it will not do to put too much faith in them. In his speeches, he speaks very hopeful and optimistic of the final result, but did in one speech say that if they kept after him he might conclude to throw up a sure thing for governor and run for attorney general. But this speech was made after it was too late to get his name on the ticket to be voted, and most people look upon the remark as a mere pleasantry. Even if he remains in the contest, it will not, in the opinion of most conservative papers, change the situation. In the event he withdraws, it might strengthen Colquitt and make his election more certain, and as Davidson is more friendly to Johnson than to Colquitt, it is not thought he will do this.

A PRAYER FOR NEWSPAPER MEN.

The following plea to the Almighty for newspaper men is taken from the July issue of the American Magazine: "O thou great source of truth and knowledge, we remember before thee the writers of books, the newspaper men, and all whose calling it is to gather and winnow facts and to inform the people. Grant them a determined love for honest work and a staunch hatred for the making of lies, lest they revert the judgments of our nation and teach us to call light darkness and darkness light. Suffer them not to drug the mind of our people with falsehood and prejudice. Since the sanity and wisdom of a nation are in their charge may they count it shame to set the baser passions of men on fire for the sake of gain. Grant them boldness to turn the unwelcome light on those who love the darkness because their deeds are evil. Put into their hands the shining sword of truth, and make them worthy sons of the champions of the people in the past who held truth to be a holy thing for which men should die. Make them realize that they have a public function in the commonwealth, and that their country may be saved by their courage and undone by their cowardice and silence. Grant them the heart of manhood to cast their mighty influence with the forces which make the people strong and free, and if they suffer loss may they rejoice in that as proof to their own souls that they too have been friends of the common man and servants of the higher law. Sometimes when you get sore on the pages, read this prayer over again. It will help you.

The work some of our officers are doing just now to rid the city, or at least the business portion of the city, of a gang of tin-horns and prostitutes is commendable, and so long as they keep up their good work the better class of the citizenship of Wichita Falls will stand by them. A number of raids on these low dives have been made during the past few weeks, and the officers declare it is their intention not only to raid these places, but to file complaints against the owners of the buildings in which these tin-horn gamblers and prostitutes rendezvous. Some of these places have been raided more than once, often enough in the eyes of the law to condemn them as public gambling dens. The Times believes our officers are making an honest effort to do their duty, and they need to be encouraged in this good work. Because a man will get drunk and perhaps stay drunk for weeks at a time, in the opinion of this paper, is no reason why such a person, if he happens to have some money, should have it taken away from him in a game of poker where the victim, being drunk and almost without reason or sense enough to sign his name correctly, should be relieved of his money by a set of dirty gamblers who have no honor, and are not entitled to the respect of any good citizen. Wichita Falls needs to be freed from that class of people, and if our officers will keep up their present good work, this will be accomplished.

Oyster Bay? It seems as if we had heard of that place somewhere.

The Tremendous Powers of the Contributors to Republican Campaign Fund

Secretary Shaw and Congressman Vreeland, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, indulged in a joint debate over the central bank before the New York City Republican Club at their luncheon Saturday.

It is not so important what they said concerning a central bank although they presented vigorous arguments pro and con, as it is that Secretary Shaw again took occasion to point out the tremendous power of Senator Aldrich, and to remark on its "affiliations." Secretary Shaw will not be believed in Iowa to be an alarmist over the threat of trusts, nor will it be easily credited that he has suddenly taken up the gage against Wall street. What he says is not from the standpoint of insurgency. After making several references to the great, wise and astute man who bestrides the senate, Secretary Shaw said:

"We now have a commission headed by this great man, and we are told that he wants a central bank. His report is not yet out, but we have no doubt as to what it will be, nor need any one, if he will consider who is the chairman of the senate committee on finance and what are its affiliations."

Now what did Secretary Shaw mean when he said no one need be in doubt if he would consider that the man in charge is Senator Aldrich, and then look at his "affiliations?" The answer is easily got at, for he gives it himself. The steel trust and oil trust want a central bank, and Senator Aldrich is their spokesman. Here are a few scattered sentences:

"Do you know any important city in the United States where the Standard Oil Company does not own one or more banks, or where the interests that control the United States steel corporation do not own likewise?"

"I believe that they could afford to pay the debt of the United States at the price of the charter."

"What did they pay the other day for the Equitable Life? What was the worth of the $60,000,000 or so of assets which they got through the control of $100,000 stock with a dividend limited to 7 per cent? Was it $9,000,000—I forget the exact amount."

"Now I am going to assume for the time being that it is a slander—although some people believe it—that the United States steel interests swiped the Tennessee Coal and Iron company. I will assume that they did not, but if they had a central bank they certainly could."

"Morse said the other day and rightly that the affiliated banks of New York could declare that any security whatever was not good as collateral. That was no more than the truth. And finally: 'These interests can fix the price of every product we have. If you are in New Orleans and want to borrow they can say whether cotton shall be seven cents or whether it shall go to ten or fifteen cents, according as they are on the bear or bull side of the market.'"

It is not so important whether this connection between the Standard Oil and steel trusts and the proposed central bank can be established as definitely as Secretary Shaw assumes; there are many able men who will dispute with him as to that. But it is important that the secretary expresses his own belief as to the connection between "the leader of the senate" and the great trusts, and it is important that it is Secretary Shaw who tells us what these trusts are in position to do and have already done.

The interest in the race for lieutenant governor in Wichita county is second only to that of the governor's race. From the way things now look the contest will be between Thomas and A. B. Davidson. The friends of both candidates are getting busy; and while it is not known that Lieutenant Governor Davidson will speak here at all, the friends of Senator Thomas will make an effort to have him return here and make another speech. If it could be arranged; a joint debate between Davidson and Thomas would be a very interesting affair.

The Missouri Democratic League is sending out literature urging the claims of ex-Gov. Jos. W. Folk for the democratic nomination for president. In the present state of affairs, the prospects for the election of a democrat to the presidency are most excellent, and Jos. W. Folk of Missouri, or Judge Harmon of Ohio, either, will come as near suiting the rank and file of the party as any other prominent democrat that could be named.

Governor Gillette has put a quietus on prize fighting contests in California. Charles A. Culberson performed that righteous act for the state of Texas, and Texas showed her appreciation by sending him to the United States senate. Perhaps Governor Gillette is of the same type of statesman as Culberson, and if so will be rewarded by his people.

PENNINGTON'S

The Times' circulation is growing steadily—just about as fast as Wichita Falls is growing, and knowing this to be the case, the Times is not worrying about the future. It is not one of those newspapers that believes in "padding" its columns to make a big showing, and in the future as in the past will continue to adhere to its policy of putting forth just as good a newspaper as the supporting soil can possibly afford. Quality and merit should stand for something, therefore a newspaper should not be judged alone by its foliage. Any other course would be disastrous, and not being overly anxious to "join those who have gone before," its readers can be assured that when Wichita Falls gets to be of that size that will justify the publishing of a real metropolitan paper, the Times will be here to fulfill that mission to the full measure. It is all right to be enterprising, and that counts up in the long run, but there is a vast difference between enterprise and business. Some awful good newspaper men of this day have not yet been able to draw the line of distinction between the two, but experience is a great school, and those who have paid the tuition fee once don't usually go back for a second graduation.

Governor Campbell is responsible for his administration, and it is to be regretted that, after he has discovered he has made a serious mistake and attempts to correct it by asking for the resignation of one of his appointees, the law is such that it does not give him the right to demand the resignation of that appointee when he refuses to step down and out at the request of his superior. Fire Insurance Commissioner Hawkins, from the way he has acted in the matter, seems to think this will be his last chance to get an office where he can wield so much power, and doubtless he is right. If the people of Texas were given an opportunity to pass on his case the Times doubts very seriously if ten per cent of them would approve his course in this matter. Usually, when men accept appointments and afterwards find out they are not in harmony with the administration in charge of affairs, they esteem themselves too highly to hold office under that administration and tender their resignation. The fact that Commissioner Hawkins refuses to do this leads many to believe that he has a motive other than service the interests of the people of Texas in holding on to this office.

There are a whole lot of good things about the Terrell election law, as well as bad, and one of the good things about it is that it does not permit the name of a Republican candidate to offer on a Democratic ticket for any office from governor, down. The Times is glad the County Democratic Executive Committee have at last discovered that clause in that very long law, and acted on it accordingly. If there are Democrats who want to vote for Republicans for office, they can have that privilege at the general election in November, but they should not participate in Democratic primary election. Under this election law, even though a Republican should get a majority of the votes cast in a Democratic primary election, it is held that the county convention has no power to declare that candidate the nominee of the party.

The campaign expenses of the four candidates for governor of Texas four years ago amounted to something like $40,000, and the candidate whose expenses were the greatest secured the nomination and the office. In this connection it might be well to mention also that the candidate receiving the smallest number of votes paid the least campaign expense. This year there are again four candidates in the field for that office, and according to reports, one has been in such financial straits for the past few years that he had failed or refused to pay taxes on some property rendered in his name, while another has no property to speak of on which to pay taxes, the tax records showing that he has rendered only about $350 worth.

There are two of the Davidsons to be voted for state office in this campaign, R. V. for governor and A. B. for lieutenant governor. They are cousins and good, sound men, in the opinion of this paper, but so far neither of them has made addresses in the interest of their candidacy in Wichita Falls. Of course, it is not possible for them to visit every town or city in the state, but unless they find out that Wichita Falls is on the map, some of the fellows up here who may be a little bit over-sensitive might not be able to discover that either of them are on the ticket to be voted on July 23.

In spite of the fact that one of our eccentric Mergenthalers made one of Wichita County's farms produce twenty-six hundred bushels of wheat to the acre, we cannot find it in our hearts to censure it.

The prohibitionists are planning for a grand rally at Abilene on the 25th. This rally, according to literature sent out by the committee, is for the purpose: "First, to perfect an organization to fight the open saloon and promote the interests of statewide prohibition and to concentrate to win in the fight for submission. Second, in the interest of the candidacy of Hon. Cone Johnson, believing him to be the only logical prohibition candidate, and the only candidate who can and whose platform will bring the desired results of statewide prohibition in the event that submission is again thwarted."

Wichita Falls tried to get the Farmer's convention and failed; she tried to get the Odd Fellows convention and failed; she tried to get the undertakers convention and failed. At first blush, it looks like a lot of wasted effort and money, but it isn't. The only way to land these meetings is to keep pegging, and the Times hopes that the same efforts will be renewed next year and if we fail again, just try again for these and other conventions until we land them. Wichita Falls can offer more for the entertainment of visitors than any other city of her size and we must bring these meetings here if it takes a decade.

Governor Thomas M. Campbell, in demanding the resignation of Fire Insurance Commissioner Hawkins, has performed an official act that should meet with the hearty commendation of every right-thinking, sober-minded, honest and upright citizen of Texas. Of all the grafting trusts that Texas has been burdened with, this present fire-insurance trust is the worst, and if allowed to charge the rates which they are now charging, it would not be a great while until many honest, straight-forward business men would be bound to retire from business.

The fact that Cone Johnson spoke at Corpus Christi the other day stamps him as a brave and courageous man. He deserves a hero medal for approaching so near the gulf. But Cone may be a good swimmer.—Amarillo Fanhandle. Cone also spoke at Gainesville, and was tendered a cordial welcome. He seems to be that kind of a "hyena" who is not afraid of water or loud noises.

Having the cheapest insurance in the State, with but two or three exceptions, Wichita Falls can watch the solving of the muddle at Houston with indifference.

BRICK PLANT WORK TO START SHORTLY

PRESIDENT KENTNER RETURNS FROM NEW YORK TO MAKE HIS HOME HERE

MACHINERY IS PURCHASED

Blue Prints for Buildings Are Now Being Prepared by Architects

From Thursday's Daily. H. Kentner returned today from New York, where he has been for several weeks and stated to a Times reporter that plans for the construction of the new brick plant, to be known as the Northwestern Brick Co., were rapidly maturing. Mr. Kentner returns to make Wichita Falls his permanent home and is this afternoon trying to solve the home and office problem.

The blue prints for the plant, according to Mr. Kentner, are now being prepared and will be here shortly. Work will not be started, however, while the hot weather lasts.

While in the east, Mr. Kentner purchased the machinery to be used in the plant and it will be here by the time the buildings are completed.

IMPERFECT HUMAN EYES.

Many Animals Can See Better Than Humans.

One of the doctors who has been visiting in St. Louis this week has pointed out the fact that the artificial lights of the present period are bad for the eyes, and that we do not see as well as the peoples of an earlier generation whose houses were illuminated by the colonial candles.

One of the facts which distinguish man from the inferior animals is that he sees less effectually than almost any of them. The fly, the eagle, the horse and other creatures put man to shame when a comparison of ability to see is made—the reason being, perhaps, that their existence depends upon their ability to see, whereas man can bring other faculties to bear upon the problems of existence.

May it not be possible, however, that the doctor we have quoted has traced his discovery to a wrong cause? Strength is imparted to those faculties which are used continually; and man has come gradually to the habit of using his eyes in only a limited sense.

The average man in the cities seldom looks more than a step or two ahead of him, while primitive man had to look long distances for his tribe, from which he had strayed; for his hut, to which there was no beaten path; for his food, which grew uncultivated; for his enemies, who were in hiding.

Man no longer examines anything closely. The fabric he wears he judges by the reputation of his tailor and the price. The foods he eats have, presumably passed the pure food experts, and is safe. If there be a man in the throng he must recognize with, he call up on the telephone and leaves word. He need not look far for a pretty face, for there is always one nearby.

As for those who must work at night, that is enough to break the spirit; and when the spirit is broken how can the eye or anything else be right?

There remains the reading which we do for our own pleasure; and whether for ill or good, we read more than our forefathers, who made no effort to turn night into day.

Perhaps it is only a sentiment which goes back longingly to the long nights, and the subdued and wavering lights from taper to dip.—St. Louis Times.

Prince Edward 16 Years Old

London, June 23.—Flags were displayed on all public buildings today and the customary official salutes were fired in observance of the sixteenth birthday anniversary of Prince Edward of Wales, eldest son of King George and heir to the British throne. Prince Edward, or the Duke of Cornwall, as he has been styled since the accession of his father to the throne, has recently joined his ship at Dartmouth. Within the next year or so he will probably start on a world cruise such as it is customary for all British princes to make in their youth.

A typical Anglo-Saxon lad is Prince Edward and extremely popular among his fellow cadets in the navy. He is known among his mates as a thoroughbred sportsman. He could ride his pony at five years of age and later he became proficient in swimming, cricket, football and boxing. Cross-country running, however, is his favorite sport and it is probable that few lads of his age in all England can outdistance him.

Now that he has entered upon his seventeenth year it is likely that he will be created Prince of Wales at an early date. If the investiture takes place in Wales, two towns, Carnarvon and Cardiff will contend for the honor.

BEWITCHING WOMAN DEFENDAN

Murder Case in Venice Has Interesting Figures

It is to the sorcery of her eyes—those wide, staring, night-like, hypnotic, black eyes—that Marie Nikolaevna, Countess Tarnovska, is chiefly indebted for a celebrity comparable only with that of Phryne among the ancients. "Amazing" is the term for those orbs in the judgment of the special correspondent in Venice of the London Mail. "Only Guy de Maupassant," he avers, "if he were alive, or Gabriel d'Annunzio, if he cared to, could describe the peculiar power of those weird black eyes. The wonder about the eyes of Marie Nikolaevna—and this no doubt may seem a paradox—is that they are totally expressionless. Their stare, their size and their shade never vary. I have observed her for thirty minutes while the clock of the court struck the hour and then the half hour, and I did not see those uncanny eyes blink a single time. And yet those inscrutable eyes appear to read 'one's very soul.' For has this inscrutability daunted the powers of characterization and analysis of that brilliant French woman of letters who writes for the Paris Gaulois under the pen name of Daniel Lesueur. She caught the overwhelming Tarnovska eyes full with her own. "The young woman has a long, pale visage wherein at first one sees but the eyes. Are they very beautiful? Have they that captivating potency which imposes itself upon the very children, if we are to credit the mother of the murdered man himself, the Countess Komaroffsky? The son of the victim, a mere boy, seems to have declared that he felt the eye of the Tarnovska, whom he adored, fixed upon him even when he did not see her, and that disobedience of the best in those eyes was utterly impossible." That air of melancholy, with which her countenance is clouded, adds the correspondent of the Paris Figaro, himself a critic of distinction, grows poignant when tears dim the luster of her eyes and make one realize the perfect art of "depicting Helen in tears the first time she appears in the Iliad, where her charms extort even from the venerable fathers of Troy one of the highest encomiums that ever were pronounced on beauty." Nothing to this observer so breathes the soul of poetry as the expression of these eyes, in which "the beautiful grief" of the prisoner extinguishes any idea of her legal responsibilities. She still remembers in the last extremity of sorrow that she faces her judge, and yet maintains all the sweetness of feminine complaint and tender expostulation with her eyes. Were there an epithet in the whole French language conveying an idea of perfect majesty blended with absolute beauty, he would apply it to the expression of this woman's eyes and still feel the inadequacy of the term.—Current Literature.

A gentleman was standing in the lobby of one of Birmingham's leading hotels when some one made a remark about it being so easy to get a little "wet refreshment" in the Magic City. The young man said: "I have been in Birmingham for nine days and I have never found that wet spot yet, and I want to tell you I have looked for it, too."

"The 'never sleep' negro porter of this hostelry had become interested in the conversation, and advancing close enough to the speaker to tip his cap politely, asked the question. "Boss where is you been stopping since you come to town—in de cemetery?"—Birmingham News.

AMARILLO TO GET TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND FOR HER PUBLIC BUILDING

Washington, June 22.—The Senate Committee on Public Buildings reported its bill today, increasing the house appropriations from $19,258,500 to $24,500,000. The Texas items in the bill are: Denison $40,000, Eagle Pass $25,000, Wichita Falls $25,000, Galveston $90,000, Paris $100,000, Brownwood $70,000, Clarksville $45,000, Cuero $45,000, Marlin $45,000, Bryan $50,000, Longview $50,000, Uvalde $50,000, Belton $5,000, El Paso $60,000, Huntville $5,000, Yoakum $5,000, Austin $210,000.

The foregoing are identical with the provisions of the house bill, and therefore will not be subject to change should the bill go to conference.

The following Texas items are reduced from the amounts authorized by the house bill: Marshall, cut from $65,000 to $60,000; Weatherford, cut from $65,000 to $60,000.

The house appropriation of $50,000 for Ennis was raised to $60,000.

The senate bill adds the following Texas items not in the house bill; Amarillo, court house and postoffice, $200,000; and sites for Stamford $10,000; Atlanta $5,000; Bay City $5,000; Beeville $5,000.

In addition to the new building and sites to be authorized in the pending bill, Supervising Architect Taylor still has 110 buildings authorized in the act of two years ago to construct. He disposes of these building projects at the rate of ten a month, thus making it a year before all of the contracts are let for the buildings in this last building act. Until then he will begin work on the plans and contracts for the buildings, which the pending measure may authorize.

The next Texas building to be constructed under the last act will be the one at Sulphur Springs, Tex., Supervising Architect Taylor assuring Representative Sheppard today that he will have the plans and specifications ready next month.

BIRDS KNOW THE GAME

They Are Masters of Movement in Aerial Warfare

The bird's art in mastering the air has become vitally important in creating that new element in international politics—air-power. Aerial battleships must not only be perfectly navigated to gain strategic positions to the wind, word of the enemy, but practice has shown that birds even point the way to aggressive tactics in aerial warfare.

A hawk, attacking a chicken, folds its wings while high above the ground, and drops like a bullet on its prey, for the same reason that tigers and lions, after stealing upon their victims, pounce on them in one irresistible leap. These tactics prevent flight or defense. Animals that are the natural quarry of birds of prey seem to have a dread of any object hovering above them. Instinct evidently warns them that the suddenness of such an attack is almost overwhelming. Mr. Dienstbach suggests that the swoop will be the most effective feature of the tactics of aerial warfare.

The Wrights, Paulhan and Latham have found that while descending from great heights their flying machines involuntarily swoop. One of Paulhan's passengers recently said that coming down was "awful—like shooting the chutes." The more conservative Wrights have tried to check this speed of descent. To avoid swooping, Orville Wright made a spiraled descent when ending his highest flights over Potsdam in the summer of 1909. But the high fliers, Paulhan and Latham, make a practice of swooping from great altitudes. Paulhan, who is less of the dare-devil than the far-seeing aviator, found that the very force of the plunge sends the aeroplane up again when the rudders are manipulated near the ground, lifting the machine's front edges.

An eagle swoops so suddenly on a cat that the prey falls to locate the point from which to expect the attack. For the same reason, men upon whom an air craft might swoop with the eagle's speed, would fall to fire efficiently. This situation would be similar to a cavalry charge, the nature of the surprise preventing the directing and concentrating of the fire of the aerial foe. Under the most favorable conditions, cavalry requires more than a minute to deliver a charge. In comparison, the air craft would swoop like a falling stone.

Such an attack might be made with a favorable wind, at a speed of 100 miles an hour. From a steady airship, moving at that speed, long-range guns would be fired with more exactness than from a destroyer running thirty-two knots an hour. Thus the swoop seems destined to become vastly superior to any similar attack in land or sea fighting, whether a charge by cavalry or by a torpedo boat. When surprised, an enemy's discomfiture should become intolerable, because of the leaden hail beginning with the inception of the swoop, and increasing furiously during the entire advance. Aiming back might then become highly improbable. In a few seconds one machine gun could concentrate a tremendous fire, which suggests that this weapon is an ideal one for the swoop.—Century Magazine.

MANLEY GRANTED BAIL

Criminal Appellate Court Reverses Dallas Judge

Texas News Service Special. Austin, Tex., June 23.—The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals just before adjournment this morning for the term granted bail for $7,500 to J. D. Manley, who is charged with killing Louis Richenstein with a bayonet on the occasion of President Taft's visit to that city last October. This reverses the holding of Judge Robert B. Seay of the Criminal Court of the Dallas district, who remanded Manley to jail without bond. The Criminal Appeals Court has adjourned until October 3.

And many a man will go out of his way to avoid saying a good word in behalf of his neighbor.

CHEROKEE INDIANS PAID FOUR MILLION DOLLARS AFTER WAITING 59 YEARS

Texas News Service Special. Tahlequah, Okla., June 22.—After waiting for fifty-nine years, the Cherokee Indians who came from Alabama and Georgia are today receiving money the total of which, with accrued interest, amounts to over $4,000,000. The first check was given to Mrs. Alice Wilson, of Talala, $110. Six thousand people are here, including many grafters.

The Indians have to form in line before the windows. Numbers are issued in advance to avoid confusion. Grafters were caught selling bogus numbers. The sheriff has twenty-five special deputies working.

When jealousy flies out of the window it usually takes love along if for no other reason than to keep from getting lonesome.

GLIDDEN TOURISTS THROUGH RINGGOLD

ONLY FOURTEEN OUT OF FORTY-FOUR CARS STILL REMAINED IN CONTEST

WICHITANS ARE ON HAND

Number of Local Automobiles Have Little Endurance Run of Their Own

From Thursday's Daily. Fourteen dust-covered automobiles, all that have survived of the forty-four that left Detroit early last week, passed through Ringgold yesterday afternoon and crossed Red River north of that place en route to Lawton, where they spent last night.—The rest of the cars have either become disabled or have so many points counted up against them that it was impossible for them to make a good showing.

The feature of the run from Dallas to Ringgold was the loss by the Chalmers car No. 5 of its perfect score. Up to yesterday not a point had been recorded against this machine, but near Bowie yesterday its engine was overheated and it was necessary to stop and take on water, which impaired the standing of the car.

The contestants crossed Red River on the Rock Island bridge. They understood that it was to be floored for them, but it was not, and they were forced to cross on the bare ties, which was accompanied with considerable labor and difficulty. Those who were questioned stated that yesterday's was not only the hottest run they had experienced, but the more laborious in every way. The following cars were still in the contest at Ringgold: A Chalmers-Detroit, driven by Pathfinder Dal Lewis; two other Chalmers cars; a Maxwell, 30, a Maxwell 22, three Molines, one Glide, one Premier and one Hgdon.

The contestants were greeted at Ringgold by a large party of autolists, most of whom were from Wichita Falls, together with several from Bowie and Henrietta. The Wichita party went from this city to Henrietta over a 24-mile route in seventy-two minutes and from Henrietta to Ringgold, about eighteen miles, in slightly over an hour. The return trip was made more delicately, partly on account of the fact that there was no occasion for hurry and partly because four of the autos got lost. One did not get in until the few small hours of the morning.

The trip was in the nature of an endurance run for the local machines and all of them stood the rough ride well. Ira Willis, in a "Flanders 20," accompanied by the Times man, acted as pilot and the little car set a pace that the others were at times hardly able to follow. The performance of this car and of the "AA Maxwell" driven by Carl Crow was considered excellent, they having a total mileage for the day of nearly one hundred miles without any trouble whatever. The Wichita party included: Ira Willis and John Gould, in a "Flanders 20;" C. E. Brown and Joe Kimble in an "AA Maxwell;" T. C. Thatcher, H. Cranmer, Walter Brown, Frank Collier and T. E. Dobson in Mr. Thatcher's "Maxwell 30;" Finer Avis and Carter McGregor in Avis' "Over-Mrs. T. T. Reese and Mrs. W. A. Reid in Mr. Reese's "Maxwell 30;" J. C. Tandy, Sam Scalling, N. Henderson, G. Barnett, Miss Annie Carrigan, Miss Ade Wood and Miss Snelly of Henrietta in Mr. Barnett's Studebaker.

Special to The Times. Chickasha, Okla., June 23.—The first of the Glidden tourist cars arrived here at 11 o'clock today and the last arrived at 1:30. The Chalmers No. 5 has still an almost perfect record, and stands first in the contest, Premier No. 1 has 10 points against it, and stands second. A Maxwell is third in the contest.

The Glidden tourists were given a reception by the local automobile club, and left at 2 o'clock for Oklahoma City.

Roosevelt-Alexander Wedding

New York, June 20.—Few weddings in recent years attracted so much general interest throughout the city as the wedding this afternoon at Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, corner Fifth Avenue and 55th Street, by which Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander, only daughter of Mrs. Henry Addison Alexander, of 42 West Forty-seventh Street, Manhattan, became the bride of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., the eldest son of ex-President Roosevelt. It was not a grand society event in the ordinary sense and there was no lavish display as could be seen at the Gould and Vanderbilt weddings, but it did not have to depend upon gorgeous decorations and other frills to attract attention. The mere presents of the former president of the United States at the ceremony was sufficient to make the wedding an event of more than ordinary interest and to attract thousands of curious people to the vicinity of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The church was handsomely but not extravagantly decorated and all appointments were rather simple but dignified. The bride, radiant in her beautiful white satin gown with trimmings of old lace, was assisted by her matron of honor, Mrs. Snowden Andrew Fahnestock, an intimate friend of the bride and herself a bride of only a few weeks. The bridesmaids, five in number, were Miss Ethel Roosevelt, second daughter of President Roosevelt, the Misses Harriet and Janette Alexander, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Alexander and cousins of the bride; Miss Jean W. Delano, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Delano, Jr., and Miss Jessie Millington-Drake of Paris.

Mr. Elyvyn Dupont Irving, a great grandnephew of Washington Irving and the bridegroom's most intimate friend, acted as his best man and the ushers, most of whom were former classmates of Mr. Roosevelt at Harvard, were Francis Roche, John W. Cutler, Hamilton Fils, Jr., E. Morgan Gilbert, Fulton Cutting, Elliott Cutler, Grafton Chanman, George Roosevelt, Monroe Roosevelt, and Kermit Roosevelt. Of the three latter the first two are first cousins of the bridegroom, and Kermit his brother, who accompanied ex-President Roosevelt on his hunting trip to Africa.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Henry M. Sanders, a great uncle of the bride, assisted by Dr. Gordon Russell of Cranford, N. J. The church was well filled during the wedding ceremony, but by no means overcrowded as only members of the two interested families, their relatives and friends had been invited to the church, excepting a number of persons who had been part of the Roosevelt establishment at the White House, when the father of the bridegroom had been President. Several of the former negro servants of the Roosevelt household were interested spectators at the ceremony. Ex-President Roosevelt cordially shook hands with them at the church door after the ceremony. The wedding was followed by a reception at the house of Mrs. C. B. Alexander on West Fifty-Eighth Street, which was attended by many hundreds of guests, among them men and women of note and social distinction.

The bride, who made her social debut only two years ago, is the granddaughter of Mrs. Henry M. Alexander, who was Miss Susan M. Brown, and a niece of Charles B. Alexander of New York, of Mrs. John J. McCook, and of the Rev. Matland Alexander of Allegheny, Pa. Her mother was Miss Grace Green, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Green of Ohio. Mrs. Alexander obtained a divorce from Mr. Alexander some years ago. The bride is also a granddaughter of the late Theron R. Butler. She is highly educated and a general favorite in society. She and her young husband were friends from childhood.

The young benedict, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., is the eldest child of the ex-president by his second wife, who was Miss Edith Carew, and a half brother of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. He graduated from Groton School in 1905 and entered Harvard University in the fall of that year. His father being then president, the young man attracted unusual attention which, being extremely modest, he sought to escape as much as possible. Following his father's example he went in for a strenuous life and, although somewhat under weight, obtained a position on the freshman football team. He never became a member of the Varsity team, but played on his class-teams with remarkable pluck. In his junior year he was duly initiated as a member of the Alpha Delta Phi and his father was present at the hazing which forms part of the initiation ceremonies.

Early in 1908, before being graduated, Mr. Roosevelt terminated his college work and in the following autumn began life as a wage earner in a carpet mill at Thompsonville, Conn. He rapidly worked his way up and is to be the agent of the Hartford Carpet Corporation in San Francisco. Aeronautics is his favorite recreation.

Yale's First Indian Graduate

New Haven, Conn., June 22.—In the class of nearly 300 graduates who received their diplomas today at the annual commencement exercises of Yale University the three who attracted most attention were Robert Alphonso Taft, son of the president; Cheng-S'ing Thomas Wang of Ningpo, China, and Henry Red Cloud of the Winnebago tribe of Indians. The last named is the first American Indian ever to graduate from Yale.

The formal exercises of commencement day began at 10 o'clock this morning. In accordance with custom, they included the singing of the first four verses of the Sixty-fifth Psalm, which was sung in 1718 on the occasion of the opening of the first college erected in New Haven.

The dinner of the alumni in the university dining hall followed the commencement exercises. At the conclusion of the dinner there was an elaborate program of toasts and responses, including a greeting from President Taft.

JAILBIRD AS AN EXPERT

Compares Prisons Here and Abroad to America's Distinct Advantage.

An undesirable citizen of Chicago, Frank Mathusek by name, alias Milwaukee Dutch, has had intimate experience of prison life in Europe and in America. At the threshold of a Missouri penitentiary he recently submitted to an interview in which he compared the jails here and abroad, to the distinct advantage of our American penal institutions. He complains that in Berlin he was imprisoned for five years for "easing a guy" of 20,000 marks, and for three years he was compelled to wear a black mask. The entire menu, morning, noon and night, consisted of soup. He had four pounds of meat in the five years. Once the prisoner had the temerity to ask for bread with his soup. He got the bread. But it was served with water in a dark cell, and for five days he was given nothing else. This was to punish Milwaukee Dutch for his audacious request. When he asked for reading matter he was still more severely penalized—ten days on bread and water was the answer.

In London it was not so bad. The creature comforts, in quality and in quantity, were no more desirable or numerous. The bedding consisted of a solitary, though well populated, blanket, and the diet was black bread and gruel. But the English autochthones, in an important respect, were more discriminating than the Americans. They gave the culprit only nine months for a job that in America would have landed him, he says, for fifteen years.

Prison life, with all its compensations, appears to pall upon the cosmopolitan Mr. Mathusek. He announces his intention of turning over a new leaf. "As soon as I get through with my Jefferson City engagement," he says, "I will settle down and be a farmer, or something like that." His virtuous resolution is to be applauded.

Prison was never intended to be such a comfortable place that a man would rather stay there than be at liberty. A prisoner is a human being, made in the image of his Maker, and he is entitled to humane treatment. But he has no right to complain if he does not find his narrow cell equipped with all the comforts of his home. After a varied criminal career in both hemispheres it may be a monotonous task to milk cows and plant potatoes, but Milwaukee Dutch will find himself much happier on his farm than he was when he knew that the next hour might find him securely handcuffed and en route to the somber austerities of the county jail.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

PRISONERS ESCAPE.

Twelve Saw Their Way Out of Jail at Muskogee.

Muskogee, Okla., June 20.—Twelve Wagoner county prisoners confined in the federal jail here, saw their way out of the building and escaped late Saturday night, and have not been apprehended. Five others confined in the jail refused to take advantage of the opportunity. John Karney, a farmer, reports being held up and robbed of a load of provisions and supplies and twenty dollars in money early Sunday morning. The authorities think the escaped prisoners committed the robbery. News of the jail delivery was not generally known until this morning.

WENDLING IS INDICTED

Alleged Murderer Believed to Be Hiding in This State.

Louisville, Ky., June 20.—The grand jury today indicted Joseph Wendling on the charge of murdering Alma Kellner and it is understood Governor Wilson issued a requisition a few moments later for Wendling, who is believed to be under surveillance in Texas. The police continue to preserve an annoying degree of reticence.

STRIKE IN BEAUMONT

Electrical Workers Want Shorter Hours and More Shifts.

Beaumont, Tex., June 20.—The electrical workers here went out on a strike this morning. They demand three day shifts of eight hours each, instead of two of twelve each.

The employers make no statement except that they are not ready to consider granting the demands and the assertion that the contracts on hand will not suffer because of the walk-out.

MIDGET VETERANS

Fascination of the Japanese Dwarf Trees.

The people wending their eager way to the new exhibition at Shepherd's Bush and those who, thinking they have exhausted its delights, wander with weary feet contentedly homeward down the long corridor, are always arrested, fascinated, and held by the curious charm of the dwarf trees, for the production of which the gardeners of Japan are so famed.

It is a strange, indefinable thing, this fascination of the gnarled and twisted little trees, beneath whose tiny branches such deep shadows lie hidden. Like the long-bearded dwarfs of German mediaeval fairy legend, they impress one strangely with their age.

One knows instinctively that they have never been young, they have never felt the joy of exuberant growth, the waiving, the wafting riot of wind and sunshine, the pelt of clean rain against the tall stem. Carefully sheltered and carefully pruned, they have lived sedately and look wise; they are forty, sixty, a hundred years old, but they have never been young.

Yet as one gazes at the two-foot veterans in their gray-green bowls, so alike yet so strangely reminiscent of the great cedar trees, their brothers, one seems to shrink like Alice in Wonderland till the mossy earth in the pot becomes a stretch of woodland and the little dark tree a giant of the forest, enduring eternally, changelessly untouched by storm or shrine, the embodiment of the eternal spirit of the cedar.

"I should like to have one," says a voice at my elbow. "I must have one," it repeated in firmer tones, and the owner moves toward the smiling Japanese who presides over the destinies of the little trees.—A. M. D. in Daily Mail.

The meeting followed the agitation of the question, which was presented to the school board, and to which the board replied by promising the best facilities for Mexican children in separate schools.

Members of the board today declared that the opposition to intermingling Mexican and white children was united, and it is asserted that there is no thought of receding from the stand taken.

COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS

CLERK'S AND SHERIFF'S OFFICERS WILL NOT BE DIVIDED ON BALLOT

APPLICATIONS ARE FILED

Official Primary Ballot is Arranged and Technicalities Attended to

From Monday's Daily. The County Democratic Executive Committee met at the court house this afternoon and prepared the ballot to be voted upon at the primaries on July 23. Nothing except routine business was transacted, save that the question of the division of the clerk's and sheriff's offices came up and was settled by the decision not to put the names of candidates for these offices on the ballot, as the offices do not now exist. It was agreed that it would be no reflection on the democracy of the candidates for these offices to run as independents next November if the offices have been created at that time.

Harley, Heath and W. W. Jackson have filed applications to be placed on the ballot as candidates for district clerk and G. A. Smoot Sr. and Harry Daugherty had applied for places as tax collector. Their names will not, under the decision of the committee, go on the primary ballot.

The committee also refused to put the name of E. A. Dale, candidate for county commissioner from the fourth district, on the ballot, he being a professed Republican.

J. A. Putnam representing Denny, W. C. Sherrod representing Wichita Falls, C. C. Huff representing Burkburnett and Dr. J. M. Bell representing Iowa Park, Clara, and Electra, were present. The official ballot was for county, district and precinct offices, arranged as follows, the places being determined by lot:

The ballot for precinct offices was also arranged and will be published later. Dr. J. M. Bell will succeed C. C. Huff as county chairman, he being the only candidate. Mr. Huff has declined to stand for re-election and Dr. Bell agreed to allow his name to be used.

An assessment of $20 each from county candidates and $7.50 each from precinct candidates was levied to defray the election expenses, which will amount to about $340. The committee then adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

SHOOTING AT HOUSTON

Woman Attacks Man Whom She Says Slandered Her

Houston, Tex., June 21.—Mrs. Geo. Beach, wife of a local photographer, was arrested down town here this morning on a charge of assault to murder. The arrest occurred after Mrs. Beach had fired four shots from a revolver at Charles Bader, formerly employed by Beach.

Bader escaped injury by hiding in a closet in the rear of the book store when Mrs. Beach entered and opened fire. Bader says he thinks the woman attacked him because he killed a dog at the beach home. He says Beach ordered him to kill two dogs and he killed one. Mrs. Beach ordered him off the place. He went.

Mrs. Beach says Bader slandered her after leaving. She says she had appealed to her husband, and because her husband was lax in his duty, she took the matter into her own hands with the intention of avenging her damaged reputation.

Pictorial Side Lights From Jeffries' Training Camp

(Ben Lomond, June 21.—Pugilistic experts who recently arrived at Jeffries' training camp have been surprised by the big fellow's grand condition. In fact, many of them have declared their opinion that if no accident or sudden illness befalls him he will enter the ring July 4 for his championship battle with Jack Johnson in perfect physical condition. A majority of the experts at the camp are of the opinion that he is practically in fighting condition now and needs only to watch with extreme care that he does not overtrain himself before the day of the battle. When the question as to how he felt was put to him Jeffries said: "I feel as strong as a bull. I just want to tear things. I can feel myself rounding into the same old condition that used to come to me in the old days." From now on boxing will play an important part of the daily training program. Jim Corbett will spar with Jeff several times a week in order to put an edge on the big fellow's speed. Although most of Jeffries' boxing has been indoors, from now on, weather permitting, the sparring will be in the open air ring which was recently erected.)

INSANE ARE STUDYING ART.

Drawing School Established for the Insane of Ward's Island Hospital.

In a sunlit, lofty room, whose large windows permit wide vistas of green sward and foliage in one of the most beautiful parts of the city, there gathers every day a class in art. While there are young men among the dozen students there are also men over 40. For several hours they listen to the suggestions and criticisms of a well-known novelist and artist. They make cartoons and water color sketches, draw designs for sofa pillows and occasionally work in brass and metal.

But when the day's work is over the students do not doff their aprons and put on queer cloaklike coats and broad brimmed hats and troop merrily down the stairs with cigarettes and pipes in their mouths. Instead, they scatter to other rooms which open in series, one behind the other. Then for the first time the visitor will notice that over the windows are steel netting and that the door is locked. For this is the new class in art in the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane on Ward's Island.

The class is only two weeks old. It owes its origin to the novelist and artist who has been in the hospital for about a year, following a general collapse after a long period of hard work. One day he went to Dr. William Mabon, superintendent of the hospital. "Doctor," said he, "there is nothing for curing the mental darkness and enabling the mind to perceive as training the eye. I think a class in art would be part of a good system of cure."

Doctor Mabon thought so, too. The result was the new art school. No one, in the ward of forty men, except the novelist, knew anything about drawing, but all wanted to learn. For the first lesson the ten who were selected for that day's training were told to copy something from a magazine. They were allowed to make sketches, which some of the others who showed a taste and appreciation of color values afterward worked over in water colors. Still others in the ward showed a bent toward decorative design.

By the end of ten days the pupils showed a strong competitive spirit. The inmates of Ward 45 take pride in adding to the beauty and comfort of their apartments. A little fish fountain is the work of a metal worker. At one end of the ward screens were set up on which were pinned the works

NEW WOMAN NOT MODERN.

Father Phelan Declares Medieval Sisters Most Advanced.

There is no new woman. The Reverend Father D. S. Phelan is responsible for this discovery, in a sermon delivered recently at the tercentenary celebration of the founding of the Visitation Order at the convent in Cabanne. He stated that to find the most advanced woman he had to go back over 300 years ago to St. Jane de Chantal, founder of the Visitation Order.

Women even of the cloister, he said, were imbued with the demand for change and were trying to develop a new sort of saint. "Women of this cloister," he declared, "were women of the world yesterday, and they come in here with all the ideas of the new woman. They have come in here perhaps to develop a new sort of saint. But they soon get disillusioned."

"They are made to pull down their honors and go back to the old French woman, who 300 years ago left the bosom of her family to give herself entirely to God. They too soon learn that the new woman is the old woman."

"The world is supremely interested in the ideal woman. The world loves change. Change is not necessarily improvement. There is no essential change in men and women today. They are the same selfish, fickle and thoughtless beings they always have been."

"The demand for change is not heard in the church. The perfect Christian man or woman is the ideal man or woman of every age and every class. Christ is the perfect man, and all Christian perfection must go back to the days when He walked in Galilee."

"The founder of the Visitation Order lived over 200 years ago. Why are there persons today emulating his life to its minutest particular? They regard her as the ideal woman of today. She was a French woman of the ancient regime in life and education, the antithesis of the woman of this age."—St. Louis Star.

Young! Young Woman!

Do you aspire to a position of responsibility, wherein you shall have the opportunity of reaching forward for larger and greater things and where your individuality of personality shall have an opportunity of helping to mould the progress of the Twentieth Century? Should you have an ambition akin to this outline, the necessity then revolves upon you of making definite preparation, that you might be equipped to creditably maintain such position amid the progress in the midst of which you are living. Never before was the field of opportunity quite so rich for the young person that has made definite preparation and our whole course of instruction is arranged that the pupil might get the very largest practical results from a series of earnest efforts with us. We teach all branches of business activity of general interest, namely: BOOKKEEPING, PENMANSHIP, BUSINESS CORRESPONDENCE, BANKING, COMMERCIAL LAW, SHORT-HAND and TYPEWRITING. All of the subjects referred to are based upon our own authorship, or taken from authors whose success in their several lines has been proven by years of practical usage. We shall be pleased to deal with you at length concerning any special subject upon application.
