

PACIFIC TO GULF LINE NEAR REALITY

J. J. Hill's Dream About to Be Realized—Only Two Links Lacking

Denver, Colo., Oct. 11.—James J. Hill's vision of a great new railway from the Pacific to the Gulf of Mexico via Denver is about to be realized.

Secrecy characterizes this big plan. Months ago an inkling of the true object of the Burlington and Colorado & Southern work in Wyoming and Colorado became known.

Now everything is ready for action. Rights of way have been secured, land bought and there is nothing lacking.

The railroad is securing rights of way and land along the route of its new line to connect the Pacific ocean at Seattle and Spokane with the Gulf of Mexico at Galveston via Denver.

Two links are needed in the transportation chain. One is just outside of Denver. It will connect Hudson with Greeley. It will be twenty-six miles long.

The J. J. Hill railroad system which controls the Burlington, Great Northern and Colorado & Southern lines, is doing the Greeley-Hudson construction under the name of the Colorado Railway company.

Greeley people say that $60,000 has been spent by the road in their locality of late. Hudson residents report that the road has paid $14,000 for rights of way through the town property. The estimated cost of the Greeley-Hudson link is $70,000.

DECISION EXPECTED TODAY. Judge Cotterall Will Make Ruling on Swanson County.

Guthrie, Ok., Oct. 10.—Federal Judge Cotterall will give a decision tomorrow in the Swanson County case, wherein the Dorsey Printing Company of Dallas seeks to enjoin the officers of Swanson, Kiowa, and Comanche counties and J. E. Terry, named by Judge Tolbert of the Kiowa County District Court, as receivers for Swanson County.

The Dorsey Company in this manner seeks to collect money, alleged due for the records furnished the Swanson officers when the county was created.

GREAT STATE FAIR GROWS

President and Secretary Worthy of Much Praise.

SEVERAL NEW FEATURES.

Livestock Pavilion One of the Permanent Improvements—Large Exhibitors Also Constructed Handsome and Commodious Structures.

The Great State Fair of Texas continues to grow and expand, due to the untiring energy of President E. J. Kiest and the veteran Secretary, Captain Sydney Smith.

Among the permanent improvements for 1911 is the Livestock Pavilion which is being constructed of steel, concrete and brick at an aggregate cost of $50,000.

This building is second to none as to appointments and is in thorough keeping with all other department buildings heretofore erected on the grounds. It will be thrown open to visitors and exhibitors on the opening day, October 14th, and all awards and judging of livestock will be done in the spacious arena.

For several years different large exhibitors, realizing and appreciating the great importance of thoroughly exhibiting their products, and looking to the comfort of their customers, have constructed their own individual buildings of concrete and this year it is the E. E. Avery, Sons' Plow Co., and the Mitchell-Lewis Motor Co., who are doing this. Each of these concerns are constructing handsome concrete and fireproof buildings, each 75 feet in dimensions, with rest rooms and every convenience for their friends and visitors and at a cost of $5000 each.

Another feature building being constructed by the Fair management this year is that for the United States National exhibit. The large steel Elks' arch which is 40 feet and was formerly located on the corner of Main and Akard streets, Dallas, has been removed to the fair grounds just east of the Exposition building. This arch will be enclosed and devoted entirely to the use of the Elks' National exhibit.

That there is nothing too good for their patrons and friends.

PREMIUMS AND PURSES. That the State Fair of Texas will be larger and greater than ever before is a foregone conclusion judging by the announcements made by President E. J. Kiest, and the veteran secretary, Captain Sydney Smith, and as shown in the handsome 210 page catalog and the many detail booklets which are being mailed to every one and in which are many new and interesting features.

From the 1911 Fair and Exposition the sum of $245,000 will be expended in premiums, permanent improvements and operation, as follows: Premiums, $27,000; race purses, $23,000; permanent improvements, $10,000; general repairs, $5,000; operation, $75,000; attractions, $20,000; making a total of $200,000.

It is the additional valuable premiums offered by various concerns over Texas for the Boys' and Girls' Hog Club of Texas, and for whom the Fair management has prepared special pens for the accommodation of their exhibits.

While the Boys' and Girls' Hog Club movement was only started this year, it has aroused a great deal of enthusiasm over the entire state and keen competition is expected in all of the various classes provided for in the catalog.

The Boys' Corn Clubs continue to add increased membership and at the last report there were 20,000 members in Texas. Tuesday, October 24th, has been designated by the Fair management as the day for the Boys' and Girls' Hog Club day at the fair and preparations are being made for a full attendance of both Clubs. A special program is being prepared for their entertainment and nothing will be left undone for their pleasure.

The management has furnished the Secretaries of both clubs with handsome buttons and pennants for all of the members and of which every boy and girl in Texas is proud.

There will be many other interesting features, in agriculture, to all farmers boys and girls, and which will long be remembered and appreciated. Of special interest will be the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical exhibit—a demonstration, which will be located in the east end of the manufacturers building.

KENNEL SHOW. The annual bench show of the Texas Kennel Club will be held, October 19-20-21, and 22, under the rules of the American Kennel Club and under the supervision of Dr. George W. Claxton of Chicago, and Dr. E. T. Cox of Dallas. A greater number and more valuable prizes will be offered. Many of the most notable kennels in the United States will be represented as well as those of Texas and visitors from Dr. Claxton are bubbling over with enthusiasm regarding the great show and many entries that are being made for the State Fair of Texas at Dallas. Who is it that does not love a good dog and why?

LADIES' TEXTILE DEPARTMENT. Request for catalogs by ladies is being received daily and several have written that while they have never attended the State Fair of Texas, they have heard so many glowing reports of its greatness that they wish not only to go to the fair but to see the weavers of Texas.

SOUTH PAYS TAX ON COTTON TRADE

Millions of Unnecessary Tribute Goes to Finance Exports. New York, Oct. 11.—The South in five years has received nearly $41,000,000,000 for its cotton; more than $2,000,000,000 of this huge sum has been paid to the South by foreign buyers. Cotton is the bulwark of our foreign export trade.

REDUCED RATES FOR DALLAS FAIR

For the occasion of the Dallas State Fair, the Wichita Falls Route, in connection with other roads has arranged a schedule of reduced rates from all stations on its lines. The rates are effective October 13 to 28th, inclusive. The schedule is divided into three classes, embracing the different lengths of time for which the tickets are good. Class A ticket will be on sale from the 13th to the 22nd, good returning up to midnight of the 26th.

Gov. Harmon, of Ohio, while not the choice of the Times as the nominee of the Democratic party for president, is the favorite of quite a number of Texas Democrats.

Col Henry Watterson the distinguished editor of Louisville Courier Journal and perhaps the greatest of American editors was the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Associated Press Newspapers of Indiana at Indianapolis on the 21st of last month.

In the course of his speech Col. Watterson had the following to say on successful journalism: "The personal can never be wholly obliterated from journalism."

As the public comes to be better educated the virtues and not the vices of the newspaper will command priority in the market.

Already we behold them in the daily newspaper on every hand. It may still be said of it as of the writing of Henry Fielding, that the cloth is not always of the cleanest and that dishes might sometimes be better chosen; but that as a rule it has a jovial, happy faculty of standing by the weak and resisting the strong.

There's one thing sure, Randall will never warm the seat made vacant by Senator Bailey's refusal to be a candidate for re-election.

Better not be quite so sure about that. Randall is no political coward, and as a general thing it is a trait that appeals strongly to many voters.

L. C. Alexander of Waco is a candidate for the United States Senate. His only claim to distinction so far as he has denounced Wilson as a populist and tied on to the coat tail of Harmon.

Gov. Wilson made objection to the Democratic State Convention of New Jersey endorsing him as a candidate for president, giving as his reason that the choice of president is vested in the people, through delegates, to the National Convention.

Major Moss Harris suggests in the Texas Republic that Judge Jim Wells would make an ideal successor to Senator Bailey. The suggestion is an admirable one and would meet with favor all over the state.

What might have been had Admiral Villeneuve attacked the British fleet in 1806 instead of shilly-shallying around the Spanish harbors, history will never record.

What more conspicuous instance of fatal vacillation than General Boulanger, the man on horseback, who, had he once spurred his horse in the flank, might have ridden into Paris which was ripe for a coup d'etat?

Alas, how pitiful is the spectacle of a man whose courage is unequal to his ambition! It is far better to move forward and make some mistakes, along with a high percentage of accomplishments, than to jeopardize the present and the future because of indecision.

Eves at the risk of failure; it is better, after all, to "start something" which is possible to recover from an error—to set your feet finally in the right direction.

It was something illustrative of the irony of things that Rear Admiral Schley, falling dead in a New York street, was not recognized by any person in the crowd that so quickly gathered.

Schley, as a character in the Nation's history, developed in the Spanish war when chance left him in command of the United States squadron which annihilated the Cervera fleet so long bottled up in the Cuban harbor at Santiago.

Schley was not a popular officer in the navy. Criticisms were made of him and of his maneuverings for his flagship, the Brooklyn.

dividual vacillates, halts, and retards his progress, fearful that a step forward may be a plunge into oblivion. This constant dread of making a single move unfits the hesitant to move at all, and he finds himself ultimately a palsied monument to his own indecision.

After Waterloo, Napoleon, vanquished and consigned to St. Helena, spent his declining years criticizing Grouchy the field-marshal of indecision. But even the vehemence of Napoleon's denunciation of his tardy general did not wipe out Waterloo.

wasn't much of a job for a naval hero who had taken Manila Bay without loss of a vessel or of a single man.

Admiral Schley was the next logical victim of the same misplaced popular sentiment. Accepting like flatteries as those tended Dewey and making his great tour of the country, however, Schley's name was dropped also from any place in the next presidential list of eligibles.

So far only one of the five senatorial candidates have come out in favor of a senatorial primary to be held prior to the regular primary, so that the race could be narrowed to two candidates to be voted for in the regular primary.

In every community there live some who have been benefited by Cardul. The beneficial effects of this time tested woman's remedy, soon show themselves in many different ways.

It is said that Senator Culberson was once asked if some sheep in a neighboring field were white. His reply was that they looked white on his side.

But Morris Sheppard would give a different reply. He would say: "On yonder hillside those beautiful sheep are gambolling. How lovely is yonder picture of those ewes and lambs. How tenderly the mother sheep watches over her offspring. What a sweet scene of parental devotion. My brother, there is a beautiful lesson in that flock of sheep. What matters it if they are not white on the farther side. They are white on both sides and their whiteness adds beauty to the picture I have explained to you. If they are black on the other side my friend, the scene would be just as beautiful if the sheep were turned around."—Dallas Times Herald.

Had the same interrogatory been propounded to Thomas Mitchell Campbell, Plain Tom would have smiled. Then he would have taken a fresh shew of natural leaf and smiled again.

Senator Bailey would have said: "Yes sir; they ARE white. A lot of umbrellas who ought to be in the asylum for the insane are going over the country saying the sheep are not white. They ought to be bored for the simples."

General Lightfoot would have answered about like this: "There is evidently a whitish tendency. However, we should always be sure of our grounds before we speak. I will examine the sheep microscopically tomorrow and submit a written opinion as to their color."—Honey Grove Signal.

Judge L. C. Alexander of Waco, has announced as a candidate for the United States senate. The judge is anti-Wilson and anti-several other things and people.

Colonel Wolters should not hesitate Houston is not a very large city, but it is big enough to furnish two candidates for the senate.

One of the many charges brought against a college diploma is that it doesn't help its possessor to get a job in the busy rushing world, but rather hinders him by causing his ability to practical things to be regarded with suspicion.

This is by no means entirely true, but there is enough of substance in the charge to cause it to survive persistently. Undoubtedly in the past the possession of a diploma has too frequently meant familiarity with the facts of bygone times of the present day, knowledge of theories, but inability to put them to practical use.

HOW ONE WOMAN WON

Her Health and Strength Back Again by The Use of Cardul.

Tampa, Fla.—In a letter from this city, Mrs. E. C. Corum writes: "I was all weakened and worn out with womanly troubles. My husband brought me some Cardul as a tonic, and from the first day, it seemed to help."

Cardul acts specifically on the weakened womanly organs, strengthening the muscles and nerves, and building them up to health. It helps to refresh the worn-out nervous system and relieves the effects of overwork, both mental and physical.

It has been one of the defects of college athletics in the past that a few members of the big teams and their substitutes get all the exercise and absorb all the athletic interest, the rest of the college being reduced to idle, even if enthusiastic spectators.

Along with a number of other things this, too is being included in the fuller meaning of a college diploma.—Atlanta Georgian.

MONEY FOR CROP-MOVING. Saturday Evening Post. This is the poorest season to borrow money because the price is highest. A tabular statement of the average rate on prime commercial loans at New York for each week in the year over a period of nineteen years shows that the borrower in the latter part of September and the early part of October pays fully 1 per cent more than the borrower in February, May or June.

The reason for the higher autumn rate is, of course, that money is then required to move the crops. The eastern banks, in September and October, ship out nearly two and a half times as much currency as they receive.

From time to time other causes conspire with this seasonal dislocation to produce an acutely distressing situation, as happened in October, 1907. There is no sound reason for shunting a considerable part of the country's ready cash back and forth between the reserve centers and the harvest fields, while there are a number of sound reasons against it.

Will congress, by any lucky chance, have a little spare time this winter for the consideration of banking and currency?

CAPITALIZATION AT ACTUAL VALUE

opportunity that the bankers will have to perform this signal public service and to direct and safeguard for the future the occupation in which they are engaged.

Mr. Hill told the bankers that the subject of his address was the banker's relation to wealthy production, the distribution of wealth, the exchange and distribution of wealth, the distribution of the unsatisfactory business condition of the country, and declared that great business, particularly the railroad operations, were at a standstill because so many important business interests are either under fire or apprehensive of assault.

"Nearly all of the outcry and activity against corporate wealth," he asserted, "is for reform."

The proof of this is the simplicity and effectiveness of the real remedy which is not applied. It would be an easy matter to put an end to the abuses of both monopolies and trusts. Enforce the laws against those who break the trust.

The trusts will not disappear as long as they are compelled to show that every dollar of their capital stock has been paid for in cash or property and labor at a fair valuation. Oblige every corporation to do this under penalty of an assessment on stockholders to make good any deficiency in capital or surplus, or in the valuation of actual value received or used in business. Present conditions will require some radical reform of our transactions already accomplished, which should not exist in the face of facts that are being brought to light.

Examine the political nostrum now most talked of as saviors of society, humane in intent though many of them be, and it will be found that they all involve the continued expenditure of large sums of money, to be collected by taxation. The men who pay these taxes are the holders of property. The men who vote these expenditures are the taxpayers plus that considerably more numerous body of electors who either pay taxes or a share so inconsiderable that its increase or decrease is not felt. Hence, constantly increasing dissension in the nation and the states to change the distribution of wealth by legislation; taking it by enormous appropriations from those who have accumulated it and scattering it among those who did not delay; but it is not doubtful. Capital is exhausted and is not renewed. The motive vanishes. The public is educated to refuse work, to spend lavishly, to look to the state as the cow that can keep everybody supplied with all the milk he may want indefinitely. Labor suffers in the end exactly as it does when it is first meekly per day are reduced to two by one. Activity subsides, the total amount of wealth in the country diminishes; both by removal to other communities where its security and its reward are greater and by the steady encroachment of consumption on production. National indigence approaches.

But perhaps the worst effect of all is seen in the deterioration of national character. The wealth may be distributed by state and opportunity of the individuals, who cease to envy, greed, hatred, and every form of malice flourish, and may even be the form of virtue. Materially and morally this substitution of man-made, arbitrary methods for the working of permanent natural forces working through well established economic law leads to national decay.

Speaking of the farm, Mr. Hill said that the main fact about that industry is that it is producing today less than one-half of what it could be made to produce, without material additional outlay of capital or labor.

"The average yield of wheat in the United States for the five years ending in 1910 was eight-sevenths of a bushel per acre more than in the five years ending in 1905," he continued. "It was less than four-tenths of a bushel more than for the ten years ending in 1905. The average crop product for the ten years ending in 1910 was a little less than for the ten years ending in 1875. In thirty-five years have not advanced us a step. European countries—Great Britain, Germany, France—with inferior soils and less favorable climate, produce crops practically double our own. In our studies of conservation we find no waste comparable either in magnitude or importance to this.

"The farm will fail and the foundation of all our prosperity will be undermined unless agriculture is reformed. Already the percentage of our people actively engaged in farming has fallen from 47.36 in 1870 to an estimated 32 in 1910. Every man on the farm today must produce food for two months against one forty years ago. Note the abandoned farms of New England and the Middle States. Six rural counties in New York show a population loss in the last ten years of more than 9,000, while the two cities they contain increased by over 4,000. The homes of the Puritans are in the hands of the thrifty French Canadian and the immigrant from Continental Europe. Farm lands in many states are already exhausted and being deserted. The average American farmer has no equal for carelessness and for adhering to discredited methods of cultivation.

"Unless we adopt improved methods of farming we will soon be unable other industries that we are building on a constantly narrowing base.

"These methods are simple and well known. The essentials are rotation of crops, more intensive farming, a more frequent and thorough cultivation of the soil, careful seed selection and the judicious use of fertilizing material. Seed selection alone is of great importance. It has added from $8,000,000 upward to the value of a state's crop.

"Among the other important changes that have occurred during recent years is the great reduction in the number of competent farm laborers. A sufficient supply of good farm-labor is necessary. If we are throwing away, as we are, eight or nine billion dollars a year, the saving of it is important to everybody; and to you and other bankers, most desirable. Careful farming will make eighty acres do all that one hundred and sixty do now."

THE PEOPLE WAITED FOR "BIG CIRCUS"

in-harmony in the arena under the master hand of the fearless John Helstott, and the tricks he has them perform is indeed wonderful.

At the usual time this evening the big tent will open to the crowd for the second and last show in this city. The afternoon attendance was good and the tent is expected to be packed again this evening.

RAILROAD CONTROL OF WHARF FACILITIES

Washington, Oct. 11.—A general inquiry into the control by railway companies of docking wharves and pier facilities including Texas points was instituted by the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

Wrecks on Katy.

Greenview, Oct. 11.—Two wrecks are reported on the Katy today. One at Bonham Junction, the other at Bluefords. Their nature is not known here.

J. M. Martin, District Manager for the Fraternal Brotherhood, an Insurance Order with headquarters at Los Angeles, Cal., has moved from Texas, near to Wichita Falls, and will make his home for the present at 1608 Austin avenue.

WASTED MONEY FOR POOR DRUGS

What a lot of money is added to the profits of unscrupulous druggists, who substitute for an ingredient called 'see' in a physician's prescription, or who substitute a cheap article "just as good" when you call for some standard preparation.

Some people seem to care so little about it that it isn't any wonder the practice is so common. If honest goods are not already our customer, give us a trial, put us to the test, and see how well we practice what we preach.

STATE UNIVERSITY GEOLOGIST HERE

Dr. J. A. Udder, geologist for the bureau of economic geology and technology in the State University arrived in Wichita Falls this afternoon for the purpose of beginning a geological survey of Wichita and Clay counties.

Dr. Udder will have charge of all of the field work for this department and will make his headquarters here until the first of the year. The work comprehends first a thorough investigation of the gas and oil resources of the territory, and will also include an inquiry into the clay and building stone and aggregate water resources. It is also possible that a general soil survey may be made, although the funds available for the work are not sufficient to cover the expense of such a survey at present.

Dr. Udder will travel through every part of the county in an automobile and will make a very exhaustive inspection of each land section. The work is of the utmost importance to the county as a whole, as well as to every individual, and he should have the hearty co-operation and assistance of every one.

TWO BURGLARIES REPORTED TODAY

From Wednesday's Daily.

This morning when W. Rountree and family were downtown to see the parade someone entered their house on Tenth street and secured a child's bank containing $16 and took a purse containing $3 from a writing desk. Drawers were pulled out in several rooms indicating that the whole house had been ransacked.

A negro was at work in a wash house in the back yard and reported that a well-dressed stranger came up to her and asked if any one was at home and upon being informed that all were gone, remarked that he would call later.

This is believed to be the man who got the money.

A farmer named Norris reported the loss of $80 to the police this morning. He had been picking cotton in the country and returning to his farm near this city. He stopped at a wagon yard last night and went to sleep with the money under his pillow. When he awoke this morning the money was gone.

JUDGES MAKE MOVE AGAINST DIVORCE

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 10.—The eight Circuit Judges of Jackson County in a meeting en banc today passed a resolution for the appointment of a special attorney to investigate divorce cases for facts to be presented to the courts. The intent of the resolution is to make it more difficult to secure divorces, especially through default. It is the first long step to curb the rush of divorce seekers to Kansas City from other parts of the State and from other States and to enable the Judges to distinguish between the worthy and unworthy divorce seekers.

It was Judge Thomas J. Seehorn's plan and was unanimously adopted by the eight Judges. Immediately after they had adopted the resolution Judge Seehorn went before the Judges of the County Court and informed them of the action of the Circuit Judges. Judge H. C. Gilbert, Judge E. L. Martin and Judge E. E. Axline of the County Court said they thoroughly approved the plan and directed Judge Seehorn to prepare an order to put on the minutes of the County Court appropriating $100 a month to pay the expenses of an attorney to investigate divorce cases before they are tried.

The attorney will be empowered to take depositions in any part of this and other States, so that a person coming here from another State simply because this city has the reputation of being an easy divorce mart will be sadly disappointed in the future. Kansas City is in Jackson County and has long had a reputation of being an easy place to get a divorce.

A MASS MEETING SATURDAY AFTERNOON

F. H. Day, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, requests The Times to announce a mass meeting to be held at the court house Saturday afternoon at 1:30 for the purpose of discussing ways and means of getting a better price for cotton.

It is the desire of the Chamber of Commerce in calling the meeting at this time to have a joint session of the farmers and business men of the city, in order that both may express their views, and possibly arrive at a better understanding.

This meeting is called as the result of an action along this line taken by the Commercial Secretaries Association in session last week, and is the first of the kind to be held. Following that meeting, the meeting Saturday is styled as a get-together meeting, and its purpose is so universally mutual that everyone should attend.

Among the prominent speakers will be Hon. Peter Radford, state president of the Farmers Union, who it is expected will outline the policy of that organization to bring about the desired end.

SECRETARY DAY WANTS EXHIBITS

Secretary Day has rearranged the rooms and re-decorated the walls of the Chamber of Commerce, using in the decorations a series of views of various points of interest in the city and the output of the different lines of industries. He has also arranged a new collection of the natural resources and productions of the county and city. The collection of the products are not complete as yet, and Mr. Day would be pleased to have any one who has any thing of value as an advertisement to the city to send him a display sample.

The display of these products, when grouped as they are at the Chamber of Commerce, is so much more comprehensive than one would imagine possible, that its advertising possibilities are readily appreciable.

Suffragists Not Discouraged. By Associated Press.

San Francisco, Oct. 11.—Woman suffrage was defeated in the California elections yesterday by about five thousand votes. The San Francisco vote being the deciding factor against.

The suffrage leaders here declared they were in no way discouraged over the apparent defeat of the suffrage amendment and that plans were already under way to put the issue to another test under the initiative and referendum amendment which carried in yesterday's election.

W. LEE MOORE SEVERELY INJURED LAST NIGHT—INJURIES NOT BELIEVED SERIOUS.

From Wednesday's Daily.

W. Lee Moore, of the firm of Moore & Richolt of this city, was severely injured last night by the accidental overturning of a surf in which he and his family were riding while on their way to the evening performance of the Seils-Floto circus. Mr. Moore's right hip was badly sprained and several ligaments were torn loose, but it is not thought that his injuries will prove serious. None of the family were hurt, which escape was almost miraculous considering the nature of the accident.

It seems that the road to the Wichita Sheet Metal Works has recently been graded up until it now forms a high embankment, an improvement of which Mr. Moore was not aware.

Mr. Moore, in the darkness and not being aware of the change, attempted to drive over the old road in the Sheet Metal Works, where he intended to tie the horse preparatory to proceeding to the circus. In attempting to do this, he drove over the steep embankment, and the surf was turned completely over with the results above mentioned.

Mr. Moore was removed to his home and the services of physicians called upon pronounced his injuries as not serious, although likely to prove so. He was resting as easy as could be expected this morning, and it is thought that his recovery will be rapid.

The "Higher Education."

In the opinion of a great many persons less attention is paid nowadays to instruction in the arts of cooking and altogether too much to what is called "higher education." This raises an interesting question. What is higher education? It generally means a thin veneer of so-called "culture" spread over an intellectual soil that has not been prepared to receive and absorb it. One might as well spread

W. L. YOUNGER DROPPED DEAD AT IOWA PARK

From Wednesday's Daily.

W. L. Younger, postmaster at Iowa Park since 1897 and one of the highly respected citizens of that town, dropped dead at his home there at about 7:30 o'clock this morning from neuralgia of the heart.

Mr. Younger was apparently in good health up to the minute of his death, and it comes as a shock to the community.

Mr. Younger was about fifty-five years of age, and had been a resident of Iowa Park many years.

The widow, two sons, John and Ramsey now living at Beaumont, and a daughter, Mrs. Walter Tyson, of Whitney, Texas, survive.

The funeral service will be held tomorrow afternoon but the exact hour had not been announced this morning.

THE PLACE FOR WILEY

(Brooklyn Eagle)

A couple of Washington men were discussing the reported plan of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, to ask President Taft to transfer Doctor Wiley, the pure food man, and his bureau of chemistry to some other department, on the ground that the activities of the famous watchman of our food and drink do not properly fall within the scope of crop raising and insect investigating.

"Wilson wants to put him in the Department of Commerce and Labor," remarked one. "Perhaps he does belong there."

"Not at all," rejoined the other. "Wiley ought to be transferred to the Department of the Interior."

"I don't see how he would fit in there."

"You don't? Why, man, Doctor Wiley knows more about the United States' interior and the stuff that is fed to it than any man in the country. He ought to be made Secretary."

EVIL HABITS ARE A GREATER DISADVANTAGE THAN DEBTS.

(Success Magazine)

Is it not a disheartening thing to go through life under the narrow of debt, struggling to get release under circumstances that give no hope of relief? Is it not unfortunate to feel that we can never lift the mortgage from the home, that in spite of all our efforts it must finally be sold over the heads of those dearer to us than life itself? But all this is nothing compared with the mortgage of vice upon the character which blights the life.

The nicotine mortgage upon your vitality, the alcohol mortgage which hardens your nerve fiber, benumbs the brain cells, paralyzes the power to achieve and makes you a slave instead of a king, are incumbrances compared with which the mere mortgage upon your home is a lieasing.

If you are mortgaged to the cigarette habit, which demoralizes your ambition, poisons your blood, benumbs your nerves and vitiates your aim; if you have a whisky mortgage an immortality mortgage on your character which you have been trying for years to life, this is infinitely worse than your chattel mortgage or real estate mortgage. The mortgage on your home may not touch your real self. In spite of it, you may be a man, respected, looked up to, admired. If your life has been clean you may have made every acre of land in your vicinity worth more. But if your character is mortgaged to a demoralizing habit; if you are the victim of a degrading vice that holds you down, cripples your advance, this is a thousand times worse. It loses you not only your respect, but also the respect of those who know you.
