Conditions Are Strict About Sanitation In Swimming Pool

The members of the Ranger swimming club who were responsible for the opening of the Wilcox last week have already expressed their appreciation for the response and cooperation of the public in making the opening the success it was. They now call attention to the proper sanitation of the pool, which is in use in the pool in order to keep it sanitary at all times. It was pointed out this morning that the water is pumped from the pool, is chemically treated in order to take out any impurities that may have gotten into the pool and is then pumped back into the pool as pure as the water that comes out of the city water mains. In this way the water is running and out of the pool in a continuous stream, the used water being out and the water that has been thoroughly purified coming back into the pool in a large stream. This method assures the complete sanitation of the water each 24 hours while the pool is opened and the water is fresh each day.

R. Bentley, A. and M. College extension service, and R. Reece, agricultural agent of the M-K-T. railroad.

VICTIM

Victim of an unusual will left by his eccentric father, Clive Cleespaugh was unable to claim the estate fortune held for him unless he could find a bride of whom his mother approved and married her before his 25th birthday. Clive found his way out of this predicament—but it was an unsatisfactory solution. How he won the hand of the girl of his choice, how together they encountered a group of underworld desperadoes, and how they at last found happiness is all told in "Heart of Liane," the new serial starting June 24 in this paper.

Children Go to Jail in Mine War

The children didn't even understand what it was all about, but because there was no other place for them, they went to jail with their mother, Mrs. Stella Bonifazi, who was arrested on the picket line of a mine near St. Clairsville, O., charged with stoning a car containing strike-breakers. They may be forced to remain in jail until the grand jury reconvenes in September. Left to right, the children are: Josephine, Mary, Florence and Nemo. The mother is holding Susie, the baby.

FIRST BAPTIST REVIVAL HAS ONE MORE WEEK

The revival at the First Baptist church of Ranger, which is being conducted by the pastor, the Rev. G. W. Thomas, will continue throughout this week. Last night the Rev. M. Thomas took his text from Romans 7th chapter, 13th verse. His subject was, "The Exceeding Sinfulness of Sin." He said that sin perverts the sinner's judgment; denies the right of God's claim on the sinner; denies the execution and penalty of the law; sin never fails to leave its bitter effect on the individual's life; sin is a dangerous enemy. The only remedy for sin is the blood of Jesus which had been offered for all. His last thought was that there is no other name under heaven given among men whereby man could be saved but the name of Jesus. These meetings are growing in interest daily. This morning he preached to the elderly people. His text was taken from the 16th chapter of Psalms; subject, "My Portion is God." He talked much on the sweetness and pure delight of God's goodness. Tonight he will preach to the parents. Services are held each morning at 9:30 and at night at 8 o'clock.

ONE KILLED IN PENNSY STRIKE WAR

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 23.—A store proprietor was shot to death as he stepped from the porch of his store and four miners were wounded today in the second outbreak of the Western Pennsylvania bituminous coal strike war in two days. The storekeeper was slain when coal and iron police and special deputies attempted to disperse a picket line of 75 men who had gathered in front of his store in Arnold City, Fayette county. In a battle between striking miners and special deputies at Wildwood, Allegheny county, yesterday, one miner was slain and 11 wounded.

FRENCH ARE EXPECTED TO ACCEPT PLAN

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Hope that the French government will find its way clear to accept President Hoover's proposal for a year's holiday in war debts and reparations payments was felt here today pending official action at Paris. Approval by all other nations concerned is virtually assured. Belief that the French government will swing into line rests partly on efforts to convince her that she will lose very little under the Hoover plan.

Hen Rides Into Town On Bumper of Ranger Auto

Fish stories, snake stories and even ghost stories have had their run this season. But here is one that is absolutely true: A certain car parked in front of the postoffice last evening and while occupants were getting their mail, a peculiar sound originated from the rear of the car and upon investigation it was found a perfectly good Plymouth rock hen had chosen the rear bumper for her roosting place. Not being used to the bright lights of the city, made one of those peculiar sounds that only old hens can make. Anyway, this story is vouched for by one who is experienced in story telling.

Holman's wife found the body.

ALIBI IS AINSWORTH DEFENSE

John Ainsworth, on trial in Judge Elizo Beem's 88th district court on a charge of robbery with firearms in connection with the holdup of the Aradia theatre in Ranger on the night of Feb. 13 of this year, was in Mingo attending a dance at the time the theatre was held up, according to defense witnesses testified in his trial today. The state rested its case early this morning after having offered testimony showing that Ainsworth held up Miss Pauline Head, cashier at the ticket window of the show and took $58 from the ticket office. The holdup occurred about 9:15 at night. One witness, who testified that he was on duty as a watchman at the dance, said that he saw Ainsworth, whom he knew as Curley, drive up with a woman in his car and get out. The watchman said he went to Ainsworth and told him that if he had valuables in his car he had better take care of them. The dance about 10 o'clock he borrowed the nightwatchman's flashlight to examine his motor the officer testified. It was the opinion of attorneys in the case that the testimony in the trial would be completed this afternoon.

Three Dallas Men Indicted In Bank Holdup

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 23.—Indictments against three Dallas men held in connection with the $29,000 daylight holdup of the Union Planters National Bank and Trust company, May 4, were returned by a Shelby county grand jury at noon here today. The indictments named Herbert Soles, Dallas social registerite, Ralph Arnold and Jack Cherris. In addition to being indicted for robbery, Cherris was indicted for carrying a revolver. The men are held in city jail in lieu of $7,000 bond each.

Living Rooms in Contest Are Being Judged

Miss Mildred Horton, state home demonstration agent, was in Eastland Tuesday to judge the entries in the state living room contest. Eastland county entered Miss Halley Hill, Okma, in the district contest. Miss Hill won first place. There were 13 counties entered in the contest. Each contestant was allowed to spend $50 on improving the living room but Miss Hill's improvement cost only $14. Miss Horton seemed very enthused over the interest shown in the contest.

Blind Swimmer Saves a Youth From Drowning

WAYNESBURG, Pa.—Guided only by the shouts of spectators, Richard Brooks, 28, Greensboro, who is totally blind, swam to the side of a 10-year-old boy who was struggling in deep water in the Monongahela river and brought him to shore. Brooks, an expert swimmer, heard the cries of the boy, James Davis, 10, who had gone down for the second time. As he swam into the river spectators shouted directions to him.

HAS DRESS SUIT "BLUES" HAMILTON, Ont.—When Magistrate Burbridge issued a mandate to the city that everyone on the streets of Hamilton after midnight without a dress suit was a prima facie vagrant, the result was unexpected. Robert Jackson was arrested a short time later on a charge of stealing a dress suit.

NEW PLANE NEEDED FOR OCEAN HOP

ST. JOHNS, N. B., June 23.—Miss Ruth Nichols, 23-year-old Rye, N. Y., society girl, was undergoing hospital treatment for injuries suffered when her white and gold monoplane in which she had planned to be the first woman to fly alone across the Atlantic ocean cracked up in landing here in the first leg of her journey. Physicians believed Miss Nichols was not seriously injured but they made several X-ray pictures of her back which was wrenched. Her Lockheed-Vega monoplane was badly damaged. Clarence Chamberlain, ocean flyer and technical advisor to Miss Nichols, said a new plane would be necessary before she could make another attempt at the long over-water hop.

Miss Buckler landed in soft mud and no bones were broken but she was unconscious and taken to a hospital where attendants said she was only slightly hurt. Police continued today to question Dallas bootleg characters on the theory that Brown was the victim of a bootleggers' war.

CALLS IT AN USURPATION OF OTHERS POWER

Claims U. S. Would Grant Stay of Payments Out Of All Proportion. ARLING, June 23.—Congressman Thomas L. Blanton today denounced the Hoover plan for a one year holiday against war debts and reparations payments. He asserted that Americans are "more concerned with their own 6,000,000 deficits faced by the U. S. treasury and charged President Hoover with forcing the United States to grant the moratorium to all countries while other countries are granting moratorium only to Germany." "No American opposes a sane tariff for revenue to equalize cost of production and to maintain the American standards of living," he said, "but the billion dollars annually the Hoover administration is giving in tariff subsidies to contributors to republican campaign expenses has built an impregnable wall that has stopped trading and keeps Europe from buying from us."

A JUNIOR BAND TO BE ORGANIZED

R. L. Maddox, director of the Ranger high school band, announced this morning that he would organize a junior band this week and that practice and lessons would start as soon as the membership had grown to the point where it could be started properly. Trials and examinations will be held on Wednesday and Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5:30 o'clock at the band hall on Pine Street. Beginners will be accepted in the band which is to be used to secure replacements in the senior band as the members graduate or quit school from time to time. The pupils will be given one private lesson a week and two class lessons each week. It was announced that those who wish to receive instruction and to join the band have been asked to report at the band hall on either of the two afternoons in order that the band can be started as soon as possible. Those who make the best showing in the junior band will be allowed to receive the first calls for places on the senior band and it is necessary that they start work as soon as possible in order that the band will be ready to play by the opening of the football season this fall. Many of those who apply for membership and instruction at this time will be ready to play by the time the season opens and it is being planned to have a larger and better band than ever this year, Mr. Maddox said today.

"IF THE HOME BREAKS DOWN."

President T. O. Walton of the A. & M. college addressed the members of the 1931 graduating class at Texas Technological college. He declared that foremost challenges hurled at the graduates of today arise in the home and the government of the state and the nation. His advice to the 163 members of Texas Tech's fifth graduating class was terse and to the point. An excerpt:

"Every man and woman leaving college should have some definite objective in life. Each should expect some challenge which will bring the best in him to the surface. If you have taken advantage of the opportunities offered by the state with the idea that your earning power will be increased and that you will have an easy time during the remainder of your life, I am afraid that you have come out with the wrong viewpoint by virtue of that college education."

Home and government are the two fundamental institutions of society and President Walton made it clear to all concerned "that the most important thing a college education should give you is the power to make a contribution to the welfare of the home which you expect to establish as the home is the fundamental institution of the nation and if it breaks down all other institutions are useless."

An American statistician has estimated that 52,000 college graduates will be turned loose in the month of June in the United States to carve out their own careers. Education may come high but it is worth the price. There is "no royal road to greatness" but the willing worker with trained hands and thoroughly developed brain is certain to win his or her share of rewards in the battle of life.

ANOTHER APOSTLE OF GLOOM.

Sir George Paish, one of the most noted of the world's tribe of economists, is visiting in this country. He told the welfare council of New York that without the institution of unemployment insurance a revolution in Great Britain would have been inevitable. As one of the follies of the world's statesmen he listed the credit system. He said, "Everybody is in debt, farmers, real estate men and business in general, as a result of our credit system." Sir George places all the blame on the statesmen of the world. He calls them politicians. This is his gloomy viewpoint: "The old world is in danger of a complete trade breakdown. Conditions are due to the politicians and there is no reason why the working man should suffer for the follies of statesmen. We, in Great Britain have found a solution in unemployment insurance and we regard it with great favor." Now, the economists are blaming the politicians, the politicians are blaming the international financiers, the financiers are blaming Dictator Stalin and Soviet Russia as "twin menaces of the world" and a vast number of good people insist that prosperity would be restored if all the people drank water instead of alcoholic beverages and niggardly thrift of bygone ages was practiced by all the sons and daughters of toil.

A CHEERLESS WORLD COMING.

A cheerless world is coming for news readers. Col. Alphonse Capone, indicted on 5000 counts, is to be put away forever; Jack (Legs) Diamond of New York is booked for a long term at Sing Sing; California Pantanos, who was one of the three signers to an $80,000 note, was given a little party to jog his memory and make him come across. Starr Faithful, alleged to have been a beautiful darling of two continents, who had experienced every thrill in life, will be put away by the undertaker when the reporters and kodakers abandon their job.

When the curtain rings down on these characters of tabloid history it will be cheerless world for news readers of a type unless a new crop comes to the surface and push their faces into the tabloid picture. Of course, there is a lot of cheer in the announcement that "prosperity is just around the corner" and that it is unwise to peer in the hole of a doughnut when there are more pleasing visions floating by on the sidewalks or in the bumper seats of sport roadsters.

CO-OPERATIVE MOSER READY FOR BATTLE.

C. O. Moser is the vice president of the American Cotton Co-operative association. He is as full of fight as a bear cat in action. In defense of the federal marketing act he has thrown down his challenge to all comers: "That act is a part of the established policy of the country. Now he claims for it perfection and inability. When ever fair trial has been given this legislative device (and it is believed that amendments may be advantageous) farmers and their business friends propose to stand together for its improvements."

All this is a reminder that the friends and the foes of the federal marketing act will lock horns in December. In December will come the organization of the 72nd congress and then the fur will fly.

GOV. MURRY FOR THE LAW.

Governor William H. Murray is in the picture again. His viewpoint is that America must protect foreigners in this country if it expects like protection for United States citizens in other countries. He holds that justice and not the agent of law is sacred. Speaking of the wanton killing of the two Mexican college boys he said: "Our laws do not permit officers to make arrests without warrants except in the case of peace disturbance. Those officers who shot down the Mexican boys did so not with authority of officers but private citizens. I feel I have done my duty. There is but one basis for peace. That is justice." There are times or occasions when Governor Murray talks like a statesman, a fearless champion of justice for all concerned.

THEY DEMAND ANTI-TRUST LAW DIVISION.

This is a merry old world regardless of the pessimist. Seventy per cent of the National Association of Credit Men, in a survey voted for revision of the anti-trust laws as a necessary aid to business. They voted the present statutes antiquated and obsolete and advised they be adjusted to fit present day needs. And yet the big chiefs of the oil industry blamed over-production of Texas crude as the cause of all their ills. It will be recalled that the big crack came in Wall Street and the American world long before a gusher was brought in in East Texas. There are many eminent Americans who are not given memories when their faces were pushed into the living picture.

Quick, Watson! We've Solved the Hot Weather Problem

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK
WASHINGTON LETTER

BY EDSON R. WAITE
 Shawnee, Okla.

Orville Elder, publisher of the Washington (Iowa) Journal says: "The man who has advertising space to sell and sells it has just begun his job. He must supplement his sale with constructive effort that extends into the place of business of the advertiser and helps that advertiser realize on his space investment."

If he does not do this he runs a chance of making no future sales to the space customer. The advertising salesman must know his goods and more than that, he must know his customer's problems; his difficulties; his weaknesses; his strong points. Unless the advertising salesman has the vision to direct a campaign clear through, he is handicapped. So, advertiser and advertising salesman must team up, and if they do team up -- set their wits and their brains to cooperative effort -- mountains can be moved and dead bones made to rattle.

Mr. Merchant Demand of the advertising salesman that he put himself in your place and from that position build your advertising campaign. If you do this and have the right kind of cooperation, you will discover that the newspaper is the "power behind the throne" -- the vital stimulant that is needed in both good times and not-so-good-times to make your position stable in your community."

PICKING YOUR RIGHT JOB.....

This is the third of a series by leaders in different professions and business in which they tell young men and women about the opportunities and problems in the various branches of the engineering profession. Col. Frederic A. Molitor is president of the American Institute of Consulting Engineers.

By Col. FREDERIC A. MOLITOR
 As told to J. V. Fitzgerald

The various branches of engineers recognized through the five national societies are civil, mechanical, mining, electrical and chemical engineers, who follow the practice of engineering, according to the name applied to the societies.

Engineers, in my opinion, are born, not made. One must have a practical mind to start with. It must be moulded by discipline and tempered by experience. If you are to gain success, you should have a liking for mechanics because considerable of your work will involve contrivances of this nature and you likewise have to be good in mathematics. In setting forth such requirements as these I am covering the whole field of engineering. They apply with equal force to the different branches.

To you, who are interested in engineering as a career, I would say this: You must get good marks in mathematics and physics while you are still in preparatory school, and in college, you should have an aptitude for scientific studies.

In the past it was not absolutely necessary to have a college degree to get a job as an engineer. Now, however, it is, because the applicant is in competition with about sixty thousand engineers now in practice in this country. From this fact, you will see the need for proficiency in the studies I have named.

Four years of training in college is enough scholastic work to qualify you to earn your living as an engineer. You will, however, need several years of hard, practical experience.

You will do well to spend what time you can spare from technical subjects, in studying economics, contract law and finance. Knowledge of these matters is most helpful to an engineer as he progresses.

Do not neglect to obtain as much outdoor exercise as you can.

The MELODY GIRL

CHAPTER XLVIII

"The doctor will not do it today," Beryl added when she had told Prentiss that she was giving the aid her sister needed.

"I should think not!" he exclaimed warmly. "You look like a patient yourself!"

"I only need a little rest," Beryl insisted. "My heart's all right. This is much better."

"It's senseless, Beryl," Gaylord protested. "You're not up to it. Any fool would know that. I can't imagine what—"

"I'm all right," Beryl insisted doggedly. "Just a little tired. It's only the heart that matters. The doctor knows."

"I won't have it," Prentiss declared heatedly. "You know I can pay—"

"No," Beryl said with a shake of her head. "It isn't what you can pay, Prentiss. Irene feels better now. She was disappointed because Mother could not come. Mother is ill, you know, and the thought of a stranger—someone she did not know—frightened her. This is much better."

"I suppose you'd say that if you were giving up an arm," Prentiss grumbled. "Now I know what's been puzzling me. You're a fanatic, that's what you are! And Irene isn't worth it."

"Please!" Beryl said simply and Prentiss desisted.

At the hotel he asked if he might have dinner there with her. She refused with a gentle dignity that reminded him he was her sister's estranged husband. "She probably thinks I beat the little brat," he thought angrily, but he could not defend himself against an unspoken charge so he said good night rather abruptly and departed.

Later he telephoned when Beryl had advised brought to her room to ask if she were comfortable and if he might take her to the hospital.

Beryl, thinking Irene might wish her to antagonize him, consented. The next morning he came for her, bringing such a large bunch of flowers that Beryl was reminded of the floral offering her "gang" had sent for her radio debut. She hadn't had much time for her boys lately. The gang was breaking up.

She took the flowers with her, but soon Prentiss wished he hadn't brought them, for instead of being a gay note they had added a funeral touch to the day.

That night Beryl remained at the hospital and the next day she took her with Irene to what the latter called "that awful room."

Later they brought her back, not to the room they'd given her first, but to one she was to share with Irene. Neither knew it for several hours after they were put to bed there, and Beryl did not mind when she did, but Irene complained.

"We could not help it, Mrs. Gaylord," the nurse patiently explained. "We are overcrowded. Five patients came in this morning." She looked at Beryl and Irene had the grace to cease finding fault. Her sister was enduring pain—for her. She was herself in pain but it was not voluntary. Already she knew that the hospital attaches liked and admired Beryl. It would seem strange to them, since neither she nor Beryl were gravely ill, if she did not want her sister with her. Besides the room they had was spacious and convenient. It even had a sunroom of its own and a radio.

Irene, looking about at the beautiful furnishings, was thinking that Prentiss was mean not to have engaged it for her in the first place.

Her resentment against Prentiss grew when flowers arrived and the largest and loveliest bouquet was for Beryl. There was an exquisite basket of fruit for Beryl too, as well as several books, while for her there was only a stack of magazines which she felt sure Prentiss had grabbed at random. Among them were a number of duplicates which Irene threw angrily across the room.

Then she relapsed into sullen silence, harboring a bitter jealousy of her sister. When Prentiss came to see them Irene would scarcely speak to him.

He paid little attention to her for Beryl's condition worried him. She was too still and white. His fruit was untouched, his books unopened.

Two days later he wired to Mr. Everett. Strange, he thought, looking at the portion of Irene's face that was not bandaged, and finding it merely putrid in expression as usual, that she did not know.

But at last there appeared a light of triumph in Irene's eyes. It was there an hour or two after Prentiss had sent his wire. Irene was exultant. She had sent a wire of her own. And she had roused Beryl to tell her about it. She would see if she had to be neglected by her own husband while her sister got every attention!

Beryl looked over at her with weary eyes as Irene exclaimed: "Listen to me. I can't stand this any longer—the way Prentiss is acting! I've sent for Tommy. I've got to have someone with me who cares something about me!"

Beryl's eyelids fluttered down like the white petals of a rose. A sigh too faint for Irene to hear escaped her pale lips. Then she was still again.

"Oh well, of course, if you aren't interested!" Irene exclaimed pettishly and took up a magazine to show her disdain of Beryl's indifference.

She did not know that Beryl listened with a bleeding heart to the things Irene said to the nurses about Tommy.

Irene seemed to forget she was talking to them like a young girl preparing for the coming of her lover. Or if she did not forget she no longer cared. Certainly, she

USED TO SUFFER EACH MONTH

"I used to have severe headaches each month," writes Mrs. Henry Heape, of 248 Lincoln St., Savannah, Ga. "I suffered a great deal. The pain in my head seemed to run down the back of my neck. I felt like I was drawing back. I would get very nauseated and have chills. I would have to go to bed. My mother and my mother-in-law both had taken Cardui, and I knew it was good. I bought a bottle, and after I began taking it I felt strong."

Local 'Leggers' Well Organized

By United Press.
 HAMOKIN, Pa.—Coal bootlegging has become a well organized business on a large scale, according to reports from the Pennsylvania State Police in its efforts to wipe out its illegal mining in the Pennsylvania bootleg territory.

The bootlegging is conducted especially in abandoned work-places where the coal veins are close enough to be reached by hand.

The work is carried on by means of regular employment, or by workers after their regular working day.

According to the industrial police, one organization in this section has developed a profitable business through illegal mining.

The miners are paid about $3 a week for coal so mined and the organization distributes the product at much higher prices.

The average truckload carries 10 tons, for which the seller receives about $32. Two trips can be made daily.

While many arrests have been made of men engaged in such bootlegging, the practice continues to spread.

Match Trust For Manchuria

By United Press.
 PEIPING—Following the example of several European countries, Manchuria has instituted a match monopoly in the northeastern provinces, under direction of the northeastern political affairs committee.

A bureau has been created through which matches are sold, and sale is prohibited except through the bureau. Government factories are being planned, and until they are operating, the bureau will buy matches from private Chinese and foreign companies.

If a sufficient supply can be obtained from Chinese companies, imports will be stopped.

The Manchurian match monopoly probably will create a good deal of friction. Japanese and soviet Russian matches have flooded Manchuria and North China recently. Soviet matches are sold so cheaply that other companies are unable to supply matches of the same quality in competition.

It is considered unlikely that the Japanese in South Manchuria and the Russians in North Manchuria will accept the monopoly. Official protests are improbable, but the monopoly's existence may be disregarded.

Yams Are Major Crop In Texas Report Reveals

By United Press.
 AUSTIN—Importance of sweet potatoes in the list of Texas agricultural products is pointed out by E. T. Crozier, sweet potato inspector in the department of agriculture, in a summary of the work done by the state in developing and protecting this industry.

Not generally appreciated is the fact that the sweet potatoes rank seventh in value of all farm crops in Texas, Crozier said, notwithstanding the fact that much of the 1930 crop sold below the market price.

In 1930 there were 109,000 acres planted to the yam, yielding a crop of $7,248,000. This was a sum greater than the value of the cabbage and spinach crops combined; more than the total returns on all fruit crops, including citrus; and more than the combined watermelon and cantaloupe and cucumber crop.

War Veterans To File Their Claims

In a letter to department headquarters, Watson B. Miller, national chairman of the rehabilitation committee, warns veterans that they must file claims for War Risk insurance before July 3. Department Judge Advocate Joe M. Hill of Dallas and Department Service Officer Wynn S. Goode of Austin are anxious to assist veterans of Texas with these claims.

Following is the letter from Mr. Miller and instructions from the department judge advocate and department service officer:

"Even though a disabled veteran of the World War who carried War Risk insurance has not paid any premium there on since his discharge from the military service, if he makes claim in writing between now and July 3 of this year he will thereby preserve his rights to resort to court action thereafter if such procedure is necessary. This letter should state plainly that the veterans desire to claim insurance benefits under the permanent and total disability clause of his contract from a date when his policy was in force, which is usually from the date of disability, if he was disabled while in the service.

"First, he should submit proof to the Veterans' Bureau to establish to the satisfaction of the bureau that continuously since his discharge, he has been suffering from an impairment of mind or body which made it impossible for him to follow continuously any substantially gainful occupation and that condition has existed since his discharge from the service, and is likely to continue throughout the remainder of his claim, he is afforded an opportunity to go into court and establish his claim before a jury. Veterans who carried $10,000 War Risk insurance are entitled to the payment of insurance benefits at the rate of $57.50 per month commencing with the beginning of disability (if it commenced at a time while his insurance was in force) and continuing as long as the veteran lives. Veterans whose conditions are described in this letter may be entitled to payment at the rate $5.75 per month per $1,000 of insurance.

A sample letter for making demand:

"U. S. Veterans' Administration, Washington, D. C.
 Re: _____
 Gentlemen:
 I wish to hereby apply for the payment of the benefits of the War Risk insurance, carried by the above veteran.

Kindly have the director review the file of the above veteran, and should your decision be adverse, please let me have a letter of disagreement upon which a suit may be filed.

Yours truly,

This is supplemental to former notices and warnings heretofore published in the Legion News, by the department judge advocate. In the January issue of the Legion News, the department judge advocate put out a similar letter to this one, and through him a great many of these demands have been made, but on account of the great number of these demands made upon the Veterans Bureau at Washington, it has been impossible to answer in but few of them, and it will probably be several weeks before you have a definite answer on whether or not such claims as you make can be paid, but if you get in your demand the statute of limitation does not begin to run upon you after you have your demand made, until the bureau has given you an adverse decision.

To make sure that the bureau has your demand, it has been suggested that if you have heretofore made a demand and have not had any reply indicating that the bureau has received same, that you write the following letter, and send it registered mail, return receipt requested.

"U. S. Veterans' Administration, Washington, D. C.
 Gentlemen:
 Re: _____
 War Risk Insurance Claim Supplementing my former demand for the payment of the benefits of war risk insurance of the above veteran, I hereby apply for the payment of the benefits under the war risk insurance policy carried by the above veteran, and further request that you review his file as speedily as possible, and give me a decision. If your decision is adverse, I desire a letter upon which a suit may be filed.

Respectfully yours,

Steps Through Which Insurance Claims Must Go
 When you make a demand upon the Veterans' Bureau for the payment of the War Risk Insurance, the file is called into Washington, if it is not already there; blanks are sent out upon which you may make proof of your right to this (Continued on page 4)

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN
 BY SISTER MARY
 NEA Service Writer

The homemaker finds that hot days increase her food problems, not alone in the planning of meals, but in the buying and storing of staples and fresh produce. The summer heat and humidity are most trying and do much to mar the crispness and perfection of foods, even if actual spoilage is averted.

Well selected containers are a great aid toward keeping foods in good condition. Glass or earthenware, enamelware or aluminum-covered dishes made in any of these materials are excellent for storing food, both raw and cooked. Since most perishable foods keep better if not exposed to the air, covered containers are desirable.

Soft fruits like berries keep better if they are taken immediately from the box in which they are marketed and spread on a platter or large plate. Keep them in a cool place but not in the refrigerator unless a cool cellar is not available. If berries must be kept in the icebox, they should be stored in the warmest place.

Buttered toast does not keep well and never should be placed in the bread box.

It seems wisest to buy flours and cereals in small quantities while the weather is hot. Ready-to-serve cereals lose their crispness, and flours are apt to become infested with flour weevils. A two weeks' supply is sufficient. Coarsely milled flours are especially difficult to keep in the summer time and should be stored in glass or metal airtight containers.

Crackers and ready-to-serve cereals are very sensitive to dampness and rapidly absorb any moisture in the air. However, they easily can be made crisp again by placing them in a warm oven for 15 or 20 minutes. They must be thoroughly cooled before serving.

Vegetables or meats that have been prepared with milk need extra precautions. The milk should be actively boiled if there is any chance of some of the dish being served over. After the meal it should be cooled very quickly and stored in the coldest part of the refrigerator. All creamed dishes should be used within 24 hours. Bread and bread crumbs require particular care during hot weather. Crumbs and odd slices of bread should not be allowed to accumulate in the bread box, but should be thoroughly dried in a cool oven and saved for grumbling. Frequent scalding and sunning of the bread container helps to keep the bread fresh and prevents mold.

Martha Stewart and Belle Bennett Circles Met Monday Afternoon.
 The Martha Stewart and Belle Bennett circles of the Methodist Missionary society met Monday afternoon at the church. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Ed Wilman, and "Stand Up for Jesus" was sung as an opening song. The hymn, "Lord, Speak to Me That I May Speak," was used as a prayer.

Mrs. Wallace Kelly, corresponding secretary of the auxiliary, brought a Bible lesson on "Stewardship," based on the verse "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son." She told of a fleet of ships which should have place in our lives: friendship, fellowship, partnership and worship, and the flag-ship, stewardship. "Stewardship means that life is a great ship, loaded with a rich cargo of many things to be delivered to many people in many places. God is the owner, but I am the captain. Everything I have aboard, my talents, time, strength, money, personality, is a cargo to be delivered. I do not own what I possess but I owe it all. God expects me to bring it to the right port. This is 'stewardship'."

Mrs. Grady Pipkin brought a beautiful message in song, "I Gave My Life for Thee, What Hast Thou Given for Me?" Time was taken for payment of dues and missionary pledges, to the treasurer, Mrs. Frank Castleberry.

Announcements were made concerning the meetings for the coming month. When all the preliminary business was completed, the Bible study, "Great Souls at Prayer," was entered into. Job, the Heretic, was the subject for the day. Mrs. Wilman gave a most interesting and helpful resume and interpretation of the book of Job. The meeting was closed with a prayer by Mrs. W. F. Davenport.

Skull Reveals Humans Lived 100,000 Years Ago
 By United Press.
 NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Discovery of the skull of a Neanderthal child near Jerusalem is believed by archaeologists here to have given undeniable evidence that human life existed in what is now Palestine 60,000 to 100,000 years ago. Reports of the discovery in a cave at Athlit were made to Professor George Grant MacCurdy of Yale, director of the American School of Prehistoric Research, by Miss Dorothy Garrod, woman explorer in charge of the school's joint expedition with the British School of Archaeology.

Previous remains had indicated man inhabited the section as far back as 30,000 years ago. It was Miss Garrod who discovered a Neanderthal skull at Gibraltar in 1926.

Circle No. 3 Met Monday Afternoon.
 Circle No. 3 of the Baptist Woman's Missionary society, met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. J. Campbell. Mrs. Carl Springer led the devotional, taking "Prayer" as her subject.

After reports of various committees and a short business session, Mrs. Clyde Garrett taught a very interesting lesson on "Women of the Bible."

A plate of pear salad, wafers and lemonade was served to Mrs. Carl Springer, Clyde Garrett, J. T. Williams, L. V. Simmonds, F. U. Williams, Don Brewer, and hostess.

The next meeting will be Monday, July 27, at the home of Mrs. Nora Andrews.
