

Heart of Liane

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Liane Barrett, 18 and beautiful, lives in a cramped New York apartment with her mother, Cass Barrett, a rather faded actress. Cass worries over her low finances. Then she receives an offer to play at the Willow Stream Theater, a Long Island play house of which wealthy Mrs. Clespaugh is patron.

On a hot night Cass rushes home to tell Liane this news. The girl has been working in a department store and has gone to dinner with Molly Cronin, a neighbor of whom Cass disapproves, and two of Molly's men friends. Soon a note arrives from Liane, begging her mother to come at once to a down-town address. Frantic, Cass hastens there. Shane McDermid, young policeman in charge, tells her that the men with whom Molly and Liane dined have quarreled and one of them is shot. Touched by Liane's youth and obvious innocence, he releases her. Back at the theater Liane encounters a handsome stranger who calls her by name.

Cass and Liane leave for Willow Stream. Elsie Minter, ingenue, goes with them to play in the same company as Cass. Liane is to work in the box office. Elsie introduces Liane to Clive Clespaugh, son of the theater's patron. Shane McDermid comes to tell Liane that the man wounded in the gun fight has recovered.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

Muriel Ladd was the girl who was to share Liane's duties in the box office. Muriel was slender and graceful. She had a skin like porcelain, delicate, insolent brows and an intimidating drawl. Muriel was a Willow Stream Junior League, bored with life and anxious to "express herself." She wore exquisite sports clothes, and banded a gypsy scarf about her head when she rode. Her fingernails were as long as a mandarin's and she used quantities of exotic scents. Liane was impressed. Beside this other girl who was her own age she felt singularly immature. Muriel spoke with equal carelessness of Biarritz and Monaco, of Milan and Gibraltar and Burlington and Hawaii and Saratoga and Harve de Grace and Asheville. Muriel had been everywhere, knew everybody and liked nothing at all. She told Liane that she could beat Dutch boats better than English ones because the officers on the Dutch line were "smoothies." Liane didn't know what she meant and said so.

"May I take you in?" Van Robard asked.

Muriel explained tolerantly that a smoothy was a dab, a love, a cute thing or what have you? She didn't seem to despise Liane for her abysmal ignorance. Rather she patronized her and tried to enlighten her.

"Don't you think a girl should have affairs before she marries?" Muriel drawled.

Liane looked shocked. She trembled to think what the sisters at St. Anne's would have thought of Muriel Ladd.

"I really don't know," she faltered. "I hadn't thought much about it."

"Well, I do," Muriel said coldly. "I think it accentuates her charm. I think we're awfully stupid and provincial over here."

She blew a cloud of smoke.

"Come to dinner Saturday night," she offered lastly. "I've got a new smoothy I want you to see. He's a love. Awfully old for me, of course. He's 38. But I like 'em that way. Happens to be married but his wife's a dud and doesn't matter. Come and watch my technique."

Liane said, "If you really want me I'll ask mother."

Muriel laughed. "You're a queer one," she trilled. "All this 'ask mother' stuff amuses me to death. Really it does. I think you're one of those quiet, sly ones. Why, your mother's not bothered about what you do, isn't she on the stage? Isn't she broadminded? Seems so

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

JESUS, THE WORLD'S SAVIOR

Golden Text: John 3:16. God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 28. Jesus, the World's Savior; Suffering and Sovereignty. Golden Text: John 3:16.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist.

The review of the quarter's lessons is placed under a noble title and a significant subtitle. In considering the world's savior we are brought immediately into the sublime association of suffering and sovereignty. Jesus is among those who stooped to conquer, and the glory of his triumph and of his power to redeem and bless mankind came along the way that humanity itself has to tread—the way of sorrow—leading in his case to the very climax of suffering in the cross.

The full range of the quarter's lessons can be had only by taking in account the lessons of the preceding quarter in which we have followed the course of Jesus from his childhood through the days of rather dull place for a young girl with no money, no friends and position. Liane belonged neither to the rich, fashionable crowd, nor to the natives. She was one of the in-betweeners and for a girl of her age being an in-betweener is sometimes a very difficult matter indeed.

"Nothing to wear to what?" demanded Elsie, bounding in. Told of the coming festivity, Elsie declared "My black chiffon is to be had on a moment's notice." She went to her room and returned with the dress trailing over her arm.

"Sweet of you, Cass murred, "but it does make the child look terribly old."

"Oh, mother, that's so old-fashioned of you," cried Liane. She had slipped out of her demure and stood, arms upraised, as Elsie tossed the drifts of smoky stuff over her head. "There!" She stood transfixed, dimly mysterious and alluring in the half light.

"You're really—quite—adorable," Elsie drawled. "Give that little hell-cat from the upper crust a run for her money."

"You don't like Muriel, do you?" Liane asked. "Not much!" said Elsie with some bitterness. "As soon as she saw Clive was making a play for me she put her ear in. She barged in and interrupted every time we had a minute together. Now she's got him. Oh, she's a vixen, that girl. I'll get her yet."

Cass looked troubled. "Does she seem quite—quite nice for you, dear?" she asked Liane. "After all, you know very little about her."

"Oh, mother, I've got to have some fun!" begged Liane.

"Let the kid go. She's probably crab some of the little snake's plans without meaning to," Elsie urged, low-voiced. "Liane's pretty enough for anything."

preparation to the attaining of that popularity which so speedily changed to his rejection.

In the lessons of this quarter emphasis is laid upon the essential teachings of Jesus. In the first lesson under the parable of those who chose prominent places at the feast to which they were invited, Jesus teaches the lesson of humility, and with the same lesson was associated the deep aspect of this in the recognition of the little child. The arrogant and proud are sure to undervalue little children, so that the lesson of humility was properly enforced in the blessing of the little ones on him.

Jesus Triumphs. Our lessons have then proceeded through the parable of the prodigal son, the story of the rich man and Lazarus, the parable of the Pharisee and the publican at prayer, the story of the conversion of Zacchaeus, and the parable of the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem and the preparation for the end. From this we have been plunged in sudden contrast in the study of the sufferings of Gethsemane and Calvary, with the closing lessons of the quarter emphasizing the triumphs of the Resurrection and the living pres-

Estimating Crop Yields

Yeah, my potatoes turned out fine, made a big yield. That's great, how much per acre did you get? "Oh! I don't know, there were ten rows across the garden and after keeping out all we can use and giving some to the boys I'd say $36.00 worth." And that is about the average report on crop yields. Accurate reports are needed to help determine what returns may be expected from the various crops.

Naturally the most accurate returns come from a careful measurement of the land and weight of measurement of the entire crop produced on the measured acre. However, this entails considerable trouble as a short cut has been worked out which for all practical purposes is accurate enough. Following is the method suggested to club boys:

To obtain the per acre yield, weight the yield from 21 foot space in the row where there is an average stand. Multiply this by 700 if the rows are 3 feet apart or by 600 if the rows are 2 1/2 apart. Test 21 is the length of a row 3 feet long and with 3 foot rows there will be 70 rows per acre, this is the 700 which is used in the calculation. Where the rows are 2 1/2 and a half feet apart there will be 80 rows per acre, and this gives the 600 which is used for that estimate. This will be fairly accurate especially if measurements and weights are taken in several parts of the patch.

MANY FARMERS REPAY DROUTH LOANS EARLY

Secretary Hyde Praises Independence, Thrift and Business Judgment

High praise of some of the farmers who obtained Federal drouth loans this spring is voiced by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, who announces that many borrowers have already repaid their loans in whole or in part.

A most commendable attitude is evident," he said. "In many instances farmers have paid off the Government loans with the proceeds of early fruit or vegetable crops on which the Government held no lien. Not only have they shown their good intentions and fundamental integrity but they have also displayed good business sense. Several thousand borrowers have found that they do not need the full amount of the loan approved and have turned back our checks for second or later installments. Of course those who pay loans before the maturity date will receive interest rates."

May Repay Loans at Any Time

The Farmer's Seed Loan Office has received many inquiries from borrowers who wish to know if the notes may be paid before they are due. Secretary Hyde is encouraging all of the borrowers who can do so to repay at any time to save the expense of unnecessary interest charges. He said the tendency to make early repayments is an indication of the same sturdy spirit of thrift and independence which we have learned to expect from farmers and forehadlers. The repayment in full of a large percentage of the loans made.

Dress Contest

The dress contest for the home demonstration clubs will be held in Eastland Saturday, July 11th at 2:00 p. m. The forty-two home demonstration clubs are trying to complete dresses one hundred percent. Twenty-five dresses have been sent in to date. These dresses will be judged by Miss Mayesie Malone, home demonstration agent of Brown County and Miss Gertrude Brent, home demonstration agent of Coleman County. The following score card will be used in the judging:

Suitability of the garment to purpose	10
Material and trimmings	10
Originality, beauty and interest of design	15
Workmanship	15
Appearance on woman	35

Recommendations for Use in Canning

The following information sent out from College Station recently by Mrs. Sides, Nutrition Specialist and Miss Melonis, Home Industry Specialist, should be used by all women in food work.

"Many of the women have a tendency to use enamel cans for everything and this should be discouraged. From information obtained from Chemistry of Canning, enamel can't protect the color of red fruits and vegetables, such as strawberries, raspberries, or beets. They are also used for pumpkins and squash.

C enamel may be used for corn, peas or any other vegetables which do not contain acid. It has been used successfully in some cases for meats but not enough so that a general rule may be given. C enamel is an enamel which was developed for canned corn. In fact the "C" originally meant "Corn." C enamel was developed in plain cans develops an iron oxide or rust which is caused by the sulphur of the corn attacking the tin and causing black streaks or iron rust to form on the top of the can. This rust is absolutely harmless, but does not look appetizing and enamel was developed to counteract this trouble. There is a very small zinc content in C enamel which counteracts the sulphur content in corn and prevents the oxide from forming.

Cans equipped with paper gaskets may be sealed tightly enough to exclude micro-organisms, but still admit air slowly. The gasket in such cases acts as an air filter and such cans are commonly known as "breeders." Rapid corrosion usually follows and the blackening of corn in some cases is attributed to this cause. The rubber composition gasket is less apt to permit air to enter, but if imperfectly sealed, admits not only air but nitro-organisms as well.

Every means should be employed to reduce the amount of air in the can since oxygen accelerates the corrosion of tin plate. This can be overcome by filling the can as completely as consistent with effective sealing; by having both cans and product hot when sealed; and by perfect sealing of cans.

Peas sometimes develop a flaky black deposit similar in appearance to, and probably identical in composition with, the iron sulphide deposit in cans of corn. This is caused in either case, first, by a corrosion of enamel which develops and later a combination of the dissolved iron with the hydrogen sulphide form from the decomposition of the protein. Thorough washing and blanching before canning, and selecting young fresh peas and using a good preservative, and later a combination of the dissolved iron with the hydrogen sulphide form from the decomposition of the protein. PICKLE AND RELISH RECIPES

Bread and Butter Pickles
25 large cucumbers
12 large onions (white-med.)
1/2 cup salt
1 pint vinegar
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons mustard seed.
2 tablespoons ginger
2 tablespoons turmeric powder.
Let unpeeled cucumbers stand in water over night. Then slice cucumbers and onions and place in pan with salt, (no water). Let stand 1 hour, then rinse off salt, add vinegar, sugar, mustard seed, ginger and turmeric powder. Boil all ingredients until a good turne yellow (about 40 minutes). Pack pickles solid in sterilized jars and allow to stand 10 days before using.

Sweet Cucumber Pickles.
Wash cucumbers and pack in jars cold. Cover with the following solution and seal. The solution should be mixed a gallon at a time and ready for use.
1 gallon vinegar
1/2 oz. saccharine
1/2 cup salt
Spices to taste
1 cup sugar.
Pickling spice good, use 1 teaspoon to 1 quart. Put spices on top of pickles and pour the liquid over.

STRANGE SOVEREIGNTY.

Oil men go to the railroad commission of Texas and tell it frankly they have been violating its orders, and propose a more acceptable order. They argue for the new order on the ground that "public sentiment" is behind it and that public sentiment will cause it to be obeyed better than an unpopular order.

They go to the governor and ask him to encourage the railroad commission to enter a particular order, and tell him that they don't want any more legislation, but do want an order written along the lines of public sentiment. "We think we can get this one obeyed," they tell the governor.

This doesn't have reference to the merits of any particular oil proration law, nor to the need of any particular bill.

It does call attention to the strange state of government in Texas when any group of men can debate whether or not they want to observe a particular decree of government—and debate it with the branch of the government which makes the decree.

There's a fault somewhere.

The fault is not with the railroad commission. It is not with the governor.

It is back somewhere in the law.

If the orders are valid, they are as much the law as the statute creating the oil conservation bureau.

If they are void they have no business parading under the form and authority of government.

If the legislature has created a valid agency dealing with this phase of policy power, it should back it up with authority to make its decrees obeyed. If not a valid part of the government it should be done away with as not merely a farce, but as a discredit to the state's dignity; and a lawful agency created in its place.

ENFORCEMENT ON THE WAY.

The railroad commission has a new job cut out for it.

The highway patrol has a new duty.

These agencies will enforce the companion motortruck bills, product of the legislative grist mill.

Each board has its share of enforcement.

One of the bills, House 335, puts all trucks used for hire under control of the railroad commission.

This bill requires that the railroad commission shall license the drivers of all cars operated for hire.

The companion bill, House 336 fixes a 7000-pound load limit for trucks, effective next January. It limits the size, length, height of trucks and busses, materially reducing the old standards. That part of the law is effective now.

The state highway patrol's job will be to administer this law.

Taken together, these two laws protect both the roads and the people who use them.

The railroad commission will allow upon the highways traffic for hire such as may be deemed for the public convenience and necessity. The highway patrol will see that outlaw equipment, dangerous, oversized and over-loaded equipment is promptly banished from the highways.

CORPORATIONS AND THEIR BUSINESS.

The great extent to which large corporations are participating in the business of the United States is indicated by the survey of a New York financial firm which shows that 200 corporations, representing less than one-sixteenth of one per cent of the 303,000 companies filing returns, reported more than 40 per cent of all net income and 45 per cent of all gross assets. These companies include 45 railroads, 58 public utilities and 97 industrial corporations. This survey shows that only 3.4 per cent of all manufacturing companies of this country employ more than 250 wage earners and only 1.4 per cent employ more than 500. Big business in the saddle. Big mergers are taking place daily. Figures are interesting. They show the way the financial wind blows. They show the importance of federal and state governments.

TWO SENATORS JOIN THE CHORUS.

Two senators have joined the chorus of callers for a special session of the Texas legislature. They demand drastic oil proration laws. Senator Clinton Small speaks for the far west. He was a candidate for governor last year. Senator Walter Woodul of Houston, the home of the governor, believes that the Cranfill plan will go to pieces and that what Texas needs is a session of the legislature that will enact a state conservation commission armed with double rows of shark teeth to punish all violators of conservation laws and commission decrees. Senator W. A. Williamson of Bexar county is another tenor singer in the mighty chorus. He believes a special session is absolutely necessary to protect the oil and gas resources of the state and to lift the industry out of the bog. There appears to be lively times coming.

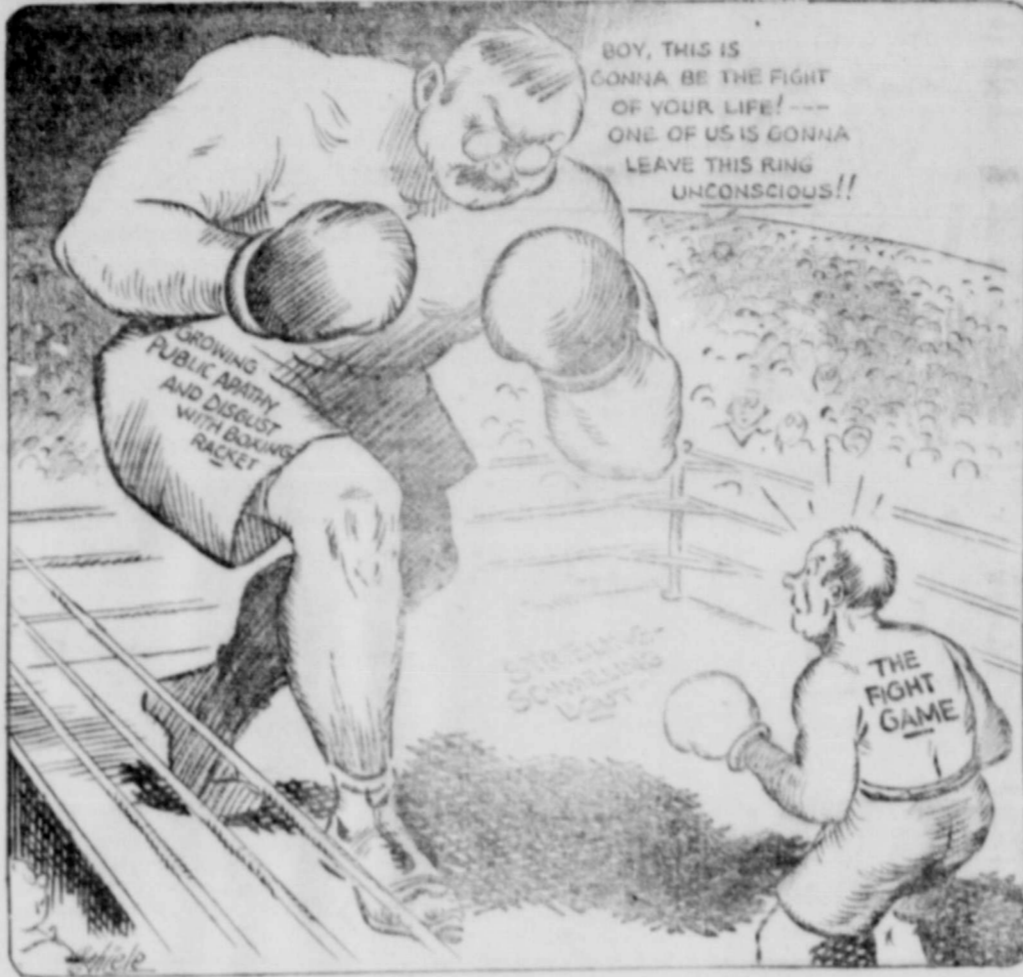

RAIL SECURITIES ARE TO BE PROTECTED.

Numerous New York banks and great insurance companies, which have billions of dollars invested in railroad bonds, have organized an emergency committee on railroad investments of life insurance companies and mutual savings banks to consider the advisability of cooperative action toward improving the situation of the railways. There appears to be a new civilization and modern transportation facilities and methods are playing havoc with the carrier which assisted in the making of the American empire and in transforming a wilderness into one of the greatest of modern commonwealths.

FORT WORTH ENJOYS A CLEAN-UP RAID.

Fort Worth is in the throes of a clean-up raid. Seven-teen grim agents of the law started out without warning, visited 102 places where intoxicating beverages were dispensed, arrested 35 persons and placed them in the city jail and seized vast quantities of beer and whisky. Queer to say the least. Tarrant county sends a senator and representatives to the Texas legislature who are bone dry voters. Tarrant county sends a representative to the American congress who is bone dry. How would it be possible for 102 liquor and gambling resorts to exist in the city where the panther laid down and which proudly proclaims itself to be the headquarters of Trinity river canalization?

The Real Challenger!

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE
 Shawnee, Okla.

Harvey R. Young, advertising director of the Columbia (Ohio Dispatch), says:

That towns and cities are just what the citizens of the community see fit to make them. If the people residing there are sold on their town and its industries and retail stores, they will show it by both word and act.

It is unfortunate that so many people are laboring under the impression that it is necessary for them to make a large share of their purchases of commodities in larger cities than in their own. The retail merchants will gladly carry the complete stocks of everything the community wants if they are permitted so as to justify stocking of certain styles and character of merchandise.

Every dollar spent out of your city is a dollar lost and it affects one way or another every individual. It behooves you to subscribe and read your newspaper and furthermore to read and respond to the advertising that is carried in your newspaper.

Suppose there would be no newspaper for your city. What kind of a town would you have? The minute such a sensational announcement that the newspapers were going to cease publication in your city were to be made, the entire population would be up in arms, begging the publisher to continue—that "they must have a newspaper."

Through the advertising columns of your newspaper, you have all the up-to-date news of the stores. You cannot get your advance shopping and save time in the purchasing of wearing apparel, things for the home, but you can cut down your food and grocery bill by buying advertised products. Newspaper advertising has long since ceased to be an experiment. When a single tobacco company will invest $10,000,000 in one year in newspaper advertising, it is evidence that both men and women read advertising. Last March in Brooklyn, N. Y., the May Specialty Shop sold 15,000 dresses in a single day from a single newspaper advertisement. The crowds were so congested and so large when this sale opened that

CONSTIPATION BRINGS MANY ILLS

Did you know that constipation often brings dependency? Poisons spread through the system. You lack pep. Headaches become frequent. No wonder you have the "blues."

Yet constipation can be overcome by having sufficient roughage in your diet. A pleasant way to obtain this roughage is through eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

You will enjoy this delicious cereal. And have much better for you than taking habit-forming laxatives.

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, will relieve and prevent both temporary and recurring constipation.

ALL-BRAN also contains needed iron to build up the blood. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Aged Texan Is Prostrated By Heat In St. Louis

By United Press.
 ST. LOUIS, June 26.—John Tyler, 95, who was hitch-hiking home to Brownsville, was in a serious condition here today from heat prostration. The old man collapsed on the highway south of here. He told hospital attendants he had taken his wife's body to Wilmington, Del., for burial. When expenses were paid he did not have money enough to get home and started to walk.

UNION NEWS

Special Correspondent.
UNION, June 22.—The farmers have their grain cut and are ready to thresh. Crops and gardens are looking good, but are needing rain.

Mrs. Walter Fox who has been sick, is able to be up again.

Mrs. Hogan, who has been sick so long, departed this life the 12th. She was loved by all who knew her. The bereaved have our deepest sympathy. We pray God will comfort and console them in their bereavement.

Several from this place attended church at Eastland Saturday night and enjoyed some good singing and a real Bible sermon.

Many Schools of the County
Included In Consolidations

According to County School Superintendent B. E. McGlamery five consolidations have been effected in the Eastland County Rural School system. Morton Valley and Pleasant Grove have combined at Morton Valley and will give the children of those districts a full four year High School course whereas they have had in the past only a two-year high school in their respective districts. This new district will employ seven teachers for the one school which is the same number that have been employed in both schools.

Carbon has organized a Rural High School unit which includes the former Bear Springs, Jewel and Oak Grove districts and gives children from all these schools the advantage of longer terms and larger corps of teachers and added facilities under a more economical administration.

Leon and Willow Branch, county line districts with Comanche county, have been included in the Gorman district and Brooks also a county line district, has been admitted to Rising Star. Where ever distances justify the children in these consolidated schools are transported by school buses.

Okra and Grigsby schools are united at Okra.

A Los Angeles clergyman preached 20 hours to make a record, taking only lemon juice for sustenance. A sort of lemon-aid, as it were.

COWMAN LASSOS BEAR

By United Press.
SANTA FE, N. M.—Calf roping will be a tame affair for Floyd Lee Maddox of Hidalgo county, who came across a bear which had killed two sheep. He and his larist, roped the animal and dragged it to death. His story is vouched for in an affidavit to the state game warden after suit for killing a bear out of season was under consideration. Maddox stated he killed the bear to protect the live stock.

 he will remain for the summer. He has been visiting his parents, Mr.
 and Mrs. J. L. Wheatley and family of the Sinclair camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Davis have returned home from Winters, where they attended the funeral services of Mr. Davis' father, which was held at Winters Wednesday.

Humber was removed to his home in Albany Thursday.

Frank Barger is a patient, having entered the hospital yesterday morning.

J. C. Kelly, who sustained painful burns the early part of the week, is resting quite nicely.

Mrs. Outward Compliments House Guests.
 Tuesday afternoon Mrs. W. Z. Outward complimented her house guests Miss Pearl Marcus of Pittsburgh, Pa., Miss Bessie Albrecht of Youngstown, O., Miss Faye Grunder of Preston, O., and Miss Lois Alsdorf of Ashland, O., with a bridge party.

The honorees were presented with mesh hose. Mrs. Guy Patterson was awarded the guest prize which was a beautiful hand-painted blue bonnet scene. Mrs. Jerry Howard received the cut, a box of stationery.

Delicious pineapple ice cream, with cake and iced tea was served to Misses Doris Johnson, Ruth Bagley, Mrs. Jerry Howard, Mrs. Guy Patterson, Mrs. Fred Scott, Miss Wilma Beard and the honorees.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Outward entertained her guests with a swimming party at Lake Cisco. After a delicious swim a picnic supper was spread. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Beard, Miss Wilma Beard, Miss Ruth Bagley, Doris Johnson, Misses Marcus, Albrecht, Grunder, Alsdorf and the hostess.

Postal Telegraph Adds New Service

A new service has been added to those available at Postal Telegraph offices, announces Clarence MacKay, president. Arrangements have been completed with the American Bankers Association for the sale and encashment of the association's official A. B. A. travelers' cheques. For years these cheques have
