RANGER, TEXAS, FRIDAY EVENING, JULY 17, 1931
PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 4

RANGERS BARRICADE FREE BRIDGE

Three burglars were caught in Chicago apartment recently when one of them made a noise. Too many crooks can also spoil the brph.

WORLD HOP IS HALTED BY MISHAP

By United Press.
ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., July 17.—Clyde Pangborn, pilot credited with 47,000 hours in the air and Hugh Herndon, Jr., son of wealth, planning a flight around the world "just for the fun of it" narrowly escaped death this morning on an attempted takeoff in an effort to beat the time of Post and Galt.

Lyn Lary Signs Contract—for Life

It was a union of diamond and stage when Mary Lawlor, musical comedy dancer, and Lyn Lary, New York Yankee shortstop, were married. Here they are, smiling happily, after the ceremony at St. Malachy's Church, New York. Miss Lawlor sang in "You Said It," a recent Broadway production. Lary came to the Yankees two years ago from the Pacific Coast League and celebrated his wedding by smacking the ball into the bleachers for a homer against the Indians the same afternoon.

MAN GORED TO DEATH BY A BULL

A farmer by the name of Owens, who resides near Dublin, died in the West Texas Clinic this morning about 11 o'clock from the result of being gored by a bull.

Soldier Saves Pay To Build Model Airship

EL PASO.—The savings that he collected from his salary of from $21 to $45 a month to buy tools and materials for the construction of a new dirigible airship model may give a return of thousands of dollars to George Deuring, 28, Fort Bliss soldier.

WHERE FALL WILL SERVE SENTENCE

In the New Mexico state prison at Santa Fe, over which he once exercised authority as a member of the New Mexico state prison board, Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, will pay his debt to society as the laborer of a $100,000 bribe. The lower picture shows the prison court yard, the administration building and prison bakery being in the background.

GOV. MURRAY THREATENS TO BLOW ONE UP

DENISON, Texas, July 17.—Barriers were thrown up on the Texas side of the new free River bridge here by Texas ranger today thwarting the attempt of Governor W. H. Murray of Oklahoma to open all free spans to interstate traffic.

SOLONS TO PROBE OIL INDUSTRY

AUSTIN, July 17.—Faced with the self-imposed task of investigating methods of business in the oil industry the Texas House of Representatives today is considering a procedure it will follow in conducting the inquiry. It is scheduled to begin immediately and last eight days.

RANGER HIGH SCHOOL BAND PLAYS TONIGHT

The Ranger High school band will present the regular weekly concert tonight on the High school grounds with E. L. Maddox leading the band and in charge of the program.

TWO FORMER RANGER BOYS IN AIR SCHOOL

Letters from Clarence and Albert Cowart, formerly of Ranger, said that they were entering the army air training corps at San Antonio today and would begin their flying instructions immediately.

QUITO, Ecuador, July 17.—A sharp earthquake was believed today to have practically destroyed the town of Latagunga, 50 miles from Quito.

ACCUSED MAN CUTS HIS THROAT

CORSIKANA, Texas, July 17.—Charles Douglas, 40, being tried here on charges of murder, slashed his throat with a razor blade in the county jail here early today, a few hours before jurors were to deliberate his guilt in the shotgun slaying of Miss Texana Hall.

Julien C. Hyer Elected Head of Lion International

TORONTO, Ont., July 17.—Julien C. Hyer of Fort Worth, Texas, was today elected to succeed Earle W. Hodges of the New York City as president of the International association of Lions Clubs.

German Loan May Be Made On Condition

PARIS, France, July 17.—An international loan to Germany will be made conditional on her solemn promise to renew the Young plan payments on expiration of the one year Hoover moratorium, the United Press was informed today.

Oil Man Found Dead at Marshall

MARSHALL, July 17.—Harold W. Cook, 35, believed to be a Longview oil man, was found dead from shotgun wounds in a lonely grove at Woodlawn, 11 miles north of here early today.

Oil Man Found Dead at Marshall

MARSHALL, July 17.—Harold W. Cook, 35, believed to be a Longview oil man, was found dead from shotgun wounds in a lonely grove at Woodlawn, 11 miles north of here early today.

Courts To Decide Right To Title To Petrified Forest

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—The courts must decide who owns the "original" petrified forest in Colorado.

Eastland Band Concert Planned For Saturday

There will not be a band program on the Eastland course lawn this Saturday as so many of the members of the Eastland Booster band are absent and are away on the annual scout encampment at Mason and still others who play in the band are on vacation trips.

Eastland Entered In the Desdemona Baseball Meet

The Eastland Longhorns have been entered in the Desdemona baseball tournament which is to be played July 24, 25 and 26. The tournament which is sponsored by the Desdemona Parent-Teacher association is being held in connection with the old-timers' reunion there next week.

Independents Ask for Embargo On Crude Importation

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The White House received today an appeal from the Independent Petroleum association of Texas seeking a temporary embargo against importations of crude oil.

Eastland Dairies Grade Class 'A'

Dairies serving Eastland with milk have all been thoroughly inspected and have been found to be in sanitary conditions entitling them to be classed as "Class A" dairies, Carl Swearingen, city inspector, stated Thursday. Following is Mr. Swearingen's report:

'Farmer Jim' in Favor of Hoover Debt Holiday

BRADY, Texas.—"Farmer Jim" Ferguson, former governor of Texas, is strongly in favor of President Hoover's plan for a one-year suspension of inter-governmental debts.

Home of Mexican Consul Raided, Beer Said Found

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 17.—H. L. Valdez, Mexican consul here, was charged with manufacture and possession of beer in two complaints filed in police court by former Peace Justice Walter Benson.

San Salvador Asks Bees By Airplane

SAN BENITO.—Request that six queen bees be rushed by airplane from the Rio Grande Valley to San Salvador was received by the Brownsville Chamber of Commerce.

The Ranger Times has guest tickets for Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Martin to see Barbara Stanwyck in "Ten Cents a Dance"

HOSE TROUSERS BEE SWARM

NEWPORT, R. I.—Firemen fighting a fire at the Good Will cleaning plant had to fight for their own protection when a hose stream dislodged a swarm of bees under the roof. The bees attacked the firemen and were dispersed only when the hose was turned on them.

1,600 BRANDS IN ARIZONA

PHOENIX, Ariz.—A lot of the Old West is still hanging around in Arizona, it was discovered here when a new recording of livestock brands law became effective. Sixteen hundred brands, recorded 10 years ago, must be recorded again before the first of the year at a fee of $2 each.

79 PER CENT CONVICTED

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Persons favoring law enforcement cannot complain in Maricopa county, Arizona, where 79 per cent of all cases tried in superior court resulted in convictions during the first half of this year.

Eastland and Ranger Stars Are in Finals

Ranking stars of Eastland and Ranger, by virtue of their respective victories over Strawn and Thurber, gained the final round of the championship fight of the annual oil night on the T. & P. courts at Thursday, before quite a crowd, swept the Thurber team of Randall and Whitworth off their feet with a hard-driving fast-moving game. Thurber starting like a house on fire and taking the first set after a hot fight, soon crumpled as the Ranger lads gained their stride, and took the last three sets 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Former Eastland Lawyer Dies At San Angelo Home

J. A. Thompson, about 57 years old and a former law partner of Milburn McCarty of Eastland, died in his home at San Angelo some time during Thursday night, according to a wire received by Mr. McCarty early today. The funeral will be held in San Angelo this afternoon and Mr. and Mrs. McCarty left immediately after receiving word in order to attend.

WILDCAT PUZZLES SHERIFF

TEXARKANA, Ark.—Sheriff Walter Harris had a pleasant gift to him recently—and he does not know just what to do with it. The present was a ferocious wildcat that was captured by a friend.

AN OIL CRISIS FACES LAWMAKERS.

Texas lawmakers organized in special session Tuesday. They are face to face with an oil crisis in the economic world of oil. Seriously speaking it is about the toughest proposal that has faced Texas lawmakers in many decades. There are low price levels which are astounding. Gasoline is selling at a higher figure per gallon than crude oil is selling for a barrel. There is chaos everywhere in the Southwestern producing fields.

There are so many factions and factors that it is a puzzling situation all around. There are major companies who are deeply concerned. There are independent producers who do not know which way to turn. There are lease holders and royalty takers-down who are scrambling for a place in the sun. Regrets of the Texas University have asked for a shutdown of their wells in certain fields. Kansas and Oklahoma producers are calling for a shutdown, but all are waiting for the enactment of legislation by the lawmakers of this imperial state.

There are oil producers who are clamoring for drastic laws to control production and pipe lines and all other agencies of marketing but they are said to be opposed to an elective state conservation commission. They prefer that the state railroad commission should be the supreme agency clothed with additional extraordinary power. There are outstanding lawmakers and oil producers who insist that a state conservation commission, appointive, would work out the only salvation in these critical times and that it should be the outstanding conservation state machine or commission to regulate or control the mineral wealth of Texas and conserve the soil wealth which has been damaged to the extent of billions by soil erosion and all the other evils which attend non-scientific farming.

These are times when economic problems and their solution call for the best in legislation by those entrusted with the duties of a lawmaker by the people of Texas. There should be a short session, a constructive session, a harmonious session and the laws which are enacted should be fair to all interests and destructive to none. There are economic crises everywhere the wide world over. Here in the greatest of the empire states in a republic which is setting the pace for the world there should be decisive and intelligent action on the part of public servants who are asked to solve a most intricate problem, stabilize one of the greatest industries and conserve the wealth which the Creator placed under the surface, for the people of this matchless and ever marvelous Southwestern territory.

EYEING NEW TAX SOURCES.

Secretary Mellon is fighting for a more balanced system of federal revenue, a system that can better stand the shocks of a business depression or stock market crash and prevent the recurrence of this year's staggering treasury deficit.

The government at a time of industrial recession finds the source from which it derives the major part of its revenues much less stable and reliable than the sources from which it derives the lesser contribution. The present situation is abnormal, but it sustains the case for a system less dependent on the fluctuations of industry.

Federal revenue for the fiscal year that just ended was $612,000,000 below that for the preceding fiscal year. The drop was greatest in individual income tax receipts, amounting to 27.3 per cent, and it was least in miscellaneous taxes, including tobacco and other excise taxes and customs duties, which fell off only 9.8 per cent. Revenue from corporation income was 18 per cent lower.

The treasury department is asking, in the face of these facts, whether more stable income would not be maintained were the government to depend less on income taxes and more on levies against commodities which the people consume in equal quantities at all times.

There is another argument that can be advanced in behalf of the plan. Income and corporation taxes are unpopular because they are direct. Excise taxes and customs duties are popular because they are indirect and, therefore, forgotten. And no matter from whom they are collected the consumers pay them in the end.

WORLD AUTO FIGURES.

It is highly significant that there is one automobile for every 4.59 persons in the United States, compared with the next highest rate, Canada's of one to every 8.9 persons, but from a strictly national viewpoint it is more interesting to learn from the latest motor vehicle census that ratio of car to population is higher in the rural sections than in the great centers of population. For example, there is only one car to every nine persons in New York City.

The automobile, once the plaything of the urban rich, has become the necessity of even the rural poor. Out in the great open spaces where distances are greater and isolation more real the motor vehicle is an indispensable part of the transportation system, if not the only means of rapid transit.

These census figures furnish some interesting information as to future automobile markets. Australia has only one car to every 11.4 persons, while the ratio in France, England, Argentina and Brazil ranges from one to 27 to one to 202. And there are areas in Asia where the ratio is one to 50,000.

In the production of motor vehicles the United States is holding its own in spite of foreign embargoes to promote domestic domestic manufacture in countries enforcing them. American manufacturers supplied more than 87 per cent of the cars registered in foreign countries last year.

That the industry was not entirely idle last year is apparent from the 2 per cent increase in world registration in spite of the scrapping of 3,400,000 cars.

TWO APOLOGIES IN A MONTH TO MEXICO.

Secretary Stimson is vacationing in Europe but this did not prevent the American government, for the second time in a month, from expressing regret to Mexico for the treatment of Mexicans in the United States. An irate judge in the city of Chicago sentenced a Mexican consul to jail for six months for contempt of court. This precipitated an international row. Governor Emerson of Illinois sent a polite message to the Chicago judge. Well, the judge dismounted. He revoked the order. A dog berry was brought to judgment. Justice is sacred and not the judge. Pass it along.

Give 'Em the Whip—And Make It Snappy!

CRACKS IN THE DOME

Title of professor has been taken away from L. Theo Bellmont, former athletics director of the University of Texas, by action of the regents this month.

Mr. Bellmont's salary has been cut back from the $5,000 professor's basis to approximately $3,600 a year. He trains the title of director of physical training, to whose duties he was assigned when university regents severed him from connection with intercollegiate athletics after a historical episode.

Athletics and intramural activities were cut back this year to absorb part of the losses in the appropriation budget. Athletics will be pared considerably more in next year's budget, Regent Robert L. Holliday said while here.

Athletic activities grew to a considerable bulge in the university's money budget during recent years while football, baseball, track, basketball and tennis reached unprecedented popularity.

Now the regents have invited the athletic council to investigate and report back whether Marty Karow, now an assistant coach, should be made basketball coach to succeed Fred Walker, who was not retained, or whether the university will be able to get along without a basketball coach.

Dr. W. E. Metzenthin, a professor, is director of intercollegiate athletics. Nearly half his salary is paid from athletic funds. His total compensation is that of professor.

How Dr. Metzenthin was placed at the head of athletic affairs was out of his knowledge has been disclosed. He had just been brought back to the university, after an absence dating from his service of German-language teaching during the World War. He was nominated "from the floor" before any recommendation had been submitted to the regents and was unanimously elected.

State Supt. S. M. N. Marrs will ask Gov. Sterling to submit to this session a corrective law to meet adverse effect a supreme court decision may have on high school attendance. That decision held that pupils when they reach 18 or over, no longer have free tuition. In case of transfer pupils, the state will not be permitted to pay their tuition. Mr. Marrs said to prevent discrimination, he also will disallow the schools admitting tuition-free their home-district pupils of 18 or over. Question of his authority to do that may be subject to debate under the supreme court Love vs. Dallas decision, but he has power to exclude from the rolls all pupils 18 or over, and thus take away $12.50 from the high schools for each such scholar.

Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters announced that a suitable horse will be ready for Gov. Sterling to ride in inspection of the national guard cavalry encampment at Mineral Wells. The regents gave Gov. Sterling cracked the whip over the yoke of oxen at Temple. He is commander-in-chief of the national guard. This includes an airplane squadron. He has been the owner of several railroads at different times. He owns and runs sail boats and power boats. If he'll get a submarine, it seems his contact with transportation will cover the whole field.

There is being wasted $5,500 a day in Reagan county, through dissipation of 110,000,000 cubic feet of "sweet" or fuel gas.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The unprecedentedly enormous proportions of this 1932 George Washington Bicentennial celebration seem to be largely attributable to Sol Bloom and his soul.

They put Sol and his soul in a dinky little Capitol office when they made him a director of the commission. But Sol has expanded the commission into vast, handsome quarters in a big new office building and commands scores of workers who, among hundreds of other things and in the name of George Washington and Sol Bloom, are now pelting hundreds of thousands of leading citizens and organizations in 48,000 cities and villages with instructions and bulky programs for the observance through next year of the 200th anniversary of Washington's birth.

Those Fervent Speeches

Maybe you don't think any New York congressman has a soul. But that's because you haven't listened to Sol Bloom talking about the Bicentennial and the great patriotic reawakening which he believes will come out of it. There are authentic instances where people have broken down and wept at hearing him on the radio. They thought Sol was crying, too. He wasn't, but before the microphone his voice and frame shake in grimmest earnestness as he pours out that soul. "Sol's loat" his wife exclaimed to their daughter Vera as the two listened to his radio voice quite recently and it seemed that no man affected so emotionally could possibly go on.

"We're bringing the real Washington back to the people," he explains tensely. "We're humanizing America a history lesson such as no country ever had before. We must have more of the spiritual and less of the material. We've forgotten history. History is like religion." George Cohan has written us a song for the year 1932. Lindbergh flying across the ocean was guided and guarded by the prayers of hundreds of millions of people. He couldn't fail. This country can't fail to fulfill its highest destiny if we have the prayers of a hundred million or more people for their country and with thoughts of George Washington.

Overdoing this thing? Man, you can't overdo history! People get fed up on it all before we get through? Well, they don't get fed up on religion, do they? There's nothing more beautiful than the history of our country. The spirit of George Washington will rise from his tomb in Mount Vernon and bring us together again, as the living Washington stillled the storms that swept over the days when he lived in the flesh. This celebration is going to give the American people the greatest national rallying point they ever had."

Few G. A. R. Vets To Attend Meet

DES MOINES.—Not even the most optimistic members of the entertainment committee hope today that there will be a great number of G. A. R. veterans attending the national encampment here Sept. 13-17.

The past year has seen the decadence of what was once a mighty army into a feeble echo of its strength, and reports which have reached headquarters here indicate that many of the surviving veterans will be too feeble to make the journey to the national encampment.

Railroad Train Wins Race With Stark

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—A New York Central railroad train beat the stark here by 33 minutes.

As the train left Utica, Mrs. Edw. Callahan generally from Springfield, Mass., to East Cleveland, O., with her four children, became ill and the engineer was urged to make a rapid trip to Syracuse.

TUMBLES INVALID CHILDREN

BOSTON.—Two 8-year-old children were admitted to City hospital here almost simultaneously. Regina Moses had fallen out of bed. She was found to be suffering from a fractured collar bone. Thomas Fennell had tumbled 25 feet from a piazza. Examination showed he had escaped unscathed.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE
 Shawnee, Okla.

That cities that are known as progressive cities attract the attention of investors and homeseekers. Cities that are alive and know it never lost any time in telling others of the waiting world may know it. They tell of the glories of their city and of the many money-making opportunities to be found there.

They do not boast, but deal out cold facts.

Every city that is progressive and keeps telling the world about it has a glowing future.

Modern cities are facing wonderful opportunities, bigger than most of them realize. Now is the time for them to look ahead and plan to quicken that additional prosperity that is so desired by all.

Cities that realize the importance of building better business and making plans into effect are the ones who will profit most.

Cities that have been alive to their opportunities have for years been drawing to themselves new industries, homeseekers and investors in large numbers.

All Boy Twins in This Family

To have had three sets of twins, and all of them boys, is the rare distinction which belongs to Mrs. C. G. Valliere of Ottawa, Canada, who is shown above with her husband and children. One of the first pair of twins died. The children, left to right, are Robert, J. Donald and Ronald, the recent additions, Clifford, 5, and Jack, 3.

13 Month Year Seen in Offing By League Head

Divorce Seekers Think the World Knows Problems

By United Press.

RENO, Nev.—Perhaps the most self-conscious person in the world is the young female divorcee seeker on her way to Reno. There she sits in her westward bound Pullman, feeling as conspicuous as if the whole world were agape over her own personal leap for marital freedom.

Becomes Nonchalant

She is uncertain whether she should appear sad or happy, so she generally assumes an expression of complete nonchalance. As she steps off the train she is actually a little bit frightened.

Just Reno Routine

But she is brought to realize how fallacious her train of thought has been after she has been in Reno a week. For Reno routine, Reno matter-of-factness, Reno tolerance and Reno gaiety (after a strained hectic sort of gaiety) form the melting pot for Reno divorcees.

Railroad Yard Gold Reclaimed

By United Press.

SALIDA, Colo.—A mining engineer who wouldn't believe that Colorado's first great industry had "panned out" has discovered a new source of gold—down in old railroad transfer yards and beside abandoned smelters.

Anthropologist Seeks Records Of Ancient Race

By United Press.

SILVER CITY, N. M.—Secrets of the ancient Mimbres, a race which lived on the upper Mimbres river some 2,000 years ago, are being sought by Paul Nesbitt, anthropologist of the Logan Museum, Beloit College, Beloit, Wis.

MADISON, Wis.—Wild duck food in Wisconsin has disappeared fast during the dry weeks, and the conservation commission is planting 540 pounds of wild rice to avoid starving ducks out of Wisconsin.

AGED LOTHARIO SERENADED

POMEROY, Ohio.—When Nat C. Cook, 88, Syracuse, Ohio, Civil war veteran, returned home after eloping with Mrs. Anna Lallance he was serenaded by 150 of his neighbors. The veteran and his bride went on their honeymoon in an automobile which he gave her for a wedding present.

Utah Offers Bounty On Grasshoppers

By United Press.

BLAINE, Utah.—One might suppose that a princely income could hardly be earned by selling grasshoppers for one cent a pound.

Nevertheless many "hopper" hunters are planning to make a fat income over the one cent bounty offered by Sanpete county officials.

The county commission decided that the one cent bounty incentive was needed to expedite the control of the insect menace. At times the grasshoppers strip fields bare.

Judge Gives Man Time To Decide

SHADOW OF GAS DEATH ROOM HOVERS OVER 5

By EARL H. LEIP, United Press Staff Correspondent. RENO, Nev.—The shadow of the lethal gas chamber today hangs over three men and two women in Nevada who have been accused of first degree murder, for which the maximum penalty is death.

Gunplay figured in four of the murders and a knife in the fifth. All of the victims were men. Two other slayings occurred this year but the "Nevada code" of non-interference in private feuds and the "law of the range" brought freedom to both victors in the quarrels.

A jury freed Frank Blondin, miner, for shooting and killing George Indians, sheepherder, in the lonely Pyramid Lake section during an argument over grazing rights, and a coroner's jury exonerated Bill Graham, Reno "big shot" in sporting circles, for slaying P. E. McCracken during a gun duel in a Douglas Allen speakeasy.

The two women charged with murder are in the Elko county jail awaiting trial. Although one slaying occurred in Wendover and the other in Midas, Nev., there is a strange parallel between the cases—both of the men victims were shot in the back, both women were alone with the victims when the shootings occurred, both claim the dead men committed suicide and in each instance the officers claim suicide would have been impossible.

Beautiful Rita Thurman is charged with shooting Ray Monsees, Wendover, Nev., after their return from a country dance.

The second woman, Mrs. Mary Young, was bound over for trial on first degree murder charges in the slaying of her husband, Del H. Young, miner, who was found dead in the doorway of his cabin with a bullet in his head.

In Las Vegas, Nevada's southern metropolis, two men face death if convicted. Louis Potter has been accused of killing J. A. Lewis, placing the body in a truck and oversteering the truck to make it appear an accidental death.

John Hall, 32, is charged with shooting and killing Jack O'Brien, prospector. He was killed during an argument.

L. Cejas, Mexican, is held in the death house at Carson City pending an appeal in his case.

Italy Discards Foreign Coal For Electricity

ROME.—Italy's substitution of domestic "white coal" for foreign black coal on her railroads is winning an important strategic battle of which Fascism is proud.

Italy, after the United States, has the greatest mileage of electrified railroad lines in the world. The system is being rapidly extended until Switzerland, formerly the leading electrical country in Europe, has been left in third place.

Although this fact is interesting in itself, the reason behind Italy's railroad electrification is more subtle. For many years dependent upon foreign coal for her locomotives, Italy, under Mussolini, woke up to its vast untapped hydro-electric possibilities.

New Industry
The development of this power has given Italy a new and important industry. But of chief interest to the government, it has permitted the government to relieve Italy's military and strategic commercial railroads from dependence upon foreign coal. In case of another serious war, Italy's railroads will not be imperilled from the lack of coal to carry food and munitions to battle points.

During peace time, the electrified roads support the increasing development of hydro-electric power, and this has resulted in a general speeding up of the railroad systems.

Work is Costly
The electrification of the old lines is costly, and the government has been forced to proceed gradually as funds would permit. The most important and strategic lines have been electrically equipped first.

The first Italian line was electrified in 1911. Today there are more than 10 important stretches which have been completely electrified. More than one-tenth of the total mileage has been transformed from coal to electricity-driven motors. The traffic handled over these electrified lines represents more than 20 per cent of the nation's total railroad freight and passenger business.

It is estimated that Italy has already saved one quarter of her foreign coal bill, as the electrified roads are generally in the mountains, where the consumption of coal was heavy.

DEPRESSION HITS DOGDOM

PHILADELPHIA.—Dogdom is hard hit by the industrial depression, according to reports from the Animal Rescue League Shelter. With many persons out of work, hundreds of dogs are being turned loose to shift for themselves, officials of the shelter announce. With about 50 animals awaiting adoption, which is twice the number usually on hand, the league is making every effort to find them homes.

BUT HE NEVER SMOKES.

TEKARKANA, Ark.—S. M. Ragsdale has sold tobacco for the last 35 years. During the last few years he has sold an average of 15,000,000 cigars a year and 4,000,000 cigars. But that is not the record Ragsdale claims is hard to beat. The record he is proud of is that he has never smoked a cigar or cigarette in his life.

EATING OUTDOORS

IF you have ever traded dry meat sandwiches with a genial Alpine guide over the hospitality of the Swiss hospice, if you have roamed on the earthen stoop of a white-washed cottage somewhere in Ireland and eaten bread and tea; lingered over a French dinner "au Bois" with artichokes served in hot butter sauce and wine of ancient vintage, or put away "hot dogs" say, at the old county fair—we needn't waste a paragraph on the luxury of eating outdoors.

It's altogether "what to do." The next question, then, is—how to do it. Foods for outdoor refreshment differ widely according to the occasion. There are motor trips, picnics, hikes, camping, porch lunches, garden parties and so on. Thus, there are correct foods for each occasion. For one would as soon wear khaki knickerbockers to a garden party, as to take chilled gelatin salad on a hike.

Foods That "Belong"

Here is a brief classification. Welcome foods for a motor trip are compactly-packed sandwiches, package cakes, thermos jugs of fruit juice, on a picnic, generous jars of delicious salads, fruits, fruit juices, deviled eggs and delicious cakes; for hikes and camping, ready-sliced loaves of bread, sandwich spreads, bacon and frankfurters to broil, and fruit juices; for porch lunches and garden parties, open-faced sandwiches or canapés, hors d'oeuvres, fruit cocktails, chilled salads, delicious cakes and after-dinner candies. Incidentally, here is a new stunt for bikers who like to "travel light"—cooking on a tin-can stove. Did you ever hear of one? A No. 2 tin can will make a sufficiently large stove, or you can use a large bucket. Cut a four-inch square out of the side at the upper edge. Near the bottom on the opposite side cut another square, hole, one and one-half inches. Turn the can upside down on the ground and build a fire in it. The large opening is used for refueling and the smoke comes out of the little hole. The top of the stand becomes hot for frying bacon, eggs, pancakes, or to set a saucepan on.

Some "Outdoor" Recipes

A MOTOR TRIP SANDWICH—Pigwant Ham Sandwich: Spread buttered bread the contents of a small can of deviled ham, one teaspoon chopped mustard pickles, one tablespoon chopped walnuts and one tablespoon mayonnaise.

A PICNIC FRUIT PUNCH—Coffee Punch: Mix one cup strong coffee, one cup orange juice and the syrup from two No. 2 cans of grapefruit (reserve the fruit for salads). Add one cup maple syrup and chili. Just before serving add one quart of gingerale and two cups of heavy cream, if desired. The cream may be omitted. This makes almost three quarts of punch.

MAIN DISH FOR CAMPING—Savory Baked Beans: Chop one onion, add one-half pound of hamburger steak and brown in two tablespoons fat. Add one can tomato soup, one can of oven-baked beans and salt to taste. Heat thoroughly and serve plain or over slices of brown bread.

A PORCH STEPPER DESSERT—Raspberry Charlotte: Remove crusts from eight or ten slices of bread, and butter the slices well. Heat to boiling one No. 2 can of blueberries (or use the fresh berries) and one-fourth cup of sugar. Butter a deep dish, and then arrange alternate layers of bread and hot berries, pressing down well, until all are used up. Let stand several hours in a cold place, turn out in a mold. Slice and serve with cream seasoned with sugar and nutmeg, or with whipped cream.

A GARDEN PARTY SALAD—Gingerale and Grapefruit Salad: Soak two tablespoons of gelatin in four tablespoons cold water, then dissolve it in one-half cup of boiling water. Add one-fourth cup sugar and stir until the sugar is dissolved. When cold, add one cup gingerale and the syrup from one No. 2 can of grapefruit. When about to set, add the grapefruit pulp and eight maraschino cherries; pour into a flat pan or into molds and let chill until stiff. Serve garnished at the side with sprigs of fresh mint and top with cream mayonnaise.

Lucky Lady

It was a lucky day for Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, above, when she resigned as secretary to Governor Henry S. Johnson of Oklahoma after a row in the legislature that marked the governor's impeachment. She went into the oil business and recently she is reported to have shared with Fred P. Brannon, former chief justice of Oklahoma, in the sale of Texas oil lands for $1,000,000 in cash and oil.

Cermak's Backers Getting Refunds On Their Donations

CHICAGO.—Something unique in majority campaigns has been experienced by supporters of Antonio J. Cermak—return of part of their campaign contributions. Between 700 and 800 persons who contributed funds to the business men's organization which supported Mayor Cermak during his campaign have received checks from the treasurer of the organization representing about six per cent of their original contributions. The individual checks ranged from $1 cents to $200, making an announced total of several thousand dollars. Judge Henry Horner of the Probate Court, treasurer of the organization said: "I never heard of this being done before, but the surplus fund was not our money, so it was returned."

TWINS LEAD SIMILAR LIVES

PHILADELPHIA.—With astonishing similarity, both in their fortunes and in their careers, Dr. Anne Linton and Dr. Elizabeth Linton twins, have lived, studied and taught side by side for 62 years. Recently they were both retired from the mathematics department of the West Philadelphia High School because they had reached the retirement age after 41 years of uninterrupted teaching.

Rattlers Studied In War on Reptiles

By United Press. BOISE, Idaho.—While killing 300 inquisitive rattlesnakes that invaded their camp within two months, workers on a construction camp at Raft river found time to study habits of the reptiles.

The snakes hold their rattles vertically, not horizontally, when they crawl, it was found. A drop of tobacco juice will kill a snake at once, a "chawer" with a flair for research found. An infuriated reptile will bite itself in the tail and die of poison, the workmen declared.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

Social Service in Religion

Text: 4:32-35; 6:1-4; 2 Cor. 9:1-7. And the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and of one soul; neither said any of them that aught of the things which he possessed was his own; but they had all things common.

And with great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus; and great grace was upon them all.

Neither was there any among them that lacked; for as many as were possessor of lands or houses sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold.

And laid them down at the apostles' feet; and distribution was made unto every man according as he had need.

And in those days, when the number of the disciples was multiplied, there arose a murmuring of the Grecians against the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in the daily ministration.

Then the 12 called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, It is not reason that we should leave the word of God, and serve tables.

Wherefore, brethren, look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business.

But we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word.

For as touching the ministering to the disciples, it is superfluous for me to write to you:

For I know the forwardness of your mind, for which I boast of you to them of Macedonia, that Achaia was ready a year ago; and your zeal hath provoked very many.

Yet have I sent the brethren, lest haply if they of Macedonia came with me, and find you unprepared, we (that we say not, ye) should be ashamed in this same confident boasting.

Therefore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren, that they would go before unto you, and make up beforehand your bounty, whereof ye had notice before, that the same might be ready, as a matter of bounty, and not as of covetousness.

But this I say, He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully.

Every man according as he purposed in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity; for God loveth a cheerful giver.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 19. Social Service in the Early Church. Acts 4:32-35; 6:1-3; 2 Cor. 9:1-7.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist. The expression "social service" belongs to our own age, and in some measure the social outlook and practice of religion which are so commonly emphasized at the present time are of recent development in the modern world. There was a long period when religion was thought of as relating largely to individual character and habits, with rather secondary reference to matters of elemental right and social justice. But that period of emphasis on individual religion, with a corresponding but entirely unwarranted lack of emphasis upon social religion, was not in harmony with the great expressions of Christianity, for the religion of Jesus, and the religion that Jesus bequeathed to his disciples, was a religion that manifested itself in what we call today social service.

Laying Foundation.

In the Parable of the Good Samaritan Jesus laid as clearly as definitely as it could be laid the foundation for social religion, and he indicated the necessity of social religion if religion was to have any real meaning at all. The devout individuals who passed neglectfully by the man wounded and bleeding on the highway, whatever their individual earnestness may have been, were not exemplifying true religion, which in its very spirit is based upon love and brotherhood, flowing from the love of God himself.

The late Dr. F. B. Meyer once exemplified the change that has come in the emphasis upon social religion, by a reference to his own experience. He said that there was a time when he thought his whole duty was fulfilled if he helped to rescue some poor man who had been beaten and robbed and left by the wayside. But he had discovered that his duty was not fulfilled when he had done that. He had come to see that it was necessary, also, to stir up the authorities at Jerusalem to go down and root out the whole class of thieves and robbers and make the highway safe for wayfarers.

Here in our lesson the forms of social service in which Christianity became quickly expressed were elemental. The first section of the lesson describes something very much like what we should call communism today, though it was a communism not of force and violence but a communism of love and of willingness to share what one had with one's less happily situated fellow Christians. Most assuredly this small group of Christians established something that typified an ideal society in attaining conditions where nobody lacked for food or the necessities of life. However, it requires real religion to initiate a system like that and put it into effect.

Even in these ideal conditions, also, there were those who were trouble-makers. It is not easy to (Continued on page 5)

STUDY THEORY AMERICA ONCE JOINED EUROPE

By United Press.
 PARIS.—The Abbe Moreux, eminent French meteorologist and scientific interest by reviving discussion of the theory that the American continent once was joined to the Old World but, after the ice age, floated away to its present position.
 The theory was advanced during the early part of this century by the German meteorologist, Alfred Wegener, who died recently. According to the theory that the continents are fluid, then solidified continents may be drawn to the interior of the earth by a supple, gradually dissolving link.
 The Abbe Moreux points out that the German scientist held the two continents, when they were almost perfectly, as one. Examination of a map shows that this jagged edge is not so far-fetched as it would seem at first. When the narrow gap, the narrow gap, between the continents widened, the continents drifted away, leaving the expanse of the Atlantic to be filled by the newly created world of the old.
 The French scientist declares that the theory is not new. It was first advanced by Pierre Placet in 1668, and again by Snider in 1889. Abbe Moreux, while unwilling to pass the theory, points to the curving of the islands of the Atlantic, as the Azores and Madeira, which remained stationary, or they floating more slowly towards the new world?
 It is indicated that the French Academy of Sciences may discuss the theory in its entirety, while the mission of a mission to study the composition of the Azores and the Atlantic islands is being planned.

C. E. "Mother"

"It's harder to be good today than 50 years ago, but our young people are just as good," said Mrs. Frances E. Clark, above, 80-year-old "mother" of Christian Endeavor, when she arrived in San Francisco to attend the golden jubilee of the organization. She explained that the good things are played down the bad things are publicized.

U. S. Girls Seek Jobs in France

By United Press.
 PARIS.—According to Leo J. Kenna, of the United States consulate-general in Paris, American girls are exhibiting a greater spirit of adventure than American boys in seeking to secure full or part-time jobs in the French capital.
 "They all seem to think," said Kenna, "that life is unusually glamorous here and that work is easy to find. They are all motivated by a spirit of adventure, and many of them want to leave their good jobs at home and come over here on the faintest prospect of getting something to do. The deplorable truth, in most cases, is that the young women have just enough money for a one-way ticket."
 As fast as these letters pour into the American consulate—and they are increasing every day—they are answered courteously but firmly, stating that getting work of this kind is practically an impossibility. The labor office here has shut the lid down tight, giving what employment is to be offered to their own out-of-work citizens first. Later, if there are extra jobs to spare, they will loosen the rigidity of the present ruling.
 "Since April 1," continued Kenna, "I have received letters from more than 80 localities, ranging from rural towns to the largest cities in the United States, and the same is true of the consulate offices in London, Berlin, Rome and other European capitals. In fairness to these people, the majority of whom are girls and women, we make a desperate effort to discourage them."

Radical Change Made in Italy's Prison System

By United Press.
 ROME.—Radical changes in Italy's prison system, including the abolishment of cellular segregation, went into effect throughout Italy this month, with the hearty approval of humanitarians and prison reformers throughout the world.
 Italian prisoners no longer live in prisons, but "social institutions." The entire Italian penitentiary system has been overhauled, with the idea of re-educating and regenerating the prisoners while they are being punished.
 The changes in the system can be enumerated in the following manner:
 1. Abolition of cellular segregation, or solitary confinement; 2. Creation of many specialized types of prison "institutions"; 3. Prisoners must work profitably; 4. The prisoners must work in the open air as much as possible; 5. The prisoners will be paid for work done; 6. Prisoners are required to pay part of their food and lodging expenses; 7. Civil and religious instructions for prisoners; and 8. Special treatment for minors, and 9. Judicial control over the execution of the sentences.
 There are headline shades of difference between sentences under the new code. The change over to the new system will be gradual, as many of the present prisoners will have to be reeducated to meet the more liberal ideas.
 The directors of the many prisons throughout Italy came to Rome recently for this purpose, and conferred with Signor Giovanni Novati, director of Italian Penal Institutions, who outlined the reforms to be carried out under the new code. The new prison regulations went into effect simultaneously with Italy's new Penal Code, which restores capital punishment for many crimes, and which has liberalized the old code of 1889.
 Two Classes of Prisoners
 The new prison regulations contain 332 articles and are subdivided into four parts. Italian prisoners have been divided into two main classes. Firstly, there are 50 prisons, which are called institutions, for the execution of sentences, and secondly, 17 institutions for the execution of sentences in a manner to protect public security. The first group includes major criminals who have been sentenced to life imprisonment and long sentences of "reclusion," and for the detention of persons arrested on serious offenses.
 The second group contains more specialized institutions, such as agricultural colonies, workhouses, insane asylums, reform schools, and curative institutions.
 The principle behind the entire reform is the prisoners should not be kept in solitary confinement, but gradually allowed to work in a community with other prisoners. The prisoners will be taught trades or professions, and a general regeneration will result, which will be beneficial to society.

Texas Woman Owns Unusual Old Bible

By United Press.
 WHEELER, Texas.—An edition of the Bible 333 years old, and believed to have never been recorded, has been found here, Mrs. E. A. Holt, who owns the volume, claimed recently.
 The volume is thick, measuring nine inches by six inches, and three and one-half inches thick. It is bound in heavy brown leather which is frayed with age.
 Mrs. Holt said her father purchased the volume in 1830 for $50. Notations in the book date back as far as 1738.

Old Documents Reveal Efforts For an Alliance

By United Press.
 BERLIN.—Russian plans to transform the Triple Entente (Britain, France, Russia) into a full-fledged alliance were revealed in pre-war Russian documents which are now being published by Reimar Hobbing in Berlin under the auspices of the Soviet government.
 In a confidential letter written Feb. 25, 1924, to Foreign Minister Sazonov, the Russian ambassador in London, Count Benckendorff described his efforts toward his goal in England. Although he unreservedly supported Sazonov's advocacy of the alliance, he was aware of the danger in the project.
 "I know all the objections," he wrote, "that can be made against the plan for a second European alliance for instance, that such an alliance would be the spark that would explode the bomb." However, there is no policy absolutely without risks, and I am wholly and unreservedly in favor of your plans. I know that this thing will be necessary.
 However, Benckendorff warned against haste. Public opinion in England, he said, was not yet ripe for such a project. He complained about the "terrible insularity of the English and predicted that they would wake up only on the eve of a terrible crisis."
 It is shown by Benckendorff's letter that Sazonov was thoroughly embittered against Sir Edward Grey whose reserve toward his alliance plans he resented. Therefore Benckendorff thought it necessary to dissuade Sazonov from "nagging" Grey; "the right basis is a good understanding between you and him," he added.
 While the Russian diplomats were thus doing their best to bring the Entente powers closer together they were wrangled to observe a certain alienation between two of the partners in the Triple Alliance, Austria and Italy. A significant episode was related in a report of the Russian commissioner in Albania, dated Feb. 24, 1914. According to this report, the Austrians were aroused because the Italians laid a cable between Valona and Brindisi and erected a cable station in Medua, Albania. Since they could not do anything against it by direct overtures to Italy, the Austrians chose an indirect way and complained to the British governor in Serfari, Colonel Phillips, against the Italian "transgression."
 "The cable episode shows," the Russian diplomat concluded, "how Austrian and Italian interests clash at every turn."

Haphazard Sea Flights Decried

By United Press.
 PARIS.—Trans-Atlantic flights of the haphazard variety are a menace to aviation's future, according to Prince Georges Ribesco, Aeronautical Federation president.
 "I protest against flights which do not serve the cause of aviation," said the prince. "Only properly prepared long-distance flights by duly qualified pilots using suitably equipped machines can be of value to the future of aviation."
 He added, deploring "stunt" flights by pilots who often have less common sense than a chicken.
 "As president of the federation," he continued, "my only idea is to protect aviation."
 Asked if trans-Atlantic flights could be of any value to aviation, he replied in the affirmative; but he said, "they must have a coefficient of safety suitable to the radius of action and far above the usual. If proper security is insured and the machines are equipped to fly the distance required, trans-Atlantic flights can be of incalculable value."

Tiny Republic To Hold Gold

By United Press.
 ANDORRA.—The general council of this mountain republic has decided that the Andorra treasury has but one policy, everything comes in and nothing goes out.
 Acting on that belief, the general council has refused to pay back the $15,000 paid over by an Australian syndicate for a sweep-stake concession.
 The syndicate requested the refund on the grounds that the co-prince, the Spanish Bishop of Urgel and M. Gaston Doumergue, former president of France, opposed the concession. The council has decided that since the council, not the co-princes, granted the concession the syndicate merely has to come and get its money's worth.
 Andorra intended to use the $15,000 annual revenue from the concession to build a hospital and is holding the $15,000 first payment for that purpose.
 The council has granted French interests a 50-year concession to introduce telephones to the republic. The new phones will link Andorra with the French frontier towns and with Barcelona, and it will even be possible to talk from New York with Andorra for the system will have the privilege of linking up with the trans-Atlantic telephones.
 FRYER AND GOSLING IN SNAKE
 By United Press.
 MEXICO, Mo.—A "frying-size" chicken and a four-week old gosling were found inside a black snake which was killed recently by Mrs. Forrest Weaver. Mrs. Weaver attacked the reptile with a garden hose when she found it disturbing her poultry flock. The snake was five feet nine inches long.

ACE FORECASTS HIGHER SPEED FOR AIRPLANES

By United Press.
 NEW YORK.—Col. Eddie Rickenbacker, American World War ace, and now an aircraft company official, forecasts that the winning plane in the coming Schneider Cup Races at Cowes, England, will travel at 400 miles per hour. He also foresees an air speed of 500 miles per hour or more within the next two years.
 Rickenbacker made these predictions at the Society of Automotive Engineers' meeting.
 The Schneider Cup races and similar speed events along the same line are the proving grounds for fast airplanes, just as the Indianapolis race events have become the proving grounds for many automobile improvements, he said.
 "Events of this type furnish the incentive for the development of fast planes needed in time of war," he declared.
 The record in the Schneider Cup races of 328.65 miles an hour, was made last year by Flying Officer Henry R. D. Waghorn, of the British team. The United States did not have an entry in the race, and from present indications, will have none this year either.
 "The building of racing planes requires a great deal of money," Rickenbacker pointed out, and said that "the public's money should support our entry." The funds are needed for research and it is his contention that no individual, or corporation, should be expected to carry on the work alone when the whole public will benefit from the improvements and knowledge gained.
 The famous war-time flier said that a cruising speed of 200 miles an hour is essential and will be developed in the future, and the continent will be crossed in 15 hours in regular service.
 Rickenbacker also asserted that there is a growing need for larger and cheaper aircraft engines and predicted that engines of 24, 36 and 48 cylinders may soon be developed for aircraft.

Warm? Not in Silk Shorts!

If the hot weather's getting the best of you, take a tip from Allen Freeman, above, who keeps cool in a breezy costume consisting of shorts and shirt of silk, sheik's hood and sandals. A member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, Freeman is shown here as he arrived by plane in Los Angeles.

Sunday School Lesson

 satisfy everybody and, as our lesson puts it, "there arose a murmuring of the Grecian Jews against the Hebrews because their widows were neglected in the daily ministrations." These complaints, however, had a very effective and valuable result, for they led to the appointment of deacons to adjust such matters fairly, and Stephen, who was later to become the first Christian martyr, was also the first of the deacons. It is interesting, also, to note the order of services in the early Christian church. Those who were capable of doing certain things were not so well adapted for other things, and so there arose the purpose to assign to each one the task that he could best fulfill.
 Paul's Example.
 The passage from II Corinthians, which is attached to the two passages, from the Book of Acts, indicates the extent to which, through the spirit and example of Paul, the expression of Christian faith and experience in social service became widespread wherever the church was established. The social manifestation of religion to so elemental in all that Jesus taught and in all that he and the early disciples practiced that the marvel is that anybody should conceive that there can be real religion that is not in its depth and height, and in all its application, truly social.
 A religion that professes to be toward God but that is not toward our brothers is not a religion in which the God of love can find satisfaction. If we would please God we must love our fellowmen.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

By DIXON STEWART United Press Staff Correspondent

Sharkey-Walker Not Championship Fight Although the 15-round bout between Jack Sharkey and Mickey Walker at Ebbets Field, July 22, promises the best action of any heavyweight tilt since Jack Dempsey's retirement the fight cannot be regarded as having any important bearing on the world's championship.

The New York Athletic Commission probably will recognize the bout as a championship contest, but in reality it will be no more of a title bout than would a contest between "Big Boy" Peterson and "Bouncing Basque" Escudé, two of Primo Carnera's set-up opponents.

Neither fighter has any legitimate claim to the title or, for that matter, to recognition as the outstanding contender for honors. True, Sharkey generally is regarded as the "uncrowned king" of the division, but he certainly has not proved his right to that title in the ring.

Walker, although undoubtedly the best man in the middleweight division, has done nothing to entitle him to ranking as a formidable heavyweight. He failed two years ago in an attempt to lift Tommy Loughran's light heavyweight crown and his activities in the unlimited class have been confined to minor decisions over washed-out Johnny Risico, a knock-out of one "Bearcat" Wright (whoever he might be) and a suspicious "knockout" over poor old Meyer (Kayo) Christner, who appears to have won his "kayo" title because of the frequency with which he has taken the count.

Sharkey's record during the past two years is little more impressive. Jack has fought only 36 rounds since Jan. 1, 1929. He barely managed to win the division over the same "Kayo" Christner in 10 rounds on Jan. 25, 1929. A month later he out-fumbled Young Stribling at Miami, in one of the worst bouts on record—a bout in which Stribling, if his trainers are to be believed, could use only one arm.

Sharkey staked his claim to the "American championship" Sept. 26, 1929, when he knocked out Tammy Loughran, then only a light-heavyweight, in three rounds. His activities since that time have been confined to two bouts. Last February he knocked out "Falling Phil" Scott, at Miami, in three rounds, after disabling the Briton with foul punches.

The victory over Scott qualified Sharkey for a world championship bout with Max Baer at Yankee Stadium last July and a low punch by the Bostonian in the fourth round robbed some 50,000 fight fans of the entertainment which they had paid to witness.

Denied Sharkey of any right to claim the title, the American Athletic Commission and that body attempted to force Schmeling to give Sharkey the first chance at the title.

When Schmeling refused the Commission suspend him and nominated Sharkey as the logical contender for honors, with the promise to recognize as champion the winner of a bout between Sharkey and any legitimate opponent.

Regardless of this unenviable record, Sharkey retained his influence with the New York Athletic Commission and that body attempted to force Schmeling to give Sharkey the first chance at the title.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

Too often we overlook the possibilities in the old-fashioned gooseberry. This berry is delicious and easy to prepare for table use.

There is an English concoction known as "gooseberry fool" that is one of the most inviting of summer desserts.

Gooseberry pie, gooseberry tart and rice and gooseberry compote are excellent desserts seldom served in the average home.

Gooseberry jam and gooseberry marmalade will prove as popular as strawberry jam and currant marmalade to serve with crackers and cheese and cold meats.

A tart jam adds a finishing touch to many fruit and meat salads. It often furnishes a delightful contrast in color as well.

In preparing gooseberries for use, they first must be "topped" and "tailed." You will find a pair of small scissors most convenient for this task.

PICKING YOUR RIGHT JOB.....

By HENRY L. STIMSON U. S. Secretary of State

As told to J. V. Fitzgerald of American School of the Air

Public service offers you a career that is rich in opportunities for doing constructive work, for bettering conditions and for aiding your fellow Americans. When you hold public office, whether it be elective or appointive, you are in a position of public trust.

While comparatively few of you will follow a career in the public service, always take a deep and an intelligent interest in public affairs. You have a precious heritage in your right of franchise and you should exercise it at all times. Only by so doing will you be doing your bit in behalf of good government.

Public service demands patriotism, ability, leadership, industry, unselfishness, sincerity, human understanding, business acumen, and a very definite proportion of common sense and practical knowledge for executive positions. If you have these qualities, you can become a good public servant. To them you should add as much education as you can acquire either in school, or college, or through your own individual efforts.

Legal training will be of great benefit to you in the pursuit of a public career. This holds particularly true of certain elective positions. Lawyers are well equipped, as a general rule, for legislative duties by reason of the fact that the qualifications necessary to represent the United States in foreign countries.

Many positions also are open under the competitive rules of the civil service. Here, if you qualify, you are assured of a modest income that will increase as you gain promotion and of permanence of employment.

Longhorns Play Breckenridge Sun.

The Eastland Longhorns will meet the Breckenridge Dynamoes Sunday afternoon on the local field at three o'clock. The Breckenridge team has made a very impressive record this season and should give the Longhorns a hard battle. "Lefty" Purvis will probably be on the mound for the Dynamoes.

The Longhorns will probably have a shakeup in their lineup with Neil Day as their new manager and two new players on the club. Reagan Coleman and Norman Stubbs, two new infielders, have been signed. The lineup will probably be: Watson, 1b; Ligon, 2b; Stubbs, ss; R. Coleman, 3b; Charles LeFon, lf; T. Coleman, cf; Morris, rf; Smith or Brown, c; Turner, p.

PARIS.—Papers have been fully served by the French military authorities upon the port of sailles the "Frenchman" Camera for failure to report duty in the French army. On becoming a camera, the papers will be served upon Camera if he ever comes to France within a period of 24 years, length of time he should serve the active and reserve forces of the French army. On becoming a deserter, Camera will become a deserter.

Since Carnera insists he is Italian, and the French army officials insist that he is a naturalized Frenchman, it appears likely that the man mountain return to the land of his birth.

Carnera stands assigned to 11th Infantry at Strasbourg regiment famed for its iron discipline. Had Carnera appeared before the revision board of the army which examines records there in little doubt he could have been exempted grounds of military inexperience. The French army is built on basis of an average height of feet 7 inches, and there would be nothing in stock, from rifle boots, to fit the giant boxer.

Chicago Gang District Razed

CHICAGO.—The notorious "Valley" home of the southwest side "42 Gang" soon will become history. Its buildings are being razed and the character of its inhabitants improved.

The near southwest side, training school for a generation of gangsters, thugs and major and minor racketeers, is being transformed by the wreckers into better living quarters for a less crowded population. Hundreds of old and rickety tenements, which once facilitated crime, have been torn down and others await the wreckers. Rigid immigration laws have checked the stream of population which formerly kept the "Valley" overcrowded.

Street corner gangs of boys now are more likely to set up men like Admiral Byrd, Post and Gatty and Col. Lindbergh as their ideals in place of Al Capone.

W. Ryland, Boardman, director of the Old Town Boys' Club, at the rim of the "Valley" commenting on the change, said: "Conditions are getting better and some day all this territory will be rebuilt. Hundreds of boys now show talent and good ideals. In a few years organized gangs will be replaced by organized clubs for better citizenship."

PROSTRATE JUNIPERS FOUND

SCRANTON, Pa.—A group of 32 prostrate junipers, rarely found in Pennsylvania, has been discovered in Rush Township, Susquehanna county, by foresters. The largest of the trees is three feet high and spreads over 63 square feet. It is rarely found in the United States outside of the New England section.

Texarkana Offers Hospital Site

WASHINGTON.—Selection of Texarkana, Ark., as the site of a United States Veterans' Bureau hospital costing $750,000 is being urged here by the Texarkana Chamber of Commerce. The bureau site has been offered 24 other sites in Arkansas for the 200-bed infirmary.

Selection of the site will probably not be made until the end of July, according to A. D. Hiller, assistant to Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs and chairman of the board.

In the final days of its last session, congress made $5,000,000 immediately available for the purchase of new hospital sites and additions to present ones. Part of the fund is expected to be used in adding 300 beds to the Waco hospital, giving it a 600-bed capacity and bringing the total appropriation for the Waco building to $2,200,000.

Michigan Illiterate Population Drops

WASHINGTON.—A marked decrease in illiteracy in Michigan between the years of 1920 and 1930 is shown in a report of the national advisory committee on illiteracy. The greatest reduction was made among foreign born.

In these 10 years 11,246 persons were elevated from the illiterate class, bringing the state's total down to 76,800. The latter figure represents those over 10 years who are unable to read or write. Of this total 14,790 are native whites, 4,291 are negroes and 2,775 represent other races.

Old Town Clock To Be Dismounted

BEVERLY, Mass.—After ticking off approximately 4,000,000 seconds, Beverly's old town clock soon is to be scrapped. The big timepiece, located atop the First Parish Unitarian Church for 130 years, will be replaced by an electrical clock and chimes, a gift under the will of Mrs. Mary A. Butler, widow of a former minister of the church.

Chapel Pews Will Be Sold To Grads

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Historic Appleton Chapel of Harvard University must give way to a new memorial house of worship, but its old pews will not be destroyed. The pews will be sold privately, faculty members having first preference. The Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club of Chicago was reported as in the field for several of the pews.

Heart of Liane
By MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
When Liane Barrett and her mother, Cass Barrett, stock address, go to Willow Stream, L. I. for the summer, Cass is alarmed to find Liane knows Van Robard, handsome millionaire. She asks the girl not see him any more. Muriel Ladd, debutante, is believed to have eloped with Chuck Desmond, reporter, and Liane accompanies Robard back to the States. Liane is up safe and sound. Elsie Minter crushes Liane by telling her there is gossip about Robard and Mrs. Ladd. News comes of Muriel's engagement to Van. Cass Barrett goes on tour, leaving Liane with the rich Mrs. Cleespaugh at Willow Stream. Cass is taken seriously ill and Liane goes to her. Cass recovers.
In her delirium the sick woman babbles of some mystery concerning her dead sister, Luisa. Cass comes back to the States, Liane's home to convalesce. Clive Cleespaugh, good looking son of the house, asks Liane to marry him. She refuses at first but later accepts for her mother's sake. Fanny Amberton and Tressa Lord sisters, come to visit the Cleespaughs. Tressa is rude to Liane. Robard dines there and makes love to Liane. She tells him she is to be married. Tressa suspects an affair between Clive and Liane and determines to break it up. Fanny tells Tressa that Van is the adopted son of the man whose name he bears.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXI

Cass looked strange and unfamiliar in her old black frock. It sat loosely on her, with that curious air street clothes assume when donned by the convalescent. Her hair was nicely done, though, and in spite of her thinness and obvious air of frailty she looked well. Liane said, "Mother, aren't you smart! Walking around this way."

"I've told Miss Nesbit we won't need her any more," Cass said firmly. "Mrs. Cleespaugh wanted her to stay on but it's nonsense. I'm well as well can be. And so anxious to pay back my indebtedness."

"Liane gave her a worried glance. "Dearest, you mustn't. The doctor says you're coming along splendidly but you're not able to get back into harness for a while."

"Look here, honey," said Cass with something of her old, capable manner. "I've been taking care of you, in these 19 summers and it's too late to turn the tables. Besides, I can't stay on here much longer. You've heard of wearing out one's welcome! Mrs. Cleespaugh has been fine and I appreciate it but there's no reason I should become a pensioner of hers."

Liane said faintly, "Perhaps there is a reason."
"What do you mean?"
"Clive wants me to marry him. Do you mind?"
"Clive!" said Cass, thunderstruck. "Young Mr. Cleespaugh? But you scarcely know him!"
"I know him well enough," Liane answered. "He's—he's awfully nice."

Cass played with her strand of imitation pearls. "You love him, honey?"
"I'm terribly fond of him," Liane told her honestly. "He's been splendid to me."
"That would solve everything," Cass murmured as if to herself. Her brow cleared. "I won't pretend, darling, that I haven't been worried about you. It's a battle, this life of ours, and you haven't had all the advantages I might have wished for you. This—why this would be wonderful! You'd never have to worry again!"

She mused a moment. "A good marriage is what I've always wanted for you, Liane. Love and a fine young man. Not one of those jaundiced old playboys one sees around—" She sighed. "Well, this is news!"
"You'll stay on then," Liane pleaded. "This does make a difference, doesn't it?"
"I suppose so," Cass agreed. "Although why it should honestly I don't know."
"Clive wants an early wedding," Liane faltered. "I hope you don't mind."
"The child talks of weddings and no engagement has even been announced," Cass laughed. Her color had brightened. She looked young that she had in months. "By the way, does Mrs. Cleespaugh know of it yet?"
"I think—I'm afraid, that is—that Clive is breaking the news this morning," Liane said.

"You're afraid," That's not a pleasant way to put it."
"She's rather—autocratic," said Liane, frowning. "She doesn't like plans she hasn't thought of first."
"Well, she'll love this plan. How could she help it?" asked Cass roundly.
"I hope you're right," Liane said. Cass glanced at her anxiously. "Honey child, you're certain this is what you want to do?" she inquired. "You're not—just plunging into it without thinking?"
Liane thrust from her the memory of Van Robard's proud dark face. "I know what I'm doing," she said firmly. "And it's what I want."
"I'm staying on, then," Cass decided.

Mrs. Cleespaugh held out a ringed hand to the girl. "Come in and tell me all about it," she said, not unkindly. Yet her red-rimmed eyes testified to the scene at which Clive had briefly hinted.
"This boy of mine," she began, "has stolen a march on me, it seems. It appears a courting has been going on under my very eyes."
"We didn't mean to— to deceive—" Liane faltered. "It's all been so sudden."

PRETTY—FAIR—SWIMMERS

Water queens and queens of beauty, too, are Helene Madison (left) of Seattle, Wash., and Eleanor Holm of New York. Here you see them taking a rest at Bronx Beach Pool, New York, after practicing for the National A. A. U. swimming and diving championships, in which they're outstanding entrants.

The old lady's eyes softened. "My dear, I won't pretend I hadn't other plans for him because of course I had. Mothers usually do. But since my son has chosen, said here her old head went up, if he's handled properly, you will have to learn that at once since I shall abide by his choice."

"You're very young," Mrs. Cleespaugh went on. "That's a point for you and against you. Clive is stubborn but he has a sweet nature if he's handled properly. You will have to learn that at once since Clive tells me you wish to marry before the first of the year."
"I hope it can be a very quiet wedding," Liane said slowly.

"My dear, you must allow me to see to your trousseau," Mrs. Cleespaugh said kindly and firmly. "Your mother has had a difficult time of it."
"She is so proud. It hurts her to be under obligations to anyone," Liane explained. "There's no 'Well, well, we shall see about all that this afternoon," murmured the old lady absently. "I shall wish to give a dinner party to celebrate the engagement. I wonder—it scarcely seems proper to keep you at your duties when you will soon be so busy with your affairs—but I wonder if you will come to me for a list of guests after luncheon?"

"Of course," Liane murmured. "Shan Williams, we must have," the old lady mused, "and your mother and John Burdick, and Van Robard, of course, with that impossible girl. Then there will be Tressa and Fanny and we shall have to get men for them. David Lester and Hart Watrous are at the Hunt Club for the month. We can ask them. We shall be 12 with you and Clive. I dislike a larger party."
Liane, making notes, nodded gravely. If the pageant of formal parties opening before her dismayed her a little she gave no sign.

"You'll be needing frocks, too," the old lady observed. "I shall open accounts for you at Hendl's and Chez Lisette and we can go into town one day this week for fittings."
"You are far to good to me," Liane murmured, turning to go. "There's no need for that. I should be very much pleased if you did not let me have my way in this."
Liane passed Clive in the hall. "All set?" he asked in a low voice. "All set," the girl returned with a cheerfulness she did not feel. "Your mother's been so nice."
"I knew she would when she'd time to get used to the idea," he said satisfied. "She was a bit emotional when I told her, but then Mother thinks family crises are things to get emotional about."
"Is that what I am? A family crisis?" Liane asked smiling. "Just your own eyes stared into dark ones. For an instant his fair head was very close to hers. "Shall I tell you what I think you are really?"

Liane tore her hand from his, breathless. "I think perhaps you'd better not. Not just now, at any rate."
She ran up the stairs, panting a little. "What a fool I am," she thought, derisively. "Why didn't I let him go on with what he wanted to say?"
Liane, in the rose room, was being arrayed for the engagement dinner. The simplicity of her velvet gown, ivory in tone, accentuated the young purity of her profile, the innocent curves of her budding figure. Cass, magnificent in violet, was hooking her up.

"There. You're splendid," she observed cheerfully. "It's a sweet frock. It suits you. Why didn't you let me see what he wanted to say?"
Liane leaned back to catch her reflection in the mirror. "I'm—frightened," she said simply. Her great dark eyes were like limpid pools in the soft light.
"Frightened of what for, heaven's sake?" Cass' laugh sounded unaffected.

"I don't know, quite."
"Well, in sure I don't. You're just fanciful. Be perfectly natural—just your own sweet self and everyone'll approve of you."
Liane thought, "If she only knew! He's coming tonight. Van Robard. What shall I do? If I look at him, if he touches my hand, I may give myself away. And I mustn't do that."
She said with forced lightness, "I'm just stagestruck I guess. Afraid of all these people."
"My dear, they won't boo at you or throw things. Just make a good entrance, and the rest will be easy."
Liane laughed. "That sounds simple."
"It is simple. Take an old trouper's word for it. And remember you're every bit as good as any of them."
"All right. Mother, did Mrs. Cleespaugh quiz you about the Barrett family tree?"
Cass colored. "Oh, we did have a little talk," she said vaguely. "I gave her our pedigree and she liked it."
Liane had a flash of prescience. "She's keeping something back," she thought. She had a wild longing to know what it was. Some mystery lurked in her mother's consciousness. All she said was "I'm glad you settled the matter to her satisfaction."
"Now we really must go down," Cass said carelessly changing the subject. "Come along. You're perfect."

Mrs. Cleespaugh had asked, majestically, "Do you know Mr. Robard?" and Cass had inclined her head ever so slightly. But Liane, narrowly watching, had seen her mother's color change. There was a flurry of talk as Nora entered with the tray. In the chatter Cass managed to slip aside. Liane made her way through the group. "Tired already, dear?" she wanted to know.
Cass managed a strained smile.

Youths Planning Alaskan Tours

DETROIT.—Sixty-four Detroit boys will entrain here July 19 on the annual "On to Alaska with Buchanan" tour.
For the past nine years, George E. Buchanan, local traveler, has taken a group of boys to Alaska. He defrays one-third of their expenses, the boys' parents pay the second third and the boys must earn the remaining third after school hours.
After visits at Chicago, St. Paul, Banff and Lake Louise, the party will sail from Vancouver, B. C., July 25. Skagway will be the first scheduled stop in Alaska. From there the party will proceed to Carcross, Atlin and other points of interest.

The youngest boy ever to make the trip will participate this year. He is George Hall, 7. He has sold household articles, telephone book covers and pencils for the last three and one-half years to earn his one-third share of the trip expense.

Oklahoma Drouth Menace To Crops

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Drouth has already menaced the corn and wheat crop of northern Oklahoma and unless there is an appreciable rainfall within the next few days there is a possibility that the crop will be badly damaged. Harry R. Cordell, president of the state board of agriculture, has announced.
"The corn crop in the northern part of the state has already been hurt, but it will be saved if we have rain soon," he said. "The corn crop in the southwest is hanging in the balance as the result of the continued heat wave."

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Porter Warren won a divorce after submitting the following complaints against his wife, Emma.
"She scalded the cat to death."
"She scalded the cow."
"She hit me over the head with a coffee pot and scalded me."
"She left home 14 times."
"Since April 8 year ago she stayed away from home 14 nights by actual count."

Annual Outing of Retail Merchants Is Enjoyed At Trianan Pool at Olden.

Of the interest in yesterday's social affairs complimenting members and guests was the annual picnic and outing of the directors, past directors, families and guests of the Ranger Retail Merchants association, when they were entertained for the evening, with the delightful event held at Trianan swimming pool and park, Olden.

The picturesque pool proved an ideal place for the entertainment with the cool water from the attractively arranged pool beckoning an inviting call to the guests for a refreshing plunge before the serving of a bountiful picnic spread.

This enjoyable occasion was planned and all details worked out to perfection through the Retail Merchants secretary, Mrs. Alice D. True, and president, C. E. French, together with the assistance of the committee composed of H. L. Killingsworth, Sam Tharpe, and Edwin George Jr., active directors.

Helping to make the evening a complete success music throughout the hour was pleasingly furnished by the Magnolia and Lone Star bands. These two bands are wonderfully organized with capable directors, who have each established splendid reputations for their entertaining musical ability.

Included among the directors and family with guests were: Messrs. and Mmes. C. B. Pruet, Tom Carpenter, Edwin George, Jr., H. L. Killingsworth, D. Joseph, John Hassen, Sam Tharpe, Ben Whitehouse, Clyde H. Davis, Morris Lovelle, Mrs. J. T. Killingsworth, Misses Pat Coughlin, Florene Killingsworth, Mary Louise Stephenson, J. W. Stewart, and Mrs. True.

Mrs. True read a wire received last yesterday afternoon from Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hodges of Tyler, expressing their regrets for not being able to be present.

Hodges is a past director of the organization. A letter was also received from Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Boyd, who recently moved to Corpus Christi, extending good wishes for their organization in honor of the annual celebration.

This function which will be marked as one of the highlight features of July was attended by 50 members and guests.

"Constitution" Is Studied At Ivy Leaf Study Club.

Subject for the afternoon study topic was "Constitution" when members of the Ivy Leaf study club met at the Masonic hall on Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. J. F. Donley and Mrs. R. E. Harrell, associate hostesses for the mid-afternoon program so profitably rendered.

Following the close of an instructive lesson members were served with a delicious refreshment course of ices which featured a lovely color note of pink and white.

Those present for the hour were: Mmes. Ben F. Looney, Otto Bundick, J. E. Reynolds, J. H. Byers, W. R. Clardy, Brad Henry, A. J. Baum and Miss Ann McEver.

Former Ranger Man's Engagement Is Announced To Friends of City.

Caris in today's mail addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Althausen and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Tallie, announce the engagement of Dr. Cyril Black of Wichita, Kansas, formerly of Ranger, to Miss Martha Korperan of Holdenvogue, Kansas, with the ceremony to be performed on Saturday, July 13 at the home of the bride-elect.

Dr. Black is well known here and has a host of friends who will be very interested in this announcement.

Gould Seeking Seaweed Gold

PARIS.—Frank Jay Gould, scion of America's multi-millionaire family, having made money out of Pyrenees dairy herds, chocolate, print paper, real estate developments, hotels along the golden sands of the French Riviera and from the green top tables where baccarat shoes clog gaily day and night, has now turned to seaweed to further bolster his fortune.

Simple, unadorned seaweed, the kind that winds around your neck when you dive 60 deep, here allowed to rot along the beaches, will be converted into gold dust, theoretically, by the Gould process.

The waters along the Brittany coast, where Gould owns a respectable number of seafront acres, abounds with seaweed of a certain quality which is called by the sturdy Bretons, "seomon."

This sea-wrack when burned and treated by a special process furnishes iodine. It can also be treated to make a very tasty cow-food. It can also undergo a certain drying process and become the finest kind of fertilizer for the worn-out lands upon which vines grow.

Sea-wrack is said to give an iodine flavor to certain wines. All these processes will be used by Gould in making his gold from seaweed, and in addition, in view of the medical qualities of the iodine-producing weed, Gould plans to build the first iodine-swimming pool in the world for persons needing such medical treatment.

At Granville, in Brittany, he is building a great pool along the ocean which will be filled half and half with seaweed and seawater.

CROWELL.—First five miles of west end pavement to be completed in 30 days.

Hungarian Flyers Off for Budapest

These fliers landed safely yesterday, almost within sight of their intended goal.

EASTLAND

Personal

Mrs. G. A. Davison and daughter, Miss Marjorie, and son, George Allen, are spending the summer in Austin, where Marjorie and George Allen are taking some special work at the university.

Allen D. Dabney will return Sunday from Austin, where he has been attending the summer session of the university.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Popkin of Breckenridge are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Popkin of Pershing street.

Mrs. J. F. Boren of Carthage is spending a two month vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wilman on Williams street. Mrs. Wilman is Mrs. Boren's daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Holbrook, who have been attending school at Howard Payne college at Brownwood, are guests of Mr. Holbrook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Holbrook.

Mr. Grover Holbrook is convalescing after a major operation, which was performed in Brownwood.

Harry Brelford will leave Saturday for Independence, Kan. He will be away a week on business.

Miss Madge Brelford has been in Denton this summer taking a special business course at C. I. A. Miss Brelford will return to her home in Eastland Aug. 4.

NEW TANNING METHOD SPEEDY.

STOCKHOLM.—The problem of producing high grade leather from raw hides in a week has been solved through a Swedish invention, the so-called Wrangle-Friberg method. So far 10,000 raw hides weighing 180 tons have been successfully treated. The vital part of the process is performed with a strong vacuum pump which makes possible the tanning of the hides in a nearly complete vacuum and in only seven days.

Another distinguishing mark of the models displayed was the stringing together of 30 perfectly graduated canary diamonds by a development of an East Indian method, that of making platinum jewelry.

GIANT CYPRESS FELLED. NEW ORLEANS.—A giant cypress tree, said to be 1,300 years old, has just been cut in the Amite river marsh by the Lyon Lumber company of Garyville. The tree, containing 16,175 board feet, was found to be sound. The diameter was 92 feet. It will make more than a carload of lumber.
