A HINT TO THE TAXPAYERS.
 Col. Robert R. Penn, said to be one of the wise men of the oil industry, remarked to the house investigators "East Texas has been unfortunate in having unwise advisers; its production has caused the oil industry to collapse; unless checked it will cause Texas to lose hundreds of millions of dollars in the price of oil and hundreds of millions more in unrecoverable oil." Col. Penn spoke his mind freely as to the cause or the alleged cause. He said, "Texas is now losing $20,000 a day in the reduction of its oil taxes on account of low prices. Duty of enforcement is now in the hands of the railroad commission. With political pandemonium involved it is not remarkable that an elective commission failed to go into the east Texas proration enforcement especially when not all the oil men themselves could agree." The oil colonel and petroleum expert advanced a remedy: "Legislation that will enable the state to go into every new flush production field as it opens and control the production; to provide for common purchasing and ratable taking and to provide that each owner in the field get his prorated share of the oil in the field." Next.

MAGNOLIA BOOSTS THE PRICE OF CRUDE.
 There is a legislative investigation grinding away under the big dome on Capitol Hill, and on July 22, from headquarters in the city of Dallas, the Magnolia Petroleum company announced that effective immediately that its price for North and North Central and Oklahoma crude will be 40 cents a barrel at the wells. Also that until further notice the Magnolia would withdraw its present posted price in Kansas. There are signs of price awakening in the oil vales of the Southwest.

Governor Ross S. Sterling made his position clear when he appeared before the legislative body. President Holmes of the Texas company made known his attitude and his reaction to proposed legislation. Rail Commissioner Pat Morris Neff at the bedside of a dying brother, sent his regrets that he could not appear to testify until the ordeal was over. One thing certain, Texas lawmakers are to be thoroughly saturated with petroleum knowledge and opinions distributed by experts before the special session rings down the curtain. Now what will the harvest be in the way of regulatory laws and a machine ever functioning for the conservation of the natural resources of the commonwealth?

MORE ADVERTISING FOR WIDE OPEN NEVADA.
 Delegates of the Presbyterian Synod of California and Nevada in convention at Sacramento extended sympathy to their fellow Christians who must live and labor to "promote morality in Nevada under the unhappy handicap which the moral breakdown of the state presents." Also the Synod condemned as un-American and traitors to the best moral interest of American and the national those responsible for moral conditions in Nevada. Then the delegates advanced a remedy: "Let the senate appeal to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church and to congress to secure a constitutional amendment giving the federal government power to regulate marriage and divorce laws in all states." Why not wipe out all state lines, all state governments, and all state constitutions and establish the kinghead on the banks of the Potomac? This would be another chapter to the story, "whither are we drifting?"

ANOTHER ECONOMIC REVERSE REPORTED.
 It is announced by a news hound who appears to know about the illicit traffic world that beer has reached a low price level in the city of Austin. It was 25 cents a bottle for years. Now it is 15 cents and some places furnish two bottles for a quarter.
 Speaking for the thirsty, where are the two bottles for a quarter? Information solicited and no questions asked. Furthermore, whiskey has tumbled to a low price level. It is said to be selling as low as $4 a gallon. This, with a great crop of corn and plenty of rye the country over.

A FORMER TEXAN IN THE PRO PICTURE.
 Prohibition Director Andrew McCampbell of New York and his raiders captured the largest brewery in that city uncovered in recent years. It is said the plant has the value of a million dollars. There were thousands of barrels of beer neatly stacked; well oiled and polished machinery, automatic fillers and refrigerating machinery. There were ledgers for each borough in New York city and books containing customers' lists are in the hands of Andy along with the other spoils.

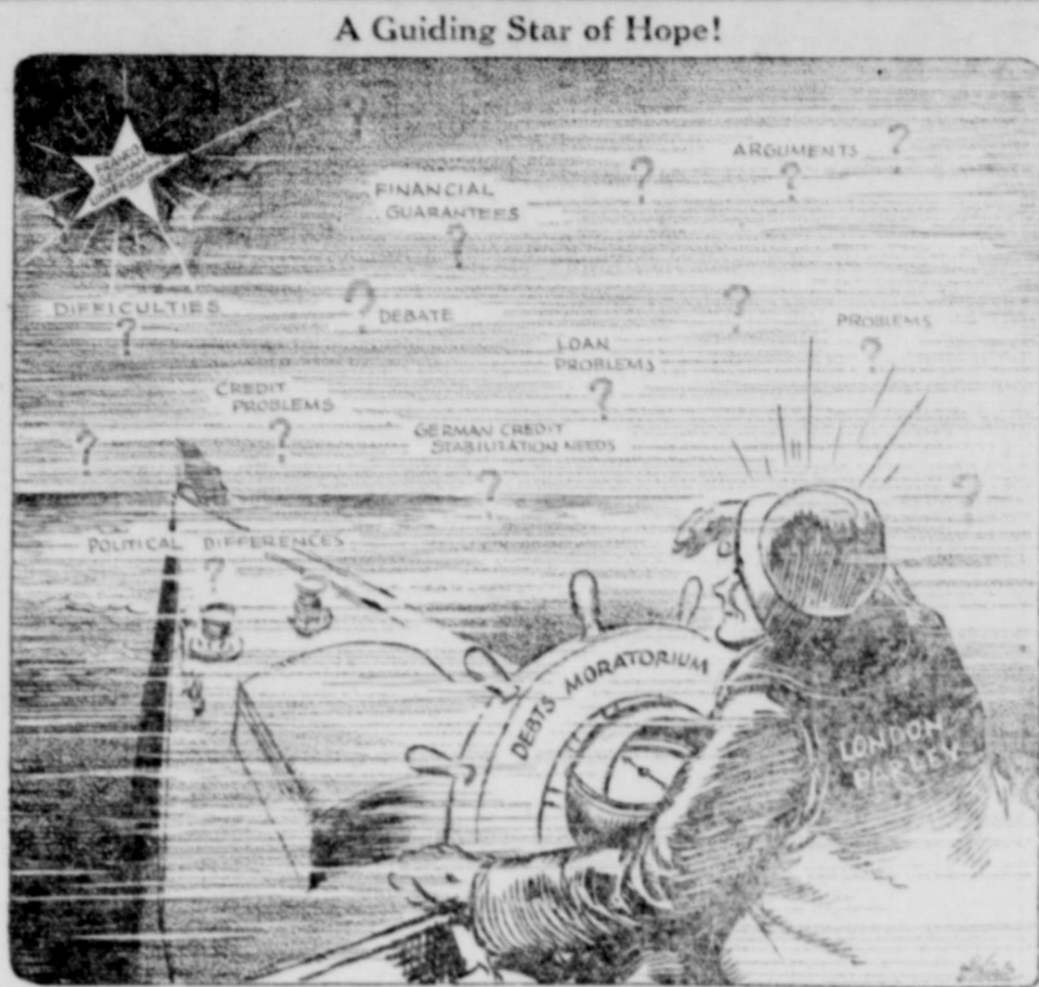

For years and years McCampbell was a deputy to a United States marshal way down here in Texas. Prohibition came in. Andy was named as an enforcement officer. His achievements landed him in the city of New York. He is a hard headed and hard fisted Scot and said to be a man without price. Now he is making history in little old New York.

A RAINBOW IN THE SKY.
 Montgomery Ward and company reported a profit of $407,706 for the quarter ended June 30, as compared with loss of $185,473 for the same period of 1932. Yes, the new world is coming back and the old world is approaching stabilization thanks to an Anglo-American program of rehabilitation financing.

DEAN KYLE ISSUES A DEFY.
 "I can name dozens of men in Texas who have become millionaires raising cattle; I defy any man to name any individual who has become a millionaire producing cotton," declared E. J. Kyle of the A. & M. college who addressed the old settlers of Williamson county on the future of agriculture in Texas. He urged diversification as a cure for the ills of agriculture. "Dairying and baby beef," he said, "are the greatest aids to Texas and this climate and range are unsurpassed." In war time Mike H. Thomas of Dallas was rated as a millionaire or a multimillionaire. Didn't he amass his fortune "while producing cotton?"

Perhaps the motor magnate's son who has gone into publishing will get out a non-borrowable book. Our trouble heretofore has been the quick pickup.

CRACKS IN THE DOME
 R. C. Holmes, president of the $500,000,000 Texas corporation, had one democratic experience at the Capitol which would have given somebody something to talk about, except that his identity was not known.
 A woman tourist, leading several small children, saw him standing hunched in the rotunda of the Capitol. She asked him to show her where the governor's reception room was. And as an unofficial guide, he did so, walking with the family group until they found something to look at. She was looking for the governor's reception room was. store the trotline fish law to the streams of San Sabá county.

Although Governor Sterling hadn't intended submitting it, the house members took steps to head off a possible redistricting of the legislative districts, in a petition signed by more than 100 members, asking that he do not submit it along with congressional redistricting.

Sergeant Will Now Stick To Airplanes

EL PASO.—The next time Sergeant Joseph Montano, Biggs Field, Fort Bliss, goes riding on a horse, he is going to carry a parachute.
 He was just released from the hospital after recovering from a broken arm and bruises, when he was thrown from a horse.
 "The government refused to let me take a parachute jump to thrill airport crowds," Sergeant Montano explained. "I decided to go horseback riding for a thrill. The horse they gave me was a high jumper. He saw a fence and insisted on jumping it.
 "I wasn't used to horseback flying, and when the horse went up and over, I went over and down. Hereafter I'll stick to planes."

Cotton Acreage Reduction Bill Before Session

AUSTIN.—Emancipation of the tenant farmer was seen as one of the benefits of the enactment by the Texas legislature of legislation requiring crop rotation and control of cotton acreage, by speakers before the house committee on agriculture.
 The committee had under consideration the Olson bill, introduced by Representative J. J. Olson of Yaukus and signed by 25 members of the house, one of three steps taken in the legislature in the interests of the cotton farmer. The senate has under consideration a similar bill by Senator Cunningham of Abilene and the house has adopted a resolution requesting Governor Sterling to call a meeting of southern governors to consider the plight of the cotton industry.
 The possible benefits to the share-cropper or tenant farmer were brought out by Representative Lawrence Westbrook of Waco in questioning Joe B. and John T. Fortson, and A. A. Allison, widely known central Texas landowners, who spoke in behalf of the bill.
 All admitted that it was the practice of many landowners in Texas to require their tenants to raise nothing but cotton, thus making it impossible for the tenant to diversify and live at home. Under the Olson bill, cotton could not be planted on the same land two years in succession, thus requiring crop rotation and diversification.
 These speakers, whose holdings include several thousand acres of land in Navarro county and Central Texas, declared nothing that was done could possibly hurt the cotton farmer, and that they saw possibilities for many benefits from the enactment of control legislation.
 The Olson and Cunningham bills are essentially the same. They provide that in 1932 cotton acreage may not exceed one-half the land in cultivation in the state and that thereafter cotton shall not be planted on the same land in successive years.
 Sponsors of the measures see two benefits from such legislation: First, that the over-production of cotton, which has resulted in a surplus this year equal to a year's present consumption, will be eliminated; and second, that the disastrous practice of draining the soil of its fertility by planting one crop—cotton—which has reduced the per acre output of Texas lands from nearly a half a bale to less than a quarter of a bale, will be checked and the upbuilding of the soil started by crop rotation.
 J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, is supporting the legislation in the belief that it is of much more vital import to Texas than oil conservation legislation. He declared that he wanted the people of Texas, who elected him to office, to know his views on the subject.

Hutcheson, who has been given the Buddhist name, Phra Akkappa Sanno, may retire from the priesthood at any time after four months. Like other priests in Siam, he must beg for his one meal each day.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON.—Senator William Henry King of Utah, who tries harder than anyone else to keep well informed on all public questions, may properly be designated as the "Great Liberator."
 If there are any oppressed, down-trodden or subjugated peoples whom King has not yet tried to liberate they need only call the senator's attention to themselves in order to be assured at least of a speech and a bill or resolution in their behalf.
 Thirty-five years ago he was urging intervention to free the Cubans from Spain. Today he is interesting himself in the alleged oppression of the Cubans by the dictator Machado.
 Filipinos, Haitians, Nicaraguans, Thracians, Macedonians, Jews in Rumania, Armenians, American Indians, Czechoslovaks, Jugoslavs, Chinese, Hawaiians—William Henry King has raised his voice for them all at one time or another. When a race or a nationality is promised independence he never lets the world forget it.
Is He Busy?
 He is one of the busiest men in the world, without doubt. Other senators specialize. King studies and prepares bills dealing with agriculture, taxation, trusts, oil conservation, District of Columbia affairs, Federal Reserve, the stock market, radio, tariff, prohibition—any question in fact, that is up before Congress. Day and night he works.
 He is sometimes called the Senator's "conscientious objector" because when the consent calendar is up he constantly demands to be shown that Uncle Sam isn't being milked by petty private bills.
 He has been criticized for his versatility, which forces him to scatter his fire, but he is obsessed by a thirst for knowledge and has seen since he worked night and day so get through college.

Sometimes he reads all night long. He is extremely fond of beach. He gets into a bathing suit takes a dip and then lies on a bench for hours—with a stack of books. In his immense office vast files. He somehow finds time for society and likes women, even in his office.
 At Brigham Young Academy many years ago he was a friend of Reed Smoot, the other Utah senator. He was elected Congress in 1896, was later president of the Utah legislature and judge of the state supreme court. He was a Democratic leader, Utah was Republican and he did make the Senate until 1916.
 The Democrats, when he was a congressman, sent him to Cuba to help decide the party's policy. He returned and urged armed intervention. He wrote the first resolution for annexation of the Hawaiian Islands.
 During the World War he was one of the most vociferous anti-peace haters and after it one of our leading anti-Bolsheviks. But he is demanding almost daily the restoration of Thrace and Macedonia to Greece as well as a free Armenia. He introduced bills to recognize Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavs as facta governments and to further their national aspirations. He so landed on the Foreign Relations committee.

Wants Marines Withdrawn
 He is still fighting for the Armenians. The Allies and Turkey definitely promised an Armenian republic; this country recognized Armenia in 1920. President Wilson, the arbiter, awarded 46,000 miles of Turkish territory, Turkish and Russian troops held the territory, however, and the Lausanne Treaty of 1923 kept Turkey in Asia Minor intact. The public is divided between Turkey and Russia. King says that Turkey has been driving out hundreds of thousands of Armenians.

LE HAVRE IN POSTER WAR OVER STATUE

LE HAVRE.—A miniature war over a statue of "Peace Enlightening the World" has broken out here.
 This statue, costing 500,000 francs, is to be erected in the harbor and it is to be of majestic dimensions and resembling Liberty in New York harbor, according to M. Leon Mayer, mayor.
 In some of his electors believe that Le Havre needs other improvements and can get along without this statue. So they have pasted lurid posters criticizing Meyer and his project and assuring that the taxpayers' money could be spent to better advantage.
 M. Meyer replies, saying that this "warfare" is merely a "political stunt" and that the statue of peace will be erected.

ZEBRA STAGES ETHER DANCE
 By United Press.
PARIS.—Ether may put human beings and most animals to sleep, but it reacts strangely to zebras, putting them in a state of wide awake, accompanied by dancing spells of the most violent type. Zebulun, zealous zebra of the zoological garden, has just proved himself an exception to the rule. Dr. Brion, chief of the veterinary clinic at the Alfort school, examined Zebulun and discovered that he was suffering from a growth in the mouth. He administered enough ether to put 10 horses to sleep but instead his subject became obtuse. It was necessary to lasso him to proceed with the operation.

and one-half thousand years regarded as a very expensive luxury, because of this slow method of weaving. It survived the ages because of its lustre and wearing qualities. Machine production increased its volume and reduced its price in the red plush soft era of the 19th century. But its full development, in utility and popular uses has always been obviously retarded until creation of the methods we are now announcing.

Afternoon Musical Program Is Delightful Affair

On Tuesday afternoon the summer piano class of Carl Brumbe-low was presented in a recital at the First Baptist Church with the delightful afternoon function opened at 5 o'clock in a setting of wild flowers and fern.

The guests were received at the entrance by Misses La Verne Newell, Heler Goforth and Vashti Bas-klin, who each presided in a gracious manner at the punch bowl where the food beverage was served throughout the afternoon hour.

An outstanding attraction and feature of the program was the violin numbers given by Everett Gribsham of Eastland, who is a pupil of Christian Thaler of Simons University. The continued applause emphasized approval of the splendid entertainment, accom-panied at the piano by Mr. Irum-bekle.

The summer class of students was composed of the following: Misses Frances Glanzer, Billy Bar-rett, Florence Bryan, Dean Newell, Dimple Williams, Gerdes Hodges, Raymond Stark and Mrs. George Armstrong.

Thought to the sandwich fillings we use for picnic sandwiches, and cheese sandwiches accompany cold meat loaf or other cold cuts, making the meal too rich in pro-tein foods and quite out of bal-ance.

It is true that meat and cheese sandwiches ordinarily carry bet-ter than most other varieties, but if vegetable sandwiches are care-fully made and packed they can be kept for several hours in good condition.

When a salad dressing is used in sandwiches it should have a thick dressing that will not sepa-rate and become runny when touched with vegetable juice. An oil dressing or true mayonnaise will not stand in bread, and for any length of time, so a cooked mustard dressing is best for picnic sandwiches. An oil dressing, however, is delicious in sandwich-es that are to be used for porch and lawn meals at home.

Put Lettuce With Bread

Lettuce seems to require a dressing, but many vegetables really are better without it. If a dressing is used with other vege-tables it is well to use lettuce too. Put the lettuce next to the bread, for this keeps the bread from ab-sorbing the dressing.

Onion sandwiches do not need a dressing. Peel and slice onions and let stand in cold salt water to cover for one hour. One teaspoon salt to one medium sized onion is a good proportion to use. Drain and chop very fine. Put between thin slices of bread. Another way is to chop cucumbers and let stand in ice water. Combine with salad dressing to make moist and put and pepper and let stand, covered, on ice for half an hour. Drain and put between thin slices of bread and butter.

Celery sandwiches are another good conception. Wash celery and let stand in ice water for an hour. Drain and mince very fine. Sprin-kle with salt and put between thin slices of bread and butter.

Always wrap each kind of sand-wich separately. While it often simplifies serving if each sandwich is wrapped separately, this is a matter of personal choice. If sandwiches are not wrapped sep-arately their flavors will inter-mingle with an unappetizing re-sult. Wrap them firmly in heavy of bread and butter. Another way is to chop cucumbers and let stand in ice water. Combine with salad dressing to make moist and put

United States Consumes Half of World's Tin; Output is Negligible

WASHINGTON—Tin is the only metal of which the United States annually consumes more than $20,000,000 worth and yet remains a negligible producer, points out the United States bureau of mines, department of commerce. In fact, the value of the tin annually im-portered for consumption ranges from $69,000,000 to over $100,000,000 and accounts for almost half of the world production. An-nual domestic production is valued at less than $50,000 and amounts to less than one-twentieth of 1 per-cent of the world's total output.

The principal tin-consuming in-dustries are food packing, auto-mobile manufacture, and building. The packing of food is relatively stable from year to year and may be counted upon to absorb a fairly constant quantity of tin plate and solder but the automobile indus-try is subject to wide variation in the number of units produced, says Charles White Merrill, in a recent-ly issued white paper. Another source is the production of tin from ores other than those included with primary production, the United States would rank third among the tin-producing countries of the world. Tin-bearing alloys, tin-plate clippings and melting-pot drosses are the most important materials from which tin is re-claimed. Most of the tin recover-ed from alloys does not pass through a refined-tin stage but is made into alloys which are brought to the required specifications by the addition of virgin metals.

Most of the tin plate entering the reclaiming processes consists of trimmings incidental to the fab-rication of tin-plate products. In the past some used tin cans have entered the detinning plans but, at present prices for reclaimed metals the recovery of tin from this

Garden Party Held
At U. L. Fagg Home

Members of the Belle Bennett and Martha Stewart Circles of the Methodist Woman's Missionary So-ciety were entertained Monday af-ternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. T. L. Fagg, co-hostesses for the evening were Mmes. Ed. F. Willman, F. M. Ken-ney, T. M. Collie, R. E. Sikes and Ed. T. Graham.

Many amusing and clever con-ests were enjoyed. Each contest carried out the garden theme. Mrs. C. G. Stahlefeld was presented a blooming dahlia, as winner for locating the largest number of slips of paper bearing the names of flowers, in a flower contest.

At the close of the program each new member and guest was pre-sented by the president, Mrs. Will-man. Favors of miniature garden tools were given this group.

The Dragon Violin Octette ren-dered several old time garden bal-lads.

A tea plate impasted tints held a frosted glass of delicious fruited punch, malaga grapes, cakes and ice cream in holders.

Plate souvenirs were tiny, gar-den rakes. Ray Jene Stubbefield assisted the hostesses and carried the refreshments to the seated groups.

Mrs. Susan Steele, the oldest member of the Eastland Metho-dist Church, was presented a bou-quet of blue bells. Mrs. R. E. Sikes made the presentation on behalf of the society.

A short business session was conducted by Mrs. Willman.

Those present were Mmes. T. J. Halsey, Grady Pipkin, Sallie Hill, W. W. Kelly, G. H. Kinard, W. C. Marlow, C. Robey, Claude Stubbefield, W. C. Vickers, Howard Brock, Frank Crowell, Lola Mitch-ell, May Harrison, W. H. Mullings, J. C. Stephen, P. B. Hittle, H. O. Tatum, Cyris B. Frost, W. B. Cal-lie, Frank Robinson, Mary A. Hughes, Mary Warren, R. F. Jones, W. E. Coleman, B. I. Mackall, Jonathan Jones, W. K. Jackson, but in the making of other bear-ing metals and solders the dis-placement of tin seems to have been of little importance. The sav-ings effected have depended upon a more economical use of the al-loys. Attention has been given to decreasing the amount of tin alloy entering bearings, and joints to be soldered, and to fitted more care-fully to avoid unnecessary fill-ing in with solder.

Aluminum is being used as a substitute for tin in the manufac-ture of foils and collapsible tubes. Moreover tin foil is meeting se-vere competition as a food and cigar wrapper in "cellophane," a transparent cellulose product, and in various waxed papers.

Lindy Gets Ready for Asiatic Hop

WARNED ABOUT EUROPE.
By United Press.

PARIS.—Benjamin Franklin Post, 605, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has sent out a request to the veterans' monthly publication in America to warn all ex-servicemen about coming to Europe with insufficient funds. It wants them especially warned about the folly of coming over with the intention of finding employment, for work is very hard to find here. Most of the men who do come over, and find themselves without resources, become dependent upon American organizations already overburdened with relief cases.
