OIL BELT SHEEP, GOAT MEN TO MEET East Texas Blamed for Chaos in Oil Industry

PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN RANGER TO OPEN WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9

ABOUT THIS AND THAT.....

Every day we receive through the mails numerous letters from people who have something to sell. Usually it is someone who has written up some kind of a "service" either in the form of feature stories, editorials or some other kind of reading matter that is alleged (that's a good newspaper word) to be a circulation builder. Today we got one that started in this manner: "Substantial advertisers have lately been doing more thinking, and they are now convinced that circulation obtained through silly comics, salacious subjects and features appealing to the lower emotions is not worth a cent. Solid and financially sound materials throughout the world are those which do not pander to the lower instincts of men and women. Those were such high-sounding oris that we studied them over and over if they meant anything. We thought maybe we were all wrong thinking that "Out Our Way" was an appeal to the better kind of people. And, too, we were under the impression that our dollar is just as welcome at one of the real stores as anyone's and we advised we like the cartoon mentioned. We decided to see what should be substituted for those "silly comic, salacious subjects." Here is one of their ideas for uplifting the human mind and placing reading matter on a higher plane: "Hello, Gibson!" greeted a friend, and the former was putting the finishing touches to his toilet. "Are you going hiking, today?" "Very much," replied Smithson, "I'm going the car with me."

Now that we have done our good deed by falling so far behind to the lower instincts of men and women, we will get back to the regular routine of appealing to the lower emotions. We incidentally did not request the business office to subscribe to the service and we hope we won't be held for plagiarism when we copied their literary gem.

The other day we had accumulated some 10 or 15 pennies in our pockets. We seldom seem able to accumulate larger coins, but the pennies manage to congregate in our pocket every so often. We went in for cash and carry groceries and the clerk asked us for them our bill. He explained that he had a time keeping enough on hand and said that he got from $25 worth from the bank last week and often ran short at last.

People sometimes form a habit of asking about your health, not really expecting an answer and just making remarks about the finer, asking how you like it. Recently we have asked the same old question about business whenever we were in a store making a purchase and for the past 10 days we have invariably been told business was a little better. We don't know whether that is a check answer to a stock question or not and even if it is the result probably is the same. As people as people were complaining about business being bad they were not going to put the buying public in a buying frame of mind now that they had begun saying business is picking up it will be a more cheerful outlook in the minds of the people. We have been told that there is just as much money in the country there ever was and that all that is needed is that the people who have the money start spending it. Business is getting better it is the most encouraging sign that has been seen in some time. A pessimistic outlook never helped anything but hard times.

Two Negroes Given Death Penalties in Dairyman's Death

LOCKHART, Texas, Aug. 7.—Two negro youths who confessed to killing Frank Kempf, Medina county dairyman, to rob him, must die in the electric chair.

After deliberating an hour, the jury last night set death as the punishment for Ernest Johnson, John L. Green, 17, was given death penalty at Hondo, a few days ago, and Johnson's case was here on a change of venue.

Lightning Kills 82 Pigs

WINTON, Iowa.—Lightning struck and killed an entire spring crop of 82 pigs on the Carrie Miller farm near here. The pigs, weighing about 100 pounds each, huddled together during the storm. Loss was about $1,500.

DIXON BLAMES STATE FOR NOT TAKING ACTION

Oklahoma's Oil Situation Is Also Blamed On Texas Flush Field.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Complete responsibility for the chaotic conditions in the oil industry is laid on Texas by Acting Secretary of the Interior J. M. Dixon. Failure of Texas authorities to control the big new pool in that state "had dragged the whole industry down, ruining thousands of independent producers, driving them bankrupt into the hands of the great companies, creating unemployment and hardships," Dixon asserted. He said "there would be no situation in Oklahoma if Texas would co-operate with other states" to limit production. "The real origin of the Oklahoma oil difficulties lies in Texas, not in Oklahoma," Dixon said, "and except for the failure of the Texas legislature so far to co-operate by controlling their big new pool in East Texas, the whole oil situation would have been corrected months ago."

RANGERS WILL INVESTIGATE GIRL'S DEATH

ARANSAS PASS, Aug. 7.—As Texas Rangers arrived here today to begin a private investigation of their own into the mysterious death of Miss Dorothy Doris Symons, 18 year old choir singer whose body was found in a shallow grave on the beach, District Judge T. M. Cox, in Sinton, postponed a habeas corpus hearing for one of the men charged with the murder until 2 p. m. today and called a special grand jury session. Ranger Captain Mace and Ranger Bob Smith arrived and went quietly to work on the case while the sheriff's of San Patricio and Nueces counties continued their work.

Thompson and Goodwin Saved From the Chair

AUSTIN, Aug. 7.—Only a few hours before Clyde Thompson, 19-year-old condemned slaver, was to have begun his march to the electric chair, Governor Ross Sterling closed the "little green door" by commuting the sentences of two convicted murderers. Death penalties to have been paid by Thompson and Dave Goodwin, Bowie county backwoodsman, were commuted last night to life imprisonment. In the death cell at the penitentiary, blue-eyed and blond, crouched in the corner of his cell and received the news without a change in his vacant stare. He had previously failed to recognize members of his family. Prison officials said he was either insane or feigning insanity. In the proclamation issued last night Governor Sterling said Thompson had the mentality of a child. He was convicted of murdering Lucien and Leon Shock, brothers, allegedly "just to see them kick." The two brothers were slain in September, 1928, near Leary in Eastland county.

Where 3 Were Killed in Chicago Eviction Riot

This picture shows a mob gathered on Chicago's South Side after three negroes were shot and killed and several others injured when police squads clashed with communist agitators after a family had been evicted from their home for non-payment of rent. Police were guarding the furniture in the street when a crowd gathered, agitators made speeches and weapons ranging from guns to razors flashed.

SENATE AND HOUSE REJECT COMMISSION

AUSTIN, Aug. 7.—The Texas legislature today rejected Governor Ross Sterling's plan to create a new appointive commission to administer gas and oil conservation laws by adverse vote in both houses. The house took the lead, voting 77 to 52 as a committee of the whole to strike the enacting clause from a bill creating the commission. It then accepted the report by a vote of 87 to 38. The senate followed in less than an hour, refusing, 17 to 11, to engross the bill. The house took its action after two hours of debate on merits of an appointive body. The senate did not discuss merits of the plan but spent more than two days debating amendments to combine other state agencies with the commission if created. The house definitely has killed the proposal. The senate might vote to reconsider the refusal to engross. Opposition to the commission plan in the house was based on objections to surrender rights of the people.

Oklahoma Oil Shut-Down Is Being Watched

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 7.—Governor W. H. Murray and the oil companies, both played a game of watchful waiting today in the governor's war to boost oil prices by shutting down all wells in the state under martial law. National guardsmen kept steadily at their jobs of closing the wells in accordance with the orders to stop production in oil flush fields until the price of crude reaches $1 a barrel. Only about 10 per cent of the wells remained to be closed. Entrance of Doherty, head of the billion-dollar Cities Service corporation into the Kansas and Missouri newspaper field heightened the battle between his companies and the Kansas City Star.

Doherty Buys Interest in Paper To Fight Cause

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Purchase of one-half interest in the Kansas City Journal-Post was announced by Henry L. Doherty today. A statement he gave out said this was "to meet the Kansas City Star on an equal footing in the campaign against him and the interest of Cities Service. Entrance of Doherty, head of the billion-dollar Cities Service corporation into the Kansas and Missouri newspaper field heightened the battle between his companies and the Kansas City Star. Doherty after winning court action in which the state of Kansas sought to bar his securities from the Kansas market, recently filed libel suits against the Kansas City Star, demanding $12,000,000 damages. The suits are yet to be tried.

No fire hose was laid. The house is a large two-story frame building belonging to C. E. May.

HOUSTON, July 7.—Federal Judge T. M. Kennon today granted J. H. McLaughlin & Co. and several associated cotton buyers and shippers a temporary injunction restraining enforcement of the state cotton truck law. In the application it was claimed that the law was an attempt to force the shippers to use the railroads instead of their trucks; that it was unconstitutional.

BARBECUE WILL BE SERVED AT 12 TOMORROW

Ranger Country Club To Be Scene of Program Saturday.

Members of the Oil Belt Sheep and Goat Raisers association will hold their annual meeting and barbecue at the Ranger Country club on Saturday, with from 400 to 450 expected to be present for the barbecue and business meeting. Dr. Bob Hodges is chairman of the program committee and a good program has been provided. One of the entertainment features is a musical program that is to be rendered by a cowboy band which will entertain the members just before and after the barbecue. The business men of Eastland, Ranger and Cisco are urged to attend if possible and take part in the activities. John Thurman and J. F. Donley have charge of barbecuing the meat and 12 sheep and goats have been provided. The committee composed of Heyden Neal and Grevel Jennings has charge of providing the rest of the meal which will consist of beans, pickles, bread, lemonade and coffee. J. B. Ames has charge of table arrangements. The meeting will start at 11 o'clock when several prize sheep and goats will be exhibited and their good points brought out in contrast to the inferior grade of animals. Immediately after the barbecue a business session will be held in the form of a round table discussion of the problems of the sheep and goat raisers. All members will be invited to tell of the trouble they have had and suggestions as to how conditions may be bettered will be given. Following the round table session officers of the association for the coming year will be elected after which the meeting will adjourn. The present officers are W. H. Bacheley, Palo Pinto, president; J. F. Donley, Ranger, first vice president, and L. W. Riddell, Lincolneville, second vice president. J. F. Donley, vice president of the association, said today that several members have expressed the opinion that the meeting should have been able to get better prices for their wool and mohair at the time of the spring clip but he pointed out that the price paid here was 17 cents for old wool and 27 cents for kid wool, what at San Angelo and Rock Spring where the wool was resold, the prices ranged from 15 to 19 cents for the old wool. When freight and handling charges were added this made the crop sold in Ranger bring about top prices even though the wool was not prepared for market by the producers in the better manner. Inferior goats raise by some of the producers in the section also helps to keep the prices down, it was pointed out while in some of the older wool growing communities only the best grades are being raised. One of the things that is to come up for discussion at the business meeting, it was said today, will be the shearing of goats and bringing the wool to the local market. It is to get in on the early shipments when the price is usually better than later in the year. The goat country to the southwest plans are already being made for the fall clip and it will be years for the market shortly after Sep. 10, while in many instances the clip here extends over a long period and the wool must be held until after the market has become somewhat glutted with shipments and the price is not as high earlier in the season. A special invitation is being issued to the business men to attend the barbecue Saturday and if possible, to stay for the round table discussions that will follow. E. H. Varnell, vocation agricultural teacher of Cisco, was in Ranger this morning and promised to bring as many of the sheep and goats raisers from the Cisco district as possible to the meeting. Members from over several counties in this section of the state have already made reservations and a large crowd is anticipated.

CONCERT WILL BE GIVEN BY THURBER BAND

Arrangements were made Thursday afternoon to have the Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company's band from Thurber to give the regular weekly concert on the Ranger high school grounds tonight at 8 o'clock. This was the night for the Lone Star band to give its concert, but because of the absence of A. J. Campbell, director, the band was unable to fill its regular engagement. Rather than postpone a scheduled concert the Thurber band was invited to play and they accepted the invitation and will be present tonight at the time of the regular concert. The personnel of the Thurber band is as follows: Cicero Harris, director; Ted Betts, Shelton Lee and Leo Dorris, trumpets; Ray Bowers, baritone; George Studdard, Jesse Hale and Drexel Black, trombones; George Leedy Sr., Uraline Irving, Wesley Maber, George Leedy Jr., and Alver Simmons, clarinets; Reuben Anderson and Robert Mitchell, alto; Dean Bowers, bass; Bruce Henley, drums, and Elroy Miller, drum.

CLUES TO GANG WAR ARE FOUND

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Police today believed they had obtained important clues to the solution of the "child massacre" in Harlem's Little Italy from a young gangster, believed the intended target of gunmen who killed one child and wounded four others. The man, Anthony Torbino, 21, was arrested and charged with robbing the manager of a shoe store, Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney said he would be held as a material witness to the Harlem shooting. According to a confession police say Torbino made, the young man was in a car in front of the Helmar Social club when a car loaded with gunmen drove up and its occupants began firing. First reports of the confession indicated he had used the child as a shield, exposing him to gangster bullets but the young man denied this and detectives after checking up on his statement in the neighborhood said it was not true.

POLICE REFUSE TO AID WITH CIGARET TAXES

AUSTIN, Aug. 7.—State Treasurer Charlie Lockhart, forewarned today in maintaining the cigarette tax if chiefs of police in Texas cities will not cooperate with his department. Lockhart was advised that T. Robey, chief of police at El Paso, asked to aid in informing dealers where stamps can be secured far ahead to had said he would not enforce the law. The cigarette tax becomes effective August 22. It amounts to 3 cents on the ordinary package of 20. Lockhart said he had asked Robey and his policemen to advise filling station owners and tobacco dealers where they could secure stamps until new stocks arrive stamped at the factory. An El Paso newspaper advised Lockhart, Robey said he would not enforce the law except when a formal complaint of violation was made as he did not have enough men to do state tax policing.

Boy Sues City For Third Degree Alleging Injury

DALLAS, Aug. 7.—Charging policemen with beating him into fear, causing him to confess a crime he had not committed, Homer Medford filed suit against the city of Dallas today for $2,500 actual damages and $25,000 exemplary damages. In his petition Medford claimed officers arrested him "Took him to the city hall, put him in prison, beat him into unconsciousness and kicked him in the belly." Last June 5, Detectives Jeff Bonner and O. R. Salmon arrested Medford on the complaint of A. T. Albin. Albin had been hijacked and claimed he had information indicating Medford was the robber. Medford was released when his father filed complaints charging the two officers with beating his son. The two officers were reduced in rank after an investigation. The father claims the boy was permanently injured when his head struck a wall after a blow struck by one of the detectives.

THE CORNWALLIS AFFAIR.

These people who insist that Cornwallis surrender be left out of the "birth of the nation" pageant at Yorktown, out of respect for tender British sensibilities, seem to be inspired by noble motives. The only trouble is that they don't go quite far enough.

If we are to fix things up so that all reminders of the misfortunes of the British lion in North America are obliterated, there are a good many other things that will have to be done.

There is, for instance, the matter of the U. S. S. Constitution, recently reconditioned at great expense. Hasn't anyone remembered that almost all of Old Ironsides' famous victories were won against the British? Obviously, the only decent thing to do is to tow the ignoble vessel out beyond the tip of Cape Cod and sink it, quietly and without a fuss.

Then there is the Declaration of Independence; surely that could be toned down in some way so as to leave British feelings unruined. With this action, of course, there must be some legislation to compel us to celebrate Independence Day without reference to King George or the redcoats.

Only a few days ago a monument to Commander Perry was dedicated in Lake Erie's island of Put-in-Bay. This bit of poor taste might be atoned for by destroying the monument at once, and the battle of Lake Erie must be forgotten as soon as possible.

On the battlefield of Saratoga there is quite a monument, too. We ought to amend its inscription so that no mention is made of the fact that an English general named Burgoyne surrendered there.

About the only revolutionary monument that can remain standing, in fact, is the one at Bunker Hill. The British, you see, won that battle. Our Anglophile patriots probably will agree that the monument is all right. But the rest evidently, must go.

All of this may sound a bit dizzy. But is it, really, and frazier than this proposal to emasculate the Yorktown ceremonies so that a few doddering worshippers of the mother country can forget their chagrin at being Americans.

CAPONE AND HIS PLEA OF GUILTY.

Federal Judge James A. Wilkinson played havoc with the plea of guilty that the lawyers of Al Capone arranged before and with the government officials as to the term of punishment the notorious underworld leader would receive. Judge Wilkinson balked. He refused to stand by any bargain made by the federal agents. He permitted Capone to withdraw his plea of guilty. Now there will be other indictments and the gangster leader will be compelled to go to trial in open court.

Senator Thomas B. Schall and Attorney General William D. Mitchell are citizens of Minnesota, where they have been political and personal enemies for years. Now Schall is on the warpath. He demands an investigation by the senate of the department of justice. Mitchell was a democrat for years. He bolted the nomination of Woodrow Wilson. He has been voting for republican standard bearers ever since. He has been classified as an independent democrat. Now the Minnesota senator is after the scalp of the attorney general who has consistently declined to answer all questions concerning the unexpected turn in the Capone case in Chicago.

Mitchell is one of the ablest of American lawyers. He has a wonderful record. His integrity is said to be of the highest. It is a very pretty kettle of fish on the eve of the coming of presidential election year.

A CALIFORNIA PUBLISHER "SENT AWAY."

Frederick H. Girne, publisher of a weekly newspaper in the city of Los Angeles, was sentenced in federal court to eight years in prison and fined $1000 for sending obscene matter through the mails in connection with the publication of articles concerning Clara Bow. Federal Judge Harry H. Lollzer said of the articles publisher, "as the court views one of the language it is unfit even to be sent as garbage to wine."

Why the insult to the porker family? Then the judge ordered a bit: On condition that Girne refrain from the publication of obscene matter the court suspended the last three years and 10 months of the sentence making the actual prison term four years and two months. Publisher Girne filed notice of appeal and bail was set at $10,000.

This is the land of a free press but not the land of an obscene press. Freedom of the press does not signify freedom of filth. Now the supreme court of the United States will say the last word—again.

DEFECTS IN THE NEW CRUISERS.

Modern warships are delicate mechanisms, prone to develop peculiarities that cannot be foreseen in advance and that are expensive to remedy once they appear.

Naval authorities have discovered that eight of the new 9,000-ton cruisers which are the pride of the U. S. navy have a tendency to roll in a heavy sea to such an extent that their gun crews cannot perform properly.

Two cruisers—the Pensacola and Northampton—have already gone to drydock for alterations that are expected to stabilize them. The other six will probably follow, if these alterations prove effective. Meanwhile, the navy would like to know why five of these cruisers have already cracked their stern posts, and why they show excessive vibrations aft at high rates of speed.

There is no more complicated mechanism afloat than a modern cruiser. When one develops "bugs," as the auto-makers put it, the admirals are in for a good deal of worry.

OATS AND THE BARBER.

A little incident that happened in Tiffin, O., the other day furnished a revealing sidelight on the plight of the farmer.

A farmer living near Tiffin wanted a shave and a haircut. A barber in the town happened to want some oats for his chickens. So he agreed to barber the farmer and take his pay in oats.

But it took the farmer four bushels of the grain to pay for his shave and haircut—and even then he had to add three cents in cash to make it come out right.

When the price of grain is down so low that it takes four bushels to get a farmer through a barber shop, it is rather vicious that the farmer is in a tough spot.

Straight From the Shoulder

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The United States is one country which has not ratified the international treaty for the outlawry of poison gas in warfare. Now comes the cheerful news that the Army Chemical Warfare Service is developing a system of spraying mustard gas from airplanes so that whole regiments may be wiped out all at once.

It may not be amiss to call attention to this business, in accordance with the theory that if people hear enough about what is going to happen to them in the next war they will take great pains to see to it that there isn't any next war.

Planes never did get to spreading poison gas at any time during the World War, so that method of warfare will be a new treat.

England, Russia, France, Germany, Italy—the important military powers of Europe—have all ratified the poison gas protocol signed at Geneva in 1925 by our representatives and those of 46 other nations, but this country, dependent upon the Senate for action, has not. American delegates to the Traffic in Arms Conference argued warmly for the treaty, which bars bacterial warfare as well as gas, but the Senate encountered strong opposition in the country which was led by the American Legion.

Ineffective Against Cities
 The mustard gas which the army hopes to be able to spray from planes will be released in liquid form, but will then vaporize and fall gently on the objects of attack, burning the flesh and penetrating lungs. Chemical service officers say such attacks wouldn't be very effective against cities, but the chances are that no city will volunteer to be the subject of an experiment.

Perfection of the spraying device, which is now anticipated, is likely to be followed by a renewal of attempts to get the Senate to ratify the gas treaty so that this country will bind itself.

Cop Finds Popcorn Soothes Lost Kids

By United Press.
 KANSAS CITY, Mo.—When in doubt try pop corn—that's the principle with which Sergeant L. M. Bigus of the park police department dries many youthful tears.

Indigestion forbids Sergeant Bigus partaking of the confection.

Nevertheless he buys from two four sacks every night there band concert in his park. It's the lost youngsters, he explains.

When he sees an unattended child, the sergeant takes charge and quietly begins looking for the parents. Quietly, that is, until the child realizes he is lost.

Then to the pop corn stand, usually peace prevails again. Johnny or Mary is safely under the proper escort.

LEO H. PETERSEN, Press Staff Correspondent, Robbie Stated, Quit Brooklyn Club.

Despite a mid-season drive that kept them as one of the leaders for the 1931 National league pennant, the Brooklyn Robins probably will perform as a new manager next season.

Wilbert Robinson, one of the great major league pitchers, is much as admitted that he is not a paragon of the game. Robinson fans have been disappointed since the season when Robinson failed to lead his club off to a fast start.

Robinson was generally agreed, when the season started, that Robinson failed to bring Brooklyn a pennant, his contract, which runs this year, would not be renewed.

Texas Offers Many Opportunities To Manufacturers of Clay Products

Special Correspondent. AUSTIN.—Although at present brick, hollow tile, sewer pipe, and pottery are the only ceramic or clay-products being manufactured in Texas, there is still considerable possibility of further development along the lines of this industry in the state, according to authorities.

The manufacture of ceramic products is one of the leading industries even now, the United States Bureau of Census listing in 1925 a total of 103 ceramic plants in the State of Texas, turning out $13,382,155 worth of finished products each year.

A new publication of the University of Texas Bureau of Industrial Chemistry is devoted to this subject, and treats not only of the ceramic industries themselves, but discusses the properties of clay, clay-working methods, cementing materials and special ceramic materials, and presents chemical analyses of Texas clays and shales, reports of ceramic tests, and other more technical data.

Technical Advice Available. "All of these industries need technical advice and guidance, and the Bureau of Industrial Chemistry, along with other agencies of the university, is prepared to give this advice." Many concerns have sought such help, but the number of instances of new industrial enterprises being started without any such advice is startling.

PUBLIC WARNING

See That This Deception Is Not Practised Against You

This warning is printed to put the public on guard against a deception which may be practised against those who seek genuine Bayer Aspirin for pain, headaches or colds.

BEWARE! Other preparations, we are informed, have been offered at times to those who ask for Bayer Aspirin; and even represented in some cases as being "the same as Bayer Aspirin."

Watch Out! Remember that years ago doctors warned the public against "headache remedies," some of which are heart depressants and unsafe for many people to take.

Then remember how Genuine Bayer Aspirin came. And was acclaimed the world over by leading men of science as SAFE relief for pain, and was prescribed without hesitation by eminent physicians. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

What folly, then, in the light of these things, to dose yourself with drugs of which you know nothing. Don't gamble—KNOW. The genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets are made by a special process, under careful supervision of scientists, in the Bayer Laboratories, with over 25 years of highly specialized experience.

So when you want SAFE relief for pain, cold or headache, ask for BAYER ASPIRIN. You have a perfect right to ask for what you want. And an equal right to get what you ask for. Look for the name BAYER on the package. And the word Genuine in red. Insist on Genuine Bayer Aspirin and refuse to accept a substitute.

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

Texas University To Start Sale Of Football Tickets

AUSTIN.—More than 25,000 letters announcing the sale of football tickets will be mailed from the athletic department offices of the University of Texas on Aug. 10, and the sale of tickets will begin on that date, Ed Olie, business manager of intercollegiate athletics, has announced.
 Some of the most interesting sights that one can encounter in the world's odd corners lie on their route, and typical among them are those pictured above:
 1—Here are Eskimo boys and girls having a merry old time in the Catholic mission at Akilavik, remote trading post near the mouth of the MacKenzie river in the barren Canadian northwest territory, and within the Arctic circle. Akilavik, one of their scheduled stops, looks like a right nice place to visit.
 2—Here is the trading post at Point Barrow, Alaska, furthest north bit of United States territory, another scheduled stop. Point Barrow is on a dreary stretch of the Arctic ocean coast and is open to navigation only six weeks of the year. The little town has schools and churches, but a mile away from this house you are in the heart of barren and desolate wilds where there are dense swarms of mosquitoes at this time of year. Not a nice country in which to be forced down.
 3—Now we have left America behind and are over Asia, a barren eastern end of Siberia, being our first view. Not far from Petropavlovsk, the capital of the district may be found Russian traders and trappers like these living in crude habitations and wondering what the rest of the world is like.
 4—This gentleman doesn't wonder what the rest of the world is like, because such an idea has never occurred to him. He is a Siberian native, tricky and treacherous and will steal anything he can carry away. It wouldn't be so good to be forced down among his kind. He lives by trapping and fishing.
 5—Under us now are the Kurile Islands, that land chain connecting the Kamchatka peninsula with Japan and is known as the cradle of bilzards." Fog is here constantly and storms lash for days at a time. This old gentleman hiding behind the dense whiskers isn't Santa Claus enjoying his summer vacation; he's some sort of a polly-wog among the kings, tribesmen, the aborigines of Japan, who live on Hokkaido, the most northerly island in the chain.
 6—And now, at last, here we are on Main street in Tokio. We don't know whether or not the Japanese really call it "Main street," but it certainly looks like it—anyway, you get the idea. Festoons and lanterns decorate the streets and Japanese flappers wear colorful kimonos with their obis (sashes, to you) arranged in precise folds.
 Nice trip, wasn't it? Glad to have had you with us. You just must come along again some time!

SEAL DODGES "LIFE SAVER"

By United Press.
PORT TOWNSEND, Wash.—Next time J. H. Worthington of Sheboygan, Wis., attempts to rescue a drowning person, he will make some inquiries before jumping into the water.
 He was walking along a pier when he heard a strangled cry coming from the water. It was nearly dark and he could see a head bobbing on the waves.
 "Keep paddling, I'll save you," he cried as he kicked off his shoes and removed his coat. Worthington, it was said, had won a medal for saving a man in a lake near Sheboygan.
 He dived off the pier and started swimming toward the bobbing head, which was uttering strange noises.
 "I couldn't imagine what the fellow was about," Worthington said after he had been pulled out of the

MOM'N POP

Hints for Homemakers

When jars in which vegetables have been preserved acquire a cloudy appearance, you can quickly restore their original lustre by washing them in water to which a dash of ammonia has been added.

When well sweetened, homemade, chilled beverages quickly relieve that mid-afternoon weariness which overtakes many of us in hot weather. The sugar used for sweetening is recognized by science as a source of quick energy to help relieve fatigue, while the natural fruit juices supply essential vitamins.

Factory Meals. Most manual workers and many office workers supplement their rations with one relatively good meal in their factory or institution restaurant: plain, monotonous but wholesome and extremely cheap. The growth of these factory kitchens has solved the food problem for hundreds of thousands.

Soviet leaders, discussing the feeding problems here, do not hide the shortage, the ill-balanced and monotonous diets and the occasional undernourishment of great masses of people. They invariably add by way of contrast, however, that everyone in Russia does eat, that unemployment had been eliminated and the available national food supply is spread thin but spread to everybody.

The claim is substantially correct. But the "everybody" must be defined to indicate that it does not include "class enemies," disfranchised persons. Without the right to any but the lowest and worst-paid types of work, without ration cards, dependent entirely upon the distally expensive private market, these unfortunates are left a prey to starvation.

To lose the franchise is the greatest calamity that can befall any Russian. It is tantamount to a sentence of death by slow degrees. No estimate of the number of these disfranchised is available, but they most likely run into millions.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Liane Barrett, 18 and beautiful, tries in vain to forget Van Robard, wealthy polo player, when his engagement is announced to Muriel Ladd, popular debutante. Liane's mother, Cass Barrett, an actress and it is during Cass' engagement in stock at a fashionable Long Island summer colony that the Barrett's meet Mrs. Cleespaugh, wealthy widow. When Cass goes on tour in the fall Liane becomes Mrs. Cleespaugh's social secretary. Clive Cleespaugh, the widow's only son, asks Liane to marry him. Clive can not inherit his father's fortune unless he marries before he is 28. Liane accepts, agreeing the marriage is to be a matter of form only.

Robard, whose moods are changeable, asks her to break the engagement and Liane refuses. Tressa Lord and her sister, Mrs. Amberton, come to visit the Cleespaughs and Tressa, who wants to marry Clive, begins to make trouble for Liane. Tressa connives with a gang of blackmailers, but a friendly police lieutenant, Shane McDermid, interferes. Later Liane is kidnapped to be held for ransom, but is rescued by McDermid and Clive.

The wedding takes place on Christmas day, and the couple go on a honeymoon. News comes that Muriel Ladd had eloped with Chuck Desmond, newspaper reporter. Clive is always kind, but knowledge that Robard is the man Liane loves drives the two into misunderstandings. After several weeks they return north. Clive devotes himself to business and Liane tries not to be bored by social duties. On a shopping trip she encounters Robard. She does not tell

SUMMER SWALLOWS

By Jane Rogers

WHEN the "Mother, what can we do now?" stage comes on some blistering afternoon, let the children help you make an iced beverage for the family. Helping mother will prove a fascinating occupation with the reward of a delicious cold drink in view, and science tells us that the sugar used for sweetening is the best possible driver away of the afternoon fatigue that visits

He would give the scene the air of a party. His histrionic sense reigned in the scheme.

The stage was set when, a few minutes after four, the door bell rang softly. Van Robard himself in a big chair, trusting he wore an invalid's pallor. He could hear its sibilant greeting to the visitor and in an instant she appeared between the curtains.

He sprang up, forgetting his role, to greet her. "Don't get up," she insisted. "I'm sailing on the Conte Rosso Tuesday. If you change your mind come to me."

She shook her head. "I'm sailing on the Conte Rosso Tuesday. If you change your mind come to me."

She stumbled and would have fallen had he not caught her. His voice was heard in the hall. "Neither of them had noticed the sound of the bell. Liane drew on her gloves and with the astonishing quickness of her sex was quite composed when the servant entered. She gasped at the name he gave turned. Clive was saying, "I've come for my wife."

"I want to explain," Liane began haltingly.

The door was shut behind her. Van, debonair and at ease, waved his hand at the tea table and said nonchalantly, "Stop a bit. The others will be along presently."

This Clive chose to ignore. He said briefly and coldly to his wife, "D'you mind if I hurry you a little? We're dining with the Williams tonight, you remember."

If he noticed her flushed cheeks and embarrassment he gave no sign. Later when they were in the car riding homeward she said again, "I must explain . . ."

He interrupted. "You don't need to. I found his note on the floor when I came in. Thought I'd pick you up. That's all." His tone forbade further confidences.

Liane's brain was whirling. What sort of woman was she anyway? She had gone to Van's apartment openly. She must have known what was about to happen. She had promised loyalty to this man at her side, the man whose name she bore.

Painfully she cried, "But I must! I am ashamed!"

Clive turned to glance at her. His eyes gleamed in the shifting shadow of the moving motor like blue ice. "He was making love to you. That was it?" he asked in a harsh voice.

She began softly to sob. "Don't do that! You can't hear it." He put a hand on her arm. "You're just a child. All this was a mistake. You're not able to cope with the harsh realities of life."

He dashed the tears from her eyes. This was so far from what she had expected that surprise held her for a moment.

"I'm not so young," she protested. "I—oh, I can't say this, to hurt you, but I can't stop caring for him." Her eyes implored him to understand.

He frowned. He spoke almost as if to himself. "I've tried to protect you from this. Perhaps I've been too slow, too simple. Perhaps I should have warned you earlier. But you must be protected from Van. It—oh, it's impossible! Even if you were free."

The last stung her. "Why?" "Don't ask me. I don't want to go into it now. Perhaps later."

In despair the girl cried, "What is all this mystery about Van Robard? My mother hints blackly of something and will not tell me. And now you. I want to know. I—I love him!" she finished defiantly.

"You are my wife," Clive reminded her in a warning tone. "Oh, we're living a farce," she cried. "You're nothing to me nor I to you." He winced but she rushed on unheeding. "There's nothing between us but a word that can be broken."

"I'm holding you to that word," he informed her. "I asked only the loyalty you might give to a friend. That and the pride you might feel in my name. You can't say at this stage of the game, 'I love him,' and let it go at that. It's not good enough for me. I'm here to save you from yourself. Van has loved before. Don't forget that. Early and often. And not once has he put a ring on a woman's finger."

"She laughed. "He's never really loved before." It was an hopeless to argue with a child.

OUT OUR WAY

Pray for Help in Grasshopper Plague

Desperate to halt the worst grasshopper invasion in decades, farmers near Jefferson, S. D., are seen here praying for divine protection at the same spot where their forefathers prayed for similar help 60 years ago. The cross was set up in the 70's at the time of a similar plague. Thousands of acres in this section will not produce a single bushel of grain this year, it is said.

RUSSIAN WAR NOT ONE OF MAKE BELIEVE

By United Press.
MOSCOW.—Russians hacking coal in a Donets Basin pit, tending spindles in an Ivanovo-Voyevensk mill, assembling tractors in the Stalingrad plant, are no ordinary workers. They are soldiers on the "industrial front," fighting for the life of their Fatherland.
 The hardest-working and most enthusiastic among them, pledged to set the pace for their comrades on the job, are "shock troops." Investigations of conditions in any "sector" are undertaken by "Communist Youth Brigades" and groups of "light cavalry."
Cruel War
 These are not just words in a game of make-believe. The war to which they refer is a grim, cruel reality for the 160,000,000 Soviet citizens engaged in it. It takes a brutal toll in blood and pain. In its national psychology Russia today is a country desperately embattled and besieged. Unless one understands this fact, unless one feels it as deeply as the long-suffering Russians do, life here seems utterly nightmarish.
 Only in terms of war do these things become logical and comprehensible. Russia has been "lying in the trenches" since 1914. Perhaps a third of its population was born, or grew up, in these years and has no conception, or memory, of what complete peace means. Since 1928, when the Five-year Plan was launched, the "war" has flared up more furiously than before.
Everyday Realities
 Thus it happens that conditions which shock the outsider are accepted as a matter of course. Russians are accustomed to their drab and dangerous trenches. To buy food only with a ration card, to stand in long lines for hours, to accept unquestioningly edicts—these are everyday realities, not the least strange or unnatural.
 The Soviet Union considers itself honeycombed with enemies at home and beleaguered by enemies outside. That spirit of those who are imaginary makes little difference. They are real enough to a population organized on a war basis with rationed food and most of the other accompaniments of warfare. But the human foes are the least part of it. The real adversaries are those natural and economic obstacles which block the road to the Bolshevik dream of an industrialized socialist society.
 In the fierce war there is no relaxation, no escape even for a moment. The voice of the Five-year Plan bellows at you from every radio horn on the streets.

It is the chief item in the education of old and young alike.
Clamor for Speed
 There is a constant shrill clamor for more speed, more sacrifice, more contributions to loans. Political slogans are forced upon popular attention here as insistently as are cigarette advertising slogans in America. Campaigns and drives, each calling for greater exertions, are always under way.
 Life therefore proceeds under tremendous tension. Nerves are frayed. Tempers are short. Those upon whose shoulders rests the responsibility for the conduct of the war feel that they can afford no softness or sentiment. Opposition is crushed before it can raise its head.
 Members of the ruling Communist Party itself are as much subject to summary police action as others. For the Soviet regime the end justifies all means.
 For those who have not been caught up by the emotional swirl of the revolution existence is a monotonous ordeal. For the others—life is full and colorful. To many of them the physical hardships and restrictions upon individual freedom seem a small price for the factories, power stations, steel plants going up everywhere.
 Above all, for the Communists the principal glory is that they have at last destroyed the system of private ownership and private profits. That they consider the unavoidable prelude to their dream well worth the heaviest toll. Such is the atmosphere in which the ordinary Russian has his being today.

Lovely Shower and Reception Honors Bride-Elect.
 The weather is never too warm for parties and pretty honorary affairs, particularly if the inspiration for the party is complimenting some popular and happy bride-elect.
 The last few weeks found a number of weddings in Ranger's society calendar, with Dan Cupid upholding the standard for attractive ceremonies in home and church weddings.
 One of the most charming of smart functions complimented Miss Mildred Clemmer, bride-elect of Jerry L. Lindsey, yesterday afternoon when Mrs. D. W. Nichol and Mrs. L. E. Gray entertained with a beautifully arranged shower and reception. The affair was held at the home of Mrs. Nichol, Elm street.
 The rooms throughout had been beautified with a profusion of golden glo and verbenas combined with greenery carrying out a pastel color effect for the appropriate and colorful setting. Guests were received and presented to the honoree by the hostesses, Mrs. Nichol and Mrs. Gray, each costumed in pretty and bright modes of the summer season.
 The bride-elect wore an exquisite pale blue ankle-length model, with black pumps, large picture hat in tones of black and black purse with other matching accessories in pale shades of blue hues.
 Following the assembly of 50 guests the honoree was seated in an artistically decorated chair placed in one corner of the lovely and spacious living room where she was presented with gifts galore, all in soft wrappings and tied with bits of ribbon in keeping with the hostesses' color motif.
 Numbered among the selection of carefully chosen gifts was a hand-made and dainty designed book tied with bows of pink ribbon containing a number of recipes from wonderful cooks and hostesses all of whom have proven their ability as cooks from dainty and delicious foods served at various social hours. Among the recipes forming this highly prized book are the following: Marshmallow delight, caramel pie, plain cake, icebox cake, pecan pie, chess pie, lime salad, meat loaf, and many other interesting suggestions.
 After each gift had been unwrapped and enjoyed by Miss Clemmer and her guests the hostesses, with a group of ladies of the Church of Christ, served an ice and dessert course arranged on beautifully appointed trays. During this period of the hour the occasion was made more enjoyable by numbers sung by Miss Pauline Head, accompanied on the violin by her sister, Miss Crystell, and the piano accompaniment by Mrs. Vera Watt. The lovely musical program so appropriately selected: "For You" and "I Surrender Dear."
 Guests for the afternoon included Misses R. H. Sheppard, Lee Williams, W. M. Myers, Ollie White, C. O. Boien, Ethel Williams, E. R. Green, J. L. Summerhall, V. E. Pedigo, J. G. Kim, H. H. Staff Revival is Still Attracting Large Crowds
 Rev. K. C. Edmonds, who is conducting the revival at the Baptist church at Staff, said this morning that he had no way of estimating the attendance at the meetings, but that he had never seen so many people present at a revival at a community church before. He is very well pleased with the response that he is receiving and says that it is more than gratifying.
 Since the meeting opened one week ago today, 23 members have been received by baptism and two by letter, which is a much better showing of results than had been anticipated when the meetings were planned.
 Tonight has been designated as Ranger night and the people of Ranger have been issued a cordial invitation to be present at the services, which will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Convicts Moan At Pen Changes
 By United Press.
AUBURN, N. Y.—Old Auburn prison "ain't what it used to be," prisoners agreed as they prepared to move into the newly finished building.
 Airy cells complete with wash-bowls, toilets and running water, as well as radio connections, awaited them.
 No lead pipes will be available to bash guards, however. Architects have designed the cells in such a way that all plumbing is concealed: the wash-bowls are even set into the walls and the pipes enclosed in steel. Each cell is eight feet by ten feet.
 Civilians employed in building the new north wing daily look down into the "crow's nest" where offenders against prison discipline march in circles for their exercise. Perched on the top of the south wing, surrounded by high walls, the only view available to the marchers is the sky. At the end of their prescribed "turkey strut" they are herded back into the 230 new isolation cells. Here they look across the hundred foot alley-way toward the 426 "de luxe" cells of their fellow prisoners.
 The depression is thought to have had some effects on our million dollar infirmary.
