GUARDSMEN KEEP PEACE AT REVIVAL

By United Press.

JONESBORO, Ark., Sept. 11.—A National Guard unit armed with tear gas bombs, machine guns and side arms, patrolled the streets here today to prevent further disturbances between a local preacher and a visiting Texas evangelist, which has divided the town in rival camps.

The guard was mobilized last night shortly before the opening of the tent meeting of the Rev. Joe Jeffers, youthful appearing Baptist evangelist. They were deputized and Gov. Harry Parnell was expected to declare martial law here.

Trouble broke out when Rev. Dow Heard, pastor of the First Baptist Church was accused of misconduct while living in Big Spring.

Followers of Rev. Heard sent two of their members to Texas to investigate. When they returned with testimonials and depositions refuting the charges they presented their findings to Jeffers' followers.

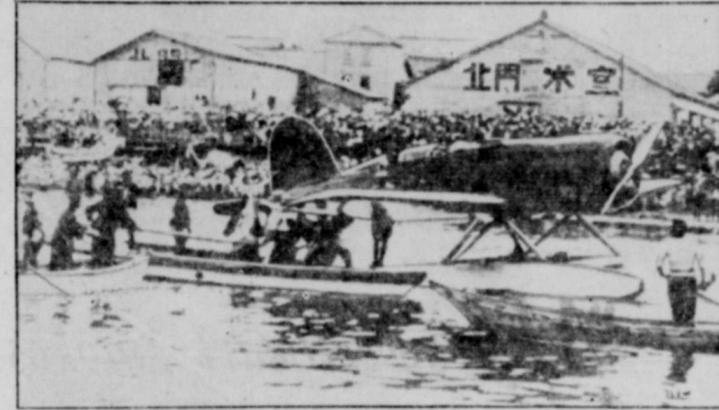

Fighting broke out and police were called. The chief of police and a member of the Arkansas College football team, a Jeffers follower, was jailed.

Jeffers then organized 400 of his followers into a parade and marched to the city hall demanding Cox's release. Cox was released.

Troops patrolled the streets last night while Rev. Jeffers preached to 5,000 persons. They were instructed not to interrupt the evangelist unless he became disorderly.

Denver L. Dudley, prominent young attorney, and one of the leaders in the group defending the First Baptist pastor, allegedly was attacked by the evangelist last night for his support of Rev. Heard.

With Lindy and Anne in Picturesque Japan

SOLONS IN ATTEMPT TO DELAY VOTE

AUSTIN, Sept. 11.—Doorkeeper Phil Clemmons of the Texas House of Representatives was slightly injured as members tried to shove the House this afternoon and avoid enforced attendance to vote on adjournment until Monday.

Clemmons is a Confederate veteran.

Members' hand was hurt trying to stop Rep. Albert K. Daniels, who rushed through the door just before the call of the House was ordered. Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, member from Bryan, tried vainly to grab and hold Daniels.

The call came after a motion to adjourn showed a lack of a quorum. It supplanted an early motion to force a report this afternoon which had asked to postpone its report until Monday. This committee has declared three to one for the Olsen bill limiting cotton acreage next year to a third of this year's cultivated land. The committee opposed the Long no-cotton plan.

Meanwhile A. A. Allison of Corsicana, chairman of the farmer's advisory committee raised a Senate row when he told the senators farmers are beginning to think the Senate is unfriendly to their measure.

Olden P.-T. A. Holds Its First Meet Thursday

The first meeting of the Olden Parent-Teacher association was held at the schoolhouse Thursday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. Forty-two members and guests attended and a delightful program was enjoyed.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. C. I. Hyatt, following the reading of the minutes of the last meeting by the secretary, Mrs. T. H. Stanton. Mrs. Collins gave a welcoming address to the parents and teachers. The following program was given:

Vocal solo, Miss Olga Mitchell, playing "Humoresque," accompanied by Miss Stall at the piano; vocal solo, Miss Maxine Henderson, accompanied by Mrs. Hyatt at the piano; piano solo, Mrs. Pitts; vocal solo, Miss Lela Stall, Miss McCoy, Miss Dorothy McCoy, Miss Allison, Mrs. Timmons, Miss McCleskey.

Following the program refreshments were served to all present. C. I. Hyatt having sent ice cream and cakes as his welcoming gift to the P.-T. A. The meeting was dismissed with Mrs. McGowan giving the benediction.

Veteran Carrier Watches Boom

LONGVIEW, Texas.—W. R. Turner, veteran mail free delivery carrier, has seen vast changes take place during the past few months of Gregg county's transformation from a peaceful farming region into a bustling oil field.

From his observation post, Turner has seen the countryside's metamorphosis into a seething community of modern machinery, intermingled with hot dog stands, machine shops, tank farms, burl houses, tented towns and all that goes into the development of an oil pool.

The mail carried by Turner has increased mightily since the boom started, he reports. In the old days he could deliver along his route, halting at will to chat with a farmer.

Today he carries everything from wire fencing to baby chicks. A large portion of his time is taken up with issuing money orders being sent by farmers to mail order houses, for merchandise. Turner again is affected when the merchandise must be delivered.

The veteran mail carrier reported other signs of prosperity in the county.

"The farmers are improving their homes, resinsiting them, erecting more buildings adjacent to their homes, buying automobiles, building garages and improving things in general," he said.

"Just ordinary general correspondence has increased heavily. The farmers and their families are writing relatives about their good fortune in selling leases and royalties and obtaining what to them are fabulous sums."

Many Copies of Times Delivered Over Territory

This issue of the Ranger Times will go to a large number of readers, as is the usual custom on Friday. Copies of the paper will be distributed in Strawn, Mingus, Thurber and all the communities in the southeastern portion of the county.

Many special bargains are offered today in grocery advertisements on pages four, five and six, which will carry the messages of these merchants along with the others in the Friday issue to more than 1,000 extra readers.

This custom has, in the past, drawn many customers to the doors of the merchants of Ranger and the citizens of these towns have formed the habit of looking for the Friday Times in order to plan their purchases on Saturdays.

A large number of circulars are also being distributed over this same territory announcing the special bargains being offered by the Ranger merchants for Second Monday.

MAN DIES SUDDENLY IN RANGER

Jess Hollingsworth, 28, of Ranger, died suddenly at his home on Eastland hill this morning at 1:30 o'clock and is to be buried Saturday at Evergreen cemetery.

The deceased has been living in Ranger off and on since the beginning of the oil boom here. Recently he has been working in the East Texas oil fields near Kilgore and had returned to his home for a visit. On Thursday night he returned to his home on Eastland hill with an uncle and as he went into the house he waved good-bye to his uncle and remarked, "Well, I'll see you in the morning." A few hours later he was dead.

Relatives said today that he had not been sick in the past few weeks and that he had not complained of feeling ill and was apparently in the best of health.

He is survived by his widow and two brothers, one of whom lives in Denton and who will arrive in Ranger this evening. The other lives in Alabama and all efforts to locate him had proved fruitless late today.

About a year ago he was married to Mrs. Ollie Crabb, who had been married twice before. Both her former husbands met tragic deaths in Ranger while working about the oil fields.

Long Plan Loses

AUSTIN, Sept. 11.—The Long plan of a total holiday on cotton raising lost in a test vote in the House 46 to 55 today. The vote was 46 for having the subcommittee to report out a Long plan bill as well as an acreage reduction bill.

Guest Tickets to Ranger Show

The Ranger Times has guest tickets for Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McFatter to see "Shadow Ranch" now playing at the Columbia Theater, or any other show.

Bridges Are Being Rebuilt on Streets of City of Ranger

Fire Chief G. A. Murphy has had his men busy the past few weeks rebuilding bridges on the streets of Ranger.

Two bridges have been built on Fock street, three on Diaz, three on Blundell, and one on Wayland road.

These bridges have been put in at very little expense to the city as the lumber was secured from the heavy flooring of an abandoned warehouse and the work done by members of the fire department. Chat was hauled and approaches to all bridges built in such a manner that they will not be flooded by high water and the streets will remain smooth where the bridges were installed.

Several culverts have been installed during the past few weeks, putting the streets in better condition than they have been for years.

Chief Murphy said that if anyone would call his attention to rough places in the streets or "chug-holes" he would have them filled immediately and keep the street in good condition.

Prominent Mingus Man Falls In Well And is Drowned

Reports were received in Ranger this afternoon that Henry Rucker, of Mingus, banker and prominent citizen of that town, was found drowned in a well this morning. Authorities were of the opinion that Mr. Rucker had suffered a stroke of some kind while near the well and had fallen in.

The deceased is the father of Miss Jennie B. Rucker who was at one time assistant to the secretary of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce. He was well known in Ranger and throughout this territory.

No details as to funeral arrangements had been made early this afternoon as far as could be learned.

GLENROSE—Deep oil test to be made near G. W. Sandlin farm. BAIRD—New county bridge on Deadman creek opened to public.

Committee Appointed to Aid Families Secure Transportation to Cotton Fields

At a meeting of the officers of the Child Welfare association and Chamber of Commerce Thursday night, means of aiding destitute families to secure work in the cotton fields of the state were discussed.

Investigation showed that a number of cities are sending cotton pickers for the cotton fields of their communities and the cotton is now ready for picking.

Mrs. W. D. Conway reported that she had visited several of the families which have been living on the funds and food provided by the association and that in almost all cases they expressed a desire to secure work picking cotton if they could find means of transportation.

Tom Carpenter volunteered the use of one truck of the Graham Mill and Elevator company, provided the family could leave late Saturday afternoon and the truck return Sunday in time to be used Monday. His proposal was accepted and plans to get the families to the scenes of work are being made.

A committee composed of H. C. (Andy) Anderson, Fire Chief G. A. Murphy, Charlie Moore and Roy Speed was appointed to work out the details of securing transportation and seeing that the families were provided with means of reaching the work. Any who have been visited and who have families they can move to places where work is plentiful can get in touch with members of the committee or with the Chamber of Commerce and transportation will be provided.

Those attending the meeting were Ed Fontaine, Dr. Kaykendall, Roy Speed, Jim Ingram, Mrs. Ben Looney, Mrs. W. D. Conway, Mrs. Gregg, Mrs. Pete Jensen, G. A. Murphy, H. C. Anderson, J. E. McVeeney, Charlie Moore, Ben Looney, W. C. Blackmord, C. E. May, Wade Swift, Tom Carpenter and W. C. Hickey.

Scout Committees To Meet Tonight

A joint meeting of the various Boy Scout committees, appointed by the Rotary, Lions, and Eds Clubs and the American Legion post and all city churches will be held in the offices of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The purpose of this meeting is to decide whether or not scouting will continue in Ranger, and if so, devise ways and means of financing the work.

The meeting is important and all members of the committees are urged to be present tonight.

Check Lines Stolen From Fire Station

Fire Chief G. A. Murphy reported to the Ranger police department Thursday that a pair of check lines he uses in driving his team of mules was stolen from the fire station barn.

Students Lose Belongings

CINCINNATI, O.—Hundreds of articles, from galoshes to Bibles, are lost each year by University of Cincinnati students. Records of the school's lost and found bureau show that 80 per cent of the lost articles are gloves, textbooks, scarfs, umbrellas, fountain pens, fraternity pins and pencils. Other possessions frequently lost are purses, watches, keys, clothing and jewelry.

Indicted Fraud Charge

By United Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 11.—A. J. C. Jones, promoter of million dollar oil wells, was indicted by a federal grand jury here today on two days investigation of fraud charges in connection with the C. C. Julian Oil company, Judge Edgar announced today.

District Courts Again Active

Following an eight week period of more or less inactivity the courts Monday of this week began operation again and during the entire week the various officers and their assistants have been busy.

Judge Gen. L. Davenport of the 91st district court, ascertaining in advance that he would have no cases ready for trial, notified the jurors summoned to appear in his court last Monday morning not to appear.

The jury for Judge Elmo Ben's 88th district court appeared as they were summoned to do. After being qualified for service they were excused until Wednesday morning at 9:00 o'clock. This was because the attorneys and litigants were not ready for trial in any of the cases scheduled to be tried.

Wednesday Judge Ben tried the case of Rollins vs. Fickling Lumber Company which resulted in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff. He also tried a case in which Roy Clinton McClellan, a minor, sought to have his disabilities as a minor removed. His father contested the case, but after hearing the testimony Judge Ben entered an order removing the minor's disabilities.

The 88th district court grand jury convened Monday. Judge Ben gave them an oral charge after which they organized and immediately went to work. Wednesday evening they recessed subject to call by the court. Prior to recessing, however, they returned to true bills, all of which were felonies.

Next week the 91st and 88th district courts will have juries. In the 91st court nothing but civil cases are scheduled for trial, but in the 88th both civil and criminal cases are on the docket.

Following are the criminal cases to come up for trial during the week:

- State vs. J. B. Wood, forgery.
- State vs. Seaman Garrison, burglary.
- State vs. Fred Hughes, possession of liquor.
- State vs. Fred Hughes, transporting liquor.
- State vs. Ernest Bennett, sell intoxicant.
- State vs. Jack Brown, driving car while intoxicated.
- State vs. Tom Dodd, possession of liquor.
- State vs. Floyd Burton, possession of liquor.
- State vs. I. B. Blocker, possession of liquor.

State vs. I. B. Blocker, transporting liquor.
 State vs. Henry Hatcher, possession of liquor.
 State vs. Henry Hatcher, transporting liquor.

The Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals will convene Friday, Sept. 11, after having been in recess for the past several weeks. The members of the court are all present and ready to get down to business again.

Longview Fair to Start Sept. 15th

By United Press.
 LONGVIEW, Texas. — Longview's fourth annual fair will open here Sept. 15 with a historical pageant of East Texas' romantic history from the time of the Indians and Spanish adventurers to oil development and martial law.

Officials were confident that with increased population and circulation of money in the section because of oil development, attendance at the fair might break all records before the gates close the night of Sept. 19. They expected the attendance to be greater than that in 1927, the record year.

Keen competition has developed for prizes offered exhibitors. M. D. Abernathy, manager of the fair, said he expected the exhibits of handicraft and farm products to be the best in the history of the fair and far superior to those last year when drought hurt quality of farm products.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

With BILL MAYES

By the time this goes to press the Bulldog-Yellow Jacket game will be starting and most of the Ranger fans will be seeing at first hand just what a team the locals have developed into in the past few days.

Never having been so strong on predictions, it would not be in keeping with our policy to predict the outcome of the game. Then, too, Coach Curtis may start his regulars, let them work out for a while and then throw in a large part of the Pup lineup to give them some of the seasoning needed.

The first real test of the Bulldogs comes next week when they journey to Sweetwater, which reminds us that Bloody Cross commented on our efforts the other day when we said he admitted the Mustangs were tough and might defeat San Angelo which was more like Frexy Anderson than like Blonds. He said: "Mayes is requested never to mention the writer's name in connection with that of the Abilene scribe's. It cannot be said this department is so lacking in originality it adopts any style inflicted on sports readers by Frexy Anderson."

"We have stated the truth, the simple truth, nothing more, Sweetwater has the most powerful football team ever imported into one gridiron oval and bedded and boarded for any length of time west of the Oil Belt."

And in commenting on the strength of the Sweetwater Mustangs he throws in a jibe about the importation of players by the herd. It is true that the Mustangs have annexed two stars from Temple and one from some class B team; but at the same time Bill Harrison was mentioned as being on the verge of galloping in the backfield of the Hobbs. The only hitch seemed to be that the Brownwood school authorities refused to transfer Harrison to San Angelo.

And speaking of importations—the Amarillo Sandies, who will play Ranger in a couple of weeks, have a roster of players that looks like a football census of the state and parts of Oklahoma. Among the names appearing on their squad who have been drawn from elsewhere are Fred Harringer, Ada, Okla.; Fred Biffle, Silverton; Merle Coffee, White Deer; Pete Cowart, Silverton; Gerald Elmore, Fallette; Justin Enoch, White Deer; W. L. LaBarge, Borger; Oscar Sward, Highland Park (Dallas); Ike Vernon, Spearman. And it has been intimated that stars from some of the outlying districts might have been late in reporting for practice and were not included on the first census.

As speaking of one thing often leads to another, speaking of the census reminds us of the story that

CRACKS IN THE DOME

BY THE POLITICAL ANALYST.
 AUSTIN.—Somebody in Texas with a craving for publicity, has imposed on a newspaper mail service editor of Cleveland, Ohio, and caused to be distributed a misleading broadside of praise for the "invisible track" highway between Temple and Belton.

The account says the strip has been free of accidents, and credits it all to the narrow brick runners on which cars are supposed to be driven.

This writer has driven the particular piece of road often. He can rise up in meeting and give this testimonial about it.

1. The highway was the highest priced per mile of any in Texas.
2. It is the hardest to drive, the most uncomfortable and difficult to stay on of any surfaced highway in Texas.
3. It cannot be driven in safety at over 25 miles per hour.
4. It cannot be driven even at that speed without getting one's car out of the brick runners.
5. It was practically impossible to get over until an administration which succeeded the Ferguson highway commission responsible for its surfaced the interstices between the four narrow runners. Nine-tenths of the driving is now done up on this asphalt surfacing.

At speeds of over 25 miles, one's car will jump out of the brick-bottom runners and climb the higher sides of asphalt. Before the asphalt was put on, the cars would jump into the mud.

The highway has short turns in it, unsafe for any reasonable highway speed. It has lateral ditches for drainage between the runners that severely bump a car every few hundred yards. If you get behind a slow truck at Temple, you are probably behind it when you reach Belton.

This highway is the famous "10 per cent plus" road on which the contractor collected 10 per cent on the thermos water jug he bought for his office, and collected 10 per cent on the amount paid his stenographer.

DAILY WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—The two greatest nations of the world are more or less upset about something known as the "dole."

A proposed 18 per cent cut in Great Britain's weekly "dole" to her unemployed has caused a political upheaval.

Some of our own statesmen are using the term as a sword to describe any federal appropriation which Congress might make this winter toward relief of the hungry and destitute.

The dictionary describes a dole as that which is distributed, or a limited portion, especially a gift of charity.

The British "dole" is the unnatural outgrowth of a national unemployment system established before the World War, under which payments to the unemployed now amount to a large proportion of the national budget.

Force in this country opposed to federal relief intimate that Britain's "dole" has aggravated her economic troubles and that congressional appropriations to relieve distress would have a similar effect and would saddle a similar system on this country.

At least two fundamental differences have to be recognized. First, those who urge federal relief this winter are not pressing for an unemployment insurance system but a sum of money which would be distributed where most needed by the Red Cross or other agency. Second, British law—but not American law—provides for maintenance of the destitute under the poor relief system. When some 2,000,000 Britons became employed by 1921 their government had to decide whether these workers and their families should be cared for by the poor law machinery or whether the set-up of the unemployment insurance system should be utilized to provide the maintenance. Among reasons for choosing the latter alternative were fear that local taxes would often be inadequate for the emergency, realization that great numbers of persons would be humiliated al-

FRENCH STYLIST TURNS BACK ON REVIVAL AS FAD
By United Press.
PARIS—"The gown that was made to be worn in an open carriage does not suit an automobile," says Lucien Lelong, long an outstanding figure in the Parisian fashion field. "I protest against the innovators of these pseudo-romantic fads," he said, "that attempt to perpetrate a mode which is out of harmony with modern settings, modern architecture, modern art, which has no relation whatsoever to the exigencies of the modern woman. "Certain creators saw in the advent of the small tilted hat the precursor of the new mode. This is inexact. The small hats were charming as a whim of fashion, but they cannot be taken as the basis of a future mode; the proof of this is that the fad for them is already on the wane, and to all intents and purposes has no style significance. The time has come to take a stand, and mine is clearly opposed to the current fad of adopting the styles of our grandmothers. It always has been my policy to base my collection on a logical principle, and I can imagine nothing more illogical than these Come-Into-the-Garden-Maud modes. "Lelong has created a new silhouette, which, in his discussion of the 1931-32 mode, he says, "In presenting my new silhouette, I am presenting a mode that is modern. It is perfectly adapted to modern life and does not recall the past in any way. I have eliminated all needless ornament and illogical artifices, stressing the importance of purity of line. "According to this particular creator of haute couture, whose keen inner eye looks forward and not backward, the mode which his new silhouette interprets is plastic. "A couturier is as much concerned with volume as a sculptor," he explains. "Volume is just as important as material or color, for while the two latter elements may emphasize a tendency, it is volume, or rather the distribution of volumes, which is the vital basis of a line."

The shiny new cup for the Quimets' mantle-piece—it would appear from this picture that they're mighty proud of it. It's the trophy daddy won by playing better golf than all the other links artists at the national amateur tournament in Chicago. Here the camera pictures Francis Quimets with Mrs. Quimets and their two children, Barbara, 12, and Janice, 9, after the new champion's return to their home in Newtonville, Mass. Nearly 3000 fellow townsmen turned out to give him a rousing welcome.

SEASONAL RISE IN FALL BUSINESS IS FORESEEN
Due to the present wide-spread shut-down in manufacturing industries and slow retail trade, it is a foregone conclusion, according to the Brookmire Economic Service, Inc., that there will be a seasonal rise in business in September and October and there is basis for hope that the rise will be more than of seasonal proportion. In the motor industry, it is pointed out that the usual seasonal trend from August to December is downward and it is quite probable that September or October will see actual increase in output from the current level. "The chief uncertainty of the motor industry, says Brookmire, "is the question of introduction of a new Ford model. This is rather confidently expected before the end of the year, but it is as yet unknown when work will get under way, though it is rather generally predicted for September. Any expansion in the motor industry will of course be reflected in the steel operations. Moreover there is probability of a temporary increase in the demand for structural steel and it is possible that the railroad will specify somewhat more liberally than in the past month or two. A large federal building program is expected in the early fall and there are several large projects which are underway. While the railroads are not yet warranted in making heavy outlays, it is felt that recently their use of steel has reached an irreducible minimum. In retail trade, seasonal expansion may be expected after Labor Day. "It is quite possible, in the Brookmire opinion, that by October a pronounced advance may get under way in wheat prices. They point out, that the force of the depressing influences in wheat is about spent and that the heavy carryover and the big winter wheat crop will soon be offset by drastic reduction in spring wheat in both the United States and Canada and probable large declines in southern hemisphere crops this winter. Russian exports will also, it is believed, be less than in the past season and, as the early season exports are heavier than a year ago, supplies from Russia will dwindle rapidly after September or October. "While, in view of the heavy carryover and depressed condition of the cotton industry throughout the world, advances may not be sharp, it is said to be probable that cotton prices will rule well above this fall's levels for the next two or three years at least. It is safe to assume that next year will see a drastic reduction in acreage and an increase in consumption of cotton. Bottom appears to have already been reached or past in non-ferrous metals, textile fibres such as wool and silk and in petroleum products. The trend however, remains downward in such commodities as iron and steel, livestock and corn. Building materials and coal are indeterminate. "The government has 100 buffalo to give away this fall. I wonder if the butcher in our neighborhood reads the papers."

OIL SOUGHT AT HOH HEAD
By United Press.
ABERDEEN, Wash.—Drilling for oil at Hoh Head on the coast of Washington has gone 400 feet into the earth. It is the only drilling operation on the Olympic Peninsula and is being watched with interest. Company officials recently were granted a permit to sell stock to finance the enterprise. Gas showings were reported excellent. "The government has 100 buffalo to give away this fall. I wonder if the butcher in our neighborhood reads the papers."

... Kellogg's Corn Flakes have a special package different from all others!
... A waxtite inside bag perfected and patented for all Kellogg's Cereals.
... This inside bag is sealed against odors and contamination.
... It brings Kellogg's Corn Flakes oven-fresh and flavor-perfect to your table.
Other foods are wax-wrapped—some inside, others outside. But only Kellogg's have an inside bag that is actually sealed at the bottom as well as the top.
Just another reason why it pays to specify Kellogg's when buying corn flakes. One of the most economical and convenient foods.
Delicious with milk or cream for breakfast; for lunch with fruits or honey; fine for children's suppers or a late snack.
Easy to digest. Always ready to serve. No trouble. No work. With a "wonder" flavor that can't be equaled.
Look for the red-and-green package at your grocer's. It means genuine Kellogg's—the original Corn Flakes. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
