Fire, which originated in the Eastland warehouse of the Pipkin Grocery Company, operators of Figgly Wiggle stores in Eastland, Ranger, Breckenridge and Graham, early this morning did damage estimated at more than $20,000 before it was extinguished. Firemen responding promptly to the call, kept the blaze confined to the storage room which is located in the rear of the store and it was there that most of the damage was sustained. Smoke and water, however, did more or less damage to most of the stock and to the building. Both the stock and building, it was stated, is covered by insurance.

The period of instruction will last two hours and classes will be held each Monday night, according to the present arrangements. Later it may be found advisable to hold classes twice each week. The work will be carried on under the supervision of Guy Quiri, scout executive of the Old Belt Council. Names of approximately 20 men who are considered good material for scoutmasters have been turned in and all are expected to be present when the school opens tonight at 7:30. The Ranger Scout work has been reorganized with the churches of the city sponsoring troops with civic clubs acting as co-sponsors. The pastors of the different churches have gotten behind the movement in a wholehearted manner and are lending all the aid possible in seeing that the work is carried out in an efficient manner under the leadership of competent scoutmasters.

Eastland Church Holds Patriotic Sunday Service

A patriotic program in keeping with Constitution Week and in celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the United States constitution, was rendered at the First Methodist Church of Eastland Sunday night. Joe H. Jones was chairman and addresses were made by Chief Justice J. E. Hickman and Judge R. N. Gribham of Eastland. A paper written by F. J. Nicholson on Blackstone and the common law was read. Parker Brown, Eastland Boy Scout, and son of Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Brown, gave demonstrations of how the American flag should be blown on different occasions. A male quartet composed of W. C. Campbell, M. B. Collier, A. E. Herring and Frank Pierce, sang three numbers, including "The Old Rugged Cross." While the non-Blacks were being rendered all lights in the building were dimmed except those forming a cross to the rear of the rostrum. Misses Hart and Lindsley, violinists, played. They were accompanied at the piano by Miss Wilda Drago. The Gibson presided at the piano for the main program. The auditorium was beautifully and appropriately decorated with the American colors and Boy Scouts in uniform acted as ushers. The flags and other decorations were loaned to the church for the occasion by the West Texas Decorating company of Breckenridge through R. P. Crouch of Eastland, who has charge of decorating the city for the Eastland county fair which opens Wednesday.

Experiment in Health Education Planned By School

TEXARKANA, Tex., Sept. 21.—An experiment in health education will be carried on in Texarkana, Texas, public schools this year by the Bureau of Nutrition and Health Education of the University of Texas. The experiment is being conducted by health educators and health leaders of the state are looking to the experiment to produce a pattern for a state-wide system that will excel the haphazard methods heretofore employed. Miss Nancy Hunter Pettus, field worker, is in charge of the experimental work here. H. W. Stilwell, superintendent of the local school system, has encouraged tentative plans made by Miss Pettus. A system that will prove highly attractive to teachers and pupils and can be carried out by teachers under directions of the bureau at Austin, is most desired. Experiments will be made in that direction, Miss Pettus said. Progress already made in health education here led to the selection of Texarkana as a base for the experiment. The program will be carried on through the elementary, sixth and seventh grades. Conferences with teachers, at which the program is explained in detail, are being held this week to insure hearty participation of all teachers and pupils. The better features of health education work already adopted by many schools of the state will be adopted as a part of the new program, Miss Pettus said. A higher standard of health teaching in all of the schools of the state is the chief goal set for the experimental program. Miss Pettus pointed out.

Looking at the picture of the Romeo-murderer with Drenth is his son-in-law, Everett Schroder.

ACTION ON COTTON LAW IS EXPECTED

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 21.—Action on Texas' proposed law restricting cotton crop to 30 per cent was postponed by the house until this afternoon. In the senate copies of the conference committee's report were laid on members desk but was not formally presented to the upper house as the senate continued to wrangle over a resolution asking Gov. Ross Sterling to allow them to reduce state salaries. Passage of the cotton bill was promised before the day ends.

Tax Board to Meet Today to Fix State Rate

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 21.—Gov. Ross Sterling, the house of representatives and the senate continued to whirl around a circle today, each pursuing the other to affix a tag "responsible for the high tax rate." Existing law required the state tax board to calculate the rate. This figures out 79.2 cents to meet existing appropriations. The constitutional limit is 77 cents and the present rate 69. The governor announced the tax board would meet today. Meanwhile the senate sought to get the governor to submit the reduction of salaries and appropriations.

Soviet Strives To Distribute Riches Equally

MOSCOW.—The ultimate aim of the group which dictates the destinies of one-sixth of the world's habitable surface, the Communist Party of the Soviet Union—is a relatively equal distribution of wealth. As yet, however, differences of income are not only tolerated, but recently have been recognized as essential. The law permits the transmission of money and other possessions to direct heirs, with various limitations, and the government encourages savings accounts and purchases of internal loans. Nevertheless, the whole Soviet system is calculated to prevent the accumulation of huge fortunes. The State monopoly on all but the petty manufacture and trade, on banking and finance, leaves no room for those ambitious to be rich. The tendency here is for people to spend immediately everything they earn. Partly this is due to the fear of inflation which might destroy the value of cash accumulations. Even more so it is attributable to the extensive system of social insurance which practically removes the fear of the future, of illness and disability. Soviet citizens in good standing are entitled to free medical care, education, vacations with pay, pensions in old age, free nurseries for children, etc. Mothers receive long vacations with full pay before and after the birth of a child. Some of this insurance is as yet limited, the State being too poor to accomplish practically all it proposes theoretically.

Cameron Forbes were disrupted. A number of Americans and British live in the town and part of the Ussui tunnel on the Tokio-Karuzawa railway collapsed.

Thurber Wins Championship Of Oil Belt

Thurber won the championship of the Oil Belt Golf Association Sunday when they defeated Eastland by a score of 16 to 7. Ranger and Thurber were in a tie for the lead and a tie match with Eastland on the last day of the season made the match Sunday necessary to determine the championship. Had Eastland won Ranger and Thurber would have been in a tie for first place. As a result of Sunday's match, Thurber goes into the lead with Ranger runner-up for the championship and no play-off will be necessary between the two leading teams. The only upset of the match Sunday was when J. C. Davis defeated S. J. Barnett of Eastland 1-up.

SAY ACTION IS GOOD SIGN AND NOT BAD

Stock Exchanges of Europe Are Closed Except In Paris

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The suspension of the gold standard by Great Britain was viewed by J. P. Morgan today as "a hopeful and not a discouraging event." The suspension, however, echoed throughout the world today. Principal stock exchanges of Europe closed with the exception of the Paris bourse, where prices reacted sensationally in heavy liquidation. The pound, Sterling, dropped to a sale quotation of $4.90 in New York compared with a close Saturday of $4.84 7/8. Immediate effect on commodities was to increase prices throughout Europe, particularly in Great Britain. Leading bankers in the United States did not believe the situation serious as regards the United States.

BONUS PLEA DISCOURAGED BY HOOVER

OLYMPIA, WASH., Sept. 21.—The American government can carry no additional burden of expenditure without grave risks, President Hoover solemnly warned the American Legion convention today. The country's needs, he said, were second only to war. He asked the veterans to withdraw all demands on the government until after the end of the depression. It was, in effect, a moratorium on all bonus and pension proposals. Speaking earnestly and frankly, Hoover appealed to the veterans to summon again the same courage which brought victory in the World War. As Hoover turned to leave the platform a shout of "We want beer" rose from the gallery. The cry was repeated throughout the hall. Hoover moved toward the door and appeared to take no notice of the cry. Newton D. Baker, secretary of war under President Wilson, made a ringing appeal for peace, at the conclusion of his speech, which immediately preceded Hoover's.

WHEN MCGREGOR SPEAKS.

The eloquent oldish gentleman from Travis, T. H. Mc-Gregor, won his place, beyond a dispute, as the greatest orator of the 42nd legislature, in his philippic against Huey Long, delivered twice Tuesday. His appearance before the house was acclaimed a masterpiece, and the senate invited him to renew his invectives before it in a public session during the afternoon, that no little honor in itself. The Masterful T. H. "poured it on," as the galleries urged him to do, and again he was the hero of the hour. His speech was framed with all the tricks of passionate oratory, and whether his argument was valid or not cannot be measured by its effect on the audience. The hour was ripe for a denunciation of the Louisiana governor; and it seems entirely likely the enemies of Huey will declare the McGregor portrait a life-sized picture of the man who would hold two offices.

The smoke is cleared away. The oratory is past. Even as we measured the philippic we taste the ash of a fire that burned itself out. So far as Texas is concerned, Huey Long "has been put in his place." We recall the words of the Texas governor, whom McGregor defended so astutely, counselling "there is too much hysteria in Texas and in the South."

Whatever can be done for the cotton farmer should be done. On with the session.

Lone Stars Win
From Red Sox
By 15-2 Score

The Ranger Lone Star swamped the Cisco Red Sox under a deluge of base hits and scores Sunday afternoon at Cooper field to win by a score of 15 to 2 behind the effective pitching of Rogers.
The Lone Stars got off to a good start, scoring one run in the first inning only to lose the lead and regain it again in the fifth when the Red Sox scored their two tallies and the Lone Stars came back with three. In the sixth the Lone Stars accounted for eight more markers and annexed three in the seventh, which ended the scoring. This is one of the few times the Red Sox have been defeated this season and the first time they have had by such an overwhelming score. Pace and Bates lead in stickwork with three hits in five trips to the plate for Pace and three hits out of four for Bates, one of which was a double. The six made three errors and the Lone Stars one.

Spilling the Beans!

PEEPING THRU
THE KNOTHOLE

With BILL MAYES

Prexy Anderson, the Morning News, after predicting a 20 to 6 defeat for the Ranger Bulldogs in the Sweetwater game, seems to have folded up his typewriter and hibernated for the winter as far as his sports column is concerned. At least after making such a rank prediction we have been unable to find his column in its customary place.

And now that he have skipped down to another paragraph—as requested, and we mean to be accommodating—it might be mentioned that Blondy Cross from out San Angelo was proved to be another who was all wet as far as guessing what scores would be in the Bulldog-Sweetwater game. We would advise, though our advice has not been sought and probably will not be heeded, that Mr. Cross join us in making predictions after games instead of before if he can not do better than he did on last Friday's game. It's not right to mistake the public like that.

The period of silence around the Lobo camp has been broken and now it is easier to guess why than has been said about the team and why Coach Jefferies has refused to let any publicity get out about the team. After winning from Gorman by a score of 31 to 12 the team did not look so good, according to Benny Butler, who said:

"The 1931 Cisco Lobos paraded their wares before the grandstands Friday night in a splashy engagement with the Gorman Panthers which ended 31 to 12 in favor of the Cisco boys. The visiting class eleven, fortified with tears and particularly a fellow by the name of Thompson, nicked the Lobo scutcheon for two touchdowns that wounded their pride but despite that fact the Cisco team quite clearly demonstrated potentialities of a welcome character."

Wilson's great batting in 1930 enabled him to command a salary of between $38,000 and $35,000 for 1931 which made him one of the two highest-paid players in the National League. On the strength of his play Wilson was hardly worth more than $5,000.

Wilson may come back with another club, but his days are ended with the Cubs. Throughout his career Wilson has either been a great player or a disappointment.
John J. McGraw had Wilson for two seasons with the New York Giants in 1924 and 1925, but eventually farmed him out to Toledo.

The Cubs got Wilson from Toledo and the Giants had failed to claim him at the end of the season.
In his five years under Manager Joe McCarthy the pudgy outfielder became a star of the first magnitude.
Wilson's batting average with the Cubs under McCarthy follows:
1926321 1927318
1928318
1929345
1930356 Even during the period when he was a star Wilson had his troubles.
He was blinded by the sun in the 1925 world series and missed a line drive which went for a home run and helped the Athletics in their 10-run rally.
During the playing season he generally had trouble with players and fans who tried to ride him.
He had fights with Ray Kelp and Pete Donohue, Cincinnati pitchers, one season and acquired the nickname of "Dempsey of the Dugouts." Once he climbed into the stands after a milkman who persisted in "riding" him.
Hornby's part in Wilson's failure may never be known, but it is an accepted fact that Hack never liked the manager and did not show the spirit he did under Mc-Carthy.

LARGE CROWD

A large crowd attended the opening service Sunday evening of the Church of God open air meeting which is being held in the West part of Eastland. Due to the fact that several remained in their cars it is difficult to estimate the exact number present, but it is supposed that between 150 and 200 people were there. The minister chose his text from the 119 Psalm, verse 126: "It is time for thee, Lord, to work; for they have made void Thy law." He said God's law is made void when it is disobeyed, when its plain teachings are reasoned away, or when it is disregarded, and treated with indifference. "We are living in an age of great religious declension and disregard for God's law. This is the Lord's time to work. And He will work. Whether in mercy or in judgment, we cannot yet tell. Let us pray that he will remember mercy in the midst of deserved wrath," the speaker said. These services will start at 7:30 each evening instead of 7:45 as previously announced.
Miss Mildred McDowell will be the pianist; Prof. Carl Kardatzke will be the song director, and Prof.
H. Ward will act as chairman during these meetings.

SPEAKING
of
SPORTS

By GEORGE KIRKSEY,
United Press Staff Correspondent.
Hack Wilson Hits Skids
From Baseball's Peak
Baseball game was short-lived for Hack Wilson, exiled Chicago Cubs outfielder.
A year ago Wilson ranked as one of baseball's greatest sluggers after he had led the major leagues with 56 home runs, batted .356 and driven in 190 runs, more than any other player in history.

This season he was a colossal flop and wound up by being suspended for frequent infractions of the training rules. When Rogers Hornby suspended Wilson early in September, Hack was batting .261 and had hit only 13 home runs.
Wilson's great batting in 1930
enabled him to command a salary
for 1931 which made him one of the two highest-paid players in the
worth more than $5,000.

Wilson may come back with
another club, but his days are ended
career Wilson has either been a great player or a disappointment.
John J. McGraw had Wilson for
two seasons with the New York Giants in 1924 and 1925, but eventually farmed him out to Toledo.

The Cubs got Wilson from Toledo and the Giants had failed to
claim him at the end of the season.
In his five years under Manager
Joe McCarthy the pudgy outfielder
became a star of the first magnitude.
Wilson's batting average with
the Cubs under McCarthy follows:
1926321
1927318
1928318
1929345
1930356 Even during the period when he was a star Wilson had his troubles.
He was blinded by the sun in the
line drive which went for a home
run and helped the Athletics in
their 10-run rally.
During the playing season he
and fans who tried to ride him.
He had fights with Ray Kelp and
Pete Donohue, Cincinnati pitchers,
one season and acquired the nick-
name of "Dempsey of the Dugouts." Once he climbed into the
stands after a milkman who persisted in "riding" him.
Hornby's part in Wilson's failure
may never be known, but it is
liked the manager and did not show the spirit he did under Mc-Carthy.

CRACKS
IN THE
DOME

By THE POLITICAL ANALYST.
Some other officers' accounts besides sheriff's fee claims are to be laid before the new grand jury now at work in Travis county.
That is from state officials who will be in charge of certain phases of the matters, though the kind of official claim and the amount of money involved have not been made known.

The chief clerks of practically all departments in the state government got $2,750 a year. . . . Any salary reduction bill, if there is to be one, should not make an important slash in compensation until it gets above this bracket. It will be remembered that all state employees now are paying a 2 per cent discount on their warrants, and probably will pay it most of the time during the next 12 months.

Universities and colleges in Texas will have to thresh out the question in future whether they have to deposit their student fees into the general revenue of the state. The University of Texas has been depositing its fees into a special account, from which the money was appropriated back by the legislature. This fund was kept on a cash basis, and drew interest besides, because the university put the money on interest until ready to spend it, then deposited items in the treasury, under the procedure fixed by the legislature, to meet warrants about to be issued. . . .
But other institutions have kept the funds wholly in bank, issuing direct checks upon them.

Contention has been made in some quarters that these fees should go directly to the general revenue, payable on appropriation, and thus sharing the general shrinkage of the current discount.
If other institutions were compelled now to deposit until ready until a legislature has appropriated them back, it would seriously criple their revenue expectations until adjusted by a new appropriation bill.

W. R. Long, for a decade and a half auditor of the University of Texas, has rounded out one phase of his public service in a highly creditable and honorable way, to move on to an even broader phase of work within the university.
The institution's spreading business operations, concerted with its expanding physical properties and plant, and its increasing endowment, has called for a group of executive officers, a manager of some of the active properties, and trained executive supervision of some of the matters closely related to the university's income and revenues.

The regents found Mr. Long the right man to put in charge of some of these highly-important functions; a man whose training and record were such as to assure the able and efficient handling of the business.

Dr. J. W. E. H. Beck of Bowie county is a state senator. He also is a lieutenant colonel in the medical service of the Texas national guard. He was in command, so far as health and sanitation were concerned, of the recent "oil war" in East Texas. He set up a hospital for the troops, but didn't have much need for it, and he looked after the health of 1,100 Texas men, spread out over 400 square miles of East Texas oil fields. And he reported back when most of the troops had been moved out that not a single case of typhoid fever developed among the entire group of guardsmen on duty there, despite river-bottom mosquitoes, open water pools from oil wells, and difficulties of securing proper drinking water in the field service of the troops.

It is a record for the state to be proud of.

Style Show At Arcadia Theatre This Evening
Featuring Fall Fashions
 It will be the pleasure of J. C. Penney company to present styles and fashions for fall and winter this evening at the Arcadia theatre, when a group of eight charming young models display in a colorful manner just what is going to be the highlight for the approaching season.
 The smart contrasts of this season in shades of black, with many touches of white and other harmonizing colors and trims, together with rust and brown, saddle shoulders, loose sleeves and double revers are noteworthy features of these day-time frocks.

While this review will show the seasonable greens, reds and these lovely browns with trimmings of olive green and other finishings, black dominates to a great extent in this department of dress.

Mostly all models are buttoned or belted and there are a few new yolk treatments that are interesting.

Perhaps one of the most outstanding and impressive features of this presentation of style is the charming and heavenly modes for evening. Electric and ice blue, canary yellow, orchid and white worn with chic short cut evening wraps and black with tight hip line, with the remaining fullness at the hemline to emphasize its beauty.

There will also be an attractive display of footwear selected by Mr. Barnett, manager of the shoe department at J. C. Penney & Co. Fashions approved models will compose this review of style.

"That bully old slogan hits me just right—

... no bamboozlin' about that!"

SURE! When a word fits, you know it! "Satisfy" just fits CHESTERFIELD. A smoker picks up a package, and he likes its neat appearance—no heavy inks or odors from ink. That satisfies him.

Then he examines a Chesterfield. It is well-filled; it is neat in appearance; the paper is pure white. And that satisfies him.

He lights up. At the very first puff he likes the flavor and the rich aroma. He decides that it tastes better—neither raw nor over-sweet; just pleasing and satisfying.

Then he learns it is milder. That's another way of saying that there is nothing irritating about it. And again he's satisfied!

Satisfy—they've got to satisfy! The right tobaccos, the CHESTERFIELD kind, cured and aged, blended and cross-blended, to a taste that's right. Everything that goes into CHESTERFIELD is the best that money can buy and that science knows about. CHESTERFIELDS do a complete job of it. They Satisfy!
