meet on Lillard field in Ranger on Friday of this week. With only two more days of practice between them and the opening games, the teams are working hard to get the final polish and team-work needed to put two smoothly functioning squads on the field.
In matter of injuries the Ranger club, with three consecutive games, and each one tough, in three weeks, has somewhat the worst of the deal. Don Flahie, probably the fastest running backfield man in the Oil Belt, is definitely out of the game for Eck Curtis' tribe.
He is still hobbling around on crutches because of a sprained ankle and will have to stay on the sidelines for at least a couple of weeks, if not longer. Williams, regular guard, has a burn on his leg which is not expected to keep him out of the game entirely. He was able to work out yesterday for the first time in several days. Aish-man, the other regular guard, has scored hand which is showing some improvement and which will not keep him out of the game, but which will be a handicap. Several other minor injuries, while they will not keep the players out of the game, will slow them up somewhat.

The Mavericks have played four games and have lost but one, that to the San Angelo Bobcats by a score of 14 to 0. The Bulldogs have played four and lost two, one to Amarillo by a score of 12 to 0 and the other to Central High of Fort Worth by a score of 24 to 13.
Eastland has amassed a total score of 46 points and has been scored on but twice, her opponents making a total of 14 points, while Ranger has accounted for a total of 36 points against 35 for her opponents. Eastland has defeated the Daniel Baker Frosh, Cross Plains and the heavy Polytechnic Parrots of Fort Worth while Ranger won from Stephenville and

The Ranger Bank Plan

The directors of the Commercial State Bank of Ranger are determined that an unfounded rumor is not going to be responsible for closing the bank. The bank is thoroughly solvent, and the directors have concluded to take the situation in hand and save our only financial institution. Accordingly the directors by unanimous vote of the board adopted the following plan: 1.—Withdrawals from old accounts will be limited to $5.00 per day for each depositor.
2.—No checks for more than $5.00 on old accounts per day will be honored.
3.—New accounts and new deposits, made up from cash or checks on other banks, will be subject to check up to 100 per cent at all times.
4.—New accounts and new deposits will be kept separate from old deposits.
5.—Checks for 100 per cent on all old accounts will be accepted by the bank in payment of notes due the bank.
6.—No new loans will be made by the bank until the limit on withdrawals is raised.
7.—The bank will be operated at the minimum expense.
This, briefly, is the new Ranger Bank Plan.
This plan will be rigidly enforced until the mental attitude of the public becomes normal.
The directors solicit the co-operation of the public spirited citizens of Ranger and this community in carrying into effect the plan outlined above. The Oil Fraternity, pro-rated oil, to save the oil business. Cotton acreage was prorated to save the cotton industry. England went off gold standard to save her financial structure. The directors of the Commercial State Bank have prepared withdrawals from old accounts, temporarily, in order to save our only financial institution.
The plan is feasible and with your support and co-operation the situation will be solved.

HOOPER WILL HOLD ON MORATORIUM

By United Press.
WASHINGTON. — Conditions expected to favor President Hoover in the first legislative session to come before the new Congress in December, however much in doubt all other action will be.

The moratorium, though effective July 1, actually affects the United States first on Dec. 15, when war debt payments would be due except for the moratorium, the first scheduled for payment during the Hoover moratorium year.

To allay any uncertainty, the administration desires ratification of its proposal before Dec. 15, and as Congress will meet Dec. 7, this allows, considering the preliminaries of organization of the two houses, little time.

Little Opposition Expected
In proposing the moratorium President Hoover actually proposed suspension of acts of Congress, the war debt settlement acts. While there was no technical authority for this, the circumstances were so critical that the President felt his executive responsibility required him to act summarily. Before doing so, however, he consulted a number of members of the House and Senate. Democrats as well as Republicans. Their response was so favorable that the President felt no hesitation in assuming the responsibility. Public comment of various senators and congressmen afterward indicated little opposition would be encountered in obtaining ratification of this action.

The chief danger, to the President lies in the complication over the speakership of the House. The line between the parties is so narrow that if it is yet uncertain which party will have a majority when Congress meets, due to vacancies that will be filled by special elections before December. Also the possibility of some Republican defections makes the outcome even more uncertain. A prolonged fight over the speakership would prevent ratification by Dec. 15 unless by resolution the House was able to suspend the usual procedure and act upon this matter before electing a speaker.

Implication Questioned
While few doubt that Congress will endorse the President's action, many expect some sharp debate, concerned not so much with the current moratorium as with the question of whether this is to be extended next July, or whether it implies a downward revision of reparations and war debts. Some members are violently opposed to scaling down war debts and an effort is probable to force a declaration from the administration as to its intentions. President Hoover said in announcing his moratorium that "I do not approve in any remote sense of the cancellations of the debts to us."

One state department official, however, intimated during the moratorium negotiations that the President had at one stage looked into the question of revision. Many have regarded eventual revision as inevitable. President Hoover has not specifically discussed this point, though in his moratorium announcement he said: "As the basis of the settlement of these debts was the capacity under normal conditions of the debtor to pay, we should be consistent with our own policies and principles if we take into account the abnormal situation now existing in the world. I am sure the American people have no desire to attempt to extract any sum beyond the capacity of any debtor to pay and it is our view that broad vision requires that our government should recognize the situation as it exists."

Blames Ouster
On Capone Raid

Chicago prosecutors denied charges made by Theodore W. Miller, above, until recently an assistant state's attorney, who declared that he was ousted because he had led a raid on an Al Capone vice den. He declared Capone was all-powerful in the state's attorney's office.

count the abnormal situation now existing in the world. I am sure the American people have no desire to attempt to extract any sum beyond the capacity of any debtor to pay and it is our view that broad vision requires that our government should recognize the situation as it exists."

Opposition to debt revision is probably stronger in the Republican party than among Democrats. This is one respect, may make the President's task easier in spite of the embarrassment of having some outstanding Republican leader take issue with him if debt revision comes up.

Bailey W. Hardy
To Be Speaker At
"Tariff Conclave"

By United Press.
TYLER, Oct. 7.—Bailey W. Hardy of Breckenridge, member of the legislature from Breckenridge, and chairman of the oil, gas and mining committee of the house during the regular and special sessions, has been added to the list of speakers for the semi-annual convention and "Tariff Conclave," sponsored by the Independent Petroleum association of Texas at Tyler on Oct. 12.

Hardy has been active in all oil legislation during the last two years and is considered one of the best informed men in the legislature on oil and gas matters.

He was active in 1930 in securing the passage of the Common Purchaser law, and led the fight at the special session this year for the pipe line bill, which put penalties in the Common Purchaser law; adding natural gas to its provisions, and established a basis of charges of charges for Common Carrier pipe lines.

Family Travels Over 200,000 Miles In a
Auto House Car

By United Press.
BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis.—Mr. and Mrs. Al Nelson and their son, who have traveled 200,000 miles in a house car during the past three years, are little concerned about the depression.

Selling a fountain pen appliance in all parts of the country, they reported they are making a comfortable living. They started from Champaign, Ill.

Now that the president has told the World War veterans what's what, they're likely to go to the polls to tell whos Hoover.

With stocks rising after wage cuts, we are led to suspect that there is something, after all, to the truism that the rich get rich and the poor get poorer.

To Burn Effigy of
'Old Man Depression'

By United Press.
EL PASO.—When the effigy of "Old Man Depression" burns at the Spanish fiesta here Oct. 10, sponsors of the event will be reducing the cotton surplus by several pounds.

Cotton materials will be used in making the figure, according to Mrs. W. P. Schumacher, in charge of the work.

After a parade "Old Man Depression" will be burned in front of Liberty hall. A ceremonial dance will accompany his demise.

The Woman's Association of the College of Mines is sponsoring the affair.

For this nothing is better than Castoria, a pure vegetable preparation specially made for babies and children. Castoria acts so gently you can give it to young infants to relieve colic. Yet it is always effective, for older children, too. Remember, Castoria contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics—is absolutely harmless. When your baby is fretful with teething or a food upset, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Be sure you get genuine Castoria with the name:
