Two Texas Convicts Engage in Death Fight

CRUDE KNIVES USED IN FIGHT AT MIDNIGHT

Long Timer Is Stabbed Times in Two Minutes Cause Death.

By United Press.

HOUSTON, Oct. 30.—Two convicts fought out a grudge war early today and Ed Casey sent up from Houston for 49 years for bank robbery, was killed.

He was stabbed to death in a fight with Aubrey Sealey, serving 50 years from Dallas county highway robbery.

While the other convicts were asleep the men arose from their bunks shortly after midnight and went at one another. Fifty minutes later the fight had become a bloodbath. The men used crude knives.

COUNTY EXHIBIT DISPLAYED

The Eastland county exhibit won first place among the county exhibits, is being reproduced in an old Boyd Motor company building on the corner of Main and Main streets, Ranger, where it will be visited by anyone interested.

Much of the credit for the success of Eastland county in competing with the best agricultural counties in the state is due to the untiring work of Ben Whitehead of Ranger, E. H. Varnell of Cle and J. C. Patterson and Miss R. Ramsey of Eastland. Together the people have put the agricultural products of the county to the front in the eyes of the people of Texas and have given the county new favorable publicity that it has received in many years.

Later the same exhibit may be installed in Cisco, Eastland, Gordon and Rising Star, where it may be viewed by the people of the towns.

Sterling Approves Acreage Plan For East Texas

AUSTIN, Oct. 30.—Governor Ross Sterling put his stamp of approval on the acreage plan of distribution in the East Texas field in a conference with a committee of oil men today. He declared the plan fair to the small operator.

"The plan can and will be put into effect, I believe," the governor told the committee. He was indefinite about the time or whether it will be by executive order or otherwise. He will take action, he said, until possible operators have an opportunity to be heard.

Oil Tank Fire Burns Itself Out

SOMERSET, Texas, Oct. 30.—Children returned to school today after they had abandoned their classrooms when a 40,000 tank of crude oil that had exploded threatened the school.

The blazing tank had burned itself out during the night after having burned for 30 hours. Two explosions of the tank rocked the small town, breaking windows and cracking walls.

Bloody Knife Believed To Be Clue To Murder

DALHART, Oct. 30.—A blood-stained pocket knife that was found, prompted officials to investigate the possibility that Anita Criswell, 25, was murdered during a drinking party here Sunday. Thursday instead of continuing outside as members of the party insisted.

EASTLAND DECLINES PLAN OF BONDING COMPANY

After spirited discussions lasting more than two hours, the citizens who met with the Eastland county commission to discuss the proposed plan of a bonding company declined to accept the plan.

Commissioner Moore was first to address the gathering. He explained that his foremost interest in the matter was merely making arrangements whereby the City of Eastland could retire its bonded indebtedness in an orderly, honorable manner, realizing that taxable property values have dwindled to a fraction of what their indicated values were 10 years ago when the bonds were sold and the money spent on improvements under a high scale of prices for material and labor.

In answering questions presented by various citizens present, Moore brought out that Eastland owes $1,015,000 in bonded indebtedness. In the next five years $107,000 will become due. During the same period the city

COMMITTEES ON CHILD WELFARE DRIVE ARE URGED TO CO-OPERATE

Monday will see the starting of the Child Welfare drive in Ranger, when workers meet at the office of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce at 8:30 to begin the campaign.

Roy Speed, chairman of the men's section, and Mrs. L. H. Flewelen, chairman of the ladies division, have called on all the pastors in the town to make announcements from their pulpits Sunday morning and Sunday night stressing to their congregations the importance of a drive of this nature at this time.

A number of men and women of the town have been selected to serve as workers for the drive and have been mailed the following letter from Roy Speed:

Dear Friends: You have been selected to work in a committee for the purpose of raising funds for the Child Welfare association of Ranger. This drive is scheduled to start promptly at 8:30 Monday morning, Nov. 2, at the Chamber of Commerce office, and unless we can depend on you to help us, the drive cannot be a success.

This drive is all-important to the people of Ranger. There is no work so outstanding as that of the Child Welfare organization accomplishes, and to continue the good work, they must have your help. Please be on time and help us to put this worthy cause over in fine shape.

Yours for a successful Welfare Drive.

MRS. L. H. FLEWELLEN, Chairman for Child Welfare. ROY SPEED, General Drive Chairman.

CROWDS AWAIT MRS. JUDD AT PHOENIX, ARIZ.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 30.—Curious motorists who jammed the highways by the hundreds today delayed the return of Winnie Ruth Judd to the city where she is reported to have killed Miss Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes LeRoy.

It took Sheriff James McFadden more than an hour to drive his car with Mrs. Judd over the 30 miles from Yuma to Phoenix and he telephoned there he would not be able to reach Phoenix before 1 p. m. around the city and county building which contains the jail, thousands of persons were awaiting the arrival. There was no hint of mob violence, officers said.

Ranger Youth Is Granted New Trial

John Wallace, Ranger youth, convicted on a burglary charge, was granted a new trial by Judge Elzo Been of the 88th district court.

The grounds upon which the plea was granted were that the jury while deliberating had discussed matters which the court had charged it not to discuss in connection with the burglary charge. Wallace is represented by Milton Lawrence.

Times and Telegram Receives Letter From Reader Telling Us What to Do and How to Do It!

To the Editor of Ranger Times and Eastland Telegram: Mr. Will Hayes, Ranger, Mr. Gus Coleman, Eastland:

As a reader of both of your papers for a number of years and being personally acquainted with business men in both Eastland and Ranger, and watching with interest your efforts to serve these two cities, want to take this means to express my appreciation of the news papers distributed six days in the week.

On Sunday we find the church news—invitations from the churches and Sunday school teachers asking that parents and children attend some church on the Sabbath. On Friday, especially in this so in Ranger, we find special bargains from merchants offering their wares to the buying public at special low prices. We know this brings trade to Ranger because we, ourselves have learned to watch for these specials and take advantage of them.

Then there is the football news from Eastland and Ranger—like football and "root" for both Ranger and Eastland. We take Eastland one season, Ranger the next; right here might say this is our season to "root" for Eastland and we will be there Saturday helping the Mavericks "pour it on" the Elephants. And by the way, both you editors, please let "Peeping Through the Keyhole" (according to Prof. Holloway) and Gripes by Gus, appear in both papers. Occasionally you fellows accidentally stumble on something pretty good and me and the old lady and 8 kids want to keep up with you. Then we hear our neighbors say any news that is good in Eastland is good in Ranger.

Then comes society by the young ladies, Miss Harris of Eastland and Miss Davenport of Ranger—this is one of the features—the "old woman," although she is fat and forty, like this the best—that is the only confusion we ever have in our home, she wants to read the society and me and the boys want to grab "Peeping" and "Gripes"—so we usually compromise and let the "old woman" have her way.

Then we enjoyed reading about the Ranger city commission trying to annihilate the gas company—say that was great—the red-head Scotchman from Ft. Worth, representing the gas company tied the city commission up in a sack, put them over in a corner and in a very nice way told the spectators the gas company was selling gas cheaper than the dear commission—were selling water—and then—well dear reader you should have seen the expressions, etc. Maybe we better not say too much about this as the gas company might charge us more for our gas.

Next we read the editorials—and say one of you editors occasionally let a mistake get through—but then as an editor is one who edits and is liable to pull one's hair out.

Your features are splendid and the continued story is our chief diversion.

You cover the state and national news fine—all in all me and the "old woman" think you are giving us plenty for the money and we write this letter in appreciation for your efforts.

We are signing our name to this article, but requesting that both of you leave it out of the Times and Telegram—because we spoke of our "rip" as being the "old woman" and as I understand we married men must stick together.

In our next article we may take up some other matters that need attention and straighten them out. Yours for a greater local paper. A READER.

Ranger Merchants Offer To the People of This Trade Territory Many Values at Unusually Low Prices for the Season

Ranger merchants today are offering to the people of Ranger's trade territory many items of special value at this particular time of the year. Never in recent years, were the prices any lower, nor values any greater than today. This season of the year usually finds prices up a bit, but not so in Ranger. For instance, if you are thrifty and want to receive values for your dollar, read the grocery merchants' messages on pages 4, 5, and 6. In case you are in the market for general needs of the family, turn to pages 2, 3, 4, and 8. Not only that but all through this issue will be found messages from the feed merchants, insurance man, grocery stores, departments for women, and the auto tire dealer brings his word about his wares.

Check these "ads" over—every one of them in the Times today and every day for that matter—keep in touch with merchants who, from time to time, send you word of groceries and solicit your patronage in this manner.

Let us remind you again: There is no substitute for circulation. The Ranger Times is read and appreciated in every Ranger home.

POLITICAL PERFORMERS IN THE PICTURE.
 Congressman Wright Patman is going to impeach Secretary Andrew W. Mellon when the new congress assembles. Wright is an excellent chap and is popular at home. His great is in the nature of a joke. It placed him and will continue to place him on the first page. Mellon merely smiles and lets it go at that. He knows a joke when it's cracked in his ears.

Representative P. L. Anderson of San Antonio is going to impeach State Banking Commissioner James Shaw when the Texas legislature meets the coming winter. Anderson is another joker. He loves to be on the front page of Texas newspapers. Shaw laughs and lets it go at that.

Why should a public official be threatened with impeachment removal for living up to the letter of the law, and going his level best to protect bank depositors as well as banks? For more than four years Shaw has been on the firing line forcing weak banks to place new money in their concerns and to throw out worthless paper.

He has been threatened many times. He has been investigated several times. He came out with flying colors. He served four years and then Governor Sterling re-appointed him. He faced a fight for confirmation. He announced ready; he appeared before the senate committee; he threw down the gauntlet. He was confirmed by unanimous vote of the senate.

Banks should be protected from the poison spread by scandal mongers, garrulous tongues and common liars. In addition to this depositors of all banks, national and state, should be protected by the banking departments of nation and state.

A restoration of confidence is required in nation and state. Credit is based on confidence and when a man loses confidence in self and his fellows he is on the verge of moral and physical bankruptcy.

COOPERATION AT ALL TIMES.
 It is interesting to note that of all the plans that have been suggested to aid the farmer, only one has been given anything like unanimous approval by experts—the farm cooperative.

Cooperation, both in producing and marketing, must be the dominant factor in any program designed to restore prosperity to agriculture. It is sound in economic principle—a fact that has been proven by American manufacturing industries, as well as by the long-established farm cooperatives—and it produces definite results.

It cannot be too often pointed out that the individual farmer, when he goes to sell his products, is at an insupportable disadvantage. He must take what is offered or fail to sell. But when he bands together with ten or fifty or a hundred thousand other farmers, the shoe is on the other foot. He has become "big business" himself, and he can bargain and make fair terms.

It is said that one barrier in the way of successful cooperatives, in the past, has been the virtual refusal of many farmers to cooperate when times are comparatively good. Then, when bad times come along, they are without the organization and machinery for taking decisive action. If the present severe agricultural depression has taught farmers that they must cooperate all the time and under all circumstances if they are to prosper, it will have done a great deal for the American farming industry.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

to get to first base with the convention delegates. The second Young Plan will fall just as the first one did. Long before the delegates convene they will have been told how Owen D. Young organized the Radio Corporation of America, the aspiring monopoly that is trying to seize control of radio broadcasting in America. They will have been told, also, that General Electric, in which Mr. Young is a high official, is the pivotal organization that controls the voting power in the biggest combine ever organized in America. When these interlocking interests are fully understood, the reason for Mr. Raskob's bubbling enthusiasm for Mr. Young will stand revealed.

The democrats from the west and south will see at once that such a man is poor timber for the democratic nomination. In the face of such revelation, the eastern leader of the party could not be expected to stand without hitching. My prediction is that the whole outfit will jump clear of the traces when they discover what Mr. Raskob is trying to do.

If the seemingly impossible should happen and Young should somehow miraculously get the democratic nomination, it would be a god-send to the republicans. The republicans need issues for next year, and a monopoly candidate on the democratic ticket would give the G. O. P. some rich material for campaign speeches. And don't think the republicans wouldn't use it. They would—and how!

But in order to do it the G. O. P. will have to steer clear of the halter which the radio outfit has prepared for the republican national candidate for the chairmanship of the republican committee is none other than Major-General James G. Harbord, chairman of the board of RCA. Opinion here in Washington is that RCA and its subsidiary, the National Broadcasting company, have plunged into politics up to their necks. No matter which party loses, the radio trust intends to win—if it can. My guess is that it won't.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson
World's Temperance Sunday

Text: Gal. 5:13-26.
 Comment on the International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 1, World's Temperance Sunday. Gal. 5:13-26.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
 Editor of The Congregationalist

One does not need to search far in the Pauline epistles for appropriate lessons dealing with the great matter of temperance. Almost inevitably the problems of temperance, especially in relation to intoxicating liquors, are discussed in the realm of social and legal effort to deal with the causes of intemperance and to remove these causes. An erroneous impression prevails in certain quarters that law against something that is harmful rules out voluntary action. Paul lays great stress on the fact that law is made for the lawless, and that the man of true insight and character lives above the law. That is, he does not want to do the things that it is necessary to have laws to prohibit. The essential virtues and fruits of the spirit—love, joy, peace, patience, meekness, temperance—are all things against which there is no law.

The notion that some people have today that law creates evil and that law incites men and women to disobedience, to lawlessness, is little justified. The fact that there is a law against murder does not impel any right-minded man to want to commit murder.

If there is an impulse today to break law, we must attribute it to some other spirit, rather than to the effect of the law itself. If laws curb essential liberties, if they destroy the freedom of the individual without achieving any good, there may be warrant for opposing such laws as wrong. But to take the attitude that refusal to obey today that law, as law itself, is itself of a serious thing.

Paul is right in saying that you can have only the right spirit and only a true society when men are concerned more about provoking one another to anger, and about works than about displaying their liberty in doubtful and anti-social practices. Manifestly, one of the troubles in life is that masses of men and women have never learned either to rule their own spirits or to bring their lives under the rule of any principle of consideration for others or of righteousness and soundness of living in a social group.

What should be the attitude of the Christian toward society? He knows that deeper than all law is the rule of the spirit of God. What he is concerned about is not what he ought to do and then do it. It is true that there have been times in human society when the state has curbed his freedom of worship and his rights of moral action. There are those who foolishly see in the Christian's opposition to such laws and refusal to obey such laws, something that is skin to the spirit and activity of the criminal. Such a notion is entirely wrong. Conscientious conviction underlies all noble living.

There is profound danger when men ignore laws because of their own spite or their own pleasure. But when a man disobeys a law for conscientious reasons and because of high scruples that mark the unselfish and noble quality of his life, there can be little danger to the state. Only laws that are inherently questionable will ever be opposed on such high ground. The great danger to a state is not that men should be too conscientious in their attitude toward law, but that men should not be conscientious enough.

CRACKS IN THE DOME

AUSTIN.—There are at least six definite or probably certain candidates for congressman-at-large—W. E. Lea, Orange; W. Eskine Williams, Fort Worth; James E. Ferguson and Ernest C. Cox, Austin; Senator Pink Parrish, Lubbock, and Editor Sulak of the La Grange newspaper.

Mathematical probability now indicates there will be a race for congressman-at-large, with the question whether the candidates have to run for definite places, and enter second primaries, or whether the three highest win in the election. Governor Sterling has indicated a delay in the special session expected in January. Congressional districting cannot get 100 votes in the house, or 21 in the senate. So that any law passed after January would not be effective until after the ballots closed, thus could not disarrange the primary candidacies.

Results of an error in this column recently, concerning the congressman-at-large race, are taken as distinctly complimentary. The error used the word "Sterling" instead of "Ferguson" in saying that W. E. Lea of Orange had made speeches in the past campaign for the present rather than a former governor. Not less than 60 persons commented upon this error. So the column has at least 60 readers.

Texas has done a share to be proud of in cotton reform, commented here. He expressed strong hope that the cotton states will effect the joint holding of 7,000,000 bales off the market, as proposed in the farm board-cotton association-banker program, and cut down the future crop that much.

Benson, he says, R. will raise the price of the present crop to a point equaling the production of 7,000,000 bales additional beyond the hoped-for restricted limit next year.

Mr. Buchanan is the author of a bill which created a special experimental ginning station in Mississippi, to devise means of saving cotton farmers many millions of dollars a year. The experiments are to devise ways of ginning that will prevent destroying or damaging the staple of cotton. Getting greater uniformity of staple, and better staple cotton will also materially help in protecting the line in ginning, in Mr. Buchanan's opinion.

TAX ELECTION CALLED
 A tax election has been ordered by County Judge C. L. Garrett for common school districts 7 and 7-A, for Nov. 14. It is for the purpose of allowing the taxpayers of the district to vote on the question of levying a 50 cent tax for the purpose of supplementing the state school funds and was called upon the petition of 25 qualified voters of the district.

The election will be held at the Tudor school house, with W. H. Jackson as presiding officer.

Eastland Scout Troop Does Good Work At Library

The Presbyterian church Boy Scout troop that until lately was directed by Scout Master Joe Brissell has continued its civic work, under leadership of Assistant Scout Master Joseph M. Perkins. The boys' efforts this week were given to cleaning off the wide sidewalk in front of the public library and club house, and removing a thick growth of rank weeds and grass that flourished in the ever-widening cracks between the pavestones. The troop met in the yard of the Perkins home on Thursday night for a Halloween picnic roast and fun program.

Two Mexicans Are Executed

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 30.—Victor Rodriguez, 20 and Niandoro Munoz, 28, Mexican aliens, were electrocuted in Huntsville penitentiary today for the ambush slaying of Bert Ellison, U. S. customs inspector.

Rodriguez was placed in the chair at 12:04 a. m. At 12:22 he was dead. Seven minutes later Munoz was in the chair. He was dead at 12:27.

The murder for which the two paid the supreme penalty was unparalleled in South Texas crime. Three men stood over Ellison's form firing bullets into his body while a fourth held him. The murder was to revenge the deportation of a Mexican woman.

Coach Gibson's men go to Mayhew Eagles in Saturday afternoon the likely to see the fastest game to be witnessed in this year. Mayhew himself is too cocky, but his men are confident, yet plenty of reasons for their team can elicit. The elephantine prospect of the Eagle line. However, the heavier than Barber's latter is tough from a work out on an ice wagon a hard hustling tackle. Between these two will be worth seeing. This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial view of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

A crowd of some 5,000 people is expected in Eastland Saturday to attend the game between the Mavericks and the Elephants. It is by far the most important game in the Oil Belt this week-end. Cisco is entertaining Denton and the interest in the outcome is not sufficient to affect the cash customers. Breckenridge journeys to Brownwood. The Buckaroos will no doubt run rampant now that it's too late unless the legal department can find grounds for a protest. You know that's an ever-present threat to a high school winner.

Some of the "iffers" are lifting about the Cisco-Brownwood game being forfeited to Cisco on account of Cisco playing an ineligible player. In that case Cisco would be in some sort of a tie... you figure it out. What I started in to explain is that the Abilene-Eastland game tomorrow will get the big play from the regular weekend football customers of the district. Probably 1000 will drive down from Abilene in the hope that their presence will help prevent such an upset as occurred last year when the tie game put the big pants on the Elephants.

"Meet the Wife," the second play presented by the Eastland Little Theatre is in the process of rehearsal and will be given at the high school auditorium Monday evening, Nov. 9. The play is being directed by Loftin Witcher with a cast composed of Mesdames Joe Stephens, Charles Farg, and Henry Porter, and Messrs. Kenneth Tanner, Loftin Witcher, Ed Freyschlag, William Leslie and O. C. Funderburk.

Their first presentation, "The Patsy," was well received. Playgoers from the entire Oil Belt attended and returned to their respective towns to spread the fame of the Little Theatre and are said to be eagerly awaiting the presentation of another play by that organization.

The high school auditorium has a limited seating capacity and it might be necessary to present the play twice if the advance sale of tickets is indicative of the S. B. O. sign. This place was selected because its stage is well equipped for presenting dramatic productions.

I was invited up to Eastland chapel yesterday afternoon along with Mr. Fitzner and Milton Lawrence. My fame as a public speaker had no doubt preceded me, because I was called on to make a pep speech. In fact all three of us were called upon and we made speeches that will live on to inspire the grandchildren of the Maverick Freshmen. If Eastland really win it will not be for lack of speaking in chapel. John Mouser probably made the best speech of the bunch when he cautioned the boys to grab a handful of tall feathers every time an Eagle came within reach.

Little Miss Ellen Ayres Wright of Gordon played four numbers on the violin. If Oscar Highfiter (parson phometic spelling) had played to those school kids, his classic numbers would have gone clear over their heads. But the sight of a little kid barely old enough to enter school and up there knocking the sox off some tough tunes that it is supposed to take years to learn to play is enough to make anybody sit up and take notice. The child has poise, confidence, good intonation and when she drags her bow down, you can tell she means business. She is well worth hearing, which is more than you can say of the average child prodigy.

You may think it's talent, or inherited ability when a child can play like that. Not so, however, it's work. Her teacher, Miss Drago, tells me that the child averages practicing more than three hours daily and that she practiced six hours one day this week. Of course my dear customer it is not likely that you want to learn to play the violin, but whatever you do want to accomplish can be accomplished by working as hard at it as little Ellen Ayres Wright works to master her violin.

There's a whole hangar full of lighter-than-air ships at the Lakeshore, N. E., Naval Air Station here. And in this picture you see how the giant dirigible Akron, greatest of the world's flying crafts, looks in its berth beside the smaller, veteran Los Angeles. The Akron, seen here at the end of its first long flight from its factory at Akron, Ohio, fills one side of the hangar to within 15 feet of the end. The new mobile mooring mast, shown in the foreground, was reported to have functioned perfectly in landing the air Goliath.

Where Capone "Marks Time"

Here is Cook county jail, Chicago, where Al Capone, gang chieftain, is awaiting appeal of his case to the United States supreme court. The arrow indicates his cell, and within the arrow is a picture of the top floor, rear, where his cell is located. It was in this cell that he was greeted by his body guard, Philip D'Andrea, who was held for carrying a loaded pistol into court. Upper right is Warden David Money-penny, Capone's keeper.

Birth and Death Records Will Be Matter of Record

Texas birth and death records will, hereafter, be transcribed for the federal government and the U. S. Bureau of the Census will compute and publish the Texas statistics, it has been announced.

Texas was the last state in the union to reach her goal in birth and death registration. In order to secure this registration some slight changes were made in the adopted form of death certificate.

Mrs. John Matthews, registrar of births and deaths for Eastland precinct No. 1, makes the following report for September:

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT, United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS.—Which is it really—do smart people make fashions, or do fashions make people smart? Well, if you ask me, it is a pretty general opinion that it takes both to truly launch a style. It is human nature for the mob to follow the dictates of a few—and those same few, if they actually are smart, will choose the styles that enhance their best features and foreshadow their less desirable ones.

I know some couturiers who say they could almost scream when some of their customers insist on having a model that is not their type at all, and by insisting on having the dress they ruin, not only the perfect lines of the frock, but also the woman in it is unhappy because she looks anything but smart. Then she comes back later angry and asks: "Why did you let me get that dress? You know better!"

There are other people who can hang a basement bargain dress on their exquisite figures and look like a million dollars. It is just a gift with them, and if they haven't much money they at least don't have to worry about how they look. The truth is, if you are naturally smart you can make fashions, if not then you can make fashions make you smart.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—There will always be speculation now as to what kind of a senator Dwight Morrow would have made had he lived.

His brilliant record elsewhere caused him to be considered one of the two or three outstanding statesmen in Congress. His success as a financier, diplomat, international negotiator, as a friend and adviser of two presidents and in most else that he undertook ranked him high among the public men of this country.

Although he served through an entire session, his death leaves the capital wondering whether he would or would not have achieved a splendid senatorial career such as might have led him to the presidency in 1934. For in the few months during which he sat in the Senate he effaced himself as far as possible from the public eye. He sat, listened and ran around backstage asking questions. But he introduced not a single bill and made not even a one-sentence speech. And those who had expected him to raise a new liberal voice on Capitol Hill saw him vote each and every time to support the administration in any matter of controversy.

PERHAPS, if he had lived, he would have distinguished himself as a fighting champion for an administration which needs one sorely in the next session. Those who think so saw him emerge as one of the great conservative Republican senators such as dot the past, a breed presently extinct. They saw him five years from now as the logical man to succeed either Hoover or a Democratic president, believing that the time would then certainly be ripe for the election of a leader as wet as Morrow declared himself last year in New Jersey.

Of course there were others who thought Morrow—who solved the Mexican unemployment, saved the London naval conference from collapse and helped importantly to guide Hoover in recent critical international situations—was definitely out of his element in the Senate, fitted best for behind the scenes maneuvers and never likely to rise much above the level of the ordinary standpat senator. . . . The mystery is now insoluble.

GOVERNOR THEODORE ROOSEVELT of Porto Rico, here lately, confirmed some of the weird stories which deal with his early attempts to master the Spanish language on the island to the point where he could make a speech in it.

For instance, the time he was on the island trying to tell a few thousand Porto Ricans that he had four children and only succeeded in assuring them that he had "given birth to four children."

Whereupon, according to the governor, President Sanchez Morales of the Porto Rican Senate broke in and shouted:

"All things are possible in the tropics!"

Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, who is the most lugubrious-looking member of the cabinet, is always making wisecracks about something or other.

He is just back from the west, after traveling extensively over the government's public lands and looking over various federal projects. He was so impressed by the number of jack rabbits on the domain under his jurisdiction that he returned with the boast:

"I am the king of the jack rabbits!"

William Allen White's reported intention that he joined the Hoover-Gifford unemployment committee so as to be in better position to criticize it recalls the prominent member who drifted out from one of the widely ballroomed and supposedly important committee meetings and was asked by the correspondents what was going on in his mind.

"Don't quote me," he said, "but I've just a lot of sublimated blarney."

A new type of automobile now being built in England, will be almost entirely rubber-sprung. Specially prepared rubber of high elasticity and endurance will be employed to dispense with metal springs.

Gummed-paper tape placed over the ends of curtain rods helps slipping them through the horns of the curtains, and prevents tearing the fabric. A thimble slipped over the end of the round metal rod will serve the same purpose.

Hallowe'en Party is Lavish Affair.

Never before was the attractive home of Mrs. O. G. Lanier, Pine street, more beautiful in a setting of chrysantheums, roses, cosmos and fern, than yesterday when members of Child Study Club No. 1 entertained in honor of Club No. 2 with a Hallowe'en affair from 2:30 until 5 o'clock.

The immense living room together with the dining room and boudoir was arranged in a manner to have the appearance of one spacious room. Decorations for these rooms were a brilliant array of Hallowe'en color hues.

Stepping into the living room greeted by a witch garbed in a typical witch's costume, one soon entered into the true spirit of the occasion. Shaded lights marked the rooms at intervals, casting colorful rays across the massive arrangement of flowers filling floor and table vases.

Tall sprays of greenery fashioned in a fan-shape embedded with bursting blossoms added an artistic touch to the floral setting. Members responsible for the lavish background of unusual charm were Mrs. J. A. Bronson, Mrs. F. A. Wagner, Mrs. C. O. Bolin and Mrs. Lanier.

Centering the dining table covered with an exquisite lace cloth was an ornate container filled with golden-toned daisies, shooting in graceful angles. Mound for the buffet afforded a pretty picture formed of white and pink roses intermingled with fern runners and flanked on either side with silver candlesticks.

In various corners of the rooms one viewed pot ferns with their brightness emphasized by console table lamps. With all shades closely drawn the chandeliers adorned with clusters of mistletoe doilies, with bulbs of glow and green the scene was not to be forgotten soon by the host of guests.

Marking the division between the rooms hung crepe streamers of black and orange in V-shape lengths.

The function was one of color in choice variety, with party guests wearing costumes representing characters of many kinds, combined with a lot of cast-off finery, velvets and plumes.

Further stressing the holiday's colors in an attractive way the drapes in living and dining rooms were designed, with hand-made black cats, jack-o-lanterns, and other symbols of the Hallowe'en season. These decorations combined with vivid orange and black were observed decorations and black were observed decorations and black were observed decorations.

OUT OUR WAY

THE HUNTER

Plates of pumpkin pie, coffee and dainty cups filled with mints repeating the colors featured were passed, drawing the entertainment to a climax. This compliment will long be remembered as one of the most successful and pleasant events ever to have been given by Club No. 1.

Elks Dance Furnishes Gay Entertainment During Evening.

The colored orchestra of Rhythm Stompers playing for the dance given at the Elks club last evening, helped to spell success another time for the entertaining committee. Greetings were extended throughout the evening by various Ranger and out-of-town guests. Among the dancers attending were many former Rangers, who always enjoy dropping in town for another Elks dance.

Guests from Breckenridge, Co., Eastland, Mineral Wells, Thurber and Abilene were enjoying the strains dispensed by the band. Casually glancing over the ones in attendance on saw Volney Day with a group of other Eastland friends, R. V. Davis of Breckenridge and party, and Bob Wilson of Abilene, one of Ranger's most loyal boosters, especially in football, and the city's activities.

Last evening's pleasant entertainment helped to set the stage for further functions to be given over the week-end, including a masquerade dance to be held at the Thurber club this evening.

Second Program on Study Held by New Era Club.

Members of the New Era club met at the Ranger high school on Wednesday afternoon holding their second lesson of the season with Mrs. H. L. Killingsworth leader.

An interesting course of lessons have been selected, taken from the University of Texas Extension library. Each member on the program gave her topic in an impressive way with a brief business period held during the hour.

Members of Church of Christ Entertained With Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davenport, entertainers of the members of the Church of Christ last evening with a delightfully planned Hallowe'en party held at their home, Blackwell road.

Decorations throughout the house were in colors of orange and black. Merry games were played with a special musical arrangement given by Charles Bobo, Edwin George Jr., and the host, Mr. Davenport.

A delicious plate of pumpkin pie, topped with whipped cream, and coffee was served. Mrs. Davenport was assisted in serving by Mrs. C. F. Hise, Mrs. Leola Martin, Mrs. Charles Belo, and Miss Ethel Williams.

Those enjoying this gay hour of Hallowe'en entertainment were Messrs. and Mrs. W. M. Myers, G. C. Love, E. E. Grey, J. G. Wheat, F. G. Head, Tom Burke, David Vanban McCleskey, Walter Edgington, J. E. Meroney, A. J. Hise, Edwin George Jr., Charles Bobo, W. B. Murray, and Mrs. Noah Bennett, W. B. Pool, B. D. Hettis, Carl Christian, Inez Vaughn, A. S. Williams, C. W. Peterson, T. N. Peterson, Jimmie Williams, Joe Tharpe, and Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Green, and Mr. C. F. Hise, Mr. C. O. Balin, and Rev. and Mrs. D. W. Nichol.

Lone Star Social Club Meets.

The Lone Star social club met this week at the clubroom with Mrs. F. Mayo and Mrs. John Bates co-hostesses.

The rooms were decorated in symbols of black cats, goblins and witches, suggestive of the holiday so widely celebrated.

One member was added to the club, Mrs. Vadin. Visitors for the afternoon were Mrs. Warden, Mrs. Burgess and Mrs. Mayo.

The club was announced to meet next Thursday instead of Wednesday, as it is a holiday.

Refreshments were served, repeating the color role in a pretty way. Mrs. Ventrone and Mrs. Whitley will entertain the club as joint hostesses on next Thursday afternoon.

chance for what seemed hours, while Dirk and Cornelia smoked and held low-voiced converse on the davenport.

"At last Cornelia rose. 'Drive you home, Con?' Dirk asked.

"No, thanks. Well, he'd asked, and perhaps that was all she wanted. And a moonlight drive with the bright-eyed Ethel for companion would have been our fruit anyway. No one mentioned the lighter, if it had ever existed.

Mary suffered Mrs. Rayther's good night kiss with good grace. She thought there was a shade more enthusiasm in that icy salute than usual, but she couldn't be sure.

Hatless, under the dim porch light, her coat laid lightly about her shoulders, she looked like a nice, sleepy child and not at all like the weary, emotion-worn woman of the world she was feeling. But she couldn't know that. No wonder that her future mother-in-law's eyes rested on her with unwonted gentleness. It was hard to remember at the moment just what those "undesirable" matters were that had steered her heart against the girl until now.

Mary caught the glance and thought ironically, "Wouldn't it be funny if she began to like me now that Dirk and I have quarreled?" Her heart was heavy with premonition. Dirk's absence all evening had utterly humbled her spirit. She was sure now that he had stopped loving her, that on the way home he was going to tell her their marriage would be a mistake. It was ridiculous, but how else could she explain his terribly changed manner? She climbed into the little coupe feeling like Marie Antoinette going to her doom.

But they did not quarrel—at least, not then. Dirk settled beside her with a comfortable sigh, adjusted the window, and gave her hand one hearty squeeze before setting the little engine to thundering.

"Sleepy?" he asked.

Mary murmured assent.

"Well, don't go to sleep yet, kid. You and I have got a lot to talk about."

Mary's heart skipped a beat. Now what did that mean? They passed the Jupiter gates as if they had not been there and Mary saw that Dirk was guiding the car off the highway onto the small road that led to the Point, which overlooked the moonlit sea.
