CHINESE REPULSED IN LATEST FIGHT

HEAVY LOSSES ARE REPORTED ON BOTH SIDES

Admiral Taylor Reports Shells Fell In Settlement.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 9.—The Chinese infantry rushed Japanese artillery positions but was flung back after a serious attack late in today's terrific fighting along the 30-mile Shanghai-Wusong front.

The Chinese went "over the top" in the chapel sector just before dark. They came over in waves after a heavy artillery and machine gun barrage aimed advanced within 500 yards of the Japanese lines before sharp counter-fire forced them to drop back.

The Japanese rushed reinforcements from the flagship lying in the river. Their army and marine forces held their lines under the desperate Chinese rush but the tide of battle was in doubt until the reinforcements came into the front lines.

Heavy losses were reported on both sides. The Chinese advanced through the shell holes and blackened ruins of Chapel just over the border of the international settlement. Their artillery fire flung countless shells into the fringe of the foreign area. Many landed well within the boundary during a day of renewed terror.

To Speak Tonight

Charles H. Ingersoll, vice president of the Manhattan Single Tax club, who will address a joint meeting of the Ranger Lions and Rotary clubs tonight at 7.30.

C. H. Ingersoll To Speak At Ranger Meeting Tonight

Charles H. Ingersoll, vice president of the Manhattan Single Tax club of New York, is to address a joint meeting of the Ranger Lions and Rotary clubs at a special meeting to be held in the green room of the Gholson hotel tonight at 7.30.

Arrangements have been made by Al Larson, president of the Lions club, and is responsible for Mr. Ingersoll's appearance in the city. He has issued invitations to several of the business men and citizens of the town who have indicated an interest in the talk by Mr. Ingersoll, in order that they might be present at the meeting.

Mr. Ingersoll will speak on taxation problems of the nation and the state. He has, as vice president of the Manhattan Single Tax club, made an exhaustive study of tax problems and is considered one of the best informed men in the country on the subject. His talk is expected to be of particular interest at this time, when taxes and taxation has assumed the proportions of a major problem of the people of the country.

NEGRO'S BODY MOVED AS MOB IS GATHERING

NEWTON, Feb. 9.—Fear of mob violence prompted officers to spirit away the body of Caesar Powell, 32, negro, who was killed after he had slain Sheriff Dave C. Humphreys and E. A. Meadows last night in an attempt to break jail.

After officers had guarded the body of the negro in a locked cell when enraged citizens threatened to storm the jail and burn the body, the corpse was removed from the jail early today.

Where it was taken, officers refused to state, but said it would be buried quietly and secretly in order to allay the high feeling in the town as a result of the triple killing.

The negro, who was placed in the Newton county jail Monday after he had stabbed his wife, overpowered Constable R. Hamilton, Humphreys and Meadows were shot down as they rushed to Hamilton's aid.

HOLLOWAY AND TWO COACHES ARE REELECTED

At the regular monthly meeting of the Ranger school board, which was held Monday night, Prof. R. F. Holloway was re-elected superintendent of the Ranger public schools and Ecker Curtis and Trickey Ward were re-elected as coaches.

It was decided at the meeting that all principals of schools and all teachers would be elected at a later meeting of the board as there were many matters that were urgent that were to come before the meeting at this time for action.

Mills Recommends A Tax Increase

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Acting Secretary of the Treasury Mills today sent to the house ways and means committee revised estimates amounting to $1,241,000,000 would be necessary to balance the budget.

The administration program of tax increases, according to the revised estimate would fall $455,000,000 short of balancing the budget next year.

A. L. Charette Dies In Ranger After An Illness of Years

M. M. Charette, who has been ill for a number of years at his home in Ranger, died Monday night.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed this morning, but plans had been made to ship the body to Dallas at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and the funeral will be held in that city.

The deceased is survived by his widow and two sons and two daughters, Miss Josephine Charette, postoffice employe of Ranger; Mrs. J. E. Vernon of Dallas and George Charette.

The deceased has been a resident of Ranger for a number of years and has been in ill health during his entire residence here, having been confined to his bed a good part of the time.

Where 8 Died When Blizzard Trapped Plane

GUARDS ARE PLACED NEAR WINNIE'S CELL

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 9.—Winnie Ruth Judd, 27, today faced a mandatory penalty of death by hanging upon her conviction last night of the first degree murder of Agnes Annie Leroy.

Barring a successful appeal, the frail, attractive minister's daughter, will become the second woman to die on Arizona's gallows.

A jury of 12 men convicted Mrs. Judd of the murder of her former friend and fellow nurse after less than three hours deliberation without considering the insanity plea of the defendant.

Mrs. Judd received the verdict without a sign of emotion. A special guard was posted at her cell in fear the woman's unnatural calm bespoke a possible suicide attempt.

It Takes Time To Analyze All Writing Samples

A large number of people are answering the handwriting advertisement appearing in this paper and each mail brings in additional letters.

These letters are kept in this office for one week and the bundle of samples of handwriting accumulated in that time is then forwarded to the office of Lorne A. Milne at Chicago.

Upon receipt of these packages Mr. Milne immediately begins his analysis of the handwriting samples and writing the 300-word character analysis. This takes some time, but as soon as he has completed one bundle of handwriting samples, they are mailed direct to the individual.

If your handwriting analysis was supposed to be added on Feb. 1. This takes a little time and it will be returned to you as soon as is possible.

SHERIFF AND DEPUTIES SEIZE ANOTHER STILL

The sheriff's department started off the week by making Monday a real Blue Monday for two operators of illicit stills in the Cisco vicinity.

A visit to a farm five miles south of Cisco resulted in the capture of a still and 500 gallons of mash. The mash was poured out and the still brought in to town.

No arrests were made, the closest human beings to the still being some 200 yards away and denied any knowledge of the existence of the still.

Shortly before noon the sheriff and his party composed of himself, Steele Hill, Loss Woods and Tub Wilson walked up on a similar situation four miles west of Cisco. This time, however, the operator of the still had permitted his vigilance to lax and was in the act of pouring up a half-gallon jar when his visitors arrived.

He immediately jumped down the creek bank and waded through the water knee deep. His identity was known and he was not resisting the officers in the common understanding of the term, hence the officers did not shoot him in the back but permitted him to clear a path through the brush. He left his coat with identification papers in the pockets.

This raid resulted in the capture of the still and the pouring out of some 400 gallons of mash. The sheriff's department also found a trailer in which they loaded up the contraband distilleries and brought them to the courthouse.

EXTENSION ON SCHOOL TAXES TO BE ALLOWED

The members of the Ranger school board decided at the meeting held Monday night to grant an extension of 30 days on the payment of school taxes without adding the penalty and interest that was supposed to be added on Feb. 1. This action was taken so that as many as possible might get their taxes paid up before the penalty was added.

The board went on record as expressing their appreciation for the cooperation of the board and the tax collector have received in the payments on taxes in order that the schools might be kept open. The efforts on the part of the members of the school tax committee to stimulate interest in paying taxes were also endorsed.

A report was made that a home for C. A. Bolen, janitor of the Ranger high school, had been built on the corner of Elm and Hodges street and the board was requested to inspect the building.

Pastor Charges Atheism Being Taught in School

CANADIAN—New Palestine rapidly nearing completion.

LUBBOCK, Feb. 9.—Dr. Paul Horn, president of Texas Technological college, today awaited the return from Midland of Rev. R. C. Campbell before beginning an investigation of the pastor's charges that certain members of the college faculty are teaching Atheism and infidelity.

"I don't believe any person in this college is engaged in teaching atheism," Dr. Horn said. "But I prefer to make no statement at this time."

In his sermon at the First Baptist Church last Sunday night the Rev. Campbell accused "a department head and a group of professors of teaching atheism and infidelity." The minister reported a classroom conversation in which a student asked whether Joseph or God was the father of Christ, and was reported to have been answered, "I don't know, I was not there."

MOTHER AND HER CHILDREN DIE IN BLAZE

The mother, Mrs. Clara Roman, sacrificed her life in an attempt to save the five children. After she had carried five others to safety.

The fire broke out after the husband and father, a miner, had gone to work. Roman had returned to bed after getting her husband's breakfast.

Apparently awakened by smoke she called for help, then she plunged into the burning building and carried five of her 10 children to safety. Neighbors saw her enter the building again. That was the last seen of her: Five children ranging from 11 months to several years, burned.

GAIETY ENDS NEW ORLEANS MARDI GRAS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—Gay and boisterous throngs today filled the streets here in a last fling of gaiety before the Lenten season celebrating Mardi Gras.

The strangest of American festivities, which comes to a close tonight was ushered in with the official call of the Twelfth Night Krewe for that of the King and Queen of Comus, where they will be presented at court.

Only a few will see the coronation, for the society list of the city is rigidly checked for invitations to the Hall of the Krewe of Comus.

Other merrymakers will not lack fun tonight as night clubs, gambling casinos, speakeasies and other places of entertainment and hundreds of private parties will furnish amusement.

The high light of today's activities will come when Rex—glorious King of Carnival—rides his chariot down palm-lined St. Charles to Canal Street, the main business thoroughfare.

Queen of Carnival, who tonight will be given the royal jewels of New Orleans and reign over the last few hours of gaiety—which will end when the clock in old St. Louis Cathedral tolls midnight and the beginning of Lent.

For more than a century New Orleans has observed Mardi Gras, and records found reveal that Louisiana has known such a celebration at St. Martinville and Baton Rouge for more than 125 years.

Mardi Gras had its origin, according to legend, in the days of the Creole dandies, two centuries ago. Their youths, returning from their school days in Paris, and dined with nothing else to do, masked and went dancing through the streets on the Eve of Lent, in order to wake up the town.

Eastland County Red Cross Officers Will Be Elected

The meeting of the Eastland county chapter of the Red Cross, which is to be held in Cisco on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, has been called by J. E. Spencer of Cisco, county chairman, for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year and to hear of the program that has been planned for the year, according to a letter received today by J. E. Meroney, chairman of the Ranger chapter.

During the meeting, which is to be held at the Cisco Chamber of Commerce offices, a chapter chairman, treasurer, board of directors, chairman of departments and all other necessary officers are to be elected for the year.

Miss Mary Parr, national field representative of the Red Cross, will be present and will make a short address in which she will discuss the general policies of the national chapter and the activities of the organization for the ensuing year.

PEEPING THROUGH THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

This morning we quote Prexy Anderson of the Ableton News and the resolutions committee of the taxpayers association. Prexy says:

"Ranger will appear in an all-maron football array next fall. Bill Mayes says that Eck Curtis says about an hour of Mayes' time the other day telling him over and over how maroon the maroon suits are going to be. We suppose he wants to be maroon, but even if Mayes' time is valuable, the description must have been worth it—maroon pants, maroon jerseys, maroon headgear, and probably maroon shoe laces and nose guards."

THE WEATHER

West Texas—Partly cloudy to cloudy. Probably scattering showers tonight and Wednesday; colder in north portion Wednesday.

REOLUTIONS COMMITTEE OF THE TAXPAYERS ASSOCIATION

The resolutions committee of the taxpayers association is somewhat more verbose, probably because they are more to be verbose about, in its statement, which has been written by the resolutions committee imposed of Judge Langford of Cisco, M. C. Franklin of Eastland, F. Holloway of Ranger, W. A. G. of Carbon, and W. C. Couch of Bear Springs. It gives the aims of the association, and reads as follows:

"Inasmuch as there seems to be question in the minds of some as to what the Taxpayers association is, and having periodic meetings, it seems good to us to set forth in orderly fashion definite aims toward the accomplishment of which we shall direct our united efforts.

"We demand that any man who has our support in his candidacy for either house of the state legislature shall publicly agree to induce and support:

"1. A bill to abolish the fee item for all public offices in the state of Texas, and substitute for the paying of a reasonable salary to all servants of the state.

"2. A bill to abolish one of the tri-crooks in Eastland county.

"3. Whatever procedure may be necessary to consolidate, (a) the offices of county treasurer and county auditor; (b) the offices of tax collector and assessor.

"4. A bill for the transfer of a sufficient amount of gasoline tax to the respective counties of the state to be used in liquidating the added road debts.

"5. A bill providing for one assessor of property and for all roads.

"6. A bill to provide that only taxpayers on real estate shall have franchise in voting bond issues, kept for school purposes.

"7. Whatever procedure is necessary to tax vendor's lien notes, etc. of trust liens, bonds and other liens on properties in the ne category.

"We further demand that all officers of a corporation and the utilities companies shall be assessed at the same valuation that they claim as their basis in computing their percentage of profit."

Gold Rush To Furnish Jobless With Many Meals

By United Press.
JACKSONVILLE, Ore.—In the early 50's men and women of every type and profession stampeded into this then thriving city in one of the greatest gold rushes of northwest history.

Another such stampede is in prospect this spring, but the aim of those who wash and mine gold in the rush of '32 simply will be to make a living. Hardly anyone will expect the "big strike" that used to draw men into the hills with picks and pans.

Relief agencies and the county court of Jackson county plan to sponsor this new stampede. Those who know mining conditions say that they can wipe out involuntary unemployment in the Rogue river valley.

This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

The sheriff and his deputies had a regular picnic and log rolling with dinner on the grounds Monday. You know, it's quite a job to dig a bunch of mash barrels out of the ground and cut the staves off them. And the sheriff's department isn't allowed a laborer's crew to do such work. Steele and Virgo both ruined a suit of clothes from getting mash all over them.

They were rewarded to some extent, however. For when it came down they were right in the middle of the moonshiner's camp. Tub Wilson foraged around and dug up some home smoked bacon and country eggs from the moonshiner's mess kit and served a delicious lunch to the raiding party. 'Twas just like old times among the outlaw chasers.

The sheriff asked me to publish the fact that if the fellow they let get away happens to read this, he may get his coat and his poll tax so he can vote in the election and now he can't get his poll tax receipt without being arrested for running a still.

Late yesterday afternoon, Dick Phillips and I were drinking a coke at a certain soda fountain. (Name not mentioned because $3 not paid). Along comes Jack Lewis, a little Jack, not the old man. . . . Jack says he was mentally perturbed and physically unbalanced and he wondered if I wouldn't give him a few words of good cheer to sooth his seething nerves, thereby resting his tired muscles.

"You need go no further," say we. "We possess the key to happiness and the continuity thereof. Rest thine eyes upon our farefree faces; note our benign smiles; observe the complete relaxation and reckless abandon with which we drupe our carcasses over this soda counter as we sip off the carbonated beverage that sweetens the teeth, purifies digestion and relieves fatigue." In other words join us in a coke.

Then I related how I had just a few minutes before taken inventory of my quick assets and found that I had exactly 15 cents. A good friend of mine whom I was with at the time had a few cents more, as we decided to take what we both had and tie it up in a sock and hang it in a closet for good luck. That's how I happened to be drinking a coke with Dick.

It also reminded me of the time I was in Salt Lake City. I put my piccollo in soak for a dollar to get eating money, went into a joint and walked out the front door and threw that other four-bit piece as far as I could send it, walked a half a block and found a ten dollar bill on the sidewalk and haven't been hungry since.

Then we got to talking about fortune tellers and sack-eye-artists. Pardon me, that word wasn't in the blue back speller, but the accent is on the eye. Jack's gloom was gradually becoming dispelled and we retired to the sidewalk where we told a few smutty stories, discussed politics and poll tax payments and Newton D. Baker for president. Jack went home in good spirits, Dick and I went over and ate a few bites of food and fussed at each other over who'd get the last biscuit. And so, to bed, as McIntyre would, did and has said.

Deaf And Dumb Girl Is Awarded a French Degree

By GUS

PARIS—Overcoming the handicaps of being deaf and dumb since she was 12, Mlle. Suzanne Lavaud, 28, has just been awarded a Doctorate degree from the Sorbonne.

This is the first time that such a thing has occurred in the 700 years' history of the institution. Mlle. Lavaud, the daughter of the director of the Lycee Victor-Duruy, was a great encouragement to her daughter in helping to prepare for the honor she has just received.

"I know that with my handicap I cannot become a teacher," she said after she had passed her examination, "but I think I may be very useful in a library."

Her examiners were Professors Gaiffe, Mornet and Baldensperger, and her thesis was the work of "Marie Leneru and Her Theater."

"I understood M. Mornet better than the others because the light was better on his face and I could see what his lips said," she remarked.

Mlle. Lavaud lost her sight and hearing after an attack of measles when she was 12. She began learning lip-reading and the more difficult practice of making intelligible sounds through special education along with the same lines as used by Helen Keller.

Her examination was oral and the voice through which she conveyed the life story of Marie Leneru, a born deaf mute, who succeeded in having her plays produced at the Odéon and the Theatre Francaise, was entirely unheard by her own ears. It was rather colorless and mechanical but distinctly audible.

She gave spirited answers to the questions put to her, and in her enthusiasm for her daughter's responses her mother, Mme. Lavaud applauded several times with the others who were astounded at her alertness.

Roosevelt's climb to political fame has been rapid. As assistant secretary of the navy during the World war he experienced many harrowing experiences—including a jaunt through "No Man's Land" while battle was being waged. He crossed the Atlantic on a destroyer when all United States vessels were fearing attacks from German submarines.

When the governor was appointed assistant secretary of the navy in 1913 by President Woodrow Wilson his immediate task was to reorganize the business of the service. He was praised by Wilson for his work.

In 1920 when he was a vice presidential candidate along with James M. Cox of Ohio, his addresses in that campaign were termed masterful by his friends. From then until now he has been a power in the Jeffersonian party.

From his vice presidential candidacy he stepped into the governor's chair in 1928. He was re-elected in 1930 by the greatest majority ever accorded a candidate in the state.

Like "T. R." Franklin D. Roosevelt is, in many ways, like Theodore Roosevelt. Like "T. R.," Roosevelt has studied American history strenuously. Both were outdoor men. The governor's hobby is birds. The former president's was big game.

Of the farmer he once said: "People in the country have time to think and their fathers and mothers were thinkers. And no made about how many jokes may be told about the country men who sit around the stoves in the village postoffices and settle the affairs of the nation—these men themselves are not jokes. They think. They take time to think."

Roosevelt Faces Turning Point In Political Career

By PAUL H. KING, United Press Staff Correspondent, ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Again the hat of a Roosevelt reposes in the presidential arena.

Inbued with much of the vigor that whisped his illustrious cousin, "Teddy" to the white house—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York stands at a turning point of a long political career.

Another Step. Governor Roosevelt laid down an active business and professional career to become a candidate for governor. He is vice president of the Fidelity and Deposit company of Maryland and the president of several years he has been president of the American Construction Council.

He has headed the Boy Scout Foundation of Greater New York since 1922. In 1926 he acted as chairman of the New York drive for the American Legion.

Jovial and good natured, he numbers among his many friends senators and representatives in the New York state legislature who are of a different political complexion.

How Young Lady's Health Improved

By GUS

THOUSANDS of cases, like those below, have been reported in which better health followed the use of CARDUI by women:

"When I was a young girl," Mrs. W. H. Quinn, of Milton, "I was run-down and in bad health. I was delicate, thin and pale. I was nervous at times. My mother of Cardui and thought it would do good for me to take it. I took three bottles and my health was a great deal. My mother was very anxious for me to take it. I kept on taking it until I was 15 years old. I give her credit for my health. I have never been run-down since. I feel like a new woman."

Many a young lady has been unable to suffer because her doctor knew about Cardui.

Here's the Way to Control Those Miserable Colds So Prevalent Here Now

WITH scattered cases of flu breaking out in this locality, don't take chances with colds NOW—it's too dangerous! Unless checked quickly, colds end to pull down the body resistance and may pave the way for an attack of flu with all its serious complications. Your safest protection is in the Vick Plan for better "Control of Colds."

This Plan has been developed by the makers of Vicks VapoRub, the modern way of "treating" colds. It is made possible with Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, based on a new idea for "preventing" colds. These two aid and supplement each other in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds," which follows:

- BEFORE A COLD STARTS—Watch yourself whenever you have been exposed to anything that your own experience tells you is apt to give you a cold, such as—contact with others having fresh colds—stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, crowded public places—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold. Then—if you feel that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages, Nature's usual signal that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose Drops at once. Just a few drops up each nostril. Repeat every hour or so if needed. These simple precautions will prevent many colds by checking them before they get beyond the nose and throat—where most colds start.
- AFTER A COLD STARTS—If a cold slips by these precautions, do not neglect it. Rest as much as possible, preferably in bed. Take a mild laxative. Eat lightly. Drink lots of water. At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub. (If there is much congestion, first reddens the skin with hot, wet towels.) Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising may be inhaled freely all night long. If the air-passages are clogged with mucus or there is much coughing, melt a teaspoonful of VapoRub in a bowl of hot water and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes. (If the throat is dry and "tickling," or irritated from coughing, use Vicks Cough Drops—medicated with Vicks VapoRub). During the day—any time, any place—use the convenient Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment to reduce the severity and duration of the cold.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beautiful Ellen Rossiter, a salesgirl in Barclay's Department store, lives with her mother, Molly Rossiter, her elder sister, Myra, and her young brother, Mike. Myra, who supports the family, Molly, who spends money saved to help her, Ellen tries to get a job in a store and learns that she cannot have an evening dress. She goes to a store, Steven Barclay, her employer, sees her crying and offers her a dress. Ellen proudly wears it but agrees to borrow a white frock. Ellen dines with Barclay and leaves her to Dreamland where she meets her. Tony, another of

Ellen and Larry bumped into a couple who had stopped for a passionate embrace. Ellen felt again that she would weep. She did not know quite why. But she knew that if Larry Smith attempted to embrace her in that furtive darkness something shining and young and beautiful would be gone forever. At the same time she knew that if he drew her close, close to him she could not resist.

"I don't seem to care much for this," he ventured at length, uncomfortably. And then abruptly, with no preliminaries, he asked, "What are you doing here?"

Ellen experienced a lightness and buoyancy of spirit as though something she feared had been passed. All at once she was able to laugh at herself. What a mad fool she had become. All of her values seemed changed. So much depended tonight upon so little.

She saw that Larry was watching her face as he waited for her to answer. She gestured toward a sign on the wall.

"They had to dance through the crowd and to the outskirts so that he could read. His own gray eyes lighted when he read that hostesses when dancing were limited in conversation to "yes" and "no."

"Do you like me a lot?" he inquired promptly.

Ellen feared that he would discern the swift hammering of her heart. She felt the color creeping into her face.

"Go on, tell me," he urged. "Yes or no?"

So he thought he would tease her?

He looked disconcerted and then he added sheepishly, "Well that one seems to have been on me. So you think I'm taking an unfair advantage?"

"Yes!"

The second "yes" was emphatic and pointed. Their laughter rang out again.

"Well, what do you say," he suggested, "if we leave the music to those as likes it more? I want to talk."

They were at a table and barely seated before he asked the second time, "What are you doing here?"

"Learning my living."

"Do you really mean that?"

He was plainly startled. She had on the tip of her tongue a tart retort and she observed that he was studying her dress. She had forgotten Steven Barclay until then—forgot that she was at Dreamland, forgotten everything except that she was 29 years old and that life had become for her a thrilling and rose-hued miracle.

"Certainly I mean it," she replied.

There was no reason why she should explain to this young stranger how it happened that she was able to wear a Paris gown. It was impossible for her to do so. She had a passionate desire that he should know nothing of her responsibilities, of the care and fretting trouble which had shadowed her youth. She wanted only to laugh and to forget everything else. To him she must stand for gaiety, for careless and irresponsible fun.

He was not Steven Barclay. How did she know how quickly she might, by any hasty or misjudged attempt to precipitate him into her life, turn that eager look into the expression of boredom that she had seen before.

She did not amplify her bare statement.

He was checked.

"Did you believe me," he asked after a pause, "when I told the manager my name was Smith?"

"If you say it's Smith," Ellen observed irrelevantly, "then it must be Smith."

"Yes!"

Her tone was clear, her eyes lucid and innocent. It was the young man's turn to flush.

"I'm afraid you won't understand," he began uncomfortably before that lurid gaze, "but anyhow I must explain. My name isn't Smith. When I said it was I hadn't decided."

"Whether or not you'd trust me with the secret," Ellen supplied smoothly.

She was not offended. Larry drew a breath of relief.

"You're being darn nice about it," he said. "Well, anyhow my name is Larry. Larry Harrowgate, age 27, occupation artist or sorts, prospects nothing."

"I'm to take that as a warning?"

"If you want to take it that way."

They both laughed ecstatically.

"No, but seriously," he presently resumed in a voice which he tried hard to make brisk and sensible, "did you mean what you said—out on the floor? Do you really like me?"

"Seriously," she answered dutifully, although she still bubbled with excitement and laughter, "I do."

"Then that's that," he observed in satisfaction. "We're through with all the preliminaries. Now we can settle down and really get to know each other."

They were interrupted by a waiter demanding their order. Larry confessed to a ravenous appetite and not even Ellen's warning that the food might be had prevented him from selecting almost everything on the bill of fare.

When the waiter withdrew he began to rally her.

"What's wrong with you?" he inquired solicitously. "Are you a canary bird? I never saw a girl before who wouldn't eat on the slightest provocation."

"I didn't want to order anything," Ellen confessed in growing embarrassment, "because I get a percentage on what you pay."

"You foolish youngster! I wouldn't think you were a profiteer even if you'd ordered a diamond necklace. I couldn't have paid for it but then—you'll have to eat half of mine."

But when the food arrived, sandwiches and cakes and a bowl of steaming chow mein, decorated with slivers of chicken, neither wanted to eat. They wanted to dance again and again, to dance forever or until they dropped from exhaustion. Like children on a holiday they skylarked about the floor. Again and again they discovered with pleased and excited exclamations how well their steps fitted. Amazing, thrilling to change quickly from the languorous grace of the tango to the rowdy breathless complications of the outmoded Charleston—amazing to dance with someone who moved almost as you moved.

The whole day had been the most exciting of Ellen's life. She almost hoped it would never end. But the ending, when it came, was sweetest of all.

"You make a big difference to me," Larry summarized it with simple fervor. "Just finding you, Ellen, has made my summer for me."

"I'm—I'm glad you found me."

"We'll go places and see things, won't we—you and I? We'll have fun, won't we? What do you say, Ellen?"

"Oh, grand," she murmured.

REMARKABLE BARGAINS DURING MORNING SHOPPING HOUR

Now that winter is passing and spring is approaching, it is time for new fashions and what a relief to know all of your many needs can so easily be taken care of right here in Ranger.

While doing a bit of morning shopping the following window displays beckoned in such an inviting manner, I immediately dropped in and began asking all sorts of questions, regarding the lovely and useful merchandise the Ranger merchants are offering.

"Heart of the Dollar Event" certainly is stressed in a most remarkable way, through the darling house dresses at J. C. Penney's, all finished in pretty pastel colors, with short sleeves, just the thing for morning house work.

Good looks aren't always luck Sparkling eyes and a smooth complexion depend on good health. The beautiful woman guards against constipation. She knows this condition can cause headaches, sallow skin, dull eyes, pimples, premature aging.

Protect yourself from constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much safer than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily—in serious cases, with every meal—will correct most types of constipation. If your trouble is not relieved in this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or use in cooking. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek
