COMMITTEE VOTES TO OUST LOBOES

Ranger Youth Killed In Automobile Accident

GRIPINGS

By GUS

This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

F. N. Hansen and Bill Paschall formed a reception committee for me when I entered the store Saturday and proceeded to raise heck with me for not mentioning in their ad in Friday's paper the fact that Peacock shoes are also in that group selling at a reduced price.

And so, I'll tell you all here and now that Peacock shoes are included. I guess all my customers wear shoes. Many of them are invested in ladies' shoes. Some of them own their shoes and others have their shoes paid for. But if you're interested in Peacock shoes, I'm sorry that I forgot to put it in their ad. Next time I'll try to read their mind better.

A crew of men was at work Friday night giving the streets of Eastland a bath. That's one thing his column has been advocating for more than two months. The streets look lots better and ought to be kept clean. They shouldn't be permitted to get in such a mass as they were.

In passing I want to correct a statement that Bill Mayes made in his column yesterday. It's all right for him to tell about it being his birthday, but his threat to buy himself a coke was a little premature. The cake was actually bought by ye Griper. Credit to those whom credit is due; that's my motto.

This morning I was handed a clipping concerning the milk bill of President Hoover. The white house uses 24 quarts of milk and 12 pints of whipping cream daily. It costs $12.35 a day, which is about $4,500 a year.

That's too much. At 40 cents a pint the whipping cream would come to $4.80. At 10 cents a quart the milk would be $2.40, making a total of $7.20. That makes the president pay $5.15 a day too much for his milk bill.

Now, it may be that the milk for the president's table must come from especially contented cows, fed on specially prepared foods and a lot of precautionary measures which increase the cost of anybody who uses that much milk should have a cow of their own. I am not so sure that one cow would give enough milk to meet those requirements, but I'm not a dairyman. Anyway, the president's milk bill can't be more than my salary that I shouldn't even worry about it.

See where some woman is suing triply for a half a million dollars. Driskill on the subject, he says that if I had taken his advice four years ago, I'd be so rich by now that I'd be having to fight a few bunches of promise suits myself. And so, I give you a job as my manager and you handle the business end of my writings and I'll handle the writing part of your business and we'll both get rich and be comparatively short time.

So now, that my business worries are practically solved, you can watch out for some column. You know, a fellow can't concentrate his mind on writing a column if the same mind is distracted with such little matters as how bad he needs a suit of clothes and his shirts are all dirty except what's in the laundry and there's 90 reasons at a cent per reason why he can't get a clean shirt. Then there are other distracting factors, such as well, you know.

But with a good manager, everything is jake. He sells your stuff and keeps the books and collects for it and gives you some of the money. He takes all advantages of the third party psychology of self praise. For instance, I just know I'm the best in the world but it doesn't sound so well for me to say so. Consequently, I hire a manager and tell him how good I am and he goes out and tells other people and they believe him, whereas they would just laugh at me.

It won't be long now until automobile salesmen will resume giving me the rush act. Investment bankers will be telling me where to put my surplus money so it will be easier for them to get at it. I'll have a pent house apartment on top of some tall building built especially for the purpose of supporting my pent house apartment. My valet will bow and scrape to me and ask which one of my 50 suits of clothes I'll wear this morning. Now, my customers, (Continued on page 2)

YOUTH ADMITS RUNNING OVER THE DEAD BOY

Is Identified As C. H. Simpson By Markings In His Clothing.

O. H. Simpson, about 15 years old, of Ranger, was run over by a car and killed about 8 o'clock Saturday night. The body was not at first identified, but his name was found in his coat and his parents notified.

L. K. Jay, who resides at 1219 Spring road, Ranger, was going to town when he found the body of Simpson lying near the curb on Young street. He immediately notified Chief of Police Jim Ingram, who called Justice of the Peace McFatter. A verdict of death by an automobile was rendered.

Later in the night Leon Stroud, who drives a car for Dr. Bob Hodges, went to the police station and told the chief of police that he had run over the boy. He said in his statement, according to police, that he was so frightened when his car struck the boy that he drove into town. As soon as he had time to think, he told police, he went to the police station and told officers that he had run over the boy.

He was locked up in the city jail on charges of negligent homicide and his bond was set by Justice of the Peace McFatter at $500. He is to be bound over for the grand jury, which will meet sometime in March. He had not made bond Saturday night.

The body of the boy who was killed was brought to town by a Killingsworth-Cox ambulance and placed in the morgue.

How Church Celebrated Pope's Ten Years in the Vatican

Impressive services in historic St. Peter's Cathedral, Rome, are shown in this photograph as high dignitaries of the church celebrated the tenth anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XI. The Pope is seen upon his throne (in center of picture), surrounded by 22 Cardinals, amidst scenes of ancient grandeur.

BANDIT SLAIN; THREE SHOT AT FLORIDA CLUB

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27.—Five bandits who attempted to hold up the fashionable Embassy club here early today, shot it out with employees and guests leaving the bandit leader dead, three of the men wounded and one guest and two employees injured.

T. Phillip Perkins, former British amateur golf champion, who had been playing in a tournament, was shot in the hip by one bandit who tried to escape by using him as a shield.

The member of the holdup gang killed, reported from Chicago, was not identified.

George Myers, Tulsa, Okla., and Gene Eckman were the bandits seriously wounded. Another was wounded, less seriously, and escaped.

More than 75 patrons in the main dining room of the club at the time of the robbery, well past midnight, were thrown into a panic when the masked bandits, armed with sawed-off shotguns, pistols and rifles, entered from the kitchen.

Policemen J. G. Davis and Mack Oakford were among those ordered to "stick 'em up."

Two of the gang were left as guards in the dining room while the other two went into the gambling room of the club.

The two left in the dining room apparently became frightened and started to follow their companions. As they turned, Policeman Oakford fired. In the gambling room more than 100 guests were lined up against the wall.

The gang broke in an attempt to escape. The club employees joined in the gun battle.

Follies Beauty Sues Pickford

When Mary Mulhern left the Ziegfeld "Follies" for married life with Jack Pickford, screen actor, she soon discovered her folly, she charges in a divorce suit at Los Angeles. Pickford is a brother of Mary Pickford, Miss Mulhern said he "found fault, nagged and criticized her in a cruel manner." She said she once was forced to flee from home at night to escape him.

The prisoner said he was a native of Mississippi, where his father was a physician.

FORGER HELD AFTER POSING AS PHYSICIAN

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 27.—A. G. Thomas, 40, Galveston ship worker, was held here today on a forged charge after posing as Dr. J. C. Carter, prominent Marshall, Texas, physician, here and at Abilene, Denton and other points.

At Abilene authorities say Thomas gave C. M. Collier, superintendent of the West Texas Baptist hospital, a draft for $2,259 for the institution, "upon behalf of the deceased mother-in-law" of the Marshall physician.

He then asked Collier to cash a personal check for several hundred dollars, but the superintendent, his suspicions aroused, refused and the man departed. Collier then verified his suspicions by a call to Dr. Carter, who was in Marshall and not Abilene.

Thomas was arrested and charged with forgery here after cashing a $10 check, bearing Dr. Carter's name.

Policeman Dick Morris said Thomas admitted posing as Dr. Carter and said he attempted it because an acquaintance at Galveston told him the physician was well known. Morris said recollections of Thomas as having served terms in Georgia and California prisons.

WOLTERS DENIES ORDERS TO SHOOT

KILGORE, Texas, Feb. 27.—Brigadier General Jacob F. Wolters, commanders of national guardsmen in the East Texas oil field, today denied that troopers guarding wells closed at Overton last night had been ordered to "shoot to kill."

"It is not true," said the general. "Soldiers on duty are under orders to be governed by the same law that governs peace officers—to shoot only to protect life and property."

All members of the various clubs in the association have been invited to be present at the business meeting and to join in the golf matches in the afternoon.

A big year for the association is predicted.

The hearing will be before a three-judge court similar to that which recently held martial law as applied in the East Texas field invalid.

Poet Laureate of State Appointed

HOUSTON, Feb. 27.—Judd Mortimer Lewis, Houston Post columnist and former steno-typist, chosen today to the state's first poet laureat, wrote a verse called "Acknowledgment" in commemoration when informed of his appointment. The verse:

"With my heart such a mixture of pride and humility,
There is no medium—no way
Through which I may express
By word or deed, my conscientious need of her great kindness."

Capone Conviction Confirmed By Court

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—The United States circuit court of appeals today affirmed the conviction of Al Capone on charges of income tax fraud.

Capone was convicted last fall and sentenced to 11 years in prison and fined $50,000. His attorneys appealed on the ground that the indictments were faulty.

WOOL RAISERS PLAN SPRING CLIP SELLING

Directors of the Oil Belt Sheep and Goat Raisers association met in the office of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce Saturday afternoon to discuss plans for the marketing of the wool clip this spring.

The Oil Belt association has had a good record in handling and preparing the wool and mohair for the market and an effort is to be made this year to continue the high standard that has been set. It was said by Ben Whitehouse, secretary of the association.

Notification has been received from San Angelo that a shipment of approximately 3,000 pounds of wool has been sent to Ranger from near Colorado and that other shipments will be sent as soon as clips have been made.

Upon arrival at Ranger the wool will be stored in the building formerly occupied by the Western South Grocery company, where it will be kept until the shipment is made to the eastern markets.

The raisers will be given an advance against their wool and mohair equal to the market price as soon as it is stored in Ranger and the remainder of the money to be obtained from the sale will be allotted as soon as the crop is marketed.

RECOMMENDATION IS MADE TO STATE COMMITTEE THAT CISCO BE BARRED FOR ONE SEASON

Motion To Have Oil Belt Team Disbarred From Participation In Interscholastic Football Is Result of Famous Hightower Case.

H. S. Von Roeder, principal of the Ranger High school, who attended the meeting of the Oil Belt Executive Committee meeting in Abilene Saturday in place of R. F. Holloway, who was unable to attend, said upon his return to Ranger that the executive committee had passed a motion to recommend to the State Executive Committee that Cisco be suspended from participation in interscholastic athletics for one year.

MERONEY TO HEAD DRIVE ON HOARDERS

W. D. Conway, president of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, has received a telegram from John Knox of Chicago, chairman of President Hoover's committee to coax hoarded dollars back into circulation, in which he urges the co-operation of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce in aiding in this work.

J. E. Meroney has been appointed by Mr. Conway as chairman of the Ranger committee and he will make the appointment of his co-workers within the next few days. Mr. Meroney's name has been filed with John Knox as chairman of the Ranger committee, as well as with P. Hestert of Fort Worth, state chairman.

The telegram from Mr. Knox reads:

"The public press has told the story of the Feb. 6 conference called by President Hoover to get $1,500,000,000 in hidden money back into circulation, this to be accomplished by a nation-wide organization of all inclusive community units, built around local chambers of commerce for the sale of government securities and recall the Liberty loan drives in importance.

"Full data will be furnished you later. Kindly get in touch with your state chairman, A. P. Barrett of Fort Worth, and proceed immediately to effect your organization. This offers your chamber the most outstanding opportunity since the war for performing patriotic service in aiding the return of prosperity. Kindly wire name of your local chairman."

CHILD WELFARE REPORTS SHOW ACTIVE CLUB

The Child Welfare club of Ranger met Saturday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock in an important meeting at which much enthusiasm was shown by the members.

At the meeting held on Jan. 28 the following officers were elected to take office in June: President, Mrs. Pete Jensen; first vice president, Mrs. W. D. Conway; second vice president, Mrs. Amy Anderson; secretary, Mrs. P. M. Kuyken; treasurer, Mrs. John Thurmond; press reporter, Mrs. Ed Crawford.

Four new members, Mrs. Jake Ralston, Mrs. B. H. Peacock, Mrs. C. G. King, and Mrs. Clyde Davis, were elected, bringing the total number of members to 25. Under the efficient leadership of Mrs. Jensen the club is progressing nicely. Investigating all cases reported and trying to answer every worthy call and giving aid in every way possible.

A used clothes store is maintained at Mrs. Saunders' home. The demand for clothing and shoes is great. A total of 75 people were outfitted from this store in December alone and several new suits were given to high school boys and which were donated by a Ranger merchant.

Mrs. W. D. Conway is the chairman of the investigating committee. With so many out of employment and so much illness, she devotes almost all her time to the worthy cause. She made about 500 calls last year and issued 306 orders for groceries as well as issuing many orders for medicine and clothing.

Last year the club was particularly active, according to the secretary's report, which shows that Mrs. Conway gave 69 orders for medicine and made a total of 95 calls. The total bills for January amounted to $197.53.

The retiring treasurer, Mrs. G. E. Haslam, gave a good report of the finances of the year. A total of $1,156 was spent for charity, the report showed.

Mrs. George Armstrong, the nurse employed by the club, has been working hard with flu, scarlet fever and other contagious diseases in the school.

Mrs. L. H. Fiewellen, the financial chairman, turned in a splendid and complete report of the drive put on in the fall. The liberal amount of this drive showed the fine spirit of the Ranger citizens.

Mrs. Barney Carter, chairman of the board of control, and all the other officers and members showed an eagerness to help Mrs. Jensen in any way possible.

Anyone having used clothes they would like to give to the Child Welfare club at any time is urged to deliver it to Mrs. Saunders' home, 425 Pine street, and it will be given to some worthy family that can make use of it.

MEXICAN BOYS ATTEMPT TO WRECK PASSENGER TRAIN

SEGUIN, Texas, Feb. 27.—Cho Garin and Nichols Medina, both 14 years old, and sons of prominent Mexican families near here, today were on probation in the custody of their parents after having trespassed across the rails as a prank. A few minutes later the crack Sunset Limited thundered down the track. The engineer applied the brakes and slowed the train to 40 miles an hour before the engine plowed into the barricade. The locomotive kept on the rails.

No charges were filed against the lads.

GLASS-STEAGALL BILL IS SIGNED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—President Hoover today signed the Glass-Steagall credit bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—President Hoover's war against the depression gained another objective today when he signed the Glass-Steagall bill designed to expand the country's currency and further loosen credit.

The bill means that the treasury can put out as much as $3,500,000,000 in new money. It means that credits can be expanded in industry and commerce up to $10,000,000,000. Idle gold in the treasury will be put to work to this end.

The President described the bill as a "national defense measure" in a statement he followed up his frequent assertion that the nation was practically at war against the depression and that war-time emergency measures are needed.

WOLTERS DENIES ORDERS TO SHOOT

KILGORE, Texas, Feb. 27.—Brigadier General Jacob F. Wolters, commanders of national guardsmen in the East Texas oil field, today denied that troopers guarding wells closed at Overton last night had been ordered to "shoot to kill."

"It is not true," said the general. "Soldiers on duty are under orders to be governed by the same law that governs peace officers—to shoot only to protect life and property."

The ABC's of Gardening

If You Wish an Outdoor Living Room Next Summer—Plan Now

The old cliche on the mantel shelf is steadily ticking its way toward garden time and the garden lovers long for the feel and smell of the rich warm earth.

He is already planning a schedule of garden delights that starts with the melting of the snow and ends with the bite of next fall's first frost. Perhaps you, too, are planning and it is well for you to do so or there are many things to be considered before the spade first turns the black soil and the earthworm slides away from the light that intrudes upon its privacy.

The successful garden is the result of careful planning. The space to be allotted to vegetables and greens must be decided upon. Rows, borders, and banks of flowers must be laid out to insure beauty of arrangement and a succession of blooming that will keep the touch of color undimmed throughout the summer and early fall.

And if you would have a delightful outdoor living room for the enjoyment of family and friends next summer this is the time its arrangement, furnishings and decoration. Plants, garden furnishings and ornamental features make the outdoor living room inviting and comfortable, and no home is attuned to the mode of 1932 until the grounds are as livable as the house itself.

Any real estate dealer will tell you that an outdoor living room actually adds a great deal more to the value of your property than it costs, and unlike most things you buy, trees, shrubs and evergreens increase in cash value every year after planting.

The possibilities of the garden are endless and the problems met with in developing a productive yet attractive garden are such that they cannot be solved in a day. No better time is available for deciding upon the purposes and appearance of this year's garden than now. Once the garden program is decided upon there is an added zest in carrying it out to realization, watching it develop under the guidance of hands that love the effort of gardening. Unless you plant this spring a whole year of enjoyment will be lost.

CRACKS IN THE DOME

By RAYMOND BROOKS.

AUSTIN, Feb. 27.—The state set out this week in effect to hire an average employe at full wages to spend three years in answering a questionnaire.

That is what it amounts to in terms of state time and state expense.

The questionnaire is that drawn up by the joint legislative efficiency committee. It contains 52 questions, 45 of them to be answered by each employe of the state, the other seven by immediate superiors and department heads, on the blank of each employe in the service.

The blanks will take two hours' time on the average or 8,000 hours of 4,000 employes' state time for their execution. They will take a good many more hours for study, compilation, classification and follow-up.

In the name of efficiency, the information collected in these questionnaires, if followed through would give the state a basis for shifting, reassigning and weeding out its workers; almost wholly through on the impersonal statistical basis.

If carried to its logical conclusion, when the state shall have organized a wholly efficient and perfectly-functioning personnel, and assigned each to duties for which he is exactly fitted, the system would call for that employe's spending his life in the work, and since a state could not cold-bloodedly turn him out for having functioned well, would end up with a state pension system.

The efficiency questionnaire does not ask an employe how many parents, brothers, sisters or relatives he or she has also on the state payroll, whether the employe is the wife or husband of some other state employe, or any other question except as to his own relation to his own job and a detailed account of his life up to the present. It does not ask poorly-paid state workers how much they might have earned had they worked in business.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Bravery, ability and sincerity is a combination not common among the job-holding politicians of Washington. It is likely to mean defeat in the next election when the constituency finds out about it. But there are a few such men here who manage to stay on the job.

Congressman Charles Robert Crisp of Georgia, usually called "Judge" or "Charlie," is one. He has been getting a vast amount of attention because he became acting chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee when Chairman Collier of Mississippi took sick.

It was Crisp, outstanding expert on procedure, who forced through the rules liberalization by which 145 members may now seize bills in committee and bring them to the floor.

When Crisp objected that it would mean a prohibition vote, Crisp, politically dry, said he favored votes on prohibition as well as other important issues. Of course he is a low tariff man. He now urges taxes on gas and electricity.

What Farm Relief Means

His human qualities attract every one—from elevator man to president. He is under medium height, with serious lined face and quiet dress. Smokes cigars, lives in an apartment, says farm relief to him means getting someone to rent his 100-acre cotton-vegetable farm at America for a nominal sum.

Takes sport moderately. Favorite sport: playing with 4-year-old granddaughter "Ginger" and younger grandson Charles Robert in sand-pit or swings under his pecan trees at home.

His Father Was Speaker

He is 61 years old. His father was Speaker Charles Frederick Crisp. Other Crisps were Shakespearean actors. The present Crisp was elected first to fill the unexpired term when his father died. He was then city judge at American from 1900 to 1911. When Champ Clark was looking for a parliamentarian an old negro messenger who had served Speaker Crisp told him what a smart boy Charles Robert was. Clark set for him and he held the job until his election to Congress in 1914.

For 12 years no one in his district has ventured to run against him.

His recent strong speech for a balanced budget, in which he warned of the stiff taxes which must come and scorned possible political dangers, brought an extraordinary outburst of applause which demonstrated the respect which everyone has for him.

Four Democrats Are In Race For Overman's Seat

through its connection with the Duke endowment, which gives millions to charitable and public causes.

The labor commissioner also challenges the senator's party regularity in supporting Frank R. McNinch of Charlotte, state anti-Socialist chairman in 1928, for the federal power commission.

Prohibition has been injected by Robert E. Reynolds, Asheville attorney, who polled 96,000 votes in a lone fight against Senator Overman in 1926.

Reynolds is for modification of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. His methods of campaigning are unique. In 1928, he toured the state in an open car. His coming was heralded by the chauffeur, who blew a trumpet. From his car, Reynolds gave red and white stick candy to children.

Mountain Leader.

The fourth candidate is former Judge Thomas C. (Tom) Bowie, leader of the mountain country of northwest North Carolina. Judge Bowie has assailed Senator Morrison on many issues.

In spite of the democratic majority in North Carolina, the strong republican minority cannot be discounted.

Jake F. Newell, Charlotte attorney, is expected to make the race for the republican senatorial nomination. Whether the G. O. P. nominee will be selected in convention, or primary, is unsettled.

Former Eastland Judge Indicted On Arson Charge

Special Correspondent.

BRECKENRIDGE, Feb. 27.—Tom B. Ridgell, former associate justice of the Eastland Court of Civil Appeals and once mayor of Breckenridge, will go to trial March 21 on an indictment charging attempted arson. He was indicted Thursday by a grand jury here.

One count in the indictment alleged Ridgell "aided" and another that he "counseled" another person in an attempt last December to burn a building owned by the Burch Investment company.

Ridgell's attorneys, in a statement, asked the public to withhold judgment, pointing out that an indictment is no indication of guilt. He was released under $1,000 bail.

Ridgell was appointed by Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson to the Eastland court when it was created in 1925. After serving one term he was defeated for re-election.

On Dec. 19, employes of a dry goods store in the building, coming to work, found a window had been removed from a skylight, that an inflammable liquid had been poured on coats hanging on a rack and that a saturated wick extended from the rack through the window and out upon the roof. The wick had not been lit.

GRIPES by GUS

please don't think I'm all hopped up on marijuana. I'm really serious.

Did you know that in 1834 a man named John Mack invented a self-lighting cigar? It had its own match built into the end of it. Not a bad idea, but it seemingly never became popular. I accidentally ran into this fact while searching for a correct spelling of the word I used above and spelled marijuana. The word means loco weed in Texas language. The cigar was named loco loco. Probably a far-fetched subject but nevertheless interesting.

Hope Abandoned For Miners Caught In Shaft Blast

By United Press.

POCAHONTAS, Va., Feb. 27.—Rescuers struggling to reach more than a score of miners entombed in the Boiesvain mine near here by an explosion which choked passageways with slate, tonight announced they had abandoned hope that the men were alive.

A district mine inspector announced a careful check revealed 36 men were locked in the shallow shaft and that hope had been abandoned for any life.

Rescue crews were forced to withdraw to the surface for two hours at one time. Artificial means were used in an attempt to clear the stifling gases from the hole. Coffee was served and the men ate sandwiches holding them in grimy fingers.

The officials of the company said there was no indication of the cause of the explosion. One theory was that powder was ignited.

House Passes Highway Measure

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The House tonight passed the $132,500,000 highway construction bill which the Democratic leadership offered as their unemployment relief program.

The measure, which provides for loans to states for roads, was sent to the senate to take its place with several pending bills broader in scope.

Speaker Garner was credited with originating this relief move. He brought the bill before the House and put it through in a day.

The vote was 205 to 109. The House adopted an amendment by Representative Thomas of El Paso permitting the employment only of American citizens on the road projects.

Oil Royalty Suit Set In Court

By United Press.

AUSTIN, Feb. 27.—The suit of the state against the Reagan County Purchasing Co., Inc., and six other oil organizations, alleging $75,000 underpayment of royalties due the University of Texas, has been set in 98th district court here March 21.

Few People Know Energy of Batteries

"Few people," said J. S. Reynolds, the local Exide dealer, "realize the tremendous energy that is stored in an automobile battery."

"For instance," he continued, "an Exide automobile battery can actually lift its own weight 32,000 feet in the air. This great height of six miles is higher than Mount Everest, said to be the world's highest peak."

"The three most widely employed methods of storing energy for future use," said Mr. Reynolds, "are compressed air, the storage battery and the steel spring. Of these, the storage battery is not only the lightest in weight but, also, the most compact."

Compressed air, for instance, at 1,000 pounds pressure, develops power enough to lift its own weight, including the steel tanks, not more than 7,000 feet; and a steel spring can lift its own weight not over 500 feet. "In other words, to store the same amount of energy a spring would weigh over 250 times more than a storage battery; and, compressed air tanks would weigh more than five times as much as the battery."

Japanese Take Kiangwan Village In Fierce Battle

By HERBERT R. EKINS.
 United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1932, United Press)

SHANGHAI, Sunday, Feb. 28.—The Japanese army, reinforced by fresh troops, battered a wedge into the center of the Shanghai-Woosung battle line today, occupying the village of Kiangwan after a week of bitter fighting.

The complete capture of Kiangwan, which has been the center of some of the most severe fighting of the Shanghai campaign, was not made without tremendous loss of lives. The retreating Chinese, leaving the town in flames behind them, were estimated to have lost at least 500 in killed and wounded. The Japanese casualties were not announced.

After a day of aerial, artillery and infantry attacks in the Kiangwan-Tazang sector, north of Shanghai, a Japanese detachment commanded by Colonel Hayashi entered the northwestern section of Kiangwan at 7 p. m. and establishing communication with the Cantonese for the final assault on Tayang, a more important town to the west.

The forces of occupation started at once burning shacks and other buildings harboring snipers, clearing the way for the final assault on Tayang, a more important town to the west.

Both sides strengthened their forces for the renewal of the campaign, which promised to be long and arduous. The Japanese landed a force of 1,000 replacements preliminary to the arrival of their 11th division, which will add nearly 10,000 men to their present estimated strength of 30,000 or more.

The Chinese were reinforced by the highly prized troops of General Chiang Kai-Shek's 88th division who moved in to replace the weary soldiers of the 19th route army in the Chapel sector, allowing the Cantonese to withdraw to the rear after a month of the most strenuous fighting.

Burette W. Patterson For District Judge

To the Citizens of Eastland County: I wish to be judge of the 88th District Court of this county. In announcing my candidacy I realize not only the honor, but the grave responsibility that comes to a district judge. The certainty of a speedy and unprejudiced trial according to the laws of our country is necessary to a contented and patriotic citizenship. To accomplish this I believe that the judge should be well learned in the law and be able to apply it promptly to the facts presented in his court; not a partisan, but have a high sense of fairness to all; and he should have executive ability to dispatch business so as to avoid unnecessary delay in trials and needless expense to the county and state, but at the same time have regard for the right of every person to a complete and impartial hearing of his cause. I do not presume to possess all these qualities to a perfect degree, but do feel that my age, training and experience have reasonably thus fitted me for this service. For political preferences shown me by the people of Eastland county in the past I am profoundly grateful, and will deeply appreciate this further honor. I solicit my friends and other citizens of this county to give me their support and vote for judge of the 88th district court with the positive assurance on my part that I will do my very best to be an able and righteous judge and will conduct the court with all reasonable diligence, dispatch, and economy consistent with the constitution and laws of our state. BURETTE W. PATTERSON.

it. You're a wise little girl, Ellen. He caught his breath and laughed a confused, uncertain laugh. It wasn't much. But Ellen treasured those words.

Often during the next two weeks she went to sleep dreaming dreams of Larry. She was seeing a different side of him these days, was learning that he could work as well as play at high tension. She loved this different side of him, loved the inexhaustible enthusiasm he exhibited for color, for paint, for canvas, for real labor.

Things at home, financially speaking, were going much better since she had received the increased salary at the store but the additional money from Dreamland was still necessary. Not for much longer Ellen hoped.

Larry, even if he had been more honest with her, she knew would still remain one of those suitors who can never be depended on. He blew hot and blew cold; laughing a gale one minute and quarreling fiercely over nothing the next. After those spirited quarrels he generally stalked away without a word. Ellen would cry herself to sleep, convinced she would never see him again. The next night he would turn up at Dreamland, unabashed and unrepentant, the cause of the quarrel and the quarrel itself forgotten. Oh, it was maddening never to know where she stood, thought little Ellen as thousands of other girls have thought.

She had some times the strange feeling that in this double, or, rather, triple life she was leading over Durcpe before returning for her autumn wedding, had never been mentioned between them.

Even as she fell more and more helplessly in love with Larry, Ellen could not forget how unfairly he was treating her.

She was attempting to crowd too much action, too much excitement, too many emotions into 24 hours. She was always swinging back and forth from Steven to Larry. On the one side was common sense and on the other was her own heart. That she had deeply and unintentionally hurt Steven many times she knew. At luncheon with him her thoughts would stray to Larry.

She would wonder what he was doing, where he was, what he was saying in those hours he spent away from her. Then she would start with a sudden realization that she had heard not one word of what Steven had been saying.

Larry, even if he had been more honest with her, she knew would still remain one of those suitors who can never be depended on. He blew hot and blew cold; laughing a gale one minute and quarreling fiercely over nothing the next. After those spirited quarrels he generally stalked away without a word. Ellen would cry herself to sleep, convinced she would never see him again. The next night he would turn up at Dreamland, unabashed and unrepentant, the cause of the quarrel and the quarrel itself forgotten. Oh, it was maddening never to know where she stood, thought little Ellen as thousands of other girls have thought.

She had some times the strange feeling that in this double, or, rather, triple life she was leading over Durcpe before returning for her autumn wedding, had never been mentioned between them.

ing touch with her duties at the store. She knew that Lorene Elliott was disappointed in her though nothing had been said. She knew all these things and yet could not feel regretful. Larry's very contradictions were a delight; the burning, feverish love she felt for him was an answer to her wild, young prayers of the year before. Nothing mattered when she was with him except that she should please him. Nothing mattered except that here was another evening, an evening when she might learn where she stood with him. She was always straining toward that issue. Always he was eluding it.

Then came an August night when Bert and Myra accompanied her to the studio, one of the free Mondays that came all too seldom. It was insufferably hot even with the studio skylight wide open and all the casement windows denuded of curtains and swung out into the airless, starry night. At about 8 o'clock Bert protested he could bear no more and dragged Myra out to a neighborhood movie. They were returning for Ellen at 10, the hour the posing invariably was ended.

Larry worked for some time after they left, absently mixing his colors and absently wiping his brush on his faded smock, standing off to observe an effect, squinting at the canvas and then at Ellen almost as though he had never seen her before. But at 9 he flung down his brush, announced that it was too hot for anything except suicide, and banged off downstairs for ginger ale.

Ellen, left alone in the studio, wandered about marveling as she so often did at the contradictions in the man. The studio was bare and plain, so obviously the room of a workman that it seemed incredible Larry could have chosen it, incredible that he fitted there so well.

She was cramped and tired from the continuous strain of posing but she was very light hearted. She sat down at the dusty grand piano which commanded one corner, pushed back the top and attempted to remember enough of her childhood instructions to pick out a simple melody. The instrument was badly out of tune and her amateurish efforts were ludicrous. She was fighting at the discordancy when the door opened and Larry came in, laden with green bottles and a brown bag of sandwiches.

She shook her head when he insisted that she keep up the good work and rose hastily. So hastily that she knocked to the floor a photograph which had been lying face downward on the piano. She picked it up and gazed at the photograph.

Smiling out at her was the face of Elizabeth Bowes.

Ellen's heart failed at his visual evidence of the unknown girl's possession of the man she loved. She felt as if the blood were draining slowly from her body.

"Oh," she said, after a horrible, endless interval. "What a—pretty girl."

"Yes, isn't she," Larry agreed. He put down the bottles and the bag of sandwiches, came over and removed the photograph from Ellen's fingers and laid it back on the piano face down. "She's rather a good sort," he said casually. "A friend of mine. What do you say we eat?" Ellen, a bright fixed smile on her face and death in her heart, agreed that they should eat. Oh, why hadn't he told her the whole truth? She thought she could have forgiven him everything if only he had told her. She desired passionately to blot him forever from her sight and from her memory. She wanted to tell him that, brutally and cruelly. She desired that he should be hurt as she herself had been hurt. But she restrained her passionate, accusing words. She said only that she would dream while he laid out the simple meal. Her voice sounded flat and tame. "What's wrong with you?" Larry asked, puzzled.

She wanted to cry out that he knew well enough what was wrong. She wanted to tax him with lying—but he had not lied. There was no reason in the world why he should tell her everything. He had never promised to be more to her than what he was—a playmate.

"What's wrong with you?" Larry repeated. Ellen's chance had come. He himself was forcing the issue. It was the time to demand that he choose between her and Elizabeth Bowes.

PLEASE A MAN WITH EXTRA FAT ON LEAP YEAR'S EXTRA DAY

Recipes Given For Dishes Men Like

If you're puzzled at what to do with the extra day we are given this year—Feb. 29, you know—you can do worse than celebrate the year that made the day possible and practice cooking to please a man! Leap Year is supposed to be a time to reach a man's heart and "what every woman knows" is that the way lies through his stomach.

Perhaps maidens will take a hint from these, too!

Man-Size Sandwiches Men like sandwiches into which they can sink their teeth, substantial ones with a meaty flavor.

- 1 cup dried beef. 2 canned pimientos. 2 hard-cooked eggs. 1 onion. 1/2 cup dressing. Cut beef in shreds with scissors.

Cabbage a New Way Raw cabbage, boiled cabbage, corned beef and cabbage have always been eagerly eaten by our life-mates.

- 1 recipe white sauce. 1 small head cabbage. 1 1/2 cups fat pimientos. 1/2 cup buttered crumbs. 1/2 cup cheese, diced. Cut the cabbage as for a coarse slaw.

A MAN'S DESSERT—PIE If your man likes mince pie he will like this one better, and certainly you will find it easier to make.

- 1/2 cup seeded raisins. 1 pkg. sliced citron. 1 pkg. sliced candied orange peel. 1/2 cup brown sugar. 1 tsp. cinnamon. 1/2 tsp. nutmeg. 1/2 cup hot water. 1/2 cups, cornstarch. 1/2 cup cold water. Juice of 1 lemon. 2 tbsps. butter.

Green and White Is Attractively Featured At Woodman Circle Party A profusion of green and white hues symbolical to St. Patrick's Day, combined a striking background for the entertainment given at the home of Mrs. C. C. Cash.

HE'LL EAT LETTUCE NOW Men are apt to leave the salad languishing on the plate. But they like this firm fruit salad which is rolled in the lettuce, and they have to eat their "greens" to get at the filling!

- 1 cup cottage cheese. 1/2 pkg. pasteurized dates. 1/2 cup nut meats. Salt. Mayonnaise. Lettuce. Pimientos. Mix cheese, sliced dates and chopped nuts with enough mayonnaise to form a paste which can be spread.

Epworth League Prepares Program The Epworth league will have a patriotic program at 6:30 p. m. Sunday, on the bicentennial of George Washington's birth.
