Warner University Play Grand Success

The Warner university audience was crowded to the limit in an appreciative audience last night for the college dramatic class play, "Anne of Old London," which was given in three acts in a wonderful artistic and atmospheric, convincing and effectively carried out.

JEWELRY that is appropriate for wear with shirtwaists, and diamonds cut simply to look like business women's gems, are among the current preoccupations of Paris jewelry designers.

Programs mimeographed in the college were distributed. Members of the faculty assisted, and Dr. ... president of the university directed the parking, which expedited the spacious university grounds.

Between acts musical numbers were given by a woman's quartet, a trio, cornet, clarinet, piano, and a piano duet. Wilson, in a short talk between acts, outlined college plans for coming year, and made an appeal for the donations of books, college library.

Director of play, Miss Frances ... thanked the audience for its presence; all those who cooperated in lending properties for the play, and especially thanked those who loaned the colonial costumes through the personal efforts of Mrs. J. M. Perkins and W. K. Jackson, and the Eastland Telegram for its generous cooperation.

Ed T. Cox Jr. ... The Bluebonnet club was entertained most prettily by Mrs. Ed T. Cox Jr. at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Robason, on 8th Street, yesterday afternoon.

Four tables for bridge were occupied by club members, Mmes. Howard, Ray Allen, J. O. Ernest, James Watson, Bernice ... Lester Crossley, Guy Patter ... and guests, Mmes. Tom Amis, ... W. Wingate, Jerry Jarrell, ... Jones, and Miss Leora Hug ...

Favors for scores were awarded to Blowers, high, who received a vase; Mrs. J. O. Earnest, a crystal vase for cut favor; Mrs. T. C. Wynne, awarded a guest score, a green crystal vase.

Attractive decorations, in roses, carnations, and pansies, brought to the color scheme of green and white, which obtained in the chicken and waffles, iced fruited cake, and strawberry shortcake with whipped cream topping.

Club adjourned to June 2, at 8 p. m., with Mrs. Roy Allen.

Keeping Up With Eastland County Students at C.I.A.

DENTON, May 20.—Frances Glazner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Glazner, Ranger, attended a picnic given by the Philomathia Literary society, last Thursday, at Lake Dallas. Miss Glazner, who became a member of the Philomathia Literary society this semester, is a freshman education major in Texas State College for Women (C. I. A.).

Maydelle Sikes, with Erez McMeiers of Weatherford as her escort, attended the formal dance of the senior class, Saturday night, in colonial garden setting in the F. M. Bralley Memorial library. Preceding the dance which was at 9 o'clock, the senior and their dates were entertained with a five-course dinner in the college cafeteria. Dinner music was furnished by Buster Welch's University Collegians who also played for the dance. Little sisters in organy colonial dresses served their big sisters. Little sisters presented each boy with a white buttoniere. Miss Sikes, who will receive her degree in June, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sikes, Eastland.

On Tuesday evening, May 17, the Faculty club gave a reception for the seniors of 1932. The reception is an annual event sponsored by the club. The reception committee of this year is comprised of Dr. and Mrs. Hubbard, Miss Margaret Gleason, Miss Willie I. Birge and Miss Julia E. Lipscomb, president of the club.

Joyce Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson, 201 South Oak street, Eastland, attended a garden party given by Miss Edith Tullis, for the Library club. Three members were initiated into the club at the closing meeting of the club of the year, Thursday, when Miss Tullis entertained at her home, 508 Pearl street. Miss Johnson is doing graduate work in library science at the college.

The annuals are out and everyone has stopped counting the days on the calendar long enough to look at them. They must be good Friday, dead week begins and that means those last-minute themes and notebooks must be finished. Girls will begin to look hollower and sorely in need of sleep, but it will soon be over and another year of school will be history.

A prize will be given the club which shows the largest percentage of attendance. Here is your club chance to make your 100 per cent record.

Those attending this convention are reminded to take their individual collection of old silk garments and hose, for use of the demonstration work of Miss Ramsey, in rug weaving classes. Also, their gifts of books destined for the starting of Eastland county circulating library.

Representatives from Cisco, Romney and Gray's Gin will be heard.

A regular meeting for next Thursday night was announced. C. M. Thompson a member of the Brownwood L. O. O. F. was a guest. The surprise in store for members was an adjournment to the home of Mrs. Don Parker, who with co-hostess, Mrs. W. G. Marlow, had a prettily arranged bridge evening awaiting.

Favors were awarded for high and out refreshments served. Present: Mmes. Hardwick, Daniels, Ben Matthews, Blanche Nichols, Cassie Pearson, J. F. Butler, Dorothy Watson, Pauline Cook, Mona Dynch, Opal Hunt and hostesses, Mmes. Parker and Marlow.

High score favor, a pottery vase was awarded Mrs. Lawrence. A delectable salad course was served and roses and carnations carried out the color note of tallies and other appointments in pink and blue.

Club announcement of next meeting later.

This department has proven itself to be one of the most interesting as well as educational in high school, and each girl in the department feels as if her time spent at work in this department has indeed been well worth their efforts.

Hiking Club Holds Impromptu Meeting. A called meeting of the Sophomore and Junior members of the Hiking Club was held at 2:30 o'clock today in high school. Miss Martha Wetzel sponsors this club.

By United Press. GRANTS PASS, Ore.—Fred K. Durham, of San Francisco, world renowned fly caster and angler, has become a confirmed Rogue river fishing addict. He recently caught three Chinook salmon in less than an hour.

The Pacific-Chinook are harder fighters and larger fish than the Atlantic salmon which are caught in the famed Restigouche river of New Brunswick, he said.

PARIS STYLES. The ostrich-tongue mania is increasing in intensity over here. There are collar and cuff sets of it, little gumples and gilets, belts and whole blouses—and not only in white, but in every color of the well known rainbow.

But even at that, it has lost none of its original charm or practicality. It may still be called "new" and certainly, decidedly "different" and almost invariably when a stranger is introduced to it for the first time, he, or she will exclaim, "Well for pity's sake what in the world is that?" which proves its merit.

Paris recognizes this new material in one of its important blues this season. It is the in-between blue that he has named after himself, Fatou's Blue, and in combination either with his navy or mid-night blue, or with the lighter flax shade, or with a frill of white showing elsewhere near the throat or cuffs, there is nothing lovelier for spring.

Allen Dabney Is Candidate For Dist. Attorney

Allen D. Dabney of Eastland will be a candidate for criminal district attorney for Eastland county at the coming Democratic primaries should he yield to the solicitation of numerous people throughout the county. So far, however, he has declined to become a candidate.

Judge Dabney served Eastland county as county attorney some years ago and made an enviable record. It is to this record and the fact that he is a fearless, conscientious and fair prosecutor that his friends point when urging his candidacy.

There are three candidates in the district attorney's race at this time, but so far none of them have announced any platform, it is pointed out. Those urging Judge Dabney's candidacy say that should he enter the race, he would make an active campaign and let the voters know his views on the important issues of the day.

The Cisco Citizens this week will say:

Friends of Hon. Allen Dabney are suggesting his name as a candidate for district attorney of Eastland county.

This may be an election year when the office will see the man, as already several prominent people have been impertuned to make the race for some of the offices. Now there is a demand from the voters that Allen Dabney, than whom there is no barrister in the county better qualified, being drafted for the office of public prosecutor. The Citizens is not informed as to Mr. Dabney's decision in the matter, but should this demand reach that stage when he is convinced that he is the choice of a considerable number of the voters of the county, we know the man to be too patriotic and too loyal to his friends and the county wherein he resides to form a deaf ear to these importunities. That he will make a splendid prosecutor none there who would say to the contrary. In no sense would he be a persecutor, but would be vigilant in prosecuting those guilty of violating the criminal statutes of the state. His are such broad views that he would not force those accused into a defense against a criminal charge where the evidence was such that there was a strong probability of their innocence, or that there was a doubt of winning a conviction from the facts that would develop before the date of trial.

Should he be the prosecuting attorney he would elevate the dignity of the office, and establish it on such a high plane, that few could hope to raise the standard he would set, but his successors would be proud to take up the work where he would lay it down.

Should he consent to make the race it is admitted that he would be a formidable candidate, with every prospect of election.

The Citizens believes Mr. Dabney has enough personal friends in the county who would exert their influence in behalf of his candidacy to insure his election. He has been a citizen of this county "so long that the memory of man (the present generation) runneth not to the contrary."

It is understood there are other aspirants for this office, but theirs is the policy of "still hunting," which rarely gained an office, as none of those who are supposed to be candidates for district attorney have announced their intentions through the county press, which today is the source of information upon which the voters rely. And none of those aspiring for the office were brought out by a popular demand

BABY FRETFUL RESTLESS?

Look to this cause

When your baby fusses, tosses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause, doctors say. Constipation. To get rid quickly of the accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made especially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Castoria's regulative help will bring relaxed comfort and restful sleep to your baby. Keep a bottle on hand. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

the MAN HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
SUSAN CAREY, 29 and beautiful, is in love with BOB DUNBAR, son of a millionaire, although she is engaged to EMINENT HEALTH, her former employer, who believes that she engaged to DENISE ACKROYD, society girl. DEN LAMPMAN, former admirer of Susan's, admits to Health and would marry her. After his recovery Health urges Susan not to go through with the marriage, warning the difference between her age and Health's. At a masked ball Susan meets Bob and the old love for him flares up again. Denise intervenes. Bob bids Susan at her home and urges her to elope with him. Health overhears the conversation. He writes a letter asking her to release him from the engagement. Susan bids Bob last night to be absent to board a train for New York.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLV
THE elder Dunbar glared at his tall son. "What's that you're saying?" he demanded. "I can't seem to get what you're driving at." Deliberately Bob repeated, "I told you, sir, I expect to be married next week."

"Hah!" The veins stood out alarmingly on the forehead of the man in the swivel chair. "You're trying to tell me—you have the face to announce that you're marrying a nobody. You know very well it's been understood you're to marry Denise."

Bob shrugged his shoulders. "That's just it," he said. "His father rapped out. 'What's just it? You're talking rot this morning.'"

Bob tried patiently to explain. "You talked me into that engagement. You and mother—everybody."

"I suppose you don't know your own mind, hey? I must say, young man, I think you're behaving in devilish bad fashion. First you give us to understand that you want to marry Denise. Then you come around with a cock and bull story about a girl nobody knows. Someone you picked up God knows where!"

Bob gripped his hands against the back of the chair until the knuckles stood out. "I'll have to ask you to take that back," he said with deadly quiet. "I've told you all about her. There's nothing the matter with her family. She happens to be poor—that's all."

The two men continued to stare at each other. The younger moved toward the door.

"There is nothing more to say," he said.

His father detained him. "Where do you think you're going?"

"Back to my desk of course."

Mr. Dunbar stood up, emphasizing his words with a shaking forefinger. "You're to do nothing of the kind," he announced. "Until this affair is settled, you're persona non grata in this office. Do you understand?"

It was a blow but the boy gave no sign other than the darkening of his eyes.

"Very well, sir, if that's the way you feel about it." He turned again but his father's bellowing voice arrested him.

"What do you think you're going to live on, you young idiot, if I turn you out?"

The youth said grimly, "I suppose I can get a job."

"You do! You're very optimistic. There are hundreds of stevedores and truckmen walking the streets looking for work. They can't find it. What makes you think you can?"

THE boy did not answer for an instant. Then he said quietly, "Whose fault is it if I'm useless? When I wanted to study agriculture, the only thing I cared about, who discouraged me?"

"You were expelled from college. Don't forget that."

"I was because I was bored stiff. But you had your way and that was all you cared about." Bob threw his young shoulders back and eyed his parent defiantly. "This is one time you're not going to have it!" he said. "I'm going to marry Susan no matter what happens."

The older man gave a sharp, resentful laugh and spread his hands out. "Go ahead," he said, "but don't come whining to me when things go wrong!"

"I won't," Bob promised grimly. The door slammed. The father continued to stare at the spot where his son had stood a moment ago. The mottled flesh died in his cheeks and once he smiled shrewdly. The boy wouldn't go far, he soliloquized. He would think it over and come to his senses. Most young men experienced these flurries of emotion over a pretty face, but there was no sense in taking the thing seriously! The girl was undoubtedly a common little piece who had her eye on Bob's inheritance. What was it Bob had said she did? Worked in an office somewhere. Worked fool!

And yet unwillingly the father admired the boy for his defiance. "Didn't think he had it in him," he muttered. "He'll come round all right. He'll come round all right."

He frowned with distaste as his taxi, bumping along the shabby side street, came to a stop. It was just as he had expected—a house in a row of brave, run-down dwellings badly needing paint.

"Wait for me," he commanded the driver. Dunbar rang the bell with some trepidation. It was not a pleasant errand but it was one he must go through with whether or not he liked it.

A lean, gray-haired woman in a spotless blue house dress answered the ring.

"We don't want to buy anything," she began firmly. Then, struck by something in her caller's bearing, she stopped, confused.

"I want to see Miss Susan Carey," Dunbar said in his courtliest manner. "Is she in?"

"Oh, yes, I'll call her." The gray-haired woman gave him an other penetrating look and then invited him to enter. As the man waited in the small living room he glanced about with annoyance. It was not at all the sort of interior he had expected. The old rosewood chairs, carved and upholstered in the manner of the '80's, had a decent self-respect about them. So whose face reminded him dimly of his mother's front parlor. It was uncompromisingly clean and unfaded white curtains showed a sign of the usual Chicago grimy.

THERE was a faint rustle in the hall and he stood up, feet rather ill at ease. The girl who faced him was tall and slender, dressed in black woolen stuff with a nun-like frill of white. The man noticed that her skin was an extraordinary, translucent green and that she wore no make-up. Her eyes were enormous.

As the girl advanced Dunbar began to speak quickly and glibly. Susan was not the sort of person he had expected to see, he guessed. His method of attack was simple. He would play on her tender feelings. He would make her see that marriage with a peasant boy would be quite different from marriage to the heir of millions.

"I'm Bob Dunbar's father," began Susan without surprise. From Bob the night before she had heard the whole story. "I don't want you to think," she began winningly, "that I've gone here in an antagonistic mood, the contrary, I feel very friendly toward you and now that I've you I must applaud my son's taste. He seated himself at her feet. "I only want to make it clear that there were good reasons for my behaving as I did when son told me his plans. Robert I'm afraid, very impulsive, and here he shook his head sadly, tremely fickle. Perhaps you do know that he is virtually bound another agreement." He paused for the words sink in.

Susan said, "I'm afraid I don't quite understand."

Mr. Dunbar smiled. "Of course you don't, my dear young man, he assured her. "The scamp never tell you about himself?"

"If you mean Denise Ackroyd do know all about that," Susan quietly.

The man's jaw dropped. "You do! Then I know you're going to be sensible about it. If you find out my son you won't understand in his way. His mother I feel deeply on the subject of marrying Denise. In fact his future depends upon it. His father's money is being held trust for him. Robert will not let when he is 25 on the condition that he marries with our approval. You see?" He smiled at her.

"You mean, then," said Susan slowly, "that it would ruin his life if he were to marry me?"

First Monday At Eastland Draws Crowds

The program for Eastland's first Monday at Eastland, which is Monday, June 6th, is rapidly taking form and will be completed within the next few days.

A vacant lot on North Seaman street and just off the public square has been secured for use as a racetrack. The officials also have agreed that the east White street may be closed and fixed for a race track for the occasion. Pipe was laid Wednesday for the purpose of running water for the live-

A number of valuable premiums, including a fine Jersey cow, will be given away if the number of those working on the program are carried out. There also are plenty of games for entertainment. A horse race is planned. A fee of $1 will be charged for entering a horse in the race, the winners to take the prize made up.

It is possible that arrangements be made for County candidates to make short addresses in interest of their candidacies.

Cecil Lotief Takes Slap At WTC Commerce

Cecil Lotief of Cross Plains, candidate for floratorial representative from the 107th district composed of Eastland and Callahan counties, in a letter addressed to John M. Hendrix of Sweetwater, Tex., has given Lotief the name for publication, takes a shot at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for that organization's opposition to the Soldier's Bonus, and hints that he considers the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was endeavoring to influence the legislative process.

Cross Plains, Texas, May 5, 1932.

John M. Hendrix, Sweetwater, Texas, Dear Sir:

Thanks for your letter of invitation, which included free tickets for legislative banquet, to be given by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, to the members and candidates for legislature.

I am sorry that I cannot be with you on that occasion as it is my duty, as a candidate, to get in the habit of accepting invitations to free banquets otherwise, it may lead one to an obligation to those who are giving the feeds and no one can serve two masters at the same time. I think that was the trouble with our past legislative sessions. They accepted too many meals, dances and other entertainments at the tax payers expense.

the W. T. C. C.'s stand on the soldier's bonus does not meet my approval. They have no right to fight the bonus bill that we know those good old western men have earned every cent that is coming to them. This money not only will help them in these hard times, but it is a great help to every line business and will relieve the trade all around us. It should be called a bonus; it is just what this government owes our ex-soldiers who left their homes at home and went into the Atlantic ocean.

The chamber of commerce is not needed to be a political organization. It should be purely commercial for the benefit of all.

Respectfully,
Cecil A. Lotief.

Lone Star Holds Safety Meeting At Ranger Plant

The regular monthly safety meeting of employees of the Lone Star Gasoline company was held at the clubrooms of plant No. 3, west of Ranger, on Wednesday evening. A very interesting program with J. F. Byas as chairman was presented. Talks were given by Messrs. Walter Fisher, chief engineer of plant No. 111; L. R. Herring, chief engineer of plant No. 101, and A. W. Breehand, safety supervisor of the Lone Star companies. Music was furnished by the J. G. Walker stringed orchestra.

One interesting and worthwhile phase of the safety activities of the company is in the fact that three standing committees composed of employees make monthly safety inspections of the various plants. Their reports concerning hazardous equipment and operations in and about the plants are directed to the management, who in turn see to it that those conditions which jeopardize the welfare of both the plants and the men are removed. In this manner hazardous conditions are from time to time eliminated, and thereby consequent suffering on the

Nurses Attend District Convention At Abilene

Miss Beulah Bowles, West Texas Clinic and Hospital associate, accompanied by Miss Mary Jo Caulfield of Eastland, and Miss Sue Hamilton of Olden, were visitors in Abilene yesterday where they attended the district nurses convention.

The convention was reported as unusually interesting as general reports were heard from the National session which convened at San Antonio recently. The three representatives are well known nurses throughout this section of the country.

German Riots Beat Football

EUGENE, Ore.—Election riots in Germany are far more interesting than American football games. That's the opinion of Dr. Robert D. Horn, professor of English at University of Oregon.

Dr. Horn observed first-hand conditions of that country while doing research work in libraries of some 20 German cities.

The professor witnessed his first riot in Berlin.

"I was walking one day towards the Potsdamerplatz. As I approached the flower stands, so brilliant in color, there was a crash of glass and a hotel man complained to two policemen.

"From far off, there was the murmur of many voices and the rush of many feet. As I took shelter against a tree, a crowd of men and boys pressed widely past. There was no escape for me.

"Streets were blocked in all directions. Stalled street cars and taxis made a wall of obstruction on one side, while hundreds of police, mounted and on foot, and appearing out of nowhere, commanded any other possible exits.

"The mob whirled across the Platz to a huge department store. More windows were smashed. At one of the most popular restaurants broken windows showed torn hangings and drapes, and some of the jaunty red and white striped sun shades in the garden were battered. Yet, to the annoyance of the mob, there still remained visible tea and coffee drinkers, darning to be nonchalant in face of actual danger.

"Much of this may sound like a cheap detective story, but I learned that the master mind and instigator of the riot was Adolf Hitler. He occupied a room overlooking Potsdamerplatz while his followers carried on in the streets below."

RESENTED COW KISSES
SEATTLE.—Armand Eckman, Maple Valley rancher, caught his foot in the crotch of a tree while pruning branches. He hung, head down, and yelled for help. A Jersey cow insisted on licking his face. He punched the bovine in the nose, but it placidly licked his face until he was rescued.

WALKED 18 MILES FOR DINNER

GREENFIELD, Mass.—Henry Hayden, 86, recently walked here from his home in Northfield, 18 miles away, for his usual birthday dinner at the Mansion House in memory of his father and mother, who were cooks at the hotel 111 years ago. After dinner and a short rest, he walked home.

HERE--- AND THERE

Society Editor Eastland Telegram

Eastland has a novel group known as the Christian social relations, which is doing some interesting work, along contact lines with various phases and conditions in life. This committee is a branch of the Missionary society of the Methodist church, and is the active result of a meeting held early in the season, when each officer was allowed three minutes in which to tell the duties of her office, and why she considered it the most important work in her church society. One of these women, Mrs. Bert McGlamery, read her original poem, and which was later published in the Central Texas Conference Bulletin. This poem graphically describes the scope of work of Christian social relations. Some most unusual work has been accomplished, and these women have a just pride in the record attained. As local superintendent of Christian social relations for the society, Mrs. McGlamery was made chairman of a group to be organized by her, with sub-chairmen of departments, women of her choice. The organizer is also superintendent of this work in the Class district, and is an assistant to Mrs. F. P. Culver, of Fort Worth, the superintendent of Women's Missionary Societies of the conference.

In an attempt to, at least partially, limit the showing of pictures not deemed exactly suitable, a chairman of motion pictures was appointed, who observes the attractions of local theatres and reports on her work. Mrs. B. M. Collier is chairman.

Social welfare and relief work is in charge of Mrs. George W. Shearer.

Inter-racial co-operation, Mrs. Lola Mitchell and Mrs. W. K. Jackson. This committee works among the Mexican settlement and better conditions of Eastland's colored folk.

Rural co-operation, Mrs. W. H. Mullings.

The child welfare work is in charge of Mrs. Earl Bender, and "sunshine for shut-ins" by Mrs. H. O. Satterwhite.

Often, matters arise in the path of the Christian woman's work, for which relief can sometimes be secured through legislative action. Mrs. C. C. Robey, a lawyer of this city, is chairman of legislation.

Law observance, Mrs. W. C. Marlow, chairman.

Juvenile delinquency, Mrs. Milton Newman, chairman. Attends court trials of juveniles.

Citizenship training is taught by Mrs. R. E. Sikes, who meets with less fortunate people and illustrates the precepts and habits in good citizenship.

Contact with the Better Homes work in America, is handled through Mrs. Jack London, and oversight of city and county jails and institutions, by Mrs. Frank Castleberry.

News stands and billboards are supervised by Mrs. Edward Everett. And, international relations and work in world peace, is under chairmanship of Mrs. J. C. Cheamer.

All these various activities are under the ultimate chairmanship of Mrs. McGlamery.

Country Boy Makes Good

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Robey left for Mineral Wells last evening to attend the bar association now in convention in that city, and especially to hear the address of their friend, Martin W. Littleton of New York, a lawyer of wide reputation in the east. Mr. Littleton was formerly of Weatherford and later of Dallas. He has been for many years a friend of the Robeys. Texas is proud of such examples as that given in the meteoric career of Mr. Littleton, who, from the modest obscurity of a small-town lawyer, swept into fame on his defense of Harry K. Thaw of New York, tried for the murder of Stanford White, the famous architect.

Eastland Friends Heard From

A few years ago the Thurmond White family filled a prominent and important place in the social, musical and business life of Eastland. Since then, they have made their home in Shreveport, La., where Mrs. White has two successful music studios, and in addition goes concerting in voice and piano, at stated intervals, over the musical circuit of Texas. During her Eastland residence Mrs. White was president of the Music Study club. The first musical pageant of the History of Texas was given under her direction, at the old Connelley ball grounds and was witnessed by an audience of 2,000 people.

When the Whites departed, their two little daughters were long pig-tails, and were at the knobby-knee age. Today, the graduation cards of Miss Thalia Thurmond White are received, to the commencement exercises of the Byrd high school, in municipal auditorium, next Tuesday evening, Shreveport, La.

Miss Elizabeth Pitzer, who was the guest of Mrs. Louis Pitzer and Sid Pitzer the past three days, left yesterday for Tyler, Texas, to visit her sister, Mrs. Robert D. Gordon.

Mrs. Edith La Belle, of Los Angeles, Calif., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Guy Quinn, and family, at the Leon power plant.

If you were one of the visitors to the United Dry Goods store opening Thursday night, you must have been pleased with the flood of golden light that bathed the handsome show windows, and flooded the store and that came from a huge spotlight, on the courthouse facade, opposite the store.

The light was so brilliant that Campbell's band of 18 pieces read their music easily. Crowds of visitors enjoyed the handsome showing, the music, and the general ensemble.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Conner have had as guests on various days through the week, Miss Alline Burch, Chief Justice Court of Civil Appeals, T. H. Conner and wife of Fort Worth, Mmes. Anderson and Foxworth of Cisco.

An Eastland group of lawyers and their wives and other friends that attended the Martin Littleton of New York address, Thursday night at the bar association in Mineral Wells, included Judge and Mrs. Oscar Chastain, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Conner, Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Seaberry, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Grisham, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Springer, Judge and Mrs. J. E. Hickman, Rev. George W. Shearer, John W.

Metal Industry In Germany Shows Depression Change

By United Press.
BERLIN.—Conditions in the German metallurgical industry are showing a significant change.

On the one hand certain branches of the industry are experiencing a slight improvement in the domestic market. On the other hand the export situation is growing worse.

Thus structural steel is again in demand and plants which have been idle in recent months are again working at half capacity. The production of bicycles also has improved, but manufacturers of machines complain of a further decline in their business which already was severely affected by the world crisis.

This deterioration is primarily due to the decrease in foreign orders. While domestic orders in
