WHY NOT AN INDUSTRIAL TEXAS?

Texas has all its raw materials. Texas is a storehouse of mineral wealth. Texas has huge beds of lignite. Why shouldn't Texas be an industrial as well as an agricultural commonwealth?

Read this taken from Progressive Texas, Inc., literature: "How strongly the farmers and stockmen are concerned in the success of the movement for the industrialization of Texas is demonstrated by a recent Associated Press dispatch, which said that where eggs in Texas were bringing 7 cents a dozen, in Massachusetts—a wholly industrialized state—they were bringing 22.8 cents a dozen. Rhode Island and Connecticut—also wholly industrialized—were paying producers 20.5 cents a pound for butter, while in Texas it was bringing on the farms around 12 1/2 cents. A most important phase of the industrialization movement for which Progressive Texans Inc. is working is the addition of new outlets for all the food and other products which Texas farms and truck gardens daily produce.

Yes, and the railroads, speaking through their advisory, are fearful that these important carriers will go into the hands of the government some day owing to the business and the freighters on the public highways built by the people grabbing the cream of the business from the common carriers which built their own right-of-ways and pay taxes in nation and state and county and city.

REGULATION OF STATE HIGHWAYS

"The right of Texas to handle this matter in the public interest could not have been in doubt and, happily, it is not now in doubt after appeal to the highest tribunal in the land," editorializes the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. "The highways built by the federal government and the states were designated for use and pleasure of the people. They were not intended to work unnecessary injury in any quarter. All commercial uses of them should be regulated in perfect fairness to all. The highways cost money and no profit making use of them should therefore go untaxed. It is not fair that the railroads, which build their own highways and pay taxes, should be exposed to inequitable competition on untaxed highways built at public expense." The St. Louis newspaper reminds its readers that the rush of commercial traffic on the highways came like an eruption that it has taken time for the country to dapt itself to it and "Texas law and the state's successful defense of her right to make it only shows that the ball is rolling." Texas legislators made history for the commonwealth and the nation as well in the highway regulatory legislation enacted in 1931.

SPEAKING OF MOHAIR AWAY DOWN HERE IN TEXAS

The public relations man handling the literary output of Progressive Texans Inc., remarked that it was rather astounding the discover that, although Texas in 1931 produced 80.6 per cent of the total mohair crop of the United States, there is not a single manufacturing plant in the state for any phase of its processes. He added that it is even more so when it is learned that in 1931 the nation produced 19,111,000 and that Texas produced 16,400,000 of the sum total. This is the sweeping verdict, "Texas is in the baby stage of industrial opportunity and development." Well, someday Texans will come out of their trance; someday capitalists who back factories and mills and know their value will plant their so in where rich dividends are promised. Texas has been a fast traveler in recent years. Now turn the young commonwealth loose and let her grow.

A TEXAS RAINBOW IN THE SKY

A more cheerful undertone in business, industry and financial circles in the 11th federal reserve bank district has been increased by recent general rains, according to the monthly review of the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas. There were fewer commercial failures during April this year than during March this year or April last year, but the liabilities of defaulting firms were larger than in either comparative period. Banking statistics reflected no outstanding changes. Evaluation of building permits issued at principal cities, showing a large gain in March, declined 13 per cent in April and in the latter month 34 per cent less than in the same month last year. Speaking of agricultural conditions, report notes that a disquieting feature at the present time was the large number of insects "which may become a menace to production to better conditions favorable to insect propagation." Otherwise—otherwise.

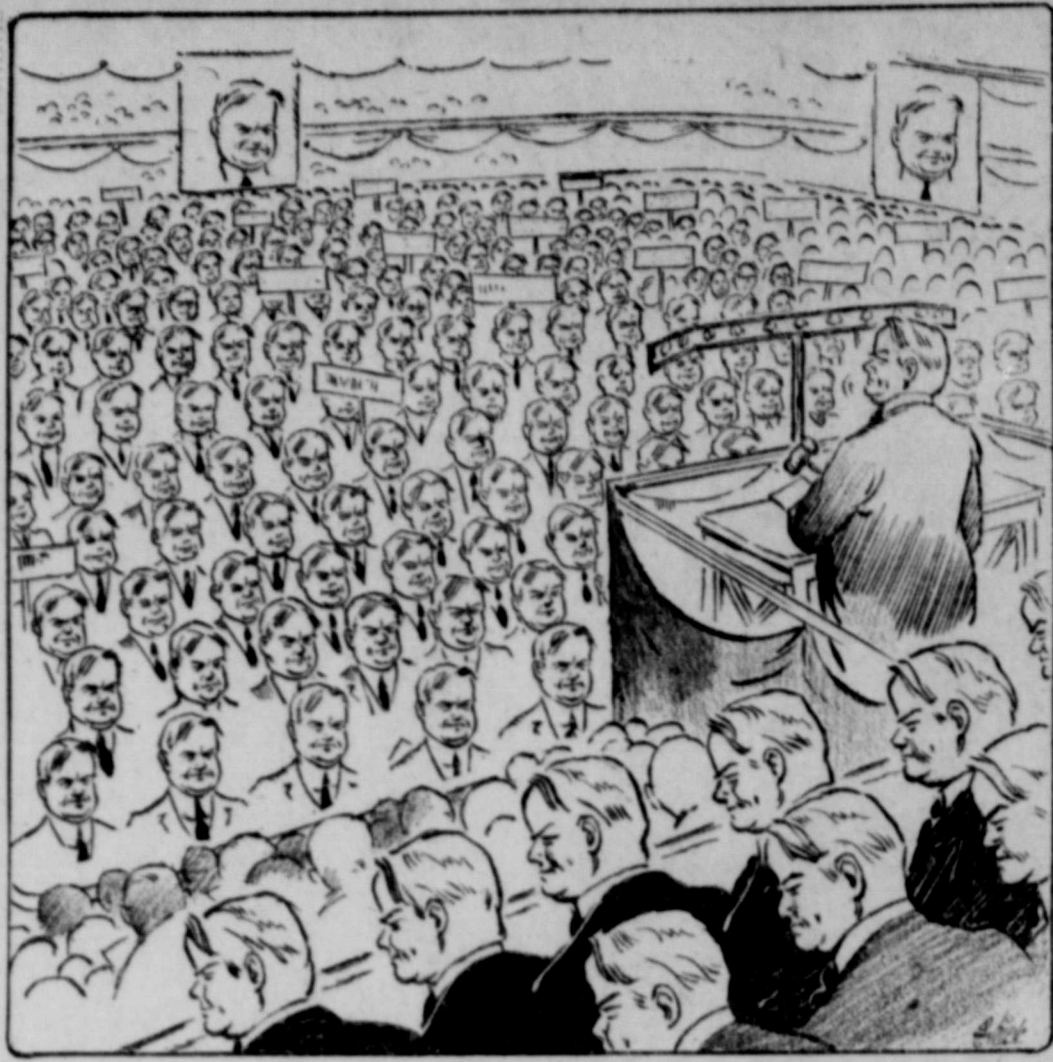

GEN. PAT HURLEY WAVES HIS SWORD

Gen. Pat Hurley of Oklahoma, secretary of war in the cabinet of President Hoover, unsheathed his sword and made a papier mache frontal attack on the Garner fortifications. Like a king of France he marched up the hill and then he marched down again. He is said to be slated to be the successor of Senator Simeon Fess as national chairman of the republican committee. General Pat was a warrior in war times, a splendid soldier. He is a warrior in peace time, and his one ambition is to remove the ears of the donkey close to the hide and sever the tendons in the heel of the little animal in the long ago made the emblem of the Democratic party. A prodigious copy mayer is General Pat. He would have made a wonderful publicity agent for "the greatest circus now on earth," but fate made him a lawyer and oil made him a 15 times millionaire. He should worry.

TEACHING OF SPANISH IN TEXAS PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Publishers of more than 50 Texas newspapers are on record as favoring the compulsory teaching of Spanish in Texas schools beginning in the third grade. Wilbur Hawk, publisher of an Amarillo newspaper, conducted a railroad excursion to Mexico last year and he predicts completion of the Laredo-Mexico City highway will attract millions of tourists who will drive through Texas. Also, that within two years $50,000,000 of additional tourist money will be spent in Texas and two or three times that amount in Mexico. Why not compulsory teaching of Spanish in the public schools? It is said 150,000,000 Spanish-speaking people in the South American republics and Mexico are prospective buyers of American goods and wares and staples. These men and women of the Latin races are worth cultivating.

Mirrors Bring Joy To Crippled Man

By United Press. FREEPORT, Ill.—A series of mirrors, so arranged that they reflect some of the goings on in the world outside his bedroom window, have brought hope and comfort to G. A. Becker, 64, who has been bedfast for eight years, a victim of arthritis.

By the mirror arrangement, which was improvised by a group of friends, Becker can glimpse at clouds, sunshine, passersby on a nearby federal highway, and watch students at a nearby high school.

So severe was the attack of arthritis that crippled Becker, that he has been unable to do anything but eat, talk and move his eyes. Since the attack occurred in 1924, he has been forced to lie flat on his back.

Earl Moore, a friend of Becker's and a member of the Freeport fire department, conceived the mirror idea, and together with companions, worked for three weeks in arranging the series of glasses so that the proper reflection could be obtained.

Three mirrors were stationed at the head of Becker's bed, a fourth extended with a radio, have tended to make Becker's life more livable. Becker and his wife recently celebrated their 38th wedding anniversary.

Taxes Should Help Higher Education School Head Says

By United Press. AUSTIN.—Some tax money should be spent on higher education as well as lower, each being dependent upon the other for its success, declares President H. Y. Benedict of the University of Texas in the May issue of The Alameda, ex-students publication.

"Highly trained men are essential in the public service, in the professions, in industry and in business. Unless higher education be inexpensively accessible, much high ability among the non-wealthy will be lost to the state and nation."

"As a further unfortunate consequence, wealth, power, and knowledge will become more and more concentrated," Dr. Benedict wrote.

Political Follies of 1932

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Very soon now, it seems fair to assume, we shall all be as happy as kings. The whole aspect of things has taken on an entirely new and infinitely brighter tint since Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, long regarded as the administration's star tight-rope walker and now considered to be its prize Polyantha, announced that a prohibition plank would be framed at Chicago which would satisfy everybody.

Our Troubles Are Over. INASMUCH as prohibition has been anticipated as the only possible source of trouble and dissatisfaction at the Republican convention and since the Democrats are quite certain to attempt to outdo the Republicans in the quadrennial political job of pleasing everybody, it is obvious that our troubles are about over and that we may as well begin to pluck the pansies and violets from our gardens in preparation for a great national love feast.

Everybody is grimly determined to please everybody else and anyone who isn't pleased with the results would seem to be an ingrate.

Sometimes the process of pleasing everybody all at once resembles the act of dividing a ham sandwich equally among two or three hundred hungry people, but in national politics they long ago abandoned the theory that you can't please everybody.

A Brave Step. PROHIBITION, the most persistent issue of recent times. It isn't official yet, but there is considerable belief that the Republican platform will declare for enforcement of the Constitution, through its electoral processes and other provision, offers ways and means of changing the Constitution. Guaranteed, you see, so please all.

And what could be bolder than that? The American people keep forgetting their Constitution, although everyone admits it's a glorious instrument. It certainly does seem a brave, constructive, statesmanlike step in these days of political pussyfooting to leap suddenly to the fore and declaim: "The Constitution, there she stands. Try and change it!"

Of course, there's always the possibility of a fight over prohibition anywhere, but the Republican priority for smoothing out dirt strictly in private is too well known to warrant further comment.

There's no sense in a political party trying to say what it thinks about prohibition, because a political party thinks all kinds of things about prohibition. Except, of course, the Socialist party, which came out for repeal.

Must Please Everybody. EVEN presidential candidates are also usually bent on pleasing everybody and there seems no great danger that they will this year obstruct the return of happy times, which now seems to be assured, thanks to other politicians such as Mr. Brown.

President Hoover has never given any public indication of what he thought about prohibition. Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, the leading Democratic aspirant, has been considered an opponent of the dry laws, but Deets Pickett, outstanding Methodist dry official, has urged the clergy not to worry in case he is nominated.

Other "Saving" Planks. OTHER prospective platform planks this year may be outlined as follows: We are for tariffs which will give the manufacturers all the protection they want and whose effect will not be observed by the consumer.

We stand for unemployment relief which will give everybody jobs and food but will not cost any money.

We favor public construction and bond issues on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and federal economy on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

We demand honesty in government which with the customary exceptions.

We promise higher prices for farm products which will not raise the cost of food in the cities.

We stand uncompromisingly for warm weather in the summer, but not too hot, and cool weather in the winter, but not too cold.

GRIPINGS

By GUS

This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

Having read in some of the advertisements where one of the more prominent manufacturers of razor blades was apologizing for the quality of its blades, the thought occurred to me that maybe it was the price instead of the quality that should be apologized for. A good many men I know are using off brand blades now because they can be bought for a nickel each and I'm told that the trouble with the razor blade business, then, is a matter of price rather than quality.

How many razor blades can be made from a ton of steel? Well, I just weighed one of the more popular blades and it would take 480 of them to weigh a pound. From that we can figure that a ton of steel would make 960,000 blades. At 10 cents each these would be worth $96,000.

Of course there is a cost of manufacture, wrapping, advertising, transportation and incidental expense. Still there are blades on the market selling at a nickel.

I ask Hubert Toombs why he didn't stock any two-for-a-dime blades. He said they were no good, you couldn't get a good shave with them. But I told Hubert that he wasn't selling shaves, he was selling merchandise and that if the man who bought them was satisfied with them, it was good business for him to handle them and get that added business. I also reminded him that he had a jillion bottles of patent medicine that was for the most part nasty tasting liquids that cured very few of the ills it was supposed to cure, yet he wouldn't hesitate to sell me a bottle of Dr. Woodruff's Pink Pills for Pale People if I wanted to buy them.

But . . . why worry about razor blades when the lint-type operators are liable to change my copy or if they'll insert a dirty crack like one of them did yesterday. They all deny setting type on this column and I'm not smart enough to trace it down and place the responsibility, but in the future I want them to correct my errors in spelling and not add a line in there to expose my ignorance before my admiring public.

(Operators note . . . Baloney).

Big singing convention in Eastland Sunday. Committees are out working to secure free meals and lodging for as many of the visitors as they can. Several good sized eating establishments in Eastland and none of them overworked with business. Now comes a convention to town and the cafes don't free gasoline? Why not free cleaning and pressing?

Towns can easily be hospitable to convention visitors without going to the extent of feeding them free. If the home folks eat at home and take all the visitors home with them to eat, how can the cafe stay in business? On the other hand, the cafe is never forgotten when the hat is raised around for civic funds. Funny world.

Qualified Items Offered By United. The United Dry Goods stores are offering "Qualified" merchandise to the people of this section of the country. These "qualified" items have special values and are selected from among the most popular articles carried in stock.

Committees For T-P Singers Plan A Big Convention

The committees at work arranging for hospitality for the members of the T-P Sunshine Singing convention, in session in Eastland, Saturday and Sunday, report a nice response to their requests from the homes of Eastland, for accommodations for the men delegates, to convention, for Saturday night, and one luncheon, Sunday.

The committee on arrangements, Misses W. T. Young, J. M. Smith, have appointed an assisting committee, Misses W. E. Coleman, Joe H. Jones, Sue Spencer, Jay F. Little, W. K. Jackson and Mr. Jess C. Day and Dr. H. B. Tanner of Chamber of Commerce are the male contingent on the committee.

Merchants who have not as yet extended their formal welcome greetings through means of a card in the Eastland Telegram for Friday are asked to do so immediately in order that all such cards may be included in the handsome page which will carry the welcome of Eastland merchants, couched in a pleasing form, and which will reach all the convention members promptly. "THE little circus girl said, 'Gee! I'm glad you came to call on me. My uncle owns this circus and I'll show you all around.' 'Sometimes we have parades. You know, in one of them you all can go. But, come on, follow me now and we'll see what can be found.' 'They all were tickled. So they went with her into a little tent. Said she, 'We keep some strange things here. Just listen to that quack.' 'It's coming from a duck, you see, that dearly loves to quack at me! It follows me to town some days. Then follows me right back.' 'CAN it do tricks?' wee Duncy said. 'My, if it can, please go ahead and make it show us what they are.' The girl replied, 'All right! 'With quacks that smart ducks' see is told. One quack means it is one year old.' And then she asked the duck its age. It quacked once, which was right. The next thing that the Tinies

'THEY looked around more and then a new in store. 'It's almost our parade,' the girl said with me!' 'She took them to another where 'bout a half an spent in getting into it. They looked cute as cute. "TIN CAN ISLAND" is so called because of its unusual getting mail. Letters and papers, sealed in tin cans, are hoisted aboard from passing steamers, and natives swim out after the southeast trade winds throw up large waves on the beach because of the steep banks and lack of indentations for the extremely difficult to reach the island by boat. It is of volcanic origin and is one of the Tonga group, located in the South Pacific Ocean. Astronomers traveled from all over the world to see the solar eclipse there in 1930, although it lasted but 53 seconds.

Eastland's colored folk are planning a nineteenth of June celebration to be held on the twentieth instead, as the famous Juneteenth falls on Sunday this year. A big picnic on the Bankhead highway, opposite the park, will be featured games, races, and sports on the ground all day.

Joseph A. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist church, will make a talk on "Juneteenth Day." Friends of the color are invited. There will be a barbeque.

Jefferson, Hamilton Were First Party Bosses

System That Still Rules in Big Political Conventions Originated in the Early Days of the Republic

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
(Copyright, 1932, NEA Ser. 'ee)
WASHINGTON. The first important political bosses in this republic, who gave us a system that still endures today, were
Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton.

Mighty men they were and their names still echo through convention halls, from the throats of modern party leaders who claim to be their political descendants.

Politics began to develop as a profession when the people began to vote in large numbers. Then arose the system of nominating presidential candidates at national conventions, which soon found the bosses manipulating things at the expense of popular control.

Aaron Burr was the first prominent political boss whose name has come down to us as unsavory.
He was boss of New York state, and for that reason Jefferson chose to steal the presidency from Jefferson and was balked only by Hamilton, whom Burr later killed in a duel.

Jefferson dominated national politics for a quarter of a century.
He founded what is now the Democratic party. He engineered the election of James Madison as his successor by a series of deals and dictated the selection of James Monroe for another eight years.
Just before his death in 1826 he is said to have been instrumental in the 1824 election of John Quincy Adams.

Hamilton, undisputed leader of the Federalist party, was a very practical political boss. His theory, as opposed to Jefferson's, was that the government should be operated for the people by the aristocracy.

First "boss" in American politics, Thomas Jefferson, extreme left, held tremendous power for a quarter of a century. He founded the Democratic party, "elected" three presidents and enjoyed a reign never equaled in political history. Alexander Hamilton, the power behind George Washington and himself an astute party leader opposed to Jefferson, is shown at right. He died following a duel with Aaron Burr, lower, left, after engineering Burr's defeat for the governorship of New York State.

Texas Bonus Army Boasts a Queen

"Queen of Texas" bonus army," was the title bestowed on Mary Arnold, 25, pretty brown-eyed wife of C. S. Arnold, Atlanta, Ga., World War veteran, when she enlisted with her husband for the march to Washington. She is the only woman known to be with the "army." Here you see her, attired in overalls, snuggling a farewell to Dallas, Tex., when the long trek started by box car. At her right is her husband, a war-time dispatch rider of the 116th field artillery. They abandoned a placer mine in Arizona to join the "march," making their first hitch by refrigerator car.

Six British Women Keep State Secrets

LONDON.—Six women, who arrive at Buckingham palace at 9 a. m. every weekday know more of the secrets of politics and diplomacy than any other women in Britain.

They never talk about their secrets, not even to each other. They are the secretaries to the king's advisers, and high officials of the court.

Their names are secret. In fact, few know who these mysterious women are.

U. S. Women In Europe Plan To Take Hand

By United Press.
BERLIN.—American women in Europe are determined to take a hand in international affairs and seek to bring about a closer understanding between the various European nations and the United States.

That is the purpose of the newly formed Federation of American Women's Clubs in Europe, created here and representing a membership of some 4,000 American women.

The federation started its program with resolutions endorsing disarmament, addressed to Miss Mary E. Woolley and the American delegation at Geneva, urging relief from the present overwhelming burdens of world disarmament and supporting all efforts of the American delegation to that end. A similar resolution was addressed to President Hoover.

The new federation elected as president Mrs. Curtis Brown, president of the American Women's Club in London. Its purpose, as stated in a resolution adopted at the Berlin session, is "to promote friendship between the American Clubs in Europe and to secure the best endeavors of the members in support of international issues calculated to bring about a better understanding between Europe, our own, and other nations."

Other officers—Vice presidents, Mrs. Albert N. Connet, Jr., president of the Paris Club Mrs. E. C. von Tresek, president of the Hague Club, Mrs. J. B. Mennell, London, secretary, Mrs. Harry C. Carr, Altwerp, treasurer.

The Berlin meeting was attended by more than 100 members of women's clubs in Europe. The meeting, which lasted three days, formulated a constitution and working agreements for carrying out the new program of co-operation and international understanding.

Domer's Insurance Totaled $185,000

LONDON.—Insurance on the lives of kings, premiers, dictators, or presidents, is revealed as a form of investment following the recent assassinations in France and Japan. Policies on Domer's life, in fact, amounted to $185,000.

Such insurance on the lives of rulers is accepted in Great Britain only when the person applying for the policy might actually be financially affected by the insured's death. No one is allowed to gamble on the death of someone else.

The practice is frequent here, as it is in other countries, for firms to take out policies to recompense themselves for the death of a valuable executive or partner.

Picked to Write G. O. P. Platform

Task of compiling the republican party's national platform for the 1932 campaign has been entrusted to James R. Garfield, Cleveland attorney, pictured here studying party leaders' proposals. By President Hoover's selection, Garfield has been named chairman of the G. O. P. convention's platform committee. He is the son of President Garfield, who was assassinated in 1881. Active in the progressive wing of the party until 1912, he was secretary of the interior under President Roosevelt from 1907 to 1909.

Huge Nebraska Ranch Soon To Be Made Into Farms

KEYSTONE, Neb.—The Jens Sillarsen Ranch, one of the largest in western Nebraska's panhandle, soon may be split up into a number of farms.

The Sillarsen Ranch, comprising 28,000 acres of land, or 45 sections, was once valued at more than a million dollars. Thousands of head of cattle have grazed on its ranges.

Death of Jens Sillarsen put the ranch into the hands of the administrator. To settle up the estate, the ranch may be cut up into smaller tracts and sold.

Potato Grows To Resemble a Duck

LERANON, Pa.—A sweet potato resembling a duck in every respect, except the "quack," grew in the garden of Mrs. William Kline here.

Two small sprouts at one end gave the aspect of legs and made it appear the "duck" was ready to waddle through the garden. Other features, such as neck, bill and tail feathers were reproduced. Two marks on the side which resembled the face gave the appearance of eyes.

British Take Up Hiking In Health Hunt

LONDON.—On a recent bank holiday, London disgorged from her stuffy vitals 2,000,000 hikers thirsting for the sunshine and air of forest and beach. This number was not unusual, though it might have been five years ago.

The word "hike" has not yet gained admission to the Oxford English dictionary (being, one presumes, a parvenu term from the United States), but the practice itself has gained a surprising hold.

Of course, the British always have been walkers, but their ambling was more social than scientific. Now that the sharp eye of research has been turned upon this matter of walking on two legs, the people hike 75 per cent more than ever before.

Britishers still hike only in the fine months, but there is a new school of "all weather" stalkers, and they are the ones who bring exultation to the camping-outfit stories.

The choice of costume, naturally, is of importance. Good, staunch tweeds no longer will do for those who have gone into it in a big way. It's a matter of weight, you see. Last season cotton was considered all right, but this year silk is the favored material because it is lighter and more durable.

Economy of weight goes for rucksack, sleeping tent, cooking materials, and all other equipment. Moonlight hiking lately has become popular in parts of the country.

"Ole Man River's" Traffic Near Peak

ST. LOUIS.—River traffic on the Mississippi is approaching the peak reached during the "golden era" of river transportation 50 years ago.

During the first three months of 1932 tonnage handled by the Mississippi Valley Barge Line Company increased 26 1/2 per cent over the first three months of 1931.

First three months upstream from New Orleans increased 307 per cent, while south-bound tonnage increased 220 per cent for the three-month period as compared with a year ago.

With the beginning of the year at Saint Cyr, the cadets of France, cadets will be allowed to wear their bright red trousers, and a black coat.

The dress uniform of the French army at the World War was a French blue uniform with a white sash.

LONDON, June 9.—The two-day air race around England, to be flown July 8-9 for the King's Cup, is drawing a record entry. The course will cover approximately 1,223 miles, touching 18 towns. The race is open to any type of bona fide aircraft, but the owners, pilots and passengers must be British subjects. At each of the control points, of which there are two on the first day and one on the second, a compulsory halt of 40 minutes will have to be made.

Handicaps will be allotted by the Royal Aero Club, and the 50 competitors making the best handicap performance in the first day's flight, which must be completed by 10 p. m., will be allowed to continue the race in the second section on the following day. The remainder will be eliminated.

In addition to the King's Cup, a number of other prizes will be awarded. Lord Wakefield, the oil magnate, is putting up cash prizes of $1,250, $500, and $250 for competitors placed first, second, and third, respectively, on the handicap, and $500 for the competitor making fastest time around the course, irrespective of the handicap. The Siddeley Challenge Trophy will be awarded to the light airplane club whose representative is highest in the placings.

Prince Devotes Time to Flying

BUCHAREST.—Prince Georg Valentin Bibescu has great plans for the future of Rumanian aviation. He is devoting most of his time to improvements in the service, to pathfinding trips for new lines, and to experimentation. The latest acquisition to Prince Bibescu's air "stable" is a giant Junkers all-metal monoplane, weighing more than three tons and capable of carrying one ton more with a speed of 240 kilometers per hour and a flying radius of 1,800 kilometers. With it, the Prince expects to explore the possibility of new connections between single Balkan airports and to chart out new lines connecting with Northern Africa and Egypt.

The machine, which cost approximately $65,000 and required four months to build, carries three Hispano-Suiza motors. The Prince, who is President of the Federation Internationale de Navigation Aeriennne, is deeply absorbed in his aviation activities. Broven from wind and sun, with hands bearing the unmistakable marks of mechanical toil, he shows no inclination for being lionized socially, although the doors of many a castle and mansion would open to him immediately.

Also, the paper was awarded second place for general typography and make-up of the paper.

HOKY AND SLIDES

Henry L. Farrell
The Old Line Fades
THE old alignments are breaking down. Uncle Robbie is out as manager of the Giants in last place in 1932. A sick ball team. And McGraw a sick man.

My picture of McGraw always will be of him enthroned on that rickety bench in San Antonio. The White Sox were training there, too, and the teams played each other almost daily. McGraw had just arrived from Havana and was trying to whip his club into shape. The word whip is a close word here. McGraw's tongue was a stinging lash.

Training Camp Crisis
IT was the sixth inning and the score was tied. There were none down and a Giant was on first base. McGraw sat on the edge of the bench as if it were a hot stove. Sternly, and with as much concentration as he might bring to bear upon the deciding game of a world series, McGraw glared at the men about him.

It was at such a time that I approached him to "have a little talk" about the Giants. He was having some pitching trouble and I wondered what he was going to do about it. I came around the corner of the dugout and looked the old master mind right in the eye.

McGraw mixed no words. His greeting was unmistakable. "Get out!" he roared.

I got out. A short time later I met dear old Hozeman Bulger, whose recent death shocked the baseball world. Boze was McGraw's ghost writer. I asked Boze if John was peeved about something, and told him of the rousing reception equipped with every comfort.

Outstanding events scheduled are a memorial service, presentation of the anchor of the "Virginia-Merrimac" to the Confederate Museum and dedication of a tablet on the portico of the Capitol building on the spot where Jefferson Davis was inaugurated.

Little Prince Is Good Marksman
By United Press.
BUCHAREST.—Crown Prince Michael is becoming a better marksman each week, and soon hopes to be allowed to accompany his father hunting.

The former boy king now is allowed to accompany his father occasionally, but he cannot yet carry arms, and it is his ardent wish to join one of the parties as a "full-fledged" member. To fulfill this ambition, he is practicing and his marksmanship during his Easter vacation showed a great improvement.

Prince Michael also is developing into a good motorist. Once outside the city, on the way to and from the shooting field, the 10-year-old heir drove his own car. Next to shooting, motoring is his favorite amusement.

Richmond Plans to Entertain Heroes

RICHMOND, Va., June 9.—Elaborate plans are being made for the reception and entertainment of the last survivor of Lee's "thin line of gray," when they meet here for the 42d annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, June 21 to 24.

The reunion will run concurrent with the 37th convention of the Sons of Confederate Veterans and the 33d annual gathering of the Confederate Southern Memorial association. The committee expects at least 30,000 visitors.

Preliminary to the four-day session of the veterans, June 20 will be given over to special honor to be accorded General C. A. DeSaussure, of Memphis, command-in-chief of the organization. In addition to high military honors, General De Saussure will be made an honorary Boy Scout. A picked guard of Eagle Scouts are to act as his escort and induct him into membership.

Meanwhile the survivors of the Confederate army will find the parade ground of the Soldiers' Home converted into a modern military camp through the courtesy of the War Department. "Camp De Saussure" has been

GUM-DIPPED CORDS
The Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process transforms the cotton cords into a strong, tough, sinewy unit. Liquid rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, guarding against internal friction and heat, greatly increasing the strength of the cord body, and giving longer tire life.

TWO EXTRA GUM-DIPPED CORD PLYS UNDER THE TREAD

This is a patented construction, and the two extra Gum-Dipped cord plies are so placed that you get 50% stronger bond between tread and cord body, and tests show 20% greater protection against punctures and blowouts. It sets a new standard for tire performance on high speed cars.

NON-SKID TREAD
Tough, live rubber specially compounded for long, slow wear. Scientifically designed non-skid gives greater traction and safe, quiet performance.

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHERRY HIXON, 28 and pretty, falls in love with DAN THOMPSON, a newspaper reporter whose her wealthy, aristocratic parents have forbidden her to see. When Cherry learns Dan's telephone number she has been kept from her father discovers this and threatens to send her to California. Cherry defies him and he orders her to leave.

She goes to Dan, tells him what has happened and asks him to marry her. The ceremony is performed that night by a justice of peace. Next day Cherry, who has only the dress she is wearing, goes shopping. She opens a charge account, makes purchases that total $25.00, and then is asked to tell Dan of her extravagance. Her maid comes to see her next morning and announces to send Cherry's clothes. Cherry returns her purchases to the store but is discouraged to find that she looks at an expensive. While she is waiting for Dan the telephone rings.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

DAN'S voice came to her over the wire. "Hello, Cherry. Say, I don't know when I'm going to be able to get away from here. You'd better go out for dinner without waiting on me. Thought I'd better tell you—"

"Oh, Dan!" Cherry's disappointment was obvious.

"I'm sorry, dear. Make it just as soon as I can. What kind of a day did you have? Any luck with those apartments? Did you find anything you liked?"

Dan's tone was cheerful, casual. Cherry, after her wearying, disappointing day was suddenly swept by loneliness. She must see Dan. If he couldn't come to her she would go to him.

"Where are you?" she asked eagerly. "I don't mind about dinner. I'm not hungry but it's lonely here. Let me come and stay with you until you finish your work."

"But you can't, Cherry!"

"Please!"

"I'm sorry, but it's impossible. It's simply—well, it's just out of the question. I'll get there as soon as I can, but don't wait for me. I may be tied up for three or four hours yet."

The whole day had gone wrong for Cherry. She was weary and bewildered and frightened by what she had learned of the way living costs can gobble money. Now for Dan to disappoint her was the last straw! Suddenly she was like a hurt and petulant child.

"Why can't I come?" she demanded. "Why won't you let me? And I don't see any reason why you should have to keep on working. It's almost six o'clock—"

"Cherry! Don't you understand? I'm tied up on a story. A big one! I can't tell you about it now, honey, but this is going to be real news when it breaks. I've got to keep on the job—"

"But where are you?"

"Down at the union station."

Why, Dan, why couldn't I come down there? I supposed it was some place a long way off! Listen, I don't care what you say, I'm coming!"

"Now Cherry! Please—will you let me explain? You can't come down here. Something may happen—well, I mean we think will and if it does you wouldn't be safe. You'll have to wait until I get there. I'll tell you all about it then."

"How could anything happen at the station? Why, there are policemen lots of them. And so many people. I'm not afraid. I'm coming and we can have dinner there."

DAN'S voice rose dramatically. "You're not to come!" he insisted. "I can't stand here talking any longer, but you're not to come. Do you understand?" He hesitated, then went on with a sort of hushed breathlessness. "Here's what we're expecting. Bates got an absolutely straight tip this afternoon that Tony Toscaill—you know, the big New York gang leader—is getting into Wellington tonight. He's coming on a train. If he does McAlister's going to arrest him on a suspicious person charge. I'm here with Mac now. We don't know what train Toscaill's on so we have to wait. He'll have a bunch of gorillas with him of course. The swell part is the tip is absolutely exclusive. I've got a photographer and the minute that train gets in we'll mop up the whole thing. Splash it all over an extra! Boy, what a story!"

Cherry's petulance was gone. "But, Dan," she cried, "I'm afraid for you. If anything should happen—"

He scoffed at the idea. "There's nothing to worry about!" he assured her. "Not in the least. I'm keeping close to my personal body guard, safe as a bug in a rug. Now promise me, honey, that you'll do as I want you to. Be a good girl and go out and have dinner. See a movie maybe. It's the 8:15 we're watching especially, but he may come later and anyhow I'll be tied up at the office for a while. Well, will you promise?"

"Yes, but I'll be worried every minute!"

Dan's laugh rang in Cherry's ears as she put down the telephone. The girl was not smiling. So this was what it meant to be a newspaper man's wife. To know your husband might be in the path of a gunman's bullet and be powerless to interfere. To wait helplessly while the one you loved most in all the world was risking unknown dangers. Oh, how could she bear it!

"I mustn't go on this way!" the girl told herself. "Of course he'll be all right. I only have to wait an hour or so and then Dan will be here. He told me he'd be safe. I mustn't let myself imagine so much. I'll do as Dan said—go out and have dinner and maybe he'll be here when I get back."

TO put this resolution into practice Cherry crossed the room and snapped on the dressing table light. It was almost 6:30. The face that looked back at her from the mirror was pale and the dark eyes were shadowed by circles. Cherry was wearing the dress she had put on that morning. It was rumpled and altogether she was anything but the picture of a happy bride.

"Dan mustn't see me like this," Cherry thought. "I can't go out looking such a fright!"

She drew cold water and bathed her eyes. Then she took a quick shower, finishing with the water coming down like icy needle pricks. Wrapped in a rose dressing gown she sat before the mirror and applied fragrant face cream and powder that left her skin like warm ivory. A touch of lipstick, the dark curls brushed and tucked into place, and then she was ready for her frock. She was preoccupied and chose the green one she had worn the night before.

No matter how often she reassured herself, no matter how she tried to put her mind on other things, Cherry was worried.

When she was ready to go she stopped long enough to write a note for Dan in case he should arrive while she was away. It read: "Gone to the Maple Leaf tea room. Be back a little after eight."

She propped this against the pin cushion on the dressing table. Then she went downstairs and into the street.

The Maple Leaf tea room was two blocks away. Cherry had noticed it several times as she passed. It looked attractive and for some reason she did not want to go alone to the restaurant where she and Dan usually dined.

There were several vacant tables at the side of the room with places laid for two. She glanced at the menu and told the waitress to bring the 75-cent special dinner. It would be all right and would probably be served more quickly than anything else. She could eat and hurry back to wait for Dan.

A picture of Tony Toscaill seen in a newspaper photograph section flashed into Cherry's mind. "Maybe he's not really so wicked. It maybe he won't come!"

The last was a really cheering thought. On the strength of it Cherry attacked the rather tasteless, mildly warm croquette that had been set before her. She sampled the creamed peas and found them more appetizing.

"How do you do?"

WITH genuine surprise Cherry glanced up. The words seemed to be addressed to her and yet she was sure she must be mistaken. The young man who had spoken was not a dozen yards away. For a mo-

Slump Turning Hundreds Toward Old Gold Fields

Editor's Note: Every great period of stress in the fortunes of the American people has resulted in a migration to the frontiers. The panic of 1837 really instigated the Oregon and California movements; the panic of '57 started the Pike's Peak gold rush; and the depression of '73 and '93 populated the grain states of Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma.

History is repeating, although on a lesser scale, the United Press has discovered. Hundreds have gone back to the gold "diggings," an old-time mining town.

By CLYDE G. BYERS
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 DENVER, Colo.—The gold fever, raised to a critical pitch by the depression, has sent thousands to the gold bearing streams and sandbars of Colorado.

Some seek the adventure and romance of the early '60s. Others seek a living. In both groups are many who will succeed and many who will be disappointed.

Placer mining schools to teach novices how to use a gold pan and sluice box have been opened in more than 20 Colorado cities by the state board of vocational training, in conjunction with citizens' unemployment committees.

8,000 Take Course

Within six weeks 8,000 have taken the eight-day instruction and struck out to try their luck.

Instead of the legendary burro, or mountain canary, many are driving automobiles.

Old placer districts of the South Platte, Clear Creek, Gold Dirt, Buckskin Joe and Alma grounds are being repopulated. Old tailings are being reworked. And the possibility of locating a new Cripple Creek keeps interest at fever heat.

Plan Not Sanctioned

The movement has failed to gain the sanction of the Colorado School of Mines, which places the average daily earnings at 25 cents, or the state mining commissioner, John T. Joyce, who concedes 50 cents a day, but wonders what will happen to the hopefuls next winter.

Unemployment committees, however, favor and foster the placer mining revival because it gives the idle something to do and in some cases day wages are being made.

Before the summer is over, Joyce fears 15,000 to 20,000 will be whipping the streams to a froth.

Record Race Victor Thanks Firestone

Upper left, Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., referee of the race, and Edsel Ford, pacemaker on the first lap. Lower, Fred Frame, the winner, and Jerry Hauck, riding mechanic, in the car they drove to victory.

Men, automobiles and tires set amazing new records of speed and endurance in this year's 500-mile international race on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Giving a splendid exhibition of cool and steady driving, Fred Frame, veteran of many races, won the event in record-breaking time. With an admiring throng milling around him after his sensational victory, one of the first things Frame did was to send the following telegram to Harvey S. Firestone, pioneer tire manufacturer:

"I want to congratulate you and thank you on the wonderful performance of Firestone tires which helped me win the Indianapolis 500-mile race today without tire trouble, setting a new record of more than 104 miles an hour for the 500 miles."

The race throughout was a remarkable Firestone triumph. Every car to finish was equipped with Firestone tires. The first four broke the former record of 101.13 miles an hour made by Peter De Paolo in 1925. In all the history of the famous motor race there has never been a more severe test of tires and never a finer demonstration of their qualities than was furnished this year. It was the thirteenth consecutive victory for Firestone.

 HAVANA.—Fishermen diving into the gulf near here to release a fouled anchor, discovered a barnacle-encrusted cannon which, after being hauled to the surface, was declared by ordnance experts to be one of those used by Sir Francis Drake when he attacked the city in the sixteenth century. Beside the cannon were found several ancient coins.

Children's Story Hour, Auspices Thursday Afternoon Study Club.
The story hour for children under auspices of the Thursday Afternoon Study Club, opened Wednesday morning, in the community clubhouse, with the talented Mrs. J. M. Perkins as the raconteur.
Children met in the reading room of the library, and were in charge of the library chairman, Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, until classification, and registration by Mrs. B. M. Collins, president of the Thursday club.
The Book Club of Eastland was represented by Mrs. E. E. Frey-schlag.
Mrs. Perkins will be chairman for the story telling hour for the month of June.
Arrangements will be made by her for a raconteur for each Wednesday morning.
As a preliminary or curtain-raiser to the story hour, a program was presented by the small juniors, opening with Patzy Seaberry in a reading, "My Bean," Doris Collie of Amarillo, in "Flower Poem," and Virgil Seaberry, who gave, "No Complaints."
The children were then divided according to ages, and the preschool children, told a delightful story in the library, by Mrs. Mc-

Laughlin, whose subject was "The Train of Toys."
In the clubroom, the older group gathered to hear Mrs. Perkins give a dramatic version of a Chinese folk tale, and "Kikki-Tikki," a tale by Rudyard Kipling.
The children were assembled and circle games concluded the program with the final singing of "Eyes of Texas" and "America."
Next week Mrs. Leslie Gray will give a group of negro dialect readings for children's hour.
A novel feature in connection with the program each Wednesday morning will be the arrangement of a little theatre, in which dolls represent characters, in a play scene worked out in miniature by the children, who will arrange the stage each Wednesday. AGED COMPOSER IS NAMED STATE'S OLDEST MOTHER
By United Press.
NEW IBERIA, La.—Mrs. Alfred Duperier, who composes modern "jazzy" music although she is 95 and blind, has been singled out as "the oldest mother in Louisiana." Mrs. Duperier's latest composition is "Bonum Rag."
Mrs. Duperier, before her marriage in 1855, was the daughter of Thomas Mille, a native of Cassis, France. Her father and many of her relatives perished in a hurricane and tidal wave which destroyed Last Island, off the southeast coast of Louisiana. Her father was kinder to her, than a comely French maiden of 19. After clinging to wave-tossed timbers all night she was rescued by a negro butler of the family. She was nursed back to health by a young doctor whom she later married.
Mrs. Duperier was named the oldest mother in the state by the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs as a part of the General Federation's effort to find "the oldest mother in America."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN
BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer
If you would serve your iced tea as fragrant and sparkling as the hot beverage, choose the brand with care and keep in mind the following suggestions:
Properly made tea should not be allowed to steep or "brew" longer than five minutes. At the end of this time the tea infusion should be poured from the leaves and the leaves thrown away.
The favoring substance and stimulating properties in tea leaves are quickly extracted by boiling water. The short period of steeping produces a fragrant, delicate flavored beverage, mildly stimulating to some persons. Long steeping will extract the tannin from the leaves and spoil the delicate flavor. The taste will be bitter and "puckery" and the fragrance wholly lost. No amount of fresh water added to too strong tea can undo the damage.
In making tea to be iced, allow twice as much dry tea for each cup as for a hot drink. Do not lengthen the steeping time.
To serve, fill glasses full of coarsely cracked ice or half full of chopped or shaved ice. Pour tea in ice, taking care not to touch the glass with the hot tea.
Tea is Best Poured Over Ice
Freshly brewed, well-made tea poured over ice is not all the same beverage as that which is made very strong and cooled and weakened with water and finally served with a piece of ice tinkle. The first is clear with a delicate fragrance and taste, while the second is cloudy with a bitter taste no satter how much it is weakened or sweetened.
Powdered sugar is better to serve with iced tea than granulated. The advantage of this is that powdered sugar dissolves in cold liquid more easily than the coarser granulated variety.
Either the Juice or sections of

In place of sugar This syrup is most convenient to keep on hand during the summer months, because it combines so quickly with fruit juices than does plain sugar.
To make syrup, put one cup granulated sugar and one-half cup water into a smooth sauce pan. Bring to the boiling point, cover and boil five minutes. This is a rather thick concentrated syrup. One tablespoonful will be enough to sweeten a glass of iced tea to suit the average taste.
Children should never be allowed to drink tea in any form. If the tinkle of ice and accompanying lemon and sugar of iced tea should prove too enticing for children at the family table, a glass of lemonade should be provided for them.
Tea may be frozen and used in frozen cubes as well flavored with lemon a delicious drink is forthcoming.
Don't forget that powdered tea can be used with cold water to make an iced drink at a moment's notice.

HERE-- AND THERE

By ELVIE H. JACKSON

Are you air-minded? You can hardly pick up a magazine or a newspaper nowadays that you don't read about some additional feat in flying, some new airport, or new ways of traveling, or new toggery for airwomen, or news of municipal or local airports.

Eastland has a fine opportunity to secure lots of publicity through the air route travellers, who yearn to land here, and do accomplish this whenever possible, for it is known that this landing field is under government supervision and not open to civilians and also that there is the sad lack of a hangar, which deters many from landing here willy nilly, as, according to Mrs. Agnes Harwood Doyle, aviators always seek a field for landing that has an airport protection for their planes.

Bill Garrett and Bill Hossey, the later a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Strawpe, who lived northeast of the city are flying a three place Franklin OX plane, which one may notice flying over our city very often. They also visit Ranger, Brownwood and Cisco and other towns. Mrs. Doyle flew this ship from Ranger to Eastland on Tuesday.

As there is no hangar at the Eastland airport to protect planes from the weather, the men who would alight here, seek other towns, and have been landing in Cisco, or Ranger, which has a good field, with a small hangar, which is full of planes all the time.
Mrs. Doyle stated that she found the plane she had flown, very easy to handle, and was very much pleased with the result, and observed that Eastland had better get busy and do something about securing a hangar and drawing this class of travel here.
She suggests organizing a flying club and stated all interested could get their flying time very economically, and that the club could have their own plane, and invites all those interested in this matter to take it up with over phone 481 W.

An ex pilot aviator, Harold Bromley, wished to land in Eastland, but said he was prevented as there was no field here, he had heard.
That Eastland should spread the news that she really has a field, is very evident. What Eastland certainly needs, it is said, is a municipal airport.

GOAT ROPING CONTEST
By United Press.
ELDORADO, Tex.—Another roping contest which may vie with the Odessa Jack-rabbit roping contest for popularity has come to the front here.
W. T. Whitten and Seth Ramsey, local ranchmen, have opened a goat roping contest in a local park. Each ropper is charged 75 cents for each throw. If he ropes a goat in 10 seconds or less the animal is his. It is not necessary to tie the goat after the animal is roped.
HAVANA.—Keen competition among Havana's numerous street vendors has reduced the price of big, juicy pineapples to as low as three for five cents.

Beauty Grilled in Death

Facing Scotland Yard questioners, Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, daughter of Sir John Ashley Mullins, told her story of the shooting of Michael Scott Stephens, son of a banker, who was found slain in her fashionable London apartment after what she termed an all-night cocktail party. Mrs. Barney said she struggled with Stephens for possession of a revolver. An accidental discharge killed him, she said. Mrs. Barney, whose marriage to an American singer recently was dissolved, was released in custody of her father.

Woodmen Circle District Convention Report is Heard at Meeting.
The Julia Alexander Grove No. 1954 of the Woodmen Circle convened at the hall Wednesday afternoon in an interesting session, with the guardian, Mrs. C. C. Cash, giving in detail a report of the district convention meeting held at Mineral Wells last week.
Minutes of last Wednesday's program were read and approved. The grove as a whole is doing exceptionally good work despite the vacation season which is drawing several members from these beneficial meetings.
Ranger grove is happy to announce three new members added since the opening of the membership campaign which is in full swing honoring the national president, Mrs. Mary E. Larocco, who was an outstanding delegate at the convention numbered among other officers of prominent rank.
Another interesting feature was the election of a new junior supervisor, who names Mrs. Pauline Fry supervisor in charge.

The contest with group captains as leaders will be brought to a close at the meeting next week after a period of five weeks. Fifteen members attended the program which proved quite instructive.

DO YOU INHALE

Silence may be golden... but is that why other cigarette advertising is generally silent on this question?

WHEN the truth hurts—it's only natural to avoid the subject! Inhaling has long been an "untouchable" topic in cigarette advertising. And no wonder! In every tobacco leaf—even the finest, the mildest—nature hides certain impurities which, when not removed, are unkind to delicate membranes!

And since, knowingly or unknowingly, every smoker inhales some part of the smoke from his or her cigarette, Lucky Strike developed that great scientific process which removes certain impurities. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? More than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.
