RANGER GOOD WILL TOUR BIG SUCCESS

Garner Given Midnight Reception at Uvalde

GRIPINGS

This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject, without notice, explanation or apology.

I guess the printers will cuss me for getting my copy in so late. But on account of Bill Mayes going on that Good Will trip, I've had lots of things to do. I never did think Bill did much around here until I had to do it myself today. He is either a lot faster than the good old I'm a lot slower than he is, because I'm just late and can't help it.

And me late and everything and a life insurance salesman comes in and hands me some of his literature and wants me to take out a policy in his company. Why, heck! I got to take out some job insurance first and get a little something in this paper. So I told him I didn't mean to be rude, but I did mean to be positive and to please remove himself for the present and come back in an hour or so and I'd apologize if I seemed to hurt his feelings.

Well, here comes Bill and he's got to have his typewriter to get away in the night. I'll be seeing you some time tomorrow.

John M. Gholson Is Seriously Ill

John M. Gholson, who for many years has made Ranger his home and who is well known and highly admired by a host of friends, is in a very serious condition at the West Texas Clinic and Hospital, following an operation performed at 1 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Gholson, who for the past few years has suffered from severe stomach trouble, has been confined to his home for the past few weeks but thought to be slightly improved until late yesterday afternoon when he was rushed to the hospital, immediately undergoing a major operation.

Geo. Bryant to Speak in Ranger Tonight

George Bryant will speak in Ranger tonight in furthering his campaign for county judge. A misunderstanding, a speaking date on the part of a reporter caused this paper to say that Bryant would speak in Ranger last night.

SCOTS PEEVED OVER KILTS

INVERNESS, Scotland.—Highland coats are in vogue at the growing tendency of Londoners and Lowland folk to wear the kilt. They claim that the "usurpers" have no right to the costume.

Sidelights On Good Will Tour

J. Haig Johnson, by putting on one of those paper derby hats looked almost like he belonged in the Tickville band.

Charlie Moore, brandishing a big pistol, acted as traffic cop at Caddo, asking all who passed to "Come see us again."

Heard at every stop: When is the Tickville band going to play. That's what I want to hear.

Cint Kimbo, at Thurber, remarked that Ranger was the most musical town in these parts with its three bands, all good.

Those who expected a cool reception at Strawn didn't know their Strawn. A large turnout greeted the trippers and as cordial a welcome as was received along the route was extended here.

The mayor, O. M. Hurst, expressed good will toward Ranger and her citizens.

Overheard at every stop: Well, our three bands certainly put things over in a big way on this trip. They certainly are making a hit.

Very Fair Olympic Headwork

Here's Texas' one-girl track team, Mildred "Babe" Dickinson, of Dallas, who captured her state's A. A. U. championship single-handed. Now she's in Chicago for the final Olympic tryouts and National A. A. U. championships for women, wearing, incidentally, the first hat she ever had in the 18 years of her life.

DAN MOODY TO SPEAK THUR., IN EASTLAND

Dan Moody, former governor of Texas, will speak in Eastland Thursday, July 21, on behalf of the candidacy of Ross Sterling for governor.

This information was received late Monday in a message from the Dallas headquarters of the Sterling campaign. Ex-Governor Moody will speak in Eastland somewhere near 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The fiery little redheaded attorney is not a stranger in this county. During the early part of his practice he tried an important case in the court in Eastland.

John Curtis Is Released To Be With Sick Wife

NORFOLK, Va., July 19.—John Hughes Curtis, local shipbuilder, under a year's sentence for obstructing the hunt for the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, arrived today from Flemington, N. J., where he was released from jail yesterday.

Curtis went immediately to his sick wife at Willoughby Beach.

Notification Ceremonies For Hoover in Aug.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—House minority leader, Bertrand Snell of New York, announced at the white house today that President Hoover would be notified of his nomination for re-election on the republican ticket on either Aug. 8 or 15.

Ranger Men Charged In Holdup of Store

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 18.—L. M. Patterson and R. E. Haley of Ranger, Texas, were charged today with robbery with firearms of a grocery store here Saturday night. The men were captured after a chase in which several shots were exchanged. No one was wounded.

Both pleaded not guilty and were held for trial without bond.

The two names mentioned cannot be positively recognized by the Ranger police department, although one of the names seems familiar except for the initials.

WILL FISH AND REST THEN GO CAMPAIGNING

Predict Democratic Victory But Is "Weak As Hell" and Wants to Rest.

By United Press.

UVALDE, Texas, July 19.—Fire sirens and the town band welcomed Speaker John Garner, democratic nominee for vice president, home here.

It was long after midnight when the parade of automobiles bringing the speaker and Mrs. Garner from San Antonio. But several hundred of their neighbors, many of whom are proud of the fact that they retire at 9 p. m., were waiting to cheer them.

The sirens aroused the remainder of the citizenry and by the time Speaker Garner clambered up his front steps to express his appreciation, nearly all of the all-bodied men, women and children of the town were cheering their foremost citizen.

"I'm mighty grateful for the affection of you people," said Garner. "It's good to be back home. You can't rest anywhere else like you can at home and we've been away longer now than we ever have before."

He reviewed briefly the session of congress just ended and repeated his earlier statements of presidential opposition to relief bills and told how he and the house democrats defeated the president in three clashes. He defended his own relief bill.

"It's a hard job working and arguing to beat those republicans and I'm about done up. Mrs. Garner, though, worked harder than I did."

"The democrats are going to win this election and I'm going to get in the fight just as soon as I catch a few fish and get my voice a little rested."

There were loud and long cheers.

Uvalde's welcome to the Garners began at San Antonio, 80 miles east of here, where 100 residents including Speaker Garner's son Tully, his wife and Genevieve, the speaker's pretty 10-year-old granddaughter, drove to meet the train on which the Garners came from St. Louis.

Mayor C. M. Chambers and 500 San Antonians crowded about the train when it arrived two hours late because of demonstrations for Garner at Austin, Temple, Waco, Hillsboro, Dallas, Greenville and Denison.

The train was stopped half a mile from the San Antonio station to let the young Garners aboard.

He told San Antonio newspapermen that he was going to fish and rest for several weeks and say nothing of particular significance. "I'm weak as hell. You can come to Uvalde and take pictures of the old grey mare and interview Genevieve, but you won't see me. I'm going fishing."

Interviewed on the spot, brown-eyed Genevieve said Speaker Garner was "a fine granddaddy." And that she is doing some campaigning for him while riding her spotted pony with her playmates, but has yet found no one who is not going to vote for him.

ROTARY CLUB PRESENTS RESUME OF THE YEAR

The Rotary club luncheon was held at the usual hour on the roof garden of the Gonnelle hotel on Monday, with Sid Pilzer, vice president, in the chair, in the absence of the president, James Horton, and with Walter I. Clark, as temporary secretary, substituting for C. A. Hertig.

Both these officers are attending the presidents meeting at the Big Spring convention.

Sterling Favors State Paying Off County's Road Bonds

Governor Ross Sterling's strong and unqualified endorsement of the tax reduction and public expenditure reduction program recently launched by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce should indeed be pleasing to the citizens of this section, in many counties of which the tax burden is almost too heavy to bear. But what should be still more attractive to the citizens of Eastland county is Mr. Sterling's announcement that after the elections he plans to call an extra session of the state legislature for the purpose of submitting to that body measures to be enacted into law that will permit the taking over by the state of the road bond indebtedness of Texas counties where such bonded indebtedness is for state highways.

On July 1 Eastland county had outstanding $3,151,000 in highway bonds. With its present tax rate at $1.86 and with a still higher rate in prospect for each succeeding year because of the decline in property valuations, the bonded indebtedness of the county is too great a burden for the people, ever decreasing in number, to bear and relief must be had from some source.

The county commissioners court, in order to keep from defaulting this year in the payment of interest and sinking funds on its bonds, re-funded some of its indebtedness. This is expensive, however, and next year the tax rate must necessarily be higher than it is at present.

Governor Sterling's plan to have the legislature pass laws permitting the state to take over the highway bonds of counties would relieve Eastland county taxpayers of approximately $3,000,000, reduce our present tax rate of $1.86 to 66 cents and give the people some hopes for the future.

The people of Eastland county have been asking for just such relief as Governor Sterling's proposal offers and whether they have been supporters of his candidacy heretofore or not it behooves them to support him for re-election as he is the only one offering any hope of relief from the tax burdens that are weighing us down. It has been stated that Governor Sterling's proposal, if put into effect, would mean a greater refund per capita to Eastland county than any other county in the state.

SAN ANGELO GETS ROTARY DIST. MEETING

SWEETWATER, Texas, July 19.—Rotary presidents and secretaries of the West Texas Rotary district in convention here today selected San Angelo as the site of the next spring convention and discussed points concerning successful operation of a Rotary club.

The delegates were entertained at a banquet last night. The convention is scheduled to adjourn this afternoon.

CITY COMMISSIONERS MEET

The regular meeting of the city commissioners of Eastland was held in the city hall at 4 p. m., with Alex Clarke, chairman of the board, presiding.

City Manager Marlow stated that the two hours conference was given entirely to discussion of ways and means of relief for the people of Eastland, and a general discussion of the affairs of the city.

Nothing definite was settled other than they will endeavor to have some change made in the taxes, through the meeting of the equalization board to be in session all day Monday, July 25, opening at 8 a. m.

This board is composed of Theodore Ferguson, A. T. Bendy, and Jop F. Little.

Joe Jones Flays Blanton Before Largest Political Gathering of Year

Before a crowd of his neighbors, friends and admirers that filled the south side of the courthouse lawn and overflowed into the streets, Joe Jones criticized Congressman Thomas L. Blanton for having members of his family on the government payroll, for the excessive amount of printed matter turned out by the government printing office and circulated through the mails at a tremendous cost, for Blanton's part in the manufacturers' excise tax and for his campaign methods.

DAMAGE SUIT IS FILED IN LANGHORN CASE

By United Press.

LAGRANGE, Tex., July 19.—Ernest Alexander, campaign manager for Gov. Ross Sterling was sued for $100,000 damages here today in connection with the circulation of campaign literature.

The damage suit was brought by Minnie Zapala, prosecuting witness in the trial of William Langhorn seven years ago. The suit charged she suffered $60,000 damage by the circulation of an account of the case in connection with the present campaign. The remaining $40,000 is asked as punitive damages.

Langhorn was given the death penalty on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of the plaintiff's sister, Valerie Zapala, when his conviction said he had criminally assaulted Minnie at the time.

Mrs. M. A. Ferguson, when governor, commuted the death sentence to life imprisonment she said in the belief Langhorn was insane. He has been in the penitentiary since 1927.

Officials explained they wanted to have an experienced man to take charge of the Ottawa legation during absence of Minister Harford MacNider. MacNider has not resigned, but it is reported he does not plan to remain in Ottawa indefinitely.

PICKETING BY BONUS ARMY POSTPONED

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Hoover returned to the white house today and found that a demonstration by "left wing" members of the bonus army planned to coincide with his arrival had failed to materialize.

As a precautionary measure a police escort met the president's auto as it entered the District of Columbia from Virginia and rode in advance of him to the white house. Mr. Hoover left his car at a side entrance and went directly to his offices.

Word came from the headquarters of John Pace, leader of the "left wing" portion of the bonus army, that picketing of the white house would start tomorrow instead of today.

One of Pace's lieutenants said the plan was for a group of picketers to remain in front of the white house executive offices during the hours that Mr. Hoover was there.

The veterans' bureau today reported that 3,083 applications for transportation had been approved. Transportation and subsistence funds have been issued to 2,947.

140 PEOPLE ON TRIP OF JR. COLLEGE

Three Bands, Speakers and Much Fun Features Good Will Tour.

The most enthusiastic good will tour ever staged by Ranger or the Ranger Junior College received an enthusiastic welcome all along the route of travel today, presenting programs at each of the towns at which stops were made.

The longest stop was made at noon at Breckenridge, where the Breckenridge Rotary club turned out 100 per cent to hear the program sponsored by the Ranger Junior College.

At Eastland, one of the important stops along the route of travel, one of the largest delegations to meet the good will trippers, headed by prominent citizens of Eastland, welcomed the motoreade of 35 cars and 140 people, including three bands.

Concerts were given by the Ranger high school band at Eastland, followed by addresses from members of the trip and a response on behalf of the city of Eastland. The Lone Star band, which made the entire trip, rendered a concert, which was well received with rounds of applause. The American Legion Tickville band rendered a short program, which received enthusiastic applause and praise.

At Breckenridge the delegation, together with a large number of citizens of the Dynamite City, gathered in the Y. M. C. A., where a luncheon, attended by approximately 200 people, was enjoyed.

L. H. Fjellstrom of Ranger acted as master of ceremonies. He called on R. F. Holloway, R. S. Van Roster and O. G. Lanier, heads of A. M., O. E. S., and the American Legion Tickville band, who were all present.

A quartet composed of Pauline Head, Chrystal Head, Marjorie Clark and Merle Stewart, rendered three selections, "I Ain't Got Nobody," "Sweet Sue" and "Lullaby of the Leaves" which received much applause.

The program was then turned over to the American Legion Tickville band, which presented several numbers, each of which received hearty cheers, round after round of applause and a most enthusiastic reception both from the Ranger delegation and the citizens of Breckenridge.

After leaving Breckenridge the motoreade proceeded to Cisco, where a 30-minute stop was made and the regular program presented.

From Eastland the motoreade was to proceed to Carbon, Gorman, Desdemona and Staff, at which places programs were to be presented.

The good will tour was one of the largest of its kind ever to be staged in this part of the country and it was expected that it would do incalculable good to the Ranger Junior college.

WHY AN OVERPRODUCTION OF OIL?

In an effort to bring about further curtailment of oil production in the Mid-Continent area, Thurman Hill, member of the Kansas public service commission, will hold a series of conferences with Oklahoma and Texas and Kansas producers. This is his frank statement: "If the United States production can be cut to 2,000,000 barrels daily, I have been assured it would logically follow that producers would be entitled to a price increase which I insist would be 25 cents a barrel."

All this is a reminder that California already has made sweeping cuts. As for the Hill plan, it would require a production cut of about 4 per cent and would result in a 25 per cent increase in petroleum prices.

It is amazing for a fairly intelligent Texan to read the bunk written or spoken by a few so-called ballyhoosers, relative to what happened in the East Texas field when Sterling sent the national guardsmen there to prevent a total collapse of the oil industry by a flood of overproduction from the new wells, which was selling at the time at the low price level of 10 cents. Indeed cheaper than 10 cents by those who were ready to precipitate, if necessary, a nation-wide disaster in the petroleum fields.

Sterling issued his order. It saved the day. It placed a million a day ever since in the pockets of the little fellows who were land-owners or lease-owners or royalty-owners.

It not only saved the day for all concerned in the rich fields of East Texas, but it taught all concerned in the oil fields of America that drastic measures were necessary to prevent the whole army of independents, as well as those who owned oil-bearing lands, all leaseholders and royalty-owners from being swept into the ditch of complete financial ruin.

A man of courage who protects the rights of all should be crowned with laurels instead of being made a target for the slime and slander of irresponsible under the skies of this commonwealth. Sterling saved the day. Now it is for those who love their state and its mighty natural resources, for those who point with pride to the glories of the past and present and to the rich heritage which the future will bring to the children of men, to go to the primary election polls and cast their ballots for a man of the people who risked all that they might be saved in their hour of danger, when crude was selling cheaper than water and a most menacing crisis threatened to bring complete ruin upon the thousands concerned.

There should be some reward for courage, honesty, fealty to the cause of the commonwealth, loyalty to oath of office and devotion to stern and unbending justice for masses who dig and toil in the empire state of America.

TEXAS AND ITS PETROLEUM INDUSTRY

Governor Sterling by his declaration of martial law and the enforcement of protective regulations in the East Texas oil field placed a million dollars a day "ever since the order was issued," in the pockets of those who needed it. All keen economists admit this fact without argument. All men who believe in the protection of Texas, Texas' interests, and the pockets of all concerned including an army of little fellows concede this to be absolutely true.

A reminder that a bulletin issued by Progressive Texans, Inc., asserts that the dominance of Texas in the petroleum industry is indicated by its production of 39.1 per cent of all the crude oil in the United States 23.7 per cent of the natural gasoline, 24.7 per cent of the standard gasoline, and 23.6 per cent of all other petroleum products. Petroleum processing accounts for considerably more than one-third of all the manufacturing in Texas.

Texas had a governor when the crisis came who had the vision and the courage and the intellectual honesty as well as the moral fibre behind that honesty to throw himself into the breach and by drastic measures force the price of crude from 10 cents a barrel to 90 cents or a dollar a barrel. Wage earners, the hand-brain workers of the state in all the oil fields of the state in all the oil fields of Texas should remember with gratitude in these perilous times the bold stand taken by Sterling for the protection of the rights of those who are forever battling for fair wages for their dependents and standards of living which should be the highest to be found in all the nations of the earth. They should not swallow the political bunk of demagogues bent on feathering their own nests when given a chance or surrender to the passions and prejudices dished out by the ballyhoosers of politics who toil not and never spin and yet insist that "the world owes them a living."

Sterling is a man of the people; no man holds his proxy. There is no power behind the throne under the big dome of the Texas capitol. There is a fair deal and a square deal for all while the rugged plain spoken individual holds the reins and does his level best for all the people all the time and not a few of the people most of the time. All his records are open to the public. They found under the domes of the capitol building or in the court files of Texas.

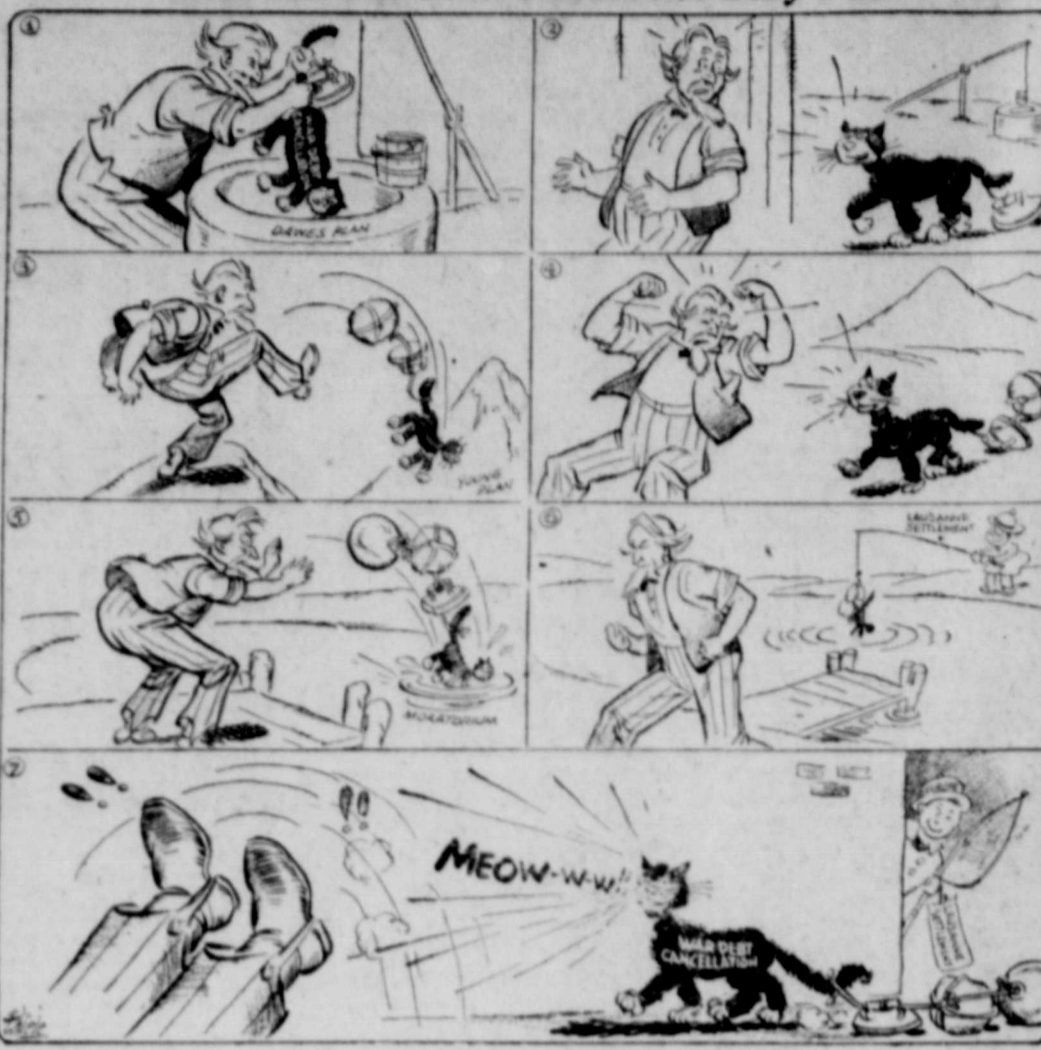

WAR DEBTS AND THEIR PAYMENT

Prime ministers of allied nations announced that the United States is not a party to any agreement on reparations. President Hoover makes the interesting announcement that he has not been approached looking to the cancellation of the allied war debts, held by the American government. In a nutshell, the prime ministers of the foreign nations, according to the gentleman's agreement at Lausanne, are willing to whittle German reparations down to $5,000,000 and then to use the argument that if they are forgiven Germany the United States should wipe the slate clean by the cancellation of the debts contracted by allied governments of Europe with the American government while the World War was on.

Uncle Sam holds the bag. Why not general discharge of all the nations of the earth and then cancellation of the debts?

In ancient China, and even in parts of the world, the head of the family only pays the family household remains in good health. When a patient dies, there is no

The Old Cat That Refuses to Stay Put!

TEXAS TOPICS

By RAYMOND BROOKS. AUSTIN.—How many votes will there be July 23?

Texas democrats, when the issue of taking or refusing to take a pledge was just as strongly before them, ignored it so far as the primary elections were concerned four years ago and two years ago. There is no reason now to suppose that considerable numbers are going to stay out of the primary in order to preserve the freedom of action to vote in the general election. Courts have sustained the legal right to participate in the nomination of state officials and then follow one's conscience as to supporting them; and besides, there is no extreme difference in the national platforms. One platform offers to throw over the dross in order to win wet votes; the other takes a definite stand toward which the first longingly leans.

Intense local races will bring out a large vote in most counties, even apart from the congress-at-large and the state races. Campaigns like the governorship and attorney general and legislative races will encourage heavy voting. Opinion about the state capital is that the vote will run about 800,000 and may exceed 850,000.

Forefront on the part of election judges and tellers will save them a lot of sunrise work Sunday morning. They may start counting the ballots, and keep somewhere nearby with the voting during the day, so that the tallying will be finished soon after the polls close at 7 p. m. If they wait in a large box, until the polls close they will have a full night's work ahead, considering the ballot of 75 to 100 names in the various counties.

Prisoners in the Texas penitentiary system draw no pay, of course. It used to be that the state had to pay out $11 per day per prisoner for their support, in addition to the fruits of their work. Now the prison authorities are able to report that the actual cash outlay is about $1 per month per prisoner; most of the food and supplies being produced in the system itself.

Clem Calhoun's campaign address at Austin recited the statement that the fees fixed by law for the county attorney assisting the attorney general in the anti-trust suit, if a possible maximum recovery were obtained, would amount to $892,000, and that County Judge Roy C. Archer has given notice that under the $5,000 maximum fee law, the county would expect to get all above this limit of the fees for its general fund.

French Racing Is In Bad Condition

By United Press. PARIS.—The French turf is in a bad way. It is one of the institutions most severely hit by the depression. Close followers of horse-racing in France say that when spring-time comes next year and the pari-mutuel reopens for business at the metropolitan tracks there will be a thousand thoroughbreds less for the improvement of which the bettors will be called upon to contribute their paper francs at the booths.

The small stables are having a hard time to meet their oats and hay bills, even at this stage with the season in full swing and dire predictions are made that not a few selling platters will find their way into the butcher shops instead of winter training quarters.

Three large stable owners have given up racing. They are: the Aga Khan, wealthy Indian potentate and spiritual ruler of millions of Hindus; Jacques Wittouck, the Belgian gin magnate and Captain Jefferson Davis Cohn, one of the most prominent British owners campaigning in France since the Armistice.

Political Follies of 1932

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—It was a beautiful, balmy night and the more you watched those strange goings-on in front of the United States Capitol the balnier everything seemed to be. You drove up to the Hill this night to see the hundreds of ex-soldiers, broke and demanding the cash bonus, who were camping at the Capitol as a method of protest and propaganda.

What happened later was so unlike anything that had ever happened before in that spot that your correspondent took quite a few notes. Here are some of them.

A Picnic Without Food

VETS won't be permitted to sleep on the grounds again. Hand plays the Pilgrim's Chorus. Boys and girls holding hands on the grass, kids with velocipedes. It's a picnic, but no food in sight. The vets had a few cents, some stale bread and some coffee for dinner.

Most veterans are beyond the plaza, on sidewalk, on the wall and on the grass behind. There go the cops, just a few, telling everybody to get off the grass. It's tough on some of the bonus boys who have dropped off to sleep.

"Keep Moving, Pal"

THE men are instructed by their leaders, since they can't sit or lie down on the sidewalk, to march slowly all night. They move reluctantly from the grass, over the wall and the 800 or 900 of them are soon mingled with a crowd four times as large. An airplane roars overhead, underneath a road, white moon.

The Strain Tells

THEY begin to fall out and pile up on the steps. Ten or 15 minutes and everyone is kicked off the steps, gently, again. Lights on the dome go off well after midnight. Relative darkness. The crowd is eased slowly from the grounds by police wedges. Marchers drop out in greater numbers, piling on dry grass next the Capitol and on the steps again.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

MRS. HARRIET W. TONER, Publisher of the Anderson (Ind.) Herald, Says:

"Advertising, of which newspaper advertising is by far the most important, is the life of business and never more so than now. To that institution that now keeps itself in the people's knowledge by constant advertising will come the success of the next few years. Business is lining up for preferred position to be in readiness for the return of prosperity. Overhead is reduced to the lowest figure in years, stocks are organized on an efficiency basis, the personnel is of the best because all dead timber has long since been trimmed out, and everything is all set for the come-back."

"Those wise business heads, who are psychologists as well as executives have realized all along that they must keep their institutions constantly in the reckoning of the public. They need no urge toward advertising. They have matter how drastic the cut has been in other departments. Now these firms have the position of advantage and they will keep it. The only hope that those of lesser wisdom have is to address themselves to the most aggressive and important advertising program that is possible for them to promote. By that means and that only can they hope to twin the prosperity that they hope for."

June Building In Texas Shows Small Less Over May

AUSTIN.—Preliminary reports from 34 Texas cities on building permits issued during June indicate that seasonal decline from the previous month will not be so great as has been true during the preceding five years, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

"The total amount of building permits issued during June was $1,320,750," the bureau's report said. "This total is less by about 13 percent than that for May, although the average amount for the two months during the past few years was 17 per cent. Building permits were 65 per cent below those for June a year ago."

Austin, where a permit for a new highway building was issued for $200,000, headed the list of cities with total new permits for June, $506,569. Fort Worth was second with $168,754, and Houston and third with permits valued at $150,503. Austin was the only city to make a substantial gain in permits as compared with a year ago, although Corsicana, Denison, Langston, Lubbock, Paris, San Angelo, Sherman, and Snyder all showed increases as compared with last June.

For the first six months of the year the 34 cities reported building permits issued amounting to $10,068. Of this amount, $4,718,222 was in Austin; San Antonio, Dallas, Houston, and Longview all had total building permits for the first half amounting to more than $1,000,000. In the corresponding period last year the total for the 34 cities was $12,377,000, of which $5,902,121 was in Austin, Longview, Marshall, Paris, Snyder and Wichita Falls showed gains for the first six months in 1932, as compared with the corresponding six months in 1931. Houston all made substantial gains, both relatively and in actual dollar value of permits.

In the United States, construction awards during the first half of 1932 totaled $667,079,700, or 71 per cent less than the total for the corresponding period in 1931, according to the F. W. Dodge corporations. According to this same authority, total contracts awarded in Texas during the first six months of 1932 totaled only $26,737,700, of which $5,002,121 was for residential building, $10,845,100 non-residential building, and $10,910,000 public works and utilities. Residential building has been holding its own better than either of the other two groups. Last year during the first six months, contracts totaling $112,463,700 were awarded. There has been on change in the downward course of building costs. An index published by the F. W. Dodge corporation shows that building materials are approximately 30 per cent below the average for 1926."

140 People on Trip

(Continued from page 1) 7:30 o'clock in the morning, making their first stop at Thurber, where the program was presented as outlined in these columns previously.

From Thurber the motored west to Mingo, Gordon, Straw, Wink City, Caddo, Breckenridge, Cisco and Eastland, where one of the longest stops on the trip was made at 3:20 in the afternoon. At Eastland the bands, the speakers and the reception committee from the county capitol mingled in the courthouse square. The bands played, the speakers spoke and everyone had a good time for 30 minutes, when the motored left, heading south toward Carbon, Gorman and Desdemona, where stops were to be made later in the afternoon.

The famous American Legion Tickville Band of Ranger, which made the trip with the motored, proved a success at each town where it played. A reception of from 15 to 30 minutes was turned over to the band at each stop and the musicians captivated the crowd with their inimitable clowning as well as by their clever renditions of the musical numbers they rendered on the program.

The Ranger High school band, under the direction of R. L. Maddox, who returned to Ranger in order to make the trip, made a distinct hit wherever it appeared. At the towns along the route the program was put on and, as the cats were leaving, the high school band wound up the program with short concert which entertained the cars were getting underway.

The Lone Star band, one of the best musical organizations in this part of the country, had an impressive part on the program appearing at each town as part of the musical entertainment. Their rendition of the numbers on the program brought much applause from the spectators at each town. The three bands, the high school band, the Lone Star band and the American Legion Tickville band, made the trip one of the most successful of its kind ever attempted and many remarks were heard during the day to the effect that had it not been for the three bands, the trip would not have been a success that it proved to be.

CHURCH 134 YEARS OLD.

By United Press. RICHFIELD SPRINGS, N. Y.—One hundred and thirty-four years old, the Reformed Protestant Dutch church of Columbia still stands as a symbol of the sturdiness of this nation's forefathers. The church was founded on July 8, 1798, shortly after ending of the Revolutionary war.

The TINNITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

THE zebra circled here and there and frankly didn't seem to care where it was really bound for. It just ran with all its might. The Tinnies, who were chasing it, kept on but didn't gain one bit. "If we don't hurry," Duncy said, "I'll run right out of sight."

"As for myself, I'm getting tired with lots of pep that beast's inspired and we are simply foolish to be running on like this."

"I think I'll flop down on the ground and soon I will be sleeping sound. My share of sleep is one thing that I always hate to miss."

"Oh, my you are a lazy lad," said Scouty. "Frankly, I'd be glad to run a bit like this each day to keep myself in trim. Some day you're going to realize that everyone needs exercise. I only wish that we were where we all could take a swim."

"That sport is very good for you but something that we don't do. However, let's quit galloping and catch that zebra now. But when they started to round the frisky beast could be found "My goodness," said Windy. "It has disappeared somehow."

THEN Duncy said: "There's a fuss 'cause it is gone up to us to try and find another. I have a happy bunch. I need a donkey from the tent." So to that spot it promptly went, and when a donkey came out, Duncy said: "Now watch me, bunch."

He took a paint brush in hand and cried: "This donkey look grand. I'm going to some stripes on him with paint as you shall see."

"Then like a zebra he'll appear. I'll do the job well, never fear. The others soon agreed he's as clever as could be."

YELLOW CANARIES CHANGE TO ORANGE-RED ON CERTAIN DAYS OF RED CRIPPLES.

SATURN IS 769 times larger than our Earth, but is only 95 times heavier. It is the only planet in the solar system that would float in water. The ancients considered Saturn an unlucky planet, and persons so unfortunate as to be born under its sign were thought to be dull. From this superstition comes the word "saturnine," meaning dull; gloomy; grave. Powerful telescopes of the late centuries have disclosed Saturn to be a most unusual planet. . . . The only one to possess a system of rings. The rings are composed of tiny satellites and are in constant revolution around Saturn.

PROHIBITION SPEAKING IN BROWNWOOD WEDNESDAY

Mrs. J. T. Bloodworth, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, of the 12th congressional district and editor of the department of the Woman Christian Temperance Union will be the principal speaker at a prohibition rally Wednesday evening at 8:15 o'clock at the Central Methodist church of Brownwood. The program is under the auspices of the board of temperance and social service of the church.

Mrs. Bloodworth has for years been among the outstanding leaders of the prohibition cause. Fort Worth, the 12th district and Texas has felt her influence in the cause of prohibition. A large crowd is expected to hear her.

COUNTY'S FIRST SHERIFF ENDORSES JOE JONES

Editor Ranger Times: I was the first sheriff of Eastland county, and then knew every citizen of the county. Since then many young men of our county have attained considerable prominence and for which we all, no doubt feel honored.

There are other Eastland county boys, if given a chance, will likewise reflect credit and honor to our citizenship. Joe Jones, a candidate for congress, is young, vigorous, ambitious and honest. He is bright and a beautiful speaker. Why should our citizenship be to get behind this young man, a home county boy, and by united efforts give him a chance? Suspicious or false accusations should not divide us in our loyal support of this young and deserving Eastland county boy.

Oranges Leading Spanish Exports

By United Press. MADRID.—Oranges, grown principally in the Valencia-Murcia district, constitute the principal item of Spanish foreign exports, ranking way ahead of the second item in importance—olive oil, product of Andalusia. The value of orange exports in 1931 was of 179,626,000 gold pesetas and of olive oil was of 107,361,000 gold pesetas, according to figures just published by the Director General of Customs. Third place in exports went to the common wines, with 60,038,000, while fine wines and malaga occupied seventh place with 34,347,000. Another bad thing about the new 3-cent letter postage is that it now costs more to write home for money.

Texas Artists Hold Exchange Exhibition

By United Press. DALLAS, Tex.—On ground sacred to the Indian and cowboy only 60 years ago, 3,000 persons recently attended an open air art show staged by local artists and sculptors. Under the protection of policemen, a street was roped off. Lanterns were strung and four score welders of brush and chisel, garbed in bizarre costumes, displayed their work, with price tags attached. Paintings were attached to picket fences, the walls of houses and trundled about in baby buggies. Money wasn't necessary to obtain a picture. One booth was an exchange, with paintings offered for anything used by artists. A beauty shop operator left an order for a permanent wave and carried away an etching.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT, United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS.—A black crepe de chine afternoon dress striped with little rows of tiny printed flowers can walk in on any tea party and create that coveted sensation that Le-long manages to make a part of his models.

The novel flower stripes are arranged in a chevron design. The hat for this particular frock is by Maria Guy and made of black paillasson, trimmed with three little flat bows in front. It has a brim about three inches wide that dips in front over the right eye.

Margy Rouff also has a knack for knowing how to make mild and not so mild sensations with the very simplest of her frocks. Take that one, for instance, in rose marocain with the draped bodice, smooth tight skirt with fullness below the knees, and accompanying unlined coat of printed tuxor in white and rose. Perched on the right shoulder of the coat is a soft rose carnation matching both the material and color of the dress.

TRUCKLOAD OF SILVER PAID

By United Press. HOLYOKE, Mass.—The American Writing Paper company, in accordance with a contract made in 1857 in which the privilege of payment in silver bullion was given, recently sent a truckload of silver to the Holyoke Water Power company for payment of mill power rentals. The silver was refused on the ground that continued payment by check had rendered the silver bullion clause invalid.

Unique Fish Bait Brings $50 Fine

By United Press. BATAVIA, O.—Dough balls, soaked in home brew, aided Leo Feinstein, druggist, in a successful fishing trip, but later his unique pish did a boomerang and resulted in his catching a $50 fine for violation of the fish and game law.

According to Frank Stagg, game warden, Feinstein fed the intoxicating oalls to the fish, which, after partaking of the morsels, came to the top of the water. The druggist then used a net to bring in his catch.

The fine was assessed by a justice of peace at Milford.

HERE--- AND THERE

What do you look forward to in the evening, when you draw your chair to your friendly lamp, and want to learn what is going on in your town?

Why, your daily newspaper. To what source do you send for information of the day's happenings, of whether friends have returned home, or what merchant has received new goods? Why, your daily newspaper.

What is more conducive to the welfare of a city than a daily newspaper?

What helps to keep down crime better than a daily newspaper?

What aids the merchants to call attention to his new stock items, change in prices, or special sales, any better than the daily newspaper?

Through what medium are announcements of club meetings, of church societies, of lodges, possible, that catch attention, better that notify more promptly, that cost nothing? Why, the Eastland Daily Telegram.

Then why not help the welfare of your town by sending abroad to friends, as a gift, this daily paper, that carries news of the daily happenings of the city, county, nation; news of your friends, and of your social diversions.

You certainly help Eastland by increasing the circulation of the Eastland Daily Telegram.

What home news can you find of better value than that carried exclusively in the Eastland Daily Telegram?

Candidate For County Judge To Speak In Ranger Tonight

I, George Bryant, will speak in Ranger tonight, July 19, at 8:30. At this meeting I shall have the records with me and shall speak from them, which records will expose political extravagance, and mismanagement of your County affairs, all of which are making living conditions absolutely unbearable and have brought the stain of Grand Jury investigations seeking for the truth. Mr. Birt Brittain and V. V. Cooper, Commissioners, saw fit to insert themselves into this County Judge's race at my speaking date at Doham, where they had a bunch of rowdies blowing up auto horns and trying to break up the meeting and I am publicly inviting these men to be present.

If you are interested in the affairs of your County from a standpoint of what the records will disclose and from which records no man can make denial, please attend this meeting.

I am making a one man fight and want you to be able to cast your ballot with your eyes open.

Fuads Inject New Spirit Into Baseball.

Baseball feuds are springing up on all major league fronts these days and injecting a new spirit into the national pastime. There have been more fist fights in the majors already this season than in the last several years combined. Not only are individual players mixing it with each other, but several clubs are carrying grudges against each other.

The latest battle was between Bill Dickey, New York Yankees' catcher, and Carl Reynolds, Washington outfielder. Dickey struck Reynolds after the Washington player collided with him at the plate. Reynolds' jaw was broken in two places. President William Harridge of the American league placed Dickey under indefinite suspension, dealing the Yankee pennant hope a severe blow.

The Chicago White Sox engaged in a free-for-all battle with umpire George Moriarty after a game at Cleveland. An argument started between Charlie Berry, White Sox catcher, and Moriarty, and wound up in a fight under the stands between the umpire and Milton Gaston, White Sox pitcher. Manager Lew Fonseca, Frankie and Berry also joined in the battle after Gaston was knocked down. Moriarty's hand was broken and he is still laid up. All of the players were fined and Gaston drew a 10-day suspension.

The close National league race served to stir up trouble between several National league clubs, especially the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Bill Judges, Cubs' shortstop, and Mickey Finn, Brooklyn infielder, exchanged blows in a recent game in Brooklyn. With Pittsburgh and the Cubs battling for the National league lead, bad feeling cropped up between those two teams.

In a recent game at Pittsburgh Marvin Gudat, Cubs' reserve outfielder, and Floyd Vaughan, Pirates' rookie shortstop, engaged in a fist fight after Gudat slid into second base with his spikes high.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody is the only sure thing in sports. Bobby Jones was the nearest approach to the brilliant Californian, but he plays these days only for marble love and charity, and stays out of the big tournaments. Thus the former Helen Wills in tennis is the only certainty in any branch of athletics.

The straight-set beating sustained by Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn in the Wimbledon doubles final doesn't add any lustre to America's chances to win its way into the Davis cup challenge round, to say nothing of regaining the cup from France.

The American Davis cup doubles combination was completely out to rout by the French team of Borotra and Brugnon. It's scarcely a disgrace to lose to such a stalwart pair, but the one-sided victory scored over the Americans would indicate that they have not reached any real form, and that they may not reach it when and if they face the British team of Hughes and Perry.

Lost Battalion Site Is Found After 13 Years

By RALPH HEINZEN, United Press Staff Correspondent.

VARENNES, France.—A searching party in the Apremont woods of the Argonne forest has uncovered the whole setting of one of the most dramatic incidents of the World War, the fight against circling Germans, thirst and hunger of the famed American "Lost Battalion." Under the leaves of 13 autumns, the searchers found remains of at least one of the American heroes.

As searchers brushed away the leaves and cut through the young saplings that have choked the forest, they found on the north side of the gully between Binerville and Apremont historic evidence of the great struggle. The side of the hill is honeycombed with "foxholes" cut into the shale and just large enough to hide a man. There 600 men took cover when they found that they had lost contact with their own troops. Only 194 came out alive.

Even after 13 years it is possible to picture the heroic struggle of the besieged men. In the "kitchen" hole is a great rusted can, punched full of holes, which shows that the cooks sought to build a fire and heat water for coffee and tea. All around are pieces of equipment, rusted bayonets, rifles, gas masks. After hostilities, the bodies were taken to Romagne cemetery, but it was 13 years later before the setting of this dramatic action was found again and it will be thoroughly hunted.

Laid-Up French Tonnage Increases

By United Press.
 PARIS.—Tonnage laid-up and in French seaports increased from 765,000 tons to 921,000 during the past three months, according to figures supplied by Leon Meyer, minister of merchant marine.

Thousands of sailors are without work in the ports of Dunkirk, Calais, Boulogne, Harve, Cherbourg, Bordeaux, Cette and Marseilles.

Shipyards are for the most part idle. No new keels are being laid and the work is confined to the completion of ships started last year.

CHAPTER XLVIII

THE gray kitten mewed again. It sat on the fifth step down from the top of the flight and as Phillips reached for it the kitten backed away. Its fur mounted perpendicularly and from its mouth there came a sharp, hissing "Pht!"

It was Cherry's kitten.

"Pinky!" Dan Phillips exclaimed. He picked up the little animal, holding it to the light. It was Pinky—there could be no doubt about it.

Pearson, below, asked impatiently. "What's the idea? What's the cat got to do with—"

But Dan was not listening. One quick glance about him and he was running up the stairs. There were three doors opening off the third floor hallway. One led to Dixie Shannon's tiny quarters and another to the Morris' rooms. Phillips had never stepped behind the third door. It was a vacant apartment—but, no, a tiny crack of light gleamed above the door sill!

A half dozen strides carried Dan to that door. The kitten, having established acquaintanceship, cradled close to his arm. It was purring in a sleepy sing-song.

There was no answer but he heard a rustling sound on the opposite side of the door. He knocked. Dan knocked.

Then slowly, hesitantly, the door opened. There she stood! Cherry wearing the yellow housedress in which he had seen her so often. The lamp light fell on that yellow dress and made it golden. Cherry's face was pale. She raised wide, dark fringed eyes to Dan's.

The young man said, "Cherry—!" As often as she had rehearsed the scene to follow—as often as she had hoped for it—what happened in the next few moments was nothing whatever like Cherry's imaginings. Dan took a step forward. He held out the kitten and Cherry took it in her arms.

"Here," Dan said. "Pinky—I found him on the steps."

The words halted. The young man was looking intently at the girl's face. He did not move—even standing inside the room. He did not try to touch Cherry but remained there staring at her.

It was the girl who recovered from her surprise first. She put a hand to her throat, smiled in a way that was not quite convincing, said in a low, throaty voice, "Thank you, Dan. I—I guess you're surprised to see me!"

He nodded. It was not Dan's voice that answered but one that was entirely strange and seemed to belong to another person.

"Yes, it is a surprise. Have you been here all the time, Cherry? I didn't know—"

"I didn't want you to. The janitor said it was all right. He let me stay here. I've been down in the apartment, too—but only when I knew you wouldn't be there. No one saw me. I didn't want anyone to know about it. Pinky's been here all the while but tonight he must have slipped out when I wasn't noticing."

Level glances. Level, matter-of-fact voices. And all the while the flaming, stabbing words so close to Dan's lips.

There was the briefest pause and then Phillips made a tremendous effort. He said, "Cherry—you want me to go, don't you?"

"Why, I—"

"If that's what you want I'll do it." Suddenly Dan was voluble. "I'll do anything you say, Cherry. I mean—anything! You can have a divorce if you want it. Everything was my fault—I know that now. There's no reason why you should be tied to a dud like me! I couldn't expect it after the way I've treated you. We'll arrange things in the quietest way—make it as easy for you as possible. Oh, you're a million times too good for me and I know it! I've made every kind of fool of myself a man can. I couldn't expect you to forgive the things I've done! And I want you to be happy, Cherry! I want that more than anything else in the world. I'll—I'll even give you up if that will make you happy!"

He could keep from it no longer. Suddenly Dan's arms went around the girl. He caught her close to him. Dan whispered, "Darling—oh, my dear—my dear, I love you so much!"

It was like a miracle. Cherry's soft cheek, like warm velvet, against his own. Cherry unresisting, that fervent embrace. Cherry raising eyes that were like starlight. Cherry—his own beloved Cherry close in his arms!

And suddenly the miracle became reality. She drew away. The girl's eyes—they were no longer level and matter-of-fact but radiant, misty and gloriously tender—met Dan's.

She whispered, "Don't leave me again, Dan! I couldn't stand it. I don't want you to go away again—ever!"

"You mean you don't want a divorce? Oh, Cherry, I swear that if you do ever—ing will be different! I'll never be such a fool again. I love you, Cherry. You're the

"A letter!" she said. "For you, Dan. Oh, look—!"

Both of them were staring at the inconspicuous lettering in the upper left hand corner of the envelope. The name was that of a famous magazine. Quickly, with a half-suppressed exclamation Dan tore open the envelope, drew out the sheet that was inside.

"Cherry!" he cried. "Why—why, Cherry—!"

He held a slip of pink paper bearing the words, "Pay to the order of Daniel Phillips $300."

"There's some mistake," Dan was muttering. "It isn't for me, Cherry. It can't be!"

"Let's read the letter, dear."

It was a brief note. The editor was pleased to inform Daniel Phillips that his manuscript, "Night Life," had won first prize in the magazine's "our writers' contest. The would be published in an early issue. The letter ended with the hope that the editor might see more of Dan's work. There were the phrases, "promising," "original flavor" and "vitality."

The young man raised puzzled eyes. "But I didn't enter this contest! I didn't—"

All at once he understood. "You sent it!" he cried. "Cherry, you did this, didn't you?"

"You don't mind, do you, Dan?"

"You see, I knew—I knew—it was a fine story. That time you asked for it—I didn't tell you the truth. I said the manuscript was lost because I didn't want to tell you I'd sent it away. Oh, I was sure it would win all the time but I wanted to know before I told you! I'm so happy, Dan. I've always known you were going to be a great writer!"

"But I'm not—I'm just a dud. Oh, but, Cherry, I'll work as I never worked before! Look—the letter says they'd like to 'see more of my work.' They'll see plenty of it! It's—why, Cherry, this is the greatest chance of my life—I mean the real one!"

He had used those words before. He thought of Brenda. "Cherry," Dan said slowly, "chances to write stories don't mean so much. All I want is the chance to show how much I love you. How different everything is going to be for us from now on!"

The girl smiled. "We'll take that chance together, Dan. It's—the happy ending of the story."

"And the beginning of a new one!"

Then Cherry said the word that is the happiest of all endings and of all beginnings. Cherry said "Yes."

SALEM, Mass.—A handsewn quilt, made by Mary Douglas of Litchfield, Me., in 1775, was included in a recent exhibition here of old and modern bed coverings.

The real cause of the depression, an economist says, was over buying on the installment plan. Which is just a new way of saying that the easy payments aren't easy.

The politicians keep hollering about restoring America to its true owners, but if they don't hurry the Indians won't take it off our hands.

Another good thing about the depression is that we don't have to worry, in this hot July weather, about tickets for the November football games.

Informal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Armstrong were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Root Sunday evening at an informal 6 o'clock dinner.

The Roots have been greatly missed in Eastland, and friends deplore their removing to Ranger.

Mrs. Root still continues her affiliation with the Music club of Eastland, of which she had been selected president, but resigned this post upon moving away.

Pretty Birthday Party For Patsy Ruth Eubanks

Mrs. David S. Eubanks entertained at her residence in the Lone Star Gas company camp, with a recent pretty afternoon party from 4 to 6 o'clock, in celebration of the seventh birthday of sweet Patsy Ruth Eubanks.

Games on the lawn were led for the merry little folks, by Eloise Morton, and later readings were given by Irene Byrnes and Jean Moore, of Ranger, pupils of Mrs. Herman Pool (nee) Lota Wolford, and the little honoree, Patsy Ruth, a pupil of Miss Oneida Russell of Eastland.

Guests present were Mrs. Gorman Morton, and Mrs. J. H. Hamilton of Olden; Mrs. E. K. Smith, Johnson Hansen, D. Joseph, and F. N. Hansen of Ranger, and Mrs. Boskew of Eastland, several of whom assisted Mrs. Eubanks. A big birthday cake, white iced, and topped with seven lighted pink tapers, was the center of attraction in the dining room, and was prettily arranged on flowers centered, lace covered table.

Refreshments of iced fruited punch and peach ice cream were served with the cake, and plate favors for the girls were wee dolls, and tops for the boys.

Little guests present were, Irene Byrnes, Jean Moore, Billie Jean Joseph, and Jackie Hamilton, Jessie Lou Trout, and F. N. Hansen r., of Ranger; Edna June Morton, Virgil Hamilton Jr., of Olden; Eastland children, Lauree Herring, Eloise Johnson, Aisee May Kitley, Vanette Van Genn, Mary Fay Boskew, Joan Kingston, Lillian Hennessee, Frances Boskew; Cone Johnson, Homer Meek, Chester Wood, and Patsy Ruth Eubanks.

Did You Tune In At Noon Today

Our fellow townsman, Joe H. Jones, gave one of his forceful messages in the interest of his campaign for Congressman from the 17th district, over WBAP in Ranger, Tuesday (Tuesday) from 12:45 to 1 p. m.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, Tuesday Jones addressed a big crowd in Mineral Wells, and again announced his political views.

Monday night, Joe Jones held an immense crowd in front of the Eastland county courthouse.

John Thurman of Ranger also held the crowd spellbound, and made a rattling good talk.

Proceeding the speaking, the speaker music entertained the crowd. Both candidates gifted and eloquent, proved interesting to the immense assemblage that drifted about the courthouse lawn, and filled the square with cars.

Mrs. Galbraith Has Returned Home

Mrs. Galbraith, the mother of Mrs. J. M. Armstrong, left for Seymour, Ind., Friday, following a visit of several months with her daughter in Eastland. In the message received Monday by Mrs. Armstrong, from Mrs. Galbraith, she gave some interesting bits of news--ancient the famous movie star and singer Jeanette McDonald, who was on the same train from Fort Worth to St. Louis, and whom Mrs. Galbraith met and found quite fascinating.

Miss McDonald was enroute south for a visit.

Mrs. Galbraith will return in September to visit Mrs. Armstrong.

Informal Luncheon

Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin had as her guests for noon luncheon Monday to meet her mother, Mrs. Jessie W. Pickett of Tulsa, Okla., Mrs. W. R. Wadsworth and Mrs. Orrin Hitchcock of Breckenridge, friends of long years standing of Mrs. Pickett.

Will Seek Rosenwald Assistance

In the course of her work for the Eastland Public Library, as librarian chairman for the Thursday Afternoon Study club, Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin visited Dallas, and sought cooperation from some foundation for benefit of Eastland library but found this not possible.

However it was learned that the Julius Rosenwald Foundation of Chicago will assist the libraries of negroes in Texas and the south.

The Better Homes committee of Eastland, through Mrs. W. K. Jackson, chairman, and Mrs. B. E. McGlamery, library chairman, for the colored people's library of Eastland, will get into communication with the foundation, with a view of securing contributions or support for this project, if such a thing is possible.

Wilda Drago Entertains Talented Student

Miss Ora Payne Hefley of Abilene is spending this week with Wilda Drago. During her stay she is studying the violin as well as being here for a social visit. Miss Hefley is very talented and has been heard on numerous musical programs presented over the state by Wilda Drago and her artist pupils.

EASTLAND PERSONALS

Mrs. Art Johnson is having a delightful visit in El Paso. She finds the climate very invigorating and the town a wonderful place. She will be home next week.

Mrs. Lonnie King has returned from a weeks visit with her sister, Mrs. Looney, in Brownwood.

Mrs. John Miller, 1007 South Bassett street, will entertain a few friends informally at her home, at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening.

James Horton and C. A. Hertig are attending the Big Springs convention of presidents of the Rotary.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Jackson are now at home to their friends in their new residence, 1203 South Seaman street.

Mr. and Mrs. McKee of Waco arrived Monday for a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Mickle.

796 CROSSING CRASHES

HARRISBURG, Pa.--Automobile drivers who failed to stop at street and highway intersections designated as through highway crossings caused 796 accidents during the first five months of 1932, according to records of the state highway patrol here. Eighteen of the accidents were fatal.

Study Club to Meet With Mrs. George

Mrs. Edwin George Jr. will be at home to members of Child Welfare Study Club No. 1 Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Despite the unpleasant warm afternoons and many members out of town enjoying mid-summer vacations the club has maintained its usual interest and successful plans for work this fall with the re-opening of school are going forward.

This meeting will be of interest to all members who are asked to be present.

Coach and Mrs. Eck Curtis Leave for Los Angeles To Attend Olympic Games

Coach and Mrs. Eck Curtis left today motoring to Los Angeles, where they will attend the Olympic games. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, who spent several weeks in California last summer, will be away 30 days on this present trip.

Mr. Curtis was recently re-elected as coach of the Ranger high school and has gained many friends during his association with the school since accepting the position.

Mrs. Curtis is numbered among one of Ranger's most well liked and popular young matrons.

Gleaners Picnic Wednesday Morning

Members of the Gleaners Sunday school class of the First Baptist church will picnic at the Wilcox swimming pool Wednesday morning from 9 till 11 o'clock, at which time each Gleaner is invited to attend.

Well filled baskets will be furnished and a delightful outing is anticipated.

Combined Business Session and Council Program in Led by Mrs. Tunnell

Fifteen members enjoyed the combined business session and council program given under the leadership of Mrs. E. A. Tunnell, president of the Women's Missionary society of the First Methodist church Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Opening song, "Take Time to Be Holy," was followed with a prayer given by Mrs. Gid J. Bryan.

During the business period of the hour plans were discussed for work to be completed during the next quarter. A well packed box will also be sent to the orphan's home during the month.

Mrs. Ray Campbell very interestingly led the devotional with Mrs. S. P. Boon reading the leaflets.

It was decided at this hour and plans finished for the ladies of this society to serve dinner down town Saturday beginning at 11:30. Details for this affair are given in another story in this column.

Rev. Nichol Gives Lesson On Chapters From Exodus

The Rev. D. W. Nichol gave chapters from the book of Exodus, Monday afternoon at the Bible study hour, opened at 3 o'clock, at the Church of Christ. These lessons which are always of interest to the members again proved profitable to the 17 members present.

The canning which will be held in the home economics room of the Ranger high school Thursday morning was given free discussion during the latter part of the hour.

All ladies of the church together with any other one wishing to take part in the worthy cause are cordially invited by the canning club to be present Thursday morning at 8 o'clock.

Anyone desiring to make donations are asked to call Mrs. Lanier or Rev. Nichol. Corn and peas will be feature vegetables canned at the day's session, it was announced this morning by Mrs. Lanier, who is taking an active part in the work.

Royal Service Program Directed By Mrs. Cash

Elkin Lockett and Rachel Newton circles of the Central Baptist church, were entertained Monday afternoon with Mrs. N. O. White hostess and Mrs. C. C. Cash leader in charge of the Royal Service program featured during the hour.

The subject of the lesson was "Debtor to the Jews," stressed by papers which followed made an interesting program, well arranged and profitably carried out.

"Near the Cross," Bible story, "The Words of Nehemiah" was presented in clear discussion by Mrs. J. E. Ogg. "Prayer for God's Blessings Upon the Jews Scattered Throughout the World" was also added in the interesting paper given by Mrs. Ogg.

Second number on program came as a song sung in unison.

ADVERTISING Builds Business and Protects the Consumer

Advertising as a Business Stabilizer

Anything which tends to keep business active is of paramount interest to all the people all the time. Active business means regular payrolls. That's what the general public wants. Active business means regular profits. And that's what owners and stockholders want. EVERYBODY benefits when business is good.

Advertising is a constructive force which helps stabilize business. It is not a panacea for all ills. Nothing is. There is no blinking the fact that business has its ups and downs. Even the most ardent advocate would hardly claim that advertising can surely prevent depressions.

But advertising can, and does, keep business more active than it would be without advertising. Here are some facts and figures that will interest you:

Of 77 national concerns on which figures are available, 12 reduced their advertising in 1936 from 15 to 100 per cent--13 reduced their advertising by less than 15 per cent--and 52 INCREASED their advertising. What happened? Of course, practically all businesses were less active, less profitable, in 1936 than in 1929. But--

The 12 companies which reduced their advertising more than 15 per cent showed a decline in net profits of 41.2 per cent. The 13 companies which reduced advertising by less than 15 per cent had a decline in profits of 13.2 per cent. And the 52 companies that INCREASED their advertising showed the smallest decline in profits, only 9.6 per cent.

Certainly you, as a worker, feel surer of your job--and you, as an investor, feel more confident in buying stocks or bonds--when you know that the company where you work, or in which you invest, is an aggressive advertiser.

And when you cross to the other side of the fence and become a BUYER--and, of course, you ARE a buyer as well as an earner--you find that consistently advertised products are generally better in quality and lower in price.

So advertising works both ways for you. It helps stabilize business, resulting in more certain continuance of your INCOME--and it permits better quality and lower price in the things you buy, resulting in greater purchasing power of your OUTGO.
