RANGER IS TO HAVE POLITICAL RALLY

GRIPINGS

By GUS

This column is published as a daily feature and may not be construed as representing the editorial views of this paper. What follows is merely what one man thought at the time it was written, and the writer reserves the right to change his mind concerning any subject without notice, explanation or apology.

INOTYPE OPERATORS and editors have conspired more than once to make monkeys out of columnists. They will conspire to spell words. They will insert words and frequently whole sentences in a columnist's writings in order to distract the attention of the reader. But when they get into an argument among themselves over the spelling of a word and try to draw the alleged columnist into the argument, it is the columnist who is made a monkey.

I am referring to the wisecrack made about the spelling of a chicken commonly known as a crow, or crop. In order to facilitate matters, the reader will pronounce the word "crow" in this article, sounding the "a" as in McGraw. He will pronounce "crop," sounding the "a" as in top. Now...

According to my dictionary, the spelling of the word depends upon how one desires to pronounce it. If one wants to call it chicken crop, he spells it "c-r-o-w" and if he wants to call it chicken crop he spells it "c-r-o-p." I much prefer the word crop when referring to a thickened crop, because it is too easy to become confused on what is really meant. The word "crop" can have many different meanings. I have looked them up in the dictionary, which see:

CROP CAN MEAN the enlarged gullet of many birds as well as the dilated of the gullets of many animals or insects. It can also mean the stomach, breast or throat.

It can mean the top, head, or highest part of a tree or plant. It can mean the product of the field whether gathering or growing. It can mean the ice crop, or the turkey crop or the coffee crop or a crop of anything, as a crop of grapes.

It can mean a certain type of haircut, like a convict's crop. It can mean the ear mark on a hog or dog. It can mean an ear of corn or a ear of wheat. It can mean the place where a vein of ore or coal or other mineral crops out of the ground.

Every one of the above meanings may be used in connection with the noun "crop" and the dictionary says pronounce it crop with the "o" as in chop.

CRAW IS GIVEN only one meaning and one pronunciation. However, if Bull Glazier and Hayes want to insist on spelling their word "crop," then they should pronounce it correctly and not pronounce it "craw" sounding the "a" as in paw.

It's always embarrassing to me to have to publicly call these boys attention to their errors, but this time they brought it on themselves. And not only shall I rely on the dictionary as my authority, but I shall depend on no other authority than Joe Taylor of the Dallas News to back me in my contention.

DISCUSSING THESE weighty matters over a cup of coffee with Ham McTear and Donald Kinard, Ham warned me that oftentimes words are not pronounced as they are spelled. He called my attention to a family near Kinard which spells the name Enright and pronounces it "Darby." Ham can tell you why.

Donald contributed something to my knowledge by telling me that the plural of pea is pease (note the "e"). The dictionary adds this interesting note of explanation: "The plural form peas was formerly used to indicate a definite number, as contrasted with the collective plural pease; this distinction is still preserved by some, but the tendency now is to use peas as plural in all senses."

AFTER THE SPELLING lesson I called on Jack Lewis Sr. in a customary gruff tone, he inquired (Continued on page 4)

EXPERIMENT STATION TO BE VISITED

A tour of inspection of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Spur, Dickens County by Eastland county farmers is planned for next Wednesday, August 24, by agricultural teachers and the county agent. Automobile parties making the trip are to assemble at Cicco chamber of commerce at 6 a. m. Wednesday, so as to reach the experiment station by 12 noon. About three hours will be spent in viewing the experimental work and returns to be made that evening.

Very interesting results of livestock feeding tests just completed will be available at the Spur station. Soil and moisture conservation, date of plantings and spacing tests will be among the things making the trip worth while. The trip will be of equal value to owners of tenant operated farms and those who are actually doing the farm work. It is suggested that those contemplating the trip get in touch with the county agent or with one of the vocational agriculture teachers of the county.

Two Homes Are Robbed in Ranger

Reports to the Ranger police department today stated that burglars had entered the home of A. J. Baum Thursday night or early Friday morning and took his trousers, a watch, the keys to his automobile and shop and about $40 in money.

The burglars unclashed the screen door and reached inside the bedroom and took the trousers from the back of a chair where they were hanging. Mr. Baum said today. This morning he found the trousers and two pocket handkerchiefs under a culvert about three blocks from his home. The belt had been removed from the trousers.

Another burglary was reported to have been committed near the same location when a purse containing five dollars was stolen from off a bed in a home where neighbors had gathered for a bridge game. The screen was removed from the window and the burglar is thought to have reached in for the purse without entering the house.

MOLLISON IS SUCCESSFUL IN LONG HOP

KENNFIELD RIDGE, N. B., Aug. 19.—Captain James A. Mollison, Scottish flier, ended a non-stop flight westward across the Atlantic at this airport at 12:30 p. m. today.

"I came down because I was tired," Mollison told the United Press. Mollison said he would continue tomorrow to New York, which was his goal on his non-stop flight.

He thought he would not start his return flight eastward for about a week. Mollison's little Pass Moth plane in which he made the first westward solo crossing of the Atlantic, nevertheless, He passed over Harbor Grace, N. F., where he had planned, possible, to refuel, in the dark. He was sighted early this morning over Halifax and continued westward from there, finally deciding to come down at the airport here.

Mollison asked the United Press to notify his wife, the former Amy Johnson, English girl flier, that he was safe.

"Tell her I had a very bad crossing because of fog," he said, "but made surprisingly good time. Tell her I am very glad I have justified her confidence in me and am going to New York tomorrow, where I will rest a few days before flying across the water."

Garner's Flying Trip Cut Short By Texas Storm

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 19.—Twelve hours more flying time in record following the record of John N. Garner, democratic candidate for vice president.

The ruddy faced Texan ended his long trip here at 2 a. m. today, after a three hour automobile ride from Austin, where the southwest trip of the air liner he was riding was cancelled in the face of adverse weather conditions.

Mrs. Garner, the speaker's wife and secretary, met him when he arrived here and shortly afterwards their son, Tully, his wife and nine-year old daughter, Genevieve, arrived from California where the three had been vacationing.

Garner said he was opposed to an extensive speaking tour and said today he would prefer to remain in Uvalde and from there issue statements he considers necessary to explain his position in national affairs.

However, on his recent trip east the democratic campaign manager advised him they desired him to speak. Garner finally agreed, but said he wanted to rest until September 12.

Garner present plans his speaking campaign will probably start around September 12. The speaker said Charles Hand, representative of the democratic national organization, will join him on the campaign tour.

VOTERS FROM SURROUNDING TOWNS INVITED TO BE ON HAND NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Judge W. R. Ely, Principal Speaker; American Legion Tickville Band Will Render a Program.

Plans were made in Ranger Thursday night for a big political rally to be held in Ranger on Monday night at 8 o'clock. A crowd of several thousand people is expected to be present at what is planned as the largest political rally to be held in the county this year.

Voters from this whole section of the state, regardless of their political views, are invited to be present. Thurber, Mingus, Strawn, Gordon, Granttown, Olden, Eastland, Cisco, Carbon, Gorman, Desdemona, Staff and towns in this section of the county are expected to be represented at the rally, which will be held on Main street in front of the Gholson hotel Monday night at 8 o'clock.

The entire block is to be roped off Monday afternoon. A speakers' platform will be erected in the block, electric lights will be strung along the street to provide added lighting facilities and plenty of seats will be provided for all who wish to listen to the speaking and the musical program that will be provided in addition to the speaking.

Mayor Thurman Quits Race For County Office

John Thurman, mayor of Ranger and a candidate for the office of county commissioner, today announced his withdrawal from the race on account of ill health. Mr. Thurman has been in bad health for several weeks and his condition prompted him to withdraw.

In speaking of his withdrawal today Mr. Thurman said: "I feel, in justice to myself and friends, I should make the following statement: My physical condition does not permit me getting out and making a canvass among the people and, in justice to myself, I feel that I should withdraw from the race for commissioner."

"I am perfectly satisfied with the results of the campaign. I was only interested in it from a business standpoint. I feel that I was successful in bringing out some of the needs of our community and giving the people some of the information that they should have. I have no apologies to make for any of the statements I made with reference to the county's business as they are all of record and the people should know them. The records of the commissioners' court should be placed on record following the meetings and not filed as non-prosecuted where large expenditures are to be made. I have rendered a service to my community and expect to continue to do so from a business standpoint."

In withdrawing from the race, I expect to give Henry Davenport all the support and co-operation that I can. He should have every taxpayer's support in working out of an adjustment of indebtedness and in reducing the tax rate. I do not improve, I would not be able to handle the work as it should be if I was elected and I do not feel that I would be fair to seek the support of the people whom I might be possible that I would not be able to render service they are entitled to."

Committees have been appointed to take charge of the various phases of the work in connection with the rally.

During the absence of Fire Chief G. A. Murphy, who is at present at Mineral Wells taking treatments, Bonds Martin has been appointed chairman of the committee in charge of seating arrangements. He will be authorized to rope off Main street late Monday afternoon and to install the seating arrangements that have been provided.

Extra lights have been planned for both the speakers' platform and the section of the street reserved for seats. A. N. Larson has been placed in charge of this work.

Hall Walker, vice president of the Commercial State bank, has been named as chairman of the finance committee.

A publicity committee composed of R. V. Galloway, W. H. Hayes, Gus Coleman, F. D. Hicks, W. C. Hickey, and Miss Pat Coughlin has been named to take care of all publicity.

Loud speakers have been secured for the occasion and those will be installed in the speaking platform so that all may be able to hear. A large platform, built on a truck chassis, has been built by the Ranger fire department. This platform will be used for Monday night for the speakers and by the American Legion Tickville band. The platform has adequate lighting facilities built in to make a good stage from which the entertainment may be staged. Every community within a radius of 25 to 30 miles of Ranger is to be notified of the big rally and all are invited to attend, regardless of political affiliations or their preferences in any of the campaigns, either for state or county offices.

This will probably be the last, and no doubt the biggest, political rally before the run-off primary on Aug. 27, and all voters are urged to be present. All are urged to remember the time and the date, Monday night. (Continued on Last Page)

Showers Honors Popular Bride-Elect

After this month it will be only a step to Fall, that season we look forward to for its refreshing cool crisp breezes, and from the rumors floating around this will be a Fall listing attractive weddings. Miss Theo Stidham, who will be married to Mr. Raymond Steel, in the near future furnished the inspiration for one of the loveliest affairs of the Summer. Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. Jack Blackwell, assisted by her co-hostesses, Mrs. R. E. Harrell and Mrs. J. F. Donley, named Miss Stidham honoree at a party and shower. The pretty afternoon affair was held at the home of the former hostess, 929 Vitalious street.

The hostesses received their guests in the living room where a profusion of late summer flowers formed a lovely background. The bride's table laid with an imported linen cloth, effected that of an artistically shaped wedding bell, finished with rippling streamers hanging from the chandeliers. The honor guest was presented the beautiful array of gifts by young Vera Vivian Cooper, who carried a miniature bride on a mirrored tray. Attached to a white streamer on which a poem advising her to follow guided her destination to that of another table, presiding appointed for the purpose of opening the many white packages, each finished with bits of ribbon adding their color hues to others featured.

An ice course repeating the colors of red and white was served to the following guests from Eastland, Thurber and Ranger. E. Mince, Lottie Davenport, J. N. Fatter, F. D. Hicks, W. C. McDonough, Jack Carrothers, E. M. Ferguson, Odelle Cole, Irving Cole, W. M. Brown, John D. Hamilton, W. E. Mitchell, W. R. Clardy, Arthur Vaughn, Howard Elwood, A. H. Blackwell, E. W. Maben, R. W. Families Hold Fifth Reunion

Members of the E. M. Hunt and James Ashbury Butter families, the former originating in Kentucky and the latter in Mississippi, held their fifth annual reunion Saturday and Sunday, August 13 and 14 at Mineral Wells.

Due to the fact that several members from Dallas were unable to attend the reunion, the gathering was not as large as at former reunions. The meeting was held in the City Park and began Saturday night and began Sunday morning. The younger members of the two families took advantage of the large swimming pools of the park and enjoyed the sport of swimming. After this the zoo was visited. Croquet, swings and many other games afforded ample amusement for all.

At noon Sunday an appetizing dinner was served on long tables under the beautiful shade trees in the park. Later in the evening delicious watermelon was served. After this goodbyes were said until next summer, when it is planned to again hold the reunion.

Among those attending the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Z. Z. Butler of Phoenix, Ariz., Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dick and children, Milton Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hunt, Emma Hunt, Opal Hunt, Fernan Terrell and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wright, all of Eastland; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bruce and children, Floyd Bruce and Houseman Gattin of Weatherford; Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hunt and daughter and Mrs. Ida Hunt and daughter, Deanna, of Ranger; Mr. and Mrs. John Blackwell and daughter of Chasney; Mr. and Mrs. Love Parker and daughter Maxine of Fort Worth; M. Wheat Buys Seat At Farm Olympics

By United Press. CENTRAL CITY, Neb.—Central City's Olympics, to raise funds and supplies for the needy families, will be held late this month, under present plans.

The Olympics, an athletic program participated in by county residents, were held last fall to purchase supplies to ship into the drought-stricken areas of the state.

A bushel of wheat is the admission price.

The real purpose of vacations is to give workers change, a physician says. The way it usually works out, though, the vacationist gets back without change of any kind.

Pecan Show To Be Held In County

What will be of special interest to pecan growers of Eastland county and general interest to all others is the fact that the West Texas Pecan Growers' association at its recent meeting in Brownwood, decided to hold a pecan show at Rising Star in November. The exact date for the exhibit, which will be known as the National Pecan Show, is to be set soon by the executive committee of the West Texas organization.

The primary purpose of the association in holding the show in November is to stimulate interest in the nut industry and begin the work of assembling a nut exhibit for the coming world's fair in Chicago in 1933. Also to create a greater consumption of nuts.

While the Rising Star show is being sponsored by the West Texas Pecan Growers' association, all other organizations having the same or similar work are invited and urged to attend the show and take part in the work of assembling the exhibit.

He didn't say he was glad the days are getting shorter and folks have time to turn their lights on earlier, but would tell he wasn't mad about it.

Operator's Note: Readers, if any of the above alleged columnists will note that the erstwhile picnic-playing iceman uses the word "dictionary" in some three or four places in above alleged column. Said word "dictionary" was mis-spelled "dictionery" in each instance and through the sympathy of the linotype operator was corrected. Webster spells the word "dictionary." Possibly the alleged columnist will give his readers, if any, as full and complete explanation as to why he insists on making it "dictionery" as the explanation as to why he prefers "erow" to "erop."

Why do cigars have bands? Most people would say that the manufacturer puts the band on a cigar as a trade mark. Though that is now the case, the origin of the cigar band was much more utilitarian. When the Cubans started to make cigars, they used to smoke them while the leaf was still in the green state and, as at that period it was the fashion for Cubans to wear white gloves, the result was that moist nicotine juice flowed back toward the mouth.

Old-Time Political Debate Is Now Almost a Thing of The Past

By GORDON K. SHEARER, United Press Staff Correspondent. The challenged side generally answers their see no reasons to "set a crowd" for the other side. Yugoslavia Seeks Unity of Parties

GRADE—The flood of reports of unrest in Yugoslavia against the throne, and the bloody upheavals, and the attention in the army, which are being attracted to nationalists here, point out that the country is in a worse condition than most of central Europe.

Important in Yugoslavia's interests is her religious composition. There are three important groups, the Croats and Slovenes, the Serbians, who are Greek Catholics; the Roman Catholics; and the Macedonians, who are strong in the south. With the creation of Yugoslavia, each small country brought with it its own political system, each with its own political system.

The fatal shooting of Stjepan, the Croatian Peasant leader, in June, 1928, precipitated the royal dictatorship in Yugoslavia. The problem has to be eliminated these factions, and they into a "national unity" which also would take over the authority of the church. This has been slow. It has been in political clashes.

Nevertheless, it is a fact that no party yet has emerged. The present group among the 305 deputies is the "National Club," so named because its members hold their caucuses in the Bristol Hotel. This group is to dislodge Premier Dr. Marinkovic in favor of Dr. Spiskic, former Minister of Interior.

Discomfort the Yugoslavians in the present situation and her neighbors are in much a condition, if not worse.

Cessation of German reparations was a heavy blow to Yugoslavia, meaning a yearly loss of about $13,500,000.

Lower left is the pledge signed by striking farmers in their fight to force higher prices for their products, and at the right, samples of the literature used in their campaign for farmer members. Leaders of the movement, meeting in Des Moines, announced plans to extend the strike to eight idwestern states by Sept. 1.

Famous Negro Thief Is Back In County Jail

By United Press.

SAN ANTONIO—Zack White, 35, negro thief whose "loot" has varied from Bexar county's bloodhounds to an electric motor, is back "home" in the county jail.

Zack was faring fine with a general parole from the state penitentiary when his yen for $75 worth of lumber and roofing led him into trouble. He blamed the trouble on his instinct for a "home."

"Things don't look right, and Ise lonesome," complained Zack behind the bars again. Although Zack has spent most of the last 12 years in one jail or another under four Bexar county sheriffs, familiar faces he once knew in the cell rooms are gone.

Always a model prisoner, Zack first attracted wide attention when a trusty here several years ago. The county's bloodhounds needed practice, and Sheriff James Stevens sent Zack away to lay a trail for them.

The hounds were then released and scampered away. Several hours passed and neither Zack nor hounds were heard from.

Deputies riding near Mission San Jose finally found the negro with the dogs safely tethered, attempting to sell them to some tourists.

Again on one of his temporary respites from jail, Zack passed an electric motor on the sidewalk. The motor had been removed from a theatre pipe organ left for repairs. It was a powerful looking little motor, nice, black and greasy, and Zack liked it.

He hired a hack and began carting it away when a passing policeman who knew Zack interrupted proceedings.

Former Deputy Sheriff John Subira accused Zack of once attempting to steal his car from in front of the jail. Zack protested he was only testing the motor.

"I fix everything that gets broke," said Zack indignantly. "And I jes wanted to find out if Mister Subira's car wuz broke so I could fix it if it wuz."

Track Title May Again Change Hands

AUSTIN.—The 1932 Southwest conference track and field title may be awarded the University of Texas when conference officials meet in December, according to Dr. D. A. Penick, president of the Southwest conference.

The title was conceded to Rice institute when Texas scored 48 1-3 points to Rice's 45 1-2 at the Southwest meet last May. Later it was learned Gano Pearson, Rice two-miler who won second in his event, had run under the colors of Texas A. & L. several years before. He was charged with inelegibility.

Rice institute's desire to drop out of the 1933 conference baseball race also will likely be discussed at the December meeting.

Man 'Who Made It Rain' Now Retired

FORT WORTH.—The man "who made it rain" during the famous Cherokee Strip land run in Oklahoma has retired after 59 years as a railroad employee.

Ill health forced the 70-year-old D. W. Goodman to retire as a conductor of the Rock Island railroad, but his retirement gave him reason and time to tell about "making rain."

Goodman was conductor on the train that ran from Caldwell, Kan., to Hennessey, Okla., Sept. 16, 1893, when the Cherokee Strip was opened to settlers. When he returned to Caldwell from the trip the train dispatcher took him back to Oklahoma territory "to make it rain."

"It hadn't rained in the region for 17 weeks," Goodman said. "A terrible drought was on. My train dispatcher, C. B. Jewell, named me as assistant rainmaker and took me and a rain car back to the strip."

"The car was an ordinary caboose carrying 50 large earthen vessels filled with chemicals. These chemicals were treated with an electric current and their vapors were supposed to cause rain."

"We caused a lot of excitement when we switched out the car at North End. Settlers poured in from their cabins and tents to watch the miracle performed."

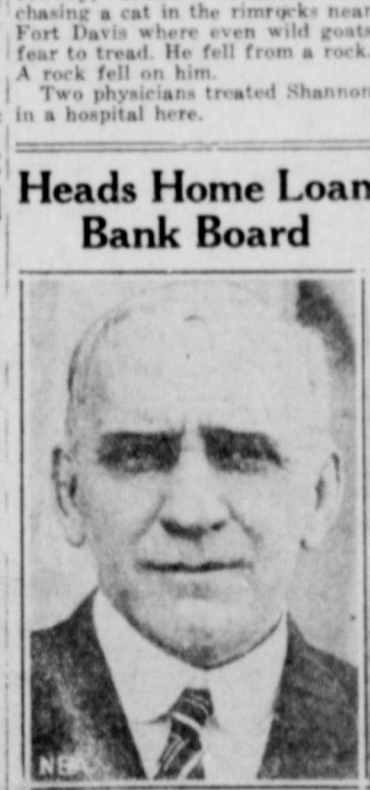

"The electric current was applied to the chemicals at 8 a. m. We sat all day waiting. The settlers had about decided we were a bunch of fakirs. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon storm clouds arose and a heavy downpour started. The rain lasted four and one-half hours. Streams were swollen and squatters were forced to move their tents to higher ground."

"The next day settlers rode in from miles around. Some brought their families, and a gala celebration was held around the rain car. I don't know whether the rain car had any effect on the rain or not, but there was no doubt among the settlers."

Goodman began his railroad career as a waterboy for a construction gang which was building a line from Sedalia to Hannibal, Mo., when 11 years old. One of the triumphant hours of his life, he said, was when he became a news-butcher.

When he was 18, Goodman became a brakeman and a "real" railroad.

WE SHOULD ELECT W. B. COLLIE

Honorable Wilbourne B. Collie of Eastland, in the run-off for State Senator from this district, which is composed of 12 West Texas counties, is entitled to the undivided and solid support of every voter in Eastland county and should run well ahead of his opponent, Senator Oliver Cunningham, of Abilene, in the other counties of the district, with the possible exception of Taylor County, where Collie received a splendid vote. Mr. Collie received overwhelming majorities in Eastland County in the first primary, and it is our prediction that he will receive the solid support of the people of his home county in the election August 27th.

Mr. Collie, a native of Eastland County, has a clean record, both in private and public life, and against which nothing could be said. He possesses innate ability, is absolutely honest, energetic and trustworthy. He is a tried and true Democrat, as the people well know, and against whom the charge can not be truthfully made that he ever bolted the ticket. He has never aligned himself with any political organization or clique other than the democratic party, he does not follow the attributes of small bore politicians by advocating measures to arouse the prejudices of men. On matters affecting public welfare he lends an undaunted influence for the right and in the Senate chamber at Austin he could be found with his visor down. This young man inspires confidence and makes friends upon acquaintance, but the district is so large his friends should help him in the other counties of the district. With some assistance he will be elected the next State Senator from this district, and be one in which the people may justly be proud.

NATHAN ADAMS AND THE HOME LOAN BANK PROJECT

President Hoover appointed a five-man bipartisan board headed by Franklin W. Fort, a New Jersey banker and insurance man, to begin establishing from eight to 12 district home loan banks in various parts of the nation. Nathan Adams of Dallas, a banker widely known the country over, is one of the two democrats named. Each bank will have 11 directors and will be capitalized at a minimum of $5,000,000. Franklin W. Fort is a lame duck politician of New Jersey. He led the pro republicans in a desperate battle for a seat in the senate but was overwhelmed by a wet republican and snuffed out of the political picture. He is a man of large wealth, his character is of the highest brand and his conservatism is said to be beyond question. He has ever been a thick and thin supporter of the policies of the Hoover administration. It is designated as a bi-partisan board, but is composed of three republicans and two democrats.

Nathan Adams flew from Texas to Washington. He is of the opinion that it will take a month to locate the member banks and possibly longer to select the 11 directors for each bank. Bascom N. Timmons, a widely known Washington correspondent, furnishes the information that "it is not considered likely that either Dallas, Houston and San Antonio would obtain one of the regional banks." Why not Austin? It is the capital seat of the empire of the Southwest. It is the central point of all communication. It is the ideal location for the home loan bank. Housed in the state buildings of the Southwestern empire are departments of state which deal largely with all the functions and purposes outlined for this reconstruction measure enacted by a democratic house, a coalition senate and signed by President Hoover.

National Chairman James A. Farley has let it be known that most of the speech-making would be done by the prominent democratic leaders in their respective states. This is as it should be. Thousands of Texas democrats who are stalwarts are ready to go down the line for the national standard-bearers after the campaign bell has been sounded. Another item of news of importance to the democrats of the Southwest should not be overlooked. Chairman Farley said to the press representatives that so far no money had been solicited and that the only contribution received was $1600 from Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma. Alford William is one of the fighting democrats of the Southwest. He is one of the colorful democrats. He has his party behind him in Oklahoma.

He is for the sane conservation of the natural wealth treasure of the Southwest. He is aggressively opposed to oil and gas waste in the Oklahoma commonwealth. He is one of the democratic governors who stabilized the oil industry and won a top notch place as a real friend of the people by his very courageous acts. Murray did not hesitate to use his national guardsmen. He protected the rights of all. There is another democratic governor in the Southwest, Ross S. Sterling, who took the bit in his teeth, and made it possible for 9-cent oil to go to 90 cents; he curbed the irresponsible; he placed a million dollars a day or $365,000,000 a year in the pockets of the independents and the revenue fund; he assumed all responsibility, and he should be given the sincere thanks as well as the ballots of all voters who believe in a public official doing the right thing at the right time.

Populism is one of the curses of modern politics. In gratitude is another curse that hovers about many voters. A fat they have been saved, after their pockets and their rights have been protected, they damn the man who flew to the rescue and saved the day for all concerned—just as Sterling saved the day in the richest oil field in the civilized world.

SPEAKER GARNER ON THE ATLANTIC SEABOARD

Speaker John Nance Garner, without a flourish of trumpets or a local band playing "Hail to the Chief," slipped out of Uvalde and landed on the North Atlantic seaboard. He went there to confer with the New York governor and together they planned for one of the most vigorous campaigns of history. Things are happening these being August days. Herbert Hoover has evolved into a rights champion of personal liberty. Ye gods! What a flop!

A host of fellows nowadays seem to be intoxicated with the sound of their own voices and, to make matters worse, most of them never say anything worth saying.

If This Duelling Idea Spreads!

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

Political minded people of this entire section are invited to a rally to be held in Ranger on Monday night, a complete story of which will be found in another column of this paper. All voters are invited to attend regardless of their political affiliations.

The other day Rev. Gid J. Bryan dropped into the office and he said that the main trouble with prohibition was that an educational campaign was started years ago, and as soon as prohibition became a fact instead of a theory the educational program was dropped, just when it should have been doubled.

And now another columnist expresses this same view in this manner: "The prohibition question is not and never will be solved by law or politics. No hard and fast law is necessary to control the sale of alcoholic acid, because so few people want to buy it. Everybody knows how dangerous it is, and the people avoid it. When everybody learns how dangerous liquor is, and avoid it for their own welfare, the bootlegger will go out of business and the prohibition laws will cease to be the major interest in politics. There is the job waiting for the attention of the W. C. T. U. and every other organization. They should stick to their subject and pin white ribbons on their converts instead of republican or democratic campaign buttons."

Hon. C. C. McDonald, who is reported to be a very able speaker, is to speak tonight at Eastland in the interest of the candidacy of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson. We have never heard Mr. McDonald speak, but we have been told that he delivers a wonderful address. At about the same time the Ranger Lions club will be sponsoring a county-wide political rally at which they expect something like 1,500 people to be present. The rally will be held at the Willows and will be combined with a swimming and diving contest. The swimming and diving, however, have been scheduled for the earlier part of the evening so that they will not interfere in any way with the political rally.

County candidates, and we presume this means the candidates for representative, have been invited to attend and to make their announcements. A loud speaking instrument will be installed and used.

The Boston Red Sox and the Chicago Cubs gave the customers, if any, their money's worth the other day. The two teams played a 19-inning game that resulted in a 3 to 2 victory for the Sox. A total of 63 times at bat, 15 hits, 56 putouts and 31 assists were made by the Sox while the Cubs were at bat 66 times, made 13 hits, 57 putouts and 28 assists. About the only thing missing from the game was a three-bagger, as singles, doubles and one home run were made. The game lasted four hours and 13 minutes. Several hours were reported late for supper that night.

Which reminds us that talk of football was resumed, or rather it flared up a little more, this week when Eck Curtis came back from a trip to the Olympic games. He was around town telling about the football game he saw played under the new rules.

Curtis says that the only new rule that is apt to cause any confusion will be the one making a ball dead when any part of the player's body touches the ground other than his hands and feet. He says that when a fellow falls it is second nature or something, for him to get up and run, even though he knows it will do no good. Many a good game will be lost that way, is the prediction of this time.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON.—Less than 10 years ago the late Wayne H. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League was ordering a president of the United States on the water wagon and telling him to stay there. Less than five years ago the organized dry leaders had an unduplicated entree to the White House, where their advice and admonitions were heard with respect and attention.

Just a couple of years ago Bishop James Cannon, then field marshal of the drys, defied a Senate committee and walked out on it in angry contempt.

Had Congress Bullfaced
UNTIL even more recently the drys had most of Congress eating out of their hands and high prohibition enforcement officials appearing before their meetings to deliver inspirational speeches designed to retain their support.

All those recollections emphasize the ferocity of the position in which the good men and women who head the numerous dry organizations, once so powerful, find themselves today. The avalanche of events which has landed them in their present plight cannot be detailed in limited space, but an epoch in history begins to close and there is no parallel for the story of this organized high-pressure group which rose to exert for a few years an unprecedented influence on the national government and then, apparently, suddenly began to cave in toward a resumption of its former relatively unimportant status.

REGARDLESS of any other aspects, President Hoover's speech left the drys flat on their sides. Those who support him now will support the same sort of thing which in recent years has led them to launch all their fury against Al Smith and John J. Raskob.

Hoover was their last prop, the one upon which they depended to give the same aid and comfort in a very bad storm. Not many months ago they were confident.

Spain Adopts New Patriarch
MADRID.—The Second Spanish Republic now has its patriarch—title recently given Don Alejandro Lerroux y Garcia.

Following the death of the 84-year-old deputy, Dr. Narciso Vazquez Lemus, only one or two older republicans were left in the cortex who antedate Lerroux in age and service.

Don Alejandro has been out of the cabinet since the radical party withdrew its members from participation in the government last December. For a few months thereafter the socialists and the radicals were quite rivals, and it seemed that a big gulf was being created between them. Lately, however, this animosity has disappeared. Although officially in the opposition benches, the radicals on several recent occasions have voted with the governmental coalition of left republicans and socialists.

When the multi-millionaire deputy from Majorca, Don Juan March, attacked the minister of public works, Indalecio Prieto, and the minister of finance, Jaime Carner, it was Lerroux who rose on the floor of the cortex and declared that the attack was not against the ministers, but against the government, but against the republic. From that moment on, the title of "Patriarch of the Republic" was conferred on the white-headed radical leader.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

Signed letters to this paper will be carried in this column, but names will be left off where requested. No anonymous letters can be printed, however. These letters express the views of the writer and may not be construed as the policies or beliefs of this paper.

Will the Voters of Eastland County Think Seriously About Their Own Welfare Before Casting Their Ballot for Governor on Aug. 27?

The most important state political question is a law setting the burden of taxation. All other questions should be secondary. Mrs. Ferguson proposes to set aside 10 million dollars of the state gasoline tax each year, to reduce the state ad valorem tax. This plan could not possibly reduce the tax on the small homesteads, because a constitutional amendment will be adopted at the November election, providing that every homestead in the state, both farms and town homes, not assessed at more than $3,000, shall be exempt from state taxes, and if assessed at more than $3,000, that state taxes shall be paid on the part in excess of $3,000.

Governor Sterling has called a special session of the legislature for Aug. 20, to pass a law setting aside enough of the state gasoline tax each year to pay the road bond tax of every county in the state for 1932, and each succeeding year, until the road bonds are paid.

These are plain, blunt facts about the most important issue of the campaign. Which plan do you favor? What are you going to do about it when you vote?

Are you going to say to Governor Sterling, by your vote, that you don't want the legislature called to relieve the taxpayers of the burden of the road bond tax, but that you want the tax-payers of Eastland county to continue to pay the road bond tax, while 10 million dollars of the state gasoline tax is being set aside each year for the benefit of the larger tax-payers in the payment of their state taxes?

Says It Brought Relief From Constipation
"I want to take this unsolicited means to tell you what ALL-BRAN has done for me. I am on the road all the time, and this has a tendency to constipate me, or any one who travels all the time. I used to suffer a great deal from constipation, until some one told me about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Since I have been eating this cereal, I have been cured of constipation. The United Dry Stores of Ranger and Eastland are today offering the latest in fall merchandise. This "qualified" merchandise is the very latest in the new styles for fall.

Fall dresses, rough crepes, fall purses and the latest in hats and shoes are being featured by the two stores.

Unemployed To See Free Movie

An arrangement has been made through the courtesy of Lew Waid, manager of the Radio Theatre, for every unemployed person of Ranger, over 18 years of age to attend the 24th afternoon of Wednesday, August 24, between the hours of 2 and 6 o'clock.

Even though conditions are as rough as they are here, several people who thoroughly enjoy during leisure hours an afternoon class entertainment, at the time and comfortable place which is truly rated as the finest in West Texas.

At the Movies... do they whisper about YOU?

Not very pleasant—to have people whisper about you! And they'll certainly whisper whether you're man or woman—if you use the right soap to prevent offensive body odor. Kirk's Coco Castile was created especially for this purpose. It is 100% pure coco oil soap. That's why it makes a fuller, penetrating lather than ordinary soaps. It deep into the pores, removes every trace of dirt and grime. Best of all, it's unscented. You stay out of your bath—without any chemical heavy perfume odor—as fresh and clean-smelling as a woodland breeze. Try it today—hands, for bath, for a wonderful shower. You'll be amazed at the difference. Am I right? ... Look for the arrow. Always ask for Kirk's by name.

the time for school approaches and one sees the sightless windows of silent school houses empty campus, one realizes soon windows will be open, the campus will be teeming with restless, active life, waters at play between school and home.

one realizes the teacher has his or her grind through innumerable days to come in all of weather until the close of school, next May.

sometimes the wonder comes, why do people choose the profession of teaching, for all things considered, this is one of the poorest avenues of employment in the world.

to be a teacher nowadays, means preparation in advance of years. First, to graduate from high school; then, a normal training course, with certificates and later, if the teacher wishes to set anywhere in the profession, returns to college to master degrees.

so on it goes in all endless ways. Studying in the summer, in the fall, winter and spring.

these times of depression, it is surprising to note, that there is a slight increase in number of applicants for school teachers, and shows some improvement in profession.

there are several reasons of this nature, and whenever there is a closing of schools, a school is pronounced to abolish the other than fill in with a new teacher. Schools all over the state, nominating as is well known, the order, rather than carrying on.

regrettable to learn that salaries from 20 to 30 per cent less than a year ago, and high salaries, have been reduced $125.00 or $90.00 or $100.00, still sadder to note, many cannot offer contracts, they cannot guarantee salaries.

is surprising that there is an increase in teaching professions, and people of other professions, had their jobs abolished, are against it and if they have been trained, and have a degree, naturally turn to the thought of teaching as a means of livelihood.

are not having much luck, as school authorities favor applicants wherever possible.

teaching is one of the oldest professions in the world, and because a way long before Christ was born.

ist was the great teacher of ages, and set the example, of need of teaching the people different departments in life, even by His choosing of the disciples to go out into the world for the mission of teaching, and of these was a learned man, one was a doctor, one a lawyer, a fisherman, and so on the list, each with a different trade and each entrusted with

MONA MOHAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, receives an amusing proposal of marriage. Her employer tells her a wealthy client wishes to marry her immediately with the understanding that for a year she shall occupy her own apartment, have unlimited travel accounts, do as she pleases. At the end of that time she is to decide whether to become the man's wife in actuality or secure a divorce.

MONA is in love with HARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent who is the business partner of her old friend, STEVE SAUABELL. Harry and Steve operate a diamond mine in South America. Steve, born to poverty, has recently sold a huge diamond called "The Emperor of Peru."

When MONA asks the name of the man who wishes to marry her she is told it is Harry Townsend. Not until the ceremony is about to be performed does she discover the bridegroom is young Harry's cousin of the same name. Steve and young Harry have returned to America. Immediately afterwards her sweetheart lost to her, marries the uncle. Instantly afterwards she goes with her friend, LOTTIE CARB, to live in a fashionable hotel. While there she is robbed. The thief takes a necklace of imitation diamonds valued at $50.00.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVII

THE summer passed and in its wake came a cool, clear autumn. MONA visited the Adirondacks with Mrs. Faxon, spent a careful three weeks in selecting clothes, opened the town house once more, went back to her studies.

Alice, her sister, came back from Atlantic City whether she had gone with Harry, at MONA's invitation. KITTY was settled nicely in school, growing taller and important with the new fortunes of the family. Dad was home in his easy chair by the window after a month in the country at a cousin's boarding house.

Six months gone, six to come. MONA could go to Reno in May. Were courts open in the summer? Vaguely MONA recalled a reference to court opening after the long vacation. It had been in a motion picture but the lawyers had worn wigs. It must have been an English picture. Maybe things were different over here.

Mr. Townsend was feeling better these days. Mrs. Faxon explained that he would expect to dine with MONA occasionally, driving in with his car, or when he left Twilands as he frequently did, taking up an abode in the suite set aside for him in the 63rd street home.

"Living here?" asked MONA, paling. She laid down her riding crop. It was early morning and she had just come in from a canter in the park.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mrs. Faxon went to Harry Townsend's apartment. "You expected me didn't you? You've had an opera engagement for a don't know how long! He thought you might like to have lunch with me. Shall I say you'll be waiting at one?"

"Certainly," Mona replied automatically.

The girl tossed out her riding coat and, sitting down, began to fumble with her boots. "Are you lunching here?" she asked composedly.

"I think he intends taking you out somewhere. Mr. Townsend has been out very little. They feel it would do him good to see people and get about as he used to do."

"Of course," Mona agreed.

IT was 10 o'clock then and the French instructor who arrived at 10:30 kept Mona busy for an hour. After that her hair was waved by Celeste, the maid, adept in such arts, and her nails were manicured perfectly.

MONA chose a tan suit and sable fur with a subtle, nondescript little hat of brown to go with it. She rarely wore the emerald ring but today she took it on her hiding place and slipped it on her left hand.

The car had been ordered for one and, without waiting to be called, she tripped down the stairs into the bright little foyer of the house and back to the library.

Of all the rooms in the house—except of course, her own—Mona liked the library best. It was at the rear of the first floor, walled with stained glass windows through which light played in mystic fashion. There were cushioned seats before the windows and the walls were lined with impressive looking books.

There was a fireplace, easy chairs, and a desk with a polished surface on which an unused inkstand waited. The room itself had an unused appearance.

Mrs. Faxon had explained that Mr. Townsend rarely used it for reading, preferring his own book-lined sitting room upstairs.

The green lights from the windows stained her suit as Mona moved forward to look at some photographs hanging on the further wall. Strange she had not noticed these before. They could be no one save Harry! That slight slant of eye, the wave in the smooth blond hair, gaining sophistication as he grew older. Here was little Barry, rolling about a fur rug, kicking his bare heels and, probably, crowing as he chased the fat little bugs to gether and regarded them delightedly. Barry in rompers riding on his tricycle. Oh, how long ago it must have been! Still—not awfully long, either. Barry was only—why she said Barry were young!

Mona moved in front of Mr. Townsend's picture, the shaft of light falling across her head, and stood motionless before it.

"I am married to him for six months longer," she mused. "Well, I wonder if he is satisfied with what's his done?"

"Perfectly, my dear, I assure you."

The voice was cool and crisp behind her. Mona turned swiftly and beheld her husband. It was the first time she had seen him in the town house which she had unconsciously looked upon as her own retreat.

Mr. Townsend, faultlessly dressed in striped trousers and frock coat, was smiling at her. He laid his hat and gloves upon the desk and set his stick upon a chair.

He smiled at Mona rather boyishly, she thought, but for a moment she was startled. She had uttered her thoughts aloud!

"Perfectly satisfied," Mr. Townsend repeated. "And I believe that you are, too. Six months—as no doubt, you were thinking—have passed. It's just half the time until you shall be free again."

He moved toward her, regarding her steadily. "It hasn't been such frightful bondage, has it?"

As he spoke he turned to young Barry's portraits, regarded them a minute and turned back to her. Her face, which had grown pale at his entrance, flushed again. Then the color receded.

Mr. Townsend indicated a chair. "Sit down," he said, "I want to talk to you."

With a hardly perceptible shudder of her head, Mona remained standing. At length she spoke. "I— I thought we were going out to lunch," she said. "I am ready."

"Quite, I should say. You are prompt. And I find you here, regarding the family portraits rather soberly. Tell me," the girl raised her eyes to his and found them kindly, "do you think I knew when

Pythian Sisters

Estetian Notables.
The Pythian Sisters, Temple No. 72, entertained a number of out of town guests, and two notables, at their regular meeting Thursday night, in the Knights of Pythias hall, with session opened by Most Excellent Chief Abbie Slaughter.

All officers were at their stations. Only routine business was transacted, according to Mrs. J. A. Ross, temple deputy for Eastland, who presented Mrs. Glen Gill of Langsow, until recently of Breckenridge, who is the grand protector for the state of Texas.

The chief feature of the evening was the address by the grand protector who stated this was her first visit here in 1932, and that she found the Eastland temple showing more interest in their work than she had found evinced in any other temple she had visited in some time.

Mrs. Etta Mathias of Breckenridge, district deputy, also made a short and pleasing address.

Handsome bouquets were placed on stations, which brightened the setting, with their mingled shades and hues.

At close of an interesting meeting, the committee on refreshments, Mrs. Glen Liles and Mrs. Slaughter, provided a daintily prepared plate of iced watermelon.

There were eight visitors present from Breckenridge, in addition to the notables, and the Eastland temple had a full attendance of members.

Marriage Announced

Robert Steele Jones-Sarah A. Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Jones announced the marriage of their son, Robert Steele Jones, to Miss Sarah A. Hamilton, of Bryan, Texas, on July 2, in Walters, Okla.

The happy couple have gone to housekeeping at College Station, and settled in their new home, Thursday.

Robert Steele Jones is construction architect at College Station, while Mr. Jones was at work at the college.

The bride, who is an orphan, was one of the popular teachers in the public schools of Bryan.

Not wishing to give up her work, the wedding was not announced until today.

Young Mrs. Jones spent the summer at the Presbyterian camp at Kerrville, engaged in teaching, while Mr. Jones was at work at the college.

They are both popular and charming young people, and have a host of friends who will extend their hearty congratulations.

Children's Story Hour

The children's story hour held Thursday morning in community clubrooms was devoted to a study of the old south, of plantation life as represented in verse, song, and story, with program arranged and led by Mrs. Claude G. Stubblefield, and opened by Mrs. Fred L. Drago, assistant program chairman.

There were no divisional groups for this hour, the children meeting in assembly, opened by Mrs. Drago with a musical program of songs, beginning with "The Weather Song," followed by the "Flag We Love," and closing with "Summer."

Jane Ferguson was accompanist for the group of songs, which the children thoroughly enjoyed in ensemble.

A pretty little voice solo, "All Things Bright and Beautiful," was sung by Madge Hearn, with chorus by the assembly.

A delightful musical reading, that gave atmospheric background to the southern program, was presented by Miss Mary Frances Hunter, in ye olde tyme furbelowed costume, who read, "When Grandmother Was a Little Girl," and danced a dainty minuet, with Mrs. F. O. Hunter at the piano.

In response to encore Miss Hunter read "Down in the Old Neighborhood."

This musical preface to the program on the south introduced a story of the negro race, how they came originally from Africa, how they became slaves in America, and how they secured their freedom.

That the tales of Uncle Remus, written by Joel Chandler Harris, were brought here by African slaves, and made into these stories, which all children love.

Negro folk songs were described and lines given from songs to show their character and meaning. This brought descriptions of lullabies, work songs and signal songs of the colored people when at work, and in this way sending messages to distant groups of workers.

The horror the colored race has for war, was told, by the speaker, Mrs. Stubblefield. At this point, Wendel Hunter, brought an appropriate message in song, "I Ain't Gwine Study War No Mo'."

The poems by Paul Lawrence Dunbar were described and analyzed, and a story given of Phyllis Wheatley, a negro poetess, who in her childhood was kidnapped from the western coast of Africa, sold to slave owners, and lived in Boston.

Later this woman, who had developed this great talent as a poetess, appeared in Europe, and was given audience and read her poems, before kings and queens.

Rae June Stubblefield presented two delightful readings, "Angelina Johnson," by Dunbar, and "Mammie's Philosophy," by Wheatley, showing the contrast in these two negro writers.

Mrs. Stubblefield followed with the story and origin of the negro spiritual, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

A dialogue reading in blackface and costume, of a negro mammy wanting work closed the speaking program.

The assembly sang "Dixie" with origin of the song told by Mrs. Stubblefield between its verses.

This delightful children's hour closed with ensemble singing of "America."

Those present: Eloise Sanderford, Elizabeth Ann Sikes, Ruth Hart, Rae June Stubblefield, Alice Jones, Barbara Shelton, Nanette Tanner, Norma Jean Achley, Sissy Patterson, Dorothy McGlamery, Madge Hearn, Mildred McGlamery, Shirley June Patterson, Mary Frances Hunter, Anna Joe Tableman, Elizabeth Jones, Jane Ferguson, Eloise Johnson, Kathleen Collie, Virginia Ferguson, Opal Bargeley, Marjorie Murphy, Pauline Bargeley, Wendel Hunter, Cone Johnson, Sammie Day, Don Hudson, Thomas Haley Jr.

Guests and leaders present were Mrs. Bargeley, Mrs. M. J. Pickett, Mrs. F. O. Hunter, Mrs. Fred L. Drago, Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite, Mrs. J. E. McLaughlin, Mrs. Claude G. Stubblefield, Mrs. Carl Springer, and house guest, Mrs. Bessie Foy Short of Baird.

Drill practice was conducted, led by Captain Blanche Nicols.

Announcement was made that there will be a called meeting Monday night at 8 o'clock for drill practice, in preparation for the program to be put on next Thursday night, according to Mrs. W. C. Marlow.

At close of meeting a social hour was enjoyed on the veranda of the Weaver home, with Miss Pauline Cook as hostess, who served iced watermelon.

There was a representative attendance at the meeting.

Talahi Group

Goes Swimming.

A life saving lesson was given that part of the Talahi group of Camp Fire Girls, who are receiving these instructions, from a trained teacher in Cisco, at the Cisco dam swimming pool.

The meeting of the Talahi group, announced for regular session at the home of their guardian, Mrs. W. P. Palm, was called off on account of the threatening weather and lack of quorum, those who attend the meeting, continuing on their way for their swimming lesson, postponed from preceding day on account of rain.

Those going: Kathleen Cottingham, Joan Johnson, Vida Lee Gowen, Carolyn Cox, and Elva Lee Jones, who were accompanied by Miss Verna Johnson.

The Talahi group will hold their regular meeting next Thursday afternoon at the residence of their guardian, Mrs. Palm.

Mrs. Loflin V. Witcher of Eastland was taken suddenly ill last week and was operated on at the Methodist hospital in Fort Worth last Saturday.

The emergency operation was successful and friends will be glad to know that Mrs. Witcher has rallied satisfactorily and all things favorable will be able to return to her home in Eastland in about two weeks.

Mr. Witcher and their children are visiting Mrs. Witcher's mother in Fort Worth, where they will remain until Mrs. Witcher recovers.
