100 PILOTS TO JOIN IN RACE TO CLEVELAND

By United Press.

EL PASO, Aug. 23.—Forty-six planes, presumably were winging their way to Roswell, N. M., today in the Cord Cup transcontinental air derby. Forty-eight left El Paso but Charles Spencer, Jr., Douglas, Ariz., returned to the city airport because of motor trouble and reported that one of the fliers was down 25 miles east of El Paso. He said the ship was on its nose. He could not determine if anyone was injured.

HUMAN BLOCKADE OF 10,000 MINERS STOP WORK IN ILLINOIS COAL FIELD

Like a veritable "army of occupation," 10,000 or more union miners have thrown a human blockade around coal mines in southern Illinois to make their strike against a reduced wage scale 100 per cent effective in that area. This picture shows a part of the "army" encamped in a ball park at Kincaid, Ill., near Taylorville, where the strike stopped all operations. The invading miners converged on Taylorville from various parts of the state, forming probably the largest army of pickets in Illinois labor history. National Guard troops were held in readiness for a quick call in case of disorders.

FAMOUS SPEED PILOT HAS A CLOSE CALL

CHAIRMAN FORT ON BANK MORTGAGE ACTIVITY

Chairman Franklin W. Fort of the home loan bank board is ready to function. This after considerable talking. He is a financier and has a record as a successful business man. He predicts that large numbers of banking institutions throughout the country would re-enter the mortgage business as soon as the system to be administered by his board is set up. He insists that intitution are impressed by the need of remaining in a liquid condition where in an emergency they may realize on their assets. He is telling it to the American world that mortgages are not liquid. Consequently throughout the country it has become almost impossible to borrow on them. Speaking of the home loan bank created by the congress, he lets it be known that the plan of operation renders home mortgages held by member banks instantly liquid in the hands of those banks. He has no doubt that when the system is once set up many of these institutions will immediately re-enter the mortgage market. Then and very much to the point, Chairman Fort made this observation: "The can't make money without lending it. When they find they can get money almost overnight they will recommence to loan." Moreover, he said the banks might loan directly to individuals as long as government capital remained on their books, but borrowers would have to prove that they were unable to get the money elsewhere. Here is hoping for quick action. There are thousands who are willing to borrow. They are home owners. They find money hard to borrow. If the home loan bank is the agency for relief then it is to be hoped that it will begin to function at an early date.

CREEKMORE AND HIS CO-OPERATIVE PROGRAM

Officers and directors of the cotton stabilization corporation were re-elected at the New Orleans meeting. A reminder that three years ago the corporation was formed to carry out the federal farm board's stabilization policy. Alexander W. Legge is one of the public directors of the organization. E. F. Creekmore continues as general manager. This is the future program: "The stabilization corporation is proceeding with the sale of one half of the 300,000 bales of the 1929-30 crop purchased from the cotton cooperative." Furthermore, the officials of the stabilization corporation said that since 500,000 bales were turned over to the Red Cross through authorization by a recent act of congress the stock will be reduced by the end of the year to approximately 150,000 bales or about 10 per cent of the original holdings. There is a lean crop predicted this year. Cotton price levels are hiking. Regardless of all this, the surplus will fix the price, and in the cotton belt over there are many senators and representatives who are clamoring for the federal government "to get out of business." Now what will happen next?

MITCHELL AS A MUSSOLINI

Attorney General William D. Mitchell has made a ruling against any permanent expansion of the currency under the Glass-Bohah rider to the home loan bank law. A reminder that the maximum expansion under the law has been estimated at $1,000,000,000. He also ruled the tax on notes issued under the act to be one-quarter of one per cent semi-annually. He held all currency issued against bonds given circulation privilege by the legislation must be retired in an appropriate manner three years from the date of enactment, or July 22.

TRADE JOURNALS PREDICT BETTER BUSINESS

Editors of American trade and industrial magazines, said to be "usually hard to convince," are beginning to report there are indications of betterment in the lines of business represented by the publications. As an indicator, the publishers of these papers say several magazines in the general and business field show gains in space booked ahead so that fall and winter activities are expected to reach the level of at least a year ago. Retail advertising made the best showing during July, holding at 70.4 per cent of its four-year advance.

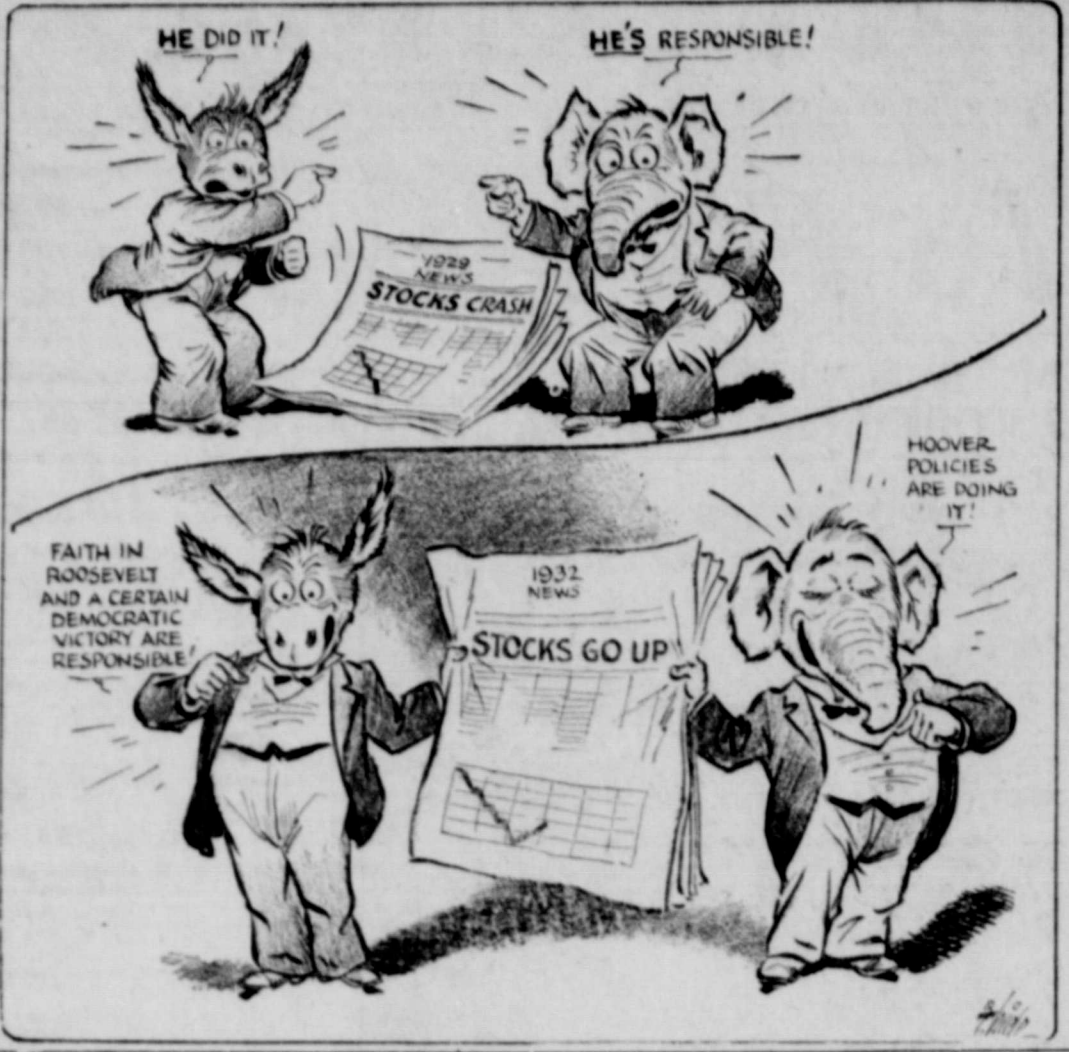

All this is a reminder to the Texas voters that constitutional government with all its blessings and its wise laws and honest expenditure of the public money is the prize at stake Saturday, Aug. 27. There should be an overwhelming vote cast for the repudiation of proxy government—first because it is unconstitutional, second because it is wholly irresponsible, third because in the days of its power it was the most extravagant the people of Texas had known, and lastly, because the archives of the state and the records of the file courts of Texas furnish exhaustive and convincing evidence why it should never be permitted again to function under the dome of the Texas capitol.

This is not bunk; this is not bluster; this is not bragging; this is not inspired by hate; this is the record as planted in the state archives and that rial court records which can never be destroyed or effaced or blotted out of the memory of Texas of yesterday, Texas of today or Texas of the future.

PUBLICITY FOR R. F. C. LOANS

Publicity of R. F. C. loans for the first month of functioning will be open for inspection Monday. Clerk South Trimble of the house of representatives has made the announcement that monthly reports would be made public by him as received. This because Clerk Trimble had been notified by the leaders that it was the purpose of congress that the data be public property "to enable the people to know what became of their money." All this is as it should be. Why shouldn't the people know where their money is placed? They are taxpayers. They are said to be the masters. That is, they make and unmake governments and public servants and in days agone there was a suspicion rife in the new republic that "the voice of the people is the voice of God." Of course, there is a suspicion rife today that the voice of the people has not been inspired by the Lord in recent years.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma
GEORGE H. SEIGLE, editor of the Missouri Valley (Iowa) Daily Times, says:
"The structure of an advertising campaign is a good deal like the structure of a meal. There are certain basic articles of diet—meat, potatoes, bread, butter—the foundation, the first consideration in the planning; then come the side dishes, the salads, the jellies and jams, and desserts. The best meal brings these all together in a perfect proportion, just as the best advertising campaign is a perfect blend of media.

"In advertising, the newspaper is undisputedly the basic article, the meat and potatoes, the first noted factor in the whole project. Perhaps direct mail advertising might be regarded as the salad, and radio advertising as the dessert; a part of the diet, but not the sturdy foundation.
"No fair-minded person interested in the best advertising results can hold up any one type of advertising and truthfully claim it alone to be worth while, any more than a dietitian interested in the best possible health can say that only salads or desserts make up the best balanced diet.
"Both the basic articles of food and the basic medium of advertising will carry on further, faster, and with better results than any other single factor or group of competing factors, and must be accorded prominence of proportion if the best results are to follow."

Sterling P. Strong Issues Statement On Candidacy

F. E. Walker of Ranger, is in receipt of a letter from Sterling P. Strong, candidate for congressman-at-large, place 3, in which was enclosed the following statement issued by the candidate from his Dallas headquarters:
"When I announced as candidate for congressman-at-large, I made this statement 'that I favored prohibition of the liquor traffic in the smallest political unit, and to the uttermost parts of the earth, but I believed the individual or organization attempting to make prohibition an issue in this campaign should be considered an enemy to our country, for all efforts should be concentrated on bringing relief to the suffering people throughout the nation.'
"The policies of the republican party have bankrupted the nation. The president himself, in a public address, stated that the economic conditions now existing in New York and the federal reserve board at Washington is the main cause of the depression and suffering of the people throughout the nation.
"Congress is vested with power to relieve the country of the awful depression now prevailing and the power to so legislate as to make the return of panics impossible.
"I shall support the nominees of the democratic national convention held in Chicago, and have repeatedly stated this in my speeches and letters throughout the campaign.
"On July 23 the democrats of Texas voted in favor of submission of the eighteenth amendment, to the people. Therefore, if elected, I will carry out the will of the democrats as voiced in the primary election and vote for the submission of the eighteenth amendment.
"The liquor issue is out of the run-off primary, as all candidates for all the places for congressman-at-large have announced in favor of submission.
"If elected to congress, I will use all the power conferred to bring the relief to which the people are entitled. If there ever was a time in the history of this nation that the people should take charge of their government, that time is now, and if relief comes, it must come through the individual voters of the nation."
An American worker who has been in Russia for four years says he wishes he was back in Chicago. If he had been a Russian in Chicago for your years, he would probably be wishing he was back in Moscow.

OUT OUR WAY

The Newfangles (Mou 'n' Pop)

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

for LOVE or MONEY by H.W. CORLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MONA MORAN, born on New York's East side, marries JOHN HARRIS TOMORROW, millionaire. The strange marriage is arranged by MONA's employer, also TOWNSEND's lawyer, who tells her a wealthy client wishes to marry her with the understanding that she will occupy her own apartment and have unlimited charge accounts for one year. At the end of that time she must decide whether to become TOWNSEND's wife in actuality or secure a divorce.
MONA believes her betrothal to JOHN HARRIS TOMORROW whom she loves, but until just before the ceremony does she learn the man is HARRY's uncle. Young Harry, who is not friendly with his uncle, has returned to South America where he and STEVE SAUCABELL are partners in a diamond mine. Believing Young Harry has to be MONA goes through with the marriage. LOT-TIE CARH, fashion model, is MONA's closest friend.
 Six months pass. Only occasionally does MONA see her husband. He sends a huge diamond called "The Empress of Peru" for her. MONA tries to secure her husband's attention toward his nephew. He tells her that if she will agree that their marriage should be permanent he will do the right thing by HARRY.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXX
MONA stared at her husband. What could she tell him? Should she say that she had thought him cruel, scheming and revengeful toward his nephew? That she had believed he had married her only to torture both Harry and herself? This reminded herself that, save for hearsay, she was not even certain that Young Harry had ever loved her. The admiring glances, the suave flattery might all have been part of a game, the merest flirtation. By accepting that flirtation for more than it was worth she had lost Steve's love (if she had ever had that) as well as Young Harry Townsend's.
 All this did not alter the fact that she loved Harry. Now, should she decide against ending this marriage, she could bring Harry into his rightful inheritance.
 "Suppose," she said quietly, "that I think this over until after the holidays. Then we can make plans—either to remain here as we have been or to start on our honeymoon—"
 "A Mediterranean cruise?" Townsend suggested eagerly.
 "Would you like that?"
 "It" he paused, "oh, I've been everywhere. Suit yourself, my dear." He added tenderly, "I hope you'll see things my way. I'm not a bad fellow at heart, really." He was silent again. The bad mood between my brother and I began in the cradle. Then when he stole the woman I was to marry—"
 "She must have been willing," MONA pointed out, "or she wouldn't have gone. After all, that wasn't Harry's fault!"
 "No, Harry can hardly be blamed for that."
 There was no more said on the subject nor was it raised again during the days of preparation for the holiday festivities.
CHRISTMAS came and went merrily. Mr. Townsend had planned a dinner at Twilands with MONA presiding at the table, flushed and lovely, in gleaming white satin and emeralds.
 Christmas morning lay gleaming white about them. Snow had fallen and the day was a veritable "Christmas card holiday" as Mrs. Faxon exclaimed. At three o'clock the car arrived for MONA who was to spend the afternoon with her family. The Morans had declined an invitation to Twilands. Ma's new fortunes had taken material form and the neighbors were dropping in for a bit of celebration. Ma was a flutter with mice pie in the oven, tissue paper and holly everywhere.
 Dad, comfortable and smiling, wearing a new silk robe, was seated in his armchair smoking and chatting with one of the boys who had dropped in for "a bit of a laugh and a joke."
 The Donahue twins, fresh in starched rompers, were dragging new fire engines up and down the hall amid shouts of glee.
Kitty, it seemed, was entertaining. Mr. Townsend had sent theater tickets and she had departed with a crowd of friends. The telephone rang and Ma answered it. Alice's voice came over the wire.
 "Tell her I'll send Jackson to bring her down," MONA ordered, tossing aside her sweet smelling furs.
 "You'll not mind?" her mother asked, cautiously covering the transmitter.
 "Of course not. He has to wait anyhow. I want to run over to 63rd street a little later."
MONA left shortly after Alice's arrival. A new cheap blue gown hung pathetically about what once had been, in Lottie's terms, "a knock-out figure." All the more pathetic, it seemed, because Alice herself did not realize apparently the change that had come over her. Alice had married for love. Well, she had loved—and with it struggle and poverty and a hopeless future.
 The Callabans tree was set and admired. Mrs. Casey appeared and invited them all down for ice cream. Lilly Donahue, coming to collect the twins, set a lemon meringue pie down on the table.
 "Oh, what fun, really, it is to be poor!" MONA thought to herself. "What friendliness. What neighborliness. Fancy anyone in 63rd street dropping in with a pie!"
A LITTLE later MONA stopped to see Lottie who had attended a Christmas Eve celebration with the latest swain and now lay blinking and looking a trifle weary, surrounded by a mass of wilted flowers.
 "He sent over practically the whole shop window," Lottie explained. "Now look at them!" Rising, she began arranging her hair before the mirror.
 "Hear from South America?" Lottie queried.
 "No. Did you?"
 "Yes. Maybe you did too. This just came an hour ago." She produced a yellow cablegram in which Steve wished her, rather stiffly, a merry Christmas.
 Obliging Lottie accompanied MONA to the 63rd street house but there was no yellow envelope on the hall table.
 "That settles it!" MONA thought despairingly. "He doesn't love me. He would have sent a cable at least. He could easily enough."
 Her thoughts were bitter as she prepared for the night. Harry did not love her but she loved him. And it lay in her power to arrange his future. Well, she would do it. Her husband and Harry would both be happy. Only she herself would suffer by the arrangement. Suffer? That might be too strong a word. She might learn to love her husband. She could try.
 It was 11 o'clock but she could not sleep. The fire had ordered earlier while she and Lottie talked, still glowed softly and sent little tongues of shadow across the ceiling.
 It had been a happy Christmas but now she was alone. She wondered if her husband had found and liked her gift, an Italian leather case filled with two photographs of herself. Silly to give one's own picture but what was there to give such a man? A man who had everything!
 "Another one of those optical illusions: the closer money is, the harder it is to get."

Mrs. W. C. McAnlies and three-year-old daughter, Margaret Belle, of Phoenix, Ariz., arrived last week for a month or six weeks visit, with her uncle and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Williams, of 501 South Seaman street.

Mrs. McAnlies will be remembered as the former Miss Lillian Williams. Mrs. Williams is also entertaining Mrs. E. O. Allgood and wife, daughter, Patricia, of Enid, Okla., who arrived Monday morning for a week's visit.

The winning group in the membership contest staged by the Junior Missionary Auxiliary of the Baptist church was entertained by the losing side in the contest, on Monday night, with a delightful outing at Butler Springs at 8:00 o'clock, where they were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Williams and Mrs. A. J. Campbell.

A pleasant evening was spent in games and stories about a big camp fire over which marshmallows were roasted and enjoyed with iced fruit punch.

Those going were Cecil Seale, Geraldine Terrell, Bennie Kate Wood, Rowena Cook, Floyd E. Snyder of Weatherford, Beulah Drake, Lorine McCoy, Faynette Campbell, Jean Kitley, and L. J. Lambert Jr., captain of the winning side; Milan Williams and Curtis Terrell, the latter captain of the losing and host group.

Four o'Clock Club Meets
Eleanor Ruth Ferguson was the hostess to the assembly of the Four o'Clock Club Monday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ferguson.

After the business procedure was closed, this little group of young girls were taken to the city park by Mrs. R. L. Jones, where a delightful play time was spent and a short program of stories heard from Elva Lee Jones, who recounted the story of "The Tiny Runaway," and Eleanor Ferguson, who related the story of "Black Diamond."

The playground equipment was thoroughly enjoyed and later iced watermelon was served.

Units W. M. S. Baptist Church Have Pleasant Meetings
Mrs. Jess Seibert entertained Circle No. 1 of Women's Missionary Society of Baptist church at her home yesterday afternoon, which was prettily adorned with bouquets of flowers in cheerful greeting.

The devotional from the 23rd chapter of Matthew was led by Mrs. Don Brewer with prayer by Mrs. John Norton, closing this period.

The social service report was presented by the secretary.

Mrs. Frank Lovett, chairman, presided over the meeting, and appointed the following as nominating committee for this circle, Mmes. Seibert, Don Brewer and John Norton.

Circle No. 1 will meet in the Baptist church next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock to can food for the needy. Anyone wishing to send supplies of vegetables and fruit for this purpose, may deliver them at the church or to the chairman, Mrs. Lovett, at that time.

Others on the program included Miss Sallie Morris, who conducted a lesson on stewardship. As Monday of next week is the fifth Monday of the month, each circle will conduct its own methods of meeting or visiting, there being no formal order of program.

At close of session Mrs. Seibert served a delicious 5 o'clock plate of pimento and cheese sandwiches, iced fruit punch, sunshine and angel food cake.

Mrs. W. P. Palm was hostess to Circle 2, at her pleasant home. The session was opened by Mrs. Palm, who is chairman and the devotional, "Christian Duty to Serve," from Fourth Timothy, was led by Mrs. W. A. Owen, this period closing with prayer by Mrs. S. C. Walker, president of Women's Missionary Society.

A nominating committee was appointed by the chairman and Mrs. L. V. Simmonds was named as chairman of same. The lesson for the afternoon was conducted by the chairman, Mrs. Palm.

Announcement was made that this circle will hold their next circle session in the home of Mrs. L. V. Simmonds.

Mrs. Ghent Sanderford entertained Circle No. 3 at her home, prettily adorned with flowers for the hour. The session was conducted by Mrs. W. J. Herrington, chairman and proceeded opened with prayer by Mrs. J. B. Overton.

The lesson from the circle's study, "Royal Service," was conducted by the chairman.

Announcement was made that the next circle meeting will be held in September, hostess named later.

The nominating committee was appointed by the chair, who named Mmes. Overton, Sanderford and T. J. Pitts.

Others present in addition to the foregoing were, Mmes. Joe Neill, Gans, and Linn Milburn.

A delicious refreshment of iced fruit punch and cake was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Frank V. Williams entertained Circle No. 4 at her residence on South Seaman street.

Prayer by Mrs. Carl Springer and devotional from the 1st Psalm, by the presiding chairman, Mrs. R. L. Young, opened the meeting.

Reports of committees were submitted, including the personal service report by Mrs. Williams.

The committee on nominations appointed by the chair, presented Mrs. J. B. Truly, Mrs. F. V. Williams and Mrs. Lily Hayden.

The election is held in September and officers take their places in October.

A profitable round table discussion was held on the second chapter of the circles study book, "Pioneer Women."

Mrs. Hayden was announced as hostess for the next circle meeting at her home on South Seaman street.

As next Monday is Industrial Day or fifth Monday, there will be no formal session of the circle, which will give these hours to visiting among the sick and the new friends of the church.

Other members present were, Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. J. E. Lewellen and Mrs. J. P. Truly.

Childrens Story Hour
Next Thursday The Last.

The delightful story hours held for children, Thursday of each week, under the auspices of the three federated clubs of Eastland, will come to a close, with that of Thursday morning of this week, and the general chairman for the reading material in the public library of Eastland, which is sponsored and maintained by the Thursday Afternoon Study Club.

The venture was an experiment on the part of the clubs backing the movement, but has been successful beyond all expectations, each childrens story hour drawing a large attendance.

So all the children who have attended any one of these hours, are urged to be present next Thursday morning.

HERE--AND THERE

By ELVIE H. JACKSON

Do you know that two-thirds of the homes in the United States, nearly 30,000,000, have been wired for electric light and power, with New York leading, Pennsylvania second, and Illinois third, in the percentage?

At least that's what we glean from the science news.

It's a far cry from the day of the "virgin with her clap lamp," filled with oil, on which floated a tiny wad of lighted cloth that was held to light her pathway, to the present day of pushing a button, and flooding the pathway with a "white glare of electricity."

Light through the ages has slowly developed in efficiency and convenience. From the clay lamp with a floating wick, the use of light has progressed to the flaming torch, to the candle, home-made and hand-lipped; to the glass coal lamp with crude wick, and heavy glass chimney, and so on, to the improved lamp with mantle for household use.

Then, brass made of pottery, of bronze lamp or marble, and in the early '90s hung with cut prism, in red, yellow, blue, green and white glass. Chandeliers of those days were great pyramids of prisms, and the old fashioned opera house was a thing of beauty, sparkling with myriads of rays from the enormous central mountain of prisms, built in oval pyramid shape, and lighted with a million small gas jets, reached by a man on an enormously tall ladder, armed with a long iron light-rod, tipped with a blazing wick.

Today the gorgeous theatres are illumined by cleverly concealed lights, that represent lotus blossoms, flowers of varying designs; that sparkle through star studded lofty ceilings, and that are held in gently tinted form by tall pedestals or caryatids.

Nowadays, mildly punches a button, sticks her slice of bread in a toaster and in a few seconds has crisp, fragrant brown slices, ready to be buttered.

She turns another switch, lifts her electric iron, and quickly presses her ironings and hankies. A curl is out of place, perhaps, and an electric curling iron soon brings a fetching ringlet.

Perhaps a pain strikes mildly, too weary to worry with alleviating measures, so out comes the electric pad, with its warm coverage, and that soon brings relief.

No longer does she plod wearily to the kitchen stove to heat water, pour in a bottle or a rubber bag, and drag herself to the weary couch.

Yes, electricity has come to stay and to help humanity in every possible way from sweeping and cleaning problems, lighting and cooking facilities, to the biggest manufacturing enterprises in existence.

The lightning has been harnessed and the Word of God made true, "Let there be light."

But no longer does the family gather about the old fashioned library table in the evening and enjoy the magazines, and "picture papers," beneath the soft light of a tall coal oil lamp, whose beams are shed over bowed heads through a big round hand-painted globe.

That kind of thing has gone as definitely out of style and use as have many other customs of that day; but we have more conveniences to make up for it, and perhaps less sentiment.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE DARK AND BLOODY GROUND
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth, noted painter of the American Indian...inspired by the fierce cruelty of the savages whose knives and tomahawks caused the story of the Pioneer West to be written in blood.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
That package of mild Luckies

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTES
"IT'S TOASTED"

"If a man were a better man, preach a better sermon, or make a better man than his neighbor, the world would make a better path to his door." —RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

At Music Festival at Weatherford.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Edwards of Weatherford, who acted as rector of the two combined groups will long be remembered as one of the most successful, highly recognized singers to be found anywhere in the state.

Mr. Edwards organized the Weatherford club and directed choir while living here, and with much regret Ranger lost a capable director and his wife, acted as accompanist.

The "choir" feature number more outstanding than others, be "Thanks Be to God."

The Edwards are receiving warm welcome amid their host of Ranger friends and singers.

Next Thursday the Last.
The devotion of the hour held for children, Thursday of each week, under the auspices of the three federated clubs of Eastland, will come to a close, with that of Thursday morning of this week, and the general chairman for the story hour period, Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, extends a special invitation to every child who has attended any meeting of the story hour, to be present next Thursday as the first practice for the program will be held at the close of the program, for the hour.

The story hour for children was inaugurated with the first Thursday morning in June and was the first venture of this kind in our city. The primary object of the hour has been, to draw the children to a closer relationship with the reading material in the public library of Eastland, which is sponsored and maintained by the Thursday Afternoon Study Club.

The venture was an experiment on the part of the clubs backing the movement, but has been successful beyond all expectations, each children's story hour drawing a large attendance.

So all the children who have attended any one of these hours, are urged to be present next Thursday morning.

The program for Thursday will be in charge of Mrs. M. J. Pickett, assisted by Mrs. Charles Fagg, Mrs. Hubert Jones and Mrs. Ray Lerner.

A broadcasting hour with many novel features will be the form of entertainment for the children.

The program to be given the following week will be under the leadership of the Thursday Afternoon Study Club, represented by Mrs. James Horton, assisted by Mmes. F. M. Kenny and M. C. Hayes.

The Book club, represented by Dolores T. Amer and the Music club, represented by Mrs. Art H. Johnson, with Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin as general chairman.

The presidents of these clubs respectively, are Mrs. B. M. Collins, Mrs. E. E. Freyschlag and Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite.

"Nature in the Raw" is seldom MILD

THE DARK AND BLOODY GROUND
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth, noted painter of the American Indian...inspired by the fierce cruelty of the savages whose knives and tomahawks caught the story of the Pioneer West to be written in blood.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, the lord would have it in the world, the world will make a better path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?
