Refinancing of Texas Farmers To Start Oct. 1

By United Press.
FORT WORTH.—A paternal arm of the federal government reached into Texas today and prepared to help lift farmers and livestock men from the sloughs of debt.

A. E. Thomas, newly appointed manager of the tenth district, anticipates the task of refinancing Texas agriculture will begin shortly after Oct. 1. Thomas is vice president of the Continental National bank here.

T. B. Yarbrough, president of the First National bank here, was named president of the new "farm and cattle bank."

Feeder loans to livestock men probably will be stressed at the start of the bank's operation. Thomas indicated, although crop production loans will be available to farmers also.

"The loans will enable livestock men with a large quantity of feed to increase the size of their herds and realize a profit from their low-priced feed," Yarbrough said.

"If farmers get eight cents or more for their cotton, they aren't likely to need loans as badly as first anticipated," he added.

The bank also will provide funds for breaking land and buying seed. No attempt to fix prices will be made, regional officials of the agriculture credit corporation pointed out. Their efforts will be di-directed toward stabilizing prices at a normal level enabling farmers and stockmen to make "reasonable" profits.

Applications for jobs connected with the task of financing farm and livestock owners have swamped local officials. A special employment committee will be created to consider these applications.

William Straus will head the loan committee of the Houston branch bank, assisted by Ben S. Smith, Mexia. Edwin Hughes will be chairman for the San Angelo branch loan committee, and G. C. Magruder, manager.

Reports Say Billy The Kid Is Alive

By United Press.
FORT WORTH.—Like Jesse James and other outlaws who added the color of blood and the odor of gunpowder to many histories of the early southwest, Billy the Kid is reported to have come to life again.

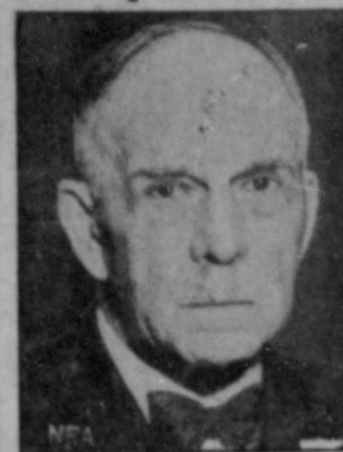

Veterans of West Texas plains who visit Fort Worth cattle markets declare they have heard reports Billy the Kid lives and plays a fiddle at country dances near Odessa. The desperado of New Mexico is credited with killing 21 men.

But Walter Brady, who has Las Vegas bartender who now lives here, joins history in the assertion that Billy the Kid is dead, very dead.

He is convinced Billy was killed at the age of 21 by officers in a ranch house near Fort Sumner, N. M.

Cold Insurance

He carries it with him, ready for just such times. That little box of Bayer Aspirin. If he catches cold, what of it? Bayer Aspirin will stop it. If his throat feels sore, he will end the soreness with one good gargle made from these tablets.

Dangerous complications can follow the neglect of "a common cold." Every case of tonsillitis begins with "just a sore throat." It's a wise plan to take aspirin after any undue exposure to bad weather, or whenever there is any chance that you've caught cold. If it's genuine aspirin it can't possibly hurt you; and how it does banish the aches and pains caused by colds, neuralgia, neuritis, lumbago, and even rheumatism.

Bayer Aspirin will insure your comfort through the worst cold season. The more susceptible you are to colds, the more you need it. Does not depress the heart.

Simplicity Rules Her Life

Simple Life, Hard Work, Ruth Etting Recipe for Career

Former "Follies Beauty," screen favorite and nationally famous star of Chesterfield's Music That Satisfies Hour, Miss Ruth Etting, leads a comparatively retired life. Cocktail parties and late hours have no attraction for her. With her husband, known along Broadway as "Colonel" Snyder, who also is her manager, she seems perfectly content with week-end trips to some quiet resort, or answering her large fan mail, or selecting the songs for Chesterfield radio program.

Miss Etting selects her songs with the greatest thought and care. With her it is not just a question of what songs she likes, but which ones are best suited for her voice and especially for the mood of the program. Of course she attends all rehearsals at the studio, but she rehearses daily in her apartment with her accompanist. No actress or singer ever took her work more seriously than Miss Etting from the placement of the microphone to her six hours of private rehearsal a week for her two 15-minute Chesterfield broadcasts.

But to get back to Miss Etting's mode of life. She usually retires early; whoopee parties do not play any part in her life; she enjoys the theatre and likes to entertain her friends on motor trips, dinner parties and frequently at "first nights" at the theatre.

She has two hobbies—one reading and answering her fan mail and the other collecting the curios and other gifts that her admirers send her. This latter interest has turned her apartment into a miniature museum where every gift, from ornately embroidered silk pajamas to some simple cooking utensil, has its own special place for display and each one is carefully numbered and dated, with its history attached to it.

As for her fan mail, Miss Etting takes intense pride and interest in it. She reads every letter and postcard and telegram that comes from her fans, who are legion, and she makes it almost a religious rite to answer all promptly and courteously. She is especially interested in the young people who seek stage, or screen, or radio careers, or those who, believing they have voices, wish to adopt the concert stage as a profession. When these turn to her for advice, Miss Etting feels it her duty to answer them sympathetically and yet she never fails to point out how hard is the road of the stage and screen and radio artist.

For a former Follies beauty Ruth Etting's life is anything but that generally pictured by the public. With her it is hard serious work coupled with the simplest mode of living and healthful pleasures and this perhaps explains why Miss Etting is the good trouper she is and why she puts across the intensely human and artistic appeal that she does twice every week in Chesterfield Music That Satisfies program over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Texas Girl is Rewarded

WHEN children are weak and run-down, they are easy prey to colds or children's diseases. So it is never wise to neglect those weakening and depressing symptoms, such as bad breath, coated tongue, fretfulness, feverishness, biliousness, lack of energy and appetite, etc.

Nine times out of ten these things point to one trouble—constipation. Mothers all around you are coming right out in public to tell how their children are being relieved of this trouble by California Fig Syrup.

Mrs. W. E. Wagner, 5114 Santa Fe Ave., Dallas, says: "My mother always used California Fig Syrup, so I knew what to give my baby when I saw by her had breath and coated tongue that she was constipated."

"She has been more than rewarded for taking Fig Syrup. It made her a well, happy girl promptly. She never complains of any symptoms of constipation now."

The genuine, endorsed by doctors for 50 years, always bears the word California. All drugstores.

MILLIONS OF POUNDS USED BY OUR GOVERNMENT

AUTO THEFT RINGS COST NATION 100 MILLION DOLLARS

Why theft rings, involving youths and penniless persons in need of transportation are costing American motorists perhaps $100,000,000 per year in stolen automobiles and the amount is increasing, a United Press survey of police records in 35 major cities revealed today.

Chicago with 35,000 machines stolen last year at $10,000,000 loss leads all cities in that compilation. Some 30,000 of the stolen cars were recovered but 90 per cent had been stripped.

Lieut. Charles Rader, in charge of the auto theft bureau of the Dallas police department, said thefts in his city were decreasing and pointed out that carelessness of motorists led to many robberies.

Rader, who stepped from civilian life into the police department and who is a member of the police band, is recognized as one of the foremost officers in this branch of service in the southwest.

Summing up causes for auto thefts, Rader said "negligence" of motorists was responsible for a large percentage of the thefts.

He explained many persons leave keys in their cars when they park the machine thinking they will be gone but for a few minutes. Instead, he said, they are gone for 15 minutes to a half hour and are surprised when their automobile is missing.

Majority of thieves in the southwest, in Rader's opinion are old-timer professional automobile thieves. With the exception of expensive automobiles, most cars stolen, he said, are stripped and their parts sold. Expensive automobiles are repainted, the tires and accessories are changed and they are sold.

Theft of an automobile in Texas, Rader explained, constitutes ordinarily three law violations. The theft of the machine itself is the first violation, changing motor or license numbers and forgery of ownership papers for the sale constitute other law violations. A federal statute is violated when the car is transported out of the state.

New York had only 12,153 autos stolen in 1931, a decrease of 4.5 per cent from 1930, but many cities reported more machines stolen in the first eight months of 1932 than during the same period last year. Only 88 of the machines stolen in New York were recovered.

Los Angeles reported 9,888 cars valued at $1,483,000 stolen last year with 7,756 recovered and valued at $1,163,400. Omaha reported 1,535 cars stolen with 1,473 recovered. Phoenix, Ariz., had 1,314 lost during 1931. New Orleans had 2,352 stolen with 2,264 recovered.

In Buffalo autos stolen this year through Sept. 1 totaled 747 against 694 for the same months in 1931. In Phoenix there were 827 machines stolen in the first eight months of 1932 against 748 for the period in 1931. In Houston, 1,535 machines were taken in the same period, an increase over last year.

Atlanta reported 1,386 machines stolen this year with 1,068 recovered, a smaller percentage of recovery than last year. In Boston 3,583 cars were stolen this year against 3,322 in the same period last year. There was an increase from 594 to 619 at Fresno.

Police drives, however, have lowered the auto theft rate in several cities. Cleveland had only 2,409 cars stolen during the first eight months of this year against 3,111 last year. St. Louis had 2,449 stolen this year against 3,083 in the same period of 1931.

Fort Worth reported 1,059 stolen this year against 1,576 last year. Indianapolis where auto thefts have been declining three years reported 1,308 against 1,768 stolen and 95 per cent recovery both last year and this.

Memphis reported 511 stolen so far this year against 761 stolen in the same period last year. Authorities credited the reduction to a new radio patrol. Kansas City where 2,282 cars were stolen last year reported 1,244 stolen during the first eight months of 1932 against 1,645 for the same period last year.

In San Francisco there was a decline for the same period from 3,161 to 2,843. Pittsburgh where 6,000 cars were stolen last year had only 2,127 stolen in the first eight months of this year and credited a radio patrol with the reduction.

Detroit reported a drop of from 4,985 to 4,009 for the period with most cars stolen for their accessories.

Harrisburg had a drop of 2,879 to 2,411 and Philadelphia police "recovered" 3,655 cars of which only 2,647 had been reported stolen.

Organized auto theft rings, large and small, were blamed for many of the thefts in Chicago and other metropolitan centers. Cleveland police blamed joyriders for most thefts there and Sgt. W. G. Sterrett of the Oklahoma City police laid many thefts to transients in need of transportation.

Police everywhere reported small cars, Fords and Chevrolets, were favorites with thieves. San Francisco police recovered many machines stolen at distant points and identification marks removed.

Bobbed Haired Singers Banned

WICHITA, Kan.—The girls and women, who sing in the choir at the annual old-fashioned camp meeting of the Kansas State Holiness association, must not have bobbed hair and they must be dressed modestly.

The annual yearbook, sent to all prospective worshippers at the 43rd session, reveals how this group has resisted the encroachment of modern living.

Women were requested not to appear on the platform with bobbed hair. They were asked to dress modestly. The religious services outlined were simple—Prayer meeting at 7 a. m., followed by song service and preaching. The afternoon session followed the same routine.

Two of the 12 charter members of the association attended the meetings this year. They were Mrs. Mary Schallaire, 81, and J. K. Grier, 83.

The association was founded 43 years ago by a group impressed with a religious revival under a determined that should be perpetuated. The Kansas Holiness association was organized in 1890.

Grier is the only one who attended every meeting several others who have more than 15 successful years ago.

One of these days he is going to make a movie agent as "weird," "spine-chilling." That Page One news.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Even if there happens to be one less Hoover here after next March, there will still be plenty of Hoovers.

Washington seems to attract Hoovers. Not the president's relatives but just people named Hoover.

It isn't a common name. Lots of people never heard of it before they read about Herbert Hoover. But there are only 25 or 30 Hoovers listed in the big Manhattan telephone directory as compared with 62 occurrences of the name in the little Washington directory.

One of the ways to be reminded of this large group of local Hoovers is to have a steamship blow up and sink with heavy loss of life.

DICKERSON N. HOOVER goes dashing off to the port to find out how the disaster happened. He pops from relative obscurity into first, inevitably after a big marine tragedy. Most recently he rode to New York to investigate the explosion of the ferry boat Observation.

This Hoover, famous enough among shipping men, is assistant director of the Bureau of Navigation and Steamship Inspection.

Before the two agencies were combined he was supervising inspector general of the Steamboat Inspection Service, which title was considered one of the most impressive in the government.

Washington widely knows the most famous probably is Ike, the chief usher at the White House, who has been handling functions at the executive mansion for 41 years. Ike seemed a trifle worried when Hoover was selected. Being the second most important man in the residential section of the White House, he feared that the duplication of names might get on the nerves of the new Hoover. But everything worked out pretty well.

Ike, too, is an executive rather than a servant and a dry, sardonic humor goes along with his efficiency.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation in the Department of Justice, is another exponent of "Hoover efficiency." He took hold of the bureau after the Daugherty-William J. Burns period and built it up to the point that it is sometimes called "the American Scotland Yard." He has the largest finger print collection in the world and his last public appearance was in the Lindbergh case.

Neighborliness of Fraternities May Be Doubtful

AUSTIN.—Whether college fraternities are desirable neighbors for dwellers of Austin's residential areas is a matter which the city council has been called upon to decide.

The question arose when protests were made to a request for a permit by the local chapter of Theta Xi to construct a new home on a residential street.

Leaders of the protestants were two members of other fraternities. Neither now attend school.

"A fraternity's habits are not the habits of residential sections," said Dr. J. Calhoun, university comptroller, one of the protestants. "It's hours are not those of residential sections. Everything I have heard about this particular fraternity has been good, but there are certain places for which fraternities are good and places which are not."

"Personally, I wouldn't live next door to a fraternity house," said Q. C. Taylor, residential protestant. "There are certain things about fraternities that are obnoxious to some nearby residents. I imagine, however, if I were still in school and seeking what these fraternity men are after, I would be pleading their cause."

Both claimed construction of the fraternity house would decrease value of property in the neighborhood.

Alumni and members of the fraternity contend that the lot was purchased before the zoning law went into effect, and there was no need restrict prohibit building the fraternity house.

One property owner joined the fraternity and sent her consent for the house construction to the council. She said she had lived next door to Theta Xi for two years, and had never been annoyed.

Rains Damage West Texas Crops

FORT WORTH, Sept. 23.—Clouds that shadowed most of Texas today promised a continuance of thundershowers that fell last night from Palestine to West Texas and from Amarillo to Del Rio.

Rain in excess of five inches, which fell at San Antonio during the past 24 hours, stalled automobiles, flooded storm sewers and caused a drop in temperature of 22 degrees.

An electrical storm preceded the downpour. Lightning struck the home of Dr. Ferdinand Herff, stunning him and his wife.

At Amarillo a norther brought cold drizzles and the temperature this morning was 24 degrees with a maximum of 56 degrees during the past 24 hours.

The weather bureau here also reported rain at Abilene, Midland, rains have washed out railroad tracks and damaged streets at Big Spring. The showers interrupted the West Texas cotton harvest in general.

School Days

"School days, school days, dear old Golden Rule days." Thus begins an old song which is undoubtedly familiar to all Lone Scouts and their families. We quote it as being appropriate to the season, for September in most communities of our nation marks the re-opening of schools.

The Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you," is a splendid one to follow, not only through your school years, but through all the years of your life.

This rule applies to the activities of scouts at school or at home, at work or at play, is reinforced by the Golden Rule of Scouting—the 12 points of the scout law and the three points of the scout oath, constantly reminding all scouts of their duty to God and their country, their duty to others, and their duty to themselves.

By making the most of school training and opportunities for educational advancement scouts may go a long way toward fulfilling these duties. Time spent in school is an investment which pays its dividends in after life, and the value of the dividends is determined by the value of the original investment. Make your investment a golden one.

If you are a boy living in the country and would like information about becoming a Lone Boy Scout, you may write to the address given in the following paragraph.

Lone Cub Scout.

The younger boys' program of the Boy Scouts of America is known as cub scouting. Any boy who has reached his ninth birthday is eligible to make application to become a cub. The cub program is very interesting to the boy between the ages of 9 and 12. It is entirely a separate and distinct program apart from the Boy Scout troop program or the Lone Scout program.

The cub has an attractive uniform entirely different from that of the troop scout. The Lone Cub Scout program is available to boys of the cub age living in the rural sections.

If you are a boy in the above age limit and desire further information regarding the cub program, you may make your wishes known to the Boy Scouts of America, Box 808, Brownwood, Texas.

August Sales of Retail Stores of Texas Are Larger

By United Press. AUSTIN.—August sales of 96 retail stores reporting to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research totaled $2,618,644, as compared with $2,371,733 in July, an increase of 10 per cent as compared with a usual seasonal increase of only 3 per cent. This notable increase is attributed partly to cool August weather which naturally interested customers in fall merchandise, and partly to improved business sentiment generally. These 96 stores include department stores, dry goods and clothing stores, women's specialty shops, and men's wear shops.

Texas is not confronted with the necessity of a "back-to-the-farm" movement such as is being recognized in some of the other states. An analysis of the state's population, just completed by the United States Department of Commerce, shows 59 percent of the state's population still live on farms or in villages of less than 2,500. Of the 59 percent classified as rural population, 40.2 percent actually live on farms, and the other 18.8 percent in towns of less than 2,500 population. The state's total population in

Crowd Greets Roosevelt

Starting his 8800-mile presidential campaign jaunt through the country, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt was greeted by crowds at stops where he made speeches. Here he is shown, costless, as he talked to Bellefontaine, O., voters. His special train will make many such stops.

1930 was 5,824,175, as compared to 4,663,28 in 1920, or an increase of 24.9 percent. Of the nearly six million, 41 percent live in towns of 2,500 or more. The state's five largest cities have an aggregate population of 1,050,237, or 18 percent of the total. An additional 456,431 live in 11 cities between 2,500 and 100,000, and 392,594 live in 20 cities of from 10,000 to 25,000. Neither does the analysis reveal any decided movement city-ward at present. In the rural communities, youths from five to 24 years of age comprise 28.6 percent of the total population, while in the cities they represent 31 percent, which is not a substantial difference. The state made an appreciable gain in education in the decade ending in 1930. In 1920, the illiterate population among males over 21 years of age was 9.6 percent, and among females 9.7 percent. In 1930, the percentage of illiteracy among males over 21 had decreased to 7.8 percent, and among females 8.0 percent. The inclination to marry is increasing in Texas, the report showed. In 1920, 58.8 percent of the persons 15 years or older were married, while in 1930 61.3 percent were married. The percentage of single persons over 15 dropped from 35.3 percent to 32.6 percent, while the percentage of widowed dropped from 4.8 to 4.6 percent.

British Experts Interested In Five-Day Week

By HERBERT MOORE, United Press Staff Correspondent. LONDON.—Forever amazed by the United States' daring financial and economic moves to rout the depression, British experts are deeply interested in the outcome of President Hoover's efforts to fight unemployment with unemployment—for that is what the five-day-week proposal amounts to. It happens that, just at this time, world discussions of the question of shorter hours of work as one of the remedies for unemployment are occurring as a result of the adoption of a resolution at the last session of the labor conference in Geneva.

By means of a shortening of hours, the resolution affirmed, production could be adjusted to consumption, available work could be distributed over a larger number of persons, and the unemployed could be reabsorbed into employment. The European leaders have been discussing the proposal in their own countries, seeking to line up public opinion and bring about governmental action. In Britain, the five-day week has many advocates in labor circles, but their approval is conditioned on a demand that the worker shall receive his full amount of wages, which economic conditions have prescribed as payable for a longer day and a larger output. In view of this condition and the rather strong position of trade unionism in most of the major industries, the five-day week is not likely to be introduced in Britain until such time as it becomes widely practiced and proves successful in other countries. With proportionate wage reductions, British employers feel, they might undertake such a proposal, but only if it succeeds elsewhere. Not until parliament reassembles in October, will there be much agitation in behalf of a five-day week here, but laborites are expected to champion the idea at the first opportunity.

Monkey Wife Stealer is Beaten

By United Press. LONDON.—Monkeys behave like human beings when somebody steals one of their wives, and sacred baboons are no exception. Marcus, handsome, hairy and stalwart, is the uncrowned king of the colony of Abyssinian, or "sacred" monkeys up on Monkey Hill, at the zoo here. Although he is supposed to be a Christian, he has five wives. Recently, a young baboon fell in love with the youngest of Marcus' wives. She, quite a beauty as baboons go, exulted in the clandestine courtship. The young wife stealer, wooed the child's wife when his back was turned, and tried to persuade her to elope with him. Marcus found him out and gave him a thorough beating. But the lovesick fellow was not to be deterred. He waited until one day Marcus left his harem unprotected. A little love-play, and soon she was won over completely. They eloped. Marcus returned Marcus took up the search and thrashed the wife stealer until he was black and blue. Not stopping there, in further confirmation of Darwin's theories, Marcus punished the errant wife by beating her with his front feet. She promised to be ever faithful and was restored to grace, but the young wife stealer is an outcast. His fellow baboons, hating scandal, boycott him.

Flea Circuses Are Rage In London

By United Press. LONDON.—The return of the Flea is being celebrated by Londoners with appropriate gooseflesh quivers, but with glee. A circus of trained fleas is being widely billed. It is the first event of this kind in more than 30 years, according to newspaper chroniclers. About the time of the Boer war, which ended in 1902, a flea circus here was a big success. In early days, flea circuses were quite a definite part of the Brighter London movement. At one time, London saw the little creatures drawn in a mail coach, driven by a flea and containing well-behaved flea passengers. Time changed, however. Flea circuses became dim memories, possibly due to the general triumph of machine over man and animal. Possibly it was due to lack of patient trainers, certainly not to the want of public curiosity. Apparently unemployment spread among the fleas, what with the decrease in the number of domesticated beasts of burden and house pets and, more important, the vast improvement of insecticide sprays. In the same way, flea trainers are coming back to their old profession because of hard times. They are conscripting the unemployed fleas and teaching them new tricks.

Farmers In Need of Pea Pickers

Lee Yardley, who lives on route 2, Ranger, was in town Friday morning and said that he had 12 acres of black-eyed peas that he would like to get gathered on the halves. In the same community is another farmer who has 40 acres of black-eyed peas, Mr. Yardley said. The Yardley and Brown farms are on route 2 out of Ranger beyond Cross Roads. In going out one crosses the Jake Hamon railroad twice before reaching the Brown and Yardley farms.

LOST 25 POUNDS

By United Press. WAYNE, Neb.—When Ray Larson joined the Bonus Expeditionary Force in its "march" on Washington, he weighed 145 pounds. When he came home he weighed 120 pounds. Government reports indicate upturns in the price of hides. That doesn't hold good at the racetracks, however, where a pretty fair one can be obtained at a bargain.

British Invent Light Plane Motor

By United Press. LONDON.—A light airplane engine, costing about one-quarter the price of present engines, has been produced by two British engineers. The men have been working secretly for some time in a back kitchen in Kilburn, a London suburb, and claim that their production will develop 150 horsepower, weigh 150 pounds and cost only $750. In the average light airplane, cost from $3,500 to $5,000, the engine represents more than half the cost and there has been a consistent demand for cheaper motors. This new motor is of radical design and is two-stroke type instead of four-stroke. There are eight cylinders, and it is claimed that the motor reduces the weight and moving parts by 50 percent. Running costs, too, are declared to be 50 per cent below those of other comparable engines and gasoline consumption is estimated to be only three and a half gallons per hour. A sign in National Democratic headquarters reads "Keep cool, calm and collected." But the collections are not very good.

Doolittle's Speed Race Brings Joy to His Brothers

By United Press. SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—Major James H. Doolittle's triumph in the Thompson trophy event, at the recent national air races, was particularly sweet for the five Greenville brothers, Zantford, Maris, Edward, Thomas, and Robert. Last winter, to make both ends meet, these energetic brothers turned from the exceedingly lean airplane industry to selling vacuum cleaners, mending old coffee pots, and soldering odd bits. Now things look brighter. Doolittle's victory marked the second successive year that a speed plane designed by Zantford Greenville had won this air classic. The late Lowell Bayles won the race in a Gee Bee plane last year and Doolittle triumphed in a Gee Bee this year, too. The brothers believe that this double victory will concentrate national attention upon their product. HUNTSVILLE—Frame-awing at Addison Drug store being re-mooved and repainted.
