

STEAMER SINKS WITH 42 MEN ABOARD

Bullington Will Speak in Ranger on October 6

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES

If schedules have been maintained as planned, the paper goes to press today the Eastland Mavericks are in the midst of a game with Polytechnic high school at Fort Worth, while the Ranger Bulldogs are in the midst of a limbering-up workout on the Amarillo Sandies field at Amarillo, getting the kinks out of their muscles after an all-day ride in a school bus. The Bulldogs and the Sandies are to play Saturday afternoon.

Too much should not be expected of the Bulldogs in their first game, if pre-season predictions can be accepted, because the Sandies are expected to be the next state champions, while the Bulldogs, though presenting a good lineup, are still untried on the gridiron as a team as they have not had the proper kind of opposition against them to date. The game with Amarillo this week, Central High at Fort Worth next week and Weatherford High on Oct. 14 should give them ample opportunity to get to working together before the opening of the conference season with Abilene in Ranger on Oct. 22.

Rev. K. C. Edmonds, pastor of the Olden Baptist church, and a number of his congregation visited the home of Rev. J. C. Taylor of Ranger on Wednesday night and presented the preacher with enough food to last for several weeks.

Praxy Anderson, who gives out the wrong information for the benefit of any of the Abilene Eagles and the teams against which they are to play, has given out the weights of the Abilene team this year. Praxy's figures are right, which we doubt. The Eagles will lack much of being the Elephants they were last year, as far as weight goes. Basing our guesses on the weights given out in previous years and the actual figures as they should have been, we have worked up the following estimate of our own. It may be as accurate, and maybe more so, than the figures given out from Abilene.

Name	Praxy's	Our
Pool (e)	138	153
Blackmon (h)	159	170
Wyatt (h)	146	160
Middleton (f)	187	193
Houghton (e)	174	185
Davis (l)	176	185
Hines (g)	164	174

Given up when he was 3 years old as a hopeless cripple, Bradford said he started hiking for his health. He has two bulging scrapbooks containing newspaper articles on his travels. Incidentally, he said he had no known enemies, nor had anybody ever mistreated him.

What is the PRICE OF BEAUTY?

Without health there can be little natural beauty. The wise woman knows that the condition of her body shows itself on her face, her complexion, and in her eyes.
She takes care to avoid constipation. This treacherous ailment frequently causes headaches, sallow skin, pimples, premature aging.
Try the pleasant "cereal way" to protect yourself from constipation. Science has proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron, which helps build up the blood.
The "bulk" in this delicious cereal is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than abusing your system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming!
Two tablespoonsful daily will correct most types of constipation. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.
Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

LINE-UP FOR RANGERS HAS BEEN MADE UP

Other Games Are Scheduled For Both At Home and Abroad for Season.

The first game of the Ranger Junior College Rangers will be played on Lillard field, Ranger, on Friday afternoon, Oct. 7, with the Cisco Lobos.

Coach Tricky Ward has been working out his squad for several weeks and the boys are now anxious for their first game of the season. Uniforms have been purchased and real practice sessions have been held for the past few days, with the squad working out on Lillard field since the Bulldogs left for Amarillo.

As this is the first game of the season, and as much of the success of the team, in a financial way, depends on the support the team will have from townspeople, H. S. Van Roeder is urging that all stores close for the game. A canvass of the merchants to determine whether or not the stores will close is to be made within the next few days.

The Rangers' proceeds from the game will go toward the purchase of the equipment, the fund for which has been underwritten by a number of the fans of the town, so those who buy tickets for the game will be helping to swell the funds for which they are responsible. It was pointed out, and a large crowd is anticipated.

The game will be called at 5 o'clock on Friday afternoon.

Coach Ward and his squad have been working hard to get into condition for the first game and the members of the squad have been making good showing in the practice sessions.

Those who are coming out for places on the team are:

Ends—King, Mills and Landers. Tackles—Murray and Mitchell. Guards—Steed, Blackmond, Bumpers and Ashman. Center—Morton, Reese and N. Davenport.

Backs—Hubbard, Weaver, Stevens, Flahie, R. Buchanan, B. Buchanan, Campbell, Faircloth, and Branner.

The tentative lineup for the game Friday with the Lobos will be as follows:

THE FERGUSONS—MA AND JIM

EDITOR'S NOTE—Herewith is one of a series of six articles on James E. and Miriam A. Ferguson written by Gordon K. Shearer, staff correspondent of the United Press Associations and chief of the Austin bureau. Shearer's word picture of the Fergusons, their rise to power after years of disfavor, is intimately pictured by a writer whose acquaintanceship with them and political leaders of Texas has been of long standing.

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN.—"Governor Jim" as Ferguson had become affectionately known in place of "Farmer Jim" easily won a nomination for a second term over Charles H. Morris, East Texas banker. He won even more easily over Republican Rene B. Creager of Brownsville, then beginning his climb to lordship of the Republican party in Texas. Ferguson was re-inaugurated Jan. 16, 1917, and was soon head-over-heels in a fight with the University of Texas. The legislature appropriated $1,640,000 to run the university for two years. This was exclusive of buildings, which are erected on land proceeds.

Governor Ferguson called the regents to his office. He had already prepared for them a communication, later to become famous for its expression: "Too many people are going hog wild over higher education."

First the governor advised them the university had not a proper president in Robert E. Vinson, now head of Western Reserve. "He is a sectarian preacher," Ferguson said. "I have no objection to your president being a minister," he continued, "but I do deny the right of the university to pay out state money to any minister as long as he continues to preach." Besides, he added, it is distinctly offensive to other religious denominations.

College fraternities were scored by the governor and charged with causing a well defined line between wealth and poverty to be established in the university. "If we cannot maintain it as a democratic university then we ought to have no university," he said.

Gross irregularities, and misapplication of funds were complained of by the governor who charged that $3,000 a year professors were working but 15 hours a week. New blood in the faculty and a new head, he said, were its needs. Here is "Governor Jim's" own account of what then happened: "While I was reading the sixth paragraph of my communication which called attention to the fact that cliques and clans in the university were seeking to control the university, regardless of the powers of the board of regents and in open defiance of the other duly constituted officers of the state, we heard the music of a band resounding in the corridors of the parade started on its march to the state capital—veto message. On May 31, 1917, board of regents had been enjoined from removing a faculty member, and the veto message continued: "Regardless of consequences, I am not going to sit idly by and approve $1,600,000 appropriation, and have my friends whom I have appointed to assist me in carrying on the affairs of the government permanently restrained from having a voice as to how the vast sum of money shall be spent, and being required to keep any official against their will."

"Aside from court procedure, I refuse to be intimidated or bluffed by any mob, and as long as I am in the governor's office, I shall not be afraid to exercise any powers which the Constitution of the State gives me in any manner that I may seem right and proper. I am only answerable to my own conscience and the people who elected me."

"After all, it is no more the duty of a government to educate a man to be a lawyer than it is to educate him to be a blacksmith; it is no more the duty of the government to be a doctor than it is to educate him to be a farmer; and I again re-iterate that there are too many people going hog wild about higher education."

"The veto was filed with the secretary of state June 5, 1917. The late Will Hogg, multi-millionaire son of Texas other famous 'Jim,' and other ex-students rushed to the university's succor. "The university's future is at stake. We fight Autocracy Abroad, Can We Tolerate It At Home. We Are With the Board of Regents in Their Opposition to the Governor's Unconstitutional Demand. Kaiserism is A Menace Abroad and Likewise A Menace At Home."

"In said procession there was also a man (George Paddy of Shelby county) in United States soldier uniform who had come from the training camp at Leon Springs for the purpose of taking part in said parade in which said banners were carried. "This parade marched down the walk in front of the Capitol, and in about 15 or 20 minutes returned by the same route, to the state capital and came directly in front of my office, where I was then conferring with the board of regents, and in turn exhibited said banners directly in my face and within 20 feet of where I and the board of regents were conferring. And while said banners were being flaunted in my face, various students of the university called to me in derisive tones to read the banners. And said body of students remained in front of my office window for 25 or 30 minutes, and the howling and jeering were of such degree that further deliberation of myself and board of regents was absolutely prevented. It is agreed by everybody in Austin that the president of the state university dismissed from their classes the entire student body of the university on the morning that said parade was formed on the university campus. It is further agreed that said banners, some of them 10 and 12 feet long and three or four feet wide, were exhibited on the university campus in the presence of the faculty of the university before said

"I decided to take Theodor's Black-Draught, as I had been having bilious spells," writes Mr. Chas. E. Stevens, of Columbus, Ind. "When I get bilious I feel sluggish and tired and do not feel like doing my work. I get awfully dizzy. I know that that I had better take something. After I found how good Black-Draught is, that is what I have used. I guess it rids me of the bile, for I feel better and do not feel like I am dropping off to sleep every time I sit down. This, to me, is a very bad feeling. Note you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for Children."

Blind School Has Its Centennial

WATERTOWN, Mass.—America's oldest school for the blind is celebrating its 100th anniversary. Perkins Institution for the Blind dates back to the summer of 1832, when it was opened by Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe at his father's Boston home, with six pupils in attendance. Six years earlier, Dr. John Dix Fisher had returned from Europe with the idea of starting the school, modeled after one he had seen in Paris. From its humble beginnings, the school grew until today there are 279 pupils. During the past century a total of 2,920 students have been graduated, among them blind men and women who climbed high in their chosen fields despite their handicaps: Annie Sullivan, teacher and companion of Helen Keller; Clarence Hawkes, nature writer and lecturer; Merle Tracy, educator and editorial writer; Emily Post, children's writer; Lydia Hays, director of work for the blind in New Jersey, and President C. W. Lindsay, of the Lindsay Piano company, Montreal. Working through the medium of hearing and touch, such methods are used as will bring out most effectively the latent abilities of each child. The courses carry pupils from kindergarten through high school, and offer physical, manual, and domestic training, with such adjuncts as psychology, personnel study, speech correction, and corrective gymnastics.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

ABUNDANTLY SATISFIED: How excellent is thy loving kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures.—Psalm 36: 7, 8.

HOOVER BOOKED FOR A SPEECH IN IOWA

President Hoover is booked for a speech in the City of Des Moines, the capital of Iowa, Oct. 4. Iowa is his native state. California is his adopted state. After he had finished his education, the foreign world was his rich pasture for 30 years. Maine handed the president an awful wallop. He has been told by many of his advisers that he must go out and meet the people face to face. He has been told by many other advisers that he should use the radio and let it go at that.

Iowa farmers are responsible for the greatest drive ever launched by the growers of things in what is known as the higher price strike for "better prices for the staples of the farm." It is a movement that may cover 11 Midwest and West and Southwestern states. Iowa has ever been loyal to the republican party. There are ugly signs of revolt on the part of the republican farmers in this campaign. Now the president is going to journey to Iowa. He is going to send his message to those who live "away down on the farm." Then he will return to Washington and the hook-up messages will be broadcast until the coming of election day.

Democrats in and out of Texas are reminded that victory never has been won by the talkies of the political world. Organization tells the story. It begins in the precinct. It is carried to the top. This should be the program of the managers for Texas. Roosevelt and Garner should carry this state by 500,000 majority. This should be the minimum. October is almost here. October will be the month of battling and the battles of the two major political parties. Republicans have the money. They hold all the federal offices. They dominate and are backed by the special privilege class in the life of America. All the signs point to a democratic landslide but the political leader who goes to sleep at the switch comes out of his trance in order to take it on the chin.

IOWA FARMERS ARE VERY AGGRESSIVE

Iowa farmers started the strike-for-higher-prices movement. Three thousand assembled in an Iowa town and drafted a legislative program of farm relief for presentation to Senator Smith-W. Brookhart. This meeting was held on the day in which a concerted movement began in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa and Oklahoma to withhold non-perishable products for 30 days. Two million farmers are said to have joined in the program for a peaceful drive that did not include picketing and violence which characterized early stages of the farm strike. Senator Brookhart attended the conference of the Hawkeye farmers. He remains the idol of thousands of tillers of the soil. He may be drafted as an independent candidate for the United States senate. This farmers' strike movement is a very significant sign of the times. President Hoover is scheduled to go to Iowa, his native state, to make a desperate effort to hold in line the agriculturists of the commonwealth. He may succeed and then again he may not. As for the republican tariff, it never did protect the farmer whether grain grower or cotton grower or producer of any of the minor staples of the soil.

TEXAS AS A BUILDER OF HIGHWAYS

According to a federal government bulletin a total of $979,592,000 was expended by state highway departments for road building and maintenance during 1931. This is approximately the same amount as was expended in 1930. Total highway income during the year amounted to $1,092,637,000. Of this $696,167,000 was derived from state revenue sources. Ninety-two per cent of the state revenue was derived from motor vehicles and gasoline taxes and bridge tolls. New York led, Pennsylvania second, New Jersey third, Louisiana fourth, and Texas fifth, the latter with an expenditure of $41,304,463. Pennsylvania coined the slogan "Those who use the highways should pay for the highways." Well, those who use the highways in Texas do more than pay for them. They lifted the load of a county bonded debt and have practically assumed the payment of $100,000,000 in the years to come. Highways are the greatest of civilization, but the buyers of gasoline should never be taxed to death.

ANOTHER SPURT IN THE STREET CALLED WALL

Place it in the record that on Sept. 21 the New York stock markets scored its sharpest advance for any one session in nearly a year. Gains of individual issues ranged from $2 to $10 a share. Commodity prices also moved higher, wheat running up 2 1/2 cents a bushel and cotton $2.75 to $3 a bale. Bonds were strong, especially in low price issues. Wall Street was encouraged by the appearance of several favorable reports from industry. Car-loading statements showed a substantial gain. Steel made an excellent showing. Watch the ticker. It ticks down today and ticks up tomorrow. It tells the story of the activities of the bulls and bears. This is presidential election year.

SIMS TAKES ANOTHER PLUNGE

Rear Adm. William S. Sims has taken another plunge—or is it a nose dive? He has withdrawn from the American Legion. Great men have their peculiarities. Great men as well as the near-great and the non-great are just men and that's all. They are accidents or incidents largely and when they pass out of the picture, the old world jogs along as it has jogged for millions of years.

AMERICAN FOREIGN TRADE SHOWS DECIDED GAIN

Both exports and imports increased in August and gave the United States a favorable trade balance of $18,000,000 to compare with an unfavorable balance of $1,871,000 in the same month of 1931. Yes, it is a "Little Earful" and it carries its own message.

It's a Great Year for Upsets

What Other Scribes Are Saying

Pertaining Mostly To Comment Concerning High School Football in the Oil Belt.

By BLONDY CROSS
In San Angelo Standard-Times
That Team Named Smith
Prexy Anderson tells us Stanley Smith now weighs 189 pounds. Therefore it is deduced that Stanley weighs about 158. Last season he came in around 175 (listed as 169) and was the most important factor in Abilene high school's winning of the Texas interscholastic league football championship. Providing Smith has lost none of his agility, consider what a terror this sensational pivot man will be in the high school ranks the current season. Today he is capable of winning a berth on just about any team in the Southwest Conference. Texas' major league football circuit. The San Angelo high school team plays against Smith just two weeks hence. The Bobcats are in for an education about how to play college football long before any of them enter college.

Say Not So
The Abilene scribe also advises the Texas interscholastic league executive committee is on the verge of throwing in the sponge as result of the 81st district court judge's ruling in the Cisco suit for reinstatement. The executive committee does not have funds with which to defray expenses of court battles. One would not expect an amateur athletic organization, for that matter, to be forced into civil court fight. But a set of stubborn and apparently very narrow school minds and misguided football enthusiasts at Cisco have brought about such an issue.

A Suggestion
The Abilene newspaper tells us the league chiefs down at Austin seriously consider dissolving the organization and checking it back to the high schools themselves to do as they see fit about it. Rather than permit such an unhappy finish to the league, every high school in the circuit, large or small, should dig into its athletic exchequer and contribute to a fund to ing season trod upon the first day of September up it came in a spontaneous rush, and by the time the first cool nights had burnished the maple leaves in Katy park it had developed into a torrent of happy excitement. These were the days. Alas, what have we now. "Why, we have Oil Belt sports writers deliberately omitting the Lobos from even mention in their season prognostications. We have a court judgment ordering the league to restore the expropriated Cisco eleven to its bosom. We have a grand old sport so bound around with red tape and rules that it can hardly struggle, much less act naturally. The everdone carcass seems about to expire and to usher out with its final breaths a glamorous tradition of the heyday of Oil Belt prosperity.

"It begins to look as though we must find a new sport to grow excited over. All the old idols and obsessions appear to have reached their senes and to have become deflated into a routine. Bobby Jones did all that is possible to do in golf and there are no more records to set in that field. The game has become so general that it is a part of almost every man's life. Tennis has gone a similar way. Baseball doesn't seem to have the interest it used to have. "Basketball never was a game to catch the national fancy. Mumble peg won't do and croquet hasn't got a chance. Badger-fighting has declined into a wistful memory cherished by Bob Mansell and other veterans of the ante-boom period. "Them days have gone forever" is a plaintive but truthful wail.

STAFF NEWS

STAFF, Sept. 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Berry Elliott of Olden were callers in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Hazard Tuesday afternoon. Quite a number of people of this community attended the county fair at Eastland last week. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Hazard were business visitors in Eastland last Tuesday. This community was visited by a big rain last week. Too much rain for the farmer to do any work at present. Carl Elliott and family of Carbon have moved into the community and Mr. Elliott will be principal teacher in the Union school this term. The Union school will open Monday, Oct. 3rd. We are expecting one of the best school terms this year that we have had in the history of the school.

OLDEN NEWS

OLDEN, Sept. 29.—It looks as if we might have more rain and we do not need it. The fall garden are looking good. The entire community is saddened by the death of Hubert Russell, who died in Abilene, from an automobile accident. Mrs. Jenkins and little son of Kilgore were visitors at the Carl Crane home this week. Giles Smith is spending this week in Ranger with his daughter, Miss Ora. Miss Alice Parker of Cheaney is visiting the Cooper family this week. The time of meeting for the weekly bible study of the Church of Christ has been changed from Wednesday to Tuesday night.

A goodly number of our people attended the fair at Eastland last week. This was Olden's first time to have an exhibit and on account of rain several did not get there with their material, but we were proud to win nearly nine hundred points and the credit for the exhibit is due Mr. and Mrs. Stanton, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. White and several others whose names we did not get. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Burkett were called to Cisco Tuesday by the sad news of Mrs. Burkett's sister and brother-in-law being dead and the mother very low in hospital. # HERE--- AND THERE

By ELVIE H. JACKSON

Sometimes the wonder arises as to why so many opportunities for the making of money, either in a small way or in more satisfactory measures, are not followed by the large run of men and women, who nowadays are seeking to increase either their wage, or to earn something to take the place of a lost wage.

Women as a rule have more adaptability to these unusual tasks of wage earning, than men have. The diversified life of the women leads in their daily rounds of domesticity more or less accustoms her to having to switch from one thing to another, and to do them all well and expeditiously if she is going to get through with her day.

Whereas a man, for countless centuries it seems, has been accustomed to a specified job, done in one place in one department, or, if an out-of-door job, to cover only that field to which he is assigned, and the work he is responsible for.

We learn that because of strict laws governing the hours during which stores may be open in Denmark, it is estimated that more than forty thousand vending machines are in use in that country. Doesn't that give you a thought?

In a way, this idea is followed in our own little city. Daily there comes a patient knock at the door, and a dulcet tone inquiring, "Don't you want to buy nice hot tamales?" and you are greeted with their spicy aroma, as you confront the clean, white aproned visitor, a Mexican woman, with a basket of smoking treasures.

A prominent clubwoman of this city argues the family income by putting up choice and unusual reserves, for those who cannot do this kind of cooking, and who makes and delivers hot rolls for my and every kind of entertainment for which this delicacy is desired.

A discussion was going on amongst a group of women in a friends home in which it was recalled that many who had been accustomed to domestic help, had spensed with this assistance during this "depression," as it was called, and are doing much rough work to which they have been ill-customed and doing it cheerfully and well.

Perhaps hands are not so silky and faces are a little more less well waxed, but there is an alert expression about the eyes, that proves the depression hasn't depressed very much after all.

There is the mother's helper who is a boon to the home, where one employed mother must be away from her domestic environment certain hours every day, and find the young assistant who comes in by the hour or afternoon evening, to be with her children, during her absence, a veritable blessing.

Many such young girls are filling these duties after high school assisting themselves in this way, and more than assisting and comforting some anxious mother. It is not unusual to hear of some high school student coaching fellow students in their work, giving them assistance each evening in their study preparation for the next day, for which this amateur student coach receives sufficient money in exchange to defray some small personal expenses. Of course we are all familiar

CALL of the WEST

By R. G. MONTGOMERY

BEGIN HERE TODAY
STAN BALL, an agent for entire interests, faces ASPER DELIO in his office. Ball accuses Delio of having men shot who are sent out to check his timbering activities at Three Rivers. Ball says he is making a personal check.
Delio says he will personally see that Ball does not make the check.
Upon leaving Delio's office, Ball saves a girl from a kidnaper. She proves to be Delio's daughter, DONA. When Ball learns her name
he tells her he is STANLEY
BLACK and slips away.

DUDLEY WINTERS, in love with Dona, agrees to go to Three Rivers and get Delio to come back with him and at their stop Dudley produces a marriage license and urges Dona to marry him, arguing that Delio will not go on a manhunt if they do.
Dona barely misses the marriage
by arriving at her room.
At the camp, SWERGIN, Asper's timber boss, tries to make Dona stay in camp. She slips away from camp as he orders Dudley and Asper to watch her and ride. She sees her father attacked and shot.
Swergin comes to her rescue.
Dudley and Swergin both warn her not to ride alone as Ball will attack her as he has her father.
Dona goes out again and when she starts back she is followed. Her pursuer proves to be Swergin, who takes her back to camp in spite of the fact that she has been across the fence.
Asper is much worse. The storekeeper is knocked out and his place robbed. Ball is blamed.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XV
DUDLEY did not return with Swergin for half an hour. Dona wondered where he could watch her father who lay pretending to be do-zing. She was sure Asper was only pretending and that behind his half-closed eyes he was planning what he would do, once he was able to be up.

Swergin appeared from the doctor's cabin with Dudley at his heels and Dona arose. She wanted to meet the timber boss far enough away from her father's room so that he could not hear what she had to say.

Swergin did not offer any greeting but halted, grinning at Dona.
His little eyes traveled over her with the same boldness that had made her shrink from him the first time they met.

"I want to talk about Father,"
Dona began.

Swergin's thick lips parted in a grimace. "You're word about yourself?"
He seemed to enjoy the flush that came to her cheeks.

"I want to save that for later," Dona
said swiftly. "The doctor says I'm not to be excited. We are to tell him the details concerning this affair with Ball. We may even have to tell him that we have captured Ball."

"You mean killed him," Swergin said. "No use wastin' talk. I ain't promisin' nothing. If Asper gets me on the carpet and opens up on me I'm telling him facts and not a lot of rubbish."

"But you would lie to save his life!" Dona pleaded.

"I ain't sayin'; ain't making no promises," Swergin was firm.

"You certainly have changed the bold front you made when we first arrived. You were willing enough to tell Asper Delio where to stop off then!" Dudley could not withhold this sarcastic truth.

Swergin did not flinch up. Instead he grinned suddenly. "Old Asper was a well man then and able to take it. I ain't lying to him now that he's low."

Dona caught Dudley's arm.
"Come, Dad. I have to get back to Dad. With a melting smile she faced Swergin. "You will at least
promise to see me first, so that I can be there when you report to my father!"

"If you are not off chasing in the woods," Swergin granted.

"When do you expect to report today?"

"I'm going out with two picked
men and we figure to bring that map in in a canvas tarp. We ought to be back by six tonight. If not sooner," Swergin grinned at the sun as he spoke and started off to ward the corral.

"If you don't need me I believe I'll ride out myself," Dudley said slowly.

"Still working on your secret
plans?" Dona smiled.

"I've gotten well enough along and may surprise you any hour," Dudley was serious.

"Haven't you forgotten something?" The girl's tone was teasing.

Dudley met her eyes and his lips parted in a grin. "Will you marry me this morning, Miss? If you will I can put off my plans for a few hours." He stepped close to her.

DONA laughed and fled toward the steps. "I couldn't break in on such important business!" Her eyes softened and her lips suddenly drew together firmly. "Dad, please be careful."

Dudley stood still, uncertain whether to leap after her and take her in his arms or to go on down to the corral. The moment's delay decided the question in favor of the corral. Dona was up the steps and inside the door. She waved him a goodby kiss and was gone.

Dudley walked slowly down two courses of action. He wanted to go back and he wanted to go on.
Had he known it, Dona's words had seemed more tender than her heart dictated. She was planning, guided by a woman's instinct, against a great need she feared might soon arise. Swergin's obstinate actions made her fear that she might have to ask a lot of Dudley Winters.

She paused at her father's door and looked inside. He was lying just as she had left him, his eyes half-closed and his strong mouth a little slack. Dona hurried to her own room and began rummaging through her traveling case. From among a jumble of silk and lace garments she found a paper. It was the marriage certificate Sam Dean had made out and signed. She tucked it into the front of her dress.
"Come, Dad. I have to get back to Dad. With a melting smile she faced Swergin. "You will at least
promise to see me first, so that I
can be there when you report to my
father!"

"If you are not off chasing in the
woods," Swergin granted.

"When do you expect to report to-
day?"

"I'm going out with two picked
men and we figure to bring that
map in in a canvas tarp. We ought to be back by six tonight. If not
